1871 began with 4904, Miss Loula M. Keesee, Pelham, N. C.
1871 ended with 4978, Miss Nannie B. Holderby, Reidsville, N. C.
1872 began with 4979, Miss Florence Clement, Mocksville, N. C.
1872 ended with 5062, Miss Nannie Louisa Foster, Lancaster, S. C.
1873 began with 5063, Miss Anna Jane Richardson, Reidsville, N. C., and is not yet closed, but is now in August.

Correspondence.

—Our communications for the month begin with a cordial letter from EMMA ROLLINS, our Valedictorian of last June:

Please find 50 cents enclosed for my subscription to THE ACADEMY. I would not for anything be without the dear paper. I was away from home all the Fall. Let my subscription begin with the September number and please send me all the back numbers. MINNIE FAGG sent me the January number yesterday, which I find so interesting, especially SUSIE's description of the Christmas holidays. It carried me back to the many Christmases I spent in S. F. A. I could see the long white tables covered with presents from room-mates and friends, the burning wax-tapers, making the scene so bright, and the familiar faces of school-mates and teachers standing by with happy smiles and pleasant Christmas greetings. But alas! the bright scene vanishes, and I find it is indeed a dream, and I am beginning to realize that my school-days in S. F. A. are over.

My Christmas at home was quite a happy and novel one for me, it being the first I spent at home in 6 years. I made decorations similar to those in Salem, and found the children enjoyed them immensely. I shall try and do better next year.

At present I am staying in papa's office, acting as his stenographer, and am getting the neat sum of fifty dollars per month. I like the work very much, and I also have one scholar in phonography. I enjoy the teaching greatly.

I know you are kept very busy with your many duties, (but perhaps the class of '91 don't give you as much trouble as we did,) but I know we would be better if we had the year to go over. I would be so glad to hear from you. Love to Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL, Dr. RONDTHALER, Miss CHITTY and yourself. Hoping to be with you at Commencement I am

Affectionately,

EMMA A. ROLLINS.

Ashville, N. C.

—Our next is from an older friend, MARY E. CADE, now Mrs. McIntosh, of Bordeaux, Abbeville District, S. C.:

Your kind letter, the Catalogue, the pamphlet "How to get to Salem," and a copy of THE ACADEMY have all been received. Thank you; the pleasure conferred was more than you thought. In answer to your letter I would say that it is only a certificate of graduation I wish. "This is to certify, etc., MARY E. CADE entered the ACADEMY during the summer of 1856, and graduated with the class of 1860." In addition to the regular English course, I took Latin, French, Music on Piano and Guitar, Drawing and Painting. All my vacations were passed at the ACADEMY, so you see I am truly a child of the ACADEMY.

REV. R. DE SCHWEINITZ, MRS. DENKE, Miss STAUBER, Miss ADDIE HERMAN, all the old familiar names are gone from the Catalogue,—only the Misses Van Vleck remain. Miss LOUISA was my music teacher; she taught in the music room over Mr. DESCHWEINITZ's parlor.

I must tell you my feelings as I eagerly turned the pages of the Catalogue and saw the different views of the dear old school. A longing for home came over me, the feeling of a tired child, who would fain lay its head on a mother's breast. Thirty years of busy life are apt to dim the memory of early years, but I assure you it was with the heart of a girl that I gave the evening to memory and talk of the past.

I note many improvements in the ACADEMY since my school-days, and I hope I may some day be able to visit the dear old place and meet you all.

With heartfelt wishes for the prosperity of the ACADEMY, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

MARY E. MCINTOSH.

Bordeaux, S. C.

—MARY V. SMITH, of Coxville, N. C., gives us another communication :

When I reached home to spend my Christmas holidays, I found two ACADEMIES for me. I immediately looked over the Personal Items, and as soon as I could find time I drank in the rest.

I felt almost as if I was with you again, when I read the description of Park Hall. I am teaching in Vanceboro, Craven county, N. C., and have 41 pupils. I like teaching very much.

Hollie is well, and sends love. Her little girl is 19 months old, and is very sweet;—has large blue eyes and golden hair. I send 50 cents for THE ACADEMY this year. Give my love to all the teachers who remember me.

Affectionately,

MARY V. SMITH.

Coxville, N. C.

—MAMIE CANNADY gives us a few lines also :

Enclosed please find 50 cents, for which send me THE ACADEMY. I did not receive the October and November numbers; if you could find them I would be glad to have them as I do not want to miss a single number. Please write to me sometimes; I am always anxious to hear from Salem. What has become of DORA COX?

Please give my love to Mrs. CLEWELL, all the teachers, and the old girls. I hope to see you all in June.

Yours, &c.,

MAMIE CANNADY.

Wilton, N. C.

—A very welcome letter was likewise received some time ago, from our former pastor, Rev. A. L. OERTER, who is so affectionately remembered.

It was with special interest and pleasure that I read the article on Park Hall in this week's Moravian, taken from the People's Press, (an old acquaintance). So the old parsonage our home, has renewed its youth or rather has attained a more glorious youth than it ever had. From the description I suppose it would scarcely be possible to recognize any portion of it. What a great improvement it must contribute to that part of town! Salem must have changed very much upon the whole since we left. I had to ask myself "Where is Park Avenue?" And there Brother Wureschke has a new house! Please congratulate him for me and accept congratulations yourself on the prosperity of the old ACADEMY under your Presidency, "Vivat crescat floreat" for many years to come! I also wondered which Mr. Pfohl was your secretary. Probably one of the sons of my old friends Christian or Charles. [EDITORS OF ACADEMY—It is Mr. Charles himself, not the son.]

But I must not indulge in more of the recollections brought up by the article referred to, or I shall take up too much of your time. Salem will always remain "a green spot" in our journey through this earthly wilderness. Along with this letter I send you some descriptive matter (synopsis, specimen pages, etc.) referring to a publication that has been and is receiving well merited commendation every where. It is not necessary to add anything to the description, testimonials, etc., given in the accompanying pamphlets, which I would ask you kindly to examine at your leisure if you have not yet seen them. Perhaps you may be supplied with the work, but if not, I would esteem it a favor to be allowed to order a set for you. Perhaps some one may be acting as agent for the work at Salem, if so I will not invade his territory. I have supplied our Y. L. Seminary and the Parochial School, and they are well pleased.

Very truly yours,

A. L. OERTER.

Bethlehem, Pa.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Quite a number of pupils attend Bible instruction at Dr. RONDTHALER'S residence.

—The Sunday afternoon hour is still conducted by Dr. RONDTHALER with marked interest.

—The Music classes are very large, and both departments, vocal and instrumental, are making fine progress.

—Miss LEHMAN has aroused much enthusiasm in the Junior Middle Class by her Astronomy lectures.

—An unusual number of French, German and Latin books are being called for by the Language Department. This indicates special activity in this department.

—The Studio is one of the busiest places in the house. The pictures fill every glass case, and the workers are deeply interested in the study of the subjects in hand. The attendance is very large just now.

—In a quiet but most satisfactory manner the Commercial Department, under the care of Miss LEHMAN and Misses LOU and SALLIE SHAFFNER, is preparing the usual number of pupils for useful occupation in business houses, banks and offices.

—Miss EVANS' pupils gave a pleasant Musicale to the school and small number of invited guests on March 5th, at 4 p. m. The parts were well rendered and much enjoyed by all. The programme was as given below :

1. Duet. Music of the Meadow.....Abt.
Misses BROADFOOT and BURGESS.
2. Solo. Japanese Lullaby.....R. de Koven.
Miss PRUE CROUSE.
3. Solo. Slumber Song.....Mattei.
Miss MARY WATSON.
4. Trio. Oft in the Stilly Night.....Vogrich.
Misses BUTNER, PETERSON and BL. THOMAS.
5. Solo. God guard thee Love.....Nessler.
Miss MAUD ROBBINS.
6. Solo. Du bist wie Eine Blume.....Liszt.
Miss JULIA WHITE.
7. Duet. On the blue Wave.....Panofka.
Misses REID and L. FIELDS.
8. Solo. When daylight Fades...F. L. Moir.
Miss BREITENBUCHER.
9. Solo. In old Madrid.....Trotiere.
Miss BESSIE THOMAS.
10. Solo. Winds in the Tree.Goring Thomas.
Miss DU FOUR.
11. Solo. Heart-throbs.....Bendel.
Miss L. BALL.
12. Solo. Call me Back.....Denza.
Miss GOSLEN.
13. Quartette. Last Night.....Kjerulf.
Misses JONES, SETTLE, DU FOUR and THOMAS

—On every second Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL have been entertaining the members of one or the other of the room companies. The first was the Sixth Room Company, and after an hour and a half spent in games, social conversation and refreshments, the guests returned to Main Hall. The Ninth Room visited the Principal's house two weeks later, and one of the party describes the events of the evening :

"The Ninth Room Company enjoyed an unusual treat, in the form of a 'donkey party,' given to its members by Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL, on the evening of the 28th ult. It proved a most welcome and pleasant diversion from our studies. To our great delight our dignified Principal and his wife heartily joined in our endeavors to supply to the donkey his missing member. The absurd positions of several tails caused much amusement, one being placed as far wrong as the nose, another near the fore-foot. Finally fate awarded the prize, a lovely silver glove-buttoner, to Miss HELEN PERKINS, while the booby prize, consisting of a fine leather whip, was carried off in triumph by Miss PAULINE QUERY. At 9 o'clock the most delicious refreshments were brought in, three of the young ladies assisting Mrs. CLEWELL in serving. It is unnecessary to say that this part of the programme contributed not a little to the enjoyment of all present. The party then engaged in various games until the clear peals from the old church clock warned us that it was growing late. We bade our kind host and hostess a pleasant good-night, all pronouncing the donkey party a grand success."

March 15th the Tenth Room was invited, and the little folks competed for the prize of the evening by burning out the magic numbers. LUCY BROWN was the successful one, receiving a neat little work-box.

MR. CLEWELL:

The undersigned beg leave to request that you will take them into the Laboratory, during some history hour, in the near future, and show them views of England.

Very respectfully,

NETTIE ALLEN,	C. VEST, Teacher.
CARRIE BAHNSON	MENA HEGE,
LUCIE BROWN,	MAGGIE HOOD,
LIZZIE BURSON,	PEARL PHILLIPS,
MABEL BUTNER,	D. SCHOOLFIELD,
BESSIE FOY,	B. SHELTON,
LETTIE GILMER,	AGNES SIEWERS,
ELMA HEGE,	K. WURRESCHKE,
	HATTIE YEREX.

S. F. A., February 25, 1891.

In response to this Mr. CLEWELL invited the young ladies into the Laboratory on March 2, at 9 a. m., and after the room had been made quite dark, the following views were thrown on the wall, a running lecture accompanying them:

1. London Street.
2. Westminster—St. Stephen's Porch.
3. " —West Front.
4. " —Choir.
5. Tower of London—General.
6. " —Bloody Tower.
7. " —Crown Jewels.
8. Windsor Castle—From Home Park.
9. " —East Terrace.

At this juncture the bell sounded and the pleasant hour closed.

—Since our last issue twice have the young ladies gathered in the Laboratory, 100 strong and more, to spend the social hour (already described in the ACADEMY) with the following as the programme:

FIRST EVENING.

1. Fire in New York (a).
2. Fire in New York (b).
3. Washington—Capitol.
4. " —Washington Mon'm't.
5. " —White House.
6. " —Tomb of Washington at Mt. Vernon.
7. " —Treasury Building.
8. " —Patent Office.

9. Washington—Capitol (colored view).
10. " —State, War and Navy Departments.
11. Baltimore —Washington Monument.
12. " —Peabody Institute.
13. " —City Hall.
14. Philadelphia—Market Street Depot.
15. " —City Hall.
16. " —Post Office.
17. " —Liberty Bell.
18. New York —Brooklyn Bridge.
19. " —Broadway.
20. " —Post Office.
21. " —Stewart's Store.
22. " —Cathedral.
23. " —Mall, Central Park.
24. " —Fountain, " "
25. Hudson River and West Point.

SECOND EVENING.

Views of Pompeii, and reading from "Last Days of Pompeii."

1. The Challenge (ideal view).
2. Vesuvius—Railroad.
3. " —Crater.
4. " —Lava.
5. Gladiator.
6. Pompeii—Amphitheatre.
7. " —The Flight (ideal).
8. " —The Forum.
9. " —House of Diomed.
10. Vesuvius in Eruption.

Personal Items.

—Mrs. HODNETT spent a few days at the Belo House.

—Mr. John C. Taylor visited NARCIE early in March.

—Mr. Easterling was in Salem a few days recently.

—Mr. Neeley passed through Salem recently, his father also having visited our place.

—Mr. Dufour is spending some weeks in Salem. He is instructing a large class in French.

—Miss MARIA BONER spent a month in the ACADEMY aiding Miss FOGLE in her duties in Park Hall.

—GERTRUDE JENKINS is at present acting as amanuensis in the ACADEMY office during a portion of the week.

—THEO. FITZGERALD has spent some time with friends in Winston and occasionally gives the ACADEMY a call.

—LAURA DICKS has secured a position as telegraph operator in an office on the line of the Roanoke & Southern Railroad.

—CLAUDIA PALMER returned from her home in Richmond, and although she has not fully recovered her strength, is looking very well.

—Mr. Marion Hawes, of Macon, was with us from Saturday to Monday, on a visit to ANNIE, who has been ill for a couple of weeks.

—On the occasion of the Ellis-Nissen marriage, BLANCHE ARMPFIELD, ANNIE SLOAN and NELLIE CRAMER came to our towns and gave us a call at the school. We are always glad to see former pupils.

—VIRGINIA FOSTER was called home by telegraph to the deathbed of her dear mother. After a fortnight spent at home she returned to her school duties.

AGNES BROWNSON received the intelligence of her father's illness and a day or two later the sad intelligence of his death was received. Both of the bereaved girls have our sincere sympathy.

Our Library.

—From Ginn & Co., Boston, we have received a new work on "Hygienic Physiology," a text-book for use in schools, by Lincoln.

—Mr. E. J. Wessels, St. Ann's Bay, Jamaica, West Indies, has presented the Library with a very interesting work, entitled "The New Jamaica," the work is fully illustrated, interesting and instructive. Mr. Wessels will be remembered as the gentleman who recently visited our towns and lectured before the pupils on the subject of the West Indies, but especially on Jamaica.

Married.

ELLIS—NISSEN—In the Moravian church, by Rev. Edward Rondthaler, D. D., Wednesday evening, March 4, 1891, Miss CLARA LILLIAN NISSEN to Mr. WILLIAM BURWELL ELLIS. The ACADEMY extends its best wishes to the happy couple.

ALUMNÆ BADGES. — Mrs. Dr. H. T. Bahnon has been requested by the Alumnae Association to keep on hand a stock of the official badges of the Alumnae Society. She will be pleased to give any information relative to price.

Address MRS. H. T. BAHNSON,
Salem, N. C.

L. V. & E. T. BLUM,
SALEM, N. C.,

BOOKSELLERS, STATIONERS,
PRINTERS.

PUBLISH "THE PEOPLES PRESS,"
FARMER'S AND PLANTER'S ALMANAC.

General Job Printing executed with neatness
and dispatch. Try us.

Printers of Salem Female Academy's publications.

PRIVATE LESSONS

German, French, Latin and Mathematics

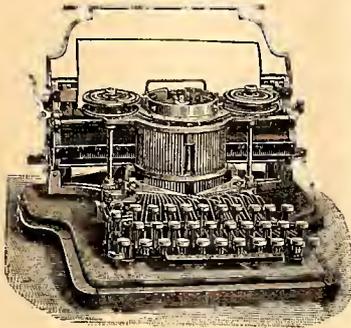

L. B. WURRESCHKE.

Apply for Terms.

Feb. '91-64.

USE

The Hammond Type-Writer.

For SPEED, DURABILITY and BEAUTY OF WORK it has no equal.

The SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, having tested it, has formally adopted the "HAMMOND," and recommends it where a first-class machine is desired.

For Catalogue and price write to

J. W. GANNON, Winston, N. C.

Gloves! Gloves!! Gloves!!!

SCHOUER'S MILLINERY ESTABLISHMENT

announces that after this date they will always have on hand a first-class line of

Harris's Celebrated Kid Gloves

FOR LADIES and MISSES

in all colors, sizes and prices. These gloves are of finest kid and excellent fit, and are guaranteed to give satisfaction.

A NEW LOT of HATS JUST RECEIVED, and our prices low as ever.

Special attention given to all orders from the Academy.

WORCESTER'S DICTIONARY

"The highest authority known as to the use of the English language."

With or without Deacon's Patent Index.

The Standard of the Leading Publishers, Magazines, and Newspapers.

The Dictionary of the Scholar for Spelling, Pronunciation, and Accuracy in Definition.

Send for large Circular to the Publishers,
J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY,
PHILADELPHIA.

May, 1890. 1 y.

(REVISED EDITION.)

Johnson's Universal Cyclopedia.

Johnson's Universal Cyclopedia is a whole library of universal knowledge from the pen of the ablest scholars in America and Europe. It is accepted as high authority in our leading colleges.

IT IS NOT FOR THE FEW,

Like Appleton's, the Britannica, or the "International,"

BUT FOR ALL.

It has just been thoroughly revised at a cost of over $60,000, and three years' labor by forty editors, and over 2,000 renowned contributors.

It is in 8 convenient sized volumes.

No father can give to his child at school, or his son or daughter just entering the arena of life, anything that will be of more permanent benefit.

It is an education supplementary to that of the Schools

"The next few years will witness a great change in educational ideas. The possibilities of self-culture are to be emphasized, and the means of aid and direction increased. After a careful examination of 'Johnson's Universal Cyclopedia,' I am convinced that while it is excellently adapted to the needs of professional and business men, it is eminently useful to the earnest, thorough self-educator.

"This work, with its corps of contributors, offers accurate articles on the widest range of subjects. To the value of trustworthy information is added the inspection of personality associated with great names.

I heartily commend this Cyclopedia to all, and especially to those who are pursuing self-courses in the great university of life.

JOHN H. VINCENT, (Bishop),
"Chancellor, Chataqua University."

Address, for particulars, terms and circulars,

A. J. JOHNSON & CO.,

11 Great Jones Street, N. Y.

Representatives wanted in every county.

From the Librarian of Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

DEC. 16, 1889.—"There is perhaps no better test of the merit of a cyclopedia than its usefulness in such a library as ours at Harvard; and here JOHNSON'S UNIVERSAL CYCLOPEDIA has, during many years' experience, been found more useful than any other in the English language."

From Rev. Thos. Hill, D.D., LL.D., Ex-President of Harvard University.

PORTLAND, MAINE, Aug. 6, 1889.—"JOHNSON'S UNIVERSAL CYCLOPEDIA (revised edition) is an ever-present companion and friend, and I consult it very much more frequently than I do my Britannica, Appleton's, Webster's Unabridged, etc., etc., and very seldom fail to find in it just the kind and amount of information which I need."

From Hon. A. R. Spofford, LL.D., Librarian of Congress, Washington D. C.

"JOHNSON'S UNIVERSAL CYCLOPEDIA is found, in the Library of Congress, to answer more questions satisfactorily than any other work of ference."

DAVIS SCHOOL.

Military Boarding School

FOR BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

Full preparation for any Civil or for Business. Healthy location; fine climate; mild winters; excellent buildings; Cadet Corner Band; Cadet Orchestra; Resident Surgeon. No Charge for Medical Attention. No Extra Charge for Languages or Studies. Department of Art. Full Course in Telegraphy. VERY LOW RATES. For Register with full particulars address

COL. A. C. DAVIS, Supt.,
WINSTON, N. C.

BELO HOUSE.

Mrs. HANSLEY desires to state to the patrons and friends of THE ACADEMY that she has opened a first-class Hotel and Boarding House in the well known and popular former Belo House. This House is situated only one block from the ACADEMY; rates are reasonable, and accommodations pleasant and home-like in all respects. When you arrive at Salem be certain to go to the BELO HOUSE. For rates, day, week or month, address Mrs. HANSLEY, or THE ACADEMY. Jan, '90-1y.

"Bingham School"

stands pre-eminent among Southern boarding schools for Boys.—U. S. Bureau of Education.

"Combines more desirable qualities than any other with which I am acquainted."—Lieut. J. B. Batchelor, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

"There exists not the equal of this School in my opinion."—Capt. Henry Wygant, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

More than 100 pupils from other States, the largest number in a Southern School for boys from outside the State of location.

Address,

Maj. R. BINGHAM

Bingham's School, N. C.

WM. T. VOGLER,

JEWELLER,

Main Street, WINSTON, N. C.

Dealer in

WATCHES, CLOCKS, JEWELRY and SILVERWARE

HOLIDAY GOODS A SPECIALTY.

REPAIRING DONE PROMPTLY.

GRANDEST DISPLAY

OF

TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS, LADIES' WORK BASKETS, FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

A NICE LINE OF

OIL STOVES,
AT THE "BIG COFFEE POT,"
AT BOTTOM PRICES.

Our latest novelties are:

Pat Flue Stoppers, Picnic Mugs, Star Safety Razors, Pie Lifters, Perfection Cake and Pie Tins and Egg Beaters, all at very reasonable figures.

We solicit a share of your patronage.

Very respectfully,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.,

TO THE PATRONS OF
SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by back in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't.
Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't
Fayetteville, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
Salem Female Academy.

WHY

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway

is the BEST LINE for patrons from Salem, N. C., to Arkansas and Texas?

It is the Only Line that runs from Memphis to Arkansas and Texas Two Trains Daily.

Road Bed and Equipment are first-class. Sure connection by all lines from the East, and when sufficient to justify a Special Pullman Palace Car or Day Coach will be furnished for the exclusive use of the party, with an agent to escort to destination.

The same arrangements can be made to return from Texas or Arkansas to the School.

For complete Itinerary of Route, address
A. A. GALLAGHER,
Southern Pass. Agt.
103 Read House, Chattanooga, Tenn.

H. C. TOWNSEND,
G. P. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,
CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

CORNER OF THIRD AND MAIN STS.,

WINSTON, N. C.

OPPOSITE THE OLD STAND.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrodsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 35 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 11 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England Points and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Columbus, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas; New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California. Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas Points. Anniston, Columbus, Montgomery, Mobile, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination.
For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION CHAS. H. MILLS, Ticket Agt. C. S. BARRETT, T. P. A. Depot. Read House.
D. J. MULLANEY, Div. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
C. C. HARVEY, CINCINNATI, O. D. G. EDWARDS, Vice Pres. G. P. & T. A.

THE "COTTON BELT ROUTE"
St. Louis, Arkansas & Texas Railway,

Carries More Pupils to an from Arkansas and Texas than all other lines to those States combined.

Why? Because this is the only line which has furnished, as promised, elegant chair cars direct from the school to the scholar's home, and from the home back to school without changes en route. These cars are fitted up for this class of travel exclusively with retiring and toilet rooms, accompanied by an attentive porter and in charge of an Agent of the Company, who sees that the car is reserved for the use of the pupils only.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us, patronized, subsequently, any other line.

This is the only line from Memphis running Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer in Memphis from Eastern Lines.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars, by

D. MILLER, General Pass. Agent. ST. LOUIS, MO.
E. W. LABEAUME, Ass't Gen. Pass. Agt.

H. W. Morrison, Gen. Agt. Memphis, Tenn.
S. G. Warner, Trav. Agt. Memphis, Tenn.
W. H. Winfield, Gen. Agt. P. Dept. Texarkana, Tex.
W. G. Adams, Pass. Agent, Nashville, Tenn.

Schouler's Racket Store.

Dore's Bible Gallery, 100 Engravings.
Milton's Paradise Lost, 50 Engravings.
Dante's Inferno, 75 Engravings.
" Purgatory & Paradise 60 Engravings.

Any one of these books, which are large and beautifully bound, will be given to a member of the ACADEMY when the amount of her purchases in SCHOULER'S RACKET STORE reaches $20.00,—not in one bill, but in as long a time as you please.

This store is a veritable Bazaar, and contains Dress Goods, Shoes, Notions, Jewelry, Stationery, Cologne, Ribbons, Bags, Trunks, Underclothes, &c., and the prices are the lowest in the Twin-City

FOUNDED 1851.

HORNER SCHOOL,
OXFORD, N. C.

FACULTY:

J. H. HORNER, M. A., University of N. C., (Founder of School.)
Col. J. T. DREWRY, Com'd't, Star Graduate Virginia Military Institute.
J. C. HORNER, A. M., Davidson College.
G. A. WAUCHOPE, M. A., Ph. D., University of Berlin, Late Fellow Wash. & Lee Univ.
Rev. J. M. Horner, B. A., B. D., University of Virginia and Johns Hopkins University.

* MISS EMMA L. LEINBACH, *
(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANOS HANDLED.

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about $75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up.
155 Lexington Avenue New York.

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her for responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.
Salem Female Academy.

Salem, N. C., Feb. 11, 1889.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA

SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Fourteen Hours and Forty Minutes Quicker

To Dallas, Fort Worth and Texas Pacific points than the New Orleans Long Line: 173 miles shorter to Dallas, and 200 miles shorter to Fort Worth. The shortest route has through Palace Coaches and Pullman Combination Parlor and Sleeping cars, Memphis to Waco, Texas, without change. 150 pound<sup>o</sup> of baggage allowed to each whole ticket, and 75 pounds to each half ticket. Remember this is the Shortest, Quickest and Best route, and see that your ticket reads via The Memphis & Little Rock Railroad. For further information, regarding rates, schedules, maps and new Western Ry. Guide, write to R. A. WILLIAMS, G. S.-E. T. P. A., P. O. Box 236 Atlanta, Ga. S. W. TUCKER, G. Pass. & Ticket Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIII.

SALEM, N. C., APRIL, 1891.

NUMBER 115.

Alumnæ Matters.

Miss LEHMAN, President of the Alumnæ Association, called a meeting of the Officers and Executive Board March 23, 1891.

The time appointed for the Alumnæ gathering is Wednesday, June 3, 3 P. M.

We will meet this year in Gymnasium Hall, and it will be found cooler and more commodious than the Moravian Chapel.

The chief work in hand is the Scholarship Endowment, and we would urge all Alumnæ to give the subject careful consideration, and if not able to be with us to send such suggestions as seem practicable.

A full report of what has been done will be given, and the subject thrown open for discussion.

A paper will be read on the ACADEMY of long ago, and another on the ACADEMY of to-day.

A complete program of the meeting can not be given at this early day, but it is expected that it will be an unusually interesting and effective one.

GERTRUDE E. SIEWERS,
Secretary.

The Scholarship Endowment.

WE publish this month the very practical letter from Mrs. Wright, read at the Alumnæ meeting in June, 1890, and trust that the suggestions may call forth other plans and discussions, and also cause the work to go steadily forward. THE ACADEMY, being the official organ of the Association, will welcome any communications relating to the subject:

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 27, 1890.

MISS GERTRUDE SIEWERS,
Sec'y S. F. A. Alumnæ Association:
Dear Friend:

At a meeting of the Alumnæ in June, 1889, a wish was expressed by a member of the Association that a fund be raised for the endowment of a scholarship, believing that if an appeal was made to the many Alumnæ a hearty response would echo all over the land.

The scholarship would be for the benefit of the daughter of one of the Alumnæ who would otherwise be unable to obtain an education. The disposal of said scholarship to be decided by a committee, composed of two or more Alumnæ from each State represented in the Association, and elected at the annual meeting in June, the term of office to be decided by the committee on by-laws.

The proposed sum to be raised in any manner that the committee think advisable.

One suggestion is that each Alumna be asked to pledge a small sum annually until the amount is raised, an appeal being made through the columns of THE ACADEMY, thereby enabling each and all to add their mite for such a noble cause; also asking any one interested in the School to respond, as the smallest amount would be acceptable, and begging the Alumnæ to bind themselves together and work for this worthy object, therefore be it resolved,

1st. The sum decided on by the committee must be all raised before the scholarship can be offered, the money to be invested in any manner the committee deems secure, or placed in the hands of the trustees of the school to invest.

2. The beneficiary must be an orphan or daughter of a widow who was a former pupil of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

3. The disposal of said scholarship to be decided by the committee, composed of two or more Alumnæ from each State.

4. Two or more applicants from each State will be required. The decision depending on an examination or standing they may have in a former school.

5. The applicant must be advanced sufficiently to be able to graduate in a two years' course.

6. Each State represented in the Association to educate one girl, beginning with the one which has the largest number of active Alumnæ, and so on in succession until all the States have been represented; trusting that in time each State will have its own scholarship.

Hoping these suggestions will meet with approval, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
GEORGIA BOWE WRIGHT.

Easter.

THE Easter celebration in the Moravian church was of a peculiarly solemn and impressive character. Already on the Sunday previous to Easter (Palm Sunday) the Holy Week was ushered in with special services. In the morning a number of persons were confirmed, and in the evening the reading of the Passion Week Manual commenced. The services continued Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, the pupils of the ACADEMY attending as a school. Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock recitations were suspended till the Tuesday morning following. On Thursday afternoon the reading services were continued, and the Maundy Thursday communion celebrated at night. Many of the pupils communed, as we find that as years pass by the age of the average pupil is greater than was the case some time since in the history of the School, and hence we have more communicants of the various Churches.

Good Friday there were services morning, afternoon and evening, the interest among the pupils being very marked.

The Saturday, or "Great Sabbath", lovefeast was largely attended.

To describe the experiences of Easter Sunday we quote from the Raleigh Chronicle a portion of a letter written by Mr. Geo. Pell, a gifted correspondent of that paper:

"But it is after midnight of Saturday and before the Easter sun has risen that the most striking and distinctive features occur. About three o'clock in the morning a band of musicians starts out, and on every corner in the populous portions of Salem a Moravian hymn is played, to announce that the Easter morning is now breaking. The Moravians have all of the German fondness for music, and musicians among them are plentiful. I was told that there were 12 instruments in the band which made the rounds this morning, and the weird and awe-inspiring music which breaks out on the stillness of the night and floats away to mingle with one's half slumbering thoughts produces an impressive effect wholly indescribable. As the last strains of music die away, there is a bustle and activity on the streets which betokens an occasion of more than ordinary interest. For days the hotels and boarding-houses of these cities have been filling up with visitors from far and near, and they, with multitudes of the populace, now turn their steps toward the old Moravian burying ground, where the resurrection services are to be held.

In the half-dim light of early morn the pastor meets his flock in front of the church in which their fathers and grandfathers worshipped at the beginning of the century. Mounting the steps he impressively gives to them the greeting, "The Lord is risen," to which the assembled worshippers respond, "The Lord is risen, indeed;" these expressions being those with which the early Christians greeted each other 1800 years ago in the streets of Rome. Then follows a hymn, with horn accompaniment, a prayer and the reading of the litany, which consists of a confession of faith, an elaboration of the Apostle's Creed. Presently the line is formed for proceeding to the cemetery. With great care and precision the sextons and the ushers see that this work is impressively carried out. The procession is arranged four abreast, and is headed by the band of twelve brass pieces. Next comes the minister, then the church choir of fifteen voices, then the Sunday School, numbering about 250 children, the boarding pupils of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, about 200 strong, then a delegation of Davis Military School cadets, numbering about 200, and lastly members of the congregation and their friends, more than a thousand in number. When all this is in readiness the column moves up toward the grandly beautiful cedar avenue, a broad, gravelled walk, leading the whole length of the cemetery, and bordered on either side by magnificent cedars, which were planted there before the birth of the Republic. The band plays a hymn as the procession moves along, and soon the central gate of the burying ground is reached. This spot is called "God's Acre," and the simple tastes and humble faith of the Moravians is shown in the arrangement here. The plot is laid off in squares, and at each intersection of the narrow paths have been planted four cedars. Only low mounds of uniform appearance are seen, and a plain, small, marble slab, with merely the name, date of birth and death, is the only stone permitted to be placed there—carrying out the Christian idea that Death is, indeed, a leveller of all ranks. It is a beautiful Eastern custom here observed to carefully wash clean each headstone the Saturday before Easter, and place upon the graves handfuls of the choicest flowers to be obtained.

Entering the cemetery the pastor and the musicians proceed to the extreme edge of the plat, and those following are placed in the form of a hollow square, facing the pastor. Many of the people had stopped at the cemetery there to await the arrival of the procession, and it is estimated that on this occasion there were as many as four thousand people present, all told.

As the first rays of the morning sun break upon the scene, the services here were concluded. Short, simple and filled with faith in Christ, the resurrection and the life everlasting, the hymns and readings amid such surroundings have a solemnity and impressiveness which inspire all witnesses, and when, after the benediction, the assemblage disperses a solemn hush pervades the listener and makes the spot indeed seem holy ground.

The next service of the day is held in the old Moravian church at 10:30 a. m. As always the church was filled to overflowing. The pulpit was beautified with rare flowers, palms and potted plants. The choir was augmented to eighteen voices, and a string orchestra of fifteen instruments assisted them in most impressively rendering the anthem, "Unfold, ye Portals Everlasting," from Gounod's Oratorio of the Redemption. Dr. RONDTHALER, the beloved pastor, preached an eloquent and touching sermon on the resurrection, taking as his text I Cor. vi : 14 : "And God hath both raised up the Lord and will also raise up us by His own power."

In the afternoon the Sunday Schools held special Easter services of a choral character, and the Easter services were concluded at night with a reading of the history from the resurrection to the ascension, compiled from the four Gospels. There were also special musical features, the choir rendering, with orchestral accompaniment, Dudley Buck's anthem, "Christ, our Passover, is sacrificed for us."

—The Seniors' caps and gowns still continue to be regularly worn, give pleasure to the class, and are both becoming and ornamental.

That Class Tree.

BY LAURA WHITNER.

THE Seniors of this year have done several things that have never been done in the ACADEMY before, and one of them was the planting of a Class tree. Mr. Makepeace (ANNIE'S father) sent Miss LEHMAN a young Paulownia, and she very kindly gave it to be used for that purpose.

Accordingly, on Wednesday morning, February 11, great curiosity was aroused throughout the school to know what the Seniors who were gathered in knots around Park and Annex Halls were doing. Just before the close of the fourth hour the mystery was solved, for the whole Senior class assembled to take part in the ceremony of planting the tree. The Class officers supported it while each and every one threw in a handful of the moist earth, then Anderson filled it in, packing the soil around the stem,—and the first Class tree of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY had been planted.

It is a bare looking object now, but in June they hope to see it covered with luxuriant foliage, and in coming years, when they perhaps shall visit their old Alma Mater, may they find it flourishing, a fitting memorial of the Class of '91.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—From the People's Press we clip the following concerning Miss EVANS' two evenings with the Comic Operas. The entertainments were well received, and the costumes very carefully but modestly gotten up; the girls did well, but they always do well under Miss EVANS' careful and painstaking instruction:

"AN EVENING WITH COMIC OPERA.—Departing for once from the routine of classic music, the vocal department of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, on Tuesday evening, March 31st, gave a most pleasing programme of selections from several of the comic operas, whose past popularity put them on a financial level at least with the great masterpieces. With a singularly large number of good singers at command the rendition of the programme was all that could be desired. The scenery was not what the great professional companies present, yet the audience was unaware of the deficiency, the fine talents of the young ladies participating, both vocally and dramatically, making this loss unfelt. The selections were from "Patience," "Little Duke," "Pirates of Penzance," and "Billee Taylor; a solo, "Spanish Orange Girl," was also given. Interspersed with these were selections by the Salem Orchestra, which were given with much spirit and general excellence. Prof. Markgraff accompanied the opera selections with his usual exceptional good taste, and directed the Orchestra also. A large audience was present, and was thoroughly in accord with the singers and players, the applause being very emphatic. Very certainly the evening was a most enjoyable one.

"The previous evening the same programme had been given complimentary to the cadets of the Davis Military School, and was much enjoyed by the boys in gray. PEN-STICK."

The following was the programme of the evenings :

1. S. F. A. March, . . . . . Markgraff.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
2. Patience. "Twenty Love-sick Maidens."
Soloists—Angela, Miss LENA FIELDS;
Ella, Miss BLOOMFIELD GAMBILL.
3. La Paloma ..... Yradier.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
4. Little Duke, . . . . .
Soloists—Directress, Miss F. SETTLE.
Mlle de la Roche, Miss F. BUTNER.
Mlle DeChampvert, Miss L. BURGESS.
Mlle St. Amande, Miss M. WATSON.
5. Merry War, . . . . . Strauss.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
6. Solo. Spanish Orange Girl. Schochdopole.
Miss ANNIE REID.
7. Sobre las Olas. Waltz . . . . . Rossa.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
8. Pirates of Penzance. "Poor Wandering
One," . . . . . Gilbert-Sullivan.
Soloist—Miss FLORENCE SETTLE.
9. Polish March. . . . . Barnekoy.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
10. Billee Taylor. Chorus of Charity Girls.
Soloists—Susan, Miss BL. THOMAS.
Phoebe, Miss M. ROBBINS.
Mary, Miss M. DUFUR.
Lucy, Miss A. REID.
11. Per Aspera ad Astra. March. Markgraff.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.

PERSONÆ:

- |                   |                   |
|-------------------|-------------------|
| Miss B. GAMBILL,  | Miss JULIA WHITE, |
| " ANNIE REID,     | " PRUE CROUSE,    |
| " LENA FIELDS,    | " CLEORA HEWSON,  |
| " MAY BROADFOOT,  | " BL. THOMAS,     |
| " FANNIE BUTNER,  | " FAY McMULLEN,   |
| " FL. SETTLE,     | " BREITENBUCHER,  |
| " E. TOMLINSON,   | " BIRDIE GOSLEN,  |
| " LUCY WADDILL,   | " MARY WATSON,    |
| " LIZZIE BURGESS, | " M. DUFUR,       |
| " MAUD ROBBINS,   | " MATTIE SPENCER. |

—We have secured a sketch of the buildings and grounds of the ACADEMY. It is a large view, size 15x16 inches, and shows Main Hall, South Hall, Annex and Old Annex, Park Hall, Principal's House, Salem Church, Sisters' House, Gymnasium Hall and all the other buildings of the Institution. The Salem Square is also shown, as well as the Park, with its fountains and pavillions. The Roanoke & Southern Railroad train (which will probably pass back of the Park) is busily steaming by and the electric cars are in the foreground. Altogether the view is the most complete we have ever had, and we hope to have it lithographed so as to furnish our readers a better idea of what the past 35 years have done for the ACADEMY in the matter of its buildings and grounds.

—The Biblical Literature hour, Feb. 27, was used by Dr. RONDTHALER as the occasion for a lecture before the Senior Middle Class. The talk was illustrated by the following views :

- Map of Palestine.
- Herod's Temple.
- Golden Gate.
- Esther before the King.
- Elijah Translated.
- Christ's Ascension.
- Jordan.
- Fountain of Elisha.
- Shunem.
- Christ Raising the Daughter of Jairus.

—Circumstances have prevented the completion of the account of the Students' Tour to Northern Cities, in November last. Therefore at this late date we will only indicate the points visited in Philadelphia and Washington. In the first named city Wanamaker's, of course, claimed a liberal share, also the various beautiful stores on Chestnut street. Sunday being spent in Philadelphia the party could not make quite as extensive a programme as was done a year ago, though the time that was at our disposal was so energetically occupied that when the day to visit Baltimore arrived almost unanimously it was decided to spend part of the day in rest, and the remainder in making the journey between Philadelphia and Washington. In Washington the public buildings were all visited, also Mt. Vernon and a hasty run was made to Baltimore one evening to see Booth in one of his Shakespearean plays. The party also had the pleasure of shaking hands with the President, and on Saturday morning started down through Virginia toward the school home in North Carolina, arriving at the same at midnight Saturday.

Personal Items.

—ADDIE BIZZELL is paying a visit to friends in town.

—EMMA KAPP was in the railroad accident that occurred on the University branch road. She was hardly aware of what had happened when she found herself seated on the ceiling of the car. No one was fatally injured.

—ROBBIE KYLE's sister spent some days in Salem recently.

—Mr. Dowd brought his daughter NEL-LIE to Salem. The latter is spending the time at the Belo House with her mother, and is taking Music and Art during the remainder of the term.

Our Library.

—From the Hon. H. E. Fries, Salem, N. C., we have received the following for deposit, subject to his order :

- The Colonial Records of North Carolina. Saunders. Vol. IX. 1771—1775
- Ditto. Vol. X. 1775—1776.

—"Concise History of Music." Hunt. Deighton, Bell & Co., Cambridge, Eng.

—"The Young Folks' Cyclopædia of Games and Sports." H. Holt & Co., New York.

—From the well known publishing house of Leach, Shewell & Sanborn, New York, we have received the following works in the "Student's Series of English Classics :"

- Silas Warner, by George Eliot.
- Ruskin, edited by Scudder.
- Sir Roger de Coverley Papers from The Spectator, edited by Roe.

Daniels' Exercises on Latin Composition.

- Steele's Rudimentary Economics.
- Southworth's Elements of Composition and Grammar.
- Steele's Rudimentary Psychology.
- Parson's English Versification.

—Lippincott's Pronouncing Gazetteer of the World. New Edition. Revised and Enlarged, with the most Recent Census Returns. J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., APRIL, 1891.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.

Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—The Commencement programme will probably be the same as last year, though as the details are yet to be decided on we give the programme subject to modifications if it should be deemed practical to make them later :—

Friday, May 29, Concert.

Sunday, May 31, Baccalaureate Sermon.

Monday, June 1, Seniors' First Evening.

Tuesday afternoon, June 2, Art Exhibit.

Tuesday, June 2, Seniors' Second Evening.

Wednesday morning, June 3, Commencement.

Wednesday afternoon, June 3, Alumnae Meeting.

Wednesday evening, June 3, Closing Concert.

—We call the attention of the Alumnae to the Circular Letter found elsewhere. This meeting has become so important a portion of Commencement Week that it calls upon each member of the Association to aid in the success of the same. We will welcome communications for our columns from the Alumnae containing suggestions as to how we shall make this Alumnae meeting the most enjoyable one yet held.

A Friendly Letter.

THE following warm and friendly letter was received some days since, and although it was not intended for publication we feel certain Mrs. ROBBINS will have no objections to our placing the same in the columns of THE ACADEMY :

STATESVILLE, N. C., Mar. 31, '91.

DEAR MR. CLEWELL :

Words of praise and commendation can never come amiss to the deserving, therefore I shall not ask to be pardoned for what I shall write. You have struck the keynote to woman's complete education in the introduction of the Cooking and Sewing Schools. One of the chief attractions of old SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY has always been her practical side, and I am pleased to see in THE ACADEMY notices of still broader and improved methods in this direction. I find the graduates of old Salem all over our Southland, not only as leaders of fashionable society but shining brightest in the family circle as model housekeepers, and neat, orderly, tidy mothers, making happy homes by putting in practice the lessons taught in your school.

A lady said to me not long since, "I know two girls, one a graduate of Salem, the other of a fashionable boarding school. At night the Salem girl folds up her garments neatly, convenient and ready for use in the morning, then quickly completes her toilet. The other girl of the fashionable boarding school throws her clothes helter skelter all over the room, and in the morning half an hour is consumed in getting together the scattered garments before she can begin her toilet."

So I think the secret of the popularity of your school lies largely in the practical side, and why it is we find in large numbers the children and grandchildren of former graduates flocking to their Alma Mater. If I had a dozen daughters I would send them to Salem, so important do I think this practical education. Then, too, I am a Methodist : I love the Moravian Church, and believe in its doctrines, —in fact, we claim kin with your Church, for, you remember, it was from them John Wesley learned of heart religion in that fearful storm at sea, when he was so much alarmed and they so calm and trusting. Wesley never rested until he had obtained "that perfect love that casteth out fear," and knew that he was a child of God.

I am glad to have my dear daughter under such blessed influences as she can have in your Church and School. In the near future you will have several pupils from Statesville, I think. I send THE ACADEMY out among my friends.

Very truly,

Mrs. W. M. ROBBINS.

—The pupils of the Industrial Department were somewhat mystified to learn that cotton had been discovered 9000 feet high. When it was suggested that this was pretty tall cotton, the pupil stoutly defended the statement, saying that she could prove it by the Encyclopædia.

Correspondence.

—We were permitted to make some extracts from a letter written to one of the teachers by ADA FOGLE, who is spending the winter with her father in New Mexico.

Though I am nearly 3,000 miles from you I will try and write you a few lines. After leaving home we travelled directly to Las Vegas, the town where papa and I stayed last winter ; here we spent December and January, and last week we came on to Silver City where we expect to stay two months.

Las Vegas is situated on a level prairie, with the Rocky Mountains in full view, while Silver City is built on quite a number of hills. The train brought us right up the canon, into the midst of mountain peaks, in fact we seem quite surrounded by many peaks. The town is small and scattered over a dozen hills, while the stores and hotels are down in the narrow canon by the railroad.

About 9 miles from town there are a number of mines, some quite rich in gold, silver, lead, copper and zinc. The ore is crushed here, and then sent to Denver and Kansas City to be smelted. Except mining there is little business here. The climate is splendid, I know you would enjoy this delightful sunshine. When we were coming from Las Vegas there was on our train a whole car packed with Apache Indians, in charge of a company of troops. About 9 o'clock mamma took Paul and myself in the coach, and such a sight ! Men in paint, beads and feathers, squaws with babies strapped on boards, and other children of all sizes ; the women had long coarse hair that hung loose about their shoulders. Last year when Geronimo and his followers gave the government so much trouble, he was captured and the others were divided into companies and sent away to different places, in order to break up the band. These were some that the government decided to send back to the reservation. They were a fierce, wicked looking company. One old squaw grabbed Paul by the coat, and began to rob his pocket, because she saw an apple in it, so mamma took it out and gave it to her pappoose ; you ought to have heard her laugh, and a dozen voices called out, "Give me 5 cents," "Give me 10 cents." One reservation is 9 miles from here.

Mrs. Fielder (who used to be Miss MAUD CLEGG), lives about an eighth of a mile from us ; she has one boy nine years old. Mamma says she looks just like she used to, only older, her hair is turning gray. Give my love to each of the class girls.

I remain, &c.,

ADA FOGLE.

Silver City, New Mexico.

—NELLIE GRIFFISS who has just returned from a delightful tour over Europe, Egypt and Palestine gives us a pleasant letter :

Since my return from a most pleasant and enjoyable trip across the waters, I find that my ACADEMY has stopped, which will never do. Enclosed you will find my subscription for two years, $1. I have only been home a few days, but not wishing to miss the February number I write immediately. I thought of you often, especially in Italy, of the many descriptions you had given in class of St. Peter's, the Vatican, Pitti Palace, &c., all came vividly to my mind when I saw them. Dr. RONDTHALER's lectures on Palestine also helped me to understand that country. We were in Syria and Palestine nearly a month and it is needless to say that I enjoyed the camp life, so utterly different from anything I had been used to. With Egypt I was charmed, and especially Cairo. The Nile, lined with the ruins of ancient cities, was wonderfully interesting. The enormous statues of Rameses II filled us with a feeling of awe, and then to go to the Boulak Museum and see the mummy of this man gives a peculiar feeling. I was disappointed in the Sphinx, though a very dignified gentleman read the poem in which it says, "Do not mock at the Spinx."

The Pyramids are indeed grand, and Mark Twain does not exaggerate in his description of climbing to the top, two to pull and one to push. One old Arab told papa he had run down one Pyramid and up the other for "Markie Twainie," and was quite anxious to repeat the performance, but a younger Bedouin had been employed.

Please give Miss CHITTY my love and tell her I have a bulb of the Lily of the Valley mentioned in the Bible, which I got in Palestine, and will send it to her. I hope she can raise it. Love to Mrs. CLEWELL and others.

Lovingly,

NELLIE L. GRIFFISS.

Chattanooga, Tenn.

—Rev. H. S. HOFFMAN, of Philadelphia, Pa., writes among other interesting topics, of a former pupil whom he recently met :

During last summer when at Saratoga Springs I met a somewhat distinguished Southern family, viz.: Capt. and Mrs. John Willis, Panther Burn, Sharkey Co., Miss., who had heard of your reviving the "old ACADEMY," as Mrs. Willis called it. She was deeply interested in everything I could tell her about the ACADEMY. She was the youngest pupil in the school in 1846 as Miss ANNA RICKS. Mrs. Willis is a most cultured lady and a brilliant conversationalist, who told stories of girls of her day that were pathetic and some of them in tensely amusing. She spoke of her sister, FLORIDA RICKS, who either died in the ACADEMY or soon after leaving it, and of how tenderly and lovingly she was treated by the Moravians.

Very sincerely,

H. S. HOFFMAN.

—A few cordial lines appear from our genial friend, Col. Rufus A. Ayers, of Estillville, Va., the husband of VICTORIA MORRISON :

Please send THE ACADEMY to Mrs. V. L. Ayers here for 2 years, commencing at date of expiration of last subscription. My wife cannot do without the paper, and I read it with much interest. In fact, it is welcomed by the entire household.

Respectfully,

R. A. AYERS.

—Our next is taken from a letter from Mrs. W. J. Hudson (BETTIE GRIER, '84) :

It has been a long time since you wrote me, but trusting you have not quite forgetting me, will write you this morning. I guess the girls of '84 would feel almost like strangers in the ACADEMY now, so many improvements having been added.

I think the Industrial Department is a good thing; it will save many a trial and trouble for those who marry and go to housekeeping. Experience is rather a dear teacher some times. I have been keeping house nearly 5 years, and have about overcome all its little mysteries. Mr. H. says I am the best little housekeeper in the whole country. I hope he thinks so, for wives like to be praised by their husbands.

Both of my babies are boys; if they were girls they would go to Salem just as soon as they were old enough.

We have an unusually wet Spring, and farmers have been able to do very little work; early gardens are a complete failure. This is a great trial to country housekeepers, for we cannot buy everything we want. We live 5 miles from the railroad, and the roads about here are almost impassable, so we stay pretty closely at home. I do not mind that a bit, for I think when one has a happy home she ought to be contented to stay there. Please write soon.

Yours affectionately,

Mrs. W. J. HUDSON.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The weather during the early spring was exceedingly wet and unpleasant, but before Easter Spring made its appearance.

—Our large music school, with its 300 or more enrolled pupils, continues to work steadily forward. Besides piano and vocal studies, many are taking violin and guitar lessons.

—Suitable for wet weather such as the past weeks have given. Extract from composition: "Pencils began to be used about 1590 and were made of graphite or lumbago!"

—The class paper of the present Senior Class is unusually attractive. The design is in silver and blue, and represents '91 with a spray of forget-me-nots worked into the design.

—We have received an invitation to the marriage ceremony of EDDIE HUNNICUTT, of Atlanta, Ga., to Mr. Charles O. Tyner, April 15, 1891. Our best wishes go with the contracting parties.

—The consecration of Rev. EDWARD RONDTHALER, D.D., to the Episcopacy of the Moravian Church will take place in the Moravian church at Salem, Sunday, April 12, at 11 o'clock.

—The town improvements continue, and with the streets paved with Belgian blocks, the fine street car line, the boulevards, suburban residences, etc., will soon give us the largest and finest city in the State.

—We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation, from Mr. Howard Rondthaler, to attend a Public Debate between the Philanthropic and Dialectic Literary Societies of the State University at Chapel Hill.

—The 22d of February was not observed as the regular holiday since it came on Sunday. The following Thursday was selected as the day and recitations suspended. The evening was characterized by the Mid-Winter Concert.

—Among the visitors during Easter were Mrs. Reed, of Wentworth, N. C.; Mrs. Dicks, of Randleman, N. C.; Mrs. Clark, of Yorkville, S. C.; Mrs. Trout, of Roanoke, Va.; Mrs. Leach, of High Point, N. C.; Miss Alexander, of Charlotte, N. C., DELLA DAVID, of Bennettsville, S. C., with several friends from that place, and a number of other friends whose names we failed to get.

DAVIS SCHOOL, WINSTON, N. C.,
March 23, 1891.

Dear Sir:—

As a committee of the Washington Literary Society of Davis School we have the honor of informing you of your unanimous election as an honorary member of this Society.

We hope you will accept the membership tendered you, and come to our meetings whenever convenient. We meet every Friday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Very respectfully,

H. M. AVENT,
J. W. THOMAS,
MARION FOLLEN.

Committee.

Rev. J. H. Clewell, Salem, N. C.

—Mrs. MOORE requests us to insert the following:

THE MANSE, CHARLOTTE, N. C.,
April 1, 1891.

I acknowledge, with thanks, a contribution of Five Dollars to the Ben-Oliel Jerusalem Mission, through Mrs. MARTHA MOORE, from the following young ladies of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY:

Miss LILLIE HODNETT, $1.00; Miss VIOLA DAVIS, .25c.; Miss MARY DONEGAN, $1.25; Miss MOLLIE NEELY, $1.25; Miss LENA CHAFFIN, $1.00.

"Ye that make mention of the Lord keep not silence and give Him no rest till He make Jerusalem a praise in the earth."

"Pray for the peace of Jerusalem; they shall prosper that love thee."

A. W. MILLER.

—Easter Monday was quietly spent, some of the pupils taking rambles in the woods, but the majority spent the day in the buildings.

Alumnæ Scholarship Endowment.

Mrs. C. H. Fogle, . . .	$ 5.00
Mrs. W. A. Lemly, . . .	10.00
Mrs. A. B. Gorrell, . . .	5.00
Mrs. Dr. Siewers, . . .	10.00
Mrs. E. E. Shelton, . . .	10.00
Miss Carrie Shelton, . . .	5.00
Previously acknowledged,	116.00
Total, . . .	$161.00

ALUMNÆ BADGES. — Mrs. Dr. H. T. Bahnsen has been requested by the Alumnæ Association to keep on hand a stock of the official badges of the Alumnæ Society. She will be pleased to give any information relative to price.

Address MRS. H. T. BAHNSON,
Salem, N. C.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupil only, and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1 Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

— I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!

1873.

5201 IDA HELENA VESTAL, — 1857.
5202 DELIA GOODLOE VESTAL, — 1856.
Calvin Vestal, Egypt, N. C.

5203 CARY PARKER, — 1861
J. H. Parker, Enfield, N. C.

5204 MARY A. NEIL, — 1859.
5205 ALICE H. NEIL, — 1862.
Major Sterling Neil, Fort Valley, Ga.

5206 EMMA KEY, — 1859.
5207 KATE KEY, — 1862.
Hon. D. M. Key, Chattanooga, Tenn.

5208 MINNIE T. JOHNSON, — 1859.
A. M. Johnson, Chattanooga, Tenn.

5209 JEMIMA VIRGINIA BLACKWELL, — 1858.
5210 ISABELLA ELIZABETH BLACKWELL, — 1860.
5211 MARY CAROLINE BLACKWELL, — 1864.
John B. Blackwell, Ruffin, N. C.

5212 EMILY S. EVERETT, — 1858.
Elisha Everett, Suffolk, Va.

5213 SALLIE C. BROWN — 1861.
W. C. Sanders, Speedwell, Va.

5214 MARY LIZZIE CLEMENT, — 1857.
J. M. Clement, Mocksville, N. C.

5215 ROBERTA REAVIS, — 1858.
Lucy D. Reavis, Henderson, N. C.

5216 JENNIE LAWSON, — — —
5217 SUSIE LAWSON, — — —
David Lawson, Harmony, Va.

5218 BESSIE D. ROBERTSON, — 1861.
Dennis Robertson, Madison, Ga.

5219 DORA WILLIAMSON, — 1861.
Dr. Jno. L. Williamson, Graham, N. C.

5220 MATTIE J. REICH, — 1859.
Owen A. Reich, Bonham, Texas.

5221 MATTIE ERWIN, — 1861.
Ambrose Erwin, Bethlehem, Pa.

5222 MARY L. GARLAND, — 1859.
John C. M. Garland, Jackson, Tenn.

5223 SALLIE ANN FULLER, — 1859.
A. G. Fuller, Danville, Va.

5224 ANNIE H. ROBINSON, — 1859.
R. R. Robinson, Danville, Va.

5225 ROSA STRELE LEDBETTER, — 1859.
Rev. R. S. Ledbetter, Rockingham, N. C.

5226 CELUDA P. GULLEDGE, — 1861.
Ristin H. Bennett, Wadesboro, N. C.

5227 MARGARET L. SPRATT, — 1858.
John Van Landingham, Charlotte, N. C.

5228 M. JENNIE JENKINS, — 1854.
D. A. Jenkins, Charlotte, N. C.

5229 ELLA JANE ARNOLD, — 1859.
Wm. Arnold, Jonesboro, N. C.

5230 FANNY C. BROWN, — 1857.
J. R. Brown, Greenville, Tenn.

5231 ALLENE G. HARGROVE, — 1858.
John Hargrove, Towhiesville, N. C.

5232 ROXIE BARRINGER, — 1857.
R. Frank Graham, Salisbury, N. C.

5233 NANNIE ZACHRY, — 1859.
Col. C. T. Zachry, Peachstone Shoals, Ga.

5234 LUTIE A. MITTING, — 1856.
W. H. Mitting, Atlanta, Ga.

5235 MINNIE F. MITTING, — 1858.
Jas. F. Mitting, Atlanta, Ga.

5236 M. EDDIE AMES, — 1856.
Levi D. Ames, Belleville, Va.

5237 MOLLIE MAGNOLIA DEAN, — 1866.
B. V. Dean, Greensboro, N. C.

5238 KATIE M. PENN, — 1860.
T. J. Penn, Penn's Store, Va.

5239 MARY AMERICA SPENCER, — 1860.
P. D. Spencer, Reidsville, N. C.

5240 LELIA D. WILSON, — 1858.
George Price, Danville, Va.

5241 MARY A. LYON, — 1859.
John Lyon, Richmond, Va.

5242 MARY E. GIBSON, — 1860.
F. B. Gibson, Old Hundred, N. C.

5243 ANNIE E. SANDERS, — 1858.
Isaac A. Blanton, Williston, N. C.

5244 HATTIE L. SMITH, — 1855.
John G. Smith, Williston, S. C.

5245 HATTIE ELIZABETH PATTERSON, — 1859.
Wm. G. Patterson, Shelby, N. C.

5246 SALLIE P. WATKINS, — 1859.
N. T. Watkins, Mt. Carmel, Va.

5247 LUCIE A. DILLARD, — 1860.
Dr. Jno. R. Dillard, Spencer's Store, Va.

5248 JULIA J. HARLEE, — 1860.
Dr. Wm. Harlee, Wadesboro, N. C.

5249 EMMA JONES, — — —
5250 CHRISTINA JANE JONES, — — —
5251 MARY LILY JONES, — — —
Albert Jones, West Bend, N. C.

Married.

In Selma, Ala., on the 5th ult., by Rev. Dr. H. D. Moore, Dr. GEORGE COURTS HOLLAND, of Bluefield, W. Va., to Miss SALLIE W. KENNON, daughter of Judge William F. Kennon, deceased.

Obituary.

From People's Press, Salem, N. C.

In the Sisters' House, in Salem, of which she was the oldest inmate, on Tuesday last, Miss ANNA JOHANNA STAUBER, at the advanced age of 80 years, 4 months and 13 days.

Miss STAUBER was highly esteemed, and in a quiet way did much good in this place and vicinity through the distribution of tracts, often in person, and latterly by the agency of friends. Very few who visited her but carried away some token, if only a card or booklet, yet a gentle reminder of Christian duty and the Saviour's love and mercy. Among the pupils of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY "Miss HANNAH" was a name remembered with the kindly reverence due an elder sister.

From Christian Index, Columbus, Ga.

Mrs. ANN J. SLADE was the wife of the late Rev. Thomas B. Slade. She was a native of North Carolina, born Feb. 16th, 1805, of French descent. Died in Columbus, Ga., Feb. 12th, 1891, aged 86 years. Early in life her parents moved to Georgia, and settled in Jones county, at a place called Blountsville, after her father. In 1820 she was sent to the Moravian school at Salem, N. C., to be educated. Here was laid the foundation of all her usefulness in after life, and the impress of that training will be felt for many generations.

Soon after her marriage she was called to assist her husband in educating the young. Feeling it to be her duty she did not shrink from the responsibility, but made her whole life a sacrifice for the good of others. "Whatsoever her hands found to do she did it with all her might." In her woe beautifully blended all the traits of a lovely Christian life. The Bible was her constant study. She often repeated it to admonish or advise. It was a lamp to her feet and a light to her path all through the long journey of life. It proved a stay and comfort to her as she walked "through the valley of the shadow of death." Among her last words were: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless his holy name." Her humility and unflinching trust in Jesus were manifested in her dying request: "Have nothing foolish said about me from the pulpit. I am nothing but a poor lost sinner saved by grace. Give my love to my pastor."

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs. Emma McRae, Clio S C; Miss Lizzie Hicks, Raleigh, N C; Mrs W G Wright, Columbia, S C; Miss Emma Rollins, Asheville, N C; Mrs W B Harris, Dandridge, Tenn; Miss Mary V Smith, Vanceboro, N C; Miss Alice Hill, Germantown, N C; Miss Susan V Hart, Tarboro, N C; Miss Nellie Griffiss, Chattanooga, Tenn; Mrs Mary B Roan, Yanceyville, N C; Mrs Susan A Hart, Jackson, Tenn; Mrs Dr R D Speight, Wrendale, N C; Mrs Jas B Minor, Greensboro, N C; Miss Lyda David, Bennettsville, S C; Mrs W W Barnard, Asheville, N C; Mrs W W Moore, Hampden-Sidney, Va; Miss Laura Dicks, Walkertown, N C; Miss Laura Wilson, Johnson City, Tenn; Mrs J McL Michael, Rutherfordton, N C; Miss Janie Sherille, Bennettsville, S C; Mrs Lona Martin, Eatonton, Ga; Mrs R A Ayers, Estillville, Va; Mr G R Shultz, Washington, D C; Mrs Leslie B Clark, Dallas, Tex; Miss Lavinia Rogers, Macon, Ga; Miss Minnie Farmer, News Ferry, Va; Miss Laura T Stokes, Danville, Va; Miss Ella Thompson, Greenville, S C; Miss Kate Pearsall, Morganton, N C; Mrs W H Cornelius, Statesville, N C; Mrs Loula Gibbs Kirke, Bentonla, Miss; Mrs C H Fogle, Miss Carrie Stockton, Miss Flora Lott, Mrs C S Hauser, Mr J L Brietz, Mrs G E Nissen, Miss Deisy Brooks, Mrs L M Fries, Mr J A Lineback, Mrs Dr J F Shaffner, Mr A C Vogler, Miss Annie Landquist, Mrs G H Rights, Mrs Addie Gruent, Mrs M E Jenkins, Mrs Rosa Norfleet, Salem, N C; Mrs R W Nading, Mrs A B Gorrell, Winston, N C.

SCHOULER'S
MILLINERY ESTABLISHMENT,
THIRD STREET, SOUTH OF COURT HOUSE.

WE HAVE SECURED ONE OF NEW YORK'S MOST SKILLFUL MILLINERS, AND THIS SEASON WILL CARRY A VERY LARGE STOCK OF FINE GOODS, AND GUARANTEE ENTIRE SATISFACTION IN STYLES AND PRICES TO ALL OF OUR CUSTOMERS.

WE THANK THE LADIES OF SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY FOR THEIR FRIENDSHIP AND PATRONAGE, AND WILL ALWAYS GIVE THEIR ORDERS "ESPECIAL ATTENTION

L. V. & E. T. BLUM,
SALEM, N. C.,

BOOKSELLERS, STATIONERS,
PRINTERS.

PUBLISH "THE PEOPLES PRESS,"
FARMER'S AND PLANTER'S ALMANAC.

General Job Printing executed with neatness
and dispatch. Try us.

Printers of Salem Female Academy's publications.

PRIVATE LESSONS

German, French, Latin and Mathematics

L. B. WURRESCHKE.

Apply for Terms. Feb. '91-6t.

USE

The Hammond Type-Writer.

For SPEED, DURABILITY and BEAUTY OF WORK it has no equal.

The SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, having tested it, has formally adopted the "HAMMOND," and recommends it where a first-class machine is desired.

For Catalogue and price write to
J. W. GANNON, Winston, N. C.

Gloves! Gloves!! Gloves!!!

SCHOULER'S MILLINERY ESTABLISHMENT

announces that after this date they will always have on hand a first-class line of

Harris's Celebrated Kid Gloves

FOR LADIES AND MISSES

in all colors, sizes and prices. These gloves are of finest kid and excellent fit, and are guaranteed to give satisfaction.

A NEW LOT OF HATS JUST RECEIVED, and our prices low as ever.

*Special attention given to all orders from
the Academy.*

WORCESTER'S DICTIONARY

"The highest authority known as to the use of the English language."

With or without Deolson's Patent Index.

The Standard of the Leading Publishers, Magazines, and Newspapers.

The Dictionary of the Scholar for Spelling, Pronunciation, and Accuracy in Definition.

Send for large Circular to the Publishers,

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY, PHILADELPHIA.

DAVIS SCHOOL.

Military Boarding School

FOR BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

Full preparation for any College or for Business. Healthy location; fine climate; mild winters; excellent buildings; Cadet Cornet Band; Cadet Orchestra; Resident Surgeon. No Charge for Medical Attention. No Extra Charge for Languages or Sciences. Department of Art. Full Course VERY LOW RATES. For Register with full particulars address

COL. A. C. DAVIS, Supt.,
WINSTON, N. C.

BELO-HOUSE.

Mrs. HANSLEY desires to state to the patrons and friends of THE ACADEMY that she has opened a first-class Hotel and Boarding House in the well known and popular former Belo House. This House is situated only one block from the ACADEMY; rates are reasonable, and accommodations pleasant and home-like in all respects. When you arrive at Salem be certain to go to the BELO HOUSE. For rates, day, week or month, address Mrs. HANSLEY, or THE ACADEMY. Jan, '90-1y.

"Bingham School

stands pre-eminent among Southern boarding Schools for Boys."—U. S. Bureau of Education.

"Combines more desirable qualities than any other with which I am acquainted." Lieut. J. B. Batchelor, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

"There exists not the equal of this School in my opinion." Capt. Henry Wygant, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

More than 100 pupils from other States, the largest number in a Southern School for boys from outside the State of location.

Address,

Maj. R. BINGHAM

Bingham's School, N. C.

WM. T. VOGLER,
JEWELLER,
Main Street, WINSTON, N. C.

Dealer in

WATCHES, CLOCKS, JEWELRY and SILVERWARE
HOLIDAY GOODS A SPECIALTY.
REPAIRING DONE PROMPTLY.

GRANDEST DISPLAY

OF

TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS,
LADIES' WORK BASKETS,
FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY
GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

A NICE LINE OF

OIL STOVES,
AT THE "BIG COFFEE POT,"
AT BOTTOM PRICES.

Our latest novelties are:

Pat Flue Stoppers, Picnic Mugs,
Star Safety Razors, Pie Lifters,
Perfection Cake and Pie Tins and Egg
Beaters, all at very reasonable figures.

We solicit a share of your patronage.

Very respectfully,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.,

TO THE PATRONS OF
SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by back in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't. Greensboro, N. C.      W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't Fayetteville, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
Salem Female Academy.

WHY

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway

is the BEST LINE for patrons from Salem, N. C., to Arkansas and Texas?

It is the Only Line that runs from Memphis to Arkansas and Texas Two Trains Daily.

Road Bed and Equipment are first-class. Sure connection by all lines from the East, and when sufficient to justify a Special Pullman Palace Car or Day Coach will be furnished for the exclusive use of the party, with an agent to escort to destination.

The same arrangements can be made to return from Texas or Arkansas to the School. For complete Itinerary of Route, address

A. A. GALLAGHER, Southern Pass. Agt. 103 Read House, Chattanooga, Tenn.

H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,
CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

CORNER OF THIRD AND MAIN STS.,

WINSTON, N. C.

OPPOSITE THE OLD STAND.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrodsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 35 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 11 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

— SOUTH —

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas; New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California. Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas Points, Anniston, Columbus, Montgomery, Mobile, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination. For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION CHAS. H. MILLS, Ticket Agt. C. S. BARRETT, T. P. A. Depot. Read House. D. J. MULLANEY, Div. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn. C. C. HARVEY, CINCINNATI, O. D. G. EDWARDS, Vice Pres. G. P. & T. A.

THE

“COTTON BELT ROUTE”

St. Louis, Arkansas & Texas Railway,
Carries More Pupils to and from Arkansas and Texas than all other lines to those States combined.

Why? Because this is the only line which has furnished, as promised, elegant chair cars direct from the school to the scholar's home, and from the home back to school without changes en route. These cars are fitted up for this class of travel exclusively with retiring and toilet rooms, accompanied by an attentive porter and in charge of an Agent of the Company, who sees that the car is reserved for the use of the pupils only.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us, patronized, subsequently, any other line.

This is the only line from Memphis running Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer in Memphis from Eastern Lines.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars, by

D. MILLER, General Pass. Agent.      E. W. LaBEAME, Ass't Gen. Pass. Agt. ST. LOUIS, MO.

H. W. Morrison, Gen. Agt.      S. G. Warner, Trav. Agt.      W. H. Winfield, Gen. Agt. P. Dept. Memphis, Tenn.      Memphis, Tenn.      Texarkana, Tex. W. G. Adams, Pass. Agent, Nashville, Tenn.

Schouler's Racket Store.

- Dore's Bible Gallery, 100 Engravings.
- Milton's Paradise Lost, 50 Engravings.
- Dante's Inferno, 75 Engravings.
- " Purgatory & Paradise 60 Engravings.

Any one of these books, which are large and beautifully bound, will be given to a member of the ACADEMY when the amount of her purchases in SCHOULER'S RACKET STORE reaches $20.00,—not in one bill, but in as long a time as you please.

This store is a veritable Bazaar, and contains Dress Goods, Shoes, Notions, Jewelry, Stationery, Cologne, Ribbons, Bags, Trunks, Underclothes, &c., and the prices are the lowest in the Twin-City.

FOUNDED 1851.

HORNER SCHOOL,
OXFORD, N. C.

FACULTY:

- J. H. HORNER, M. A., University of N. C. (Founder of School.)
- Col. J. T. DREWRY, Com'd't, Star Graduate Virginia Military Institute.
- J. C. HORNER, A. M., Davidson College.
- G. A. WAUCHOPE, M. A., Ph. D., University of Berlin, Late Fellow Wash. & Lee Univ.
- Rev. J. M. Horner, B. A., B. D., University of Virginia and Johns Hopkins University.

—* MISS EMMA L. LEINBACH, *—
(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANOS HANDLED.

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about $75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up. 155 Lexington Avenue New York.

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her to responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal. Salem Female Academy. Salem, N. C., Feb. 11, 1889.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA
SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Fourteen Hours and Forty Minutes Quicker

To Dallas, Fort Worth and Texas Pacific points than the New Orleans Long Line; 174 miles shorter to Dallas, and 200 miles shorter to Fort Worth. The shortest and best route for the tourist or invalid to the famous Eureka and Hot Springs of Arkansas. Woodruff Buffet Sleepers on all night trains, connecting with Through Sleepers in Union Depots for points in Texas and California.

Connections at Little Rock with Little Rock & Fort Smith Railway for Fort Smith, Morrilton, Clarksville, Ozark, Van Buren and the Indian Territory. This route has Through Palace Coaches and Pullman Combination Parlor and Sleeping cars, Memphis to Waco, Texas, without change, 150 pound  $\frac{1}{2}$  of baggage allowed to each whole ticket, and 75 pounds to each half ticket. Remember this is the Shortest, Quickest and Best route, and see that your ticket reads via The Memphis & Little Rock Railroad. For further information, regarding rates, schedules, maps and new Western Ry. Guide; write to R. A. WILLIAMS, G.S.-E.T.P.A., P.O. Box 236, Atlanta, Ga. S. W. TUCKER, G. Pass. & Ticket Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIII.

SALEM, N. C., MAY, 1891.

NUMBER 116.

PROGRAMME OF COMMENCEMENT WEEK.

- Friday Evening, May 29,
MISS EVANS' CONCERT.
- Sunday morning, May 31.
BACCALAUREATE SERMON by Rev.
Dr. MORRISON, Atlanta, Ga.
- Monday evening, June 1st.
SENIORS' FIRST EVENING.
- Tuesday afternoon, June 2d.
ART EXHIBIT.
- Tuesday evening, June 2,
SENIORS' SECOND EVENING.
- Wednesday morning, June 3.
COMMENCEMENT.
Address by Rev. WILLIAM H.
RICE, of New York City.
- Wednesday afternoon, June 3,
ALUMNÆ MEETING.
- Wednesday evening, June 3.
GRAND CLOSING CONCERT.

Episcopal Consecration.

THE consecration of Rev. EDWARD RONDHALER to the Episcopacy of the Moravian Church on Sunday morning, April 12, was an unusually impressive ceremony and witnessed by a large and sympathetic audience. Dr. RONDHALER has been identified with the Salem Moravian church since the year 1877, and was, for a number of years, in the dual position of Pastor of the congregation and Principal of the ACADEMY, at the present time being still identified with our Institution as a Trustee and a member of the Faculty. At the Provincial Synod last autumn, Dr. RONDHALER was nominated to the office of Bishop by a vote of the members of the Synod, and the nomination being confirmed, the Salem congregation extended an invitation to have the ceremony take place in the home church. Three Bishops being necessary in the consecration services, invitations were sent to Bishop H. J. Van Vleck, of Ohio; Bishops H. T. Bachman and J. M. Levering, of Pennsylvania, and Bishop C. L. Reinke, of Wisconsin. The first three accepted the invitation, and on the morning of April 12th the ceremony took place.

The weather was very bright and clear, and both the interest of the occasion and the freshness of the springtime seemed to invite everybody to the sanctuary. After all the possible available space in the edifice had been occupied, large numbers of the people were compelled to return to their homes for want of room. At 11 o'clock the clergymen of the Province entered the church from the vestry. Then came the three visiting Bishops with the candidate for the Episcopacy, the four being attired in the surplice worn on sacramental occasions.

Bishop Bachman conducted the opening portion of the services, making an earnest address to the congregation, marked with deep feeling, and which evidently "came from the heart and went to the hearts of his hearers."

At its conclusion the congregation joined in a hymn of praise, when the consecration sermon by Bishop Levering followed. The discourse was a powerful one, setting forth the distinctive features of the Episcopacy of the Moravian Church from the various standpoints. The validity and authenticity was dwelt upon; the necessity of it to preserve the right to existence as a separate and distinct denomination; the wonderful historical view when bishops were ordained "in spem contra spem," when only a hidden seed remained; the nobility of the long line of Bishops, numbering wise and brave and good men, men who were equally ready to lead in times of prosperity or suffer even unto the death in times of adversity; these and many other points were set forth by the speaker in his earnest and eloquent discourse.

Another hymn having been sung the charge was delivered by the venerable Bishop Van Vleck, who often faltered in his address, overcome by the flood of feelings which surged over him. He was a dear friend of Dr. RONDHALER's father, and in addition to this the town of Salem and the very church in which the services were being conducted teemed with sacred memories, hence with double earnestness the charge was delivered.

At the conclusion of this portion of the service the brother about to be consecrated to the Episcopacy knelt upon the cushion placed in front of the pulpit and the three officiating Bishops advanced, placing their hands upon his head. In slow and measured tones Bishop Van Vleck then repeated the form of consecration as follows:

"We consecrate thee, Brother EDWARD RONDHALER, to be a Bishop of the Church of the United Brethren, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost;

"The Lord bless thee, and keep thee;
"The Lord make his face shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee;

"The Lord lift up his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace;

"In the name of Jesus; Amen.

All then knelt, and an earnest prayer was offered for the newly consecrated Bishop, for the congregation he will minister to, and for the entire Church. With the pronouncing of the benediction the exercises were brought to a conclusion.

Throughout the entire service the utmost interest and attention were given by the vast congregation, and this added not a little to the solemnity of the occasion. The choir music was carefully selected and acceptably rendered. The floral decorations were chaste and beautiful, being chiefly white cut flowers. Nor should we forget the efficient company of ushers who so carefully provided for the immense company gathered within the sanctuary.

The many friends of Bishop RONDHALER who read THE ACADEMY will, we feel certain, heartily join us in congratulating him on this mark of trust and honor which the Church has imposed on him, and will also join us in wishing for him a long life of usefulness in the great vineyard of the Lord, in saving souls, and in promoting the temporal and eternal welfare of immortal souls.

Paper Read before Alumnæ Association at Last Meeting.

BY MISS FLORA LOTT.

I HAVE been asked to give some information on Alumni work, Class Re-unions, &c.,—how conducted, and what good may result from them. I have gleaned some items from our various colleges and universities which I will give.

At Chapel Hill, the meetings are of the Alumni as a body. They do not meet at any regular, stipulated intervals. There was a meeting of certain Alumni in Goldsboro, in March, without regard to class years, looking to the endowment of a new chair in the University (in History), proceedings not public. In almost every county in the State the Alumni are forming themselves into branch Associations in the interest of the University, with a view to raising the standard and protecting it against denominational colleges. The re-union of last Commencement was organized by classes, the rolls were called by the years of graduation and were responded to by such members of the classes as were present; speeches were made by these gentlemen as they rose, commemorative of their classmates, living and dead, of their old professors and of their day generally in Chapel Hill. A public dinner was provided at which the Alumni made their speeches more or less formal, all enthusiastic and interesting. Mrs. Spencer adds: "I hope old Salem will 'rise and shine' in June, and that her light will never be dim. It is a noble institution."

From Davidson College comes the message: "We have a large and pretty well established Alumnae Association. Meet every year two days before Commencement, call the roll by years to see who are present, have speeches, &c., reports of any deaths occurring during the year, and receive with much formality the out-going Senior Class into our numbers. We have also a regular orator on the day before Commencement, on a par with the Literary Societies' orators. The re-union consists of a supper, or more formal "banquet," with talk of old times and college days. A typical Class Reunion is that method of spending an hour or two by which they can most effectually recall old school days, awaken pride and renew interest whether it be at a 'banquet,' a musical entertainment, a 'reception' given by some resident friend or classmate, or a general 'autobiographical meeting.'"

At the University of Virginia there is a very strong Alumnae Association in the interest of the University. Many large cities as Richmond, New York, New Orleans, &c., have their local subsidiary branches of the general association, each having its own president, secretary, &c. At their Commencement is frequently held a big, formal Alumni banquet.

The Friends School in Providence, R. I., founded in 1784, organized an Alumnae Association in 1887, which has thus far been conducted very much as ours has: they think such meetings will promote social feelings and good fellowship, they may occasion such literary productions as will have permanent value, will create enthusiasm for the interests of the school, and they hope that it may lead the Alumnae being represented in some similar institutions, in the government of the School.

Haverford College, Pa., has an Alumnae Association to which all of the Alumnae belong, which keeps up and revives interest in the College. Then they have the classes of each year, which have special class reunions every three years, and every six years an elegant class dinner is given. Each class has a secretary, to whom every member of the class writes sometime during the Spring, telling what he has done during the year, and answering various personal questions: Have you taken any part in politics? Are you married? Is your wife dead? Where do you live? &c. A copy of each is sent to every member of the class, so that all hear from each other yearly. Sometimes a banquet is given to all of the Alumnae at a large hotel in one of the Northern cities.

Vassar College has a strong Alumnae Association, organized in 1869. It has been a great power and help to the College. The class feeling is deeply instilled while within the college walls, and the interest and association are kept up after they are separated, each class giving some memorial to the college upon leaving. They have branch associations in Chicago and various other places; they meet, and each year send a representative to the Alumnae meeting at the College to give a report of their work. Several years ago a committee was appointed to look through each department of the College and see where improvement and help was most needed. They found the greatest deficiency in Physical Culture, so the Association built and fully equipped a Gymnasium Hall. They have endowed several scholarships, and a small sum paid yearly from each member of the Association furnishes a fund for the assistance of girls of small means who are anxious to avail themselves of the advantages offered. All this has been done in the last ten years. Two of the Trustees of the College are from the Alumnae Association.

Now, the question comes: What shall our Alumni do for our honored old school? Let us pause a moment and take a glimpse of what she has done for the daughters of our dear and fair Southland. Only 19 years after peace was declared and we became a nation, before the people could possibly have recuperated from their brave and terrible struggle for liberty and independence, while mothers and wives were still living whose hearts were throbbing with pride and sorrow for husbands and sons who had given their blood for liberty, the Moravians of Salem thought of the girls, and commenced a school for them in 1802. It was long the only one in the South, and for almost a century, in days of prosperity and adversity, until now she has risen to be one of the grandest and most glorious nations that God's sun has ever shone upon, the school at Salem has quietly moved on, session after session, without one intermission, entirely self-sustaining, training and teaching the girls of our land how to become noble, useful women, and the women of what land have ever been nobler, truer, better or more charming home-makers than ours have been this century? Perhaps in the years which are to come some may arise who will be their equals but never their superiors. When war clouds arose in 1861 and strife commenced between North and South; when homes were broken up by invading armies; when parents scarcely knew where to turn for safety with their children; when our Southern boys were buckling on their swords and going forth to battle and to death, here, in quiet old Salem, a safe refuge and home was found for many and many a "rebel" girl. During the years of war there were as many as 250 girls here most of the time, and a kind principal and faithful, loving teachers did all in their power for their comfort. Those girls are our matrons now, and do they not feel that they owe something to their old ACADEMY? Again, when war ceased and our beautiful land was in deepest sorrow, the old ACADEMY moved on taking care of the girls. And, now, in peace and prosperity, when our future seems so bright, she is still doing her best. Do you see what a power for good this school has been, and how much we owe to her as a people? Here the highest types of moral and religious training are given; and Christ is taught always? It is wonderful how little sectarianism ever appears in the teaching here, — girls are taught the Gospel, not Moravianism. The homes and schools are a nation's heart; upon them depends its health, happiness and vigor; by them are sent out its warm, pulsing life-blood, or else through them it becomes dead and lifeless. When a parent has cared for his children through all the years of infancy, childhood and strong young man and womanhood, aside from love, is it not right for them to make the old age of that parent very full and beautiful? So, do not the grandmothers, mothers and daughters owe some tribute of love and respect to their Alma Mater? Let us try what the Alumni can do in the next 12 years, and how many gifts of her children's love our aged and faithful Mother can show on her 100th birthday, so that her powers for usefulness may be much larger and broader, and even a century hence she may be doing a wonderful work for the girls of our land. I believe in boys and girls being educated on their own soil and among their own people. Cannot there be some branch Alumnae Association organized in Texas, Alabama, Mississippi, or Florida? Are there any girls here to day who will volunteer to try and commence in their own States, and decide on some line of work? each branch trying to inspire deeper interest in the dear old ACADEMY.

Let us hope that the Association will add many to its numbers ere another year, for more than 5000 could be in our ranks. Suppose the Class of '90 appoint a reunion 4 years hence; let them act as hostesses that year, and do all that they can for the Alumnae as a whole, and perhaps this will be an incentive to deeper literary pursuits after leaving school. Wherever a member of our Alumnae Association, either in far-off Texas or among our own "tarheels," let it be known that she is a friend to all that is true, noble and good, and who always desires that education for our girls, whatever it may be, which will fit them best to fulfil the duties to which they have been God-ordained.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The stereopticon was again brought into use a number of times during the past weeks. DR. RONDTHALER invited the Senior Middle Class into the Laboratory early in the month and gave them an hour in connection with the Biblical Literature lectures. The views were as follows:

Introduction—Italian Fisher Boy.
Feed My Lambs.

Moses Striking the Rock.
Map of Palestine.
Bethel.
Jacob's Dream.
Nazareth.
Nazareth Girls.
Sea of Galilee.
Christ Stilling the Storm.
Joppa from the Shore.
Grotto of Jeremiah.
Samuel and Eli.

Mr. CLEWELL spent two evenings with an audience gathered from all parts of the school. The views were from those recently received from England. The first evening embraced the reading of Rip Van Winkle, with the following views:

Introduction—Girl with Cat. Statue by Epp.

Rip Van Winkle at Home. Colored.
His Perfect Contentment. "

Derrick VanBummie Reading the News. Colored.

Rip Van Winkle Waiting upon the Strange Soldiers. Colored.

After His Long Sleep. Colored.
Relating His Story.

The Haunts of Rip Van Winkle.
Sunset Rock—Catskill.

The Catskill Waterfall.

The Cascades of the Catskill.

Bastion Falls—Catskill.

Cascade Profile Rock.

Comic View—Bicycle Ride.

The second evening was devoted to a reading of a portion of Dickens' "Cricket on the Hearth," the views being as follows:

"She sat down before the kettle."

"O goodness, John, what a state you're in with the weather."

"Dot uttered a loud, sharp, sudden cry."

"He turned to shut the door."

"The stranger saluted the carrier's wife."

—From the Macon, Ga., Evening News we take the following:

"The floral tributes to the memory of Miss ANNIE HARRIS were numerous and very beautiful. There were two designs that were particularly exquisite and much admired. One was a tribute which bore this inscription: 'In loving remembrance from companions in the third department.' This was from classmates in the School at Salem, N. C. It was in the shape of a pillow, exquisitely made of the rarest flowers. It was composed of Easter and Calla lilies, La Marque and Marechal Neil roses, white daisies, smilax, spiral japonica and maidenhair ferns; surmounted by a white dove of natural size, with a sprig of green in its bill.

"The other design was a beautiful harp, a tribute from the classmates of the deceased at Wesleyan last year. It was composed of very lovely and choice flowers."

—We acknowledge an invitation to a banquet given by the citizens of Martinsville, Va., to celebrate the opening of the Roanoke & Southern Railway from Winston-Salem to Martinsville. A special train took the guests up to Martinsville, and the occasion was a success in every way.

—The Senior Class rings have been received. They were secured by Mr. W. T. Vogler, of our town, and are very fine specimens of work. The '91 is woven into the design in a very artistic manner. The class is to be congratulated on the success of their choice.

—The School Park appears to great advantage in the soft fresh green of the early springtime. It is difficult to say whether this soft tint of the early season after the sombre brown of the bare trees in Winter is more attractive than the dense shade of Midsummer, when the walks have all been covered with their dressing of white gravel and the fountains are plashing in the quiet of the noonday. At all times the School Park is a lovely and picturesque spot.

—Mr. CLEWELL made a hurried trip to Philadelphia and New York end of April, on business connected with the school.

—The concert given by Miss EVANS and a number of her musical friends in Winston, and later repeated in the School, was an enjoyable evening and a marked success.

—The Philharmonic Society gave an entertainment in Gymnasium Hall, April 25th and 27th, proceeds for the benefit of the Society. The occasions were both well patronized.

—Mr. FUNK is at present engaged in instructing a class in the Studio, and we are pleased to have this very great addition to the already busy department.

—We return thanks to the cadets of the Davis School for invitations to attend the Athletic Games, held under the auspices of the Athletic Association of Davis School, Thursday and Friday afternoons, May 7th and 8th, 1891.

—A party of Boston capitalists recently visited our places, and among other points of interest "took in" the ACADEMY.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., MAY, 1891.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.

Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—Articles in the Studio must remain till the close of the Art Exhibit. From this rule there will be no variation.

—Matters relating to railroad rates, hotels, boarding houses, etc., for visitors to Commencement will be furnished on application to Principal of the ACADEMY.

—Parents who intend withdrawing pupils before the exercises of Commencement week, are requested to allow them to remain in the school till May 29th, unless there is some special reason why they should leave sooner. Recitations close the evening of the 28th.

—We will be much pleased to have each patron inform us what route they desire pupils to use in returning home. This will enable us to secure through tickets and through checks, a convenience which is possible only in case we are notified in advance of the home wishes.

—There are sixteen Alumnae pins remaining on hand, and we have just received an offer from a friend whose money is invested in them, that for every one sold, (price $6) he will give the half ($3) to the Scholarship Endowment Fund.

The gift would amount to $48, could we not make an effort to secure their sale?

—Mr. FUNK has made a specially fine design for the frontispiece of our Catalogue, for programmes, etc. A graceful figure on the left of the page, representing the goddess of wisdom, is resting her arm on a shield, on which are the words "SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, N. C., 1802." Below the shield diminutive figures with the dignified classical cap and gown are eagerly scanning globes and charts, wielding brush and pencil, or critically examining the work of others; while at the top the little cupids with wings are engaged in striking harps, scattering flowers and giving themselves over to equally æsthetic occupations. We feel proud of thus having our own artist prepare our own design for the ACADEMY's publications.

The Close of Our School Year.

WHEN this number of THE ACADEMY reaches our readers the school year will have very nearly run its course. Looking back over its history we find much to be thankful for, much which causes us to rejoice, and some things which we would fain have had otherwise. Among the facts which give happiness to our friends and to us is the unusual prosperity which has shed its sunshine about the institution. The large number indicated in last year's Catalogue has been exceeded this year, and our prediction last September that the numbers would reach 350 will be very nearly or quite realized. Numbers alone, however, do not supply all that is needed. Hence we need to examine the work done. Here we find that each of the classes in the regular College Course is a little in advance of the same class last year; therefore, the standard is higher. In Music all the faithful workers are busy; the Art department has never had more or finer views as a result of pencil and brush in the hands of the pupils; the Language and Commercial departments are full, and the addition of the Cooking and Dress Making departments gives to us not only a fifth independent school about the large College department, but completes the circle of special studies within the institution. Certainly any one may now be satisfied and secure information in any educational field in SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Hence, we repeat, that as our year closes we have much to congratulate ourselves upon, and much of this is the result of the liberal patronage of our large and ever increasing circle of friends.

—The music for Commencement promises to be unusually fine. Both vocal and instrumental departments are filled with pupils, and from these departments a creditable stock of materials can be drawn. The grand chorus and the semi-choruses are being diligently drilled, and the excellent Salem Orchestra have consented to add their talent to the occasion. We anticipate an unusually enjoyable time, and it will pay you, kind reader, to come and see us.

—On the morning of May 4th, the special Essays were assigned for the class of '91. The Essay on the Class Motto will be read by SUSIE GULICK, of Washington, D. C., the Salutatory was assigned to AGNES BROWNSON, of Texas, and the Valedictory to LAURA WHITNER, of Florida. The following is a list of the names and addresses of the thirty-eight young ladies who compose the Graduating Class, and who will read essays at Commencement:

Georgia Baxter, Sparta, Ga.; Agnes Brownson, Cuervo, Tex.; Agnes Coleman, Sedalia, S. C.; Bettie Cox, Sedge Garden, N. C.; Dora Cox, Cedar Falls, N. C.; Eulalie Cox, Dunn, N. C.; Mamie Dryden, Fayetteville, Tenn.; Carrie Edwards, New Hill, N. C.; Rosa Ellis, Salem, N. C.; Lizzie Fritzgerald, North Danville, Va.; Lena Fields, Kinston, N. C.; Annie Green, Columbia, S. C.; Susie Gulick, Washington, D. C.; Bloomfield Gambill, Roanoke, Va.; Maud Harris, Reidsville, N. C.; Emma Hale, Clinton, S. C.; Bertha Hicks, Raleigh, N. C.; Ella Hinshaw, Winston, N. C.; Sue Heard, Elberton, Ga.; Edna Lindsay, Reidsville, N. C.; Eloise McGill, Fayetteville, N. C.; Fay McMullen, Marion, Va.; Annie Makepiece, Franklinville, N. C.; Kate Moses, Richmond, Va.; Virginia McMurray, Wadesboro, N. C.; Mattie Mason, Conclave, N. C.; Mary Miller, Goldsboro, N. C.; Bessie Ponder, Tuskegee, Ala.; Annie Reed, Wentworth, N. C.; Edna Russell, Gulf, N. C.; Sadie Sittig, Houston, Tex.; Lillian Thompson, Raleigh, N. C.; Blanche Thomas, Thomasville, N. C.; Bessie Thomas, Thomasville, N. C.; Ora Thomson, Gaffney City, S. C.; Carrie Taylor, Texarkana, Tex.; Lucy Waddill, Bennettsville, S. C.; Mattie Woodell, Raleigh, N. C.; Mary Watson, Winston, N. C.; Laura Whitner, Fort Reed, Fla.

—The Senior Middle Class are now competing for a gold medal in essay writing, the prize to be known as the "Alexander Hopkins Medal." Usually our Institution offers no prizes save the numbers gained in the class room work. But this is an exception in some respects, and hence the introduction. The entire class competes for the medal, furnishing four essays from each pupil. These essays are read before a committee of five, who decide upon the merits, without knowing by whom the work was done. In this way the successful competitor is selected, and the medal will be presented Commencement morning.

Correspondence.

—We were pleased to hear once again from our valedictorian of 1888 :

THE ACADEMY came to-night, and I see my subscription is out, so you will find $1.00 enclosed for two year's subscription. I always want my paper and hate to miss a single number, for my interest in my ACADEMY home increases tenfold with every improvement. I often wish I could make you all a visit during Commencement, and I hope each member of our class will think of it that we promised to have a remission in five years. I hope then, if not before, to come back.

DAISY CLISBY made me a visit this winter and we had delightful chats about Salem, of our ups and downs, all which seem like pleasures to us now, though then we thought them hard.

Young ladyhood is very nice, but I don't believe it is half as nice as being a school-girl. Excuse me if I have made my letter too long. I would so like to have a nice chat with you. Give my regards to Mrs. CLEWELL, the little folk, the teachers &c.

With sincere wishes for the prosperity of the dear ACADEMY,

I am, sincerely,

JEANIE REYNOLDS.

Aberdeen, Miss.

—The following is from a classmate of JEANIE REYNOLDS, NELLIE BEWLEY, now Mrs. Frierson :

Allow me first of all to acknowledge the receipt of your very highly appreciated letter of the 23d inst. I thank you and the authorities of the Alumnae Association for the honor conferred upon me. I shall favor you certainly.

I hope to be with you during the happy Commencement season. I have looked forward to a visit to the dear old ACADEMY ever since I left. I think Mr. F. would not mind going along himself, as Salem seems to hold a peculiar charm for him still.

Sister and I are deeply interested in a Literary Circle organized some weeks ago. We have over 20 members, and it promises to become a flourishing circle. We meet thrice a month, and discuss some author and his works, certain members having been selected at the previous meeting to read some of his best books, condense and then read to the circle. Each meeting is rendered more pleasant by musical selections from the best composers. It is the turn of sister and myself to furnish the music for our next meeting.

I spent three weeks with Lillie Scott Cansler in January. It was a charming visit. She has a lovely home and a fine baby boy. I was strongly tempted to run up and see you all.

Sincerely,

NELLIE B. FRIERSON.

Anderson, S. C.

—A short letter was also received from Mrs Kirke (LOULA GIBBS) :

Enclosed you will find my subscription for THE ACADEMY. It is a source of great pleasure to me. I am so glad to hear of the ever increasing prosperity of my Alma Mater. Please give my love to Miss SIEWERS and any of the teachers or friends who may remember me. I will never forget or cease to love them.

With best wishes, I am,

Yours truly,

LOULA GIBBS KIRKE.

Bentonla, Miss.

—Our next is from our warm-hearted friend of 1878, MAGGIE MCDOWELL :

You will please pardon my obtruding on your valuable time and patience. Nothing gives me more pleasurable pride than the title "Salem girl." I graduated there in 1878, and if I had a million of dollars at my disposal I should spend it all in sending worthy girls to the dear protecting arms of my Alma Mater. As it is I am a young Presbyterian minister's wife, and can only talk "Salem," act "Salem," and try to live "Salem," that in so doing I may in fluence those that have the means. How I wish I could join the Industrial Class! I was very anxious to come to your Easter celebration, but I shall have to wait until 1892. I have a sweet home, a consecrated husband, and my baby boy is just perfect, only he isn't a girl so he can come to Salem. Bessie Fagg Maxwell has a small preparatory pupil named Lois.

My best love to Misses VOGLER, SHAFFNER, LEHMAN and ANNIE PITTMAN, who will remember MAGGIE of '78.

Affectionately,

MAGGIE MCD. SILER.

Shelby, N. C.

—Miss KATE PADDISON, of the land of flowers and orange groves, appears in our little circle :

Yours of the 15th ult. was warmly welcomed. I had hoped to answer before the March winds had turned to April showers, but failed, and now May, the flower month, is nearly here. Of course it is only fancy, but it really seems as if the years were much shorter than when I was a child. I never get as much done as I want to accomplish. I get my ACADEMY regularly. I always read it, but, of course, I do not find it altogether as interesting, because so many of the girls are strangers to me this year. I suppose in a few years I shall be strange to most of them, for nearly all those who were in the primary class when I left will have graduated.

Our summer is upon us, but we do not suffer from the heat on account of the breezes. Last week we went over to the ocean and had a surf bath.

I think I shall take a vacation after this month. I want to go down to Eden and Jupiter during the pineapple season, and I fear if I delay too long the mosquitoes will be too thick to allow me to enjoy the trip.

Quite a number of our citizens have gotten up parties, and have gone in sail-boats across to the Bahama Islands. I would like to visit the islands, but think by next Winter we will have a good steamer service between Florida and the West Indies. I am not afraid of sail-boats, but it makes a very long trip, the winds are so often treacherous

This is a most beautiful Sabbath,—all Nature seems to be smiling. I have a very interesting Sabbath School class of 10 young men. We also have a Christian Endeavor meeting, so our Sundays are pretty well occupied. The two services, Sabbath School and Christian Endeavor, take about six hours.

Your pupil,

KATE PADDISON.

Titusville, Fla.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Warm weather has made its appearance.

—The open square in front of the school is receiving careful attention.

—Mrs. Heard is at present in Salem, and will remain until after Commencement.

—The Charlotte Musical Festival is in progress this week and promises to be a marked success.

—The office of the ACADEMY is now connected with the Telephone exchange, and will be a great aid to facilitate the transaction of business in our towns. The number of subscribers makes it possible to attend to almost any ordinary business without leaving the office.

—A dead limb, high up on one of the tall poplars in the park, was removed recently. The task was a difficult one.

—Our Annual Catalogue will be ready by the end of this month, and will be sent to all who may desire to examine the same.

—The Seniors are spending the hours for mathematics in field work, studying the use of the level, transit, surveyors' compass, etc. They seem to enjoy both the study and the fresh air.

—We call attention to Mr. A. Sussmann's adv. on another page. The ACADEMY has purchased goods from him for many years and has always found him to conduct a strictly trustworthy and honorable business.

—The fancy fish in Dr. Bahnson's pond are attracting much attention on the part of the friends of this gentleman. We expect much pleasure from the rare specimens of water lilies, and the Seniors are anxiously watching the buds to see if the doctor's usual kind favors on Commencement Day will be a part of this year's programme.

—The 5th, 7th and 8th Rooms spent a social evening with Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL on Saturday last. The 8th Room engaged in a match game entitled the "Doukey Party," SUSIE REYNOLDS winning first prize and AGNES ERWIN second prize. The 7th and 5th rooms had a test of skill at Faba Baga, the successful persons being FANNIE GRIFFITH and MARY CLARK. Cream, cake and fruit were then served and after a season spent in conversation and various social enjoyments the young ladies returned to the School. The company was a very happy one and the occasion seemed to be enjoyed by all.

Our Library.

—From the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, "Life and Writings of John Dickinson." Vol. 1.

—Through the courtesy of J. W. Thackston, Raleigh, N. C., we have received the following works, which while a new departure, in many respects commend themselves at once to any educator:

Physiology and Health, in Union Series. Vols. 1 and 2.

Hygiene for Young People. Pathfinder, No. 2.

Child's Health Primer. Pathfinder, No. 1.

American Book Co., N. Y.

Anne Clopton Harris.

Born August 15, 1873. Died April 14, 130 A. M.
Aged 17 years and 8 months.

ANNIE HARRIS entered the ACADEMY in September last, taking a course of special studies, her home being in Macon, Ga. She became much attached to her friends within the institution, seeming to enjoy the strict routine of school life and the improvement which she felt she was obtaining by her life in the ACADEMY. About two months ago a slight neuralgia or rheumatic trouble caused the physician to be called in, when, on examination, he discovered a valvular heart trouble of some length of time, which fact at once caused grave apprehensions. The friends at home were at once communicated with, and about a month or more ago one of the young lady's brothers came to see her. Having spent a few days with his sister he became satisfied that everything that faithful care could devise was being done for her, and as there were apparently many chances for her recovery he returned to his home. Daily communications were had between Macon and Salem, and the invalid for a time seemed to be improving. Serious illness in the family at home made it almost impossible for the mother to leave home. On Friday, April 10th, the disease began to indicate more decidedly alarming symptoms, and the mother was at once summoned. She was to have arrived on the evening train of the 12th, but being Sunday there is only one train a day, and hence Mr. CLEWELL drove across the country 18 miles, and at midnight began the return trip with the heavy-hearted mother. After a tedious and difficult journey the mother reached the bedside of the sufferer just one hour before consciousness fled. It was a great effort to make the night journey, but it was a very great comfort to be with the beloved daughter while she could still recognize and converse with her. The brother had also been summoned after it became evident that there was no hope of recovery. He arrived at midnight Monday, about an hour before his sister's death. At half-past one o'clock in the morning, without a struggle, the weary heart ceased to beat and the youthful spirit took its flight to the Saviour in whom she trusted and to the heavenly home prepared for those who trust in Him.

Living hands performed the last sad rites and on the following morning the sorrowing mother and brother started on their long journey to their southern home.

The calling home of this young life was keenly felt within the ACADEMY since, although our numbers are large, serious sickness and death rarely visit our school family. Within the past seven years only two other deaths have occurred, one, like the present instance, from heart disease, the other from a brain trouble. Hence the sorrow was deep and the sympathy for the mourning friends earnest and heartfelt.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupil only, and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1 Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

— I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!

1875.

- 5252 FANNIE C. SCOTT. — 1859.
5253 RHODA R. SCOTT. — 1861.
William Scott, Aspen Grove, N. C.
5254 BETTIE L. WADE. — 1857.
Robert Wade, Turbeville, Va.
5255 MOLLIE E. WILKINS. — 1858.
Wm. J. Wilkins, Turbeville, Va.
5256 PATTIE B. POWELL. — 1858.
Wm. J. Powell, Turbeville, Va.
5257 BETTIE COBB. — 1860.
H. W. Cobb, Ruffin, N. C.
5258 SALLIE MERCER. — 1856.
Dr. Jas. R. Mercer, Toisnot, N. C.
5259 MATTIE BARRON. — 1858.
B. B. Barron, Toisnot, N. C.
5260 FANNIE E. DILLARD. — 1858.
N. P. Dillard, Hawkinsville, Ga.
5261 MATTIE C. WILKINS. — 1860.
J. S. Wilkins, Hawkinsville, Ga.
5262 FLORENCE L. WATKINS. — 1863.
N. T. Watkins, Winston, N. C.
5263 SALLIE MERRITT SMITH. — 1857.
Mrs. M. Smith, Fair Bluff, N. C.
5264 MINNIE L. J. REID. — 1858.
W. W. Reid, Mt. Pleasant, N. C.
5265 MITTIE P. GLENN. — 1858.
Judge W. W. Glenn, Balesville, Ark.
5266 HASSIE JUDSON NELSON. — 1858.
P. P. C. Nelson, Johnson City, Tenn.
5267 MOLLIE O. LOVE. — 1859.
Col. Robt. Love, Johnson City, Tenn.
5268 CAMILLA GRACE NOBLE. — 1863.
O. J. Noble, Gold Hill, N. C.
5269 C. BETTIE KIMBALL. — 1855.
Rev. W. Kimball, China Grove, N. C.
5270 ALBERTA SMITH. — 1864.
Rev. D. Z. Smith, Friedberg, N. C.
5271 NANNIE J. FLAKE. — 1860.
F. B. Flake, Beverly, N. C.
5272 LULA A. CANNON. — 1862.
5273 LAURA A. CANNON. — 1864.
Judge R. H. Cannon, Webster, N. C.
5274 LULA BLACKBURN. — 1861.
5275 LELLA BLACKBURN. — 1864.
J. E. Blackburn, Grayson City, Texas
5276 ALICE W. WILSON. — 1812.
P. A. Wilson, Winston, N. C.
5277 KATE E. GROGAN. — 1860.
Martin Grogan, Winston, N. C.
5278 IDA M. PRICE. — 1864.
Martin Grogan, Winston, N. C.
5279 LULA A. CHAMBERLAIN. — 1862.
Dr. V. O. Thompson, Winston, N. C.
5280 MINERVA KYLR PACE. — 1866.
J. R. Pace, Rogersville, Tenn.
5281 FLORENCE NUNNALLY. — 1860.
5282 MAY L. NUNNALLY. — 1861.
5283 ALICE W. NUNNALLY. — 1863.
5284 EUGENIA S. NUNNALLY. — 1865.
J. H. Nunnally, Ruffin, N. C.
5285 NANNIE B. VOSS. — 1861.
Milton Voss, Danville, Va.
5286 LUCORA P. MORRIS. — 1860.
Milton Voss, Danville, Va.
5287 MATTIE E. HALL. — 1860.
5288 BETTIE F. HALL. — 1862.
J. H. Hall, Wentworth, N. C.
5289 KATE C. AREA. — 1859.
W. F. Area, Abbeville, N. C.
5290 KATE L. TOWNSEND. — 1859.
Jackson Townsend, Lumberton, N. C.
5291 GEORGIANA CARPENTER HENRY. — 1860.
J. P. Henry, Greenwood, Miss.
5292 FREDDIE T. WELCKER. — 1857.
5293 ELLLEN B. WELCKER. — 1859.
Wm. L. Welcker, London, E. Tenn.
5294 MOLLIE LOU ANDERSON. — 1859.
James C. Anderson, Gadsden, Ala.
5295 LITTLE A. CALDWELL. — 1858.
D. G. Holbrooks, Concord, N. C.
5296 LURA B. CALDWELL. — 1859.
D. S. Caldwell, Concord, N. C.
5297 KATE E. LYON. — 1859.
Wm. F. Lyon, Tally Ho, N. C.
5298 SALLIE A. GARNER. — 1858.
Robt. Garner, Franklinton, N. C.
5299 SUE C. BULLOCK. — 1861.
Jas. A. Bullock, Sassafras Forks, N. C.
5300 EMMA LOUISE MALONEY. — 1860.
W. C. Maloney, Warrensburg, Tenn.

Perfection of Railway Travel.

The inauguration, by the Baltimore & Ohio, Philadelphia & Reading and Jersey Central Railways of the famous "Royal Blue Line" between New York and Washington via Philadelphia and Baltimore, was an event of the greatest importance to travellers, and it is very gratifying to chronicle the great success and popularity it has attained. It deserves it fully for it is emphatically the best line ever run between the two cities. We say the best from personal experience, for we have travelled over it and its competing lines, and when we say that over the "B. & O." route the highest realization and perfection of railway travel is attained, we are but giving it just praise. Its trains are the safest, the finest and fastest in America and are "run on time." A vestibuled limited express, equipped so completely and luxuriously as to leave nothing to be desired, is run between New York and Washington in each direction in exactly five hours, which is not only the fastest time ever made between the two cities but is the fastest train in America, and the splendid road bed of the route permits the speed with perfect safety. One can realize what a fast train this is when it is considered that the distance from Jersey City to Washington is almost exactly the same as from Boston to New York, whereas six hours is the fastest time ever made between the latter cities. The Royal Blue Line's train from Jersey City to Washington performs the journey in four hours and forty-eight minutes. Notwithstanding the superior equipment and train service of this line, no extra fares are charged on any of its trains. Palatial day coaches accompany all its trains, open to the public at the regular fare, and only the usual charges are made for accommodations in sleeping and parlor cars.

There are six "Royal Blue Line" trains each way, daily, between New York and Washington. All of them are composed exclusively of vestibuled cars, protected by Pullman's anti-telescoping device, heated by steam and lighted by the Pintsch gas system.

We heartily recommend this route to all our readers, and advise them to take it and none other, for it is not only the best as regards speed luxury and equipment, but it exacts no extra charge on any of its trains.—Christian Leader.

Subscriptions Received.

Miss Octavia Wellons, Winston, N. C.; Miss Lula Cox, Sedge Garden, N. C.; Mrs. Frank Miller, Winston, N. C.; Misses Blanche and Lucile Armfield, Jamestown, N. C.; Miss Jeanie Reynolds, Aberdeen, Miss.; Mrs. Mary Horton, Salem, N. C.; Mrs. G. C. Holland, Bluefield, W. Va.; Mrs. J. A. Hadley, Liberty, N. C.; Mrs. J. W. Cates, Marysville, Tenn.; Mrs. Wm. Bitting, Sherman, Texas; Mrs. J. L. Minnaugh, Columbia, S. C.; Lieut. S. C. Lemly, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. D. W. Moore, Van Buren, Ark.; Miss Eliza Murphy, Academy.

PRIVATE LESSONS

—IN—German, French, Latin and Mathematics

—BY—
L. B. WURRESCHKE.

Apply for Terms. Feb. '91-61.

— USE —

The Hammond Type-Writer.

For SPEED, DURABILITY and BEAUTY OF WORK it has no equal.

The SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, having tested it, has formally adopted the "HAMMOND," and recommends it where a first-class machine is desired.

For Catalogue and price write to
J. W. GANNON, Winston, N. C.

SCHOULER'S
MILLINERY ESTABLISHMENT,

THIRD STREET, SOUTH OF COURT HOUSE.

WE HAVE SECURED ONE OF NEW YORK'S MOST SKILLFUL MILLINERS, AND THIS SEASON WILL CARRY A VERY LARGE STOCK OF FINE GOODS, AND GUARANTEE ENTIRE SATISFACTION IN STYLES AND PRICES TO ALL OF OUR CUSTOMERS.

WE THANK THE LADIES OF SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY FOR THEIR FRIENDSHIP AND PATRONAGE, AND WILL ALWAYS GIVE THEIR ORDERS ESPECIAL ATTENTION

DAVIS SCHOOL.

Military Boarding School

FOR BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

Full preparation for any College or for Business. Healthy location; fine climate; mild winters; excellent buildings; Cadet Corner Band; Cadet Orchestra; Resident Surgeon. No Charge for Medical Attention. No Extra Charge for Languages or Sciences. Department of Art. Full Course VERY LOW RATES. For Register with full particulars address

COL. A. C. DAVIS, Supt.,
WINSTON, N. C.

BELO HOUSE.

Mrs. HANSLEY desires to state to the patrons and friends of THE ACADEMY that she has opened a first-class Hotel and Boarding House in the well known and popular former Belo House. This House is situated only one block from the ACADEMY; rates are reasonable, and accommodations pleasant and home-like in all respects. When you arrive at Salem be certain to go to the BELO HOUSE. For rates, day, week or month, address Mrs. HANSLEY, or THE ACADEMY. Jan, '90-1y.

"Bingham School

stands pre-eminent among Southern boarding Schools for Boys."—U. S. Bureau of Education.

"Combines more desirable qualities than any other with which I am acquainted."—Lieut. J. B. Butcher, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

"There exists not the equal of this School in my opinion."—Capt. Henry Wygant, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

More than 100 pupils from other States, the largest number in a Southern School for boys from outside the State of location.

Address,
Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Bingham's School, N. C.

WM. T. VOGLER,
JEWELLER,

Main Street, WINSTON, N. C.

Dealer in

WATCHES, CLOCKS, JEWELRY and SILVERWARE
HOLIDAY GOODS A SPECIALTY.

REPAIRING DONE PROMPTLY.

GRANDEST DISPLAY

— OF —

TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS,
LADIES' WORK BASKETS,
FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY
GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

A NICE LINE OF

OIL STOVES,
AT THE "BIG COFFEE POT,"
AT BOTTOM PRICES.

Our latest novelties are:

Pat Flue Stoppers, Picnic Mugs,
Star Safety Razors, Pie Lifters,
Perfection Cake and Pie Tins and Egg
Beaters, all at very reasonable figures.

We solicit a share of your patronage.

Very respectfully,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.,

A COMPLETE ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT FOR $7.25

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVE. N.Y.

TO THE PATRONS OF
SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by back in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't. Greensboro, N. C.
W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't Fayetteville, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
Salem Female Academy.

WHY

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway

is the BEST LINE for patrons from Salem, N. C., to Arkansas and Texas?

It is the Only Line that runs from Memphis to Arkansas and Texas Two Trains Daily.

Road Bed and Equipment are first-class. Sure connection by all lines from the East, and when sufficient to justify a Special Pullman Palace Car or Day Coach will be furnished for the exclusive use of the party, with an agent to escort to destination.

The same arrangements can be made to return from Texas or Arkansas to the School.

For complete Itinerary of Route, address

A. A. GALLAGHER,
Southern Pass. Agt.

103 Read House, Chattanooga, Tenn.

H. C. TOWNSEND,
G. P. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,
CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

CORNER OF THIRD AND MAIN STS.,
WINSTON, N. C.

OPPOSITE THE OLD STAND.

NORTH.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrdsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 35 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 11 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England. Points and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

SOUTH.

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas; New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California. Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas. Points, Aniiston, Columbus, Montgomery, Mobile, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination.
For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION, CHAS. H. MILLS, Ticket Agt. C. S. BARRETT, T. P. A. Depot. Read House.
D. J. MULANEY, Div. Pass Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
C. C. HARVEY, CINCINNATI, O. D. G. EDWARDS, Vice Pres. G. P. & T. A.

THE

"COTTON BELT ROUTE"

St. Louis, Arkansas & Texas Railway,

Carries More Pupils to an from Arkansas and Texas than all other lines to those States combined.

Why? Because this is the only line which has furnished, as promised, elegant chair cars direct from the school to the scholar's home, and from the home back to school without changes en route. These cars are fitted up for this class of travel exclusively with retiring and toilet rooms, accompanied by an attentive porter and in charge of an Agent of the Company, who sees that the car is reserved for the use of the pupils only.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us, patronized, subsequently, any other line.

This is the only line from Memphis running Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer in Memphis from Eastern Lines.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars, by

D. MILLER, General Pass. Agent.
E. W. LaBEAUME, Ass't Gen. Pass. Agt.
ST. LOUIS, MO.

H. W. Morrison, Gen. Agt. Memphis, Tenn.
S. G. Warner, Trav. Agt. Memphis, Tenn.
W. H. Winfield, Gen. Agt. P. Dept. Texarkana, Tex.
W. G. Adams, Pass. Agent, Nashville, Tenn.

Schouler's Racket Store.

Dore's Bible Gallery, 100 Engravings.
Milton's Paradise Lost, 50 Engravings.
Dante's Inferno, 75 Engravings.
" Purgatory & Paradise 60 Engravings.

Any one of these books, which are large and beautifully bound, will be given to a member of the ACADEMY when the amount of her purchases in SCHOULER'S RACKET STORE reaches $20.00,—not in one bill, but in as long a time as you please.

This store is a veritable Bazaar, and contains Dress Goods, Shoes, Notions, Jewelry, Stationery, Cologne, Ribbons, Bags, Trunks, Underclothes, &c., and the prices are the lowest in the Twin-City

FOUNDED 1851.

HORNER SCHOOL,
OXFORD, N. C.

FACULTY:

J. H. HORNER, M. A., University of N. C. (Founder of School.)
Col. J. T. DREWRY, Com'd't, Star Graduate Virginia Military Institute.
J. C. HORNER, A. M., Davidson College.
G. A. WAUCHOPE, M. A., Ph. D., University of Berlin, Late Fellow Wash. & Lee Univ.
Rev. J. M. Horner, B. A., B. D., University of Virginia and Johns Hopkins University.

→* MISS EMMA L. LEINBACH,*←

(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANOS HANDLED.

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about $75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up. 155 Lexington Avenue New York.

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her for responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Salem Female Academy.
Salem, N. C., Feb. 11, 1889.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA

SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Fourteen Hours and Forty Minutes Quicker

To Dallas, Fort Worth and Texas Pacific points than the New Orleans Long Line: 173 miles shorter to Dallas, and 200 miles shorter to Fort Worth. The shortest and best route for the tourist or invalid to the famous Zurka and Hot Springs of Arkansas. Woodruff Buffet Sleepers on all night trains, connecting with Through Sleepers in Union Depots for points in Texas and California. Connections at Little Rock with Little Rock & Fort Smith Railway for Fort Smith, Morrilton, Clarksville, Ozark, Van Buren and the Indian Territory. This route has Through Palace Coaches and Pullman Combination Parlor and Sleeping cars, Memphis to Waco, Texas, without change. 150 pound<sup>9</sup>/<sub>16</sub> of baggage allowed to each whole ticket, and 75 pounds to each half ticket. Remember this is the Shortest, Quickest and Best route, and see that your ticket reads via The Memphis & Little Rock Railroad. For further information, regarding rates, schedules, maps and new Western Ry. Guide, write to R. A. WILLIAMS, G. S., E. T. P. A., P. O. Box 236, Atlanta, Ga. S. W. TUCKER, G. Pass & Ticket Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIII.

SALEM, N. C., JUNE, 1891.

NUMBER 117.

COMMENCEMENT, 1891.

IT is Friday morning. The last examination has closed. The last Chapel service is at an end. The Senior Middles have received their "cards," and are formally greeted as the Seniors of '92. As you pass through the long halls it is impossible to fail to recognize the fact that Commencement is here. You are greeted here and there with a shriek, which may startle you at first, but you see on turning that one of the girls has just recognized papa and mama standing in the doorway and makes a frantic rush in that direction. Here, perhaps, are tears, for the 'bus is at the door, and two friends are about to be parted, perhaps forever. The very walk and expression of the inmates of the Institution betoken the fact that Commencement is here. Pass on to the Park, and the large number of patrons and strangers say the same thing; as they are seated in pavilion or beside fountain, or stroll here and there in the glens or on the hillsides. The offices and parlors are constantly filled, while the telephone is busy and messengers are hurrying to and from the same. Step in the large Moravian church and an unwonted sight greets you. One-third of the front is taken up with a mammoth platform, rising in tiers, and fitted out for all the needs of the occasion. There is the reporters' section, and near them a Western Union telegraph instrument, busily clicking away. The Seniors have their section, the orchestra, the chorus, all are provided for, and above shine clusters of brilliant electric lights beneath mirror reflectors, shedding at night a perfect glory of soft yet powerful light on the audience and performers. Yes, Commencement is here, and we will try to briefly tell our readers of the experiences of this happy and successful week. First, let us give you the list of the occasions:—

Friday, May 29, 8 P. M., Miss Evans' Concert.

Sunday, May 31, 10:30 A. M., Baccalaureate Sermon.

Monday, June 1, 8 P. M., Seniors' First Evening.

Tuesday, June 2, 3 P. M., Art Exhibit.

Tuesday, June 2, 8 P. M., Seniors' Second Evening.

Wednesday, June 3, 9 A. M., Commencement.

Wednesday, June 3, 3 P. M., Alumnae Meeting.

Wednesday, June 3, 8 P. M., Grand Concert.

We propose this year in giving our sketch to vary our usual custom, and let some of our visitors give their impressions of the various entertainments. Concern the first—

MISS EVAN'S CONCERT

—the Twin-City Daily Sentinel says:

"The programme rendered was a most interesting and attractive one and the delighted audience greeted with hearty applause the charming young artists in every piece they sang. The most careful and perfect training was clearly noticeable in the cultivated voices of each lovely singer and reflects the highest credit and praise not only upon the thorough instruction of the teacher and successful effort of the pupils, but upon this famous institution of learning so deservedly popular and renowned throughout our land."

The programme rendered is as follows:

1 Piano Duo, Bal Costume, Polonais and Polonaise, Rubinstein; Misses Julia White and Eldred Mallory. 2 Chorus, Merry June, Vincent; Soloists—Misses Agnes Siewers, Carrie Bahnson, Sallie Hyman and Daisy Schoolfield. 3 Piano Solo, Scherzo, Op. 39, Chopin; Miss Etta Brown. 4 Vocal Solo, Liete Signori, Huguenots, Meyerbeer; Miss Mary Watson; 5 Violin Solo, Largo, Handel; Miss Florence Settle. 6 Vocal Quartette, The Little Bird, Soederburg; Solo—Miss Etta Shaffner. 7 Piano Duo, Moses in Egypt, Rossini; Misses E. Hege and A. Fogle. 8 Vocal Solo, Fleur des Alpes, Wekerlin; Miss Maud Robbins. 9 Piano Solo, Spinning Song, Mendelssohn; Miss Sue Heard. 10 Vocal Duet, Nena Mia; Misses Settle and Jones. 11 Piano Duo, Amaryllis, Air Louis XIII, Dressler; Misses F. Conrad and C. Bahinson. 12 Vocal Quartette, Ave Maria, Mendelssohn; Loreley Club, Solo—Miss Maud Robbins. 13 Violin Solo, Air from Don Giovanni, Mendelssohn; Miss A. Mallory, accomp. Miss E. Mallory. 14 Vocal Solo, Grand Aria from Traviata, Verdi; Miss Florence Settle. 15 Piano Solo, Impromptu, Op. 66, Chopin; Miss Mary Watson. 16 Vocal Trio, The Lonely Rose, Hermes; Misses Shaffner, Settle, Fields, Robbins, Butner and Bl. Thomas. 17 Piano Solo, Walter's Preis Leid, Wagner; Miss Addie Miller. 18 Piano and Guitar, Romeo and Juliet, Bellini; Misses Hesia Yancey, Ora Thomson and Lily Yancey. 19 Vocal Trio, The Cuckoo, Hiller; Misses Butner, Goslen, Shaffner, Settle, Burgess, Peterson, Bl. Thomas, Watson and Robbins. 20 Piano Solo, Les Clochettes, Hoffman; Miss Laura Reid. 21 Vocal Quartette, Now is the Month of Maying, Morley. 22 Piano Duo, Valse No. 1, Chopin; Misses Rosa Ellis and Eula Cox.

One of the pleasing features of the occasion was the presentation of Groves' Musical Dictionary to Miss Evans by the pupils. Miss Evans has done good and faithful work within the school for three years, and withdraws this year to accept a responsible position in the New York Conservatory of Music. Her success in voice production and voice training will long be remembered, and we feel confident that she will conduct a successful work in her new field. This closing concert is considered one of her most brilliant efforts, and THE ACADEMY'S best wishes go with her.

COMMENCEMENT SUNDAY.

From the People's Press we clip the following:

"Last Sunday the ushers of the Moravian church were taxed to their utmost to find seats for the people who crowded the spacious edifice. The pupils of the ACADEMY occupied the large platform at the east end of the church. The decorations were composed of beautiful creamy and pink pond lilies (the gift of Dr. Bahnson), which together with the drapery of blue and silver, the Class colors, had a pleasing effect in connection with the bright faces of the young ladies. The services were opened by Rev. J. H. Clewell, Principal of the ACADEMY, followed by congregational singing. Bishop Rondthaler read the regular Church Litany, Principal Clewell reading the lessons of the day.

The Choir (Prof. Edward W. Leinbach at the organ), assisted by the Salem Orchestra, then sang Handel's glorious Hallelujah, thrilling the audience with enthusiasm, a fit preparation for the grand Baccalaureate Sermon which followed."

From the Winston Republican we copy:

"The sermon was delivered by Rev. H. C. Morrison, D.D., of Atlanta, Ga., who selected as his subject, "Woman as a factor in the redemption of her race," selecting as his text, Exodus, 35th chap., 25 and 26th verses: "And all the women that were wise hearted did spin with their hands and brought that which they had spun, both of blue and of purple and of scarlet and of fine linen. And all the women whose hearts stirred them up in wisdom spun goats' hair." The sermon was eloquent and practical, was listened to with marked attention, and was calculated to leave a deep impression upon his hearers. The discourse was classified as follows: True womanhood in private life; southern womanhood, through suffering, has reached a higher plane of usefulness; heart power; work of women is unostentatious; truth and fidelity and trend of a true life work; life qualities that are imperishable; frivolity of fashion; unselfishness; home the true realm of woman; the law of activity; character of her work; the true aim of life is usefulness not happiness. Dr. Morrison closed with a recital of Charles Mackay's beautiful poem, 'Tell me, ye winged winds,' as illustrative of many thoughts presented.

"At the close of this powerful sermon Miss Katharine W. Evans beautifully rendered Marsh's 'The Lord is my Light,' soprano solo, and the services were closed with the benediction."

SENIORS' FIRST AND SECOND EVENINGS.

The Institution endeavors to introduce to the gathered audience each of the young ladies who have acceptably completed the prescribed course of study. This is done on what are called "Seniors' Evenings," when each pupil in turn reads a short, carefully prepared essay, the readings being interspersed with music. The Raleigh News and Observer says of one of these evenings:

"Eighteen essays were read by eighteen members of the class, and every one was well written and well read. The exercises were brilliantly interspersed by vocal and instrumental selections that added much to the attractiveness of the occasion. The essays to-night were read by representatives from nearly every Southern State, many being from our own North Carolina."

The correspondent of the United Press, which we copy from the Raleigh Chronicle, says:

"The essays showed great originality of thought and what is almost as important were so clearly read as to be a source of pleasure to the audience."

The programme we give in full:

SENIORS' FIRST EVENING.

Piano Duet, Polonaise Herodique, Rive-King; Misses M. Lewis and M. Stockton. Piano Solo, Les deux allonettes, Leschetitzky, Miss C. Greer.

All Things Change Here, Miss Emma Hale. Our Futurity Books, Miss Lizzie Fitzgerald. What Can Woman Do, Miss Annie Green. Fancy's Fabric, Miss Bertha Hicks.

Vocal Quartette, Swiss Love Song, Moir; Misses Robbins, Peterson, Settle, Chaffin, Butner, Burgess, Bl. Thomas and Watson. Piano Duet, Faust, Lange; Misses A. Stallings and L. Ball.

If We Rest We Rust, Miss Mamie Dryden. "Into Each Life Some Rain Must Fall, Some Days be Dark and Dreary," Miss Lena Fields. A Casket of Gems, Miss Lucie Waddill. Self-Control, Miss Edna Lindsay.

Vocal Solo, The Flower Girl, Bordese; Miss L. Burgess. Piano Solo, Fantasie Etude, Perillo; Miss T. Stockton.

Nothing but Leaves, Miss Kate Moses. Blunders, Miss Bettie Cox. A School Girls' Ingenuity, Miss Georgia Baxter. King's Treasures, Miss Annie Makepeace.

Vocal Trio. Oft in the Stilly Night, Vogrich; Misses Butner, Peterson and Bl. Thomas.

Much Said, Little Done, Miss Sadie Sittig. The Loom of Gossip, Miss Eloise McGill. There's Danger In Delay, Miss Agnes Coleman. The First Step, Miss Rosa Ellis. Make the Best of Everything, Miss Blanche Thomas.

Piano Solo, Polacca Brillante, Bohm; Miss B. Wood. Piano Duet, La Gracieuse, Bohm; Misses E. Kapp and H. Read.

SENIORS' SECOND EVENING.

Piano Duet, Spanische Taenze, Op. 12, Moskowski; Misses L. Burgess and L. Waddill. Piano Solo, Valse, E flat, Durand; Miss E. Hege.

Beyond Salem Lies Winston, Miss Mary Watson. The Cultivated Mind a Source of Pleasure, Miss Dora Cox. Sunshine and Shadow, Miss Bessie Thomas. The Olden Time, Miss Mattie Mason.

Vocal Solo, To Sevilla, Dessauer; Miss M. Peterson. Piano Duo, Freischuetz, Weber; Misses A. Lineback and E. Murphy.

The Face an Index of the Mind, Miss Carrie Edwards. School Ornithology, Miss Lillian Thompson. The Hypatia of the 5th Century and the Hypatia of the 19th, Miss Sue O. Heard. The Utility of a Dude, Miss Mattie Woodell.

Vocal Solo, Romance from Zenire and Azor, Spohr; Miss J. White, Guitar - Miss F. Settle. Piano Duo, Charge of Cavalry, Galop, Wels; Misses L. Fitzgerald and M. Harris.

Cranks, Miss Annie Reid. Hastening Slowly, Miss Ora Thomson. Domestic Troubles, Miss Fay McMullin. Our Southland, Miss Ella Hinshaw.

Piano Duo, Tripping thro' the Daisies, Sudds; Misses E. McGill and A. Nimocks. Vocal Duo, La Regata, Rossini; Misses Settle and Jones.

The Power of Trifles, Miss Bessie Ponder. Superstition, Miss Virginia McMurray. Troubled Waters Make Sweetest Music, Miss Maud Harris. Little Torches, Miss Eula Cox.

Piano Duet, Valse Brillante, Schulhoff; Misses E. Clarke and M. Farley.

THE WORKERS' BANQUET.

After the exercises of the first evening, a banquet was tendered to all those who aided in making the Commencement a success. A correspondent of the Salisbury Watchman thus writes:

"At the conclusion of the exercises of the Seniors' First Evening, there was a delightful banquet held in the large dining-room of the ACADEMY, given by the Principal, Trustees and Senior Class complimentary to the workers and friends of the School, namely, the reporters, telegraph operators, electric light officials, railroad officials, musicians, ushers, and, in fact, all friends who contributed in any way toward the best interests and promotion of this splendid school. About 200 beautiful invitations had been previously issued and accepted, and when the guests were seated at the well filled and handsomely decorated tables, the room brilliantly illuminated with various colored lights, the scene presented was a most striking one. Elegant refreshments, innocent mirth, and appropriate toasts given and happily responded to was the order of the evening, and every one present heartily enjoyed the pleasant little speeches and the graceful courtesies of Principal Clewell, the genial and cultivated host, as well as the royal feast so lavishly spread before them.

It was an occasion that will not soon be forgotten by the happy participants. These banquets given annually on the Seniors' First Evening are always largely attended, clearly demonstrating that strong forces are ever at work in the continued upbuilding and sustaining of this grand old seat of learning."

Short addresses were made by Capt. Goslen, Messrs. Buford, Ormsby, Ebert, and Rev. W. H. Rice.

ART EXHIBIT.

The Art Exhibit was given in South Hall, Tuesday afternoon, and was largely visited. The pupils were present in the morning and the patrons in the afternoon. A correspondent of the Richmond Times says of this feature:

"This was another notable day for Salem's noble old educational institution. The doors of the art rooms were thrown open for the inspection of visitors. The exhibits of handiwork were exquisitely beautiful and received many words of praise from every attendant."

In connection with the Art Exhibit were specimens of work both of the Industrial and Commercial Departments. Miss Lehman, Miss Lou Shaffner and Miss Sallie Shaffner are in charge of this department.

The gold thimble, offered by Miss Gertrude Siewers, who has charge of the Industrial Department, as well as of the Studio, was won by Miss Almeida McGregor, of Waco, Texas. The Studio, in addition to the special work done by Prof. Funk, has received the additional advantage of a $1000 donation added to the Louise Fund. All these departments evinced a degree of prosperity satisfactory and pleasing to every one who examined the results as shown in the exhibits.

ALUMNAE MEETING

has been reported in a special article, which see on page 620.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

From the People's Press we clip the following:

"To the lively strains of Leutner's 'Fest Overture,' by the Salem Orchestra, the Speakers, Officers, Graduates and invited friends filled the east end of the church.

"Bishop Van Vleck read a Scripture passage.

"Rev. R. P. Leinbach offered up a fervent prayer.

"Miss Agnes Brownson, of Texas, read a well written Salutatory.

"Miss Susie Gulick, of Washington, D. C., read the Honor Essay.

"Miss Evans' vocal solo, "On Mighty Pens," from Haydn's Creation, was a fine piece of singing.

"Rev. William Henry Rice, of New York City, then delivered the address. The speaker earnestly directed the graduating class to a religious life as the most satisfactory. What is more pleasant than the review of a well-spent life! The world's pity has often been expressed when a bright and cultivated mind goes out in the mission field, or some other christian work, but the reward comes such as the world cannot give. He did not mean a nun-like life, but a working life full of energy, 'In His Name.' It was an address calculated to awaken the best feelings, and will long be remembered by the graduates.

"Bishop Roudthaler then delivered a touching farewell address worthy of the occasion, and presented the diplomas to the regular and special graduates. Miss Marguerite DuFour, of Switzerland, received the degree of A. B.

"Principal Clewell's farewell remarks were earnest and exhibited a feeling worthy of the head and heart of the speaker, and no doubt touched a responsive chord in the hearts of the graduating class.

"The Alexander Hopkins Memorial Medal (which was described last week) was awarded to Miss Mary Clark, of South Carolina and the Art Thimble to Miss Almeida McGregor, of Texas.

"The Valedictory was read by Miss Laura Whitner, of Florida. The address was full of tender allusions to the past and brave thoughts for the future. She seemed ready to launch her boat on the voyage of life with a knowledge of its uncertainties, yet a calm determination to go forward. That she and the whole class may realize all their fond hopes was no doubt the wish of all present.

"The Class Song, 'Farewell,' words by Anderson, music by Prof. Markgraff, was then beautifully sung by the graduates.

"The Orchestra then played the Bridal Chorus, from Wagner's Lohengrin.

"The result of the year's work in the ACADEMY is most satisfactory. The number of pupils was the largest for many years, being 356. There is probably only one year, during the war, when the number of boarding pupils was larger."

GRAND CONCERT.

The closing Grand Concert witnessed a gathering of friends such as is seldom seen in our towns. The church was more than crowded, it was packed, even the open spaces around the building were filled, and hundreds returned home. This concert was under the special care of Prof. Markgraff, who has spent an unusually successful year within the Institution, and is rapidly winning for himself a position as one of the first musicians in the South. The programme is as follows:

1 Grand Chorus. March and Chorus from Tannhauser, Wagner; Choral Class and Orchestra. 2 Piano Solo, Valse de l'Opera, Faust; Gounod-Liszt; Miss Florence Settle. 3 Vocal Solo, Heaven hath shed a tear, Kuecken; Miss Bl. Thomas. 4 Violin Solo, Air from Opera Masaniello, Auber; Violin, Miss E. Mallory, Accomp. Miss J. White. 5 Piano Solo (for left hand only), Isolee, Ravina; Miss Emma Hale. 6 Semi-Chorus, Dragon Flies, Bargiel. 7 Piano Solo, Polonaise in E Major, Liszt; Miss Maud Robbins. 8 Violin Solo, The Red Sarafan, Russian Melody; Violin, Miss C. Ollinger, accomp., Miss Anna Hames. 9 Piano Solo, Rigolotto, Verdi-Liszt; Miss Lula Hege. 10 Vocal Solo, Bell Song, Lakme, Delibes; Miss Anne Jones. 11 Piano Quartette, Coronation March, Meyerbeer; 1 Piano—Misses A. Brownson and E. Hale; 2 Piano—Misses M. Mason and S. Heard. 12 Violin Quartette, Gavotte, Clark; Misses C. Ollinger, H. Yancey, V. Foster and A. Hames. 13 Vocal Duet, Greeting, Mendelssohn; Misses Maud Robbins and Bl. Thomas. 14 Piano Solo, Spring Song, Mendelssohn; Miss B. Morgan. 15 Vocal Quartette, Legends, Moehring; Misses Settle, Jones, Robbins and Bl. Thomas. 16 Piano Duet, Carmen March, Sjoberg; Misses L. Reid and M. Simmons. 17 Vocal Solo, Carneval de Venice, Benedict; Miss Katharine W. Evans. 18 Piano and Organ, Grand Fantasie from Lohengrin, Wagner; Piano—Miss C. David, Organ, Miss A. Hames.

Part II. The Feast of Adonis. For Soli and Chorus. By Adolf Jensen.

Soli—Misses Katharine W. Evans, Annie Jones and Florence Settle. Accompanist—Miss Amy VanVleck.

Tenors—Messrs. F. H. Vogler, A. Lichtenhaler, W. H. Chick, W. Boyd, W. Crist, P. J. Brance.

Basses—Messrs. J. N. Atwater, E. A. Ebert, A. Hanser, W. J. Newton, Jr., H. L. Taylor, Mason, W. Spaug, R. Spaug, W. Shets, H. Crist.

Salem Orchestra—1st Violin, Professor Robert Carmichael, W. P. Ormsby, J. L. Butner; 2d Violin, W. E. Lineback, E. Butner; Viola, B. Wunreschke, J. Seaber; Violoncello, Prof. F. W. Lineback, L. B. Brickenstein; Basso, B. J. Pfohl; Flute, Kenneth Pfohl; Clarinet, Prof. Portis, of Davis Military School, W. J. Peterson; Cornet, S. T. Mickey, Jas. Peterson; French Horn, Sam'l Pfohl; Trombone, H. F. Mickey.

In addition to the points given we would call attention to the following points of interest connected with Commencement:

1. The beautiful and rare water lilies which added so much to the beauty of the stage adornment, both Sunday and Wednesday, were presented by Dr. Bahnson. The Doctor makes a specialty of rare water flowers, and his Victoria Regia, with its mammoth leaves 6 feet in diameter, was greatly admired by many last year.

2. The Alexander Hopkins Memorial Medal was a beautiful horse shoe design, in the centre of which appeared the monogram, "S. F. A." Around the medal is a row of twenty-four pearls, and besides being of intrinsic value the fact that the present is from Dora Adams, for so many years a pupil, gives additional value. A similar medal will be offered by Mrs. Hopkins next year.

3. Concerning the conferring of the degree of A. B. on Miss Dufour, we would quote from a last year's A. B. a description of what this course is. Miss Gertrude Jenkins, in her paper before the Alumnae meeting, says:

"As I look at this central jewel I seem to see one point which shines with the golden light of the 'sun-filled topaz,' and I see engraven thereon 'Post Graduate Year.' That class will never be large, like the senior class for instance; it will take but a tiny corner. Only those who love study for its own sake should attend, but to them it is an untold treasure. Ah, me! The memories of last year that cling around laboratory and library where we recited! I would not lose the impression of one of them; and if we did not make any startling advance in any particular branch of study, we left these walls infused through and through with the feeling of how much there was for each one of us to do in a busy world, and with a desire to make more of ourselves than we had ever done or thought of doing before."

4. The list of graduates in the special schools are as follows:

Instrumental Music—Emma B. Hale and Clara E. David, of South Carolina; Sue Oliver Heard, of Georgia; Anna C. Hames, Adelaide L. Miller, Alice Blanche Morgan, of North Carolina.

Vocal Music—Anne Jones, North Carolina; Florence Cedric Settle, Texas.

Phonography, or Shorthand—Lillian L. Allen, Eulalie Cox, Ella M. Hinshaw, Annie L. Makepeace, Kate Pearsall, Henrietta C. Peterson, Etta Taylor, of North Carolina; Anna D. Adams, of Florida.

Book-Keeping—Mary Farley, Mamie Lewis, Kate Pearsall, Henrietta Peterson, of North Carolina; Annie M. Schoolfield, of Virginia.

Telegraphy—Prue Crouse, North Carolina; Grey Warner, Tenn.; Narcia E. Taylor, of Virginia.

We close our sketch with an extract from 'Penstick's' summary in the People's Press:

"Three hundred and fifty-six (356) catalogued names for the Session of 1890-'91! And this despite the multiplication of schools throughout the South! A village of young hearts filled with all the impulses of human nature, to be educated in all that makes life worth the living, not alone for themselves, but for the vast circles of humanity in whose midst good women shine as the golden lamps of Heaven! What burdening responsibility rests upon the Principal and teachers of this large company of impressionable minds! What a strain to so mould each character that when trusting fathers and mothers come, from the Mexican border all the way up to the capital of the grandest commonwealth the world has ever seen, to claim their own again, they may receive besides the Master's benediction, the "Well done" from thankful earthly hearts. Let us give the officials of the Academy our sincere sympathy, for their perplexities and anxieties are far beyond anything we have to endure."

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., JUNE, 1891.

*Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.*

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.

Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
MISS EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

NOTICE.

Pupils who have not already registered, but who will attend SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY next Autumn are requested to send their names to the Principal at as early a date as possible.

WE are under special obligations to Hon. H. E. FRIES for courtesies during Commencement.

THE many friends of Miss MARGARET E. BESSENT, for so long a time identified with the scholastic work of Coneord, will doubtless be glad to know that she has accepted a position in SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

—The presence of Bishop Van Vleet, of Ohio, and Rev. William Henry Rice, of New York city, leading ministers of the Northern Province of the Moravian Church as participants in our Commencement exercises, was very gratifying to us. We hope that they reached their homes safely, with none but pleasant impressions of the ACADEMY and old Salem.

OWING to our limited space we cannot publish the list of patrons and friends who were with us during Commencement. The number was unusually large, and we were pleased to greet old and new friends. We regretted that the hotel accommodations were not sufficient to meet the wants of all who came, but with another year the large new hotel, "Zinzendorf," will be completed, and every one can be comfortably entertained.

WE take pleasure in announcing that the position of Vocal Professor, made vacant by Miss EVANS' acceptance of a position in the New York Conservatory of Music, will be filled by Miss S. E. MATTHEWSON, who is a thorough master of her profession, having studied both in this country and in Europe, and having taught a number of years in a prominent Southern College previous to her trip abroad. In America Miss MATTHEWSON studied both in Boston and in Chicago; in the latter city she was a pupil of Miss Amy Fay. In London she was a pupil of Prof. Shakespeare. Our new professor has a pure, strong soprano, and has made voice production a specialty in her former field of labor. She will hold up the standard of this flourishing department and we give her a hearty welcome.

THE Salutatory, Valedictory and Honor Essay, as well as the composition that won the Alexander Hopkins Memorial Medal, will be published in the following issues of THE ACADEMY.

1890-1891.

IN closing the present school year there is much to feel gratitude for, and a smaller amount of cloudy weather than usual has spread over the period just closed. The Institution has had a liberal and patriotic patronage both from the home field and from more distant points.

In addition to upholding the departments already in existence at the beginning of this school-year, we have added the Industrial Department, and although this School of Cooking and Dress-Making was only opened in the second half of the year, the fact that no less than forty-three pupils registered shows how popular the idea is, and how much needed this new move.

Perhaps one of the most hopeful features is that which is always more or less a test of the present and prospective condition of an Institution, viz: the Commencement season. The programme is rich and full, making the exercises a genuine "musical festival;" the small army of workers; the good will of every one who was connected with the occasion, and the success of the work done shows that old SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY is surrounded by a strong cordon of friends and well wishers which will make greater things a certainty in the near future. Nor shall we forget the steady growth of the interest of the Alumnae. All these things combine to make us feel that while the year just closed was a satisfactory one, the future promises to bring days of still greater usefulness.

THE ALUMNÆ MEETING.

According to previous announcement the Alumnae Meeting was held in the Home Chapel, and was opened with the usual custom which has prevailed for a number of years, by all uniting in the "agapæ" of the Church in the early centuries, as preserved in the Moravian love-feast. This portion of the meeting was presided over by Dr. Rondthaler, and at the conclusion of the same, Miss Lehman, President of the Society, took the chair, and greeted the members in an address of welcome. Having called for the reading of the minutes, and the Secretary, Miss Siewers, having read the same, the following programme was entered upon:

Letters from Mrs. Jos. Ollinger, Milton, Fla.; Mrs. Amelia R. Woodward, Cincinnati, Ohio, and Mrs. A. Willis, of Mississippi, were read by Misses C. Shelton, L. Grogan and B. Pfohl.

Papers were read by Miss Gertrude Jenkins and Miss M. E. Vogler.

A Poem by Mrs. N. Frierson, Anderson, S. C., was read by Miss Emma Rollins, of Asheville, N. C.

The Badge Committee then reported that a few badges were still on hand, and that a friend had kindly offered to donate one-half of the proceeds of the sale of the remainder to the Scholarship Endowment Fund. This generous offer will secure to the Fund between $40 and $50. A number of badges were at once called for by the members.

Telegrams, conveying their best wishes, were then read from Mrs. Kellett and Mrs. Pae, of Waco, Texas.

The President then read a letter from Mrs. Mary Rice, of South Isle, Va., donating to the ACADEMY, through the Alumnae Association, a large list of books, which we will notice in our next issue.

The President furthermore called attention to the establishment of the Alexander Hopkins Memorial Medal, established by Mrs. Dora Adams Hopkins, and to the additional gift of $1000, by Col. F. H. Fries, to the Louise Fund, established by himself in memory of his deceased daughter, Louise. These and many other examples show the practical manner in which the Alumnae and friends are waking up to active efforts in behalf of the Institution.

At this juncture the subject of the Alumnae Endowment was taken up and, on motion, the Principal of the School, the Trustees of Salem Female Academy and the Advisory Financial Board were made Trustees of the Fund. After some discussion, subscriptions were called for, if any present desired to swell the amount heretofore donated. Mrs. Stevenson authorized the Secretary to write $5 opposite her name, and Mrs. H. E. Fries stated that $25 could be added to her register. Mr. CLEWELL then offered certain suggestions relative to the appointment of a working committee, in order that the sum needed to send a pupil might be the more speedily secured. At the conclusion of these remarks, the venerable Bishop Van Vleck, of Ohio, arose and stated that he believed he could count himself a member of this association, and that he intended to insist on the claim, and that he would weigh it down with a $5 subscription. This amid humorous remarks and great enthusiasm on the part of the audience. Scarcely had he taken his seat when State Auditor Sanderlin arose and, with his usual life and vigor, made a strong speech in favor of the Endowment, and begged the privilege of pinning down the Bishop's subscription with an equal amount. Dr. Rondthaler said the feeling was certainly contagious, and joined the good company. Dr. Siewers said he did not know whether he was a member of the association, but he knew that his wife was and that he intended "going with her!" By this time papers were being called for, right and left, and smaller and larger gifts pouring in. So that when the papers were gathered it was found that between $400 and $500 had been subscribed. This, together with the last year's gift, will make the sum press closely on toward the first thousand dollars. It was stated by more than one who was present that if our committee energetically works up the interest and gifts during the year, and the same spirit is present next June, the Fall of '92 will find the first scholar enjoying the benefit of the endowment. This is made possible by the special offer made by the school when one-half of the endowment has been received. Those who were present are warm in their descriptions of the spirit and enthusiasm abroad in the meeting. It was definitely shown that the Alumnae of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY have become alive to the needs of their Alma Mater, and that they have determined to cheerfully and heartily aid it on its onward and upward march to greater accomplishments and broader fields of usefulness. It appeared to every one that the Society was not merely an organization for enjoyment, but that it was a working society, working in broad and noble efforts to accomplish grand and praiseworthy ends.

When general business was at an end the members proceeded to elect officers for the ensuing year, with the following result:

President—Miss M. E. Vogler.

Vice Presidents—Mrs. J. H. Clewell, Mrs. G. W. Hinshaw, Mrs. J. B. Minor, Mrs. J. C. Buxton, Miss Sallie Hunnicutt.

Sec'y and Treasurer—Miss Gertrude E. Jenkins.

Executive Committee—Mrs. Dr. H. T. Bahnson, Mrs. E. Starbuck, Miss Laura Lemly, Miss Lizzie Chitty and Miss Sarah Shaffner.

Committee on Endowment Fund—Miss Emma Lehman, Miss M. E. Vogler, Mrs. R. Belo, Mrs. Dr. Shaffner.

Thus closed an interesting, enthusiastic and successful Alumnae meeting, and THE ACADEMY trusts that our venerable old Institution may witness many more like it.

The following is a list of members who registered at the door. If others were present and failed to register, we will be pleased to have them drop THE ACADEMY a postal card in order that their names may be added to the list:

Mrs. M. E. Scarborough, Ridge Spring, S. C.; Miss Mattie Bahuson, Farmington, N. C.; Miss Ida H. Moore, Charlotte, N. C.; Mrs. E. A. Milburn, Chester, Pa.; Miss Blanche Armfield, Miss Lucille Armfield, Jamestown, N. C.; Hon. G. W. Sanderlin, Raleigh, N. C.; Miss Mamie Thomas, Miss Bessie Thomas, Miss Blanche Thomas, Thomasville, N. C.; Miss Minnie Whitsett, Graham, N. C.; Miss Lena Chaffin, Foster Falls, Va.; Miss Florence Cummings, Aspen Grove, N. C.; Mrs. Lillian Strickland, Bethania, N. C.; Miss E. McGill, Fayetteville, N. C.; Miss Dora Cox, Cedar Falls, N. C.; Miss Minnie Fagg, Miss Emma Rollins, Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. W. W. Moore, Hampden-Sidney, Va.; Miss Lydia Irby, Laurens, S. C.; Mrs. R. P. Leinbach, Miss Lizzie Leinbach, Bethania, N. C.; Miss Marguerite Dufour, Mills River, N. C.; Mrs. J. B. Minor, Greensboro, N. C.; Miss Lizzie W. Hicks, Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs. H. C. Thomas, Thomasville, N. C.; Mrs. Mary E. Holland Rice, Rev. William Henry Rice, 635 Sixth Street, New York; Miss Fay McMullin, Marion, Va.; Miss Eula Cox, Dunn, N. C.; Miss Laura Whitner, Fort Reed, Fla.; Miss Emma Hale, Clinton, S. C.; Miss Agnes Brownson, Cuero, Texas; Mrs. Chas. Stevenson, Baltimore, Md.; Miss Theo. Fitzgerald, North Danville, Va.; Miss Etta Brown, Fayetteville, N. C.; Miss Lucie Waddill, Bennettsville, S. C.; Miss Ora Thompson, Gaffney City, S. C.; Miss Virginia McMurray, Wadesboro, N. C.; Miss Annie Makepeace, Franklinsville, N. C.; Miss Bessie Ponder, Tuskegee, Ala.; Miss M. Waddill, Bennettsville, S. C.; Miss Susie Gulick, Washington, D. C.; Miss Bertha Hicks, Raleigh, N. C.; Miss Mamie Dryden, Tennessee; Miss Agnes Coleman, Sedalia, S. C.; Mrs. J. E. Gilmer, Mrs. M. C. Prather, Mrs. G. W. Hinshaw, Mrs. H. L. Riggins, Mrs. J. C. Buxton, Mrs. T. C. Fuller, Mrs. Felix Crutchfield, Mrs. J. A. Biting, Mrs. W. J. Conrad, Mrs. E. C. Clinard, Mrs. Vernon Long, Mrs. E. C. Shelton, Mrs. A. B. Gorrell, Mrs. Cora Hamlen Lipfert, Mrs. W. T. Brown, Mrs. F. C. Brown, Mrs. P. H. Hanes, Mrs. Lindsay Patterson, Mrs. D. D. Shelton, Mrs. Ellen Starbuck, Misses Lily Grogan, Ella Hinshaw, Carrie Shelton, Carrie Riggs, Delia Blackburn, Rosa Ellis, Winston, N. C.; Mrs. E. F. Carmichael, Mrs. Henry T. Bahnson, Mrs. E. W. Leinbach, Mrs. R. A. Jenkins, Mrs. L. M. Fries, Mrs. R. L. Heudricks, Mrs. Alice Wolle Clewell, Mrs. Mary Vogler Horton, Mrs. C. P. Norfleet, Mrs. F. H. Fries, Mrs. J. W. Fries, Mrs. Dora Ebert, Mrs. Addie Grunert, Mrs. J. W. Goslen, Mrs. Sallie Tise, Mrs. W. A. Lemly, Mrs. Mary Landquist, Mrs. C. A. Hege, Mrs. Chas. B. Pfohl, Mrs. A. L. Smith, Mrs. W. B. Ellis, Mrs. J. I. Nissen, Mrs. H. E. Fries, Mrs. J. F. Shaffner, Mrs. A. S. Lemly, Mrs. L. A. Brietz, Mrs. M. A. Siewers, Mrs. N. S. Siewers, Mrs. L. M. Porter, Mrs. R. W. Belo, Mrs. W. H. Mickey, Mrs. J. H. Stockton, Mrs. E. W. Blum, Misses L. C. Shaffner, Birdie Goslen, Mary C. Welfare, Gertrude E. Siewers, Claudia A. Winkler, S. E. Shaffner, Mary M. Zevely, Maria E. Vogler, Carrie E. Stockton, Etta Shaffner, Bessie Pfohl, Pattie E. Beck, Lula Ackerman, Jane E. Welfare, Alice J. Rondthaler, Laura Lemly, Emma L. Leinbach, Constance E. Pfohl, Gertrude E. Jenkins, Emma Cooper, Mary Lewis, Donna A. Smith, Mary Leinbach, Sophie Butler, Addie Miller, Lizzie Chitty, Lizzie Heisler, Lula Hege, Sarah L. Vest, Amy Van Vleck, Mary Fries, Adelaide Fries, Effie Butler, A. Carrie Crist, Minnie Vogler, Mary A. Fogle, Jennie Sieger, Flora Lott, Salem, N. C.; Bishop Van Vleck, of Ohio.

Alumnae Scholarship Endowment.

Received for the Alumnae Scholarship Endowment:

Mrs. Joseph Ollinger,	$5.00
Mrs. F. C. Meinung,	25
Miss Mary Meinung,	25
Mrs. P. H. Hanes,	20.00
Mrs. L. M. Fries,	5.00
Mrs. Loula Moore,	5.00
Mrs. Ellen Starbuck,	5.00
Mrs. Yancey,	50
Mrs. Hattie Willard,	1.00
Miss Bessie Pfohl,	1.00
Mrs. M. Siewers,	25
Mrs. C. T. Pfohl,	25
Mrs. C. B. Pfohl,	50
Miss Lizzie Hicks,	5.00
Miss Ettie Brown,	1.00
Mrs. Alice Brietz,	50
Miss Lou Shaffner,	5.00
Miss S. Shaffner,	5.00
Mrs. Sallie Tise,	50
Miss Jane Welfare,	1.00
Miss Emma Rollins,	5.00
Anon,	25
Mrs. J. Nissen,	1.00
Mrs. H. C. Thomas,	1.00
Mrs. Scarborough,	10.00
Anon,	25
Mrs. Biting,	3.00
Bishop Rondthaler,	10.00
Miss Lewis,	25
Mrs. Stevenson,	5.00
Mrs. Jos. Stockton,	50
Mrs. Jenkins,	2.00
Miss G. Jenkins,	2.00
Mrs. Dr. Gray,	5.00
Mrs. Rondthaler,	2.00
S. F. Academy,	125.00
Bishop H. J. Van Vleck,	5.00
Mrs. J. E. Gilmer,	5.00
Mrs. Chas. Vogler,	1.00
Miss Minnie Vogler,	1.00
Miss Maria Vogler,	10.00
Dr. N. S. Siewers,	100.00
Previously acknowledged,	161.00

Total, $518.50

Our Library.

From Washington, D. C., we have received a very interesting work entitled An Album of Agricultural Statistics of the United States.

This work has many finely worked out charts, illustrating the object of the publication.

From Ginn & Co., New York City.

Lessons in Astronomy by Young.

Received for the Griffiss Library Fund :
Miss A. Van Vleck, $1.00

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Mr. CHARLES PFOHL was kept busy with trunks and tickets, but owing to the courtesies of Mr. Buford and his assistants, and also the aid of other railroad friends, all passed off pleasantly and successfully.

—Ascension Day the pupils attended the evening service in the Home Church.

—The Athletic Sports at Davis School, May 7th and 8th, were largely attended and proved to be very enjoyable occasions.

—The Teachers and Professors of the Institution were entertained at the Principal's House on the evening of May 8th. Bishop Van Vleck, of Ohio, was also present.

—Mr. A. Dufour, Mills River, N. C., has again expressed a willingness to receive into his pleasant mountain home a few select boarders for the Summer. In addition to the mountain air persons may, if they desire to do so, receive first class instruction in French and Music.

—The Seniors paid a visit to the Electric Light Plant, on 2nd and Church Sts., May 8th. After receiving many courtesies from Messrs. Cooper, Hawkes and McFarland, and having had the workings of the machinery explained to them, the pupils were allowed to spend half an hour in taking shocks, and "amusements" of a similar nature at the various pieces of machinery. The visit was both profitable as well as pleasant, and THE ACADEMY return thanks to the aforesaid gentlemen for the favors conferred.

—The Third and Park Hall rooms spent a very pleasant evening at the Principal's House, Saturday evening, May 9th. The test games of Faba Baga were decided in the Third Room in favor of TALU ROBBINS, and in the Park Hall Room in favor of NETTIE DUNLAP. The booby prizes went to MAGGIE ROBBINS and LIZZIE BURGESS. After refreshments had been served and the young ladies had spent some time in pleasant conversation, or promenading in the yard, the company returned to the School.

Nine Decades !

Written for the People's Press.

Could the men who, in 1802, laid the educational foundations of the institution we call SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY have foreseen the successful and high-grade work to be wrought from their then wonderful enterprise, their joy and thankfulness would be greater than we could imagine, and their pride would be most excusable when they realized that those principles which they so faithfully and earnestly believed in still remain the bulwark of the first boarding school for young ladies in the South, first not only in beginning but first in culture also. Wisely they builded, and wisely have succeeding generations of Principals and teachers held to the course marked out for them.

The upward trend of Academy Scholarship has been most particularly noticeable during the past ten years, and with each throb of new hope and new commercial success in this wonderful period of Southern history, the Academy has been in warmest sympathy, and more than this, she has been in advance in the march of educational progression. She felt the first mighty impulse that scattered the clouds of war, of despair, of defeat, and of alien misgovernment, and her faith in the land of her daughters which had never wavered in all the years of '61 to '81, took new and stronger pinions to soar to higher skies. Her efforts to have ready that which should meet the requirements of coming prosperity have been successful and her arms wide extended have welcomed everything that would conduce to the higher education of women. She has now reached a point at which we must pause and perhaps wonder what next. If present conditions remain as they are, in five years,—perhaps less,—we shall have here in Salem, a school approximating a University for Women so closely that we will not know the difference. Perhaps this statement may seem too optimistic, but we have had certain facts before us during the past weeks—for instance : The School of Music, the School of Languages, the School of Art, the Schools of the Commmercial Department, the Schools of Educational Dress Making and Cooking, and the great Academic Course, not one an embryo, but each bearing rich fruit. Long and daily observation of the ACADEMY has insensibly dulled our appreciation of what the ACADEMY exactly is. Her noble buildings, majestic piazza, stately halls, lofty and large-dimensioned study parlors, al-coved dormitories and park of unrivalled beauty are passed by with indifference ; her large corps of instructors, of the highest efficiency, are considered as a matter of course ; the faithfulness and sincerity of the discipline are scarcely considered at all ; the wide range and high standard of her curriculum are practically unknown. And yet, we are proud of our School, more so, perhaps, than any of the other Moravian towns where similarly intended institutions exist. Hence we can look forward to the ACADEMY'S advancement with a cheerful acquiescence in an optimistic view, and earnestly hope for and assist in its practical solution. PENSTICK.

Annual Banquet of the Literary Societies of Salem Female Academy.

Written for the People's Press.

Last Thursday evening the Commencement exercises of the ACADEMY may be said to have begun. There was an air of joyfulness in and about the handsome rooms that spoke strongly of the home going so near at hand.

The Euterpean and Hesperian Societies invited the Senior class of 1891 and many friends from the ACADEMY and town to spend a social evening with them in the Gymnasium Hall and the dining room. First, a short history of the Societies was given; a futurity paper, dated ten years hence, read; vocal and instrumental solos rendered, and a couple of recitations. Then an invitation to the dining room followed, the gentlemen present being escorted by the individual members of the Societies. The banquet was served by the young ladies, and was most daintily and quietly done. Everything was first-class in quantity and quality. The decorations were festoons of white daisies. After the serious details had been attended to, speeches were called for from Hon. C. B. Watson, Bishops Rondthaler and Van Vleck, Drs. Bahnon and Shaffner, Professors Dufour, Wutreschke and Funk, Mayor H. Fries, and Messrs. Fields, Hinshaw, Pfohl, Boozer and Crist. Principal Clewell acted as master of the ceremonies.

The whole affair was characterized by that quiet elegance which is a distinguishing feature of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, and a more enjoyable evening could not be passed anywhere. PENSTICK.

Model Motive Power

The Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Company has recently placed in service on its fast trains between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, three new engines which are doubtless the finest and fastest ever built in this country. These new flyers have driving wheels six feet, six inches high and cylinders 20 inches by 24. The large cylinders give them tremendous power and the high drivers protect the machinery from the rack and stain incidental to driving smaller engines at great speed. There is practically no limit to the speed to which these new marvels may be driven and they skim over the rails as smoothly as a swallow over a lake.

Another recent addition to the motive power of the company is a consignment of eight powerful, ten wheel passenger engines, designed for service on the mountain divisions. These are the heaviest ten wheel engines ever constructed, weighing sixty seven and one-half tons. They have driving wheels six feet two inches high and cylinders 21 inches by 26. One of these machines performs the work heretofore requiring two of the ordinary class and they take the heavy through express trains up the mountain grades quickly and with perfect ease.

The Mt. Clare shops of the company have recently completed an order for ten switch engines of the highest type, and sufficiently powerful to make up a train equal to the full drawing power of a consolidation freight engine. Also three new heavy eight wheel passenger engines, having driving wheels five feet eight inches, and cylinders 20 inches by 24. These engines are now doing excellent work; they are very powerful and susceptible of great speed.

In addition to the foregoing the Company has now under construction at its Mt. Clare Shops ten powerful ten wheel engines designed for fast freight service and for heavy passenger trains on occasion, also twelve consolidation freight engines of great power.

These additions to its motive power are in line with the other great improvements constantly being made in the general betterment of the B. & O. property by its present management, which have been noted by the press from time to time, and the rapid augmentation of the passenger traffic of the Company indicates that the public is quick to recognize the present and constantly increasing efficiency of its train service.—Adv.

PRIVATE LESSONS

German, French, Latin and Mathematics

L. B. WURRESCHKE.

Apply for Terms.

Feb. '91—61.

Subscriptions Received.

Miss Ida W. Blackwell, Allison, N. C.; Miss Laura Mickle, Edwardsville, N. C.; Mrs. Stella Slaphey, Marshallville, Ga.; Mrs. Mary Rice, South Isle, Va.; Miss Carrie Peterson, Clinton, N. C.; Miss Ettie Brown, Fayetteville, N. C.; Mrs. Dr. J. H. Jennings, Plum Branch, S. C.; Miss Fay McMullin, Marion, Va.; Mrs. P. H. Hanes, Miss Delia Blackburn, Mrs. Jos. A. Biting, Winston, N. C.; Mrs. H. S. Crist, Mrs. Wm. Mickey, Mrs. Dr. W. J. Conrad, Mrs. W. A. Lemly, Salem, N. C.

Married.

TYNER—HUNNICUTT.—In Atlanta, Ga., April 15th, 1891, Mr. CHARLES O. TYNER to Miss EDDIE P. HUNNICUTT.
SPRINKLE—JONES.—On June 7th, 1891, in the First Baptist Church, Winston, N. C., Prof. T. S. SPRINKLE, of Wake Forest College, to Miss ANNE JONES, of Salem.
ROSENTHAL—ROSE.—In Winston, N. C., June 10th, Mr. J. ROSENTHAL, of Danville, Va., to Miss DORA ROSE, of Winston.

USE

The Hammond Type-Writer.

FOR SPEED, DURABILITY and BEAUTY OF WORK it has no equal.

The SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, having tested it, has formally adopted the "HAMMOND," and recommends it where a first-class machine is desired.
For Catalogue and price write to

J. W. GANNON, Winston, N. C.

SCHOULER'S
MILLINERY ESTABLISHMENT,
THIRD STREET, SOUTH OF COURT HOUSE.

WE HAVE SECURED ONE OF NEW YORK'S MOST SKILLFUL MILLINERS, AND THIS SEASON WILL CARRY A VERY LARGE STOCK OF FINE GOODS, AND GUARANTEE ENTIRE SATISFACTION IN STYLES AND PRICES TO ALL OF OUR CUSTOMERS.

WE THANK THE LADIES OF SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY FOR THEIR FRIENDSHIP AND PATRONAGE, AND WILL ALWAYS

GIVE THEIR ORDERS ESPECIAL ATTENTION

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,
SALEM, N. C.
The Oldest Female College in the South.

The 9th Annual Session begins August 27th, 1891. Register for last year 35¢. Special features.—The Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Commercial and Industrial Studies.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

DAVIS SCHOOL

Military Boarding School
FOR BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

Full preparation for any College or for Business. Healthy location; fine climate; mild winters; excellent buildings; Cadet Cornet Band; Cadet Orchestra; Resident Surgeon. No Charge for Medical Attention. No Extra Charge for Languages or Sciences. Department of Art. Full Course in Telegraphy. VERY LOW RATES. For Register with full particulars address:

COL. A. C. DAVIS, Supt.,
WINSTON, N. C.

"Bingham School

stands pre-eminent among Southern boarding Schools for Boys."—U. S. Bureau of Education.

"Combines more desirable qualities than any other with which I am acquainted."—Lieut. J. B. Batchelor, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

"There exists not the equal of this School in my opinion."—Capt. Henry Wygant, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

More than 100 pupils from other States, the largest number in a Southern School for boys from outside the State of location.

Address,
Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Bingham's School, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851.

HORNER SCHOOL,
OXFORD, N. C.

FACULTY:

- J. H. HORNER, M. A., University of N. C. (Founder of School.)
- Col. J. T. DREWRY, Com'd'r, Star Graduate Virginia Military Institute.
- J. C. HORNER, A. M., Davidson College.
- G. A. WAUCHOPE, M. A., Ph. D., University of Berlin, Late Fellow Wash. & Lee Univ.
- Rev. J. M. Horner, B. A., B. D., University of Virginia and Johns Hopkins University.

WM. T. VOGLER,
JEWELLER,
Main Street, WINSTON, N. C.

Watches, Clocks, Jewelry and Silverware
HOLIDAY GOODS A SPECIALTY.
REPAIRING DONE PROMPTLY.

GRANDEST DISPLAY

TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS, LADIES' WORK BASKETS, FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't, Greensboro, N. C.
W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Fayetteville, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
Salem Female Academy.

WHY

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway

is the BEST LINE for patrons from Salem, N. C., to Arkansas and Texas?

It is the Only Line that runs from Memphis to Arkansas and Texas Two Trains Daily.

Road Bed and Equipment are first-class.

Sure connection by all lines from the East, and when sufficient to justify a Special Pullman Palace Car or Day Coach will be furnished for the exclusive use of the party, with an agent to escort to destination.

The same arrangements can be made to return from Texas or Arkansas to the School. For complete Itinerary of Route, address

A. A. GALLAGHER, Southern Pass. Agt., 103 Read House, Chattanooga, Tenn.
H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.

A NICE LINE OF

OIL STOVES,
AT THE "BIG COFFEE POT,"
AT BOTTOM PRICES.

Our latest novelties are:

Pat Flue Stoppers, Picnic Mugs,
Star Safety Razors, Pie Lifters,
Perfection Cake and Pie Tins and Egg-Beaters, all at very reasonable figures.

We solicit a share of your patronage.

Very respectfully,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.,

THE BEAUTIFUL

NORTH.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrodsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 25 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 11 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

SOUTH.

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas; New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California. Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas Points. Anniston, Columbus, Montgomery, Elie, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination.

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION, CHAS. H. MILLS, Ticket Agt. C. S. BARRETT, T. P. A.

Depot. Read House.
D. J. MULLANEY, Div. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
C. C. HARVEY, CINCINNATI, O. D. G. EDWARDS, Vice Pres. G. P. & T. A.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA

SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Pre-eminently the Teachers' and Pupils' Route.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us, patronized, subsequently, any other line.

This is the only line from Memphis running Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer in Memphis from Eastern Lines.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

Schouler's Racket Store.

Dore's Bible Gallery, 100 Engravings.
Milton's Paradise Lost, 50 Engravings.
Dante's Inferno, 75 Engravings.
"Purgatory & Paradise 60 Engravings.

Any one of these books, which are large and beautifully bound, will be given to a member of the ACADEMY when the amount of her purchases in SCHOULER'S RACKET STORE reaches $20.00,—not in one bill, but in as long a time as you please.

This store is a veritable Bazaar, and contains Dress Goods, Shoes, Notions, Jewelry, Stationery, Cologne, Ribbons, Bags, Trunks, Underclothes, &c., and the prices are the lowest in the Twin-City

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,
CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

CORNER OF THIRD AND MAIN STS.,
WINSTON, N. C.

OPPOSITE THE OLD STAND.

*MISS EMMA K. LEINBACH,*
(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANOS HANDLED.

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about $75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up.
155 Lexington Avenue New York.

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her for responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, and she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Salem Female Academy

Salem, N. C., Feb. 11, 1890.

A SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVE. N.Y.

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

A COMPLETE

FOR $ 7 25

BOX & CONTENTS 3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF 1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
SKETCHING STOOL .50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIII.

SALEM, N. C., SEPTEMBER, 1891.

NUMBER 118.

OBITUARY.

THE ACADEMY follows the course of her daughters through life with kindly interest, noting their successes with affectionate pride and sympathizing in all their sorrows and reverses. The Alumnae circle is increasingly large, embracing from 12 to 1,400 members, widely scattered, yet closely welded together in heart. What touches one affects the whole body, therefore, it is with deep sadness that we pay the last tribute to the memory of our Alumnae who have recently been called by the Maker to the other shore.

Among these, honored and esteemed not only by us, but throughout the whole country, was Mrs. Polk, (widow of Ex-President Jas. K. Polk,) nee SARAH CHILDRESS, who departed this life at her home in Nashville, Tennessee, August 14, at the venerable age of 88 years. She had been in fairly good health until the previous Wednesday, August 12, when, returning from a short drive, she was taken ill and never rallied, dying from the exhaustion of old age.

SARAH CHILDRESS POLK was the daughter of Captain Joel Childress, a farmer of Murfreesboro, Tennessee, and was born September 4, 1803. Being in good financial circumstances Captain Childress saw to it that his children received the best educational advantages of the day, and little SARAH (to quote from the Philadelphia Times) placed in the Moravian Institute at Salem, N. C., in 1817, where she remained until her education was completed and she had grown into young womanhood.

She was but 19 years old when she married James K. Polk, who then already, 1822, was making his mark as a political leader. A member of the Tennessee Legislature in 1823, he was elected to Congress, maintaining his position during 14 sessions, and was elected Speaker of the House.

Mrs. Polk accompanied him to Washington, where from first to last she exerted a marked influence on her husband's career. A handsome, cultivated, winning woman, she became a general favorite in Washington society, and gathered around her men and women whose fame and station made them desirable and useful helps to her husband's political importance. While he was canvassing his State, a candidate for Governor, at a time when mail facilities were poor and telegraphs unknown, a political scandal was sprung upon him by his enemies, assuming that he would not hear of it until it had affected the public mind. To the confusion of the schemers it was fully and ably met and refuted by Mrs. Polk the very next day. Such a woman would naturally be a power in any position.

An English lady of rank says of her appearance, "her hair is very black, and her dark eyes and complexion remind one of the Spanish donnas. She is well read, has great conversational talent, and is highly popular." In 1844 Mrs. Polk graced the station of mistress of the White House, and as the first lady of the land she maintained a dignity and decorum which called forth praise from all who knew her, even when, as a strict Presbyterian, card-playing and dancing were banished from the Presidential mansion.

The Polks had left the White House but a few months when the Ex-President died, in 1849, his wife being in her 47th year. Since that time she had continued to reside in the beautiful Nashville home, Polk Place, honored and beloved by all. Here she lived in solitary state finally adopting a niece as companion. She was honored by every social and official organization, but was not drawn from her seclusion. The first official act of each successive Tennessee Legislature was to pay a formal call, as a body, to this distinguished lady, thus honoring her as well as themselves.

In 1886 Mrs. Polk addressed a kindly letter to the Editor of THE ACADEMY, speaking of her happy girlhood spent within the walls of her Alma Mater. She also enclosed autographs and cabinet photographs of herself and husband all of which will be carefully treasured in memory of an Alumnae whose long and distinguished career was an honor to all connected with her.

Another distinguished and talented daughter of Tennessee and an honored Alumnae of the ACADEMY has gone "beyond that bourne from whence no traveler returns,"—Mrs. John Landstreet, better known among us as BELLE PATTERSON, the beloved grand-daughter of Andrew Johnson, 17th President of the United States. Her mother, Mrs. MARTHA PATTERSON, was the second of our Alumnae who presided with marked grace and dignity over the White House, during her father's term of office.

BELLE PATTERSON was born in 1860, and attended school in SALEM ACADEMY from 1873 to '75. Later she spent some time at Binghamton, N. Y. She lived at the White House, her grand-father's especial pet, her father being United States Senator at the time. BELLE also lived with her grand-father while he was Governor of Tennessee, moving in those high circles with intelligent appreciation. She developed a remarkable inclination for literary pursuits, and never seemed happy unless thus engaged. In 1886 she married Mr. Landstreet, an enterprising merchant of New York City. Several years ago Mr. Landstreet removed to Greenville, Tenn., her old home. Last October, as her health failed rapidly, her husband took her to Colorado, and from thence to Auburn, California, where she died about the middle of July. She joined the Episcopal church the day before her death.

Mrs. Landstreet was one of the most intelligent women of her day, writing for various periodicals. Of very commanding presence a sad thoughtfulness rather added to than lessened her attractiveness. Her married life lasted only five years, and Baby Martha, her only child, is scarcely old enough to realize her loss.

No tie of life is so close, no companionship so tender, that Death does not interpose his icy hand. Three of our North Carolina Alumnae, the centres of large, social interests, busy, happy wives, have also been called away from the changing scenes of time. On May 13th, Mrs. J. M. Leak, (COLUMBIA, daughter of Col. J. M. Covington, of Stokes County,) died in Winston, N. C.

She was the youngest of 4 sisters who were educated at the ACADEMY; she and SALLIE attending from 1862 to '66, the older sisters, CORNELIA and NANNIE, from 1856 to '59. Mrs. Leak had been in failing health for some time, but was prostrated in June, '90, by consumption. A member of the Episcopal church, she bore her sufferings patiently; naturally desirous of recovery she was perfectly resigned to the will of her God, and gently passed away at the age of 41 years.

On July 25th the death of Mrs. Earnest Dalton (DELLA HINE), of Winston, N. C., came as a sad blow to the sorely bereaved young husband, fond parents, and friends. She graduated in the ACADEMY with the class of '84, and after leaving school made herself especially useful in church services by means of her vocal and instrumental music. Though a member of the Methodist church she was ready to assist wherever her gifts were required. Her married life was as yet counted by months, and it was hard to realize that one so bright and winsome was gone at the early age of 24, just when life was opening before her in all its promise. God is his own interpreter however, and in the clearer light of eternity what is now dark and inscrutable will shine out as the leading of Infinite Love.

Last November Mrs. Powell Lash Hairston died in Dallas, Texas, leaving 5 children, two of whom are now attending school in the ACADEMY. Mrs. Hairston was a pupil here from 1861 to '64, during the most troubled times of our late civil war.

Thus the changeful kaleidoscope of human life moves on and on, the elder generation dropping out here and there as the Maker calls, and their children take their places.

VALEDICTORY.

BY MISS LAURA WHITNER.

YEAR after year THE ACADEMY sends forth a band of youthful graduates, grasping the long coveted diplomas, anxious to begin their work in the great world; peering with eager insistence into the future, so sweet, so alluring in its mysterious silence. It is altogether fitting and proper that our Commencement day, — the day of days to us, — should blossom out into these beautiful and fragrant summer festivities as one exercise, one concert succeeds the other in the programme of Commencement week.

The very word "Commencement," indicates that though we have come to the end of our college course, we stand at the beginning of a new career. We exchange the studious retirement of college walls for a busy world of endeavor; — the Academic robe and cap for our ordinary garb, or it may be for the round of fashionable society. Our diplomas symbolize a power for good. The period immediately following graduation is one of the most important in our lives: — old companionships are being broken up, class ties are severed, and we must adjust ourselves to an entirely new order of things.

Life is a race, we are told, more important than any ever run for crown of laurel or of gold, for this race determines who is worthy to wear the crown of Everlasting Life. Life is a pilgrimage; here we have no continuing city, and the way is oftentimes hard and dreary. There are hills of Difficulty glooming before us and valleys of Humiliation to go through.

Our minds are filled with bright dreams of what we are to do in that Future whose door now lies open before us. Few, if any, have a special career mapped out, but there are ideas of accomplishing something great, of being more than those who have gone before us, and with these air-castles towering about us, it is hard to remember that the lowly duties, "the simple round, the common task alone, will fill out our years with joy and peace.

We know full well that life is not a ball-room, where the music decides the step; we know, too, that in the battle of Life, we shall need a stronger weapon than a lace fan, or a tennis racket, for one element is sure to enter into the life of every soul true to itself, and that is the element of struggle. That things worth having are worth struggling for is a principal that reaches every avenue of life.

The controlling aim with each one of us ought to be, to "seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness." This gives us a plan for our lives that will stand any test; — it is the key that discloses life's real value, that sets all our forces into harmonious action.

We hear it urged against young graduates that they know too much that is ornamental, too little that is useful. Instead of "deep calling unto deep," there is too much that is shallow. We have tried to avoid this imputation, for there is a deep within us which craves a deep without, — a deep purpose, an abiding faith, which, amid the duties of life, hears the notes, the echoes of a far-off clime "beyond the stars." There is a great deal of shallowness in the world's frivolity, in superficial culture, in foolish fancies of dress and manner, in almost every sphere. Perhaps the age itself has evolved it. We do not wish to follow in such lines; — we wish to throw aside the frivolities which are too common, and take up the deep, the earnest work of life, so that depths of feeling may call to other depths above, with which they may accord in majestic rhythm.

Struggle is necessary to become strong; even the troubles of life rightly borne may become blessings in disguise. That grand marvel of man's patience and engineering skill, the St. Gothard railway, winds in and out of some sixty-four tunnels, rising from the sunny plains of Lombardy, flashing out of sunlight into gloom to heights of Alpine sublimity; yet every tunnel, every temporary obscuration of the blessed sunlight raises the traveler to loftier planes. So it is with our daily struggles, each one raising us to the plane of a more vigorous life.

We might be dismayed at the prospect, if it were not for the fact that only one step at a time is required of us, only the "nexte thyng," as the quaint old Saxon legend has it:

"Moment by moment, let down from Heaven,
Time, opportunity, guidance are given;
Fear not to-morrow, Child of the King,
Trust that with Jesus, 'Doe the nexte thyng.'"

To those who are coming after us to take up our books and occupy the familiar seats in our class-room, we now turn with the hope that when a "longing for home" comes over you, as we know it will, when duties begin to press hard, do not give up, be faithful, for "the end will prove your work and your worth," and if there is no careless falling away your school life will be well rounded, and you will have no mournful regrets over lost opportunities. When you take our wonted places, let some thought of "girls of last year" come kindly to you — do not let us be entirely forgotten, but leave a little niche for us in the old ACADEMY — do not usurp our place altogether in the affection of those who have guided us in paths of wisdom and virtue so long! "Farewell! with us alone will rest the pain."

And my classmates, who have through this year been working shoulder to shoulder, hand in hand, what word can help me to bid you a fitting farewell! that shall express what I feel! Only a few more hours will pass before we must part, perhaps forever. Like the petals of a full blown rose which are scattered to the four winds, never to be united again; on the morrow we will be borne swiftly away from our Foster Mother and scattered from the mountains of Virginia to the orange groves of the "Land of Flowers."

The pleasure of returning to our loved ones is tempered by the pain of leaving those with whom we have been so intimately associated. Each one has a place in her companion's heart which no other can fill. We are dearer to each other, perhaps, because it has not always been smooth sailing; thirty-six wells did not always run in the same channel, and there has been storm as well as sunshine. In after years when we are advanced on the thoroughfare of life, only that which is pleasing will rise to our memories, and our hearts will often yearn for our girlish companions. The call of "girls!" will still be heard in our rooms, but we will not be those girls:—others will respond to the familiar call.

As we have chosen the tiny blue forget-me-not from the brookside in the playground, as our class flower, let it always whisper the tender injunction to our hearts that we left this parting measure to each other. It may not grow in the far Southland, but in our hearts, my classmates, let us cultivate it. We will never meet again as we now are, and perhaps not at all, before the great Commencement Day has dawned, but until we do meet, God be with you!

During these years of school-life, there has been one who has ever taken even more than a Principal's interest and care in our undertakings. Many times it was hard to force our wayward wills to submit, for the path of duty that he pointed out, seemed thorny at the entrance, but the road has broadened and grown more beautiful till we now thank you most heartily, that you have been our loving and sympathetic Mentor, and we bid you goodbye with full hearts.

There are two who have shared our every joy and sorrow, who have been patient with us in our short-comings; one who has labored that we may grow to be useful, cultured women, of orderly and careful habits—who has been with us constantly, and calls us "her girls", and now, when the parting words are about to be spoken, the fountain of love and admiration swells in our hearts with a force that is well nigh irresistible.

And the other! How many of us can date the opening of a new life from the time when, through his earnest endeavor, we realized that there was another Diploma to be won! And those who already are striving to follow the narrow path, has he not strengthened us on the way? To the one who will always hold a sacred place in the hearts of those, who to-day must go out from under his care, but we trust not from his prayers and influence, we must say goodbye.

To all our teachers and friends the farewell must be spoken, and if it might be, we would clasp your hands, for when sorrow such as ours fills the heart, that pressure will say for us what we cannot, when the "Goodbye" trembles on our lips.

The N. C. Press Convention.

WINSTON-SALEM having been selected as the place of meeting for this body and from the 12th to the 15th of August, 1891, the time, it was deemed proper that SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY should, in a particular manner, show its appreciation of the efforts of the editors of the State in behalf of the higher education of our young people and also of the generous and cordial support given to our venerable institution.

Hence, arrangements were made, and a banquet was tendered the gentlemen of the Convention and a large number of the citizens of the two towns—in all some two hundred. The guests met in the hall of the main building, and after some minutes spent in conversation marched to the Chapel. A profusion of electric lights made the banquet-hall as light as day. Two tables extended the length of the room from east to west, being connected at the entrance end with a third. In the centre was a fourth table at which the Salem Orchestra was seated. The tables were handsomely decorated with flowers, amid which gleamed electric lamps; and large stands, heaped high with luscious fruits, added to the beauty of the scene. A blessing was asked by Rev. Edward Wolfe, of Philadelphia, Pa., and the banquet was under way. All the delicacies of the season were served, and towards the close the Salem Orchestra rendered several choice selections. While the refreshments were being enjoyed Mr. CLEWELL made a short talk, explaining the aim of the ACADEMY to be to so raise the standard of the institution that here in our Southland all the requirements of the highest possible education for girls and young women should be met, and the necessity for looking elsewhere for such education be obviated. In conclusion, he thanked the editors, in the name of the institution, for their warm support of the school and assuring them that it would always be gratefully remembered.

President Caldwell, of the Convention, then introduced Mr. E. E. Hilliard, of the Scotland Neck Democrat, who delivered the annual oration in an address of some 40 minutes. He handled his subject, "Drawing a New Circle," in a novel and original manner, eliciting hearty applause as he progressed up the incline of the world's history, illustrating his ideas with brilliant imagery and eloquent words.

H. C. Wall, of the Rockingham Rocket, was next introduced and read the annual poem. It was entitled "Human Virtue Ought to be Equal to Human Calamity," an expression used by Gen. R. E. Lee at Appomattox, when he was appealed to by some of his associates with "what shall we do?" It was most touchingly read, being filled with tender allusions to the Lost Cause and closing with bright hopes for the future.

With this the banquet closed. It was evidently heartily enjoyed by all, and the ACADEMY rejoices that she was enabled to greet under her own roof so many warm friends, and return in small but heartfelt measure the many courtesies extended to her by the Press of North Carolina.

On Thursday afternoon the Convention was given an excursion up the Roanoke & Southern Railroad as far as the Mayo bridge, by President F. H. Fries, of the Va. & N. C. Construction Company. An elegant luncheon was served en route.

On Thursday night a magnificent banquet was given the editors by the Chamber of Commerce in the Twin City Club Rooms, and on Friday the R. & D. R. R. excused the editors and the Chamber of Commerce up to Wilkesboro.

A carriage drive through the handsome properties of the different land and improvement companies was another great feature. Altogether the 19th annual session of the N. C. Press Association was a memorable one.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., SEPTEMBER, 1891.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.

Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—We have a number of interesting papers, among them the Salutatory, the Honor Essay, and several other papers that were read at the Alumnae meeting in June, all of which will appear in the following numbers.

—It will be a great favor to us if the many friends whose subscriptions expire this month will forward the amount due for another year. We need your support to make the ACADEMY strong and hearty in its life, and we trust a still warmer support will be given this year than ever in the past.

—The ACADEMY returns thanks to Mr. W. T. Vogler for one of the souvenir spoons, a cut of which appears in another column of this issue. No better souvenir of school days can be found than this spoon, and we heartily commend the same to pupils desiring to find a birthday present for companions or teachers, and also to our Alumnae who wish a memento of school days. See advertisement.

—Nearly 90 years have now passed by since the ACADEMY was organized, and very impressive is the thought that fills the mind as we consider the work done by the Institution in the past, and not less so is the thought of what is to be done in the future. Our present year opens under unusually bright and promising circumstances. The spirit within the school is a creditable one, and promises well for the year. The number of old pupils again with us is unusually large, the town patronage from Salem and Winston is encouraging in every way. Although the school has had the usual amount of unkind criticism hurled at it, strange to say with the blessing of the Lord resting on our work, every thing seems to result in good, whatever may be the motive of the act, and the nature of the criticism. The fact remains the same that as our Institution held a peculiarly advanced position in the work of education in early days, so now a work of great importance is before us in insisting on conservative training in matters of mind and character. We rejoice to feel that this position of leadership is given to us, and we will always strive to be worthy of the charge imposed on the ACADEMY by Providence.

Read at the Alumnae Meeting in June last.

A GREETING.

By Mrs. N. FRIERSON, of Anderson, S. C.

A June-tide greeting we bring you,
Gilded with dreams of the past,
Smoothing with pink-tinted fingers
All lines that sorrow might cast.
Bright, fair-faced June in her beauty,
With her golden censers sweet,
Wafts us a realized greeting,
Drops us a pleasure here at our feet.

Unfading memories grow tender
As a pianissimo strain,
When once again reunited,
The friends of "lang syne" meet again,
Is it true — true this strange, sweet conviction

That united we stand as of yore?
The loved Alma Mater surrounds us?
That life's sweetness holds yet more and more?

Golden gossamer links that bind us
To friends of the past far away;
We would thou could'st hold us forever,
As the night holds the morn from the day.
Ah! then would the lost Eden hours
Return to the world once again,
And our silent thoughts be as vocal
As notes from an angel's strain.

Oh! June, like a bright winged spirit
From the twilight of Paradise flown,
Bringing unto us silver-tipped fancies
Like the day dreams that oft are our own;
We greet thee with hearts full of gladness
For the pleasures bestowed us to-day;
May our happiness ere be continued
Like the sunlight of heaven alway.

Our Library.

SOUTH ISLE, VA., May —, 1891.

MR. CLEWELL:—

Dear Sir—I have delayed sending the books promised much longer than I wished, but have packed and sent this morning on the Lynchburg & Durham Railroad a box directed to "Mr. John H. Clewells, Principal of Salem Female Academy, Salem, N. C." I wish to present these books to the Library of the ACADEMY as a gift from a pupil of 1824, '25, and a part of '26. I shall in July be 80 years of age, and the probability of my making another birthday gift is scarcely to be expected.

Wishing the dear old ACADEMY continued prosperity in its mission of educating the rising generation,

I am, very respectfully,

MARY (STAMPS) RICE.

The following is a list of the books above alluded to:

- |    |   |                     |
|----|---|---------------------|
| 1  | Text Book of Geology,                                   | Dana.               |
| 2  | " " "   | "                   |
| 3  | " " "   | Welles.             |
| 4  | " " "   | Shaler.             |
| 5  | Natural Philosophy,                                     | Cooley.             |
| 6  | " " "   | Parker.             |
| 7  | " " "   | Rolfe and Gillett.  |
| 8  | " " "   | Peck.               |
| 9  | Electrical Therapeutics,                                | Steele.             |
| 10 | Physical Science,                                       | Gage.               |
| 11 | Electricity,  | Barnard.            |
| 12 | Light,  | Jacob Abbott.       |
| 13 | Chemistry,  | Rolfe and Gillett.  |
| 14 | "   | Cooley.             |
| 15 | "   | Welles.             |
| 16 | "   | Nicholls.           |
| 17 | Chemical Science,                                       | Williams.           |
| 18 | Practical Zoology,                                      | Colton.             |
| 19 | Physiology and Hygiene,                                 | Huxley and Youmans. |
| 20 | Astronomy,  | Warren.             |
| 21 | Arithmetic,   | Wentworth.          |
| 22 | Rhetoric,   | Coppee.             |
| 23 | Physical Geography,                                     | Geikie.             |
| 24 | Language Lessons,                                       | Barnes.             |
| 25 | Young Lady's Reader,                                    | Hows.               |
| 26 | Latin Grammar,  | Ahn.                |
| 27 | History of England,                                     | Berard.             |
| 28 | Pictorial History of U. S.,                             | Lossing.            |
| 29 | Prussia and Franco Prussian War,                        | J. S. C. Abbott.    |
| 30 | Church History,   | Wharey.             |
| 31 | Success of Evil.  |                     |
| 32 | Evidences of Christianity,                              | Alexander.          |
| 33 | Sermons,  | Dr. Carroll.        |
| 34 | "   | Dr. A. Faber.       |
| 35 | Selections from the Scriptures.                         |                     |
| 36 | The Open Bible,   | Dr J. Berg, D. D.   |
| 37 | India   |                     |
| 38 | In Quietness and Confidence,                            | Rose Porter.        |
| 39 | Kept for the Master's Use,                              | F. R. Havergal.     |
| 40 | Harper's Magazine (Bound.)Dec., 1856, to May, 1857. |                     |
| 41 | Cobwebs and Cables,                                     | Hesba Stretton.     |
| 42 | Dita. (Novel.)  | Lady Majendie.      |
| 43 | Is It True?   |                     |
| 44 | For Faith and Freedom. (Novel.)                         |                     |
| 45 | White Wings,  | Walter Besant.      |
| 46 | Westward Ho!  | William Black.      |
| 47 | Opening a Chestnut Burr,                                | Chas. Kingsley.     |
| 48 | A Fool's Errand,  | E. P. Roe.          |
| 49 | John Eax,   | Albion W. Tourgee.  |
| 50 | Middlemarch. Vol. I.                                    | " " "               |
| 51 | " Vol. II.,   | George Eliot.       |
| 52 | Ma Craven,  | " " "               |
| 53 | Self Denial,  | Mrs. Cadell.        |
| 54 | Out of the Dark.  |                     |
| 55 | Polly and I.  |                     |
| 56 | " " "   |                     |
| 57 | Little Brown Girl.                                      |                     |
| 58 | Mr. Rudd's Grandchildren.                               |                     |
| 59 | Her Christmas and Her Easter.                           |                     |
| 60 | Christie's Old Organ.                                   |                     |
| 61 | Brief English History in Rhyme.                         |                     |

From American Book Company, New York City, we have received Appleton's School Physics.

Cesar's Gallic War, by Harper & Tolman.

—Wells' Logarithmic Tables. Leach, Shewell & Sanborn, New York.

—From Harper Brothers a copy of Lewis' Elementary Latin Dictionary, a splendid volume for pupils who want more information than that which is given in the glossaries at the end of text books and still do not wish to pay the large amount usually charged for a complete Latin Dictionary.

—From Mr. A. H. Patterson we have received a copy of "The Hellenian," published by the students of the University of North Carolina.

—Chambers' Encyclopædia. (New Edition.) Vol. VII. Malt—Pear J. B. Lipincott & Co., Philadelphia.

Alumnae Scholarship Endowment.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ebert,	$25.00
Miss Jessie Brown,	2.50
Mrs. Jas. E. Hall,	1.00
Miss Fay McMullin,	1.00
Mrs. J. A. Jones,	.25
Mrs. Frank Brown,	.50
Mrs. Rosa Lash Norfleet,	1.00
Mrs. R. W. Belo,	2.00
Miss Hermina Foltz,	.25
Previously acknowledged,	518.60
Total,	$552.10

—The Committee to whom the care of the fund was entrusted have invested the money in an interest-bearing bond, securing 6 per cent. on the gifts thus far paid. Through the kindness of a friend the amount needed to cover the first $1,000 has been furnished, and the bond purchased. But subscriptions pledged and not yet paid will be most welcome just now, and new subscriptions will also be needed to finish out the amount and turn over the first thousand dollars to the committee. Who will add to the good work. Money or pledges may be sent to the ACADEMY, or to any of the officers of the Association.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Miss EVANS sailed for Europe early in July.

—The Senior Rooms boast of new lace curtains.

—Bishop RONDTHALER preached before the students of the State University early in September.

—Mrs. CLEWELL was called North in July to attend the funeral of her sister, Mrs. George Wolle.

—Bishop RONDTHALER will conduct Sunday afternoon services for the pupils of the ACADEMY as in past years.

Miss MATHEWSON, our new Vocal Professor, arrived end of August, and begins with a large and interested class of pupils.

—Mrs. Wolle, Miss LIZZIE WOLLE and Miss JENNIE SIEGER returned to Pennsylvania after a sojourn of a year in Salem.

—A musical given Wednesday, September 15th, under the direction of Misses MATHEWSON and VEST was much enjoyed by the entire school.

—The children's special day of prayer was duly observed in the Salem Congregation by appropriate services, closing with an open air evening service.

—Mr. PFOHL spent a couple of weeks at Wilkesboro, N. C., and while there met with a painful accident; a couple of weeks, however, sufficed to find him at his post again.

—Misses LOU and AMY VANVLECK returned early in September from a visit to Washington, Philadelphia, New York and New England. They report having a very pleasant time.

—A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL, JOHN and REGINALD, Miss LIZZIE HEISLER, Miss EMMA CHITTY, Mrs. CARMICHAEL, together with a number of friends from town, spent some time at Carolina Beach, during July.

—The door leading to Park Hall Study Parlor has been changed so as to make the main entrance at the south instead of the north side. By this change the Industrial department gains one more much needed room.

—By an oversight the list of Graduates in Music was incorrectly given in the Catalogue. It should have been as follows:

Instrumental Graduates: Emma Hale, Anna Hames, Sue Heard, Addie Miller, Blanche Morgan, Maud Robbins, Clara David, Ella Brown.

Vocal Graduates: Annie Jones, Florence Settle.

—Prof. MARKGRAFF was unable to begin his duties at the opening of school owing to a severe attack of illness. As the ACADEMY goes to press he is again walking about the streets and in a few days more will resume his many and responsible duties.

—By means of a change of the Senior Dormitory to the rooms formerly used for vocal instruction, commercial branches and society hall, the Chapel has been regained. The stage was erected during the summer, the hall thoroughly renovated, and a wide, improved entrance made from Church street. This together with the introduction of electric light has again given this much longed auditorium to the school and to the public. No recent improvement will be more appreciated than this.

—Quite a number of our teachers made vacation trips; Miss TIETZE's visit to Pennsylvania, Miss VEST's sojourn at Piedmont Springs, Miss SIEWER's stay at Black Mountain, Miss COOPER's summer spent with her parents in Knoxville, Tennessee, Miss RONDTHALER's visit in various northern States, while others spent some time with friends near Salem.

—Mr. CLEWELL's birthday was ushered in by a number of the pupils going over to the Principal's house very early in the morning and singing a selection of chorals appropriate to the day. Later it was found that an elegant hat rack stand, 16th century style, had been placed in the hall, accompanied by the good wishes of the girls. At the breakfast table there was an exquisite floral decoration and Mr. CLEWELL thanked the scholars for their tasty and hearty remembrances of the day and announced Tuesday as the time for the usual holiday. All then united in a hymn before the meal was partaken of. As THE ACADEMY is printed too soon for an account of the holiday, the experiences of that day will be given in the October issue.

—We give below the names of the teachers in charge of the various room companies:

- Senior Rooms, Miss LEHMAN.
- 3rd Room, Miss SALLIE SHAFFNER and Miss FLORENCE MEINUNG.
- 4th Room, Miss LOU SHAFFNER and Miss MARY MEINUNG.
- 5th Room, Miss TIETZE and Miss HEGE.
- 6th Room, Miss JONES and Miss CARRIE MICKEY.
- 7th Room, Miss PITTMAN and Miss COOPER.
- 8th Room, Miss VEST and Miss FAIN.
- 9th Room, Miss CHITTY and Miss BESSENT.
- 10th Room, Miss HEISLER and Mrs. SMITH.
- Park Hall, Miss FOGLE and Miss GRACE WOLLE.

—The list of regular pupils who have thus far registered is as follows :

Daisy Crutchfield, Lillian Crutchfield, Nannie Shell, Julia Jones, Jessie Peterkin, Mabel Peterkin, Sallie Jarvis, Bessie Brooke, Kate Brooke, Josie Rawley, Laura Leslie, Mary Osterbund, Katie Crouch, Jennie Crouch, Ella Anderson, Margie Flake, Beulah Brooks, Bertha Dawson, Mattie Killett, Mary Mills, Sallie Mills, Lottie Patterson, Birdie Bridgers, Lula Grogan, Lizzie Smith, Carrie Covington, Annie May Schoolfield, Daisy Schoolfield, Emma Kapp, Hattie Adams, Lizzie Majette, Mary McCauley, Christina McFadyen, Lizzie Williams, Agnes Stallings, Minnie Lunceford, Nellie Lunceford, Katie Harris, Lucy Brown, Mattie Cooper, Blanche Wood, Mamie Lewis, Lucy Ball, Maud Check, Lucia Swanson, Fannie Creight, Mary McKeown, Fannie Pace, Alice Rawlings, Lillian Crenshaw, Tallulah Robbins, Aldred Mallory, Alice Mallory, Allatia Westbrook, Eliza Gulick, Clyde Peacock, Susie Wright, Jennie Harper, Mary Register, Cora Vogler, Carrie Cowles, Cora Cowles, Hessie Yancey, Lilly Yancey, Carrie Ollinger, Onie Terrell, Ethel Roberts, Daisy Thompson, Laura Huff, Alice Gillespie, Blanche Morgan, Edith Clarke, Lena Colwell, Rosa Ellis, Annie Moore, Mary Moore, Fannie Moore, Paulina Welborn, Ella Neely, Dovie Chedester, Mary Clark, Lizzie Patterson, Carrie Rollins, Ethel Weaver, Annie Penn, Lizzie Burson, Mabel Duke, Pearl Duke, Fanny Perrow, Florence Toomey, Addie Lineback, Maud McGinnis, Tempie Hinton, Addie Nimocks, Ula Avent, Annie Carrier, Alice Bryan, Mary Lawson, Harriet Cross, Mary Stillwell, Clio Heard, Claudia Dicks, Louise Dicks, Mattie Williams, Prue Crouse, Rebecca Bear, Ola White, Elizabeth Nicholson, Narcie Taylor, Lizzie Wooten, Mary Robson, Nettie Glenn, Lillie Brown, Ida Orender, Mamie Vaughan, Effie Harness, Lula Young, Anna Hairston, Lettie Hairston, Mary Reid, Lula White, Sallie Hyman, Mary Conrad, Mamie Gray, Birchie Kirk, Lettie Gilmer, Bertha Shelton, Mena Hege, Fannie Conrad, Mabel Gray, Hattie Yerex, Mabel Johnston, Mary Tyler, Carrie Bahnonn, Mabel Butner, Agnes Siewers, Elma Hege, Gertrude Stockton, Bertha Shore, Ada Fogle, Katie Wureschke, Margaret Wureschke, Carrie Lineback, Mertie Stipe, Lucy Lineback, Alma Tise, Bessie Rempson, Maggie Pfohl, Emma Landquist, Ella Strupe, Dora Miller, Carrie Wellare, Bessie Foy, Agnes Garboden, Lula Shore, Minnie Tesh, Alberta Kerns, Pearl Stipe, Ollie Roninger, Daisy Brooks, Edna Fisher, Agnes Fogle, Tilla Stockton, Louie Siddall, May Franklin, Ollie Fain, Viola Davis, Fanny Griffith, Susie Reynolds, Huberta Read, Eliza Hoffman, Laura Hoffman, Cleora Hewson, Effie Gilmer, Anna Adams, Alpha Woosley, Bessie Whitner, Frances Leach, Maggie Threadgill, Todie McKay, Ethel Morris, Nannie Edwards, Ella Hege, Emma Vogler, Beatrice Smith, Ada Spaug, Sudie Sicheloff, Nellie Crowell, Minnie Allen, Nettie Allen, Florence Tise, Bessie Purnell, Annie Davis, Nannie McGehee, Florence Barrow, Fannie Dixon, Lizzie Crawford, Carrie Hoskins, Mary Hall.

In addition to the above many have registered for special work in the various departments, so that our numbers have reached about 260 all told, a very satisfactory number at this early date.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupil only, and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1 Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

*I feel like one
Who travels alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!*

1875.

- 5301 SALLIE B. HUDSON. — 1859
Allen Baker, Waltersburg, Tenn.
5302 NANCY B. COLEY. — 1857.
F. B. Coley, Dutchville, N. C.
5303 JOSEPHINE LIGHTFOOT. — 1861
Capt. N. M. Gunn, Byron, Ga.
5304 LUCY H. ROBERTSON. — 1858.
James D. Hamilton, Rockford, N. C.
5305 E. VICTORIA ANDREWS. — 1859
Dr. W. R. Andrews, Shelby, N. C.
5306 LAURA P. GRIMES. — 1861.
G. W. Grimes, Yadkin College, N. C.
5307 LENA B. MAVS. — 1860.
Rev. J. F. B. Mays, Knoxville, Tenn.
5308 MILDRED A. FITZGERALD. — 1859
Rev. Elias Dodson, Schokoe, Va.
5309 DORA C. POWELL. —
Dr. S. A. Powell, Winston, N. C.
5310 MATTIE WITHERS WADDILL. — 1862.
Mrs. Ann E. Waddill, Stokes County, N. C.
5311 BESSIE BROWN. — 1861.
Maj. T. J. Brown, Winston, N. C.
5312 ELIZA JEMMIE TAYLOR. — 1862.
I. F. Moore, Kansas City, Mo.
5313 EDITH C. SPEAR. — 1858.
L. C. Spear, Blount Springs, Ala.
5314 ANNA LAURA JEFFERIES. — 1857.
Wm. Jeffries, Gaffney City, S. C.
5315 SARAH COLUMBIA JEFFERIES. — 1857
Samuel Jefferies, Gowdiesville, S. C.
5316 MARGARET McDOWELL. — 1857.
John L. McDowell, Sparta, S. C.
5317 MARGARET W. BROADNAX. — 1860
Dr. J. G. Broadnax, Rockingham County, N. C.
5318 LIZZIE STARK CAMPBELL. — 1859.
I. M. Campbell, Griffin, Ga.
5319 FANNIE CATHERINE PITTMAN. — 1858.
Pittman Brothers, Gould's Depot, S. C.

1876.

- 5320 LULA MARTIN. —
Dr. Samuel Martin, Winston, N. C.
5321 MARGIE W. SMITH. — 1860.
W. H. Smith, Coxville, N. C.
5322 ELLIS G. WILLIAMS. — 1861.
Mrs. L. H. Williams, Lenoir City, Va.
5323 ALICE M. HOWARD. — 1857.
5324 LIZZIE R. HOWARD. — 1859
George J. Howard, Albemarle, Ga.
5325 LULIA M. HAY. — 1861.
Dr. P. A. Hay, Winston, N. C.
5326 MARY AREA. — 1862.
W. F. Area, Abbeville, La.

- 5327 NANNIE P. WEBSTER. — 1858.
5328 SALLIE LOU WEBSTER. — 1859.
George Webster, Madison, N. C.
5329 ALICE FISHEL. —
Forsyth County, N. C.
5330 IDA OLIVER. —
Winston, N. C.
5331 LUCY R. SIMS. — 1861.
Milton W. Sims, Bryan, Tex.
5332 L. ANNA SMILEY. —
Winston, N. C.
5333 LUNA JONES. —
A. M. Jones, Salem, N. C.
5334 KATE LEE WYNN. —
Salem, N. C.
5335 MINNIE L. PROVEANCE. — 1859.
Sammel McCarnick, Strother's, S. C.
5336 CLYDE PERKINS. — 1860.
J. J. Perkins, Greenville, S. C.
5337 FLORENCE M. MOORE. — 1858.
Dr. Alfred L. Moore, Welford, S. C.
5338 CARRIE LEE WALDROP. — 1861.
J. L. Waldrop, High Point, N. C.
5339 FANNIE H. BRIDGERS. —
Mrs. A. M. Bridgers, Winston, N. C.
5340 CARRIE L. SHARP. — 1861.
5341 FANNIE D. SHARP. — 1866.
Mrs. J. T. Sharp, Winston, N. C.
5342 ANNA L. PITTMAN. — 1861.
Mrs. Kosina Pittman, Scotland Neck, N. C.
5343 LIZZIE TOWNSEND. — 1851.
Richard Townsend, Lumberton, N. C.
5344 FLORA A. COZART. — 1861.
Sarah Cozart, Flat River, N. C.
5345 LORENA P. BOBBITT. — 1862.
Rufus Bobbitt, Franklinton, N. C.
5346 LAURA WHITE. —
Winston, N. C.
5347 FANNIE BETTIE TORIAN. — 1859.
J. P. King, Omega, Va.
5348 A. JOYCE GWYNN. — 1861.
James Gwynn, Elkin, N. C.

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs S L Patterson, Yadkin Valley, N C; Mrs Dr W M Earnhardt, Lenoir, N C; Mrs M McD Siler, Shelby, N C; Mrs Wm H Rice, New York City; Mrs Chas E Stevenson, Baltimore, Md; Mrs Wm Holman, Raleigh, N C; Miss Minnie Whitesell, Graham, N C; Dr A H Byrd, Atlanta, Ga; Miss Edna Lindsay, Reidsville, N C; Mrs Dr Strickland, Bethania, N C; Mrs Robert Butler, Savannah, Ga; Mrs W J Hndson, Wolfeville, N C; Mrs Julia A Jones, Bethania, N C; Mrs V W Long, Winston, N C; Mrs Iuo A Moore, Kansas City, Mo; Miss Minnie Beard, Oak Ridge, N C; Mrs Ann Sturdivant, Charlotte, N C; Mrs Idus Fielder, Silver City, New Mexico; Mrs M J Phillips, Monroe, La; Miss Maggie Spencer, Va; Mrs W M Kellett, Waço, Texas; Mrs L B Winkler, Stockton, Cal; Mrs D H Starbuck, Winston, N C; Mrs J W Fries, H W Fries, Miss Bessie Pfohl, A F Pfohl, Mrs Fr H Fries, B J Pfohl, Mrs L E Nissen, Timothy Vogler, Miss Mary Lewis, Miss Jessie Brown, Miss Anna Waggoman, Mrs R W Belo, Mrs J H Tise, Miss Jane E Welfare, Salem, N C.

Married.

HENLEY—CANNADY.—May 27th, Mr. JAMES A. HENLEY, of Franklinton, N. C., to Miss MARY A. CANNADY, at Oakland, the beautiful home of the bride's father, Mr. William Cannady.

SHEETS PADDISON.—At Titusville, Fla., Aug. 26, 1891, Mr. W. J. SHEETS to Miss KATE PADDISON.

We acknowledge the receipt of a copy of the East Coast Advocate containing a two column article describing the occasion. Our best wishes accompany the happy couple.

HARDISON—THREADGILL.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. J. M. HARDISON to Miss ANN ELIZA THREADGILL.

The Messenger-Intelligencer says: Mr. John M. Hardison, one of Morven's most prominent young business men, was married in this place last night to Miss Ann Eliza Threadgill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Threadgill. The ceremony took place at the residence of Mr. Threadgill, and was performed by Rev. T. A. Boone.

This popular and handsome young couple have scores of friends all through this section who join the Messenger and Intelligencer in congratulating them on this happy consummation of their fondest hopes. The bride and groom will leave for a Northern tour on the noon train to-day.

Obituary.

JONES.—Died, in Fayetteville, N. C., July 10th, 1891, ALICE C. JONES, in her 22d year.

From the Fayetteville Observer we clip the following: Very warm is the sympathy of the whole community for the sorrowing family of Capt. D. Jones in the affliction which has so heavily fallen upon the household in the death of the daughter, Miss Alice Jones, aged but 21 years—taken away in the fullness of the charm and grace of winning womanhood. Except to express our own cordial participation in this sympathetic feeling, we feel that we can add nothing to the beautiful memorial tribute to be found in another column.

WANTED,

A position as Book-keeper by a graduate of the Commercial Department.
Address, SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUTHEAST SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one I will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER,
JEWELER,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,

SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91—13.

THE SALEM STEAM BROOM WORKS,

Main Street, Salem, N. C.,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO., PROPRIETORS,

MANUFACTURERS OF

PARLOR, HEARTH, WHISK, STABLE AND FACTORY BROOMS,

which we offer the trade at lowest prices.

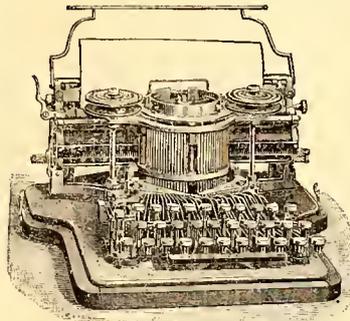

Soliciting your orders we are

Yours truly,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.
Salem, N. C., September, 1891.

— USE —

The Hammond Type-Writer.

For SPEED, DURABILITY and BEAUTY OF WORK it has no equal.

The SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, having tested it, has formally adopted the "HAMMOND," and recommends it where a first-class machine is desired.
For Catalogue and price write to

J. W. GANNON, Winston, N. C.

SCHOULER'S
MILLINERY ESTABLISHMENT,
THIRD STREET, SOUTH OF COURT HOUSE.

WE HAVE SECURED ONE OF NEW YORK'S MOST SKILLFUL MILLINERS, AND THIS SEASON WILL CARRY A VERY LARGE STOCK OF FINE GOODS, AND GUARANTEE ENTIRE SATISFACTION IN STYLES AND PRICES TO ALL OF OUR CUSTOMERS.

WE THANK THE LADIES OF SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY FOR THEIR FRIENDSHIP AND PATRONAGE, AND WILL ALWAYS GIVE THEIR ORDERS ESPECIAL ATTENTION

WORCESTER'S DICTIONARY

"The highest authority known as to the use of the English language."

With or without Denton's Patent Index.

The Standard of the Leading Publishers, Magazines, and Newspapers.

The Dictionary of the Scholar for Spelling, Pronunciation, and Accuracy in Definition.

Send for large Circular to the Publishers,
J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY,
PHILADELPHIA.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,
SALEM, N. C.
The Oldest Female College in the South.

The 90th Annual Session begins August 27th, 1891. Register for last year 356. Special features:—the Department of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Commercial and Industrial Studies.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

DAVIS SCHOOL.

Military Boarding School FOR BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

Full preparation for any College or for Business. Healthy location; fine climate; mild winters; excellent buildings; Cadet Cornet Band; Cadet Orchestra; Resident Surgeon. No Charge for Medical Attention. No Extra Charge for Languages or Sciences. Department of Art. Full Course VERY LOW RATES. For in Telegraphy Register with full particulars address
COL. A. C. DAVIS, Supt.,
WINSTON, N. C.

"Bingham School

stands pre-eminent among Southern boarding Schools for Boys."—U. S. Bureau of Education.

"Combines more desirable qualities than any other with which I am acquainted."—Lieut. J. B. Batchelor, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

"There exists not the equal of this School in my opinion."—Capt. Henry Wygant, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

More than 100 pupils from other States, the largest number in a Southern School for boys from outside the State of location.

Address,

Maj. R. BINGHAM.
Bingham's School, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851.

HORNER SCHOOL,
OXFORD, N. C.

FACULTY:

- J. H. HORNER, M. A., University of N. C. (Founder of School)
- Col. J. T. DREWRY, Com'd't, Star Graduate Virginia Military Institute.
- J. C. HORNER, A. M., Davidson College.
- G. A. WAUCHOPE, M. A., Ph. D., University of Berlin. Late Fellow Wash. & Lee Univ.
- Rev. J. M. Horner, B. A., B. D., University of Virginia and Johns Hopkins University.

PRIVATE LESSONS

German, French, Latin and Mathematics

L. B. WURRESCHKE.

Apply for Terms.

Feb. '91—61.

GRANDEST DISPLAY

TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS, LADIES' WORK BASKETS, FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't. Greensboro, N. C.
W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't Fayetteville, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
Salem Female Academy.

WHY

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway

is the BEST LINE for patrons from Salem, N. C., to Arkansas and Texas?

It is the Only Line that runs from Memphis to Arkansas and Texas Two Trains Daily.

Road Bed and Equipment are first-class.

Sure connection by all lines from the East, and when sufficient to justify a Special Pullman Palace Car or Day Coach will be furnished for the exclusive use of the party, with an agent to escort to destination.

The same arrangements can be made to return from Texas or Arkansas to the School. For complete Itinerary of Route, address

A. A. GALLAGHER, Southern Pass. Agt. 103 Read House, Chattanooga, Tenn.
H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.

A NICE LINE OF

OIL STOVES,
AT THE "BIG COFFEE POT,"
AT BOTTOM PRICES.

Our latest novelties are:

- Pat Flue Stoppers,
- Star Safety Razors,
- Perfection Cake and Pie Tins and Egg Beaters, all at very reasonable figures.
- Picnic Mugs,
- Pie Lifters,

We solicit a share of your patronage.

Very respectfully,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.,

THE BEAUTIFUL

NORTH.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrodsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 25 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 11 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England Points and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Columbus, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

SOUTH

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas; New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California. Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas Points, Anniston, Columbus, Montgomery, Mobile, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination.

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION CHAS. H. MILLS, Ticket Agt. C. S. BARRETT, T. P. A. Depot. Read House.

D. J. MULLANEY, Div. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
C. C. HARVEY, CINCINNATI, O. D. G. EDWARDS, Vice Pres. G. P. & T. A.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA

SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Pre-eminently the Teachers' and Pupils' Route.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us, patronized, subsequently, any other line.

This is the only line from Memphis running Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer in Memphis from Eastern Lines.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

Schouler's Racket Store.

- Dore's Bible Gallery, 100 Engravings.
- Milton's Paradise Lost, 50 Engravings.
- Dante's Inferno, 75 Engravings.
- " Purgatory & Paradise 60 Engravings.

Any one of these books, which are large and beautifully bound, will be given to a member of the ACADEMY when the amount of her purchases in SCHOULER'S RACKET STORE reaches $20.00,—not in one bill, but in as long a time as you please.

This store is a veritable Bazaar, and contains Dress Goods, Shoes, Notions, Jewelry, Stationery, Cologne, Ribbons, Bags, Trunks, Underclothes, &c., and the prices are the lowest in the Twin-City

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,
CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

CORNER OF THIRD AND MAIN STS.,
WINSTON, N. C.

OPPOSITE THE OLD STAND.

→* MISS EMMA L. LEINBACH, ←*

(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANOS HANDLED.

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about $75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up. 155 Lexington Avenue New York.

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her for responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal,

Salem Female Academy

Salem, N. C., Feb. 11, 1889.

A. SUSSMANN'S 232 6TH AVE. N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS 3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF 1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
SKETCHING STOOD 50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIV.

SALEM, N. C., OCTOBER, 1891.

NUMBER 119.

SALUTATORY.

BY MISS AGNES BRONSON.

Commencement, 1891.

EVERYTHING in nature at this season betokens eager life. The summer hastens through the blossoming fields of June with larger blessing among its garnered flowers. The mystical runes of nature are aglow with splendor, and in this joyous time when our hearts beat a happy accompaniment to the glad refrain it becomes my happy privilege to greet you, my friends, with fitting words of welcome.

We are glad to see you, and would fain greet each one individually if this might be. Among the honored guests who grace this occasion with their presence, we welcome with special pleasure Rev. WILLIAM H. RICE, of New York City, who will address us, Bishop VAN VLECK and others, and to every sympathizing friend in this crowded house we offer an affectionate, a hearty welcome. To our great regret Rev. Dr. MORRISON, of Atlanta, Ga., who so eloquently preached our Baccalaureate Sermon, was compelled to return to his charge.

There are loved ones seated here and there in this large assembly, parents and friends who have come from far and near to add to this our cup of happiness, which seems to be brimming over; they need no assurance from us that they are welcome, for it beams from our eyes and shows itself in every feature.

Numbers of the band of Alumnae, who have been sent out by SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY into varied fields of usefulness, have taken this opportunity to visit once more the scenes of their school-days. To them we extend a most cordial welcome. They know full well what our feelings are, for they once stood, as we stand to-day, waiting for the diploma which will entitle us to a place in their honored ranks, and though we are as yet young and inexperienced we are trying to amend that difficulty as rapidly as we may. These former pupils can fully sympathize with us in this our gala day, and we gladly welcome them back to their Alma Mater, who also greets them with affectionate pride.

Varied have been our experiences since "we first as class-mates met;" we have been united in a common bond of love and sympathy. It seems but a little time since we commenced our Senior year and noted the first developments of class-loyalty,—the girls gradually drifting into congenial cliques and coteries through similar feelings and associations. As the months rolled on a vigorous class-feeling exhibited itself, a liking for class-mates because they are your class-mates began to assert itself, and the class individuality was formed.

Naturally some days have been so bright that we scarcely deemed a cloud could darken our horizon, when lessons and hearts were all in tune;—but there were other days, though less common, when our sky was overcast with discontent and despondency, especially when it rained three-fourths of the time and we felt as if the burdens of life were rather too heavy. Now they are all gone, the bright days and the dark days, the days of gayety and those of sorrow, and to-day we stand on the threshold of a new life which is hidden from our view.

How we would like to know the experiences of each one in the years to come. Some may have their life-lines cast in pleasant places, others will not be so blessed; but we know that we will never again be as light-hearted and gay, as free from responsibility as we are on this bright June morning when we greet our gathered friends. We trust that the refining and elevating influences which have been exerted over us here will help us to fill our places more effectually and to bear the ills of life more bravely.

But it would be useless to cloud the brightness of to-day by vain speculations as to whether we shall be happier or sadder in the Future. If it now be pleasant weather let us be just as happy and as joyous as we can, and if troubles come bear them with all the fortitude at our command. We know that this is not an age of lotus-eaters, nor is it the land of Arcady, but a bustling, jostling place for workers, where the loaves and fishes are few, and the eaters many; where rank, position and wealth are like the Edelweiss, the reward of the patient climber.

For all this we are eager and willing to do our part, and we hope the ACADEMY will never have reason to be ashamed of us as her children. The great characteristic of the present time is its brightness; hard features have been toned down, perhaps in some cases too much so, and a cheerful optimism is taking the place of the old time's sigh over care and worry. The golden mean is probably the safe path here as in most cases, and we mean to try for it.

Relentless time is bearing us swiftly on and we cannot tarry, a few short hours and we shall be gone, and the Class of '92 will take our places. It will not be long before their graduating day shall roll on, and one of their number will greet you, as it has been my happy privilege this morning to do.

Soon you will go your way, I go mine, and thus the changeful kaleidoscope of life goes on and on never repeating itself. As we pass out of the safe and sheltered harbor of school-life into the open waters beyond let your smiles and your cheery approval attend us; give us your good wishes and your prayers, and we shall, with our great Captain at the helm, make a safe and happy voyage.

HONOR ESSAY.

BY MISS SUSIE GULICK.

"Eritus Acta Probat."

AS it was just one hundred years on last Sunday, May 31, since the great Father of our country, George Washington, stopped at the old Salem Hotel and spent the night in Room No. 13, everything connected with his life and character excites a new interest. The motto by which he regulated his noble life is so valuable that we selected it as the motto, the guiding principle, of the Class of '91.

This motto, "Eritus acta probat," (the end proves the deed)—has therefore been taken by us as our watchword. Almost any one can begin well,—a sudden excitement, a gush of enthusiasm, may set our steps in the right path, but it is only earnest, prolonged endeavor that will enable us to walk worthily to the end. Of course, first steps are valuable, for if the first were never made the second and third could not follow; it is only, however, the beginning, the end proves whether the work was well done.

Every person is responsible for the good within the scope of her abilities, and for no more, and none of us can tell now whose sphere is the largest. A mother, tending her child in the quiet seclusion of a Virginia home, saw no foreshadowing of his mighty destiny, and yet there came a day when an empire's fate trembled in the tiny hand then clasping hers.

We enjoy the fruits of Washington's work in the peace and stability of our government and nation. The end of his life, his serene, radiant sunset in the retirement of Mt. Vernon, when he might so readily have made himself king, proved the unselfish, patriotic character of his whole course; it stamped the seal of success on his work.

In Benedict Arnold and Aaron Burr we find examples of more brilliant intellect, but in the hour of temptation they yielded and their distinguished abilities made their fall the more dreadful. The end of such lives proves that they were not grounded in honor or true patriotism, and while their opportunities were even more favorable than Washington's, they lacked his sturdy uprightness, his stainless integrity.

We are not called upon to do the work of the great and gifted of the world, but merely to cultivate our own little corner of the harvest field. When we returned last September to complete our college course we were filled with lofty aspirations and bright dreams; we came back with renewed energy, eager to study and improve ourselves in every way. The energy of some flagged early; others kept on steadily until they reached the desired end.

A teacher who has labored twenty-five or thirty years giving all her care to her girls meets with daily difficulties and discouragements. Her work does not appear to make any visible progress, yet she is unconsciously sowing good seed and in after years, hundreds who go out to mingle with the world prove to be good and useful women and thus rise up and call her blessed. The fruits of her endeavor appear "after many days."

How often an enterprise is undertaken with fear and doubt for the result; at the beginning it appears difficult and the end uncertain, but when the work is completed and the result a success, how glorious the reward.

The working out of a life problem may be long and intricate but if the end is gained, the correct solution reached, we can afford to pass over the intervening roughnesses.

Bismarck's life-long desire was the aggrandizement of Prussia and through her the unity of a great Fatherland, in which the old Empire of the West under Carl the Great or the Holy Roman Empire of a later time, should once more be realized. He has accomplished it, a magnificent monument of one man's tact and skill and determination. It does not at all detract from the grand success of his life-work that the young Kaiser is not in sympathy with him—the results speak for themselves.

Victor Emanuel is likewise an example of the development of a great and noble life-work in the unification of modern Italy; his skillful moves on the great chess board of European politics show what a man can do with a fixed purpose to make a glorious end prove the deed.

If we turn to our own sex we do not, it is true, see such striking illustrations, because woman's work is not usually so conspicuous; but we can point to a George Eliot, gifted with a genius and intellect that placed her at the head of the shining bead-roll of celebrated women, and while we admire her intellectual greatness, we can but pity her that, as she grew older, she strayed away from the simple faith of her earlier years, and died an unhappy, a disappointed woman.

Our class colors, blue and silver, symbolize the truth and faithfulness that should be the foundation of every womanly character, and the purity without which any life must be a failure. "Blessed are the pure in heart" rings like a chime of silver bells through our life chords.

The relative success or failure of our lives cannot be so clearly determined during our years of usefulness or neglect, but when we are old and the quiet years of peace crown our work, and there are no more regrets for the things we ought to have done, the end of our lives will prove whether we have done our duty "in that state of life in which it has pleased God to call us."

So many young people begin well, but after a time they grow weary; they will not hold out. Their resolutions remind us of a little flower in Siberia, which pushes its way up through the snow and blossoms on the first day of the year, withering before the sun goes down on New Year's day.

After all, the test of our work comes just along the line of its finished results. The question is not "are we gifted with genius in science, or art, or knowledge, but how will the finished life-work appear to the eyes of the great Master of Life? Are we making the best of the materials granted to us! Are our days like pieces of polished stone set in the grand mosaic of a true and useful life? If so the end shall prove our work, and we need not be cast down nor disquieted when the auroral glory of the other life is flaming up the western sky.

Buildings and Grounds of Salem Female Academy.

MISS MARY CLARK.

AS the street cars sweep around the beautiful square just off the main street of Salem, the proud old buildings of "S. F. A." meet your eye. The cars carry you directly to the door, and when you pass up the granite steps and through the great front door, you find yourself in a large and spacious "T" shaped hall, on the first story proper. This story is occupied chiefly by study parlors, but following the hall to the left and turning directly to the right you come to the N. E. wing, which is occupied by a teacher's parlor, two class-rooms and a large room or hall leading through a short covered way into the Moravian church, which is always attended by the inmates of the ACADEMY. But retracing your steps to the main hall and taking the right hand division of the corridor and turning as before, you can either ascend the broad stair-case that winds around to the top of the building or pass out on the long back piazza—the students "boulevard," simply follow the hall straight on and passing down a few steps, enter the first floor of South Hall, where you find yourself surrounded by class and practicing rooms, an important and necessary feature, but not of special interest. The second floor of the main building is also used for study parlors, while the corresponding one in the N. E. wing is occupied by the apartments of the infirmary, and the same floor of South Hall contains a small dormitory, but its chief feature is the Library. This is supplied with many histories and the works of the standard authors besides quite a number of miscellaneous works. In addition to this is a small reference room. The third floors throughout the entire buildings are used for dormitories. We find the Studio on the last floor of the N. E. wing; the rooms of the vocal teachers are on the same floor of Main Hall; while the corresponding floor of South Hall is occupied by still another dormitory. We must now come down one of the numerous stairways and proceed to the dining-hall. This is a separate building just back of South Hall but connected with it in such a way as to have a square court between. Just above this important room, we find the Chapel, and just beneath the gymnasium. Back of the Main buildings and a little to the right are Annex and Park Halls, while the old annex or "Bagge" house is found to the west side of these and almost on a line with the N. E. wing. Annex Hall is quite a cozy, home-like two story building arranged very much like the main buildings, having the study parlors on the first and dormitories on the second floors. As we move on from these dormitories we pass through a short covered passage and find ourselves in two very comfortable and cozy rooms of still another building—this is Park Hall. As everywhere we find the sleeping-halls on the floor above, but just on the other side from the study parlors we come to the Industrial apartments—three rooms furnished very neatly—one as a sewing room, one as kitchen and the other as the dining room. This department is much enjoyed by the girls, especially on the days when regular dinners are prepared and served by themselves. Just below, on the first story, we find two splendid class rooms and a nicely fitted laboratory. The buildings are all connected in a convenient way, are furnished with pipe-water and every preventative for fire, and are lighted by both electricity and gas. Returning to the back piazza of the main building we pass down the steps by a beautiful fountain, having its base ornamented with many beautiful ferns and flowers; under a large old willow tree, whose branches almost sweep the ground—down a broad gravel walk having on either side stately oaks and beautiful grass plots, dotted here and there with hothouse flowers, lemon and orange trees, etc. We soon come to the arched gate and pass down the terrace into the beautiful school park. Nature has done much for these pleasure grounds, as we see when we pass down the numerous walks. One leads you down a right steep hill directly to "the bridge," over a picturesque stream that runs through the midst of the park, where looking back, you have an excellent view of "lover's leap." This is a favorite spot, adorned with flowers and a pretty little fountain on the top of a very steep knoll, which is covered with thick vines, as indeed a large part of the park is. Another path in a more "round about" way takes you to the stream by the little summer house—and "the terrace," which we may descend by means of several walks equally pleasant. We are now in the dell where we may rest on one of the rustic benches near a fountain and be refreshed by a cooling draught of the clear spring water, and gaze about for a little while. Looking north we see a beautiful pond of water lilies through the trees, while turning in the opposite direction past the bridge, we see the cows grazing on the adjoining meadow, but we must climb the opposite hill now and if we continue by the path from the spring we will soon find ourselves at the "big summer house" in the midst of many beautiful trees. Moving south we come to the tennis court and croquet grounds and also to the limit of the park, so we must retrace our steps. As we do we pass another bridge but this is over a large ravine, making the scenery more beautiful. The park contains large and stately oaks, with evergreens and other trees, over which the timid squirrels run to and fro unmolested, while in an enclosed plot between the park and yard we see the deer playing about. As we pass out through the remainder of the park and yard we may feel tired after our long ramble, but at the same time acknowledge ourselves well paid.

---

Chronicle and Gossip.

---

—Founder's Day was celebrated October 20th with the usual holiday. The pupils spent the morning quietly in their rooms, and at noon "Old Rouser" rang out the information that dinner was ready in the Park. The fire had been kindled just below the large pavilion, and the aromatic smell of the coffee was scented from afar. Miss Lydia, of course, presided over this department. Soon the happy faces of the pupils from the ACADEMY and from town filled the pavilion and the seats around it, and the sandwiches and cakes were busily passed from group to group. The somewhat cool air only added to the appetites of all, and full justice was done. The fountains were playing, the white gravelled walks were clean and fresh, a partial covering of russet leaves only added a charm to the green sward, the whole presenting a pretty and attractive scene. Soon after dinner Mr. CLEWELL started on a long tramp with the girls, to gather autumn leaves, and after reaching the beautiful spring some two miles from home the party found that a supply of rosy-cheeked apples and of Mr. Winkler's famous square ginger cakes were awaiting them. Of course, this was appreciated. Having gathered a bountiful supply of rich autumn leaves, the red mingling with the green, the golden with the brown, all started homeward. Arrived at the ACADEMY skillful fingers deftly decorated the study parlors and transformed their appearance. At 7 o'clock a number gathered in the chapel to listen to an illustrated reading, entitled "Marley's Ghost." At 8 o'clock all repaired to the dining-room, where icecream and cakes were served, and later a reception was held in the various rooms with their beautiful decorations of autumn leaves. Thus was celebrated the 89TH ANNIVERSARY OF FOUNDER'S DAY.

—From a Galveston, Texas, paper we clip the following concerning an entertainment given by local talent in that city:

"Miss FLORENCE SETTLE as Josephine was grand. She possesses a soprano voice of no ordinary quality, which is as clear as a bell and contains sufficient power to fill the house. The rendition of each one of her songs was a musical treat to the audience, a fact they were not slow to appreciate. Her appearance was greeted with the most enthusiastic applause. Miss SETTLE dressed the character beautifully in a pale blue and cream-colored sailor suit. In the last act she looked queenly in a creation of white silk and lace."

—Mr. Fogle has been driving out pleasure excursions of ACADEMY pupils for nearly 50 years. Many hundreds of Alumne will remember with pleasure his kind and courteous attentions on these happy occasions.

—DORA COX and MARY PENN have been spending some time with friends in Salem and Winston and have called at the ACADEMY.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., OCTOBER, 1891.

*Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.*

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.

Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

Pastoral Visits.

WE have used this term because the visit of a Principal to the homes of the pupils very nearly resembles that of a Pastor visiting in the midst of his congregation. During the present term it is Mr. CLEWELL'S intention to make a visit to the homes of as many pupils as it is possible to reach and still not neglect the duties of office and school-work. Since our last number was printed a trip has been made to Raleigh, Durham and Chapel Hill. In Raleigh he spent the day as the guest of Mr. J. W. Thompson, and was only prevented from shaking hands with a number of our many friends in that city by the brief time at his disposal. In Durham the night was spent at the home of Mr. Duke, part of the evening being pleasantly occupied in a visit to Mr. Brooks' home and that of Mr. Morgan. A pleasant drive over to Chapel Hill enabled him to spend the day with Mr. McCauley, in the pleasant University town. These visits, necessarily short, still have undoubted benefits attached to them, for they enable the Principal, who is for the time being guardian of the child, to understand his charge better, and hence to attain far more satisfactory results. If health and other duties permit a number of these journeys will be made during the year.

Recreation.

THE schools of ancient times believed in many and heartily observed seasons of recreation. In these days of rush and push in business pursuits too many persons look upon recreation as time wasted. To some extent this feeling has made its way into the life of many of our schools, though the stated holiday is becoming more common. The ACADEMY has always delighted to place on its programme for the school year at intervals of every few weeks a day for pleasurable recreation, and around the day is thrown every facility for enjoyment. Beginning with the Principal's birthday, when a ride through the neighboring country is most enjoyable; followed by Founders' Day in October, when the weather is cooler, the leaves are colored with their choicest tints, the long stroll is attractive to all, and the rooms are embowered in the wealth of leaves, the trophies of the stroll; this in turn followed by the Thanksgiving turkey and mince pie; Christmas, too, a longer season of rest, is one of the most pleasant memories connected with ACADEMY life: all these holidays and others that follow later are welcomed and treated with a care and enthusiasm quite unique. And the reward is to be found in happier and healthier girls, and life is often freed of some of its cares and worries because of the holidays. It would doubtless be well if some of our older friends would follow our example in this respect.

President Winston's Inauguration.

PRESIDENT GEORGE T. WINSTON was formally installed as President of the University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill, Wednesday, October 14th. The occasion was one of special import in the educational work of North Carolina, and will no doubt greatly influence the progress now being witnessed in every portion of the State. It was a great privilege to spend an hour on the bright morning in question in the quiet but beautiful University town, and especially pleasant was it to see the groups of friends from the nearer and most distant parts of the States. The students were in full sympathy with the occasion, and even the venerable buildings seemed to have donned a holiday appearance.

The inaugural exercises were conducted in the newly renovated chapel, and were participated in by Col. Kenan. Drs. Gilman, Battle and Winston. The oration of the day was made by Mr. Walter H. Page. Dr. Taylor opened the exercises with prayer and Mr. CLEWELL dismissed the assembly with the benediction. In the evening a banquet was tendered the guests by the newly elected president.

There were many points developed during the exercises calculated to cause thought in the mind of the educator. Among them we notice the tone of the address of Mr. Page, which called loudly for a radical advance in educational work and methods, equal to the advance in other spheres. We note also the bold and aggressive tone of the new President when he declared that to the University belonged the leadership in intellectual matters in North Carolina, and that the University would claim and maintain this right. We extend our congratulations to the faculty and students in this their time of enthusiasm and advancement, and congratulate North Carolina in that she possesses so aggressive an University within its borders among its many other fine schools and colleges.

Correspondence.

SOME time has elapsed since the daughters of the ACADEMY last met in social converse through the Correspondence columns, but hearts are as warm as ever, and tongues and pens can do double duty if need be to make up for lost time.

Our first, from Miss DELPHINE HALL, has been on hand quite a while, but the information therein contained of the daughters and granddaughters of the ACADEMY is ever welcome.

—We do not usually need the postal service as a means of communication, but on this trip we have met so many Salem girls, as well as daughters and granddaughters of others, that I thought you might be interested in hearing of them.

There were five in our party, two besides Aunt JESSIE, SADIE and myself, viz.: Mrs. T. M. Holt (LOUISA MOORE), and her daughter, Mrs. C. B. Wright (ELLA HOLT). Mrs. Holt's mother was MARY ANN BETHAL, afterwards Mrs. Sam Moore, of Caswell Co., N. C. After spending ten days in Philadelphia we left them, and joined Mrs. Stonewall Jackson (MARY ANNA MORRISON) in New York; she is there to superintend the publishing of her husband's life. Her mother, MARY GRAHAM, was also educated at Salem. She is of course deeply engrossed in her work, but seemed more lovely and attractive than ever.

Among the pleasant things of our visit to New York, none will be remembered longer than an evening spent with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Willard (HATTIE SWIFT). HATTIE sang for us, and her fine voice gives ample proof of the culture it has received.

While with Mrs. Jackson we called on Mrs. Jefferson Davis and Miss Winnie. Mrs. Davis received us in a charmingly cordial manner, and her graceful, brilliant wit was only equalled by her gracious dignity in the delightful conversation which of itself made the call to be ever remembered by us. Miss Davis was suffering from a cold and could not be seen.

One of the most elegant matrons of the "Southern Colony", in Brooklyn, is the wife of Dr. R. L. Mason. She is the daughter of ANNE READ, of Union Co., S. C., an old pupil of Salem, who married a Mr. Witherspoon, of South Carolina. Mr. and Mrs. Mason gave a reception to Mrs. and Miss Davis and Mrs. Jackson. When we reached the house the rooms were crowded, but we made our way to where, in front of a bank of palms and roses, stood Mrs. Mason, surrounded by the most distinguished representatives of the Confederate women. Miss Davis looked charming in white crèpon en train, trimmed in cord, pearl ornaments. A look into the intellectual face, the clear blue eyes that meet yours so frankly, a warm clasp of the hand, and you understand what has made the name "Winnie Davis" a synonym of what is estimable in woman. The time passed all too quickly as you may suppose, and in a few minutes we were on our way to New York.

—The next morning we left for Alexandria and Washington, and are now at Mr. Bedford Brown's. His mother, MARY LUMPKIN GLENN, 1811, an Alumna of the ACADEMY, married Bedford Brown, of Caswell Co., N. C. I am unable to give the class year of the other pupils.

We regret missing Commencement, particularly as all the notices describe it as especially enjoyable.

Affectionately,

DELPHINE E. HALL.

Alexandria, Va.

A familiar voice from the Land of Flowers is very welcome:

—The envelope directed in your familiar hand which I received just before going to the coast for a few weeks was a welcome sight, and I can assure you it was hastily opened and the contents greedily devoured.

I have had letters from the girls who live in Winston, but I feel quite proud of my letter; I know we all feel so when we receive one from you, for you have so many to write that you cannot get around very often.

As much as I desired to return with sister I saw that it was best for me to remain at home. I often think of you these first days of school, but it is hard to realize that it is another set of girls that belongs to you now instead of our class.

I am much obliged to you for attending to the class picture for me. It came very nicely, and I have had it framed and hung in my room. I am afraid you will find the new sleeping hall rather tiresome, a good many more steps to mount. Sister joins me in much love to yourself and Miss Chitty, and I hope it will not be long before I have another of your letters.

Affectionately,

Laura Whitner.

Fort Reed, Fla.

Our next is from EDNA LINDSAY, who lives at no great distance, yet we see her very seldom:

—It is hard for me to realize that I am an Alumna and will never again come back to dear old Salem as a pupil. While I am as happy as I can be at home, it is with regret that I feel I will not return to school in the fall. Enclosed please find 50 cents for THE ACADEMY.

Many thanks for sending my hat.

With much love and best wishes,

Sincerely and truly,

EDNA E. LINDSEY.

Reidsville, N. C.

ANNIE MAKEPEACE writes from Providence, R. I., where she is evidently having a good time:

—You are back in the ACADEMY again, and it seems strange not to be back there myself. Did you enjoy your vacation? I hope so, for we all thought you needed a rest very much. Has THE ACADEMY been issued this year? I send the money for it, and would like it sent to me here this winter at least

I came on North about two weeks after school closed, and have had a very pleasant summer. Sister went back to the Conservatory at Boston this year, and I went down this week to see her. I enjoyed the trip very much, and hope to go again soon. It will be nice to see her oftener this year than I did last.

Will any of our class come back except ROSA ELLIS as Post Graduates this year? I should like to make a call at the ACADEMY but it would not seem natural unless I could stay in the North Senior room.

I would be so glad to receive a letter from you if you could find time to write to me.

Yours lovingly,

ANNIE MAKEPEACE.

CARRIE EDWARDS writes as follows:

—Five weeks have flitted by since my home-coming, and though I have often thought and spoken of you this is the first opportunity I have had to write. Two weeks of the five have been spent in visiting, but now I am at home for the summer. I send you one dollar, for which please send me a class picture. I believe I prefer the first copy, but really it does not matter.

Papa sends regards, and please accept much love and gratitude from your old pupil,

CARRIE EDWARDS.

Alumnae Scholarship Endowment.

Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Bahnson,	$ 36.00
Previously acknowledged,	552.10

Total,	$588.10
--------	----------

Chronicle and Gossip.

—NELLIE CRAMER was with friends in Salem and Winston during a portion of September.

—Mrs. Craig (CAPPIE HENRY) was here in September, and rode with Mr. Fogle on the high front seat of the band wagon on one of the trips, September 22d. She said it brought back old times very vividly.

—The Salem Orchestra and the Salem Philharmonic Society took a prominent part in the Musical Festival recently held at Raleigh, N. C. The festival was a success in every respect, and our friends speak in high terms of the hospitality extended by the Raleigh citizens.

—The following boarding pupils have registered since our September number was published:

Carrie Greer.	Mary Lucky.
Josephine Garrett.	Bertha Spainhour.
Alice Cordill.	Marie Raht.
Irma Cordill.	Lillian Davis.
Blanche Sims.	Kate Cranor.
Carr Chisman.	Claudia Palmer.
Mary Wood.	Agnes Coleman.

—Thursday evening, Oct. 15, the Moravian church witnessed a very happy occasion, namely, the marriage of Miss ELIA SHORE and Mr. John Seaber. Miss SHORE was associated with the ACADEMY for a number of years, and is esteemed by all for her amiable disposition and her faithful discharge of the responsible duties entrusted to her care. Mr. Seaber, too, has often labored for the interests of our institution in connection with the Salem Orchestra, and hence we extend our best wishes to these friends as they together begin a new chapter in life's journey.

—An abstract of the news of the day is placed on a large slate blackboard in the lower hall each morning. It is a small thing in itself considered, but forms one of those quiet, educating influences which have their effect in broadening the minds of the pupils. Then, too, it seems to open a window into the outer world.

—Tuesday, September 22d, was the holiday appointed to celebrate Mr. CLEWELL's birthday. Recitations were suspended, and at 8 o'clock about half a dozen teams were in front of the ACADEMY ready to give the girls a ride into the country. Mr. Fogle was, of course, there with four horses hitched to the big band wagon, and soon the first party was merrily passing down Main Street toward the Salem Creek. The ride was down as far as Dr. Bahnson's farm, and thence along the beautiful boulevards of the South Side Land Co., with its charming views, back to the ACADEMY. This route was gone over again and again, until just as the clock struck six in the evening the last party returned to the School.

The dinner was enjoyed by all, especial care having been given to the bill of fare. In the evening Dr. RONDTHALER delivered a lecture to the pupils on scenes in Europe, illustrated with stereopticon views, Mr. Fred Bahnson kindly presiding at the lantern. After the close of the lecture the pupils spent a short time in the Gymnasium. The day was very happily spent, one pupil saying to Mr. CLEWELL: "If you would not grow old too soon we would like your birthday to come every month."

—The stereopticon evenings have been commenced for the year. It will be remembered by the readers of THE ACADEMY that last year a fine instrument was purchased and a series of entertainments given, partly for amusement and partly for aid in class-room work. The laboratory, with a seating capacity of 100, is so arranged that it can be darkened at a moment's notice, and hence the lantern can be used in connection with day lectures in this room. The renovated chapel affords a place for all pupils in evening entertainments. Dr. RONDTHALER opened the evenings as noted elsewhere, and Mr. CLEWELL followed with a general lecture, interspersed with readings. The list of views was as follows: 1. The Challenge (colored); 2. Babylonian Lion, with reading; 3. Map of North America; 4. SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY; 5. Capitol at Washington; 6. Treasury; 7. Patent Office; 8. Elephant, with reading; 9. White House; 10. Water Babies (in marble); 11. Washington Monument; 12. Tomb of Washington; 13. Ship at Anchor (colored view).

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs D M Williard, New York; Miss Hattie Foster, Americus, Ga; Miss Mattie Mason, Conclave, N C; Miss Snsie Gulick, Columbia, S C; Miss Annie Makepeace, Providence, R I; Mrs M E Scarborough, Ridge Spring, S C; Mrs F W Foster, Wilmington, N C; Mrs R Len Anderson, Chattanooga, Tenn; Mrs J G Sides, Miss Tillie Harmon, Kernersville, N C; Miss O S Warner, Miss Jennie Sieger, Miss Helen de Schweinitz, Bethlehem, Pa; Mrs S M Pritchett, Staten Island, N Y; Mrs M A Hartstene, N Y; Miss Emma Schiff, Charlotte, N C; Miss Lena Fields, Kinston, N C; Miss Mattie Woodell, Raleigh, N C; Miss Maud Harris, Reidsville, N C; Mrs J H Minge, Fausdale, Ala; Mrs J C Miller, Mrs Florence Stockton, Mrs C J Watkins, Miss Carrie Riggs, Mrs I E Gilmer, Winston, N C; Miss Amy Van Vleck, Miss Hermina Foltz, Miss Ida Moore, Miss M E Vogler, Mrs E W Kremer, Miss S E Shaffner, Miss Florence E Mhung, Mrs W H Hall, Mrs E W Lineback, Mrs R L Patterson, Mr W T Spaug, Mr Jas T Lineback, Miss Mary Welfare, Mrs Susan Keeblin, Mrs Frank Hege, Mrs H T Babuson, Mrs Allen A Spaug, Salem, N C; Mrs Lucie Thompson, Tusculmbia, Ala; Mrs C C Parter, Ripley, W Tenn; Miss Madge Graham, Forest, Miss; Mrs Ada Hemsath, Roseville, Ohio; Miss Mattie Barron, Toisnot, N C; Miss Martha Jeffreys, Neuse, N C; Mr Jas H. Atkins, Charlottesville, Va; Mrs Thos Holt, Miss Annie Hill, Raleigh, N C; Miss Annie Boyd, Magnolia, Miss; Miss Roxie Arnfield, Greensboro, N C; Mrs C W Kellinger, Norfolk, Va; Miss Maggie McKinnon, Rowland, N C; Miss Fannie McDowell, Island Ford, N C; Mrs J W Biting, Manor, Texas; Mr E H Austin, Philadelphia, Pa; Mrs J F Ramsay, Asheville, N C; Miss Daisy Ruff, Rock Hill, S C; Miss Eula Cox, Dunn, N C; Miss Mollie Spach, Bethlehem, Pa; Miss Lenora F McCoy, Dickinson, N C; Mrs E C William, Tyler, Texas; Miss Annie L Ogburn, Smith's X Roads, Va; Miss Mattie R Campbell, Houston, Texas; Mr J W Copeland, Clinton, S C; Mr F W Lineback, Bethlehem, Pa; Mrs C A Fogle, Miss Pattie Beck, Salem, N C; Mrs Dr Ector, Mrs Cora Lipford, Mrs W T Brown, Winston, N C.

The Academy Register.

{The following list gives the names of resident pupil only, and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1 Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.

*—I feel like one
Who trades alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fed,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!*

1876.

5349 CYNTHIA C SWANN. — 1860.
Hon. J. P. Swann, Dauridge, Tenn.
5350 JESSIE Y. REVELLE. — 1862.
Winston, N C
5351 NETTIE ROSENTHAL. — 1866.
Winston, N C.
5352 SALLIE CAROLINE KEY. — 1864.
Hon. D. M. Key, Chattanooga, Tenn.
5353 MINNIE H. FRANCE. — 1860.
Capt. A. G. France, Asheville, N. C.
5354 MARY B. SANCHEZ. — 1862.
Wm. E. Jackson, Augusta, Ga.
5355 LEONORA GWYNN — 1857.
James Gwynn, Elkin, N. C.
5356 MARY E. HICKS. — 1861.
Col. W. J. Hicks, Raleigh, N. C.

5357 MAGGIE HARDY. — 1860.
J. W. Hardy, Lewiston, N. C.
5358 ANNIE FRANCE. — 1861.
Capt. H. C. France, Asheville, N. C.
5359 ANNIE LIZZIE BURCH. — 1863.
J. W. Burch, Augusta, Ga.
LILLIE DAVIS. — 1861.
A. V. Davis, Pass Christian, Miss.
5361 SALLIE BELL RODGERS. — 1863.
Mrs A. S. Rodgers, Camden, S. C.
5362 MINNIE E. WEAVER. — 1862.
Tredell Conroy, N. C.
5363 ANNA B. WITHERS. — 1861.
5364 CORA L. WITHERS. — 1863.
Rev. W. P. Withers, Davidson College, N. C.
5365 ANNIE M. HOLLISTER. — 1861.
Jas. D. Hollister, Winston, N. C.
5366 MARY LILLY SCOTT. — 1862.
Levy M. Scott, Greensboro, N. C.
5367 CASSIE BRAME. — 1860.
Rev. W. A. Brame, Louisburg, N. C.

1877.

5368 ADELAIDE MARABLE. — 1855.
D. T. Marable, Winston, N. C.
5369 ARIETTA SUIT. — 1861.
R. L. Suit, Dutchtville, N. C.
5370 MINNIE L. CULLIER. — 1863.
Mrs. Mary E. Collier, Jackson, Miss.
5371 MAGGIE O FOTTS. — 1860.
L. A. Fotts, Davidson College, N. C.
5372 BETTIE D. COFFEED. — 1860.
P. J. Coppedge, Wadesboro, N. C.
5373 HELEN L. SMITH. — 1862.
S. H. Smith, Winston, N. C.
5374 MARY L. CREIGHT. — 1863.
W. B. Creight, Wimsboro, S. C.
5375 DORA A. McDOWELL. — 1862.
Robt. W. McDowell, Charlotte, N. C.
5376 EMMA D. WILSON. — 1859.
John I. Wilson, Charlotte, N. C.
5377 MOLLIE S. MOTLEY. — 1860.
E. H. Pass, Mocksville, N. C.
5378 SALLIE B. BROWN. — 1862.
R. D. Brown, Mocksville, N. C.
5379 CHARLOTTE H. DULIN. — 1862.
Wiley A. Clement, Mocksville, N. C.
5380 DORA STEINER. — 1861.
Dr. W. R. Sharpe, Fulton, N. C.
5381 BESSIE M. BROWN. — 1861.
J. R. Brown, Greenville, Tenn.
5382 ALICE R. MILLIGAN. — 1860.
Elizabeth R. Milligan, Greenville, Tenn.
5383 DIXIE WELCKER. — 1863.
B. F. Welcker, Kingston, Tenn.
5384 NANNIE ROBERTS. — 1861.
Thomas A. Brown, Chattanooga, Tenn.
5385 MAGGIE WESTER. — 1860.
5386 ANNIE MAUD WESTER. — 1863.
James Westey, Kingston, Tenn.
5387 IDA L. ROGERS. — 1862.
Charles L. Rogers, Macon, Ga.
5388 LILLIE M. LASH. — 1861.
Thomas E. Lash, Bethunia, N. C.
5389 FANNIE E. FAIRCLOTH. — 1863.
Henry A. Holder, Winston, N. C.
5390 MOLLIE WILKINS. — 1861.
Wm. J. Wilkins, Turbeville, Va.
5391 LELIA WEBB. — 1861.
Mrs Davis, Winston, N. C.
5392 BASSA VIOLA ALEXANDER. — 1861.
Col. R. B. Alexander, Charlotte, N. C.
5393 BETTIE D. BROWN. — 1861.
W. A. Brown, Davidson College, N. C.
5394 LILLIE JACKSON MURRAY. — 1863.
D. C. Murray, Raleigh, N. C.
5395 JULIA ALBEE. — 1860.
Rev W. W. Albee, Winston, N. C.
5396 MAGGIE KEY. — 1866.
Hon D. M. Key, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Married.

BRIEZE-PRICE, in Rogersville, Tenn. Wednesday, October 21st, Mr JOHN BRIEZE to Miss LENNIE PRICE. THE ACADEMY extends its best wishes.

WANTED,

A position as Book-keeper by a graduate of the Commercial Department.
Address, SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

S. E. ALLEN,
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,
CROCKERY and HARDWARE.
CORNER OF THIRD AND MAIN STS.,
WINSTON, N. C.
OPPOSITE THE OLD STAND.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one I will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,
W. T. VOGLER,
JEWELER,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-19.

THE SALEM STEAM BROOM WORKS,

Main Street, Salem, N. C.,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO., PROPRIETORS,

MANUFACTURERS OF

PARLOR, HEARTH, WHISK, STABLE AND FACTORY BROOMS,

which we offer the trade at lowest prices.

Soliciting your orders we are

Yours truly,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.
Salem, N. C., September, 1891.

→* MISS EMMA L. LEINBACH,*←
(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANOS HANDLED.

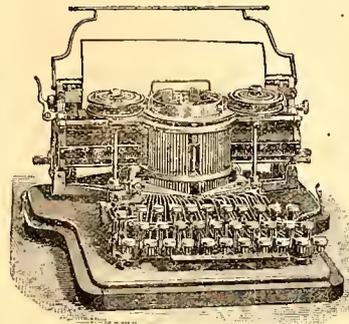

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about $75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up.
155 Lexington Avenue New York.

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her for responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Salem, N. C., Feb. 11, 1889. Salem Female Academy

— USE —
The Hammond Type-Writer.

For SPEED, DURABILITY and BEAUTY OF WORK it has no equal.

The SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, having tested it, has formally adopted the "HAMMOND," and recommends it where a first-class machine is desired.
For Catalogue and price write to

J. W. GANNON, Winston, N. C.

SCHOULER'S
MILLINERY ESTABLISHMENT,
THIRD STREET, SOUTH OF COURT HOUSE.

WE HAVE SECURED ONE OF NEW YORK'S MOST SKILLFUL MILLINERS, AND THIS SEASON WILL CARRY A VERY LARGE STOCK OF FINE GOODS, AND GUARANTEE ENTIRE SATISFACTION IN STYLES AND PRICES TO ALL OF OUR CUSTOMERS.

WE THANK THE LADIES OF SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY FOR THEIR FRIENDSHIP AND PATRONAGE, AND WILL ALWAYS GIVE THEIR ORDERS ESPECIAL ATTENTION

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N. Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,
SALEM, N. C.
The Oldest Female College in the South.

The 90th Annual Session begins August 27th, 1891. Register for last year 35¢. Special features:—the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Commercial and Industrial Studies.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

DAVIS SCHOOL.

Military Boarding School

FOR BOYS AND YOUNG MEN.
Full preparation for any College or for Business. Healthy location; fine climate; mild winters; excellent buildings; Cadet Cornet Band; Cadet Orchestra; Resident Surgeon. No Charge for Medical Attention. No Extra Charge for Languages or Sciences. Department of Art. Full Course in Telegraphy.

Register with full particulars address
COL. A. C. DAVIS, Supt.,
WINSTON, N. C.

"Bingham School

stands pre-eminent among Southern boarding Schools for Boys."—U. S. Bureau of Education.

"Combines more desirable qualities than any other with which I am acquainted."—Lieut. J. B. Batchelor, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

"There exists not the equal of this School in my opinion."—Capt. Henry Wygant, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

More than 100 pupils from other States, the largest number in a Southern School for boys from outside the State of location.

Address,
Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Bingham's School, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851.

HORNER SCHOOL,
OXFORD, N. C.

FACULTY:

J. H. HORNER, M. A., University of N. C. (Founder of School.)
Col. J. T. DREWRY, Com'd't, Star Graduate Virginia Military Institute.
J. C. HORNER, A. M., Davidsnn College.
G. A. WAUCHIOPE, M. A., Ph. D., University of Berlin. Late Fellow Wash. & Lee Univ.
Rev. J. M. Horner, B. A., B. D., University of Virginia and Johns Hopkins University.

PRIVATE LESSONS

German, French, Latin and Mathematics

L. B. WURRESCHKE.

Apply for Terms. Feb. '91-6t

GRANDEST DISPLAY

TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS, LADIES' WORK BASKETS, FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't.
Greenboro, N. C.
W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't
Fayetteville, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
Salem Female Academy.

WHY

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway

is the BEST LINE for patrons from Salem, N. C., to Arkansas and Texas?

It is the Only Line that runs from Memphis to Arkansas and Texas Two Trains Daily.

Road Bed and Equipment are first-class. Sure connection by all lines from the East, and when sufficient to justify a Special Pullman Palace Car or Day Coach will be furnished for the exclusive use of the party, with an agent to escort to destination.

The same arrangements can be made to return from Texas or Arkansas to the School. For complete Itinerary of Route, address

A. A. GALLAGHER, Southern Pass. Agt.
103 Read House, Chattanooga, Tenn.
H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

A NICE LINE OF

OIL STOVES,
AT THE "BIG COFFEE POT,"
AT BOTTOM PRICES.

Our latest novelties are:

- Pat Flue Stoppers, Picnic Mugs,
- Star Safety Razors, Pie Lifters,
- Perfection Cake and Pie Tins and Egg Beaters, all at very reasonable figures.

We solicit a share of your patronage.

Very respectfully,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.,

NORTH.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrodsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 35 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 11 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England Points and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

SOUTH

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas; New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California. Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas Points. Anniston, Columbus, Montgomery, Mobile, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination. For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION CHAS. H. MILLS, Ticket Agt. C. S. BARRETT, T. P. A. Depot.

D. J. MULLANEY, Div. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
C. C. HARVEY, CINCINNATI, O. D. G. EDWARDS, Vice Pres. G. P. & T. A.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA
SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Pre-eminently the Teachers' and Pupils' Route.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us, patronized, subsequently, any other line.

This is the only line from Memphis running Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer in Memphis from Eastern Lines.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

"SOLD ON MERIT."

THE LIGHT-RUNNING "DOMESTIC"

IS SOLD BY

W. P. ORMSBY,
TWIN-CITY MUSIC HOUSE,
WINSTON, N. C.

Do you want a Piano?
Do you want an Organ?
Do want any Musical Instrument?

W. P. ORMSBY

is agent for STIEFF'S Celebrated Pianos, and LORING & BLAKE'S Palace Organs.

Liberal allowance for old instruments in exchange.

Call or write to

W. P. ORMSBY, Twin-City Music House,
WINSTON, N. C.

Oct. 1891-19.

Schouler's Racket Store.

- Dore's Bible Gallery, 100 Engravings.
- Milton's Paradise Lost, 50 Engravings.
- Dante's Inferno, 75 Engravings.
- " Purgatory & Paradise 60 Engravings.

Any one of these books, which are large and beautifully bound, will be given to a member of the ACADEMY when the amount of her purchases in SCHOULER'S RACKET STORE reaches $20.00,—not in one bill, but in as long a time as you please.

This store is a veritable Bazaar, and contains Dress Goods, Shoes, Notions, Jewelry, Stationery, Cologne, Ribbons, Bags, Trunks, Underclothes, &c., and the prices are the lowest in the Twin-City

L. V. & E. T. BLUM,
BOOKSELLERS, STATIONERS AND PRINTERS,
Salem, N. C.

Print THE ACADEMY, CATALOGUE, HOW TO GET TO SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY and other publications issued by the Institution.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIV.

SALEM, N. C., NOVEMBER, 1891.

NUMBER 120.

The Old Indian Graveyard.

BY MISS E. LEHMAN.

BETHABARA or Old Town as it is familiarly called, is interesting to us for being the first settlement of the Moravians in North Carolina, founded by a little band of colonists from Pennsylvania in 1753. Lord Granville one of the original eight proprietors of North Carolina, granted 100,000 acres to our forefathers, which they located here. A little group of Moravian villages sprang up: Bethania, 3 miles to the northward of Old Town, was begun in 1759; Salem, 6 miles to the southward in 1766; Friedland and Friedberg a little later. A memorial stone at the southeast corner of the Old Town church bears the inscription: "Wachovia Settlement begun November 17, 1753." Old Town gradually lost its importance as Salem became the central and governing power.

The Seniors' autumnal picnic was spent again this year in Old Town, and after a most enjoyable day under the guidance of Mr. FOGLE and Mr. PFOHL, on our homeward way, we drove past the Old Indian Graveyard, a little west of the place. Crossing the bridge over the creek we turned to the left, and soon re-crossed the stream at a ford some distance below, where the Old Dutch Fort, the Palisades stood, that protected the infant settlement from the Indians, the Cherokees and Creeks, and furnished a place of refuge for the scattered settlers in the vicinity from 1753 on. There is nothing to mark its site any more; huge boulders lie all about, and the creek dashes over them with a bustling, brawling sound, as if it would fain call attention to the place once so noted.

Later, when the Indians had become friendly, they told how they had at different times been concealed about the Fort, and hearing the ringing of the church bell or the sound of the trombones, announcing a death from the old belfry, they thought they had been discovered, and so went away again, without molesting any one.

On the occasion of our visit, the sadly sweet spirit of the Indian Summer pervaded all nature. Every waft of wind brought fleets of fairy argosies, russet, scarlet and gold to anchor on the bosom of earth. The woods were covered knee-deep with leaves; there was gold all about us, underfoot, around,—the foliate treasures trod softer than velvet. The frost had hung a mantle of rubies even over the gnarled, scrawny Black Jack, usually so uncouth that the very birds laugh it to scorn, but on this day, it was glorified in the sweet haze that rimmed the world, while over all sifted the long benediction of sunlight and falling leaves.

Was there Magic abroad in the very air? It seemed so, and it was in entire accord with the old memories that haunt these hills and woodland nooks. It would not have required a very strong imagination, stirred up as we were by legends of long ago, to fancy stalwart Indian warriors stealing through the woods, peering down upon the improvements of the hated white man. As the soft breeze sighed through the branches, it was not difficult to fancy we heard the forlorn plaint of Indian lover and maiden, driven forever from their old hunting-ground.

"The lonely hill-top o'er
And the resounding shore,
A voice of wailing heard, and loud lament:
From haunted spring and dale.
Edged with poplars pale,
The parting Genius is with sighing sent;
With flower inwoven tresses torn
The dusky maids in twilight shades of tangled thickets mourn."

Fancy, however, gave place to reality, as we saw load after load of the numberless stones so plentiful about Old Town piled on freight trains, and sent to Winston to assist in macadamizing the streets of the growing Twin-Cities.

We alighted at the base of the hill, and directed by Mr. FOGLE, made our way through the tangled undergrowth of the Old Indian Graveyard. We found many grave-stones, some more recent ones of marble were dated as late as 1846 or '47. Others of soapstone or talc, with "Uncouth rhymes and shapeless sculpture decked,"

by the unlettered Muse, were dated 1788, 1791, 1800, etc. One stone was numbered

"60," but that did not represent the full number by any means. As we cleared away the leaves and moss, we saw the familiar names of Reich, Holder, Mickey, Volk, Noll, Fiddler, with the "natus" and "defunctus" of the Latin, instead of our "born," and "died."

From Mr. FOGLE's well-stored memory we gathered the following facts about the place:

During the Revolutionary War, Old Town and the Moravian settlements generally, were visited by various bodies of troops:—Pulaski's Legion, companies of militia from Virginia, detached bands of Cherokees and Creeks; after the battle of King's Mountain 300 English prisoners were kept here under guard by militia; in the memorable chase of Cornwallis and Greene through the Carolinas, both armies passed here on their way to Guilford Court House where a battle was fought. Gen. Pickens' corps also encamped here. Sick and wounded soldiers were left by all these troops; occasionally deserters and stragglers and robbers also came, and all who died of them were buried on this hill-side. Other persons from the vicinity were also buried here, for the Moravian rules excluded all from their graveyard at Old Town who were not members of their church. Naturally this so-called Indian Graveyard filled up rapidly; the Indians or soldiers who had none to care for them, had no memorial stones or tablets to mark their lowly graves. They passed away, like the leaves of autumn, to be succeeded by the aggressive, energetic Teutonic people, who seemed destined to subdue the whole world.

Stories of the long ago came trooping up like restless ghosts; many an unwritten tragedy was, no doubt, enacted here, and unnamed, unnoted heroes may sleep here, after their "life's fitful fever," whose circumscribed lot forbade them to rise to any eminence. The bears, wolves, deer, wild-cats and panthers that once prowled around here have departed with them.

On one occasion, in early days, a little company of children had been out gathering nuts; richly laden with the chestnuts so dear to the childish heart, they were strolling homeward, when they heard a pitiful, wailing cry, as if one of their number had strayed away and been lost. They ran back to the top of the last hill, when they saw an animal larger than most dogs, come loping along. They ran for their lives then, as they were not far from home, and the creature, evidently a large panther, did not pursue them farther. Several men went out with guns to hunt him, but did not find anything save the tracks to confirm the children's story.

Bear cubs were often tamed in those primitive days, and kept as pets, until they grew too large, or too mischievous, to be tolerated. On one occasion a half-grown bear tried to take some dried peaches from the pocket of a little girl who had often played with him. When she refused, he tore the whole pocket out taking with it a considerable mouthful of her chubby leg. The same pet later came to grief again; a timid old couple were seated at their usual meal, when the bear, who had a great appetite for sweets, came in at the window, upon the table, seized the honey, and cleared off everything else he fancied. This filled up the measure of his misdeeds, and he was killed.

As we gazed on the trees, brilliant with the hectic flush of swift decay, Bryant's beautiful lines came to mind.

"Ere in the northern gale
The summer tresses of the trees are gone,
The woods of Autumn, all around our vale,
Have put their glory on."

And again as we looked, we saw the Sauratown Mountains outlined against the north eastern sky while a little further north lay the old Pilot, like a clear cut sapphire, bluer than the blue sky all around, and the words came once more, like the refrain of sweet music.

"The mountains that unfold
In their wide sweep the colored landscape round,
Seem groups of giant kings, in purple and gold
That guard the enchanted ground."

As we drove homeward in the golden twilight, we felt as if we were indeed, leaving an enchanted realm, to enter once more the busy scenes of our everyday life.

Alumnæ Meeting Paper.

HAVING been requested to write a paper of reminiscences of my Salem school days, which lasted from 1862 till 1864, to be read at the annual meeting of the Alumnæ Association, I will bid memory travel backward, over a space of nearly twenty-seven years, and recall forms and scenes of long ago.

First of all must be mentioned our much beloved Principal, REV. ROBERT DESCHWEINITZ; how the girls clustered around and clung to him, on his every visit to the ACADEMY. In imagination I can see him now, walking through the play grounds, with a perfect bevy of girls around him, often carrying some of the 10th room girls in his arms.

REV. M. E. GRUNERT was Assistant Principal at that time, but afterward became Principal. The school was a large one in those days, filled to overflowing, as a great many of the girls were there as refugees, parents considering it a safe home for their daughters till those troubled times of war and strife should end. There were ten rooms, with twenty girls to each room, the 10th room being for the youngest girls. I was a 4th room girl during my entire stay. Will give a list of the 4th room company, just as it was written off for me, on a page of an old portfolio, by Sallie Phillips, and which I keep as a memento of Salem days. They were written in pairs, as day-keepers, viz:

Mollie Riley and Sue Dickson, Lizzie Gillespie and Sallie Batchelder, Corinna Seawell and Anna Robertson, Sue Redd and Sallie Covington, Laura Plunkett and Mary Crockett, Rhoda Early and Alice Mathews, Kate Steele and Fannie Leak, Kate Darden and Sallie Phillips, Jennette Esselman and Florence Wallace, Mary Wooten and Dora Dunn.

Teachers:—Misses Ernestine Reichel and Sallie Blum (now Mrs. R. P. Leinbach.) How I should like to hear of each and every one of them, to know how many of the number are still living and if "their lines have fallen in pleasant places." Indelibly impressed upon my memory are the New Year, Christmas and Easter celebrations and meetings in Salem. My daughter Carrie, who is in Salem now wrote me of her early rising on last Easter day, and of the service at the cemetery, which brought vividly to my mind the Easter days I spent in the ACADEMY, and almost made me feel as if I were once more a happy school girl in Salem.

I often think of that favorite walk through the shady Avenue; not many years ago I visited Salem and while there, walked through the Avenue for the sake of "Auld Lang Syne."

"THE ACADEMY PAPER" is an ever welcome visitor in our home as there are three of us who call the Salem school.

Alma Mater. The little paper was not published during my stay in Salem, but it came into existence about the year '78 I think. In one of the recent issues, I read of the death of MISS L. STAUBER, who was a much loved teacher, as I remember her, and taught the highest class in school, with the exception of the "Select Class," which claimed MRS. DENKE as teacher.

We knew not the comforts and conveniences that the pupils now enjoy, but have no doubt we were as light-hearted and happy. Indeed many and great are the changes wrought in and around the dear old ACADEMY, as the old and honored institution keeps abreast of the times, and offers all the advantages of more modern schools still maintaining the same discipline, which has been its safe guard for nearly a century.

Before closing I wish to offer a farewell clasp of the hand to all at present in any way connected with the ACADEMY, for though there be but few familiar faces among you, there is and ever will be a bond of union between us, our love for the dear old school.

For the Alumnæ Association, my wish is that it may steadily increase, year by year, in number and interest, cementing the ties that bind us to our Alma Mater.

MRS. S. OLLINGER.

(Sallie Batchelder.)

The Seniors' Picnic.

THE pic-nic to Old Town on Nov. 11th, was a most delightful occasion. The night before there was a heavy shower of rain which effectually laid the dust, and at the same time clouded over many faces, but the 29 faces cleared as if by magic, when the morning dawned bright and pleasant.

Soon after prayers MR. FOGLE, who has been the faithful helper of the ACADEMY during 55 years, drove up with his teams, and we were merrily rolling away towards Old Town.

Arrived at the quaint old church, we soon scampered across the meadow, up the high hill to the Old Town Graveyard. In the centre of the enclosed space is a granite shaft to the memory of MATTHEW STARR, the first Moravian Missionary to Greenland, who sleeps aside of it.

Gathering ferns and autumn leaves, we returned to partake of a delightful repast spread by MRS. CARMICHAEL. It is needless to say we did it ample justice.

When the afternoon was well nigh spent we once more gathered in our vehicles, and driving by the old Indian Graveyard, we came past the elegant yet unfinished Zinzendorf Hotel, and were at home by supper time.

The Victoria Regia.

DR. BAHNSON'S Victoria Regia, the gigantic water lily of the Amazon and wonder of the vegetable world, did not blossom this year, owing to the cool rainy month of August, which just preceded its blooming time. The leaves great platters, with the edges turned up, and the lower surface set with prickles and spines were very fine and large.

Last year its blossoming early in September was the sensation of the botanical world, as it was the first time it had bloomed in the open air, away from its native habitat. It was a great triumph for the Doctor, and a reward he richly deserved for placing such floral advantages within our reach as a school, not to speak of individual gratification. It was a botanical education in itself, to watch all these fine specimens of pure white, pink, deep red, blue, and yellow water lilies and Egyptian lotus plants, mature before our eyes.

The Doctor was likewise successful in producing quite a new variety of salmon pink water lily, by hybridizing. This new plant should by all means be named after him as its creator. The director of the world-renowned Botanic Gardens at Kent, 7 miles from London has written to him asking for the new variety, and offering almost any of their treasures in exchange.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The Young Men's Christian Association of Winston Salem, held its anniversary meeting in the Moravian church, on Sunday evening, November 8th. Rev. J. M. McCuiston, Mr. E. A. Ebert, the President, Mr. W. T. Spough, Treasurer, Mr. E. L. Harris, General Secretary and Mr. Weston R. Gales, Assistant State Secretary, occupied the pulpit. Each of the officers gave a short report of his work, and Mr. Gales delivered an excellent address. The Association is doing a good work among our young men and will no doubt be supported.

—The interest which the ACADEMY takes in her Alumnae, naturally extends to their families, and it is with great pleasure that we read a sketch of Judge Earnest, of Laredo, Texas, in The Gate City, published there.

He is the husband of JODIE WAUGH, (class of '83) and he appears to stand high in the estimation of his fellow citizens.

"Frank Earnest," as he was known in his boyhood home, at Jonesboro and Knoxville, Tenn., was for some time a writer upon the Tribune and well known for his sparkling editorials. He has carved his own way, ever keeping his honor bright, and his heart in sympathy with his fellow men. Among the people of Texas where he is spending his more advanced years, he is a representative citizen, sober, moral, assiduous in his business, and peculiarly devoted to his family and home. His success as a lawyer has been remarkable, and his rise in his profession is rapid. He is spoken of as a candidate for Congress, and wherever we hear of him it is as the Frank Earnest genial man, which his name indicates.

—In the trial of five hundred voices at the New York Conservatory of Music, last week, there were but five out of that number who obtained the "Double A" mark—the highest merit given. Miss ADDIE DEVOE LACIAR, second daughter of Joseph Laciard, of East Mauch Chunk, was one of the 5 who received the honor. Miss LACIAR is a graduate in Vocal and Instrumental Music, and has a diploma in Voice Culture from the SALEM ACADEMY of North Carolina, in which institution she was an instructor in Vocal Music for the term of 1890. Sickness in the family caused her to resign her position and return home. Since then she has devoted but little time to music. Her success in last week's trial proves that she retains her voice and talent to a high degree. Miss LACIAR will return home this evening from Brooklyn, where she has been visiting.—Mauch Chunk, Pa., Daily Times.

—A correspondent from Charleston, S. C., inquires of a Miss CORA BROWN, who went to school in the ACADEMY, about 10 years ago; no one seems to remember the name. Her father's name was William Brown, but beyond that we can find out nothing. Will any person who remembers her, or knows of her present location please inform us.

—NETTIE GLENN, of Winston, is a scion of the 4th generation which has attended school here in the ACADEMY. Her mother was a pupil here, her grandmother and her great-grandmother. If any school can produce a finer record than that, we would be glad to hear from it.

—Miss LEHMAN'S Pecan tree, raised from nuts sent some 10 years ago by MINNIE BURNITT, of Texas, has begun to bear, though the first year's crop is naturally small, as they come to bearing gradually. She has several younger trees raised from fine Florida nuts sent her by KATE and ALICE OLLINGER, but they are not yet old enough to bear. The pecans are handsome, well-proportioned shade trees apart from their nut-bearing value, and well worth cultivation. They belong to the Hickory tribe and Walnut family. The botanical name is Carya Olivaeformis. The flowers are monocious, that is the staminate and pistillate blossoms are on the same tree, so there is no danger of raising barren trees as some have asserted.

—We chronicle with sincere regret the death of one of our older Alumnae, Mrs. James Fisher, of Salem, maiden name FRANCISCO BENZIEN. She died of an attack of pneumonia, Nov. 18. Gifted with rare musical talents, she, her mother (Mrs. Caritas Benzien,) and her sister HERMINA, now Mrs. Charles Hauser, were years ago, teachers in the ACADEMY. Mrs. Fisher, has lived, since her husband's death in quiet retirement in Salem.

—MARY WOOD, one of our most faithful workers in the Studio, takes the premium for the best collection of paintings at the County Fair in Marlin, Texas, and she recently took the premium in Dallas, at the Texas State Fair, for the best painting. It would be interesting to visit the State and County Fairs over the South and see, here and there, pieces of painting and embroidery done in the ACADEMY.

—We sympathize deeply with Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Buffaloe (JULIA HICKS) in the death of their infant daughter Mabel Louise, born July 9th 1891, and departed Nov. 5th.

"Just came to show how sweet a flower,
In Paradise could bloom."

The funeral services were held at the residence of Col. W. J. Hicks, West Edenton street, Raleigh, N. C.

—REV. J. T. ZORN, former Principal of the ACADEMY is at present residing at Morristown, New York, near the Canada line. ANNIE, his oldest daughter, is the secretary and stenographer of Bishop Doane, of New York. JAY is attending Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y. It is difficult to imagine little DAISY, as tall as her mamma, but such is the case.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., NOVEMBER, 1891.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.

Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

Our Post Office.

IT will doubtless be a matter of surprise to the readers of THE ACADEMY to learn that a movement was recently made looking to the abolition of the Salem Post Office, and making the town a portion of the district of the Winston free delivery system. As this implied the loss of the Salem name, great and unanimous opposition arose on every hand, and steps were immediately taken to prevent the consummation of the proposition. The evident injustice to our historic town, to its business interests, to its educational institutions, to the country south of Salem, and to our State at large in the loss of an old, historic land mark, caused a hearty protest on the part of the citizens of both Salem and Winston. At the request of the Commissioners of Salem, Mr. CLEWELL went to Washington, October 29th, where he met Mayor H. E. Fries. They had an interview with Mr. Whitfield, First Assistant Postmaster General, and also with Mr. Stoddard, who had visited Salem as a representative of the Government, and the result of the efforts put forth by our citizens secured the assurance that the matter would be dropped. It was a pleasing feature to notice the ready sympathy shown by our sister town when danger threatened us, and it will doubtless be a matter of satisfaction to our many readers in the ranks of the Alumnae to know that after a century and a quarter of honorable existence the threatened loss of our name and existence as an independent town has been averted.

—The Educational Tour consisting of a party of twelve, under Mr. CLEWELL'S care, started on its visit North on Thursday, November 19th. They will visit New York, West Point, Philadelphia, Bethlehem, Baltimore, Washington and Mt. Vernon, and will be away about 2 weeks.

—The new rule of refusing to allow boxes of provisions to be sent from home has had a marked effect on the improvement of the sick room record. Very few girls have been to the infirmary this year and we trust the few parents who have not fully supported us in this matter, will do so from the present time on.

—The illness of Prof. GEO. MARKGRAFF who was stricken with paralysis some weeks since, has shown few favorable symptoms. His left arm is still quite helpless and a long time must elapse ere he can use the same. The sympathy of his many friends go out to him and his wife in this their deep distress. We will have more to say of the Professor and his past work in another issue. In the meantime the music force within the school has taken his pupils, and as soon as circumstances will allow this sudden and unexpected vacancy will be filled.

Correspondence.

We begin our correspondence for November with a letter received some time ago from AGNES BROWNSON:

—I should have written to you long before this, but I have been prevented by illness, from doing much of anything. It is so intensely warm here, that our chief aim is to keep cool, the thermometer ranges from 98 to 104 degrees every day, but we generally have a strong breeze from the Gulf, which makes us endure the heat much better.

I intend going down to Corpus Christi next week to hear Sam Jones, quite a crowd of us will go; we will also have delightful surf-bathing. This is the only trip I shall make this summer.

Have you heard from many of the girls? I have heard from several, BERTHA, ROSA, and SADIE. I suppose the ACADEMY looked desolate in vacation with all the girls gone. I hear our sleeping hall has been changed back into a Chapel again. I think it is too bad, and shall always remember it as it was when we were there.

I saw CARRIE TAYLOR when I passed through Texarkana; She looked well and happy. Well, my schooldays are over, and they were, especially my two last years, the happiest of my life though they were clouded at the end and my home life is naturally changed.

I send the money for registering my Diploma and thanking you for the kind attentions bestowed on me and hoping to hear from you soon, I remain

Affectionately

AGNES BROWNSON.

Cuero, Texas.

A communication from Miss KATHARINE EVANS, may prove of interest.

—I intended to write during my European sojourn but my many cares and duties prevented; now that I am at home, and well started in my new life, I have thought perhaps you would be a little interested in what I am doing. Mother and I have taken an apartment more centrally located, only three minutes walk from the Conservatory, and Union Square. As I commence my teaching every morning at 9 o'clock, and am apt to be late at night at concerts or at the Opera, it is quite a consideration to be so near my work.

My classes last from 9 till eleven, and then I am free the remainder of the day. My private pupils I have in the afternoon, and I have quite a flourishing class. Later on I shall doubtless be obliged to form classes for the Conservatory in the afternoon.

I hear almost nothing from Salem since I left and I often wonder who are the new teachers, what changes you made during the summer, how many new pupils there are etc. I intend to subscribe for the ACADEMY whenever I can remember to get postage stamps enough to send for the subscription. You would scarcely believe how homesick I have been for Salem, and my "sky parlor studio." It does not seem natural for me to be here in New York.

Remember me kindly to the teachers. Mother joins me in best regards, &c.

KATHARINE EVANS.

New York.

MAUD HARRIS writes from Reidsville; and glad we are to hear from her.

—I enclose a dollar for THE ACADEMY. It seems strange not to be at school this year. I am glad Reidsville is still represented in the ACADEMY, for we have had Reidsville girls there so long, and I hope our town will long continue to send representatives to my Alma Mater.

Lovingly

MAUD HARRIS.

Reidsville, N. C.

BERTHA HICKS sends a few lines which also remind us of her cheery presence.

Until a few days ago, I thought LIZZIE had paid for my subscription to THE ACADEMY, when she was up at the Commencement, but she says she did not so I send the money in this letter.

When the girls commenced going back to school, I was very anxious to go also, but I expect it was a good thing I did not go for Mamma has been confined to her bed almost five weeks, with rheumatism, and was quite helpless. She is much better now, and I trust will soon be well.

The children are all well, LOUISE often speaks of you, and her visit. Our pomegranate tree is full of fruit this year. They are right much of a curiosity here as there are few trees about. I do not remember whether they grow in Salem or not, so I will send you some.

Are you not coming to the Exposition? We would be so glad to see you. LIZZIE and mamma send love as well as

Yours affectionately

BERTHA HICKS.

Raleigh, N. C.

A few lines came from an old pupil, Mrs. Minge (BETTIE CHADWICK.)

—Enclosed I send $3.00 for which please send me the Souvenir Spoon: I am very glad to be able to get it. I think my subscription to THE ACADEMY has run out, and will be obliged to you if you will renew it for me.

Your old pupil

MRS. J. H. MINGE.

Faunsdale, Ala.

A short letter was also received from SUE HEARD, early in the summer.

—I lost a small purse containing a trunk key, and as it is a spring lock, I cannot well open it, or have one made. Perhaps you may have come across it, and if so, please send it to me.

I hope you are enjoying your needed rest; I wish very much you could visit us, and give Mamma, Papa and myself, the pleasure of entertaining you at Rose Hill showing our appreciation of your kindness.

Your little friend

SUE HEARD.

Elberton, Ga.

Our next is from Mrs. Dunklin, (formerly HALLIE ATKINS) who besides filling her place well in the domestic circle, has made her way as a successful teacher in Waco, Texas.

—I am glad to say I was re-elected to a position in the City Schools. I will soon begin my tenth year, in the school work, and have been quite successful. In a short time school will again commence in dear old Salem. Then how vividly my thoughts bring up my own school days as I think of the girls coming in from different States, their meeting with the teachers, and the girls.

I expect it is about time to renew my subscription to THE ACADEMY, I cannot do without it for it is a link that binds me to the happy past. I sent a great deal of love to you all by Mrs. Kellett (CALLIE TRICE,) I would so much have liked to accompany her, but it was impossible.

With love.

HALLIE A. DUNKLIN.

Waco, Texas.

Our last communication for the month is from HATTIE FOSTER.

I little thought I would have to send you my subscription for THE ACADEMY, and get it at home. I am sorry to say that circumstances have made me unable to return. I think of my old classmates meeting in the North and South Senior rooms, chatting as only school girls can. I think two of my friends will go to the ACADEMY this year. Hoping that my class will have a pleasant and successful year, I am

Yours truly

HATTIE FOSTER.

Americus, Ga.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Bishop RONDTHALER spent a couple of weeks in New York and Pennsylvania, early in November.

—The Blumenberg Concert Troupe gave a fine concert in the ACADEMY CHAPEL, on November 13th.

—Miss BERTHA SPAINHOUR was called home the end of October to attend the sick bed of her sister.

The Seniors' Oxford gowns and caps have been received, and were worn for the first time Nov. 22nd.

—Mr. CLEWELL suffered from a severe abscess in the head early in November, and was absent from duty about 10 days.

—Rev. R. P. LINEBACK, one of our Trustees, who has been ill for so long a time is now again seen on our streets from time to time.

—Mr. Edward Wessels who delivered a lecture on Jamaica last winter in the school, paid his friends in this place a short visit this month.

—We acknowledge with pleasure an invitation to the marriage of Miss MINNIE GROGAN to Mr. Geo. Beall. May joy and happiness ever attend them.

—The Hotel Zinzendorf in the West End is being rapidly finished, and will probably be ready for occupancy during the early portion of next year.

—One of our older Alumnae LUCINDA REDD, late Mrs. Preston, of Montgomery Co., Va., died about the middle of October, of an attack of pneumonia.

—While in Washington the end of October, Mr. CLEWELL enjoyed a pleasant call from SUSIE GULICK and Mr. Gulick. SUSIE is with her father at present.

—The foliage of the forests around town was very bright during the month of October, and the varied hues made the hill-sides appear like a great boquet of richly tinted flowers.

—Thanks to Miss BERTHA HICKS, of Raleigh, for some exceptionally fine pomegranates sent. They are very pretty, and the rich brownish red coloring of the fruit contrasts finely with the glossy, dark green leaves of this handsome shrub. The fruit does not usually ripen with us.

—A meeting of the Committee to further the cause of the Scholarship Endowment Fund, of the Alumnae Association of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY was called by the chairman, for Tuesday, Nov. 24th, but owing to MR. CLEWELL'S unavoidable absence, it will be held at a later date.

—The Sophomore Class engaged in a spelling test some weeks since, in the Chapel, before the entire school. The words were given out rapidly for an hour, and at the end of that nine girls were still in line. They were:

- |                   |                    |
|-------------------|--------------------|
| 1 Alice Cordill.  | 2 Bertie Bridgers. |
| 3 Tempie Hinton.  | 4 Ola White.       |
| 5 Cora Cowles.    | 6 Margie Flake.    |
| 7 Sallie Jarvis.  | 8 Bessie Brooke.   |
| 9 Agnes Garboden. |                    |

A prize had been offered, consisting of a box of Tenny's candy, but as the number was so large the company each drew a piece of paper, one lucky number having been given. ALICE CORDILL was the one to whom luck gave the fortunate number, and she won the candy. The feelings of the remaining eight were consoled with a sack of chestnuts given to each.

Alumnae Scholarship Endowment.

Miss Janie Whitner,	$ 4.00
Mrs. Mary Horton,	1.00
Miss L. Lemly,	1.00
Mrs. A. and Miss D. Smith,	50
Mrs. W. W. Moore,	12.50
Mrs. L. M. Fries,	12.50
Previously acknowledged,	588.10

Total, $619.60

Subscriptions Received.

Miss Nina Flournoy, Shreveport, La.; Mrs. Dr. A. Jones, Walnut Cove, N. C.; Mrs. V. L. Fulton, Shreveport, La.; Mrs. F. M. Tompkins, Asheville, N. C.; Miss Louise Patterson, Philadelphia, Pa.; Miss Bertha Hicks, Raleigh, N. C.; Miss L. D. Whitner, Fort Reed, Florida; Miss Mamie Dryden, Fayetteville, Tenn.; Miss Janie Whitner, Fort Reed, Florida; Eugene Hughes, Hillsboro, N. C.; Miss Kate Furman, Ramsay, S. C.; Miss Grace Locke, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Miss Mary A. T. Pretlow, Franklin, Va.; Miss M. Dufour, Waba Saka, Ark.; Miss Mattie Frost, Staunton, Va.; Mrs. Emma Lehman, Bethania, N. C.; Miss Mary Pfohl, Columbus, Geo.; Miss Mary McCallum, Mineral Springs, S. C.; Mrs. Dr. Buffalo, Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs. J. A. Thom, China Grove, N. C.; Miss Nettie Reid, Reidsville, N. C.; Mrs. W. S. Shultz, Fayetteville, N. C.; Miss Mattie Caldwell, Concord, N. C.; Mrs. W. L. Schell, Cowpens, S. C.; Mrs. Frank Earnest, Laredo, Texas; Mrs. John B. Eaves, Statesville, N. C.; Mrs. J. H. Minge, Faunsdale, Texas; Mrs. A. S. Schropp, Bethlehem, Pa.; Miss Kate Key, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Miss Mattie Bahuson, Farmington, N. C.; Miss K. W. Evans, New York, City; Mrs. L. A. Smyth, Carisbrook, Jamaica; Eloise McGill, Fayetteville, N. C.; Mrs. Walter Staley, Marion, Va.; Mrs. Carrie Lanhlan, Choctaw, Texas; Mrs. Cappie Craig, Greenwood Miss.; Mrs. Eliza Clark Brown, Marion, S. C.; Miss Rachel Sims, Chapel Hill, S. C.; Mrs. Don Shelton, Winston, N. C.; Mrs. F. G. Crutchfield, Winston, N. C.; Mrs. H. A. Lineback, Salem, N. C.; Miss Theresa Peterson, Salem, N. C.; Mrs. Frank C. Meinung, Salem, N. C.; Misses L. Shaffner, S. Shaffner, F. Meinung, E. Cooper, Anna Adams, Hattie Adams, Lillian Crenshaw, C. McFadyen, Alice Gillespie, Prue Krouse, Cleora Hewson; Mamie Lewis, Eldred Mallory, Frances Leach, Blanche Morgan, Carrie Ollinger, Alice Rawlings, A. M. Schoolfield, Mary Stillwell, Ava Stroup, Hessie Yancey, Blanche Wood, Eliza Gu'ick, Bertie Read, Effie Gilmer, Bessie Whitner, Marie Raht, Mary McKeown, Clyde Peacock, Narcie Taylor, Mabel Duke, Margie Flake, Lizzie Wooten, Lizzie Majette, Bessie Brooke, Kate Brooke, Ethel Roberts, Edith Clarke, Carrie Greir, Allie Mallory, Maggie Threadgill, Rebecca Bear, Elizabeth Nicholson, Alpha Woosley, Harriet Cross, Jessie Peterkin, Mabel Peterkin, Josephine Garrett, Addie Nimocks, Irma Cordill, Lena Welborn, Mattie Cooper, Cora Cowles, Alice Cordill, Lucy Ball, Laura Hoffman, Eliza Hoffman, Tempie Hinton, Florence Toomey, Agnes Stallings, Mary Moore, Maud Cheek; Susie Wright, Jennie Ha-per, Mary Robson, Daisy Schoolfield, Mamie Edwards, Sallie Jarvis, Lizzie Burson, Berta Register, Lucie Brown, Mary Lucky, Nellie Lunsford, Lizzie Chaffin, Agnes Coleman, Academy.

Married.

BEALL—GROGAN.—In Winston, November 1st, Mr. GEORGE BEALL to Miss MINNIE GROGAN.
MOYER—DICKS.—On November 10th, by Rev. S. H. Hetschek, Mr. R. A. MOYER to Miss LAURA DICKS, of Walkertown, N. C.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupil only, and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1 Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

*—I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!*

1877.

- 5397 ALICE C. WOODSIDES. — 1857.
J. A. Woodsides, Dandridge, Tenn.
5398 LILA FAIN. — 1860.
Geo. A. Fain, Dandridge, Tenn.
5399 BETTIE W. DIBRELL. — 1862.
R. H. Dibrell, Richmond, Va.
5400 FANNY BERKENSBERGE WENS. — 1863.
Col. Jos. E. Owens, Atlanta, Ga.
5401 DORA V. JACK. — 1860.
W. F. Jack, Atlanta, Ga.
5402 JANE VIRGINIA LITTLE. — 1866.
J. S. Little, Wadesboro, N. C.
5403 SUSIE BITTING. — 1862.
Jos. A. Biting, Winston, N. C.
5404 MARY ELIZABETH SHAW. — 1858.
Mrs. M. J. Shaw, Winnsboro, S. C.
5405 MARY ANN MCRAE. — 1860.
5406 FANNY MCRAE. — 1863.
Alexander McRae, Jr., Lanriburg, N. C.
5407 KATE M. MILLAS MCRAE. — 1862.
Peter McRae, Lanriburg, N. C.
5408 MARY CATTIE MCKINNON. — 1863.
Daniel McKinnon, Red Bank, N. C.
5409 MAG. CATH. CHISHOLM. — 1860.
Alex. Chisholm, Shoe Heel, N. C.
5410 MARIA ELIZ. FAIN. — 1860.
Guard. Geo. A. Fain, Dandridge, Tenn.
5411 PATTIE BECK. — 1863.
Mrs. C. Beck, Salem, N. C.
5412 ETHEL M. EDMUNDS. — 1864.
Sterling E. Edmunds, News Ferry, Va.
5413 MARY E. KEEHLN. — 1863.
F. E. Keehl, Salem, N. C.
5414 ALICE J. ROSTHALER. — 1868.
Rl. Rev. E. Rosthaller, Salem, N. C.
5415 CORA LEE VAIL. — 1869.
Thos. L. and S. J. Vail, Charlotte, N. C.

1878.

- 5416 EUGENIA ALICE EARLY. — 1859.
Jas. Early, Hillsville, Va.
5417 CORDIE J. SLUDER. — 1863.
Ervin Sluder, Asheville, N. C.
5418 MARY ANN RICHARDSON. — 1859.
Rev. W. B. Richardson, Statesville, N. C.
5419 EMMA FISHER. — 1863.
Jas. Fisher, Salem, N. C.
5420 KATIE D. HOLLAND. — 1863.
Guard. Capt. D. P. Mast, Winston, N. C.
5421 BESSIE PFOHL. — 1863.
C. T. Pfohl, Salem, N. C.
5422 MARTHA A. COPPEDGE. — 1863.
F. J. Coppedge, Wadesboro, N. C.
5423 MARY FANNY COPPEDGE. — 1861.
Dr. C. B. Coppedge, Wadesboro, N. C.
5424 ELIZABETH S. REYNOLDS. — 1861.
5425 MARY GLENN REYNOLDS. — 1863.
Jas. T. Reynolds, Madison, N. C.
5426 SALLIE J. THOMPSON. — 1862.
Jas. J. Thompson, Durban, N. C.
5327 JENNIE CALDWELL. — 1861.
Guard. J. M. McCameron, Concord, N. C.
5428 PENELOPE KELLY. — 1855.
— Carthage, N. C.
5429 SUSIE A. FAGG. — 1859.
Col. J. A. Fagg, Asheville, N. C.
5430 DORA ADAMS. — 1862.
Rev. H. J. Adams, Madison, Ga.
5431 MAGGIE FISHER. — 1869.
Emanuel Fisher, Salem, N. C.
5432 EULA H. JACKSON. — 1862.
— LaGrange, Ga.
5433 MARY E. SPAUGH. — 1864.
Mrs. Sarah Spough, Salem, N. C.
5434 MARTHA F. FLAKE. — 1862.
B. B. Flake, Beverly, N. C.
5435 MARGARET M. DALTON. — 1862.
D. N. Dalton, Dalton, N. C.
5436 FLORA L. CRUMPLER. — 1866.
J. M. Crumpler, Salem, N. C.
5437 ELLA C. BUTNER. — 1867.
S. E. Butner, Salem, N. C.
5438 MARY LILLIE JONES. — 1864.
Albert S. Jones, Salem, N. C.
5439 ALICE E. PEACOCK. — 1862.
5440 BETTIE PEACOCK. — 1863.
D. M. Stanton, LaGrange, N. C.

The Student's Series of Histories.

Edited by WILLIAM SMITH, LL. D.

Each one of these serviceable and attractive volumes is acknowledged to be the best summary in our language of the particular branch of knowledge to which it belongs.

Ancient History: A Manual of Ancient History, from the Earliest times to the Fall of the Western Empire. 636 pp. Price $1.25.

The Christian Church, I: The History of the Christian Church during the First Ten Centuries, By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 618 pp. Price, $1.50.

The Christian Church, II: The History of the Christian Church during the Middle Ages. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 700 pp. Price, $1.50.

The East: The Ancient History of the East, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of Alexander the Great. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. Illustrated, 650 pp. Price $1.25.

England: A History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Revolution of 1688. 808 pp. $1.50.

England (CONSTITUTIONAL): The Constitutional History of England. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 748 pp. Price, $1.25.

England (QUEENS): Lives of the Queens of England, from the Norman Conquest. By AGNES STRICKLAND. Illustrated. 682 pp. Price $1.25.

France: A History of France, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire in 1852. Illustrated. 750 pp. Price $1.25.

Germany: A History of Germany, from the Earliest Times. By CHARLTON T. LEWIS. 800 pp. $1.50.

Greece: A History of Greece, from the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. 704 pp. $1.25.

Greece (GENERAL): A General History of Greece, from the Earliest Period to the Death of Alexander the Great. By GEORGE W. COX, M. A. 710 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome: A History of Rome, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By H. G. LIDDELL, D. D. 768 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome (GENERAL): A General History of Rome. B. C. 753—A. D. 476. By CHARLES MERIVALE, D. D. 702 pp. Price, $1.25.

Roman Empire: The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By EDWARD GIBSON Abridged. 678 pp. Price $1.25.

Middle Ages: View of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 708 pp. Price, $1.25.

Modern Europe: A History of Modern Europe, By RICHARD LODGE. 772 pp. Price, $1.25.

New Testament: The New Testament History, With Maps and Woodcuts. 780 pp. Price $1.25.

Old Testament: The Old Testament History, from the Creation to the Return of the Jews from Captivity. With Maps and Woodcuts. 716 pp. Price, $1.25.

A complete catalogue of School and College Text Books will be forwarded on request.

HARPER &amp; BROTHERS,

Franklin Square, New Ycrk.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one I will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxydized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

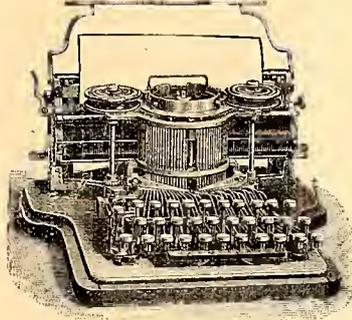

W. T. VOGLER,
JEWELER,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-1y.

— USE —
The Hammond Type-Writer.

For SPEED, DURABILITY and BEAUTY OF WORK it has no equal.

The SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, having tested it, has formally adopted the "HAMMOND," and recommends it where a first-class machine is desired.

For Catalogue and price write to
J. W. GANNON, Winston, N. C.

SCHOULER'S
MILLINERY ESTABLISHMENT,
THIRD STREET, SOUTH OF COURT HOUSE.

WE HAVE SECURED ONE OF NEW YORK'S MOST SKILLFUL MILLINERS, AND THIS SEASON WILL CARRY A VERY LARGE STOCK OF FINE GOODS, AND GUARANTEE ENTIRE SATISFACTION IN STYLES AND PRICES TO ALL OF OUR CUSTOMERS.

WE THANK THE LADIES OF SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY FOR THEIR FRIENDSHIP AND PATRONAGE, AND WILL ALWAYS GIVE THEIR ORDERS ESPECIAL ATTENTION

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,
SALEM, N. C.
The Oldest Female College in the South.

The 9th Annual Session begins August 27th, 1891. Register for last year 750. Special features:—The Department of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Commercial and Industrial Studies.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

DAVIS SCHOOL.

Military Boarding School FOR BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

Full preparation for any College or for Business. Healthy location; fine climate; mild winters; excellent buildings; Cadet Cornet Band; Cadet Orchestra; Resident Surgeon. No Charge for Medical Attention. No Extra Charge for Languages or Sciences. Department of Art. Full Course in Telegraphy. VERY LOW RATES. For Register with full particulars address

COL. A. C. DAVIS, Supt.,
WINSTON, N. C.

"Bingham School

stands pre-eminent among Southern boarding Schools for Boys."—U. S. Bureau of Education.

"Combines more desirable qualities than any other with which I am acquainted."—Lieut. J. B. Batchelor, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

"There exists not the equal of this School in my opinion."—Capt. Henry Wygant, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

More than 100 pupils from other States, the largest number in a Southern School for boys from outside the State of location.

Address,
Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Bingham's School, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851.

HORNER SCHOOL,
OXFORD, N. C.

FACULTY:

- J. H. HORNER, M. A., University of N. C. (Founder of School.)
- Col. J. T. DREWRY, Com'd't, Star Graduate Virginia Military Institute.
- J. C. HORNER, A. M., Davidson College.
- G. A. WAUCHOPE, M. A., Ph. D., University of Berlin, Late Fellow Wash. & Lee Univ.
- Rev. J. M. Horner, B. A., B. D., University of Virginia and Johns Hopkins University.

PRIVATE LESSONS

German, French, Latin and Mathematics

L. B. WURRESCHKE.

Apply for Terms. Feb. '91-6t

GRANDEST DISPLAY

TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS, LADIES' WORK BASKETS, FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

A COMPLETE ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT FOR $7.25

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N.Y.

THE SALEM STEAM BROOM WORKS,

Main Street, Salem, N. C.,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO., PROPRIETORS,
MANUFACTURERS OF
PARLOR, HEARTH, WHISK, STABLE
AND FACTORY BROOMS,

which we offer the trade at lowest prices.

Soliciting your orders we are

Yours truly,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.
Salem, N. C., September, 1891.

MISS EMMA L. LEINBACH,
(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANOS HANDLED.

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about $75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up. 155 Lexington Avenue New York.

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her for responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal,
Salem Female Academy

Salem, N. C., Feb. 11, 1889.

TO THE PATRONS OF
SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Sup't. Gen. Pass. Ag't
Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
Salem Female Academy.

WHY

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway

is the BEST LINE for patrons from Salem, N. C., to Arkansas and Texas?

It is the Only Line that runs from Memphis to Arkansas and Texas Two Trains Daily.

Road Bed and Equipment are first-class. Sure connection by all lines from the East, and when sufficient to justify a Special Pullman Palace Car or Day Coach will be furnished for the exclusive use of the party, with an agent to escort to destination.

The same arrangements can be made to return from Texas or Arkansas to the School. For complete Itinerary of Route, address

A. A. GALLAGHER,
Southern Pass. Agt.
103 Read House, Chattanooga, Tenn.
H. C. TOWNSEND,
G. P. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

A NICE LINE OF

OIL STOVES,
AT THE "BIG COFFEE POT,"
AT BOTTOM PRICES.

Our latest novelties are:

- Pat Flue Stoppers,
- Star Safety Razors,
- Perfection Cake and Pie Tins and Egg Beaters, all at very reasonable figures.
- Picnic Mugs,
- Pie Lifters,

We solicit a share of your patronage.

Very respectfully,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.,

THE BEAUTIFUL

NORTH.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrodsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 25 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 11 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England Points and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Columbus, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

SOUTH

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas; New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California. Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas Points, Anniston, Columbus, Montgomery, Mobile, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination.

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION CHAS. H. MILLS, Ticket Agt. C. S. BARRETT, T. P. A. Depot. Read House.

D. J. MULLANEY, Div. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
C. C. HARVEY, CINCINNATI, O. D. G. EDWARDS, Vice Pres. G. P. & T. A.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA

SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Pre-eminently the Teachers' and Pupils' Route.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us, patronized, subsequently, any other line.

This is the only line from Memphis running Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer in Memphis from Eastern Lines.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

HOLIDAY GOODS

—AT—

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE.

"SOLD ON MERIT."

THE LIGHT-RUNNING "DOMESTIC"

— IS SOLD BY —

W. P. ORMSBY,
TWIN-CITY MUSIC HOUSE,
WINSTON, N. C.

Do you want a Piano?
Do you want an Organ?
Do you want any Musical Instrument?

W. P. ORMSBY

is agent for STIEFF'S Celebrated Pianos, and LORING & BLAKE'S Palace Organs.

Liberal allowance for old instruments in exchange.

Call or write to

W. P. ORMSBY, Twin-City Music House,
WINSTON, N. C.

Oct. 1891—1y.

Schouler's Racket Store.

- Dore's Bible Gallery, 100 Engravings.
- Milton's Paradise Lost, 50 Engravings.
- Dante's Inferno, 75 Engravings.
- " Purgatory & Paradise 60 Engravings.

Any one of these books, which are large and beautifully bound, will be given to a member of the ACADEMY when the amount of her purchases in SCHOULER'S RACKET STORE reaches $20.00,—not in one bill, but in as long a time as you please.

This store is a veritable Bazaar, and contains Dress Goods, Shoes, Notions, Jewelry, Stationery, Cologne, Ribbons, Bags, Trunks, Underclothes, &c., and the prices are the lowest in the Twin-City

L. V. & E. T. BLUM,
BOOKSELLERS, STATIONERS AND PRINTERS,
Salem, N. C.

Print THE ACADEMY, CATALOGUE, HOW TO GET TO SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY and other publications issued by the Institution.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIV.

SALEM, N. C., DECEMBER, 1891.

NUMBER 121.

The Students' Tour to Northern Cities.

SEVERAL years ago these tours to the great cities on the Atlantic were instituted, but as the responsibility is very great, and the task a difficult one, it was rather discouraged this year. But the questions became more numerous in regard to it, both from parents and pupils, till finally the early portion of November was chosen as the time to start. But both the "wind and weather" seemed to be against the plan, and Mr. CLEWELL'S indisposition was persistent and long drawn out. Thursday, November 19th, however, all was in readiness, and on a bright, crisp, early winter morning the party found itself on the electric car on the way to the depot. The list of persons was as follows:

Carrie Ollinger, Florida.
Fanny Lou Pace, Texas.
Agnes Fogle, North Carolina.
Mary Wood, Texas.
Blanche Morgan, North Carolina.
Cleora Hewson, Texas.
Berdie Goslen, North Carolina.
Annie May Schoolfield, Virginia.
Anna Adams, Florida.
Prue Crouse, North Carolina.
Mr. Clewell.
Clarence Clewell.

The plan of the party was to proceed at once to New York, and gradually work its way back to North Carolina. The trip to Washington was quiet and uneventful, as far as adventure was concerned. At Danville we had the pleasure of a chat with Mr. and Mrs. Schoolfield, and other friends. Mrs. Clark and Miss ANNIE CLARK journeyed with us as far as Washington, at which point our party stopped several hours. The large lunch boxes prepared by kind hands served us well during the day, but when we found ourselves in the large restaurant in the Baltimore & Potomac depot, with a table loaded with good things, all found an appetite equal to the occasion. Mr. Howser, of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, was in waiting with our tickets, and after supper we crossed over to the Baltimore & Ohio depot, where the New York Sleeper was waiting. Ere long all were asleep, and we were swiftly passing over the smooth and splendid road of this great Railway. It was about seven o'clock on Friday morning when the porter called out "New York." All was now stir and hurry, and by the time our train pulled into the great station we were ready to leave the car. We paused a moment to glance down the bay at the Statue of Liberty and then hurried on the Ferry boat, and our party gazed with deep interest on the gigantic buildings of the great metropolis of our land, and thought of the million and a half, yes even more than that number, crowded on the small island. A brisk walk brought us to Broadway, and a short ride to the Grand Central Hotel. As we have taken parties to this excellent house before, we almost felt as if we were meeting old friends, and soon large comfortable rooms were assigned to our party. Having eaten breakfast, we felt the pleasure of sight seeing was really before us.

The first point on our programme was a visit to Tiffany's establishment. Here special courtesies were shown the party. Besides a full and careful examination of the several stories, the girls were shown many rare and valuable stones and necklaces. Among others the famous Tiffany diamond valued at $100,000, and not for sale. "Any of these other articles you can purchase," said the accommodating Superintendent,— "shall I charge them up to your Principal!" From Union Square we took the Broadway car, and started for the Battery, our objective point being the Statue of Liberty. When opposite the Post Office we found ourselves in one of the famous New York street blockades. As time was not a special object we watched with interest the manner in which the conveyances were disentangled from the great mass, and how our own car was moved forward a few feet and again halted. After this tedious process had lasted an hour, we were at last free and were soon on the little steamer that plies between New York and the Statue of Liberty. As our party drew nearer to the island on which the statue stands its gigantic proportions became more apparent. But only when one stands at the base or top of the pedestal, or in the head (large enough to hold 40 persons) do the true proportions appear. When on the balcony on the top of the pedestal, the girls looked upward and saw something that appeared much like a barn door. It was somewhat difficult to convince them that it was only the heel and sole of the shoe of the slightly raised foot. But we are again at the hotel, and find that the day is so far spent that nothing more can be undertaken in the way of sight seeing. At night the party hears Sarah Bernhardt, pronounced by some writers to be the greatest living actress. The play was entirely in French, but the evening was enjoyed because of the fine acting and the magnificent scenery.

Saturday the party spent an hour in Santa Claus' home, that is in the famous Schwartze's Toy Store, where everything from a game of Jack Straws to a $250 Doll's House can be found. At 11 o'clock we took the West Shore Railroad for West Point, and after an hour and a half's ride arrived at this famous spot. An hour was spent in inspecting the buildings and admiring the grand scenery, made classic by the writings of Washington Irving, and other authors. The broad Hudson, the majestic mountains, the palatial residences, the towns visible in the distance,—all tend to make a visit to West Point one to be long remembered. While inspecting the cannon captured in wars with Mexico, the girls saw the West Point band marching toward the barracks, and were delighted to hear that a drill was about to take place. Soon the cadets were marching over the green sward to the sound of martial music, and just as the last cadet disappeared, notice was given that our party must disappear down the steep hill to the depot. It was a great treat to be able to witness the drill,—the first time any of our parties has enjoyed the pleasure. About dark we arrived in the city, and closed the second day by listening to the historic play "Soudan," at the Academy of Music.

Sunday was passed as a day of rest. In the morning the party attended services in the beautiful St. Patrick's Cathedral, on Fifth Avenue, admiring the elegant Vanderbilt Mansions as they returned to the hotel. At night, accompanied by Mr. Fain, we attended church at Dr. Talmage's Tabernacle. All were pleased to hear and worship with this distinguished divine, and after the service was over our party shook hands with him.

The weather during the first days of our journey was cold. But Monday found the rain falling. Have you ever been in New York on a rainy day? If you have you can imagine our experiences. Of course, sight seeing could not stop. So with umbrellas and gossamers we sallied forth, going first to the Stock Exchange on Wall Street. The din and confusion called forth many and varied remarks. From this point we returned to the beginning of Wall Street, and entered the guardian of the street,—quiet old Trinity church. After a half hour's examination of this venerable building we walked up crowded, dirty, muddy, wet Broadway, to the New York World building. Here we were to have met Mr. John Henry Boner, one of the Editors, but by a mistake failed to find him much to our regret. Another gentleman, however, showed us many courtesies, and as this wonderful building is comparatively new, we will give here a few of the many points of interest: It is 22 stories high, 375 feet; contains enough brick to build 250 ordinary houses; has an iron frame that would support the building if the wall was removed; has 1,000 doors and 500 windows; contains iron enough to build 29 miles of railroad; has 48 miles of electric wires; 32 tons of type are needed to set the various editions; a picture can be drawn and be made ready for the press in 35 minutes; the presses can print 5,000 eight-page papers per minute; the World claims a circulation of 50,000 copies more than the combined circulation of the Herald, Times, Tribune and Evening Post. From this wonderful building our party tried to cross the great Brooklyn bridge, but the rain and storm raged so fiercely that we were forced to beat a retreat to the hotel. Of course, we are not going to tell tales on one another. But we cannot help explaining that the trip out in the driving rain, after dinner, was necessitated by the fact that one of our party burned off half her hair at the gas jet; and of course, we will not tell how the wind lifted the unsuspecting hat from the head of another while we were fifteen stories up on the World building, and in a giffy whirled it into a pool of black Bowery mud. O no, we are not going to tell tales on one another, but will only say that at 5 o'clock Monday evening we were comfortably settled in a Baltimore & Ohio Royal Blue line car, and about 7:30 were made comfortable in the elegant Aldine Hotel on Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. The night's rest was certainly appreciated.

The contrast between the rain and storm, the rush and crowd of New York, and the bright sunshine of that Tuesday morning in Philadelphia was marked indeed. Rev. Edward S. Wolle was at the Aldine early in the morning, and spent the day with us. Leaving our comfortable hotel on Chestnut Street we walked down to the U. S. Mint, as our first objective point. Shown through the same by a courteous and attentive guide, all the party were greatly interested. We saw the great bricks of gold and silver, and were politely told to help ourselves; we were shown the various processes of making money,—rolling the sheet, cutting out the blanks, boiling them, stamping, etc. Through the laboratory we went to the vault with its $26,000,000 in gold, and into the wonderful museum. A number of bright new coins were secured as souvenirs. Then on to Wannamaker's great great store on 13th and Market. Here in this wonder-land about 3 hours were spent, and a number of specimens of the manufacture of the Mint gotten rid of. Of course, no attempt can be made to describe Wannamaker's. If you desire an explanation send for catalogue.

After a lunch at the Aldine our party went down to Liberty Hall, looked at the old bell, and were almost inspired to recite
"Ring, Grandpa, ring!"

Passing on to the Drexel building we ascended to the roof and obtained a fine view of the city, with its million of inhabitants, and could not but wonder at the great system of civilization that supplies this great army regularly and fully with shelter, with water, with fuel, with food, with light, with creature comforts,—yes, thought of the still greater responsibilities of bringing spiritual gifts to the great masses of humanity! From the Drexel building our party enjoyed a stroll up Chestnut Street, stopping at Early's Art Gallery, Bailey, Banks & Biddle's Jewelry store, and at many handsome show windows. After dining at 7 o'clock, the day was finished by witnessing the play "Shenandoah," the plot being laid in connection with Sherman's march through Virginia. A tired company we were at night,—an early start in the morning, for Wednesday was our day to visit Bethlehem.

[Concluded next month.]

—End of November a number of the friends of Prof. MARKGRAFF gave a Complimentary Concert in the ACADEMY Chapel. The Concert was well attended, and a handsome sum was realized as a result. The purse was presented to Prof. MARKGRAFF. We give the programme:

1. Overture. Sunrise.....Schlepegrell.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
  2. Quartette. Rustic Coquette..F. Champneys.
Miss MATHEWSON, Mrs. BOOZER and
Messrs. BROWN and PFOHL.
  3. Song. Suabian Maiden.....Proch.
Miss S. MATHEWSON.
  4. String Quartette. Erstes Bluemchen.
.....Grossheim.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
  5. Song. Fiddle and I.....
Mr. CLARENCE E. BROWN.
Violin Obligato, Mr. S. PETERSON.
  6. Quartette. Miller's Wooing..Eaton Fanning.
Miss MATHEWSON, Mrs. BOOZER and
Messrs. BROWN and PFOHL.
  7. Selections from Puritan's Daughter...Balfe.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
  8. Song. Selected.
Miss S. MATHEWSON.
  9. Duett. Contentment...A. Coring Thomas.
Miss S. MATHEWSON.
  10. Illusioni Waltz.....Capilani.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
  11. Song. Winter Lullaby.....de Kovan.
Mr. C. R. BROWN.
  12. Quartette. The Night Has a Thousand Eyes.....Nevin.
Miss MATHEWSON, Mrs. BOOZER and
Messrs. BROWN and PFOHL.
Violin Obligato, Mr. S. PETERSON.
  13. Medley.....Bouillon.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
- Accompanist—Miss A. VAN VLECK.
Director of Orchestra—Mr. WM. PETERSON.

—The Union Republican has the following warm words for Prof. MARKGRAFF:

THE BEST WISHES OF MANY FRIENDS ATTEND THEM.—It is with feelings of regret and sympathy that we bade adieu to Prof. GEO. MARKGRAFF, who for several years past has very acceptably filled the position of Musical Instructor at SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Prof. MARKGRAFF returns with his wife to Germany, his native home, afflicted by paralysis, not only of the body, but of the mind, which, for one of his years, just starting as it were, upon a bright career in his chosen profession, is peculiarly sad. He did more for Salem, musically and generally speaking, than any resident Professor at the ACADEMY for many years, as the Philharmonic Society, the Salem Orchestra, the brilliant Concerts at the ACADEMY, the Centenary M. E. church, Winston, and other special lines of labor, most clearly testify. Naturally gifted, ready and apt in impartation, a zealous and untiring worker, and a clever gentleman, Professor MARKGRAFF won many warm friends who will long and pleasantly cherish the memory of his sojourn, and sincerely wish for him a most speedy return to wonted health, vigor and to his former duties here.

Correspondence.

—A very affectionate and interesting letter was received by Miss VOGLER, a few weeks ago, from the winsome MAGGIE POWELL, of 26 years ago, Mrs. Dr. R. H. Spaight, now the mother of eleven children, two of them twin boys. We clip a few extracts that may interest some of her old friends :

I would be pleased to send my girls to Salem, and hope to do so ; of course it is my preference. I have never joined the Alumnae Association. I have been taking THE ACADEMY for two years, and in the last one I saw the death of POWELL LASH.

KATE BAKER, now Mrs. Dr. Staton, sends much love. I visited Mrs. James Draughn a few days ago. She is a widow with six children. LIZZIE PHILLIPS, Mrs. Geo. Battle, is also a widow with six children. LUCIE BARLOW visited me, and is still the same LUCIE ; she is now going into the bee culture. I think she is the most hopeful person I ever met.

What has become of Mrs. Dr. Hunter, (Miss JOE SIDDALL.) I guess she has a grown daughter, and Miss MARY ZEVELY ? I don't think I would know Salem and Winston at all. I see extracts from the Twin City Daily quite often, and know all has changed very much since I was there.

MAMIE BAKER, now Mrs. Howard, has a large family, and I can safely say she is the most industrious woman in Tarboro.

My family all wish to be remembered. With much love to yourself,

I am your friend,

M. A. SPEIGHT.

Wrendale, Edgcombe Co., N. C.

—The following extracts were made from a letter also received a short while ago from Mrs. Mary E. Jennings, Plum Branch, S. C. :

I did not receive the September number of THE ACADEMY but the October number reached me. I have been so situated that I have not written to any of the old pupils, but hope to do so soon. I have made enquiry about some of them. If you remember MARTHA READY and LAURA GLOVER (from Edgefield) were at school the same time I was. MARTHA married a Mr. Thos. Hoyt, and died 2 or 3 years since, leaving two sons. LAURA is still unmarried, and an orphan. I talked with her guardian (a Baptist minister) about her not long ago, and sent her a message about Salem, the Scholarship Endowment, and THE ACADEMY which he promised to deliver.

Do you remember FANNIE S. SMYLY who was there at school in 1870 ? She married Capt. E. E. Jefferson of Johnston, this State. The stamps enclosed are from her for subscription to THE ACADEMY, and I am authorized to send her name for membership in the Association, I will give you the names and addresses of a few old pupils, and if you think so, please have each one sent a sample copy of THE ACADEMY if they are not subscribers : Mrs. Pamela Holland, (Landrum) Edgefield, S. C. ; Miss INA HILL, Edgefield, S. C. ; Mrs. Mary Wates, (formerly May) Franklin, S. C. ; Mrs. Cora S. Lott, (formerly Smyly) Johnston, S. C. ; Mrs. Lallah Greydon, (formerly Tompkins) Abbeville, S. C.

I am interested in any and all things pertaining to dear old Salem, and am in hopes it may flourish and prosper, until its name is sounded from pole to pole, as having the best college in existence.

I think the Association should appoint a committee (perhaps they have) to look up and correspond with old pupils,—send them a sample copy of THE ACADEMY, write them about the Association, the lovely Badges, the Scholarship Endowment, &c. Only awake this slumbering interest, and happiness will come to them through the memory of school-days in Salem, then numbers more will take THE ACADEMY, join the Association and contribute to the Scholarship Endowment.

Please accept all the best wishes and love from an old pupil who loves you sincerely.

As ever,

MARY E. JENNINGS.

Plum Branch, S. C.

—MARGUEITE DU FOUR writes from her Arkansas home :

The ingenious little card which you kindly sent me some time ago only reached me 3 or 4 days ago, as you will see from the date of this letter. It had to be forwarded to me from Mill's River. A week or so ago I received a letter from MATTIE TROUT, who believing me to be in Salem wrote to ask me to hand in 50 cents for her subscription, which she enclosed, so I will add mine to hers, each for one year.

It will be a great pleasure to see the little paper come in every month, telling me all about my friends, and calling to mind my old school days.

I have a delightful situation in a private family where I have only one pupil a girl of sixteen, to whom I teach French, Music, and the higher branches of Literature. She lives with her father and mother in the country, 17 miles from Pine Bluff, in a delightful home.

I hope your summer proved pleasant. Were you able to rest ? Does little JOHN still remember Margeet, or has he forgotten me entirely ?

Doubtless you will find me annoying with all my questions, but you see school girls do not lose their characteristics with their school-days, and then I feel so interested about all that concerns Salem.

The Weedons are very kind to me, and I feel perfectly at home, to come and go as one of the family. I know your time is too precious to allow me much more, so I will not encroach upon it any further.

Yours very sincerely,

M. DUFOUR.

Wabba Ska, Ark.

—Mrs. M. A. Rowland, (HARLEE) gives us a few appreciative lines from Arkadelphia, Arkansas :

I would not willingly lose sight of the dear old School. The two years spent there will ever be a green spot in memory.

Very Respectfully,

M. A. ROWLAND.

Arkadelphia, Ark.

—Wednesday December 9th, a very enjoyable musical was given in the ACADEMY Chapel, by the pupils of Miss MATHEWSON. By special request Prof. SCHMOLCK added to the programme by playing a selection at the opening and at the close of the hour. He was heartily applauded as he deserved to be, since the skill and expression which he showed made this his first introduction to the school a very pleasing one indeed. It was also the first time that Miss MATHEWSON'S pupils appeared before the school, and they displayed care and earnestness in the training they had received. We hope often to have these pleasant hours as the year progresses.

—We were grieved to hear of the death of Mr. New, of Danville, Va., the husband of a pupil of years ago, LUCY GUNN. She belonged to the large group of girls who termed themselves "Yanceywillians," and are still affectionately remembered by their Alma Mater.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., DECEMBER, 1891.

*Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.*

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.

Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—In connection with the announcement of the arrival of the new Professor of Music, it also gives us pleasure to announce that a contract has been made with Miss ADELAIDE SCRIBER, of the New England Conservatory of Elocution, Boston, Massachusetts, to take charge of the Elocution Department in the ACADEMY. We will give a sketch of Miss SCRIBER's life in our next edition, and in the mean time shall be pleased to communicate with patrons in regard to private lessons under this professional instructor in the department named. She will give lessons in each class in the school without extra charge, but as in the case of other departments those pupils who desire to take private lessons can do so, at least a limited number can be accommodated in this way. With the addition recently made to the Music Department as announced elsewhere and this contract made with Miss SCRIBER for duties in the Elocution Department we feel that the Faculty is well rounded and pupils may expect to find almost anything that may reasonably be expected in a high grade college.

—Prof. GEORGE MARKGRAFF and his wife sailed for Germany on Saturday, December 5th, in order to spend the needed time in rest, since his recent attack of paralysis will make it necessary for him to spend some time in absolute quiet, possibly several years. Prof. MARKGRAFF has been associated with the ACADEMY a little more than five years, and during that time has also been engaged in a number of outside interests. Within the school his chief talent was displayed in the planning for and the conducting of concerts and other public occasions. He was a man of great natural ability and also the composer of a number of marches which had quite a run after they had been published. The Commencement occasions will long be remembered because of the ambitious programmes which Prof. MARKGRAFF ventured upon, the character of the music being far in advance of that which is usually attempted in schools. For a number of years he was connected with the Salem Orchestra, and this excellent organization always gave its valuable aid in connection with the interests of the music of the school. For some time Prof. MARKGRAFF was director of the Salem Philharmonic Society. Several years he acted as organist of the Methodist Episcopal church in Winston, and frequently conducted the music on the special festival occasions in the Moravian church in Salem. Prof. MARKGRAFF had his faults, and who of us are free from faults? But in this notice our object is to recall the results of the five years spent as a Professor in the ACADEMY, and no one will have to search far to find the results of that work. It is a very unusual thing for one so young as he is to be stricken with a disease so terrible in its effects. But when still a child the Professor suffered from an attack of illness which seemed to have left its impress on his system, and this possibly was the root of the matter. The good wishes of many former friends and pupils follow him as he goes to his distant home for his forced rest, and all join in wishing him a speedy restoration to health and strength.

—Our editorial sanctum has not been cheered with as much news from the individual room-companies and the departments as we feel is due us. We hope that before the January number is due we may have material so as to place a goodly array of items under the following headings, this time alas! reported only in as far as the items could be gathered by one person. Here is the list:

Music Department.
Art Department.
Commercial Department.
Language Department.
Industrial Department.
Scholastic Department.

And to this we must add the several room companies. If next month instead of placing the list as above we can spread them over about two pages with a list of fresh news items after each one, not only will ye editor smile a smile of contentment, but the readers will welcome the additional interest given to the paper.

Announcement.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT.

As is well known to many of our friends sudden and unexpected illness has rendered it impossible for Prof. MARKGRAFF, so long and favorably known to our patrons, to continue his labors in connection with the ACADEMY. After a long and careful search among a number of applicants, a contract has been closed with PROFESSOR PAUL SCHMOLCK, recently of the Conservatory of Hamilton, Ontario. Prof. SCHMOLCK was born in Koenigsburg, and studied in the Royal Opera in Hanover. Among his instructors were Reuss, Eisenbrandt, and other famous musicians. He also had considerable experience in conducting the Royal Orchestra. Ten years ago he came to America, and since then has labored in New York and Ontario. His last engagement was that of Musical Director of the Hamilton Ontario Conservatory of Music. Prof. SCHMOLCK is a tall, prepossessing man, a fine performer, and comes to us with the highest recommendation from various sources as to his faithfulness and ability as an instructor. We take pleasure in presenting Prof. SCHMOLCK to our pupils and patrons. He has already commenced his work in the ACADEMY.

The addition of the name of Prof. SCHMOLCK to our Faculty, seems to fill every present want in the Music Department, and we trust and believe that the present school year will be one of unusual success.

Very Respectfully,

J. H. CLEWELL,

Principal.

—We notice that quite a number of the items from THE ACADEMY are copied by our newspaper neighbors, and we feel highly complimented that our modest record of the events within our school world are considered to be also of interest to the great outside world. Thank you, gentlemen, both for the compliment paid us and also for the warm words which are from time to time added.

—The calisthenic drill which was delayed by Mr. CLEWELL's sickness and later absence was commenced on Monday last. The suits this year were made in the new Industrial Department. Heretofore they were made in town. Quite a considerable amount of dress making is in progress in the Department.

—The scarcity of wood in our section has forced the school to take a new position in the matter of heating. After a careful examination of the merits of the different methods of heating it was decided by the Trustees to introduce the hot water system into one or two buildings, and if all was satisfactory to follow up the work by a complete change in all the buildings before the opening of the September term next year. The contract was let to Messrs. Vance & Shaffner some time since, and Park and Annex Hall are now supplied with radiators. A very cold spell of weather and lack of familiarity with the workings of the furnace on the part of the men has caused a shivering of several room companies on several cold mornings, but a few days will remedy the evil and give a pleasant heat day and night throughout the two buildings named. We might add that if the atmosphere was chilly on the mornings named the tempers of some of the inmates of the buildings were very warm and doubtless made up for the lack of material heat.

---

Chronicle and Gossip.

---

—ESSIE TOMLINSON returned to school end of November and is a member of the Park Hall Room Company.

—Miss HENNIE PETERSON is doing very acceptable work as Miss LEHMAN's assistant in the short hand class.

—The tame squirrels are very numerous in the Park and may frequently be seen sporting in the yard immediately back of the school buildings.

—Sundry cards and other advertising papers which make their way into the ACADEMY tell of the near approach of the Christmas season.

—The shortness of time between our last issue and the present number makes news items a little scarce, but we hope to make amends in our next publication.

—Bishop RONDTHALER has finished the study of Virgil with the Senior Class, and the young ladies will now proceed to "pastures fresh and green" in the Latin hour.

—Those of the pupils who remain within the school during the Christmas recess (and the majority do not go home) are eagerly awaiting the time when "no box rule" will be suspended. And doubtless the parents at home are preparing for the time also.

—Hon. Thos. Sutton, for a number of years a patron of the ACADEMY has made Winston-Salem his home. THE ACADEMY extends to him and to his family a warm welcome to our midst.

—Sunday, November 20th, all were greatly surprised to find the ground covered with snow and to see the feathery flakes continue their descent more or less during the entire day. The first snow, in fact we might add the last snow also, causes great enthusiasm within the school.

—The ride over the new line of street cars to Sunny Side Heights, over the broad and beautiful avenue opened by the South Side Land Company is a very charming one and is frequently taken by the pupils. The land company alluded to has worked a great change in this section of our neighborhood.

—The Thanksgiving decoration in our church, was tasteful, simple and unique. Ploughs, sacks of wheat, corn, festoons of cotton, of red peppers, alternately with the golden tobacco, celery, beets, turnips, cabbages, pumpkins and other vegetables were used in the decoration very effectively, as an object lesson of the good gifts of God to us.

—Anderson Smith, our colored man, who will be remembered by many of the former pupils in connection with their sojourn at the old Salem Hotel, and who has been connected with the ACADEMY for the past seven years, left the service of the school last month. Harry Hepler, who has had charge of the Park for a number of years also left the ACADEMY service in order to take another position.

—It is a source of great regret to the Faculty of the ACADEMY that pupils are allowed to go home before the close of recitations. The effect is to greatly demoralize the work, cut down the reports of those who leave, and unduly lengthen a recess which is long enough at any rate for the good of the scholastic duties. The only result which can possibly follow from this unwholesome custom is to make an iron clad rule that no one be allowed to leave before recitations close, or to abolish the recess and suspend recitations only on Christmas Day, as is now done by very many schools. The best and most reasonable position would be to have the parents enter into close sympathy with the best interests of the school and pupils, and a strong appeal will be made to every patron another year.

—Since the new Senior Dormitory has been opened the Commercial Department has been rather a wanderer upon the face of the earth. The type-writer room had been removed some time previous, so also the telegraphy room. But the Book-keeping in short hand classes were caught in the change. Recitations have been held in the library and fourth room, but it is hoped that new and more comfortable quarters can be provided before January 1st.

—The Chorus Class will begin work on the Cantata entitled the "Hermit's Harp," and also on the Oratorio "The Messiah." The former is arranged for female voices only, while the latter is of such a nature that we will have to solicit the aid of our good friends in the Salem Orchestra and the Philharmonic Society. The work of the Chorus Class will be pushed with special vigor because of the delay occasioned by the circumstances noted elsewhere.

—Owing to a series of accidents the party visiting New York recently failed to see Miss EVANS, LENA CHAFFIN and MARTHA PIERCE. It was a source of great regret to the party and from letters received since our return we feel that the same sentiment was experienced by those at the other end of the line. Much pleasure could have been added to the days spent in the great metropolis. But deep as our regret is what is cannot now be undone.

—A number of Stereopticon evenings have been held since the return of the party from the cities. Three evenings were devoted to illustrated readings, and one evening the members of Miss STEINER's private school were invited to the chapel and seemed to enjoy a visit to various parts of England and to the Zoological Garden in Philadelphia. The Lantern has been a source of much pleasure to the school, and the possible variety is practically without limit.

---

* Subscriptions Received.

---

Mrs. Capt. E. E. Jefferson, Johnson, S. C.; Miss Maud Broadway, Winston, N. C.; Miss Annie Reid, Wentworth, N. C.; Miss Lyda David, Bennettsville, S. C.; Miss Louise Breitenbucher, Atlanta, Ga.; Miss A. M. Hagan, Salem, N. C.; Miss Sadie Sittig, Houston, Tex.; Mrs. Clara D. McLean, New York, N. Y.

Our Library.

Few persons can imagine the wonderful amount of energy and talent now being put into the production of new and excellent text books. When a new text book is needed, not only is it a comparatively easy task to secure what is wanted, but the very grade and shade necessary to supply the need will be at once discovered. Among the books recently placed on the Principal's table we note the following :

From the American Book Company, New York :

"Plane and Solid Geometry," by Stewart.

"Inductive Latin Primer," by Harper & Burgess.

From Ginn & Co., Boston and New York :

"Tarbell's Lessons in Language," Book II.

"Physical Laboratory Manual and Note Book," by Gage.

From Leach, Shewell & Sanborn, Boston and New York :

"Logarithmic Tables," by Wells.

"A Commercial Geography," by Tilden.

"Rudimentary Ethics," by Steele.

From Silver, Burdett & Co., New York, Boston and Chicago :

"Elements of Chemistry," by Meads.

From Mrs. Clara D. Maclean, the author, and an Alumna of the ACADEMY :

"Light O' Love," published by Worthington Company, New York. A more full and complete notice of this work will be given next month.

From MacMillan & Co., London and New York :

"Manual of English Composition," by Nichols.

"MacMillan's Progressive German Course," First Year, by G. E. Fasnaeh.

"Arithmetic for Schools," by Lock & Scott.

"Selections from Tennyson," by Rowe & Webb.

"Merchant of Venice," by Leighton.

"MacMillan's Progressive French Course," First Year, by Fasnaeh.

"Elementary Algebra," by Smith.

From C. W. Schumans' Sons, Jewelers: A neat and interesting little book entitled "Arts and Gems."

From J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia: "Natural Philosophy," by Sharpless & Philips.

"Stewart's Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Directory."

"Fourth Annual Report of the Bureau of Labor of North Carolina."

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupil only, and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1 Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

*— I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!*

1878.

- 5441 MARG. ANN HADLEY. — 1861.
N. C. and E. R. Hadley, La Grange, N. C.
5442 ADELAIDE NANNIE KIRKPATRICK. — 1863.
Dr. J. M. Kirkpatrick, La Grange, N. C.
5443 FANNY B. BEST. — 1862.
Mrs. S. A. Best, Goldsboro, N. C.
5444 MARY E. BOYD. — 1868.
A. J. Boyd, Wentworth, N. C.
5445 BETTIE MERCER. — 1861.
Dr. Jno. R. Mercer, Toisnot, N. C.
5446 ANNIE A. WEDDIN. — 1862.
W. A. and E. Weddin, Asheville, N. C.
5447 ANNIE L. BLACKWELL. — 1865.
Mrs. L. E. Blackwell, Raleigh, N. C.
5448 BESSIE MAY FAGG. — 1867.
M. J. Fagg, Asheville, N. C.
5449 JOYCE GWYNN. — 1864.
5450 LOUISE GWYNN. — 1864.
Jas. Gwynn, Elkin, N. C.
5451 EMMA JOYCE. — 1865.
E. H. Joyce, Danbury, N. C.
5452 EDITH N. GRIFFIN. — 1861.
Jno. P. Griffin, Ayersville, N. C.
5453 BENNIE E. MAYO. — 1863.
B. C. Mayo, Tarboro, N. C.
5454 SALLIE J. HERRICK. — 1860.
Chas. H. Jeruigah, Enon, Ala.
5455 WILLA IDA SMITH. — 1861.
Jno. G. Smith, Williston, S. C.
5456 LILLIAN I. BLAIR. — 1860. — 1860.
W. P. Blair, Asheville, N. C.

1879.

- 5457 AGNES G. DULIN. — 1863.
R. D. Brown, Mocksville, N. C.
5458 MINERVA KYLE PACE. — 1866.
Jas. R. Pace, Waco, Texas.
5459 MAGGIE D. BRANNER. — 1867.
Wm. R. Branner, Mossy Creek, Tenn.
5460 MARY E. LIXVILLE. — 1860.
Robt. F. Linville, Kernersville, N. C.
5461 LUCY B. PRITCHETT. — 1865.
Dr. E. H. Pritchett, Haynesville, Ala.
5462 JENNIE J. MOTLEY. — 1865.
Thos. J. Motley, —, N. C.
5463 MATTIE A. BRISCOE. — 1863.
Daniel A. Briscoe, Morristown, Tenn.
5464 MATTIE B. BRISCOE. — 1865.
Daniel A. Briscoe, Morristown, Tenn.
5465 RACHEL SWANN. — 1862.
J. P. Swann, Dandridge, Tenn.
5466 ALICE F. BOOE. — 1864.
A. M. Booe, Mocksville, N. C.
5467 MAMIE SETTLE. — 1863.
Judge Thos. Settle, Jacksonville, Fla.
5468 CARRIE E. WILLIAM. — 1864.
Wm. H. William, Kenansville, N. C.
5469 IDA B. NEAL. — 1863.
J. M. Neal, Yauceyville, N. C.
5470 MARY A. THOMPSON. — 1863.
Mhl. G. N. Thompson, Leesburg, N. C.
5471 BEulah LARKIN. — 1867.
Dr. W. C. Larkin, Athens, Texas.
5472 FANNY COLEMAN. — 1863.
N. P. Coleman, Athens, Texas.
5473 LULA O. HADEN. — 1862.
J. W. Haden, Linwood, N. C.
5474 KATIE E. JONES. — 1864.
Dr. Beverly Jones, Bethania, N. C.
5475 MARY N. CONRAD. — 1862.
Mr. Brown, —, —.
5476 LULA GIBBS. — 1866.
W. D. Gibbs, Yazoo City, Miss.
5477 CARRIE L. WALSTON. — 1864.
Mrs. Mary Walston, Taylors, N. C.
5478 LUCY B. PATTERSON. — 1865.
Wm. H. Patterson, Cumberland, Tenn.
5479 BELLIE McINTYRE. — 1863.
Mary J. McIntyre, Lainsburg, N. C.

1880.

- 5480 PATTIE LYON. — 1865.
Mrs. M. J. Lyon, Jackson, Tenn.
5481 MATTIE MORRISON. — 1864.
J. H. Morrison, Concord, N. C.
5482 MATTIE CALDWELL. — 1866.
D. S. Caldwell, Concord, N. C.
5483 MOLLIE F. WALKER. — 1864.
S. V. Walker, Lawsville, N. C.

The Student's Series of Histories.

Edited by WILLIAM SMITH, LL. D.

Each one of these serviceable and attractive volumes is acknowledged to be the best summary in our language of the particular branch of knowledge to which it belongs.

Ancient History: A Manual of Ancient History, from the Earliest Times to the Fall of the Western Empire. 656 pp. Price $1.25.

The Christian Church, I: The History of the Christian Church during the First Ten Centuries, by PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 618 pp. Price, $1.50.

The Christian Church, II: The History of the Christian Church during the Middle Ages. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 700 pp. Price, $1.50.

The East: The Ancient History of the East, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of Alexander the Great. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. Illustrated, 650 pp. Price $1.25.

England: A History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Revolution of 1688. 808 pp. $1.50.

England (CONSTITUTIONAL): The Constitutional History of England. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 748 pp. Price, $1.25.

England (QUEENS): Lives of the Queens of England, from the Norman Conquest. By AGNES STRICKLAND, Illustrated. 682 pp. Price $1.25.

France: A History of France, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire, in 1852. Illustrated. 730 pp. Price $1.25.

Germany: A History of Germany, from the Earliest Times. By CHARLTON T. LEWIS. 800 pp. $1.50.

Greece: A History of Greece, from the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. 704 pp. $1.25.

Greece (GENERAL): A General History of Greece, from the Earliest Period to the Death of Alexander the Great. By GEORGE W. COX, M. A. 710 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome: A History of Rome, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By H. G. LIDDELL, D. D. 768 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome (GENERAL): A General History of Rome. B. C. 753—A. D. 476. By CHARLES MERIVALE, D. D. 702 pp. Price, $1.25.

Roman Empire: The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By EDWARD GIBSON Abridged. 678 pp. Price $1.25.

Middle Ages: View of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 708 pp. Price, $1.25.

Modern Europe: A History of Modern Europe. By RICHARD LODGE. 772 pp. Price, $1.25.

New Testament: The New Testament History, With Maps and Woodcuts. 780 pp. Price $1.25.

Old Testament: The Old Testament History, from the Creation to the Return of the Jews from Captivity. With Maps and Woodcuts. 716 pp. Price, $1.25.

A complete catalogue of School and College Text Books will be forwarded on request.

HARPER &amp; BROTHERS,

Franklin Square, New York.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one I will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,
W. T. VOGLER,
JEWELER,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-19.

THE SALEM STEAM BROOM WORKS,

Main Street, Salem, N. C.,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO., PROPRIETORS,

MANUFACTURERS OF

PARLOR, HEARTH, WHISK, STABLE AND FACTORY BROOMS,

which we offer the trade at lowest prices.

Soliciting your orders we are

Yours truly,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.
Salem, N. C., September, 1891.

→* MISS EMMA H. LEINBACH,*←
(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANDS HANDLED.

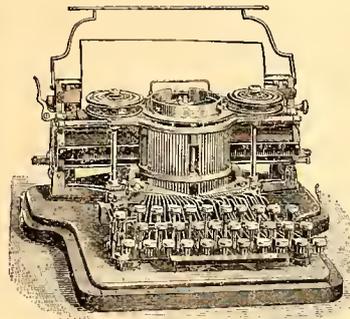

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about $75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up.
155 Lexington Avenue New York.

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her for responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Salem, N. C., Feb. 11, 1889.

— USE —
The Hammond Type-Writer.

For SPEED, DURABILITY and BEAUTY OF WORK it has no equal.

The SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, having tested it, has formally adopted the "HAMMOND," and recommends it where a first-class machine is desired.
For Catalogue and price write to

J. W. GANNON, Winston, N. C.

SCHOULER'S
MILLINERY ESTABLISHMENT,

THIRD STREET, SOUTH OF COURT HOUSE.

WE HAVE SECURED ONE OF NEW YORK'S MOST SKILLFUL MILLINERS, AND THIS SEASON WILL CARRY A VERY LARGE STOCK OF FINE GOODS, AND GUARANTEE ENTIRE SATISFACTION IN STYLES AND PRICES TO ALL OF OUR CUSTOMERS.

WE THANK THE LADIES OF SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY FOR THEIR FRIENDSHIP AND PATRONAGE, AND WILL ALWAYS GIVE THEIR ORDERS ESPECIAL ATTENTION

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N. Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

* SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, *
SALEM, N. C.
The Oldest Female College in the South.

The 90th Annual Session begins August 27th, 1891. Register for last year 356. Special features:—the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Commercial and Industrial Studies.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

DAVIS SCHOOL.

Military Boarding School FOR BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

Full preparation for any College or for Business; Healthy location; fine climate; solid winters; excellent buildings; Cadet Cornet Band; Cadet Orchestra; Resident Surgeon. No Charge for Medical Attention. No Extra Charge for Languages or Sciences. Department of Art. Full Course VERY LOW RATES. For Register with full particulars address stands pre-eminent among Southern boarding Schools for Boys."—U. S. Bureau of Education.

COL. A. C. DAVIS, Supt., WINSTON, N. C.

"Bingham School

"Combines more desirable qualities than any other with which I am acquainted."—Lieut. J. E. Batchelor, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

"There exists not the equal of this School in my opinion."—Capt. Henry Wygant, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

More than 100 pupils from other States, the largest number in a Southern School for boys from outside the State of location.

Address, Maj. R. BINGHAM, Bingham's School, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851.

HORNER SCHOOL,
OXFORD, N. C.

FACULTY:

J. H. HORNER, M. A., University of N. C. (Founder of School.)

Col. J. T. DREWRY, Com'd't, Star Graduate Virginia Military Institute.

J. C. HORNER, A. M., Davidsnn College.

G. A. WAUCHOPE, M. A., Ph. D., University of Berlin, Late Fellow Wash. & Lee Univ.

Rev. J. M. Horner, B. A., B. D., University of Virginia and Johns Hopkins University.

PRIVATE LESSONS

German, French, Latin and Mathematics

L. B. WURRESCHKE.

Apply for Terms.

Feb. '91-64

GRANDEST DISPLAY

TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS, LADIES' WORK BASKETS, FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't.
Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't
Fayetteville, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
Salem Female Academy.

WHY

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway

is the BEST LINE for patrons from Salem, N. C., to Arkansas and Texas?

It is the Only Line that runs from Memphis to Arkansas and Texas Two Trains Daily.

Read Bed and Equipment are first-class. Sure connection by all lines from the East, and when sufficient to justify a Special Pullman Palace Car or Day Coach will be furnished for the exclusive use of the party, with an agent to escort to destination.

The same arrangements can be made to return from Texas or Arkansas to the School. For complete Itinerary of Route, address

A. A. GALLAGHER, Southern Pass. Agt.
103 Read House, Chattanooga, Tenn.

H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

A NICE LINE OF

OIL STOVES,
AT THE "BIG COFFEE POT,"
AT BOTTOM PRICES.

Our latest novelties are:
Pat Flue Stoppers, Picnic Mugs,
Star Safety Razors, Pie Lifters,
Perfection Cake and Pie Tins and Egg
Beaters, all at very reasonable figures.

We solicit a share of your patronage.
Very respectfully,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.,

NORTH.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrodsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 25 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 11 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England Points and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

SOUTH.

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas; New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California. Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas Points, Anniston, Columbus, Montgomery, Mobile, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination.
For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, OR CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION CHAS. H. MILLS, Ticket Agt. C. S. BARRETT, T. P. A. Depot.
D. J. MULLANEY, Div. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
C. C. HARVEY, Vice Pres. CINCINNATI, O. D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Pre-eminently the Teachers' and Pupils' Route.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us, patronized, subsequently, any other line.

This is the only line from Memphis running Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer in Memphis from Eastern Lines.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

HOLIDAY GOODS

—AT—

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE.

"SOLD ON MERIT."

THE LIGHT-RUNNING "DOMESTIC"

IS SOLD BY

W. P. ORMSBY,
TWIN-CITY MUSIC HOUSE,
WINSTON, N. C.

Do you want a Piano?
Do you want an Organ?
Do you want any Musical Instrument?

W. P. ORMSBY

is agent for STIEFF'S Celebrated Pianos, and LORING & BLAKE'S Palace Organs.

Liberal allowance for old instruments in exchange.

Call or write to

W. P. ORMSBY, Twin-City Music House,
WINSTON, N. C.

Oct. 1891-19.

Schouler's Racket Store.

Dore's Bible Gallery, 100 Engravings.
Milton's Paradise Lost, 50 Engravings.
Dante's Inferno, 75 Engravings.
" Purgatory & Paradise 60 Engravings.

Any one of these books, which are large and beautifully bound, will be given to a member of the ACADEMY when the amount of her purchases in SCHOULER'S RACKET STORE reaches $20.00,—not in one bill, but in as long a time as you please.

This store is a veritable Bazaar, and contains Dress Goods, Shoes, Notions, Jewelry, Stationery, Cologne, Ribbons, Bags, Trunks, Underclothes, &c., and the prices are the lowest in the Twin-City

L. V. & E. T. BLUM,

BOOKSELLERS, STATIONERS AND PRINTERS,
Salem, N. C.

Print THE ACADEMY, CATALOGUE, HOW TO GET TO SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY and other publications issued by the Institution.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIV.

SALEM, N. C., JANUARY, 1892.

NUMBER 122.

The Students' Tour to Northern Cities.

(CONCLUDED.)

NO trouble to make the start, nine o'clock sharp, and we were on the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad, speeding by elegant suburban mansions, out into that garden spot of farming, the section north of Philadelphia. An hour and forty minutes brought to our view the beautiful Lehigh Mountains and the forest of smoke stacks of the great Bethlehem Iron Works. At the Union Station we find LIZZIE WOLLE (class '87) and JENNIE SIEGER, (class '87) Messrs. Wm. Sieger and Clarence Wolle waiting with carriages for the party. In a few moments all are well acquainted, and the party is being rapidly transported to the Steel and Ordnance Works, probably one of the largest plants in the world of its kind. A single contract of $5,000,000 was recently awarded this company by the government. We of course, cannot attempt a description of the Works, since a book would be required to do so. Suffice it to say that amid the pounding of the engines, the showers of sparks, the white hot mettle, the serpent-like red hot rails, the locomotives screaming, the trip-hammer cutting the great ingots, the furnaces belching out flames, the men moving in and out like shadows, all formed a scene very interesting but thrilling enough for a page in Dante's Inferno. A rapid trip through the new Ordnance Works where great cannon and sheets of armor plate nine inches thick, are being made, finally filled our time, and we then proceeded to the Lehigh University. This great and typical College claimed an hour, and after a ride over Fountain Hill, across New Street bridge, and through the more historic portions of the town to the new and beautiful stone buildings of the Moravian Theological Seminary, (Mr. CLEWELL'S Alma Mater) the party finally stopped at the Eagle Hotel for dinner. A very delightful hour was spent at Mrs. Wolle's home, (Mrs. CLEWELL'S mother) and then a number of the party walked out to Nisky Hill and later paid their respects to Mr. Blickenderfer, President of the Young Ladies Seminary. The day was closed by a reception tendered the party by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rice. We quote from the Bethlehem Daily Times in regard to the trip: FAIR MAIDS EN ROUTE—A BEVY OF SOUTHERN BEAUTIES COME TO PAY US A VISIT.

At 10:40 this morning a squad of ten young ladies, as bright and fair as any half score of girls that has ever graced Bethlehem with its presence, stepped from the Buffalo express on the North Penn. side of the Union Depot. With them was a tall, dark man under whose escort they were. He was Rev. John H. Clewell, principal of the Moravian Seminary for Young Ladies of Salem, North Carolina. The young ladies were ten members of the senior class on their annual northern tour. They were met at the station by William S. Sieger and Clarence A. Wolle, who escorted them about town. Besides Mr. Clewell, the congregation consisted of Carrie Ollinger, Milton, Fla.; Fanny L. Pace, Waco, Tex.; Blanche Morgan, Durham, N. C.; Mary Wood, Marlin, Tex.; Cleora Hewson, Orange, Tex.; Annie M. Schoolfield, Danville, Va.; Anna Adams, Bagdad, Fla.; Birdie Goslen, Salem, N. C.; Agnes Fogle, Salem, N. C., and Prue Crouse, Lincolnton, N. C.

A coach was in waiting, which took the party directly to the Lehigh University. They drove through the park and were taken through the buildings. The iron works were next visited. The young ladies were shown the ordinance department and initiated into the mysteries of ingot making in the liquid metal press. A drive over Fountain Hill and through Bethlehem followed. They wound into town by way of the new Theological Seminary and the coach arrived at the Eagle Hotel at 2 o'clock. They dined there and afterwards visited the Moravian Seminary. At 5 o'clock a reception will be tendered them at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Rice.

The party left Salem Wednesday. They were in New York two days and saw Bernhardt in "Cleopatra." They visited West Point and arrived in Philadelphia yesterday. They will leave at 6:30 tonight, spend Thanksgiving in Philadelphia, proceed to Washington, and expect to arrive in Salem a week from to-day.

BELLES OF THE SOUTH LAND—THEY HAVE HONORS HEAPED UPON THEM AND THEN SAY ADIEU.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the ten young ladies from the Moravian Seminary at Salem were given a reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Rice on New Street. The house was beautifully decorated and the visitors were charmed with the elegance of the occasion. Refreshments were served and every maiden carried away a chrysanthemum as a souvenir. Beside the guests in whose honor the reception was given, there were present Rev. John H. Clewell, Clarence E. Clewell, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wessels, Albert Rau, Arthur Krause, Robert Luckenbach, Mr. Crowland, Mr. Lichtenhaeler, William S. Sieger, Elizabeth L. Wolle, Addie Krause, Gertie Luckenbach and Anna Luckenbach.

Afterwards at the Eagle Col. Robert Lockhart invited the party to his rooms, where he entertained them for an hour. Every young lady was overwhelmed with distinctions and the party left for Philadelphia at 6:35 with pleasant recollections of the day spent in Bethlehem.

The closing day in Philadelphia was like the closing day in New York, wet and disagreeable. The programme was to spend the day in the Zoological Garden, and all seemed to enjoy the sight-seeing on this visit. Everything is so tastily arranged as to buildings. The animals appear as if they were well cared for, and rather seem to welcome the visitors. We inspected all, the lions and tigers, the snakes and alligators, the prairie dogs and birds, the bears and sea lions, the elephants and rhinoceros, the camels and buffaloes. Old Boliver, the huge elephant presented by Mr. Forepaugh, is heavier in weight than Barnum's famous Jumbo. When he raises his head it is more than 11 feet from the floor, and yet he seemed to appreciate every peanut handed him by his admiring audience. When once more at the comfortable Aldine, all decided to remain in the house the rest of the rainy day. This was Thanksgiving day, and of course the hotel had a special bill of fare for the occasion. We thought often of the day at the ACADEMY, and the large number of turkeys slain to make the scores of pupils happy. At six we took a quiet table in the large dining room, and watched the parties as they came and went. We interviewed the usual Thanksgiving turkey; and as we further con the Blue Points on the half-shell, and the quail on toast it occurred to us that possibly you would enjoy glancing at the entire bill of fare, especially if you are a little hungry while reading this letter: Here it is:

MENU.

Blue Points.

Consomme Washington.	_____	Potage D'Artagnan.
Bouchees a la Saipicon.
Boiled Salmon, Shrimp Sauce.	_____	Whitebait.
Celery.	_____	Potatoes Marquise.
Saddle of Southdown Mutton.
Sweetbread a la Moderne.	_____	Terrapin a l'Alaine.
New England Fritters Confiture.
Ribs of Beef.	_____	Turkey, Oyster Stuffing.
Mashed Potatoes.	_____	Sweet Potato Croquet.
Spinach.	_____	Coarse Hominy, Asparagus, Baked Macaroni.
Plymouth Rock Punch.
Roast Duck.	_____	Broiled Quail on Toast.
Celery Mayonnaise.	_____	Salade Macedoine.
Red Capon.	_____	Pate de Foie Gras.
Roquefort, De Brie, and Nenfchatel Cheese.
Plum Pudding, Cognac Sauce.
Mince Pie.	_____	Orange Custard Pie.
Vanilla Ice Cream.	_____	Frozen Apricots.
Charlotte Russe.
Chocolate eclairs.
Oranges.	_____	Figs.
Apples, Pears, Grapes, Bananas.
Nuts and Raisins.

Thanksgiving day was closed by listening to a play by the famous young actor, E. H. Sothron. The key to the play is given it the following words :

"Faith, Duty, Love, Conscience—Nobody can help believing them. Turn them out at the door, they only fly in the window; trample them into the ground, they spring up again stronger than ever; prove them falsehoods in Greek and Latin, and you only find that they are the first truths that the mother tells to her baby."—ACT IV.

Thus ended the second part of our trip, and at 8:15 a. m., Friday, we were again on the Baltimore & Ohio Royal Blue Line speeding to Baltimore; our plan was to spend one day in this city.

On arriving at Baltimore, Dr. A. A. Clewell, brother of our Mr. C., is in waiting with a large Park Phaeton, and we at once begin our tour of inspection. Along the crowded streets past the Washington Monument we go, to the Druid Hill Park. The air is cold but fresh and bracing, and when we arrive at Dr. Clewell's home on Hartford Avenue, all are in prime condition to enjoy the splendid dinner which Mrs. Clewell has prepared for the party. A careful inspection of the great Stieff Piano Factory is then made, and after a fine view of the city from the top of the same, we again enter our conveyance and are driven past Johns Hopkins Hospital, down Baltimore Street and to the Peabody Institute. Several girls called on GRAY WARNER, who is attending school near by, and then our party is driven to the depot. A farewell to our kind host of the day, an hour's ride, and we find ourselves in Washington, at the Ebbitt House.

Of course the first thing to be done on Saturday morning is to visit the Capitol. The House of Representatives, the Senate Chamber, the Supreme Court rooms, the pictures and statuary, the dome and wide view, claim several very interesting hours, and the morning is closed with a visit to the Pension Office and the Post Office, the Dead Letter Office claiming the chief attention. Lunch being over we hasten to the Corcoran Art Gallery and spend the remainder of the day in examining the magnificent works of sculpture and painting. At night a hearty laugh is enjoyed at the play based on rural experiences entitled the "Country Fair."

Sunday our entire party worshiped at 4 p. m., at St. Mathew's church, and 8 o'clock Mr. Gulick and SUSIE GULICK, (class of '90) took a number of the party to their usual place of worship. The weather had turned very cold indeed, and all were glad to spend the day quietly at the hotel. Little snow fell in Washington, but the newspapers told us of the 8 inches of snow at Norfolk and the intense cold in Virginia and the Carolinas.

Probably one of the busiest days of the trip was Monday, November 30th. A clear, cold, bracing day and a full programme. Our first objective point is the State, War and Navy Building, in some respects the most handsome structure among the public buildings. Mr. Gulick and Lieut. Samuel Lemly, U. S. N., kindly acted as escorts and we examined many and varied objects of interest. Among them was Washington's sword; the original Declaration of Independence; models of war ships; continental and present day uniforms, and so on. Neither Secretary Tracy nor Secretary Blaine were in the building, so we could not pay our respects to these distinguished personages. We next proceeded to the Treasury, and inspected the vaults, the bond safe, and the "rogues' gallery." It did not make us feel richer to see the piles of money, $600,000,000 in all, but it was very interesting. At one o'clock we proceeded to the White House, and after a fifteen minutes wait in the East Room we had the pleasure of shaking hands with President Harrison. A hasty lunch at the Ebbitt House and we are again "on the go," this time on our way to the National Museum. All too swiftly the hour and a half passed in this wonderland, and at four o'clock we walked through the Agricultural Department grounds, over to the great Washington Monument, towering 555 feet upward. Six of the party walked up and down, the number of steps being 900 each way, 1,800 in all. Some idea of this walk can be had when we say that it would be about equal to going up to the fourth story of the ACADEMY nine times and returning the same number of times. Little Clarence was in his glory, and bantered the girls for a race down the various flights, until the descent was turned into a regular frolic. A short walk brought us to our hotel, and after a visit to the confectioners the party took dinner. In the evening we had the pleasure of hearing Emma Juch in the opera Rigoletto.

All earthly things must have an end and so our last day of the trip arrived. The start was promptly made at 9 o'clock and the first number on the programme was a hurried visit to the Patent Office. Among other objects of interest seen was the first sewing machine. At 10 o'clock the party was on board the steamer Mac Allister and on our way to Mount Vernon. The visit to this lovely spot on the Potomac certainly formed a fitting close to the tour. Whether standing in front of Washington's tomb, or on the front veranda of his home; whether gazing on the interesting relics or walking in the well cultivated garden, everything reminded one of the departed hero and statesman. "A delightful visit" exclaimed the girls many times over.

On arriving at Washington we found Lieut. Lemly waiting for us, and under his escort we visited the Navy Yard. This was a novel feature of the day, and it was made specially enjoyable because of Mr. Lemly's polite and considerate attention to the party.

The last number on the programme was to have been a visit to the Cyclorama "Battle of Bull Run." Having closed the day we returned to the Hotel and then proceeded to the depot.

Certainly all must have slept soundly, for does not the porter of the sleeper call "Danville, 20 minutes for breakfast." Yes this is Danville, and this Greensboro, and this Salem and this the ACADEMY and this the end of the tour undertaken two weeks ago. Long may its memories live with each and every member of the party!

It would not be right to close this article without noting the fact that special courtesies were extended by more than those named earlier in our sketch. Special mention should be made of the preparation made by Capt. R. A. Jenkins, of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; also of the special favor shown by Mr. Jas. L. Taylor, of the Richmond & Danville Railroad. The three hotels at which we stopped could not have made us more comfortable than they did. We regretted not seeing more of Dr. E. A. Von Schweinitz who called the first evening while we were away. And lastly too much cannot be said by the writer of the lady-like, quiet, obedient and considerate conduct of the ten young ladies who made up the party. Nothing occurred to mar the trip, either in word or deed, all were cheerful and appreciative, and you know it might not have been thus! We feel that all were benefited. It could not have been otherwise. But without the Lord's special care and blessing in preserving health and protecting from accident, a trip like this one would be a sad one indeed. No one realizes the responsibility more than the one who acted as escort; no one shrinks such a responsibility more than he does. But in doing this the interests of a number of patrons of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY are furthered, he feels repaid for all the care, anxiety and responsibility connected with the Students Tour to Northern Cities, in the year 1891.

Correspondence.

—Our first communication for 1892 comes to us from a large sugar plantation of Louisiana, from Mrs. Churchill, better known among us as CARRO STEWART:

You will have to think back ten long years to remember me, but I sincerely hope you have not forgotten CARRO STEWART, for I can assure you I very often think of you. The dear ones at Salem, the ACADEMY with its loved teachers and happy associations, will ever be held in love and sacred memory by me. I hope the day is not far distant when I shall see you all face to face and view the many improvements in your surroundings.

I noticed an advertisement in THE ACADEMY of a Souvenir Spoon, for sale by Mr. W. T. Vogler. Enclosed please find $5.00 and send me two. I am wearing my Alumnae pin, and am so proud of it, and shall be glad to have a spoon as well.

I have been living on a large sugar plantation ever since I married; my husband has been a planter for more than 8 years. Several Salem friends have asked me to write about a Sugar Plantation for THE ACADEMY. [By all means let us have the sketch; it will give us great pleasure. If our Alumnae would help us in this way more frequently, our paper could be made much more enjoyable.—EDITORS OF ACADEMY.]

With much love for you in which my mother joins me,

I am affectionately,
CARRO STEWART CHURCHILL.
Alma Plantation, Lakeland, La.

—Our next is from LAURA DICKS now Mrs. Robert Moir:

From long habit I invariably commence my letters by asking pardon for my long delay in writing you. I write more particularly now to ask you to have my address changed to Mrs. Robert Moir. I was married November 10th, and for the present will continue to live at home and attend to my office work. I have been agent at Walkertown on the Roanoke & Southern Railway, 9 miles from Winston, for nearly three years. I like my work very much; we never had a great deal of business until the past year. It only required three or four hours a day,

I think my subscription for THE ACADEMY is nearly out. I will renew as soon as it is, for I do not wish to miss a single copy. While there are no girls there I know, still the old school home seems near and dear to me, while there are teachers there that I love and often think of. I remain
Yours,

MRS. ROBERT MOIR,
(nee LAURA DICKS.)
Walkertown, N. C.

—LIZZIE NEWTON has changed her name without telling her Alma Mater of it, so we could not announce the marriage as we usually do:

I send you 50 cents for a year's subscription to THE ACADEMY, and would like to have it begin with the September number, for I want to keep up with all that is transpiring within my Alma Mater's walls. Like all the ACADEMY girls, my love for the dear old place has never diminished. Please remember me kindly to Bishop RONDTHALER and all the teachers.

With kind regards to yourself and Mrs. CLEWELL.

Very sincerely,
LIZZIE NEWTON MOORE.
Bennettsville, S. C.

—We copy the following from a letter to Miss HAGEN, from an old pupil, FANNIE LEWIS, of Hertford Co., N. C., in 1842, '43 and '44:

Please pardon me for not writing more fully about myself, for the pleasant memories of my dear old Alma Mater caused my thoughtlessness. Please give my kind regards to Mr. CLEWELL, and say that I send many thanks for papers, catalogue, etc. I have read and re-read them with lovely memories of my girlhood, and I will send them to my friends.

I married Mr. Thomas Riddick, of Gatesville, N. C. He was a widower and his first wife was sister to old Judge Moore, of Edenton, N. C. He died 8 years after we were married. I have only two children, Sarah Lewis and Cora Aline; the former graduated at Hannah Moore Academy, and then went as a Missionary to Tokio Japan, and took charge of the Margaret's School, with 65 girls. At the close of 7 years, Mr White, of Roselle, N. J., went to Japan, and they were married by Bishop Williams in the new Cathedral. They remained one month and then returned to the United States and are now living in Elizabeth, N. J. They have a sweet little daughter 16 months old.

My daughter, Cora Aline, went to school at Murfreesboro, N. C. She married Mr. W. N. McAnge, who is a large oyster packer of Suffolk, Va. They have 2 pretty children, Louise 12 years old, and Willie 9 years, I am anxious to have Louise educated at SALEM ACADEMY.

Please tell me who Harriet Butner and Emma Reich married. I have their faces perfectly before me. I shall never be satisfied till Louise is at the ACADEMY.

I am with love, your old pupil,
F. W. L. RIDDICK.
Suffolk, Va.

—SADIE SITTING wrote the following a short while ago.

When I left dear old Salem I firmly resolved to write you as soon as I arrived at home, but my time was so fully occupied that I neglected it until now. Of course I was overjoyed at being home again and meeting with old friends. Mamma thought her daughter needed a little rest, so nothing would do but a trip to Sour Lake, a favorite resort in Texas, about 60 miles from Houston. The place has 13 separate and distinct wells in close proximity, within 200 feet of each other, and about of equal depth. Each one contains different medicinal virtues, beneficial to almost every complaint. One well in particular has the odor of tar and is good for all sorts of skin diseases.

After returning from Sour Lake, we spent some time at Galveston, 50 miles from Houston. Here I was very glad to meet GLADYS CRAWFORD and FLORENCE SETTLE. We stopped at the Beach Hotel, located directly on the finest beach in the United States. The surf bathing is delightful here, and you may be sure I took advantage of it.

I am now kept busy taking a course of Short-hand and Type-writing, instrumental and vocal Music, and last but not least, dancing.

Are the Seniors further advanced in studies than we were the same time last year? Are they having as serious a time in deciding the kind of ring they want, as we had.

REBA CAMPBELL and I live within a few doors of each other, and I see her very often.

When I first came to Salem and was so homesick, Mamma often wrote me I would think of my school days and perhaps wish myself there. I miss THE ACADEMY so much, so I send one dollar for 2 years subscription.

Remember me to Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL, teachers and scholars. Your time is valuable, I know, so I will not burden you with a long letter. So good-by, and that we may meet again some day, is the wish of your former pupil.

SADIE SITTING.
158 San Jacinto & Walker Sts, Houston Tex.

—At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Alumnae Association THE ACADEMY was requested to ask all our readers who have pledged any sums for the Scholarship Endowment, to kindly send the same either to THE ACADEMY, or to Miss GERTRUDE JENKINS, Salem, N. C., who is Treasurer of the Society.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., JANUARY, 1892.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

Our Elocution Department.

We take pleasure in announcing to our patrons and friends that with the opening of the second half of our school year the last addition needed to complete our Faculty has been made.

MISS ADELAIDE SCRIBER, of Salem, Oregon, recently connected with the New England Conservatory, has accepted the position of Instructor in and has entered upon her duties, under the most favorable circumstances.

ELOCUTION,

Not only does Miss SCRIBER come to us with the highest recommendations from her Alma Mater, and from newspapers in their comments on her public readings, but her reception by the pupils in our Institution has been equally warm and enthusiastic. In the recent recital given before the pupils, Faculty and Trustees, the applause was unusually loud and prolonged, showing that the appreciation of the forceful manner in which selections were rendered was very decided indeed.

Miss SCRIBER will devote part of her time to class lectures, for which no special charge will be made, this being considered a portion of our already rich and full course of study. But in addition to this a limited number of pupils can secure private instruction, for which an extra charge will be made.

—The Christmas season was a very enjoyable one, the life and enjoyment being fully up to the standard of that joyous season. Boxes, Decorations, Church services and the general good cheer is spoken of elsewhere.

—The friends of the ACADEMY will rejoice to note the large number of new names on the list of January entrances. Usually names registered in January are few, but this year the number of new faces is very much greater, and we welcome them into our midst.

—The hot water heating in Annex Hall is in every way a marked success, and will doubtless be adopted for all the buildings during the year. Park Hall has occasionally sent in a "cool protest," but a slight change of the position of the radiators will doubtless set matters right.

To the Members and Friends of the Alumnae Association of Salem Female Academy:

The meetings of our Alumnae Association are becoming more and more enjoyable in their interchange of greetings, and pleasing reminiscences, but this is not their sole object. We have a work before us in which all that is best and noblest is brought into action,—the work of increasing the amount of our SCHOLARSHIP ENDOWMENT FUND.

Its object is the education of daughters of our Alumnae, who are even now asking for help. Shall they call on us in vain? Ah no! dear friends. Let us go to work with renewed zeal and earn our part of the double blessing which deeds of mercy always bring.

A good beginning has been made: $625 have been invested, and are bearing interest. By the time all the pledges previously given have been redeemed, the sum will be between $700 and $800. Surely by a united effort we can increase it to $1,000. The second thousand will be raised more readily, and when $2,500 are in our hands. Mr. CLEWELL will gladly receive the daughter of an Alumna as the result of our effort.

No matter how small the amount which you can give; a fraction of a dollar bestowed with kindly good wishes will carry a rich blessing and stimulate others to do likewise. Harvard, Yale, Wellesley and Vassar are rolling up their endowment funds by thousands; we cannot do that, but let us do what we can individually. Let us make known the worthy object of the fund to others who are favored with abundant means, and ask them to join us in the laudable work, and then long after we shall have passed away from earth our fund will remain a source of blessing to those who are longing for educational advantages here under the ACADEMY roof. We remain, very sincerely yours,

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

THE ACADEMY specially commends the above to the practical consideration of its readers. Large or small gifts will be welcome. We give below a blank which we will be glad to have you fill out and return to us, in order to swell this fund and start it on its noble work. By all means let the figures reach and pass $1,000 by June next.

I desire to contribute the sum of $ _____ cents.

to the Alumnae Scholarship Fund, and will forward the same by _____ 1892,
to THE ACADEMY, or to the Treasurer,
Miss Gertrude Jenkins, Salem, N. C.

(Signed)

(P. O. Address)

[Cut this out and return it with your contribution.]

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The Elocution class of private pupils is always very large.

—Bishop Rondthaler has been indisposed for the past days, but is now rapidly convalescing.

—There have been quite a number of additions to the Short-hand class since the Christmas recess.

—The Industrial Sewing department has just furnished us with a pleasing sketch which we will publish next month.

—The telegraphy instruments are still busily clicking away and several pupils will secure the coveted diploma in the summer.

—A number of old pupils paid their respects to Alma Mater during the past month. We are always glad to see the familiar faces.

—The Salem Literary Society intend to give a public debate in the ACADEMY Chapel in the near future. Admission will be by invitation.

—A visit to the Studio displayed busy and skillful work with pencil and brush. The class of work executed thus far is above the average grade.

—The Southern Educator, Durham N. C., proposes to publish an interesting paper on the "Bibliography of North Carolina Literature," at an early date.

—The Scholastic reports are now being sent out. The average is very good. many who were low last year having decidedly "spurred up" during the past months.

—Quite a number of Christmas presents were made in the Studio in November and December and doubtless are now a source of pleasure in the homes in different parts of our country.

—The Executive Committee of the Alumnae Society, met in the ACADEMY office some days since in order to devise ways and means to increase the Alumnae Scholarship Fund.

—The examination visits to the Language Department and to the general Scholastic Classes on the part of the Principal were delayed in December, but will be undertaken early in February.

—Owing to the late arrival of the trains at Greensboro, Mr. PFOHL has made a number of trips to that point to meet pupils. Another recent change of time brings the Salem train in an hour earlier.

—We cannot too fully appreciate the blessing of good health enjoyed in the school thus far. While reports come to us from all parts of the country of serious and even fatal illness, we have been spared serious illness in any form, and the infirmary is often quite deserted.

—About the usual number of pupils visited, hone the Christmas recess; Mr. CLEWELL was considerably stirred up by their early departure, but the prompt return seemed to alleviate his feelings somewhat.

—The close of the old and the beginning of the new term is not characterized by any special event save the advent of a number of new faces, there being an unusually large number of registration this year for mid-session.

—The weather was unusually fine during the Holidays and the services in the Moravian church were well attended. An elaborate decoration in the church contributed much to the general enjoyment of the happy season in the sanctuary.

—Several of the patrons have inspected the work done in the dress making department. It is really a wonderful thing to see the remarkable skill attained in this department in regularity of stitch, matching of fabrics and other classes of work.

—The usual Christmas decoration for the little ones was at the Principal's House, and some from the school seemed to take pleasure in helping the "little ones" play with animals, fountain and all other wonderful inhabitants of the miniature rural scene.

—And now that January is well on its way we feel that everything will tend towards June and the close of the school year. Studies will be carried on with renewed zeal and lost time will be atoned for in as far as that is possible. But from Christmas to June the time is very short indeed in our school life.

—It had been the intention of Miss BESANT to bring her niece with her when she returned from her Christmas visit, but instead of welcoming the young lady a letter was received chronicling the death of the young lady after a brief illness. THE ACADEMY extends its sympathy to the mourning relations.

—Mr. CLEWELL used the afternoons of the week before Christmas for music examination. The general progress of the classes was satisfactory and in some instances extraordinary results were attained. There are now nine instructors engaged in this department and the steady practice of pupils and earnest work on the part of teachers, promise good results for the year.

—The Board of Agriculture has undertaken to make an exhibit of the resources of the State of North Carolina at the Columbian Exposition, and has appointed the World's Fair Executive Committee to carry out this purpose. This Committee appeals to the citizens of the State to give them a cordial support, and to aid them in furnishing an exhibit that will be illustrative of the State's resources of every kind. Address W. T. Green, Chairman, Raleigh, N. C.

—Christmas Dinner is always a welcome and happy occasion and this year was no exception. A pyramid of laurel containing a couple hundred wax candles was in the center of room, and rows of candles around the sides of the dining hall. The blinds having been closed the effect was very novel indeed. The turkey was not a novel sight, but was none the less welcome.

—The Principal will visit the Cooking School during the latter part of January, dining in succession with the several classes. It may be well to remark here that the work of our Industrial Department has always been of a most practical nature, and any one of our friends who could drop in and partake of one of the meals would be convinced of the thoroughness of the instruction imparted.

—Among the number of visitors who have paid their respects during the past weeks we note, from a distance, the following names: Rev. H. S. Hoffman, of Philadelphia, Penn.; Mr. W. M. Kime, of Liberty, N. C.; Mr. Simpson, of Florida; Mr. Z. L. Burson of Tennessee; Mrs. Cross, of Florida. We were also pleased to greet quite a number of friends from our more immediate vicinity.

—A new room has been fitted up for the Book-keeping classes. Separate apartments are now provided for stores and banks and all transactions in the practical sets partake of a more business-like aspect because engaged in through a window. If you notice that the heads of the pupils in this department are carried a little higher than usual, you may conclude that the "new quarters" is the cause.

—The following pupils have registered during the past month:

Minnie Hancock, Pearl Read, Corrie Jones, Ellie Simpson, Bertha Bear, Lucy Thorp, Berta Totten, Mattie Johns, Lucy Williams, Eva Cheatham, Bertie Kime, Annie Davis, Maggie Pope, Mamie Roberts, Evie Lamb, Daisy Vaughn, Carro Buxton, Nannie Bessant, Pattie Summerell, Alberta Houck, Maud Ormsby.

In addition to this a number of special pupils in special departments have also registered.

—The recital given some days since under the direction of Miss SCRIBER was a very enjoyable occasion. The audience "went wild" and all who took part were at their best. Besides Miss SCRIBER, parts were rendered by Mrs. SCHMOLCK, Miss HEGE and Prof. SCHMOLCK. We give the programme:

1. Music. Miss MICKEV.
Aux Italiens.
Miss SCRIBER.
2. Recitation. Mrs. SCHMOLCK.
3. Vocal Solo. Foolish Little Maiden.
Miss SCRIBER.
4. Recitation. Prof. SCHMOLCK.
5. Piano Solo. In the usual Way.
Miss SCRIBER.
6. Recitation.

—The annual reception tendered by Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL to the pupils and teachers on New Year's day was in every way an enjoyable occasion. Evergreen trees were placed in the dining room and a dozen or more tables, on which were arranged games of every variety. Music was interspersed and about 10 o'clock the large curtain separating the rear of the hall was drawn and displayed a tempting repast which was enjoyed by pupils and the few invited guests. The occasion was one of hearty and refined enjoyment.

—We acknowledge with great pleasure the reception of a book for our Library, donated by its talented author, Mrs. CLARA DARGAN MACLEAN, to her Alma Mater

The title Light O' Love, indicates a book of striking interest. The scenes are laid in Charleston, S. C., in the days before the war, and the society of that period, refined, cultured, hospitable, is presented to us in its old time glamor of grace and beauty. The wits and belles of that chivalric time are well depicted under slight disguises, and its lofty ethical tone will recommend the book to those who care little for the ordinary romantic novel.

It is handsomely bound, illustrated, and may be procured of the publishers, Worthington & Co., 747 Broadway, New York, at $1.25, paper 75 cents.

—Christmas within the ACADEMY is well worthy of a special article, but circumstances confine us this month to a smaller space. The decorations were entered upon with an unusual zeal. Even the 7 or 8 men seemed insufficient to supply demand for cedar and laurel, moss and mistletoe, tree and branch that busy hands were twining around pendent and deftly placing over door and window. It will be impossible to convey an idea of the varied designs wrought out by happy minds and skillful hands. In one room was found a snow scene in which the imitation was so real that you almost shivered on entering the room. In another the brightest balls and ornaments mingled with the fresh green and seemed to almost speak the word "Christmas." Still other rooms had prepared transparencies, while in one an old fashioned "Putz" greeted the visitors. One gentleman who walked through the buildings on Christmas Day, exclaimed that he doubted whether any school in the United States could boast of as much Christmas good-cheer, and we might add that when you looked upon the bright faces, it would be hard to imagine a more hearty enjoyment of the season than that which took place within the ACADEMY.

Alumnae Scholarship Endowment.

Mrs. Louisa A. Smythe, West India,	.25
Mrs. Amelia R. Woodward,	5 00
Previously acknowledged,	619.60
Total,	$624.85

Personal Items.

—NELLIE BLAIR has taken charge of the Music Department at Ronda, N. C.

—EMMA ROLLINS, of Asheville, N. C., was one of the bridesmaids at LOUISE HUNT'S marriage.

—Miss FANNIE NEILL was married to Mr. Henry Clay, (a relative of the great Henry Clay) and now resides in California.

—Mrs. Mary Mumford, of Smithville, Va., was a pupil here 40 years ago, during the Principalship of Rev. CHARLES BLECK. Her name was MARY DAVIS; her sister ANNA DAVIS is dead.

—The chill wing of the death angel Azrael, has shadowed many a household in our broad land during the past months, and it is with deepest sympathy that we note the death of CLEORA HEWSON'S brother, of Orange, Texas.

—Our Alumnae have entered the state Matrimonial in such numbers that we can scarcely chronicle them all, especially where they have in their great happiness forgotten to notify us. We rejoice with them, and wish them every blessing.

—We were sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Armstrong Tate, of Burlington, N. C. She had been an invalid for years, and died at ETTA'S home in Graham, November 6th. Her husband and two daughters, LULA and ETTA, have our deep sympathy in this their great affliction.

—We see from the Raleigh News and Observer that Miss JANIE E. WARD, of Raleigh, is a member of Col. E. G. Harrell's party to visit Cuba; it will no doubt be a most enjoyable trip. It could not be otherwise to the beautiful Gem of the Antilles, and under the direction of so accomplished and experienced a traveller as Col. Harrell.

—A friend writes in answer to some of Mrs. Ollinger's recent inquiries:—"I see Mrs. O— asks after CORINNA SEAWELL. She married Mr. Carver, lives in Raleigh, N. C., and has five children. DORA DUNN married her cousin John Dunn and thus retains her maiden name; they also live in Raleigh. ANNA ROBERTSON married Mr. Hunter, of Neuse, N. C.

—Among the varied Christmas tokens from distant friends were two dainty little photographs of Flournoy Alexander Hopkins, the two year old daughter of Mrs. Alexander Hopkins, (our DORA.) They were marked "From Grave to Gay," the one sober as a judge, with a kind of pathetic question in the eyes,—the other dimpling with smiles to the very end of each curling, yellow hair.

Subscriptions Received.

Miss M. A. Reudeman, Bethlehem, Pa.; Mrs. Colon Shaw, Magnolia, N. C.; Mrs. Chas. D. Tyner, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Lizzie Newton Moore, Bennettsville, S. C.; Mrs. Mary B. Mumford, Smithville, N. C.; Miss Annie Perkins, Greenville, N. C.; Miss Bloomfield Gambill, Bowling Green, Ky.; Mrs. E. T. Clemmons, Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. R. L. Penny, Reedy Creek, N. C.; Mrs. J. S. Hunt, Oxford, N. C.; Mrs. W. T. Pate, Laurel, Hill, N. C.

Married.

—DRAKE—HALL.—About October 1st, Mr. RICHARD DRAKE to Miss FLORIDE HALL, both of Griffin, Ga.

—BECK—CHAFFIN.—On December 7th, in Germantown, N. C., Mr. ROBERT BECK to Miss FLORA CHAFFIN.

—DU BOSE—KILLBREW.—On December 16th, at the Baptist church, Marlton, Texas, Mr. J. DU BOSE to Miss WILLIE KILLBREW.

—PALMER—HARRISON.—On December 17th, in Knoxville, Tenn., Mr. WILLIAM BASKERVILLE PALMER to Miss MAGGIE HARRISON.

—SPENCER—CLARK.—On December 23rd, at the church of the Epiphany, Dahville, Va., Mr. JOHN D. SPENCER to Miss ANNIE CARR CLARK.

—SHEPHERD—NORFLEET.—On December 23rd, at the Winston, N. C. Presbyterian church, Mr. JAMES E. SHEPHERD to Miss MARY NORFLEET.

—ALLEN—FRANKLIN.—On December 23rd, at Morehead City, Mr. R. D. ALLEN to Miss EVA FRANKLIN.

—PARKER—MAY.—On December 29th, at Rock Hill, S. C., Mr. JAMES E. PARKER to Miss ANNE BELLE MAY.

—MILLER—CROUSE.—On December 30th, Mr. FRANK E. MILLER to Miss ELLA CROUSE, of East Salem, N. C.

—MORRISON—DAVID.—In Bennettsville, S. C., December 31st, Mr. J. D. MORRISON to Miss DELLA DAVID.

—GARRETT—BUTNER.—In Salem, N. C., on December 31st, Prof. CHARLES GARRETT, of Knoxville, Tenn., to Miss FANNIE BUTNER.

—LEAK—WILLIAMSON.—On January 5th, Mr. WALTER R. LEAK to Miss ANNA WILLIAMSON, of Winston, N. C.

—MC CALLUM—TOWNSEND.—On January 7th, near Lumberton, N. C., Mr. ARCHIBALD T. MC CALLUM, of Red Springs, N. C., to Miss AGNES TOWNSEND.

—MONTCASTLE—HUNT.—On January 12th, in Lexington, N. C., Mr. GEO. W. MONTCASTLE, Cashier of the Lexington National Bank, to Miss LOUISE HUNT.

Died.

In Waightown, N. C., on December 18th, Miss JENNIE E. STAFFORD, a dearly loved and respected member of our large Alumnae circle.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupil only, and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1 Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS. ACADEMY.]

—I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!

1880.

- 5484 MINERVA R. STOKES. — 1861.
C. M. Hunt, Wilkesboro, N. C.
5485 DOUGLAS DICK. — 1863.
Jas. W. Dick, Greensboro, N. C.
5486 DORA NEAL. — 1865.
Quincey F. Neal, Jefferson, N. C.
5487 FANNIE MCAFEE. — 1866.
Jos. M. McAfee, Canton, Ga.
5488 CARRIE MILLER. — 1862.
5489 MOLLIE MILLER. — 1864.
P. A. Miller, Jonesville, N. C.
5490 EULA RORER. — 1865.
F. Rorer, Big Lick, Va.
5491 SALLIE SULLIVAN. — 1865.
N. D. Sullivan, Walkertown, N. C.
5492 NANNIE JONES. — 1864.
J. E. Jones, Macon, Ga.
5493 ZETA ROGERS. — 1865.
C. H. Rogers, Macon, Ga.
5494 LIZZIE LINEBACK. — 1867.
Rev. R. P. Lineback, Bethania, N. C.
5495 MATTIE GOODMAN. — 1864.
Samuel Goodman, Tyler, Texas.
5496 BETIE PATRICK. — 1864.
John Patrick, Hookerton, N. C.
5497 FLORENCE COWARD. — 1864.
Wm. Coward, Hookerton, N. C.
5498 MARY S. WEBB. — 1866.
A. C. Holmes, San Augustine, Texas.
5499 JULIA HICKS. — 1863.
W. J. Hicks, Raleigh, N. C.
5500 IONE PARKER. — 1864.
Capt. E. S. Parker, Graham, N. C.
5501 LULA E. McENTIRE. — 1866.
W. R. McEntire, Dallas, Texas.
5502 LAURA F. GASTON. — 1866.
Capt. W. H. Gaston, Dallas, Texas.
5503 MARY WHITSETT. — 1864.
Isaiah Summers, Gibsonville, N. C.
5504 SUSIE SHIELDS. — 1865.
Jas. G. Shields, Scotland Neck, N. C.

The Student's Series of Histories.

Edited by WILLIAM SMITH, LL. D.

Each one of these serviceable and attractive volumes is acknowledged to be the best summary in our language of the particular branch of knowledge to which it belongs.

Ancient History: A Manual of Ancient History, from the Earliest Times to the Fall of the Western Empire. 636 pp. Price $1.25.

The Christian Church, I: The History of the Christian Church during the First Ten Centuries. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 618 pp. Price, $1.50.

The Christian Church, II: The History of the Christian Church during the Middle Ages. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 700 pp. Price, $1.50.

The East: The Ancient History of the East, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of Alexander the Great. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. Illustrated, 650 pp. Price $1.25.

England: A History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Revolution of 1688. 808 pp. Price $1.50.

England (CONSTITUTIONAL): The Constitutional History of England. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 748 pp. Price, $1.25.

England (QUEENS): Lives of the Queens of England, from the Norman Conquest. By AGNES STRICKLAND. Illustrated. 682 pp. Price $1.25.

France: A History of France, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire in 1852. Illustrated. 739 pp. Price $1.25.

Germany: A History of Germany, from the Earliest Times. By CHARLTON T. LEWIS. 800 pp. Price $1.50.

Greece: A History of Greece, from the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. 704 pp. Price $1.25.

Greece (GENERAL): A General History of Greece, from the Earliest Period to the Death of Alexander the Great. By GEORGE W. COX, M. A. 710 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome: A History of Rome, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By H. G. LIDDELL, D. D. 708 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome (GENERAL): A General History of Rome. B. C. 753—A. D. 476. By CHARLES MERIVALE, D. D. 702 pp. Price, $1.25.

Roman Empire: The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By EDWARD GIBSON Abridged. 678 pp. Price $1.25.

Middle Ages: View of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 708 pp. Price, $1.25.

Modern Europe: A History of Modern Europe, By RICHARD LODGE. 772 pp. Price, $1.25.

New Testament: The New Testament History, With Maps and Woodcuts. 780 pp. Price $1.25.

Old Testament: The Old Testament History, from the Creation to the Return of the Jews from Captivity. With Maps and Woodcuts. 716 pp. Price, $1.25.

A complete catalogue of School and College Text Books will be forwarded on request.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

Franklin Square, New York.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one I will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER,
JEWELER,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91—13.

THE SALEM STEAM BROOM WORKS,

Main Street, Salem, N. C.,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO., PROPRIETORS,
MANUFACTURERS OF

PARLOR, HEARTH, WHISK, STABLE
AND FACTORY BROOMS,

which we offer the trade at lowest prices.

Soliciting your orders we are

Yours truly,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.

Salem, N. C., September, 1891.

—* MISS EMMA L. LEINBACH, *—
(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANOS HANDLED.

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about

$75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up.

155 Lexington Avenue New York.

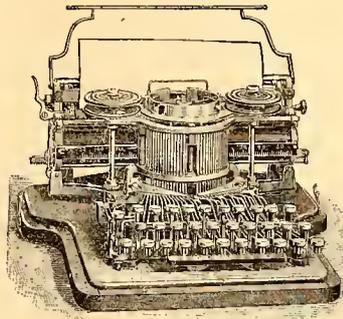

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her for responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Salem Female Academy

Salem, N. C., Feb. 11, 1889.

— USE —
The Hammond Type-Writer.

For SPEED, DURABILITY and BEAUTY OF WORK it has no equal.

The SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, having tested it, has formally adopted the "HAMMOND," and recommends it where a first-class machine is desired.

For Catalogue and price write to

J. W. GANNON, Winston, N. C.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Always carry in stock a full line of the latest styles Dress Goods with Trimmings to match.

CORSETS! CORSETS!

The leading makes such as:

Thompson's Glove Fitting Corset.

Dr. Warner's Health Corset.

Dr. Warner's Extra Long Waist Corset.

And the celebrated C. B. Corset.

CLOAKS! CLOAKS!

All the leading styles, Jackets, Reefers, Fur Capes with Muffs to match at low prices.

GLOVES! GLOVES!

We are sole agents for the World renowned FOSTER, PAUL & Co's Gloves; have them in Dressed or Undressed in all the latest shades and sell them at popular prices.

Best Assortment of Handkerchiefs in the Twin-City.

SHOES! SHOES! SHOES!

We always have a full line of fine Ladies Shoes, Oxford Ties and Slippers, which we are offering at low prices.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111.

Jan. 1892.

Phone 111

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON, N. C.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,
SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

The 90th Annual Session begins August 27th, 1891. Register for last year 356. Special features—the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Commercial and Industrial Studies.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

DAVIS SCHOOL.

Military Boarding School

FOR BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

Full preparation for any College or for Business. Healthy location; fine climate; mild winters; excellent buildings; Under Corner Band; Cadet Orchestra; Resident Surgeon. No Charge for Medical Attention. No Extra Charge for Languages or Sciences. Department of Art. Full Course in Telegraphy. VERY LOW RATES. For Register with full particulars address

COL. A. C. DAVIS, Supt.,

WINSTON, N. C.

PRIVATE LESSONS

German, French, Latin and Mathematics

L. B. WURRESCHKE.

Apply for Terms.

Feb. '91—61

GRANDEST DISPLAY

TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS,
LADIES' WORK BASKETS,
FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY
GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't.
Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't
Fayetteville, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
Salem Female Academy.

WHY

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway

is the BEST LINE for patrons from Salem, N. C., to Arkansas and Texas?

It is the Only Line that runs from Memphis to Arkansas and Texas Two Trains Daily.

Road Bed and Equipment are first-class. Sure connection by all lines from the East, and when sufficient to justify a Special Pullman Palace Car or Day Coach will be furnished for the exclusive use of the party, with an agent to escort to destination.

The same arrangements can be made to return from Texas or Arkansas to the School. For complete Itinerary of Route, address

A. A. GALLAGHER,
Southern Pass. Agt.
103 Read House, Chattanooga, Tenn.

H. C. TOWNSEND,
G. P. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

A NICE LINE OF
OIL STOVES,
AT THE "BIG COFFEE POT,"
AT BOTTOM PRICES.

Our latest novelties are:
Pat Flue Stoppers, Picnic Mugs,
Star Safety Razors, Pie Lifters,
Perfection Cake and Pie Tins and Egg
Beaters, all at very reasonable figures.

We solicit a share of your patronage.
Very respectfully,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.,

NORTH.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrodsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 25 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 1 1/2 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England Points and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

SOUTH.

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas; New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California. Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas Points. Anniston, Columbus, Montgomery, Mobile, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination.
For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION CHAS. H. MILLS, Ticket Agt. C. S. BARRETT, T. P. A. Depot.
D. J. MULLANEY, Div. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
C. C. HARVEY, CINCINNATI, O. D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A. Vice Pres.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA
SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Pre-eminently the Teachers' and Pupils' Route.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us, patronized, subsequently, any other line.

This is the only line from Memphis running Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer in Memphis from Eastern Lines.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

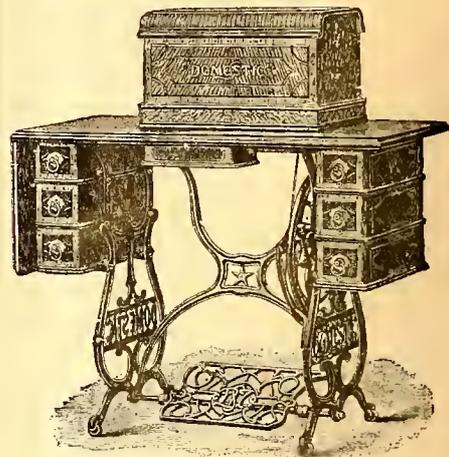

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

L. V. & E. T. BLUM,

BOOKSELLERS, STATIONERS AND PRINTERS,
Salem, N. C.

Print THE ACADEMY, CATALOGUE, HOW TO GET TO SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY and other publications issued by the institution.

"SOLD ON MERIT."
THE LIGHT-RUNNING "DOMESTIC"

IS SOLD BY

W. P. ORMSBY,
TWIN-CITY MUSIC HOUSE,
WINSTON, N. C.

Do you want a Piano?
Do you want an Organ?
Do you want any Musical Instrument?
W. P. ORMSBY
is agent for STIEFF'S Celebrated
Pianos, and LORING & BLAKE'S
Palace Organs.

Liberal allowance for old instruments in exchange.

Call or write to
W. P. ORMSBY, Twin-City Music House,
WINSTON, N. C.

Oct. 1891-19.

ASUSSMANN 232 6TH AVE. N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	1.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A COMPLETE FOR $7.25

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIV.

SALEM, N. C., FEBRUARY, 1892.

NUMBER 123.

Flower Culture.

BY MISS LEHMAN.

THE love of music and flowers is inherent in the Teutonic nature; it tends to soften and refine, while at the same time it is an unfailling indication of innate refinement and culture. In driving through Chiswick, one of the suburban precincts of the great world of London, we were attracted by the prevalence of window gardens. Every window and balcony was bright with choice floral beauties, and reminded us more of our Salem windows than any other locality.

As soon as the hand to hand struggle for existence was over with the early Moravian settlers of Salem, North Carolina, the culture of flowers manifested itself. Seeds and slips from the dear old Fatherland were carefully treasured. Thus, among others, the European Forget-me-not was brought here, and drifting down the little brook that ripples through our Academy Play-Grounds, carpeted the meadows with loveliest blue.

Botanists of national repute, luxuriated in the wild-wood treasures of the North Carolina forests and marshes, and catalogued every plant within a radius of 30 miles from Salem so faithfully that not even the least little cryptogamous plant escaped their watchful eyes. Rev. Louis de Schweinitz, Bishop Jacob Van Vleck, Rev. C. Denke, Rev. G. B. Reichel and others were noted among these, gathering rich herbariums; still farther enlarged by exchanges with Moravian missionaries from almost every quarter of the globe, from the West Indies, South Africa, from Russian Steppes, from the ice-fields of Labrador, from the lofty passes of the Himalayas, the marshes of Surinam, &c.

Every home, however humble, had its cultivated treasures; bright-eyed Oxalis peeped from the windows, Geraniums, Fuschias, &c., were loved and tended almost as if they were sentient creatures, exhaling their souls in odors, or capable of responding to a loving touch. This love of flowers has increased with the passing years, and it would be difficult, if not impossible, to find a place like Salem, with so many intelligent flower lovers.

Fashion with its potent hand, affects flowers, even though there be no change of style in the robes of the crocus or snow-drop, no difference of cut in the jaunty coats of tulips, or change of drapery in hyacinth or abluton. Now, the great Autocrat declares in favor of Foliage plants, and Caladiums, Coleus, Marantas and Cannas are in style; then Chrysanthemums, with all their glowing varieties, carry the day;—and again, the rare unique Orchid tribes are prime favorites. To the true lover of flowers all are dear, the tiny blossom that hides shyly under the green leaves as well as the regal Rose, the queenly Lily or Amaryllis that towers over all others in its superb beauty.

Flowers were cultivated here in Salem, for the pure love of them. There was no regular dealing in plants and flowers until within the last quarter of a century; but with the increasing size of Winston and Salem, a florist's establishment was set up on the old Louis Belo premises, by Joseph Renard, a competent Frenchman, who came here from the outside world about 1878 or '79. After flourishing for a time, he drifted away elsewhere, and was succeeded by Mr. Starr, who later gravitated to Winston.

Among the early residents of Salem whose love for flowers was proverbial, perhaps Mr. Daniel Welfare, a man of culture and an artist of considerable merit, should be mentioned, as tending his pet plants affectionately in 1839, or in the beginning of the forties. Next came Mr. William Holland (father of Rev. Francis Holland) whose greenhouse and garden about one and a half miles northeast of Salem, were well stocked with rare and curious plants and shrubs, and were frequently visited, before our late civil war. Here could be seen Cacti of many kinds, Yuccas, Coffee-trees with their cherry-like pods, Azaleas, Pelargoniums, Geraniums, and many more, rare then, though more common now.

After Mr. Holland's death his plants were scattered. The Coffee-tree, Century plant, &c., appeared in Mr. Felix Leinbach's Conservatory. Rev. ROBERT DE SCHWEINITZ later obtained the Century

Plant for the ACADEMY grounds, whereupon with characteristic mischief the ACADEMY girls killed it by cutting their names on its broad leaves.

Among those whose tastes in floral culture became evident, were Mr. J. L. Fulkerson, whose green-house was a favorite resort, Mr. James Lineback, Mrs. Keehln, Mrs. Fries, Mrs. Starbuck, Mrs. Ebert, Miss M. E. Chitty, Miss J. Welfare, Mrs. Miller, Mr. C. Hege, Mr. A. Meinung, Dr. Bahnson and others.

After the late war, Mr. Edward Belo, erected an extensive green-house and conservatory in which he took great pleasure, dealing out his choice flowers to his friends with liberal hand. It was a rare pleasure to loiter along the perfumed paths as he kept up a running commentary on his favorites, while we could imagine that some of them "blushed at the praise of their own loveliness."

Among out-door plants, Dr. Bahnson's lovely collection of Water Lilies, the Egyptian Lotus, Papyrus, Water Hyacinth and his superb Victoria Regia, have been enumerated in earlier numbers of THE ACADEMY, as a means of educational training to the rising generation, as well as sources of pure pleasure to all flower lovers.

Alma Sugar Plantation.

LAKELAND, LA., Jan. 27th, 1892.
Rev. J. H. Clewell,
Salem, N. C.:

Dear Sir:—Enclosed find the article you wished for the February number of THE ACADEMY, and I trust it will reach you in time. I promised it for one of the early Fall numbers, but as it is so often the case, I put it off from time to time.

My mother was not at home the day you spent at our old home in Illinois, but we are both very much pleased, that you remember it, and be assured you would be most welcome at Alma, should you ever visit this State. My mother joins me in very kindest regards and best wishes for the prosperity of the S. F. A.

I am sincerely yours,
CARRO STEWART CHURCHILL

Several friends here requested me to write for THE ACADEMY, something of Sugar Making and Plantation Life in Louisiana. But my knowledge is limited to our immediate surroundings, so you will please judge it accordingly.

All the larger plantations in this vicinity front on False (Fausse) river, which was many, many years ago, the bed of the "Father of Waters." But its being a "horse shoe" bend, the restless river broke through the narrow neck of land, leaving an island in the centre. But for safety during high water this horse shoe river was "diked" at the banks of the Mississippi, which leaves it a picturesque stream more than eighteen miles around, it broadening into a beautiful lake more than a mile wide, as it turns to form the horse shoe, and it is very pleasant to see the small False river boats go puffing by during the busy season; better still to take a ride on the lake in our little steam launch. The people who live on the Island are some of the descendants of the Acadians, immortalized in Longfellow's Evangeline. They still cling to many of their old time customs and habits, and are a people separate and to themselves.

But I am wandering from my subject. These plantations vary in size from one to three thousand acres, and on Alma alone there are more than a thousand darkeys, counting men, women and children. About fifty families live in the "home quarters," there being several other "quarters" scattered over the place, besides forty-eight or fifty renters on the outskirts. The latter cultivate cotton, each having a good sized patch of several acres. Our immediate household, the two overseers and assistants, are the only white people on this plantation, so you can form some idea of the negro majority in this part of the State.

I would tire you should I attempt to explain how plant cane is preserved and then cultivated during the winter and spring. But the different modes of cultivation continue until the latter part of June, when the crop is "laid by." That expression "laid by" means all work is done so far as human hands are concerned. "I have planted and Apollos watered, but God giveth the increase."

By October 15th, every thing is made ready and put in order to harvest the crop; even the sugar house kitchen, dining room and half a dozen bed rooms have received their share of attention. When cut and ready for the mill the cane is from six to seven feet long. The cutters work with such rapidity that it is very interesting to watch them shear the stalks of their long leaves, placing them in rows in readiness to be taken on the huge wagons (each drawn by four mules) and placed under the cane shed at the sugar house. There a gang of girls place it on an endless carrier, that conveys it up into the sugar house, where it is crushed between six huge iron rollers, the juice falling into an immense tank below. This juice is then pumped up into the "clarifiers" where it is properly timed; after which it is skimmed and brushed of most of its impurities. It is then turned into the evaporators, where it is reduced into a thick syrup, which is let off into large settling tanks where it remains from three to four hours. It is then pumped to the story above into large charge tanks, after which it is drawn up by a vacuum into the "vacuum pan," where it is cooked into sugar which requires three or four hours steady heat. It may be of interest to state here that all the heating and boiling is by steam process. After it is boiled sufficiently it is drawn off into a mixer, which has arms revolving constantly to prevent the sugar becoming caked or hardened. Directly under the mixer are placed the centrifugals, as the name indicates—the sugar is dried by centrifugal force. It is then conveyed by a bucket elevator to an adjoining room where it is allowed to cool, before being packed into barrels ready for shipping.

And who knows but what some of the sugar made on Alma, has sweetened many a cup of coffee served in the dear old S. F. A. dining room. Better still if it has been privileged to sweeten lovefeast coffee in that sacred old church in Salem.

—The Glee Club of the University of North Carolina gave a Concert in the ACADEMY CHAPEL, February 4th. The members of the club consist of the following: Messrs. Batchelor, Mangum, Arthur, McKinnie, Peschau, Zachary, Rondthaler, Harris, Roberson, Snow, Lee, Hoke, Willard, Price and Arrington. The various numbers of the programme were rendered with skill and enthusiasm, the young gentlemen being in full sympathy with the true idea of a jolly college song. In addition to the ACADEMY pupils a number of friends from town were present, every one being warm in their praises of the Glee Club.

—Special preparation has been given to the work of the Mid-Winter Concert, but as THE ACADEMY is printed before the date of the same, we will give an account of the Concert in the March number.

OUR WALKING CLUB.

(Dedicated to the Class of '91 of Salem Female Academy, by Miss MATTIE C. WOODSELL.)

It was proposed in class one day,
To start a walking club.
Then many yeas and one weak nay,
Rose in the loud hubbub.

"We cannot do it," Edna said,
"Who ever heard of such?"
And Sadie shook her bushy head,
And said it was too much.

"Why can we not?" said hasty Mat,
"I'm sure we can but try.
We will succeed, I'll bet my hat,
A gift of years gone by."

"Well, I will see," said Mr. C.
"Come over home at one,
And we will know who will agree
To have a little fun."

"We'll only go a little way,
On our first walk, you know,
As Clarence would be apt to say,
Walking will make you grow."

"A little ramble, so to speak,
About a mile or so,
Though some will call it all a freak,
And say we do not know."

"But we will show them that we're game;
If I may use the term,
And even put the boys to shame,
If we will but keep firm."

Thus he concluded, and the crowd
Filed out the office door,
With caution not to be so loud,
And many cautions more.

'Twas done as said, and many more
Were taken in due time;
But one, alas, (twas number four)
Ended in tragic style.

It happened thus,—a hidden marsh
Lay very near the road,
Where bull frogs' voices loud and harsh
Were echoed by the toad.

Beyond some lovely flowers grew
In clusters large and sweet,
It seemed almost as if they knew
The snare for clumsy feet.

Forth Agnes ran, the flowers to pluck,
And so intent was she,
That in she fell and fast she stuck,
And cried, "Help!" "Woe is me."

Then ran our Captain to her aid,
Umbrella under arm,
Her little hand in his she laid,
In state of wild alarm.

"Hold me," he cried, or I will go
Down in the marsh with her.
Please stop that laugh, though very low,
Such things I don't prefer.

Up stepped his "standby," small and light,
And grasped him by the hand,
And tugging hard with all her might,
Helped him to pull to land.

Then we our faces homeward turned,
With visions of home joys,
And one great wish within us burned,
To see the Davis Boys.

Of our adventures good and bad,
It is quite hard to tell;
Suffice it that much fun we had,
And our walk ended well.

Correspondence.

—Our social chat for the month begins with a bright and sprightly letter from BESSIE BROWN, now Mrs. Milligan, whose charming voice used to fill our Chapel with waves of melody.

You have been so constantly in my mind for the past days, that I cannot resist the temptation of writing hoping you may feel kindly enough towards your old pupil to give me an answer. Perhaps you would care to hear a little of my present life. To begin, I am not one day older than when I was at school at dear old Salem. I never intend to grow older. I couldn't if I wanted to, for my husband is likewise young in disposition, so it is a very happy married life I lead. One little sunbeam adds more brightness to an already happy home a little more than two years old, a golden haired, blue eyed laddie.

My home is with my parents I being the youngest of seven children, all married and gone out from the old home. It would be a great pleasure to have you visit us in our home.

You will be pleased to know that I have never given up my music; indeed I believe I sing more each year, in public. Two months ago I was invited to take a prominent part in a beautiful concert in Bristol, Tenn. I promise myself the pleasure of some day visiting the ACADEMY during a Commencement, possibly the coming one. Have you a fine singer in the school now? Do you ever hear from Prof. Agthe? He gave me the start in my music, and I have never for any length of time given it up. I should be so glad to hear of him.

Do you still care for flowers, and have them in your cosy little room, as you once did? You see I know what choice varieties you had, for how many times when I would be tired and homesick, would I find a lovely little nosegay at my desk. And so well do I remember, on a glad Easter morning, the little nest I found, filled with fragrant lillies, and a beautiful painted egg? and last, but by no means least, the love that prompted the thought, and at this moment that Easter egg lies in my trunk as one of my treasures for which I would take nothing in exchange.

We have an old Salem girl living in town, ANNIE STOKES, now Mrs. Adams. Her sister, Miss Stokes, is visiting her now.

She came here from Bristol, where she had been visiting VIRGINIA BURSON OWENS. I had a nice little visit with MINNIE FAIN PICKLE at Knoxville, Tenn., a short time ago. She is looking well and happy. Last week I spent several days in Bristol with JULIA SMITH accompanying me. JULIA has many friends and suitors. She paints beautifully; CARRIE FRANCISCO too lives here. I am sorry to say she is often in feeble health. FANNIE BROWN SUSONG, my sister spends her winters in Savannah, and her summers in Tennessee. She has two children, a little girl and a baby boy. ALICE MILLIGAN RAMSAY lives in Asheville. She will build a new house there during the coming summer. You doubtless heard of her sad misfortune in losing one of her beautiful eyes, and she bears it with submission. She has a little girl the age of my little man. With a kiss from him for his mamma's dear teacher, and with love from myself,

As ever your pupil,

BESSIE B. MILLIGAN.

Greenville, Tenn.

—BERTHA HICKS' pleasant face is brought before us again by a letter from her.

Your letter was received some time ago, and enjoyed so much. It is very sad about Professor MARKGRAFF, but I hope he is better by this time.

So many pleasant things have happened lately. We enjoyed ROSA ELLIS' and MARY WATKIN'S visits so much at the Fair, DAISY RAYNOR, from Kinston, was here also; then brother came; it had been almost a year since we saw him. Several of our old girls were here: SUE BORDEN spent about a week here, DAISY CLISBY was here several days, but has gone North now.

Have you had any snow yet? It was glorious here on Sunday, but it has all melted now. Mamma is improving, LIZZIE is in Durham. All send love, and I would be so glad to hear from you.

Lovingly,

BERTHA HICKS.

Raleigh, N. C.

Mrs. CLARA DARGAN MACLEAN writes, accompanying the letter with a handsome copy of her recently published novel, Light O' Love, for ACADEMY Library.

Your favor of several weeks ago forwarded to me from Charlottesville, Va., where I have not been since June '90. I thought I notified you of my change of address. Enclosed please find a year's subscription for ACADEMY. You do not need to be assured of my continued interest in the little sheet, the only tie between me and those dear scenes, associated with the happiest days of my eventful life. As a slight token of that deep and abiding affection for my Alma Mater, I send you a copy of my book just published Light O' Love, for the Library of the ACADEMY. In these days of demoralized literature, I think I may safely say that the collection for the reading of pure minded young girls, is one that will elevate and ennoble. Such, at least, has been my aim, and I leave its success to unprejudiced critics.

My dear old teacher, Miss STAUBER, asked me years ago, to send my first book to the ACADEMY Library. I now fulfill that request as in some part, In Memoriam of one who ever commanded my highest respect as a teacher and as a true woman. Let me say that should any of the old girls, my former friends and companions to whom this greeting comes, care to get a copy of the book, if they will address me I will have it sent by mail from the publisher. The price is 75 cents for paper covers, and $1.25 in cloth postpaid. I only wish it were in my power to present to each one a copy, in memory of our happy days.

With kindest regards for yourself and family, and any of your associates who retain my memory, I am

Yours truly,

CLARA D. MACLEAN.

404 W. 20th Street, New York.

—FLORENCE CUMMINGS, sends a few lines.

Enclosed find $1.00 for two years subscription to THE ACADEMY. I am always glad to receive the dear little paper and would not be without it, for I am anxious to hear of the prosperity of my Alma Mater. It was with a feeling of sadness that I read of, Professor MARKGRAFF'S ill health, and sincerely hope he will soon recover.

Please remember me to Bishop RONDTHALER and all the teachers with whom I am acquainted.

Yours truly,

FLORENCE CUMMINGS.

Aspen Grove, N. C.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., FEBRUARY, 1892.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.

Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

COMMENCEMENT ORATOR.

It gives us great pleasure to announce that of the University of North Carolina, has consented to present the Diplomas to the Graduating Class of 1892, and deliver the Oration on the same occasion. President Winston's great interest in Educational matters in the South and the prominent position to which he has been elevated by the State University as its head and representative, will cause the Alumnæ and friends to rejoice with us in this announcement. Another and additional source of pleasure is the warm friendship which the Faculty of this venerable State University has always shown to SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, and we trust that this additional token of friendship is indicative of a still greater interest in our increasing wide field of work in the Educational world.

President GEORGE TAYLOR WINSTON, L.L.D.

—Miss LEHMAN'S article, on another page, will be read with great interest by all, and opens a view which is fresh and attractive.

—We call attention to the account of the Sugar Plantation, and certainly wish that every reader might enjoy a sail in the little steamer, or visit the interesting boiling and store-house.

—Mr. CLEWELL enjoyed a pleasant visit to Chapel Hill, chatting awhile with Mr. and Mrs. McCauley, and shaking hands with a number of the students from Winston-Salem.

—We learn with deep regret of the death of MINNIE BEARD, which occurred in South Carolina. We are unable now to give any particulars, but extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved friends in their sad affliction. The interment was at Kernersville.

—The near approach of the 300th Anniversary of the birth of John Amos Comenius, is causing much interest throughout the world. That Comenius was not only one of the great pioneers in the work of modern Education, but that he was one of the greatest educators of the world is acknowledged by all. For this reason we will publish a sketch of the great Bishop of the Moravian Church in our next month's paper, and from time to time will note the progress of celebrations throughout the world. His work as a Bishop of our Church was no less marked than was his work for the cause of education in general.

—The sermon delivered by Bishop RONDTHALER, Sunday, February 14th, on the founding of Salem, was an unusually interesting one, filled with historical events generally unknown to the public, and these facts were skillfully interwoven with wholesome lessons. The founder of Salem was Frederick William de Marshall, the date was 1766. One of the last events in which this good and great man was interested was the establishment of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. He was much interested in the plans of this then new work, but died the same year the ACADEMY work was commenced, viz: in 1802.

—The remains of Rev. LEWIS RIGHTS, former President of the Board of Trustees, who died about a year ago in the Indian Territory, were brought to his former home in Kernersville and interred Sunday, February 7th. Rev. J. H. CLEWELL conducted the services, assisted by Revs. Peeler and Poe. In addition to the friends from Kernersville there were present persons from Salem and Winston and various other parts of the county. The services in the church were of an unusually solemn nature, and at the conclusion of the same the body was laid to rest while the burial liturgy of the Moravian Church was being prayed. The Rev. Mr. Rights was a minister for 46 years, and was a trustee of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY for more than a score of years. A true, earnest, faithful, tireless worker, he had many friends everywhere, and the world is better because he lived and labored in it. Peace to his memory!

—Our sketch of the work of the Cooking School intended for this issue will appear next month. In the mean time we call attention to the article from the Sewing School, which is doing good work.

Echoes From the Sewing Class.

LINEN—FLAX.

THIS useful little herb belongs to the Linaceae or Flaxworts. It is such a graceful, slender little plant with its simple blue flowers, that we can truly say, it is ornamental as well as useful.

How beautiful a field of flax looks in the midst of rye, wheat, barley and oat fields, which are nearly the same color.

Flax is sown in the Spring, it grows up, and about the middle of Summer the whole field is covered with blue blossoms.

The poor little plant is left to grow until the seed capsules form, then heartless people pull it up by the roots and tear the capsules in the most cruel manner. The remaining stalks are put into a pool of water and left there until the outer skin decays, and then they are taken out of the pool and put in heaps for the sun to dry. When dry they are pulled through a machine, breaking the outside skin, which comes off in little pieces, and this is used by peasants to pack eggs and other easily broken things. Then the flax is hackled and by this process the flax is obtained, to which a woman's beautiful light hair is compared, and which is used for the hair of dolls.

The flax is now ready to be spun, and under the fingers of spinning women the flax becomes thread, and this thread is woven into linen. The cloth looks very gray and has to be bleached, for which purpose it is spread out on the grass in the sun, for several weeks and kept wet all the time, until it becomes as white as snow.

This is the old fashioned, round-about way of making linen, the way I have seen it in small German villages. How it is made in great manufacturing places I do not know, but surely by some shorter and less complicated process.

I think there is hardly a more graceful and attractive occupation for women than spinning, and I often wish the spinning wheel might again occupy the same place it did with our grand-mothers and great-grand mothers. MARIE F. RAHT.

—We have again had the pleasure of shaking hands with a number of patrons during the past week, among them being the Hon. Wm. H. H. Cowles, Mr. Jos. Garrett and Mr. Majette. A sad visit was that of Mrs. Hyer, who was summoned to the sick bed of her little grand-daughter, CORRIE JONES.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The class in Harmony is being formed and will begin its work at an early date.

—The work of the Choral Class in practicing the "Hermit's Harp," has been energetically pushed.

—Miss GRACE WOLLE is engaged one hour each day in the Male Academy, instructing a class in History and Grammar.

—The Calisthenic drill is well attended, and the girls have discovered the presence of anatomical powers never thought of before.

—"I have had the chicken pox," said John, Junior, "but never had the little-pox." He had heard his elders speak of small-pox.

—From a postal card sent by Professor MARKGRAFF, we learn that he is doing well and that Mrs. MARKGRAFF enjoys her sojourn in her new home.

—Professor SCHMOLCK has been chosen Choir Director of Salem Congregation; also Director of the Salem Orchestra and of the Philharmonic Society. This, together with his school duties, gives him a full quota of work.

—Rev. Herman Beck was ordained a Deacon of the Church of the United Brethren, by Bishop RONDTHALER, in the Salem church, Sunday evening, February 7th. The next morning he left for his field of work, which is the Indian Territory.

—The conjunction of Venus and Jupiter on February 5th, was a beautiful sight, not only for those versed in astronomical lore, but also for the ordinary observer. The apparent nearness of the moon to the two planets on the evenings preceding the 5th, added to the interest.

—A number of the young people of Salem gave an Entertainment in the ACADEMY Chapel in January, consisting chiefly of the recital of "Marley's Ghost," illustrated with Stereopticon views. The programme was carefully prepared, and about $50 were realized. The proceeds were for religious purposes.

—Saturday evening, February 13th, there was a beautiful display of the Aurora Borealis or Northern Light, far more brilliant than is usual in this section. The light was rose colored, with white rays shooting upward on the rose colored back-ground. The pupils all enjoyed the unusual sight, some in the yard and some on the roof of Main Hall.

—A number of the girls had a task assigned them without their consent, viz: Tell the length of time required to pass through an attack of measles. The answer was given correctly in each case, and with careful nursing all passed safely through. When told by the physician that the form was light, a lively protest was filed at once. Bring on the ice cream!

—The Reveille, the enterprising paper published by Davis School, has the following kind words to say of the ACADEMY:

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY is enjoying a prosperous session. For nearly one hundred years this grand old institution has been carrying on its noble work, and to-day, under the able management of President CLEWELL, it is stronger than ever.

—The National Educational Association which meets in Brooklyn, February 16th, 17th and 18th, has as the programme for Thursday evening, the following:

8:15. Exercises in Commemoration of the 300th Anniversary of the Birth of John Amos Comenius, 1592-1892.

1. The Personal Characteristics and Private Life of Comenius. By Rev. Dr. J. Mortimer Levering, Bishop of the Moravian Church, Bethlehem, Pa.

2. The Text-Books of Comenius (illustrated by stereopticon views). By Wm. H. Maxwell, Superintendent of Schools, Brooklyn, N. Y.

3. The Place of Comenius in the History of Education. By Nicholas Murray Butler, Columbia College, New York.

—An exceedingly enjoyable evening was January 14th, when Miss SCRIBER gave a recital which was also a formal introduction to the school. Besides the pupils, the Trustees had been invited, and the spirit of interest and enthusiasm was marked. The applause was long continued after each recitation, and every one recognized at once that the lady was in full sympathy with her work, and, as is always the case, the enthusiasm was transferred to the hearers. Miss SCRIBER was assisted in the programme by Mrs. SCHMOLCK, Miss MICKEY and Professor SCHMOLCK. The following is the programme:

1. Music. Miss MICKEY.
2. Recitation. Aux Italiens. Miss SCRIBER.
3. Vocal Solo. Mrs. SCHMOLCK.
4. Recitation. Foolish Little Maiden. Miss SCRIBER.
5. Piano Solo. Prof. SCHMOLCK.
6. Recitation. In the usual Way. Miss SCRIBER.

Two recitals were given by pupils of the ACADEMY during the last month, the one under the direction of Miss MATHEWSON, with the following programme:

1. The Nun and the Fountain, E. D. Sherwood. LILLIAN CRUTCHFIELD.
2. The Winter Lullaby .....de Koven. CLAUDIA PALMER.
3. Ephemera .....Paul Perillo. SALLIE HYMAN.
4. Lullaby.....S. A. Emery. HARRIET CROSS.
5. Le Colibri.....Paul Perillo. MARY CONRAD.
6. Dearest Heart.....Sullivan. EMMA KAPP.
7. Fantasie Impromptu.....Chopin. MARY WATSON.
8. The Summer Birds.....de Pinna. LOLA CARRAWAY.
9. Etude.....Chopin. LOUIE SIDDALL.

The other recital was under the care of Prof. SCHMOLCK, with the following programme:

1. Song of the Brook.....Warren. EDITH CLARKE.
2. Douglas Gordon, (Vocal).....Kellie. LILLIAN CRUTCHFIELD.
3. Ventre a Terre.....Kowalsky. CHRISTIANA MCFADVEN.
4. Mazurka.....St. Saens. ELIZABETH NICHOLSON.
5. Serenade.....Jounod. EDITH CLARKE.
6. Home, Sweet Home, with Variations introducing waves in a Storm.....S. Mazuet. BLANCHE MORGAN.

These evenings are not only enjoyable from the standpoint of the hearers, but are profitable also to the performers who are thus given the drill afforded by performing before an audience.

Subscriptions Received.

Miss Pattie Johnson, Brinkleyville, N. C.; Miss Florence Cummings, Aspen Grove, N. C.; Miss M. Jefferies, Home, S. C.; Miss Kate Urquhart, Blythe, Ga.; Mrs. R. C. Williams, Mooresburg, Tenn.; Miss Addie Laciari, Mauch Chunk, Pa.; Mrs. R. T. Beck, Germantown, N. C.; Miss Julia Meacham, Anderson, Texas; Miss Lula C. Parker, Sylva, N. C.; Miss Alice Hill, Germantown, N. C.; Mrs. S. A. Huston, Woodland, Cal.; Mrs. L. F. Satterfield, Cartersville Ga.; Mrs. Susan V. Hart, Tarboro, N. C.; Mr. W. A. Brown, Davidson College, N. C.; Miss Mamie Cannady, Wilton, N. C.; Mrs. S. C. Lock, Marion, Va.; Mrs. H. E. Bewley, Russellville, Tenn.; Miss Lizzie Hicks, Raleigh, N. C.; Miss Mary Miller, Goldsboro, N. C.; Mrs. A. Mathews, Mrs. Jas. A. Gray, Mrs. W. B. Glenn, Mrs. Ella Montague, Winston, N. C.; Miss Gertrude Siewers, Mrs. C. A. Hege, Mrs. Geo. E. Nissen, Miss Daisy Brooks, Mrs. Dora S. Ebert, Mrs. J. A. Vance, Miss Claudia Winkler, Mrs. C. S. Hauser, Miss Flora Lott, Dr. N. S. Siewers, Mrs. E. E. Shelton, Miss Carrie Stockton, Salem, N. C.

Married.

BROWN—MAYO.—In the Baptist church of Hamilton, N. C., on Jan. 2nd, Mr. GEO. E. BROWN to Miss BENNIE E. MAYO.

POWELL—PEGRAM.—In Charlotte, N. C., on Jan. 20th, Mr. JOHN F. POWELL, of Goldsboro, to Miss BESSIE PEGRAM.

KILGORE—PRITCHETT.—In the Episcopal church of Hayneville, Ala., on Jan. 20th, Mr. JAMES KILGORE to Miss LUCY PRITCHETT.

ELLIOTT—DAVID.—In Bennettsville, S. C., on Jan. 28th, Mr. E. L. ELLIOTT to Miss LYDA DAVID.

CORRIE CRANDALL JONES.

In January little CORRIE came to us, and by her winning, attractive manners soon made friends all about her. A motherless child, with the grief of her separation yet fresh on her mind, she appealed with more than usual power for sympathy and friendship. About the end of January she was seized by an illness which was light in itself considered, but which instead of yielding to skillful treatment and loving nursing, took a most obstinate form and rapidly developed into pneumonia. Her grandmother, Mrs. J. H. Hyer, of Georgia, who was taking a mother's place, was telegraphed for, and promptly responded to the call, arriving Tuesday, February 9th. During the following days some small gleams of hope appeared. Prayers were daily offered at her bedside, and she seemed to greatly enjoy the devotions. On Sunday, February 14th, at about 3 o'clock, the symptoms began to be less favorable, though the mind was clear. "Am I too young to join the church," she asked of him who stood near her. "No, my child," was the reply, "Jesus took even little children in his arms and blessed them." She then made request to be received into the church as a full member, and Bishop EDWARD RONDTHALEK and Rev. J. H. CLEWELL conducted a brief service at the bedside, during which time she was confirmed according to the ritual of the Moravian church. It was a solemn scene, the emotion of the grandmother, the clear faith of the dear child, the hush of the Sabbath eventide. Later she said to a friend, "I never enjoyed saying my prayers as I do to-night." During the 30 minutes previous to the end, she spoke often and again of her mother; and in the solemn hush no one doubted but that the fond mother's spirit hovered over the dear child, eager to welcome her to the happy heavenly home. But the end was near. One loving clasp about the neck of the dear one beside the bed,—a clearly spoken "good-bye,"—a quickly uttered "now let me go!" and little CORRIE'S body only remained with us.

The writer of this brief sketch has served in the ministry nearly fifteen years, but seldom, if ever, has he witnessed a clearer faith in Christ than that shown by this dear child. In the midst of her sufferings she seldom spoke of self. It was always of some loved one; the absent father, the departed mother, or relations far away; she thought only of the possible care she might be to others, never of self. And as one friend remarked, she seemed fitted especially for the Father's home above.

Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock, a brief service was held at the Principal's house, and at 8:40 o'clock the grandmother, together with Mr. PROHL, took the body to the Georgia home. At 9 o'clock a solemn memorial service was conducted in the ACADEMY.

CORRIE JONES was born in Georgia, April 28th, 1878, and died in Salem, N. C., February 14th, 1892. A portion of her life was spent in Arkansas, where her bereaved father is now engaged in business.

"Asleep in Jesus! Blessed sleep,
From which none ever wakes to weep,
A calm and undisturbed repose,
Unbroken by the last of foes!"

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupil only, and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1. Name of Pupil, 2. Date of Birth, 3. Name of Parent or Guardian, 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS. ACADEMY.]

—I feel like one

Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!

1880.

- 5505 EMMA SCHIFF. — 1864.
Jonas Schiff, Charlotte, N. C.
5506 HESLOP B. ARMISTEAD. — 1866.
M. S. Heatherly, Waco, Texas.
5507 NETTIE REID. — 1864.
Hugh K. Reid, Reidsville, N. C.
5508 LELIA B. JONES. — 1869.
Col. C. R. Jones, Charlotte, N. C.
5509 LIZZIE E. THOMAS. — 1866.
W. P. Thomas, Jefferson, N. C.
5510 MATTIE GIBSON. — 1862.
Mrs. H. Gibson, Brightsville, S. C.
5511 PENCY WOOD. — 1867.
Jas. Wood, La Grange, N. C.
5512 LILY KIRKPATRICK. — 1867.
Dr. J. M. Kirkpatrick, La Grange, N. C.

1881.

- 5513 STELLA NISSEN. — 1867.
Geo. E. Nissen, Waughawn, N. C.
5514 SALLIE E. CRAIG. — 1866.
John H. Craig, Gastonia, N. C.
5515 ADDIE SMITH. — 1862.
W. H. Smith, Coxville, N. C.
5516 LAURA J. WILSON. — 1864.
J. I. Wilson, Charlotte, N. C.
5517 ELIZA MOREHEAD. — 1867.
Col. J. T. Morehead, Leaksville, N. C.
5519 FANNIE SIMS McDOWELL. — 1866.
5520 BESSIE SIMS McDOWELL. — 1867.
John S. McDowell, Island Ford, N. C.
5521 MATTIE NICHOLS. — 1865.
Fannie M. Nichols, Scotland Neck, N. C.
5522 ANNIE GRIER. — 1867.
5523 BETTIE GRIER. — 1867.
W. W. Grier, Charlotte, N. C.
5524 MANTIE MACOMSON. — 1863.
E. P. Macomson, Gaffney's, S. C.
5525 ANNA M. TOMLINSON. — 1861.
Thos. Tomlinson, Tate Springs, Tenn.
5526 LILLY WARD. — 1867.
Dr. E. W. Ward, Duck Creek, N. C.
5527 LULA S. WHITLEY. — 1862.
Thos. Moore, Snow Creek, N. C.
5528 R. H. W. BARKER. — 1865.
J. W. F. Barker, Huntersville, N. C.
5529 LOU D. PEASE. — 1865.
Dr. J. B. Pease, Concordia, Miss.
5530 MARY H. BAXTER. — 18 8.
Judge E. Baxter, Knoxville, Tenn.
5531 SALLIE BARBER. — 1867.
5532 EMMA BARBER. — 1869.
5533 MATTIE BARBER. — 1869.
T. Barber, Pleasant Valley, S. C.
5534 ELLA BONNER. — 1858.
C. W. Bonner, Durham's Creek, N. C.
5535 EMILY N. SMITH. — 1867.
Samuel Smith, Madison, N. C.
5536 FRANCES JONES. — 1865.
Dr. E. Jones, Tyler, Texas.
5537 S. C. FULTON. — 1865.
Winston Fulton, Mt. Airy, N. C.
5538 CARRO L. STEWART. — 1862.
Alex. Stewart, —
5539 MARY LENOIR. — 1865.
Jas. M. Gwynn, Forks of Pigeon, N. C.
5540 MARY E. POWELL. — 1866.
John Watson, Warrenton, N. C.
5541 MARY E. PARKER. — 18 6.
R. B. Parker, Enfield, N. C.
5542 MAGGIE EAGLETON. — 1864.
W. C. Eagleton, Lake Weir, Fla.
5543 MOLLIE GIBSON. — 1864.
Chas. Gibson, Wake Weir, Fla.
5544 LILLIE HILLARD. — 1866.
Judge Hillard, Norfolk, Va.
5545 ETTA HOKE FREEMAN. — 1864.
J. F. Freeman, Snow Hill, N. C.
5546 MARY L. WILLIAMS. — 1869.
Jos. Williams, Panther Creek, N. C.

The Student's Series of Histories.

Edited by WILLIAM SMITH, LL. D.

Each one of these serviceable and attractive volumes is acknowledged to be the best summary in our language of the particular branch of knowledge to which it belongs.

Ancient History: A Manual of Ancient History, from the Earliest Times to the Fall of the Western Empire, 636 pp. Price $1.25.

The Christian Church, I: The History of the Christian Church during the First Ten Centuries, By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 618 pp. Price, $1.50.

The Christian Church, II: The History of the Christian Church during the Middle Ages. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 700 pp. Price, $1.50.

The East: The Ancient History of the East, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of Alexander the Great. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. Illustrated, 650 pp. Price $1.25.

England: A History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Revolution of 1688. 808 pp. $1.50.

England (CONSTITUTIONAL): The Constitutional History of England. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 748 pp. Price, $1.25.

England (QUEENS): Lives of the Queens of England, from the Norman Conquest. By AGNES STRICKLAND, Illustrated. 682 pp. Price $1.25.

France: A History of France, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire in 1852. Illustrated. 730 pp. Price $1.25.

Germany: A History of Germany, from the Earliest Times. By CHARLTON T. LEWIS. 800 pp. $1.50.

Greece: A History of Greece, from the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. 704 pp. $1.25.

Greece (GENERAL): A General History of Greece, from the Earliest Period to the Death of Alexander the Great. By GEORGE W. COX, M. A. 710 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome: A History of Rome, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By H. G. LIDDELL, D. D. 768 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome (GENERAL): A General History of Rome. B. C. 753—A. D. 476. By CHARLES MERIVALE, D. D. 702 pp. Price, $1.25.

Roman Empire: The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By EDWARD GIBSON, Abridged. 678 pp. Price $1.25.

Middle Ages: View of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 708 pp. Price, $1.25.

Modern Europe: A History of Modern Europe, By RICHARD LODGE. 772 pp. Price, $1.25.

New Testament: The New Testament History, With Maps and Woodcuts. 780 pp. Price $1.25.

Old Testament: The Old Testament History, from the Creation to the Return of the Jews from Captivity. With Maps and Woodcuts. 716 pp. Price, $1.25.

A complete catalogue of School and College Text Books will be forwarded on request.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

Franklin Square, New York.

BOOKS AT COST

—AT—

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one I will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER,
JEWELER,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-1y.

THE SALEM STEAM BROOM WORKS,

Main Street, Salem, N. C.,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO., PROPRIETORS,
MANUFACTURERS OF

PARLOR, HEARTH, WHISK, STABLE
AND FACTORY BROOMS,

which we offer the trade at lowest prices.
Soliciting your orders we are

Yours truly,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.
Salem, N. C., September, 1891.

→* MISS EMMA L. LEINBACH, ←*
(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANOS HANDLED.

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about
$75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up.
155 Lexington Avenue New York.

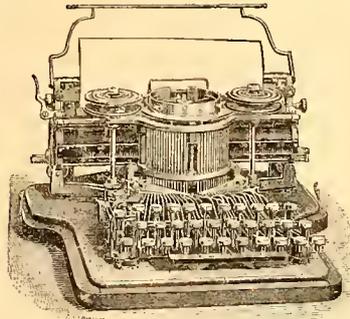

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her for responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Salem, N. C., Feb. 17, 1892.

Salem Female Academy

— USE —
The Hammond Type-Writer.

For SPEED, DURABILITY and BEAUTY OF WORK it has no equal.

The SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, having tested it, has formally adopted the "HAMMOND," and recommends it where a first-class machine is desired.

For Catalogue and price write to
J. W. GANNON, Winston, N. C.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Always carry in stock a full line of the latest styles Dress Goods with Trimmings to match.

CORSETS! CORSETS!

The leading makes such as:
Thompson's Glove Fitting Corset.
Dr. Warner's Health Corset.
Dr. Warner's Extra Long Waist Corset.
And the celebrated C. B. Corset.

CLOAKS! CLOAKS!

All the leading styles, Jackets, Reefers, Fur Capes with Muffs to match at low prices.

GLOVES! GLOVES!

We are sole agents for the World renowned FOSTER, PAUL & Co's Gloves; have them in Dressed or Undressed in all the latest shades and sell them at popular prices.

Best Assortment of Handkerchiefs in the Twin-City.

SHOES! SHOES! SHOES!

We always have a full line of fine Ladies Shoes, Oxford Ties and Slippers, which we are offering at low prices.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111. Phone 111
Jan. 1892.

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,
CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON, N. C.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,
SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

The 90th Annual Session begins August 27th, 1891. Register for last year 35¢. Special features:—the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Commercial and Industrial Studies.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

DAVIS SCHOOL.

Military Boarding School
FOR BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

Full preparation for any College or for Business. Healthy location; fine climate; mild winters; excellent buildings; Cadet Corner Band; Cadet Orchestra; Resident Surgeon. No Charge for Medical Attention. No Extra Charge for Languages or Sciences. Department of Art. Full Course VERY LOW RATES. For Register with full particulars address

COL. A. C. DAVIS, Supt.,
WINSTON, N. C.

"Bingham School

stands pre-eminent among Southern boarding Schools for Boys."—U. S. Bureau of Education.

"Combines more desirable qualities than any other with which I am acquainted."—Lieut. J. B. Batchelor, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

"There exists not the equal of this School in my opinion."—Capt. Henry Wygant, U. S. Army, Instructor in Tactics.

More than 100 pupils from other States, the largest number in a Southern School for boys from outside the State of location.

Address, Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Bingham's School, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851.

HORNER SCHOOL,

OXFORD, N. C.

FACULTY:

J. H. HORNER, M. A., University of N. C. (Founder of School.)
Cot. J. T. DREWRY, Com'd't, Star Graduate Virginia Military Institute.
J. C. HORNER, A. M., Davidson College.
G. A. WAUCHOPE, M. A., Ph. D., University of Berlin, Late Fellow Wash. & Lee Univ.
Rev. J. M. Horner, B. A., B. D., University of Virginia and Johns Hopkins University.

PRIVATE LESSONS

German, French, Latin and Mathematics

BY L. B. WURRESCHKE.

Apply for Terms.

Feb. '91-6t

GRANDEST DISPLAY

TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS,
LADIES' WORK BASKETS,
FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY
GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIV.

SALEM, N. C., MARCH, 1892.

NUMBER 124.

JOHN AMOS COMENIUS.

[The following excellent sketch of the life of this great man, whose name the whole world is uniting to honor, is taken from The Moravian, and is a worthy leading article for our March edition, the birthday month of the great educator, born 300 years ago. We hope to follow this article with a sketch of his special relation to education and as a Bishop of the Moravian Church.]

"Acknowledged to have rendered highly valuable services to Christendom in the sphere of education, the three hundredth anniversary of his birth will be worthily celebrated this month in many countries of Europe and in America. It is fitting that the Moravian Church, as such, should join in these memorial observances, for Comenius was a churchman before he was a schoolman. His views as a schoolman were molded by, if they did not even result from, his faith as a member of the Brethren's Unity. A deeply religious spirit breathed through his efforts after a reform of the school-system of his day. Even when busiest with his encyclopædic undertakings, his heart beat in sympathy with the sufferings of his exiled and persecuted compatriots, and the fate of the Unity concerned him even more than the fate of his Pansophia. Overagainst those who claim Comenius as theirs, because they admire Comenius the philosophic teacher, and who would represent him as belonging everywhere in general and nowhere in particular, let Moravians insist on honoring John Amos Comenius, the bishop of the Brethren's Church.

"He was born on March 28, 1592, of well-to-do parents at Nivnitz, near Ungarish-Brod, members of the Brethren's Church; he lost them both while yet a child. After attending the schools of the Brethren at Ungarish-Brod and Strassnik, he was sent in 1611 to the high-school at Herborn in the Duchy of Nassau, where John Henry Alstedius impressed him with the dignity and worth of the school-master's vocation. Already while a student here, the literary bent of the mind of Comenius manifested itself. When only twenty years of age he began to plan an exhaustive Lexicon of the Bohemian language. At the University of Heidelberg his education was completed. Here he devoted himself to Latin and Greek, Philosophy and Theology.

"After visiting Holland, and possibly England also, in 1614 Comenius turned his steps homeward. By the influence of Baron Charles Von Zerotin, a patron of literature and scholarship among the Brethren, he secured the Rectorship of the school of the Brethren at Prerau. Already in 1616 his insight into the defects of prevailing scholastic methods and his longing to provide a remedy called forth a treatise on Latin Grammar.

"But he was not to be confined to the sphere of the school. In the same year came the appointment to the pastorate of Fulneck, in Moravia, a parish the more important because in his case with its pastorate was soon coupled the superintendence of the high-school of the Church. In 1620, in pursuance of the methods of conversion employed by Rome during the counter-Reformation, Spanish soldiers sacked the town and the valuable library and manuscripts of Comenius were burned in the public square. He and his wife, of whom little more is known than that she died in 1622, remained in hiding near by until the Autumn of the year in which she died, when they were obliged to flee to the forests near Brandeis on the Adler, and soon afterwards she, together with their son, obtained a fortunate release from the woes of the hunted and persecuted adherents of the Gospel-faith. In his retreat Comenius was busy with his pen, and produced The Labyrinth of the World and the Palace of the Heart, in Bohemian.

"His second wife was Dorothea Cyrill, the daughter of Bishop John Cyrill, the former incumbent of the Bethlehem Chapel in Prague, who had crowned the hapless King Frederick and had been banished, and at the time of the marriage dared not leave his hiding-place to be present at the wedding in 1624.

"In 1626, Comenius with others, by the appointment of the heads of the Church, visited Poland in order to secure, if possible, new homes for exiled members. Incidentally, while executing this commission, he visited Berlin. They were successful in their negotiations, and none too soon, because the edict of the following year banished those nobles who had hitherto afforded protection to evangelical subjects, and the scenes of the next period of his life lay in the kingdom of Poland.

"Hither, in company with other clergy of the Unity and several nobles, Comenius found his way in January of 1628. His pathetic farewell to the land of his fathers from the mountain-top separating Bohemia from Silesia, and the prayer that God would not entirely withdraw His Word from Bohemia and Moravia, but preserve a seed of righteousness to glorify His Name, are among the striking incidents of that melancholy season of unmerited distress.

"The town of Lissa was one of the chief ecclesiastical centers of the Brethren in Poland. In 1624 its school, founded in 1555, had been changed into a College and handsomely endowed by Count Lesz-cynski. After the year 1637 the Archives and the Theological Seminary of the Church were also transferred thither. Here in the house of Bishop Martin Gratian Gertich of the Polish Province of the Unity, both Comenius and his father-in-law found a home. Naturally the born teacher was employed in the college and in time became its Rector. Revising its rules and regulations and method of instruction, Comenius now began to devote himself more than ever to the science of pædagogics. He entered into busy correspondence with men of like aims in other lands, especially with Samuel Hartlib, a scholarly merchant of London. In 1631 appeared his Janua Linguarum Reserata, or "The Gate of Languages Unlocked." It was printed at Lissa, and consisted of a thousand sentences, which gave a summary of the Latin language, and, at the same time, a bird's-eye view of the whole field of human knowledge, and exemplified the theory of object-teaching on which Comenius strongly insisted. Speedily translated into all the languages of Europe and into some Asiatic tongues as well, it heralded his fame throughout the world.

"But his activity was not confined to the schools. On October 6, 1632, he was consecrated one of the Bishops of the Bohemian-Moravian Province of the Unity. It was then hoped that the victories of the Swedes might result in the restoration of the exiles to their homes. And to Comenius was entrusted the editing of the Ratio Disciplina, which set forth the Church Polity and Discipline of the Brethren. Moreover he was minister of the Bohemian-speaking congregation at Lissa.

"During the years which followed, a vast encyclopedic work was projected by Comenius, which he named Pansophia, a series of comprehensive volumes on Universal Knowledge from a Christian standpoint. But the great difficulty was to find a patron who would furnish their support for a company of capable scholars during the years which would be needed for gathering material and editing it, and the means for publishing it when written. In quest of liberal patronage he went to London in 1614, having resigned his local duties, and his friend Hartlib did his best to secure a place of residence and revenues for the scholars under royal patronage. But the outbreak of the Civil War put an end to their hopes, though meanwhile the pen of Comenius was by no means idle, and he wrote his Via Lucis.

"Another patron, however, appeared in the person of a rich merchant of Nordkoping in Sweden, Louis de Geer, who in 1642 induced him, with the consent of the Executive Council of the Church, to remove to the town of Elbing on the Baltic, and there devote himself to literary work. The acceptance of his proposals involved a declination of an offer of the presidency of Harvard College, which previously reached him. Unfortunately Comenius allowed himself to be persuaded to divert his attention first to certain other literary labors which were considered by his patron and by Chancellor Oxenstierna of Sweden as essentially preliminary to his magnum opus, to his own later dissatisfaction. Nor could he refrain from manifesting his interest in certain synodical business of his Church. Thus the work was protracted. On the other hand the support he received was not adequate for himself and his coadjutors.

"In 1648 his second wife died. An additional source of grief was the utter failure of the Protestant party to care for their oppressed fellow evangelicals of Bohemia and Moravia, when drawing up and subscribing to the terms of the Peace of Westphalia. There appeared to be no hope for the future of the exiled Brethren's Unity. From this time on a depressed spirit breathes through the letters of Comenius; but all his energies as opportunity offered, were devoted to the scattered congregations in Hungary and Poland. It was in this year that he was appointed President of the Executive Council of the Church and returned again to Lissa.

"In 1649 his household affairs appear to have been once more set in order by remarriage, his third wife being Johanna Gainsowa, a lady otherwise unknown to us.

"The years, 1650 to 1654, Comenius spent in Transylvania, on invitation of the Princess Rakoczy, establishing for her a College at Saros Patak. Whilst here he issued his famous Orbis Pictus, work similar to the Janu Linguarum, but illustrated with many wood-cuts. It was printed at Nuremberg, Comenius having for some time met with difficulty in his search for an engraver who could do precisely what he wanted. The work was reprinted in 1887 by Professor Bardeen, at Syracuse, New York.

"And now, having returned to Lissa, the aged Bishop was to experience for a second time the horrors of ravage and plunder. It was during the war between Poland and Sweden, on April 28, 1656, that Lissa, deserted by its garrison of Swedish troopers, was sacked and burned by the Poles, and death-blow given to the Ancient Unity. Comenius escaped with only the clothes that he wore, and scantily clad at that. Making his way to Frankfort on the Oder, Stettin and Hamburg, he at length reached Amsterdam, where he found a second patron in Lawrence de Geer, a son of Louis. His privations had brought on a severe illness, which detained him for two months in Hamburg. The destruction of Lissa had included a second loss of his library and invaluable manuscripts.

"Nevertheless the indefatigable old man launched out on a new period of most prolific literary labor. The very list of his printed works would be tedious. Amongst them there was an enlarged edition of the Ratio Disciplinae, a Confession of Faith, a Hymn Book and a Catechism—the last dedicated to the remnant of the Church in those very villages of Moravia from which in God's providence came the men and women who from 1722-1732 renewed the Unity at Herrnhut under Zinzendorf's fostering care. Moreover he solicited aid in those quarters where he had friends and influence, notably in England, and carefully dispensed the sums received for the relief of his fellow Brethren, exiled and impoverished for their faith. And he co-operated, by cordially consenting in writing, in the perpetuation of their episcopate, in hope against hope, that the organic existence of his beloved Church might be preserved against better days. This was in 1662, at the consecration of Bishops Nicholas Gertich and Peter Figulus, or Jablonsky, the father of Bishop Daniel Ernst Jablonsky, who consecrated David Nitschmann in 1735.

"But his labors for mankind in the reform of methods of learning were also continued. In 1657, at the request of the City Council, he republished his didactic works in four volumes, dedicated to the magistrates of Amsterdam. And in spite of the loss of manuscripts in the conflagration at Lissa, and notwithstanding his age, he labored to produce and prepare for the press his Pansophia. But death released him from the task before it was completed.

"He died at Amsterdam on November 15, 1670, in the seventy-ninth year of his age; and on the twenty-second of the month was laid to rest in the French Reformed Church of Naarden.

"For sterling rugged battling against adversity and indomitable perseverance his career stands forth most illustrious. Being dead, he yet speaketh—alike in the perpetuation against all probability and the steady growth of that Unity of the Brethren which was so near to his heart, and in the principles of education which he enunciated and which, taken up by Pestalozzi and Fröbel, are now the recognized and accepted educational tenets of the world."

---

Our Library.

---

Books Received.

Chambers Encyclopædia, Vol. VIII. J. B. Lippincott & Co., Publishers, Philadelphia, Penn.

An English Grammar. Whitney & Lackwood. Ginn & Co., Boston and New York.

Ethics for Young People. Everett, Ginn & Co., Boston and New York.

Correspondence.

—We begin our monthly chat with old friends by a communication from ANNE BOURDEAUX:

I received the papers you so kindly sent me, and appreciate them more than I can say. I do not know what could have become of the first ones you sent.

How sad it must be to be in Professor MARKGRAFF'S situation; I feel deeply for him in his condition. I hope to be with you at Commencement, and suppose I shall find more than one change in the dear ACADEMY.

When do you think you will come South again? I hope the next trip will be more pleasant than the first; at any rate we will feel honored to have you as our guest.

Please give my love to Bishop RONDTHALER and Miss LEHMAN. With much love to you and yours, I am

Sincerely Yours,

ANNE BOURDEAUX.

Lauderdale, Miss.

—JANIE SHERILLE'S ever welcome newsy letter comes next:

I hope you will excuse me for writing so soon again, but I want to let you know about MINNIE BEARD'S death, of which you have probably heard before now.

About three weeks ago, she came to take charge of a music class and assist in a High School at Hebron, six miles from here. For several days before her death she had been suffering with an attack of La Grippe, but was evidently much better, when to the surprise of all she died late on Sunday evening, from an attack of heart trouble. She was only six miles from a number of her S. F. A. friends and schoolmates, who would so willingly and with so much pleasure have done all that human hands could do for her, but we knew nothing of it until a short time before the long procession passed out to the depot.

I saw MINNIE only a few days after she came, and had no idea how soon she would be gone. Who knows what the future has in store for us, and it is well, of course, that we do not. MINNIE had been so anxious to come down here and teach, and how sad that she should come among us just to die.

Several of our Bennettsville girls have married within the last few months. DELLA DAVID is now Mrs. J. D. Morrison, and has a very pretty home at McColl, S. C., only fourteen miles from here, so we see her occasionally ; LIZZIE NEWTON is now Mrs. Douglas Moore, and lives at Bennettsville, S. C.; and lastly came the marriage of LYDA DAVID to Mr. Elliott, of Little Rock, S. C. ROSA ADAMS and Mr. Henry Breeden were married February 29.

MAGGIE DAVID is teaching music at McColl this year, and is much pleased with the place and the people as well as her work.

I had a long letter from MARY FITZPATRICK last week, and if nothing unforeseen prevents, she hopes to be with us at Commencement in June. Everything has changed so since she left she will not recognize some parts. But I must not take too much of your valuable time.

Very Sincerely,

JANIE SHERILLE.

Bennettsville, S. C.

—LAURA WHITNER finds time to write even though a wedding has stirred up the home circle somewhat

I found your letter awaiting me on my return from quite a long visit to Key West, and I am taking my earliest opportunity to answer it.

I have made inquiry about the Komquat oranges, but find that all the trees that the nurserymen have are too large to go such a distance, and to such a very different climate as that of North Carolina. It is only cultivated here as an ornamental tree or shrub; at least the fruit is never shipped as the other oranges are, and as yet it is not very widely known or grown. However, if it is possible to procure any of the fruit, I shall consider it a pleasure to send you a little box of them, and perhaps you may be able to raise some from the seed.

Nearly all of our tropical fruits have been injured by the cold weather, but I hope the loquats or Japan plums will come on later.

Just after Christmas I had a very delightful visit to Key West, but suffered all the pangs of sea-sickness, both coming and going. The next opportunity I have for a trip for myself, shall be to Salem, as I have a great longing to see and visit the quaint old town, and my dear Alma Mater.

Sister joins me in much love to yourself and Miss CHITTY. As you will know by cards received ere this, sister is to be married on the 24th.

Your affectionate pupil,

LAURA WHITNER.

Fort Reed, Fla.

—A letter from EMMA ROLLINS is also very welcome :

Would a voice from '90 be an unwelcome sound just now? I hope not, for we "old girls" do not want the new girls to engross all your time and affection. I have intended writing long before this, but have been prevented thus far. It seems as if I had less time than when I was at school. I used to imagine when I had graduated I would have nothing to do but sit with folded hands and enjoy life. I am enjoying life, though not with folded hands, [May all good saints forbid such enjoyment to our "old girls."—ED. OF ACAD.] I still work in papa's office and like it as well as ever. I keep up my music, read, and altogether I am kept pretty busy.

I am looking forward with pleasure to Robert Downing's presentation of Julius Caesar, at the Opera House, to-morrow night. We paraphrased and studied it in the Senior Middle Class, and I am prepared to enjoy it to the fullest extent. It is quite interesting that I can see both of the plays we then studied so critically that year. We saw the Merchant of Venice when we were North, and now Julius Caesar.

I enjoyed reading about the "Students' Tour" in THE ACADEMY, but I am sure they did not have as good a time as we did. I noticed too, in THE ACADEMY, that LIZZIE NEWTON and FANNIE BUTNER were married; that makes four out of our class. I attended LOUISE HUNT's marriage as one of the bridesmaids. It was a home wedding and one of the prettiest I ever saw. Doubtless you have read a description of it in one of the local papers.

It is nice to have a sister in the ACADEMY, for she can keep me posted with all the news. I am anxious to attend Commencement, but as my brother graduates this year I think I shall go to Chapel Hill.

I can't imagine DELL SUTTON living in Salem, and so near to the ACADEMY, too. I quite envy DELL.

Please write when you have time to one who remembers you with affection.

EMMA A. ROLLINS.

Asheville, N. C.

—Our next is from a former pupil, but as she does not give her maiden name, we are rather at a loss :

I received the copies of THE ACADEMY which you so kindly sent. Please accept many thanks. I enjoyed them greatly and gave one to Mrs. P. S. Sherman who lives a few doors from me. She was Miss

DALLAS. [Probably LEITA DALLAS.—EDS. OF ACAD.] Please find enclosed 50 cents for THE ACADEMY. Remember me kindly to any of my old teachers who are still there : JOE SIDDALL, MAGGIE CLEWELL, Miss BLUM and Miss CHITTY. [None of these are here at present.—EDS. OF ACADEMY.]

Respectfully,

MRS. L. F. SATTERFIELD.

Cartersville, Ga.

—Washington's Birthday was celebrated a day or two after the usual time. It was a beautiful early spring day, and the morning was spent without a special programme, each one followed the inclinations of her own heart. The dinner, of course, was a holiday-dinner, in which roast chicken, mince pie and spiced peaches played their usual part. After dinner a long array of wagons filed up to the Square, and the various parties that had been formed during the morning embarked for a "straw ride." It was a pleasant sight to see the long line pass around the square and up Main Street. The trip extended up to Bethabara, six miles northward, and by six o'clock the party were again before the ACADEMY, tired and stiff from the long ride and the cramped position, but withal very gay and happy. At seven o'clock a Recital took place in the chapel, partaking to some extent of the patriotism of the day. The following was the programme :

1. Tone Poem.....Rive-King.
MARY WATSON.
2. Washington. Essay.
AVA STROUP.
3. Thy Daily Question.....Helmund.
CLEORA HEWSON.
4. Miltiades Peterkin Paul.
FRANCES CONRAD.
5. Valse. Op. 80.....Durand.
ELMA HEGE.
6. Selling the Baby.
MABEL GRAY.
7. The Fishermaiden.....Schubert.
LAURA LESLIE.
8. George Washington.
SUSIE REYNOLDS.
9. Les Clochettes.....Hoffman.
LAURA REED.
10. Mount Vernon. Essay.
ANNIE MAY SCHOOLFIELD.
11. National Hymn.
Misses HEWSON, SCHOOLFIELD, COWLES, LESLIE, MORRIS, CROSS, PALMER, CLARK.

—Preparations are being made for a Calisthenic drill to close the year of exercise in the Gymnasium.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., MARCH, 1892.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—The very excellent article by the Daily Sentinel, on the Literary Society entertainment given by Miss SCRIBER, is necessarily crowded out of this issue; also other interesting items. We hope to print them in the April number.

—The article on Comenius, found on another page, is one containing the history of this great man in a very concise form. His life was so varied and eventful that it is exceedingly difficult to compress it in a small space. The writer has done so however, and although it requires careful reading, it will be found to be worth the effort and care required. We hope to follow this article taken from our worthy cotemporary, with one or two shorter articles on certain features of the life of Comenius.

—An effort is being made to establish an ACADEMY cottage at Carolina Beach, to enable our teachers to have a "headquarters" for rest and recreation. If circumstances enable the ACADEMY to carry out this plan it will be a well deserved testimonial to the faithful past efforts of a tireless company of workers, and who also need all the rest and recreation possible to prepare for the duties of another year. In case the plans are completed we hope many pupils new and old, will seek Carolina Beach, and while there give the ACADEMY cottage a call.

To the Class of '89.

The time decided upon by the Class of '89 for a reunion is rapidly approaching. The members of the class who are already here will welcome with much pleasure any who may come. We expect to have with us BIRT FITZPATRICK, Mrs. Chase, (JANIE WHITNER) and KITTIE FAIN.

Any communication relating to the reunion will be gladly received by

LIDA FAIN,
S. F. A., Salem, N. C.

The Cooking School.

BY DR. H. T. BAHNISON.

A just commingling of the useful with the ornamental in education has always been a feature in the ACADEMY's curriculum. The old scholars delight to tell of their lessons in sweeping, sewing, mending, darning, carrying wood and water, making fires, etc. While some of these rudimentary branches are too valuable to discard, the restless spirit of improvement which animates the ACADEMY, has demanded a higher grade of practical instruction in the art of house-keeping.

Dressmaking, including cutting and fitting, has superseded, or rather been added to the lessons in plain and ornamental sewing, while making a fire is merely the prelude to testing the capacity of the cooking stove in the production of healthful and appetizing dishes for the table.

A few weeks ago the writer was invited by two of the pupils to partake of a dinner prepared by the members of their class in the cooking school. Accompanied by Bishop RONDTHALER and the Principal, at the appointed hour he was met at the door, relieved of his hat and overcoat, and ushered by one of his hostesses into the dining room. An oval table, covered by fine white linen and tastefully ornamented with ribands and flowers, occupied the centre of the room and was arranged for 9 persons: the instructress, Miss WOLLE, the 5 pupils composing the class, Misses A. RAWLINGS, CLEORA HEWSON, AVA STROUP, ALICE GILLESPIE and EFFIE GILMER and the three guests.

In the brief interval preceding the first course, our eyes were attracted by the dainty china on the table and in the wall closets, the sparkling glasses and highly polished cutlery and silverware.

One of the pupils occupied the head of the table, and at her request a benediction was pronounced by the Bishop.

The dinner consisted of four courses with accessories. The delicate light rolls, the clear amber soup, the delicious fish with its creamy sauce, the juicy roast, the savory vegetables, the appetizing entrees, the luscious conserves, and the satisfying desert, each in its turn so deftly served by our bright-faced young hostesses, combined to make a feast long to be remembered with pleasure. When all is as good as possible it is difficult to particularize. Every dish was prepared by one or more of the young ladies, whose cheerful and entertaining conversation gave zest to our appetite and augmented the enjoyment of their bountiful repast.

Whatever scepticism the writer may have heretofore entertained on the subject of cooking schools, will certainly not apply to the class who so delightfully entertained him on this occasion, and he modestly acknowledges his entire willingness to be invited again.

The Mid-Winter Concert.

THE Mid-Winter Concert was given February 19th, to a large and enthusiastic company gathered from Winston-Salem and the surrounding section. It was an occasion looked forward to with great interest, because it was to introduce to the friends the first work of our recently secured workers in the several departments. Nor were the audience disappointed; in fact, many expressed themselves as having enjoyed the Concert more than any occasion in recent years. The variety of the programme stamped Prof. SCHMOLCK as being in sympathy with his hearers, for the arrangement of a programme is no easy portion of a successful entertainment.

We note first the well known spirit and inspiration of the Salem Orchestra, an organization which has willingly and unstintingly given aid to the school for many years, and without which an occasion would hardly seem to be complete. Under the new leadership of Prof. SCHMOLCK the Orchestra has made no backward step. In the second place it was of special interest to note the new aspect of the instrumental music. Not only was the spirit and expression clearly brought out, as in the solos, but with the two pianos most satisfactory results were attained. In "Eury-anthe" each young lady carried a distinct air, on a separate piano, and the time was so exact and the harmony so perfect that one seemed to be listening to orchestral music rather than to a piano selection. So too in "Wilhelm Tell;" although almost at the last moment one of the four performers was taken sick, the substitute could hardly be distinguished from those who had enjoyed a greater season of drill. The vocal pupils also displayed faithful and careful training. It is difficult to secure marked success in a few months, but Miss MATHEWSON's pupils seemed to display rather the results of a year's work than of five months drill. The tones were exact and the expression carefully given.

Concerning the "Hermit's Harp," the Cantata, we may speak yet more strongly. Coming but a few weeks ago, the Director has certainly produced results which promise well for the future work in the school. Here too the expression given to the singing by the 75 or 100 female voices was marked, and the spirit while energetic, responded readily to the guidance of the leader. We give the argument of the Cantata :

ARGUMENT: There exists in the depths of the Black Forest a spot where, according to a legend, a hermit dwelt some hundreds of years ago. He was a holy and austere man, and the only companion of his solitude was a harp, upon which, in the moments that were not devoted to religious observances, he was wont to discourse sweet music. It is the custom of peasantry to assemble and proceed to this spot on Christmas Eve, and if the sound of the hermit's harp be heard (as to a heated imagination it is sure to be) the listeners are supposed to have secured for themselves a spell of prosperity during the forthcoming year.

Another pleasant feature of the evening was the marked willingness of the leaders to add their own talents to the occasion. Miss SCRIBER captured the audience with her recitation, "Defence of Lucknow." Miss MATHEWSON was most heartily applauded for the spirited manner in which she rendered the Aria from Messiah, "Rejoice Greatly," and a very pleasant incident was the rendering of "Bells of St. Mary's," by Mrs. PAUL SCHMOLCK, with her deep, rich contralto voice. The Professor performed "Sonata Pathetique" as the twelfth number of the programme.

The following evening the Concert was repeated complimentary to Davis Cadets. On this evening the pupils of our own Institution attended. The sight of nearly 400 young people from every portion of our great land was very interesting, and not only were the uniforms bright and attractive, and the costumes of the young ladies tasty and neat, and the faces all fresh with the spirit of youth, but the actions throughout indicated respect for the discipline of these two conservative Institutions. As far as it is possible for a young person to be safe in any school we feel certain that such will be the case, with any young man in Davis' Military School, or any young lady committed to the care of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, if the experiences and deportment of Friday evening, February 19th, may be taken as a criterion. In another column we give the programme :

1. Overture. Light Cavalry..... F. v. Suppe.
ORCHESTRA.
2. La Zingara. Vocal Solo..... Donizetti.
Miss MARY WATSON.
3. Wilhelm Tell. Overture for two Pianos ..... Rossini.
1st Piano—Misses ANNA ADAMS and BLANCHE MORGAN.
2d Piano—Misses BEULAH BROOKS and SARAH SHELL.
4. Twilight. Trio for Female Voices
..... Franz Abt.
Misses HEWSON, MORRIS, SCHOOLFIELD, KAPP, CROSS, PALMER, LEACH, OLLINGER, CLARKE,
BRIDGESS, LESLIE, PENN.
5. Recitation. Defence of Lucknow Chopman.
Miss SCRIBER.
6. La Source. Caprice pour le Piano
..... Blumenthal.
Miss TILLA STOCKTON.
7. Rejoice Greatly. Aria from Messiah Haendel
Miss SUSANNE MATHEWSON.
8. Faust. Piano Solo..... Gounod.
Miss ELDRED MALLORY.
9. Bells of St. Mary's..... Rodney-Schmolck.
Mrs. P. SCHMOLCK.
10. Euryanthe. Morceau de Concert pour deux Pianos..... Ravina.
1st Piano—Miss CARRIE OLLINGER.
2nd Piano—Miss NETTIE GLENN.
11. Maid of the Mill. Vocal Duet..... Kuecken.
Misses LILLIAN CRUTCHFIELD and CLAUDA PALMER.
12. Sonata Pathetique ..... Beethoven.
Prof. PAUL SCHMOLCK.
13. The Hermit's Harp. Cantata for Female Voices..... Franz Abt.
Gretchen, (Soprano) Miss ETHEL MORRIS.
Lucia (Mezzo-Soprano), Miss HARRIET CROSS.
Eva (Contralto), Miss BERTIE BRIDGESS.
Chorus of Peasant Maidens.
Accompanist, Miss AMY VAN VLECK.
Organ, Miss L. HEGE.
14. Feuer's Vaterland. March from Beggar Student ..... Millockker.
ORCHESTRA.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—A fine picture of Miss EVANS appeared in a New York Musical Journal, together with a sketch of her life.

—Mrs. Rawley, of Reidsville, and Mrs. Covington, of Germanton, spent a few days in Winston-Salem recently.

Mr Morgan, of Durham, spent a day or two with us ; also Mr. and Mrs. Leach, of High Point, and Mr. Nimocks, of Fayetteville.

—We were pleased to enjoy a visit from an old pupil, BESSIE HOOKER, some weeks ago. It is a great pleasure to have our Alumnae visit the Alma Mater.

—MAMIE CLEWELL, of Baltimore, who attended the ACADEMY last autumn as a special pupil, returned to her home at Christmas, and is continuing her studies in the Peabody Institute in that city.

—The games in the Park are being entered into with unusual energy and interest. This is a good indication and bespeaks the natural result of the general good health of the year. Lawn tennis, ten pins, croquet, etc., are popular, and doubtless Latin and Mathematics will come in for a share of the good results, "Mens sana in corpore sana."

—There appears to be an epidemic prevailing among our Bennettsville, S. C., friends and Alumnae, not of grippe, but of matrimony ; four of our Alumnae were married within a few weeks, and there are indications that the danger is not quite over yet. Our best wishes attend them, each and every one. May their joys be many and their cares few, and may others of their vicinity go and do likewise.

—The members of the Senior Class were recently very much interested in the dissection of a large heart. The auricles and ventricles, the aorta, the una cava, the mitral, tricuspid and semi-lunar valves, etc., were all carefully examined and clearer ideas of the cardiac structure prevail. The only difficulty to be apprehended from so close a study of this interesting organ is to make girls imagine they have heart disease.

—Among the patrons and friends who have called on us during the past weeks are the following : Mrs. Schoolfield, of Danville, Va. ; Mr. J. A. Cooper, of Delaplane, N. C. ; Mrs. Shell, of South Carolina ; Mrs. Covington, Mrs. Chisman, Mr. Grogan, Dr. Jones, Mr. Harper, Revs. Woosley and Lineback, Mr. Totten, Mr. Kapp, all of North Carolina. Other friends are Miss MATTIE BAHNSON and Mrs. Geo. Bahnsen, (MATTIE BARBER) of Farmington, N. C. ; Mr. and Mrs. Majette, of Mt. Airy, N. C., and Mr. Smith and Mr. Peacock, of N. C.

—We are indebted to Miss LAURA WHITNER, of Fort Reed, Florida, for a small box of those exquisite little fruits, of the Orange or Citrus family, styled Komquats. They are about the size of a small yellow jug or pear tomato, and have one or two orange-like seeds in the acid pulp. The Komquat is the fruit of an ornamental shrub, evidently dwarfed by the Japanese. A small shrub about 13 inches high, was said by a gentleman who recently visited Florida, to have more than 100 of these little fruits thereon. They make, it is said, good preserves, have a pleasant sub-acid taste, between that of the orange and the lemon. Loquat or Japanese Plum, is quite a pretty shrub. We have some three or four growing, and trust they may be able to stand our climate.

—A United States cruiser recently built in the Norfolk, Va., Navy Yard, is to be named "The Raleigh," in honor of the capital of the Old North State. Hon. B. F. Tracy, Secretary of the Navy, has asked Governor Holt if his daughter, Mrs. A. G. Haywood, would christen the vessel early in April. A bottle of wine is usually broken over the bow of a vessel as it formally receives its name from the lady selected for the purpose, and sails proudly over the blue waters. Mrs. Haywood is better known to us as DAISY HOLT, a highly esteemed Alumna of the ACADEMY, who was here at school with her two sisters, CORA, Mrs. Laird, and ELLA, Mrs. Wright.

Alumnae Scholarship Endowment.

Mrs. Sallie Kapp,	$ 5.00
Mrs. L. M. Porter,	1.00
Previously acknowledged,	624.85
Total,	$630.85

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs. L. M. Porter, Mrs. C. H. Fogle, Mr. H. W. Shore, Mrs. R. A. Schoolfield, Mrs. C. W. Vogler, Miss Maud Butler and Mr. E. T. Ackerman, Salem, N. C.; Mrs. F. W. L. Riddick, Hamilton, N. C.

Married.

CHASE—WHITNER.—On Wednesday evening, February 24th, Mr. JOSHUA C. CHASE to Miss JANIE WHITNER, of Fort Reed, Fla.

BREEDEN—ADAMS.—In Bennettsville, S. C., February 29th, Mr. HENRY BREEDEN to Miss ROSA ADAMS.

STOCKTON—ACKERMAN.—On March 3d, Mr. FRANK STOCKTON to Miss ELLA ACKERMAN, both of Salem, N. C.

SIMMONDS—SCHIFF.—At the Belmont, Charlotte, N. C., on Wednesday evening, March 16th, Mr. NATHANIEL L. SIMMONDS to Miss EMMA SCHIFF, of Charlotte, N. C.

Died.

WADDELL.—On February 6th, near Ladford, Stokes Co., N. C., Mrs. ANN ELIZA WADDELL. Mrs. Waddell was a pupil of the ACADEMY, and later, her daughter MATTIE WADDELL. Mrs. W. was ill for several months. She was a member of the Episcopal church.

MINNIE P. BEARD.

Died, of pneumonia, complicated with heart failure, at Hendron Academy, near Clio, S. C., February 14th, 1892, Miss MINNIE P. BEARD, eldest daughter of J. W. and S. E. Beard.

Death frequently comes unexpectedly, but the subject of this humble tribute was severed from all earthly connection so suddenly that the shock produced upon our community was indeed startling; the death of one of our most influential and useful citizens would scarcely have clothed more faces in gloom and sadness.

Cut down just at the stage of life when hope flows through the whole spiritual being unobstructed by worldly cares and disappointments, and just as she had secured a maidenly hold and influence upon society, it could not be otherwise than that many hearts should bleed for having the fond expectations she had nurtured, crushed out of them forever.

But this heavy blow of affliction falls most severely upon the hearts of her parents. Truly they deserve a sympathy which can be felt by those only who have experienced a like bereavement.

MINNIE was a good and agreeable girl; none knew her but to love her; she possessed enough of self-confidence to make her easy and pleasant in society, and at the same time enough modesty to render her lovely and attractive. She was a fond lover of music, and being ambitious to accomplish something in this line, she became anxious to prepare herself to teach music. With this end in view, she entered the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, in August, 1886, and graduated from that institution in June, 1888. Her first field of labor was at Mana, where she taught music five months; then returning home she remained there until she accepted the position as music teacher at Oak Ridge Institute. She filled this position until Christmas, when her health beginning to fail she thought best to give it up; but when the offer of a position in South Carolina came she accepted that, thinking the change of climate would improve her health and that she would meet many of her schoolmates. She entered hopefully upon the duties assumed in this new field.

But on Thursday, the 11th of February, she was taken violently ill and on the 14th her transitory life ended. Her brother James, was the only relative with her to comfort her last hours. He reports that her immediate death must have been painless.

Her remains arrived at Kernersville on the night of February 15th, and at two o'clock on the 16th the funeral services were held from the Methodist church, conducted by Rev. T. H. Pegram.

MINNIE had lived a consistent member of the Methodist church for eight years, and is now no doubt "Safe in the arms of Jesus." It is painful to know that we shall enjoy her sweet companionship in this life no more, yet we feel that our little village has another bright representative in Heaven. The parents and relatives have a golden link binding them to the skies.

Time may, to some extent, soften the grief that pierces the father's and mother's heart, but cannot remove it. Earth has some sorrows that Heaven alone can cure. But we rejoice in the assurance of a better country, that is an Heavenly, where all the pure and good shall meet in perfect endless happiness.

TILLA HARMON.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only, and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

— I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are Red,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!

1881.

5547 LILLIAN SUTTON. — 1864.
Edward L. Sutton, Kinston, N. C.
5548 KATE UROGHART. — 1867.
R. F. Urquhart, Allen's, Ga.
5549 IRA P. SAULS. — 18 5.
H. J. Sauls, Fremont, Ga.
5550 ROSA FULLER. — 1865.
A. G. Fuller, Danville, Va.
5551 JODIE L. WAUGH. — 1866.
W. A. Waugh, Waugh's Ranch, Texas.

5552 JANE V. LITTLE. — 1866.
5553 MARTHA E. LITTLE. — 1868.
John S. Little, Wadesboro, N. C.
5554 BLANCHE MATTHEWS. — 1865.
A. C. Matthews, Elberton, N. C.
5555 MATTIE SPENCER. — 1865.
D. H. Spencer, Spencer's Store, Va.
5556 IRENE JAMES. — 1865.
J. C. Jones, Brouville, Va.
5557 IDA JONES. — 1863.
K. Jones, Mt. Cross, Va.
5558 EVELYN STALLINGS. — 18 5.
Dr. J. B. Stallings, Stantonbury, N. C.

1882.

5559 SALLIE A. HANES. — 1866.
Mrs. M. J. Hanes, Fulton, N. C.
5560 IDA RAGSDALE. — 1868.
J. S. Ragsdale, Jamestown, N. C.
5561 CORNELIA HILL. — 1865.
Dr. L. H. Hill, Germantown, N. C.
5562 Florence Rutledge. — 1867.
Mrs. G. Rutledge, Stanley Creek N. C.
5563 MAGGIE A. BRIDGMAN. — 1866.
Seth Bridgman, Washington, N. C.
5564 NANNIE B. RUSS. — 1866.
W. M. Russ, Raleigh N. C.
5565 SALLIE C. COX. — 1863.
Calvin Cox, Coxville, N. C.
5566 LUCY TOMLINSON. — 1866.
Thos. Tomlinson, Tate Springs, Tenn.
5567 LUDOV I. SNAPP. — 1865.
S. T. Snapp, Morrisburg, Tenn.
5568 SUSIE K. JOHNSTON. — 1866.
M. W. Johnston, Concord, N. C.
5569 MARY MURRILL. — 1864.
J. T. Murrill, Hickory, N. C.
5570 ANNIE E. VAUGHAN. — 1866.
Thad Vaughan, Scotland Neck, N. C.
5571 LENA BELL. — 1865.
5572 EULA M. BELL. — 1867.
John M. Bell, Washington, N. C.
5573 FLORENCE G. SMITH. — 1867.
D. A. Smith, Wilmington, N. C.
5574 LOUISE G. PALMER. — 1869.
Frederick O. Palmer, Zacatecas Mexico.
5575 MAGGIE M. JOHNSON. — 1864
5576 BELLE N. JOHNSON. — 1864.
J. H. Johnson, Half Moon Island Tenn.
5577 MAUD E. WOOD. — 1870.
Dempsey Wood, La Grange, N. C.
5578 MARY H. CANNADY. — 1864.
W. H. Cannady, Louisburg, N. C.
5579 CORA LEE PARKS. — 1865.
Amaziah Parks, Goldsboro, N. C.
5580 LORENA G. LYON. — 1866.
Sarah Ann Lyon, Tally Ho, N. C.
5581 MINNIE AGNES KLUGE. — 1867.
5582 MARY E. MCGUIRE. — 1867.
Jas. McGuire, Mocksville, N. C.
Eugene Kluge, Leaksville, N. C.
5583 REBECCA L. MARKS. — 1869.
Mr. Beason, Dixon's, x Roads, La.
5584 MAMIE EAGLETON. — 1868.
W. C. Eagleton, Lake Weir, Fla.
5585 IDA VAIL. — 1862.
Thos. L. Vail, Charlotte, N. C.
5586 LUCY BYRD. — 18 7.
W. K. Byrd, Morristown, Tenn.
5587 HATTIE BYNUM. — 1866.
E. T. Bynum, Germantown, N. C.
5588 EUGENIA NUNNALLY. — 1866.
John H. Nunnally, Ruffin, N. C.

WANTED

A position as Book keeper, in some Southern State.
Address, "A. L.," ACADEMY,
Salem, N. C.
March, '92-31.

WANTED

A position as Soprano in a Church Choir, (Episcopal preferred.)
Address, "D. A.," ACADEMY,
Salem, N. C.
March, '92-31.

GRANDEST DISPLAY

— OF —

TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS,
LADIES' WORK BASKETS,
FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY
GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one I will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxydized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,
W. T. VOGLER,
JEWELER,
334 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.
Sept. '91-19.

THE SALEM STEAM BROOM WORKS,

Main Street, Salem, N. C.,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO., PROPRIETORS,

MANUFACTURERS OF

PARLOR, HEARTH, WHISK, STABLE AND FACTORY BROOMS, which we offer the trade at lowest prices. Soliciting your orders we are

Yours truly,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.

Salem, N. C., September, 1891.

*MISS EMMA L. LEINBACH,***

(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANOS HANDLED.

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about

$75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up.

155 Lexington Avenue New York.

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her for responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Salem Female Academy

Salem, N. C., Feb. 11, 1889.

The Student's Series of Histories.

Edited by WILLIAM SMITH, LL. D.

Each one of these serviceable and attractive volumes is acknowledged to be the best summary in our language of the particular branch of knowledge to which it belongs.

Ancient History: A Manuel of Ancient History, from the Earliest times to the Fall of the Western Empire. 636 pp. Price $1.25.

The Christian Church, I: The History of the Christian Church during the First Ten Centuries, By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 618 pp. Price, $1.50.

The Christian Church, II: The History of the Christian Church during the Middle Ages. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 700 pp. Price, $1.50.

The East: The Ancient History of the East, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of Alexander the Great. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. Illustrated, 650 pp. Price $1.25.

England: A History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Revolution of 1688. 808 pp. $1.50.

England (CONSTITUTIONAL): The Constitutional History of England. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 748 pp. Price, $1.25.

England (QUEENS): Lives of the Queens of England, from the Norman Conquest. By AGNES STRICKLAND, Illustrated. 682 pp. Price $1.25.

France: A History of France, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire in 1852. Illustrated. 730 pp. Price $1.25.

Germany: A History of Germany, from the Earliest Times. By CHARLTON T. LEWIS. 800 pp. $1.50.

Greece: A History of Greece, from the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. 704 pp. $1.25.

Greece (GENERAL): A General History of Greece, from the Earliest Period to the Death of Alexander the Great. By GEORGE W. COX, M. A. 710 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome: A History of Rome, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By H. G. LIDDELL, D. D. 768 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome (GENERAL): A General History of Rome. B. C. 753—A. D. 476. By CHARLES MERIVALE, D. D. 702 pp. Price, $1.25.

Roman Empire: The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By EDWARD GIBSON. Abridged. 678 pp. Price $1.25.

Middle Ages: View of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 708 pp. Price, $1.25.

Modern Europe: A History of Modern Europe, By RICHARD LODGE. 772 pp. Price, $1.25.

New Testament: The New Testament History, With Maps and Woodcuts. 780 pp. Price $1.25.

Old Testament: The Old Testament History, from the Creation to the Return of the Jews from Captivity. With Maps and Woodcuts. 716 pp. Price, $1.25.

A complete catalogue of School and College Text Books will be forwarded on request.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

Franklin Square, New York.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

The 90th Annual Session begins August 27th, 1891. Register for last year 25¢. Special features:—The Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Commercial and Industrial Studies.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

DAVIS SCHOOL.

Military Boarding School FOR BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

Full preparation for any College or for Business. Healthy location; fine climate; mild winters; excellent buildings; Cadet Cornet Band; Cadet Orchestra; Resident Surgeon. No Charge for Medical Attention. No Extra Charge for Languages or Sciences. Department of Art. Full Course in Telegraphy. VERY LOW RATES. For Register with full particulars address

COL. A. C. DAVIS, Supt., WINSTON, N. C.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country All the leading novelties, such as:

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in

Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

The following line of Corsets can always be found in our stock:

The celebrated C. B. Corset in 3 grades.

Thompson's Glove Fitting Corset.

Dr. Warner's Health Corset.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corset.

Madame Melville's Corset.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,

has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111. Jan. 1892. Phone 111.

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON, N. C.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIV.

SALEM, N. C., APRIL, 1892.

NUMBER 125.

COMENIUS.

[The following poem was composed by GERTRUDE JENKINS, and read at the service in the Moravian church, March 28th, commemorating the three hundredth anniversary of the birth of Bishop John Amos Comenius. The article which follows the poem was written by Bishop RONDTHALER, and read by AVA STROUP on the same occasion. We print the article which sets forth the special features of Comenius' life as an educator.]

"ICH DIEN."

IN MEMORY OF JOHN AMOS COMENIUS.

Of the Master, the twelve asked one day,
While round them with unduious sway,
Surged the multitude under the palms,
"In thy Kingdom, Lord, who shall be greatest?
Is it he who thine enemies hatest?
Or the man who hast done the most alms?"

Golden clouds flecked the blue of the sky,
And the birds wheeled and circled on high,
As Jesus called to him a child:
And caressing the babe, answered slowly,
"These are first in my Kingdom, the holy Pure children, the star-eyed, the mild!"

* * * * *

Fully thrice have the centuries past,
Each cycle o'er leaping the last
And passing with conqueror's tread,
Since there grew in a far away city,
A lad, who, methinks, deserved pity
And love,—for his parents were dead!

He knew naught of the world in those days,
Heeding only censure or praise
Of the teachers before whom he stood;
Yet now and again, he thought dimly
When his heart was made sore by contumely,
And he felt he was misunderstood.

"If they ever were little as I,
They've forgotten the wants of a boy.
Oh, mother, I need you just now!
And the mother's bright spirit celestial
Brooded over this being terrestrial,
But he thought the South-wind kissed his brow!"

He grew into manhood and power,
But he could not forget how the flower
Of childhood was bruised and defaced;
And in dreams, the sweet Savior seemed telling Him, "These, next my throne have their dwelling,
Go serve them with unceasing zest."

* * * * *

All the world now feels the impress of the wish within his soul,
That the little ones, God's chiefest ones, might gently reach the goal.
That they might, through patient guidance,
seeing all that God hath wrought,

Learn to trust in the Omnipotent, which Nature dumbly taught;
Lest they should, perceiving those who led them to be harsh and cold,
Falter on the threshold and mistrust the safety of the fold.

But the world knows not, perchance, of sterner chapters in his life,
When the Brethren's Church was tottering through intolerance and strife;
Then the courage of this exiled Bishop, longing now for home,
As he yearned for mother in his childhood days,
broke through the gloom,
With a grand, prophetic psalm of victory! victory to be given To the Church below, and after earth, the bridegroom's home in heaven!

Canst thou hear, Comenius, 'twixt the rhapsodies of heavenly song?
Dost thou know, to do thee honor, gathered here this reverent throng?
But how finite this! methinks through heaven's eternal gateways,
I discern a sainted pilgrim look with thankful, glad amaze
At the fadeless jewels fixed by hosts of children in his crown,
While God says: "Faithful servant, they are thine and thou art mine!"

Comenius as an Educator.

THERE is a sense in which John Amos Comenius is the peculiar property of the Moravian Church. He was one of her most illustrious bishops, and an important link between her ancient and modern history. But in another sense he belongs to the whole enlightened world. By his genius as an educator he has become, as Herder finely says: "A noble priest of humanity."

The widespread interest in Europe and America which the three hundredth anniversary of his birth has awakened, arises from his great repute, as the first modern teacher among the young.

The man who gave such a wonderful impulse to the right training of young people was, himself, a neglected boy. Born on the 28th of March, 1592, at Nievenetz, in Moravia, in a wealthy family, he lost both parents when a child, and was neglected by the guardians to whose care he had been left.

His school education was, however, very thorough. He first attended several of the Moravian schools, then went to the Theological Institute in Heeborn, in the grand duchy of Nassau, and completed his studies at the University of Heidelberg. He was not, however, even in these earlier years, a mere learner, according to the methods of education, which then prevailed, but an earnest thinker on the subject. He was noting the faults of the old systems, and was gathering hints from various sources with regard to the way in which they might be improved. His fine linguistic faculty, was already engaged upon his own rich Bohemian tongue, in its relation to the Latin, and his comprehensive intellect was taking a bird's-eye view over the whole domain of human knowledge; and yet had it not been for the sorrows of his life, he hardly would have taken rank as the foremost educator of his time, and as one of the first of all times.

When we look into his venerable face, as the portraits have represented him, with his high forehead and his eyes soft and sad, we cannot help thinking of him as an exile through many weary years, as a great man, with the shadow of a great grief resting upon him, in view of the down-trodden condition of his Moravian Church and country. As "Milton's Paradise Lost" was the fruit of his blindness, as Dante's "Divina Comedia" was the result of his long exile, Comenius' grand educational labors were directly connected with his homeless and distressed condition, a victim of the religious hatreds of the thirty years' war.

At his first place of refuge, after fleeing from Moravia, which was Lissa, in Poland, he wrote in 1631, his "Janua Linguarum Reserata, (the Gate of Language Unlocked.) This remarkable book has gone into all the languages of Europe and into several of those of Asia. It consists of one thousand sentences, presenting a summary of the essential parts of the Latin language, and at the same time a bird's-eye view of the whole field of human knowledge.

In 1633, at the same place, he wrote what may be called an introduction to the Janua, the "Schola Materni Gremii," (the school of the maternal bosom) or The School of Infancy, as it is commonly called.

In 1654, at Saros-Patak, in Hungary, whither he had been invited to reform the schools of that country, he composed his famous Orbis Pictus, the first educational picture-book for children. It is a work of the same character as the Ianua, but with the plan more developed and profusely illustrated with wood cuts. It was first published at Nuremberg in 1558, and has passed through numerous editions, down to the present day.

These three works, which mark an era in the history of education, have the same idea underlying them which has thus been expressed in his own words: "Children should learn not words merely, but objects together with words; it not being the memory alone which requires culture, but also the reasoning faculties, the will and the affection of men; this should be done from early infancy by a clear and well arranged mode of thinking, and friendly intercourse with them."

Besides these pioneer educational works, Comenius composed many other writings. There hovered before his mind a vast plan which he entitled the "Christian Pansophia," a work of universal knowledge, drawn up in such a way as to conduce to true moralities and Christian piety. The troubles of the times, and the destruction of his own library, with many of his carefully prepared papers, prevented the carrying out of that great scheme two centuries before the encyclopedias and the university systems of our own times.

Sad and disappointed as his life was, on account of the failure of his patriotic hopes, it was not without pleasing recognition of his genius. He was invited by act of Parliament to come to England and assist in reforming the schools there. A similar invitation caused him to reside for some years in Hungary. At the time when he was asked to come over to America as President of the new Harvard College, a great pressure from the Government of Sweden took him in that direction, to the loss of our own infant country.

It is touching to hear Comenius, in his last work, when 76 years of age, apologize for his educational toil. He says in this beautiful close to his literary labors: "I may here mention my endeavor to promote the better education of youth; many considered them unworthy of a theologian's time; but I thank Christ, my everlasting love, for inspiring me with such affection toward his lambs and for regulating my exertions in the form set forth in my educational works."

Time has added her verdict of praise to the old man's view of his labors. In stooping down to give the hand of a right culture to the very little ones, Comenius has been exalted to a lasting fame.

The lines of his contemporary, the poet Francis Quarles, will be universally accepted as a true delineation of the great bishop, educator and patriot:

"Lo here an exile who to serve his God
Hath sharply tasted of proud Pashur's rod, Whose learning, piety and true worth being known,
To all the world, makes all the world his own.

—The close of the Calisthenic year was marked by a special drill, given on several evenings, to which our friends from town were invited. The girls were dressed in light suits trimmed with red, pink, or blue, according to the division to which they belonged. The leaders were ANNIE MAY SCHOOLFIELD, MARY WOOD, BLANCHE WOOD, HESSIE YANCEY, ANNA ADAMS, and ETHEL MORRIS. Leaders of wand drill, etc., were AVA STROUP, FRANCES LEACH and ALICE RAWLINGS; accompanyists, Miss VAN VLECK, ANNA ADAMS, and ELDRED MALLORY; banner bearers, LILLIE YOUNG, DAISY SCHOOLFIELD, MARY MOORE, FLORENCE TOOMEY, MABEL PETERKIN and CLEO HEARD. The Fan Drill, given by 20 young ladies, members of the Euterpean Society, dressed in the classic Greek costume, and also the recitations, were under the supervision of Miss SCRIBER, who had given great care to the training of these parts. On Saturday evening she was presented with a handsome jewelry case by the members of the Euterpean Society, the presentation speech being made by Prof. WM. BLAIR. The following is the programme:

1. Marching.
2. "Master Johnnie's next door Neighbor."
MISS ELLA ANDERSON.
3. Free Calisthenics.
4. "Little Josie."
MISS ANNIE CARRIER.
5. Dumb Bells.
6. "The Last Hymn."
MISS SUSIE REVNOLDS.
7. Fan Drill.
8. "Minuet."
MISS FRANCIS CONRAD.
9. Wands.
10. "The Widow's Light."
MISS ALLIE MALLORY.
11. Marching.

Our King's Daughters.

We have been silent for some time, but if any of the former King's daughters of the Academy could take a peep into a certain class-room, every Friday night, they would see a room full of girls sitting around one main point or place. This spot which is of so much interest, is the same around which you so often circled. And we have heard not once nor twice nor three times only, about those ten quilts which were pieced by the King's Daughters last year. None of you have ever stepped to the round in the ladder of fame, which we have just decided upon, namely, to write a letter to the King's Daughters of foregoing years. We want to know whether you are still wearing your badges, and are very much interested indeed to know what line of work you are following in your wider fields. In our work we have followed in your footsteps, by helping the Home, giving oranges to the Mission School at Christmas, and aiding any needy one that we could reach. For our work this spring we have put things in the Home garden nicely underway, so that we can think of them while at home as enjoying the fruit of our planting, and be able to see some results of our labor when we return in September. Now will not some King's Daughter, who remembers the little meetings on Sunday afternoons (which we still hold), write us a letter and tell us what she is doing? Just think how much you would enjoy it, if you were in our places. We have our penny box just as you did, and if you, in the kindness of your heart, wish to remember us with a donation for it, it would make us very, very happy. Miss Vogler, whom, no doubt, many of you remember, attended our meeting two weeks ago, and told us of some very interesting visits made to the missions in New York City. Now after this effort on our part, we are with a school girls' eagerness, looking for not less than fifty letters, and hope they will not be long in coming. With best wishes to you all, we are respectfully and lovingly yours,

H. B. CROSS, }
E. M. CLARKE, } Committee.

Address letters to Miss M. A. FOGLE,
Salem, N. C.

—We are sorry to say that we have no Catalogue of 1870 and '71, as inquired for by one of our Alumnae.

Correspondence.

—We were pleased to receive the following letter from a former pupil, FANNIE SMYLEY now Mrs E. E. Jefferson :

I have been intending for a long time to write to you and ask if you could find me a catalogue of 1870 and '71, the time when I too was a Salem girl. My name was FANNIE SMYLEY, and I would like very much to hear of my old friends and school mates, but the twenty-two years which have passed since then have brought so many cares and changes to the fifteen year old school girl of that day, that she can scarcely find time even for a social chat concerning the girls of the long ago.

I wish particularly to ask after some of my teachers too of that time. What has become of Miss MARY EBERHARD, and Miss EMMA CHITTY? she succeeded Miss REICHEL, if you remember, who died then.

I have been married about fifteen years, and am living in the town of Johnston, S. C., about half-way between Augusta, Ga., and Columbia, S. C. I enjoy reading THE ACADEMY so much, and always find something of interest of my former associates.

I saw LUCY BYRD'S name in THE ACADEMY, and thought perhaps you would like to hear something from her. She is now Mrs. John Ivey, and lives in Athens, Ga., S. A. L. R. R.

Your former pupil,
FANNIE SMYLEY JEFFERSON.

Johnston, S. C.

—A short extract from a letter written by EVELYN STALLINGS, AGNES' sister, may be of interest :

CORA PARKS, of La Grange, N. C., was married January 5th, 1892, to Mr. J. B. Gardner, of Saulston. HOKIE E. FREEMAN, of Snow Hill, N. C., is now Mrs. John Hooker, of Hookerton, N. C. I went to school with her, and saw her name in the last register. You will soon reach my name, as I was a pupil at Salem in '81, '82 and part of '83. Rev. J. T. ZORN was Principal at that time, and Rev. E. RONDTHALER was the minister.

Wishing you a prosperous year, I remain
As ever,

EVELYN STALLINGS.

Pikeville, N. C.

—A few lines from MATTIE EPES, were received some time ago :

I have been intending to write to you for some time. Will you be kind enough to ask Miss GERTRUDE to send me the drawing

I left? I spent a very pleasant Christmas and hope you enjoyed yours also. You just ought to see UNA'S little baby ; it is real smart, has six little teeth and is just eight months old.

Give my love to the teachers and Mrs. CLEWELL ; my kindest regards to Bishop RONDTHALER.

I hope you will have a fine Commencement.

As ever your pupil,

MATTIE EPES.

Epes, Ala.

—Another from the land of flowers comes like a breath of the warm south wind and ever welcome :

I was charmed to receive your letter and I admire the caps and robes very much, and wish the class of '87 had gotten them, but we did quite a good deal in our year, had several "first things." We were the first I think to have rings and class colors ; I also think our class motto was the first but am not quite sure.

You know of course, what a long stay I had among the Yankees. I spent 6 months in Salem, Mass., just out of Boston. It was not altogether a pleasure seeking trip, for 3 months of my time I devoted to learning dress making, but a lot of pleasure was realized. I reached home last Thursday and oh ! how lovely it did seem.

I had a slight touch of what a New England winter might be, but the snow storms came just at the close of my stay there ; any way, I indulged in 3 or 4 elegant sleigh rides, and even went coasting, coasted down an immense hill on a double runner, and oh ! such fun as it was !

I was continually going to Boston, for it was only half an hour's ride distant. I took in quite a number of elegant plays, operas, and Boston Symphony Concerts, they were simply grand ! fully 100 different instruments in the Symphony Orchestra. I saw Bernhardt, in "Jeanne D'Arc" and that was fine.

On my return home I had a splendid visit in New York with Hattie Swift Wildard. Of course we revived old S. F. A. memories. I intended stopping in Philadelphia a week with relatives but was disappointed owing to the severe illness of several members of the family.

THE ACADEMY peeped in on us yesterday. Much love from us all,

Lovingly,

ALLICE OLLINGER.

Milton, Fla.

Personal Items.

A former pupil inquires for a number of old friends and classmates, among them LORA COWART is named. When we last heard she was a teacher in Atlanta, Ga. Her sister LEILA, also unmarried, was teaching in Dallas, Tex. NELLIE LIGON is Mrs. Cornelia Graham, of Austin, Tex. KATE MILLER is Mrs. Dr. Pendleton, of San Marcos, Tex., and has 3 or 4 children. IDA ROGERS, is Mrs. John S. Jones, of Fort Valley, Ga., has 4 little, folks the eldest less than 5 year old. Among the other grand-children of the ACADEMY, is the little daughter of Mrs. W. H. Frierson, (NELLIE BEWLEY) of Anderson, S. C., and the little daughter of Mrs. Walton, of Statesville, N. C., formerly Miss FANNIE EVERITT.

—Miss MARY EBERHARD is now Mrs. Pfohl, the wife of our efficient and indefatigable Secretary, Mr. CHARLES B. PFOHL. She has one grown son, and one who is younger. Miss EMMA CHITTY is still a teacher in the ACADEMY.

—A number of our younger Alumnae are usefully and nobly employed in teaching, and wherever we hear of them they are doing good, faithful work. ETTA TAYLOR is teaching at Oxford, N. C. ; MAUD ROBBINS is teaching music at Elon College, N. C. ; ETTIE BROWN is teaching at Fayetteville ; BESSIE and BLANCHE THOMAS were teaching in Thomasville, N. C. ; EFFIE BUTNER has been teaching here in Salem.

—The "Library Circle" is the name of a new organization in the school, which has as its object independent research in any line of thought connected with the spirit of the Institution. It meets once during the week, and once on Sunday. At present the work includes a classifying of the important historical events of the past three months, international and national, throughout the world. The Sunday hour is spent in a study of the events attending the opening of Japan to Christianity and to Christian civilization. Dr. Hitchcock's lectures on Socialism is receiving a portion of the hour, and several of the meetings will be filled by a series of papers covering a comprehensive view of the history of art. The "Literary Circle" promises to become a source of much pleasure and profit to its members. Mr. CLEWELL regularly meets with members.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., APRIL, 1892.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

Commencement Week Programme.

Sunday, May 21st, 11 A. M., Baccalaureate Sermon, by the Rev. W. W. MOORE, D. D., of Hampden-Sidney.

Sunday evening a service will be held in the Moravian church, at which Bishop EDWARD RONDTHALER will preside.

Monday, May 22d, 7:45 P. M., Seniors' First Evening.

Tuesday, May 23d, 2 P. M., Art Exhibit. 7:45 P. M., Seniors' Second Evening. 9 P. M., Reception tendered those who aid in the Commencement work.

Wednesday, May 24th, 2:30 P. M., Alumnae Meeting. 7:45 P. M., Grand Concert.

Thursday, May 25th, 9 A. M., Commencement. Orator, President GEO. TAYLOR WINSTON, LL.D., of the N. C. State University.

—Only a few pupils went home at Easter, and well it is that such is the case. Those remaining have a much better chance on the class record.

—By referring to the Programme of Commencement Week, it will be seen that we have things arranged with unusual care. The addition of Dr. MOORE's name to the list—Dr. WINSTON's name having already been given—certainly gives the programme a well rounded appearance. All who come to see us at that time will be repaid for the trip.

—The Comenius celebration in the Moravian church, Feb. 28th, was an event of unusual interest. The very large number of young people who took part, the great care given to the programme, the peculiar clearness with which the greatness and goodness of the old Bishop was made known, filled an hour with impressions that will long remain. We regret not being able to give more space to the account, but call attention to the poem and article elsewhere given.

—The latest invention in telegraphy is the Writing Telegraph Instrument. The simple instrument is described thus: "A case, 2X2½ inches, contains the electrical mechanism while the only thing visible is an ordinary roll of tape. The operator takes a pencil and placing the point on a sensitive plate in the opening, writes his message, and at the receiving point it is duplicated on the tape in fac-simile of the writer's own handwriting. A test of the instrument was made between Chicago and St. Paul, a distance of four hundred miles, and proved satisfactory. This invention will, doubtless, in time, do away with the Morse Alphabet.

—The opening of the large and commodious Hotel Zinzendorf, advertisement of which will be found elsewhere, removes the chief trouble from the minds of many patrons; it was impossible with our hotel facilities to comfortably accommodate all who came, but now no trouble will exist in the future. If you desire to go to the Zinzendorf, you will be only a few moments ride from the ACADEMY, and at the same time away from the noise of the town. If you desire to be in the midst of the town, the Quincy House, or the Jones House, will be ready to welcome you; and in the case of ladies desiring to find accommodations in private families, we will be willing to do our utmost to locate them comfortably. The ACADEMY will cheerfully furnish any desired information.

—The Library is again the recipient of a gift of patriotism and affection from the hands of one of our Alumnae. MARY FRIES has presented the very fine crayon portrait of Bishop John Amos Comenius, which was used in the celebration in the Moravian church, to our Library. As the pictures of the good Bishop are rare, and as this one is executed with unusual care and skill, the gift is specially appreciated. And, by the way, would it be wrong to remark just here that there are so many, many ways in which the old Alma Mater could be made to rejoice if this spirit of patriotism which Miss FRIES has shown would be emulated in other directions. There are other ways of aiding our growing work than in gifts of money. All glory to those who are aiding in the Scholarship Fund, and welcome will be the efforts of those who supplement this work, as has been done in the gift of the portrait alluded to.

To the Alumnae Society.

The members of the Executive Committee and several Vice-Presidents of the S. F. A. Alumnae Association, were called together on the 23rd ult., to make arrangements for the approaching annual meeting.

All present were very enthusiastic to have it as attractive and interesting as possible. Mr. CLEWELL informed us there will be no other Commencement exercises during the day on Wednesday, May 25th, and to our delight, offered the Academy Chapel for the place of the meeting. The Moravian Chapel, where we met several years, has become too small, and very warm, crowded as it has been. And we are very sure that every alumna would prefer to meet her friends in the place hallowed by the sacred memory of the many earnest prayers that there arose to Heaven for a blessing on the young hearts so often gathered within its walls.

We cordially invite every alumna, that can possibly do so, to meet with us in the Academy Chapel on Wednesday, May 25th, at 2:30 P. M.

The meeting will be of a threefold character, viz.: the opening exercises followed by personal greetings from old scholars, and brief letters from others who cannot be present.

The second part will be devoted to business, and the special business will be to promote our pet project, "The Scholarship Endowment Fund," and we hope many will be ready to offer helpful suggestions, and that the enthusiasm manifested last year will be still greater in this meeting.

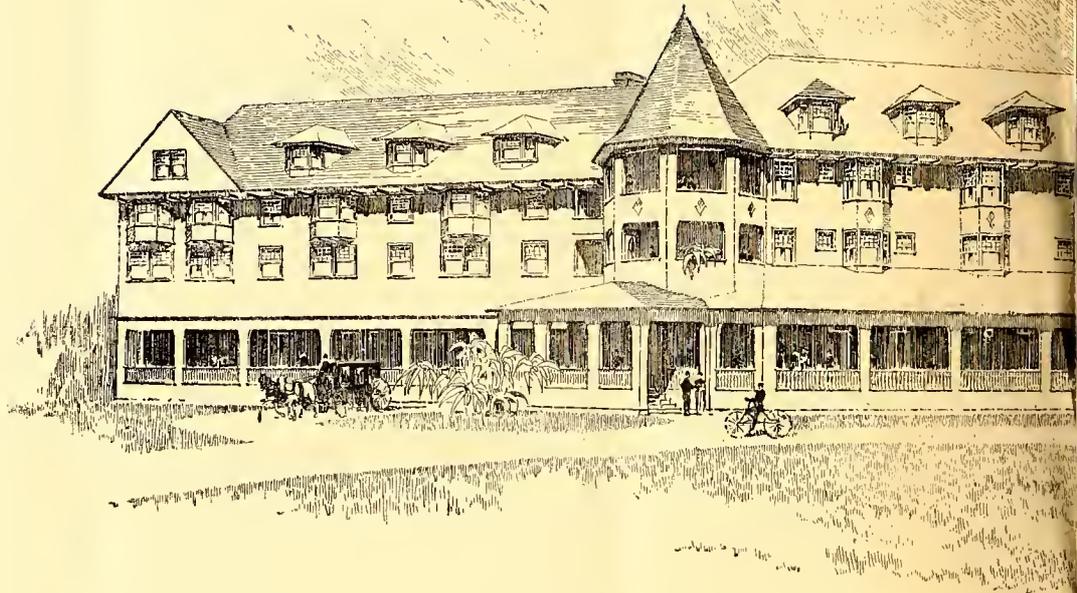

The third part will be of a social character in connection with the Lovefeast. The seats in this hall can be so arranged that members can move from one place to another without inconvenience to others. In previous meetings old friends would get a glimpse of each other, but no opportunity to exchange a word.

The closing exercises will be conducted by BISHOP RONDTHALER.

Miss M. E. VOGLER,
President.

—We are indebted to our day pupils for wild flowers. They have made excursions into the neighboring woods bringing back with them all our early spring flowers, Hepaticas, Anemorus, Houstonias, Trailing Arbutus and many more.

"THE ZINZENDORF" WINSTON-SALEM

The above is an accurate picture of The Zinzendorf, the new hotel just completed and furnished and to be opened to the public on May 18th, 1892. It is situated on the property of the West End Land Company, just three minutes ride by the electric cars from the railway stations, and the cars pass the doors of the Salem Female Academy, the churches, and principal stores. The situation is commanding, commodious and convenient.

It is owned by the West End Land Company, under the management of Mr. J. M. Smith, formerly of the New York Hotel. The rates are as inexpensive as the market will allow, and range from $1.00 to $2.00 per room, according to location and choice of room.

NDORF."

, N. C.

The hotel has over a hundred handsome, light and well ventilated rooms and large parlors. The piazzas and corridors are broad and beautiful. Each floor is furnished with public and private baths of hot and cold water, and the entire house is heated by steam on the most approved plan. It is furnished with elegance, and its domestic arrangements are as near perfect as art can make them.

Company, and will be ugene S. Boswell, for-Manhattan Club. The perior accommodations
$5 per day, according

The Leslie-Wilde Visit.

The Mrs. Frank Leslie-Wilde party, making its tour throughout the South, paid our Twin-City a visit, April 15th, and spent a couple of hours in the ACADEMY. The party consisted of Mrs. Frank Leslie-Wilde, Mr. William C. K. Wilde, Mrs. Minor Grisworld, proprietress of Texas Siftings; Mr. William Fuller Tufts, merchant of New York and London, and Mrs. Tufts; Col. B. S. Pardee, of the Journal of Finance, New York; Mr. L. H. Cramer, business manager of the Frank Leslie publications, and Mrs. Cramer; Mr. John W. Ryckman, Mrs. and Miss Ryckman and Mr. Wm. H. Dabney.

About 5 o'clock the party arrived, and were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL and a number of teachers. With the party were some 20 ladies and gentlemen from Winston-Salem, and the entire party made a tour of inspection throughout the buildings. Having looked into a number of the study parlors on the first and second floors, they passed to the large dormitory on the third story and Main Hall. The family system of "room-companies," and the alcove system seemed to commend itself to our friends and attracted favorable comment. The studio was next taken in and then the library. Passing down to the rear court, the party crossed to Annex Hall, inspecting that building, and finally to Park Hall, examining the Industrial Department, and gaining the view of the Park from the rear portico of Park Hall.

This completed the round and the friends adjourned to the Chapel where a lunch had been prepared. The decorations, while chaste, were very neat, and coming into the warm hall from the chill wind was welcome to all. After half an hour spent in social converse, "old Rouser," the bell, was sounded, and soon a hundred and fifty pupils trooped into the Chapel, and gave Mrs. Leslie and the other friends an additional token of welcome. Mrs. Leslie addressed the pupils from the rostrum, reciting several poems, and Mrs. Grisworld was also called for. Several of the gentlemen too, made a few remarks, and in fact the "meeting" could have been prolonged to the satisfaction of all had not Col. Pardee positively declared that "time was up," and the party must "move on."

Passing down to the Sisters' House, this venerable building that has quietly given so pleasant a home to many during the more than a century of its history, was the object of much interest. Soon all were in the carriages, the word was given, and the party drove rapidly around the square and up Main Street. The visit was certainly a very pleasant one, and we trust the impressions received by the visitors were as pleasant as those made upon the pupils and faculty of the ACADEMY.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Mrs. SCHMOLCK returned to her home in Canada end of March.

—LENA WELBORNE was called home by the illness of a relative.

—The Hesperian Society is preparing for an entertainment which will be given in the near future.

—The members of the faculty were tendered the annual reception by Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL, on the evenings of April 1st and 4th.

—The Sewing department has furnished us a very interesting contribution, which will appear next month.

—The address of Mrs. CLARA D. MCLEAN, as given in the February ACADEMY, should have been 404, W. 23rd Street.

—The Choral class is industriously preparing for the Messiah's choruses which will form a part of Wednesday night's Concert, Commencement Week.

—Members of the Alumnae Society who have not subscribed to THE ACADEMY will favor us by sending their subscription. This is the only financial requirement for membership.

—The Euterpean Society has had a number of very interesting debates. THE ACADEMY would be pleased to have items from the Society regularly furnished for its columns.

—The telegraphy class in the ACADEMY is doing good work, striving eagerly to reach the desired point—twenty words a minute—which must be gained in order to secure a diploma at Commencement. The pupils average sixteen to eighteen words a minute and several times nineteen or twenty have been taken, an occasion hailed with joy. A few more weeks of faithful labor will accomplish the work.

—The Salem Literary Society gave a public debate in the ACADEMY CHAPEL some weeks since, which was a novel and instructive occasion. All enjoyed the exercises, and the debaters did themselves and the society great credit.

—The concert given by the Salem Orchestra in March, was like all the efforts put forth by this organization, a success as to merit. We regret to note that the evening was an exceedingly inclement one, and this reduced the attendance.

—The Choral Society, under the direction of Prof. BROWN, gave a very enjoyable concert in the ACADEMY CHAPEL, end of March. The proceeds, which amounted to a very handsome sum, were turned over to the officers of the Twin-City Hospital.

—A number of friends have visited the school during the past month. The ACADEMY has not been able to keep trace of all, but we mention among others Mr. Garrett, Mrs. Lardner, Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Nimocks, Miss Thornton, Mrs. Chisman, Mr. Millis.

—The Industrial department had charge of the making of the light Spring Calithenic suits which were used in the drill, and will later figure in the games in the Park. It was a heavy task, but the work was well and quickly (and we might add) economically done.

—The Post-Graduates have been studying Surveying for some time, and the Seniors have just taken up the branch. A fine new compass has just been received from Queen's, and soon the sound of "down," "down," will be heard by those living in the neighborhood. The class will devote a number of days to field work.

—Mr. CLEWELL made a trip to Wilmington end of March, and secured the Kuri Cottage, at Carolina Beach, for the summer. It is the plan at present to open the cottage, early in June, and give every member of the faculty who may desire to visit the ocean this year, the opportunity of spending ten days or two weeks at this delightful sea side resort. We trust that many of the pupils, who are making plans for the summer, will include in their programme Carolina Beach. The hotel accommodations will be good and reasonable as to charges, and no better class of visitors can be found anywhere than those who fill the mile of cottages stretched along this grand and magnificent shore.

Dr. Wm. Hall, of the International, New York, delivered two very interesting, amusing and at the same time instructive lectures in the ACADEMY CHAPEL, April 12th and 13th at 3:30 P. M. We hope to have the Doctor with us again at some time in the future. The subjects were "Happy Homes," and "What is a Man?"

—The spring trade in the Bookkeeping department opened very encouragingly, and the merchants are realizing great profits. The increased interest shown by the scholars in their work is due largely to their comfortable new quarters. Also to the pretty clock, a present from Mr. C. to the class, which shows them how swiftly time is passing, bringing nearer the day of diplomas. The class is now preparing for the final practical test sets, and will begin them immediately after Easter.

—The Palm Sunday services were unusually interesting and impressive. The pulpit was decorated with several magnificent specimens of Palms, and other plants. Bishop RONDTHALER presided. On this occasion and on the following Thursday, 57 persons united with the church, making public profession of Christianity. From our school ranks were many of those whose parents reside in Salem and Winston. From the list of boarders 3 made profession, CARRIE ROLLINS, FRANCES CREIGHT and ALICE BRVAN.

—Pupils in Botany have been supplied with Nelson's Herbarium and Plant Descriptions, a neat portfolio, 7½x10 inches, containing space for fifty specimens. A sheet of four pages is devoted to each specimen. The first page gives space for a description of the plant. The pressed flower is mounted on the third page. Lula Grogan has mounted the first specimen, Sanguinaria Canadensis, a complete plant—roots, rootstock, leaf and flower. The work has been fairly started by others, and proves both interesting and instructive, increasing in a great degree love for flowers.

—Some time since, our teacher told us that Mr. CLEWELL generally takes the scholars in Telegraphy to visit the telegraph office in Winston. Acting on the impulse of the moment, we immediately "attacked" Mr. CLEWELL and he very kindly consented to go with us on March 21st. At the appointed hour ETHEL MORRIS, LEONIE TERRELL and the writer, accompanied by Miss SALLIE SHAFFNER, the teacher in Telegraphy; Miss LOU SHAFFNER, who also has charge of one of the Commercial branches, and Mr. CLEWELL, walked up to the telegraph office.

Mr. Tise, the operator, very kindly showed us through the office, then asked if we would not like to talk with some one at one of the other offices. As bashfulness is one of the characteristics of all school girls, we, of course, said "no" very emphatically, but Mr. Tise proposed that we should talk with a lady in Durham, and Mr. CLEWELL readily consenting to that proposition, finally persuaded one of us to send her a message. We spent some time talking with her, and doubtless would have staid longer if some other office had not "cut us off."

But "time and tide wait for no man," and as we wanted to visit the telephone office before going back to the ACADEMY, we thanked the young man for his kindness, and resumed our walk. The telephone office is situated on the corner of Liberty and Fourth streets. Here we spent some time very pleasantly examining the working of the telephone and talking with Mr. PFOHL at the ACADEMY. There were numerous calls while we were there, though the busiest part of the day was over. The gentleman who has charge of the office, told us that he had about 1,500 calls a day.

This was the first time that several of us had been in a telephone office, and it was especially interesting to us. After staying as long as our time would permit, we bade good evening, and taking the street-car, reached the ACADEMY just in time for supper. We all enjoyed the afternoon exceedingly.

AGNES COLEMAN.

Alumnae Scholarship Endowment.

Mrs. E. Carmichael,	$ 1.00
Miss Carrie Crist,	50
Miss Flora Lott,	50
Mrs. Dr. Shaffner,	10.00
Miss Etta Shaffner,	5.00
Mrs. Emma Moore Garrity,	5.00
Miss Sophie Butner,	1.00
Mr. J. W. Fries,	10.00
Miss Rondthaler,	1.00
Mrs. R. P. Lineback,	1.00
Miss Lizzie Lineback,	1.00
Interest on bond,	12.50
Previously acknowledged,	630.85
Total,	$679.35

Subscriptions Received.

Mr. Samuel A. Goodman, Tyler, Texas; Miss Pamilla Goodman, Garden Valley, Texas; Miss Mamie Thomas, Thomasville, N. C.; Miss Agnes Brownson, Cuero, Texas; Mrs. M. E. Gibson, Lowryville, S. C.; Miss Ella Hinshaw, Winston, N. C.; Miss Sophie Butner, Salem, N. C.

Married.

GARDNER—PARKS. On January 5th, 1892 Mr. J. B. GARDNER, of Saulston, N. C., to Miss Cora Parks of La Grange, N. C.

WILLIAMSON—SHEPHERD. On March 23rd, Mr. Chas. WILLIAMSON, to Miss BETTIE SHEPHERD, both of Winston, N. C.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only, and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

—I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!

1882.

- 5589 MARY A. ALFORD. — 1866.
Paisley Alford.
5590 EMMA McRAE. — 1869.
Alex McRae, Laurinburg, N. C.
5591 QUEEN E. MARTIN. — 1865.
John O. Martin, Eupatula, Ala.
5592 ALICE NUNNALLY. — 1892.
John H. Nunnally, Ruffin, N. C.

1883.

- 5593 CAMILLA ALFORD. — 1868.
D. H. Alford, Warrington, Ala.
5594 IDA S. BURDEN. — 1867.
W. H. Burden, Macon, Ga.
5595 LILLIAN LEHMAN. — 1867.
O' J. Lehman, Bethania, N. C.
5596 FLORA MCKAY. — 1867.
David McKay, Plainview, S. C.
5597 REBECCA JANE HANKS. — 1865.
G. W. Hanks, Cold Springs, Va.
5598 ANNIE CARR CLARK. — 1868.
W. T. Clark, Danville, Va.
5599 S. BRYAN. —
5600 MARY BESSIE PEGRAM. — 1868.
Wm. W. Pegram, Charlotte, N. C.
5601 BESSIE HOLMES. — 1869.
W. L. Holmes, Salisbury, N. C.
5602 LIZZIE STOWE. — 1867.
H. D. Stowe, Charlotte, N. C.
5603 NANNIE ALEXANDER. — 1866.
John A. Alexander, Charlotte, N. C.
5604 JULIANA WALKER. — 1877.
L. J. Walker, Charlotte, N. C.
5605 ALICE C. JONES. — 1869.
David Jones, Fayetteville, N. C.
5606 ETTA HARGETT. — 1869.
Mrs. Ida Fulford, New Bern, N. C.
5607 IDA V. PITTMAN. — 1869.
J. A. Pittman, Swainsboro, N. C.
5608 MATTIE EDWARDS — 1869.

WANTED

A position as Book keeper, in some Southern State.
Address, "A. L.," ACADEMY,
Salem, N. C.
March, '92-31.

WANTED

A position as Soprano in a Church Choir, (Episcopal preferred.) Address, "D. A.," ACADEMY,
Salem, N. C.
March, '92-31.

GRANDEST DISPLAY

— OF —

TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS,
LADIES' WORK BASKETS,
FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY
GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one I will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxydized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER,
JEWELER,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,

SALEM, N. C.
Sept. '91-13.

THE SALEM STEAM BROOM WORKS,

Main Street, Salem, N. C.,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO., PROPRIETORS,

MANUFACTURERS OF

PARLOR, HEARTH, WHISK, STABLE AND FACTORY BROOMS,

which we offer the trade at lowest prices.

Soliciting your orders we are

Yours truly,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.

Salem, N. C., September, 1891.

→* MISS EMMA L. LEINBACH, *←
(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANOS HANDLED.

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about

$75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up.

155 Lexington Avenue New York.

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her for responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal,
Salem Female Academy

Salem, N. C., Feb. 11, 1889.

The Student's Series of Histories.

Edited by WILLIAM SMITH, LL. D.

Each one of these serviceable and attractive volumes is acknowledged to be the best summary in our language of the particular branch of knowledge to which it belongs.

Ancient History: A Manual of Ancient History, from the Earliest Times to the Fall of the Western Empire. 636 pp. Price $1.25.

The Christian Church, I: The History of the Christian Church during the First Ten Centuries, by PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 618 pp. Price, $1.50.

The Christian Church, II: The History of the Christian Church during the Middle Ages. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 700 pp. Price, $1.50.

The East: The Ancient History of the East, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of Alexander the Great. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. Illustrated, 650 pp. Price $1.25.

England: A History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Revolution of 1688. 808 pp. $1.50.

England (CONSTITUTIONAL): The Constitutional History of England. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 748 pp. Price, $1.25.

England (QUEENS): Lives of the Queens of England, from the Norman Conquest. By AGNES STRICKLAND. Illustrated. 682 pp. Price $1.25.

France: A History of France, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire in 1852. Illustrated. 730 pp. Price $1.25.

Germany: A History of Germany, from the Earliest Times. By CHARLTON T. LEWIS. 800 pp. $1.50.

Greece: A History of Greece, from the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. 704 pp. $1.25.

Greece (GENERAL): A General History of Greece, from the Earliest Period to the Death of Alexander the Great. By GEORGE W. COX, M. A. 710 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome: A History of Rome, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By H. G. LIDDELL, D. D. 768 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome (GENERAL): A General History of Rome. B. C. 753—A. D. 476. By CHARLES MERIVALE, D. D. 702 pp. Price, $1.25.

Roman Empire: The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By EDWARD GIBSON. Abridged. 678 pp. Price $1.25.

Middle Ages: View of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 708 pp. Price, $1.25.

Modern Europe: A History of Modern Europe, By RICHARD LODGE. 772 pp. Price, $1.25.

New Testament: The New Testament History, With Maps and Woodcuts. 780 pp. Price $1.25.

Old Testament: The Old Testament History, from the Creation to the Return of the Jews from Captivity. With Maps and Woodcuts. 716 pp. Price, $1.25.

A complete catalogue of School and College Text Books will be forwarded on request.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

Franklin Square, New York.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,
SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

The 90th Annual Session begins August 27th, 1891. Register for last year 35¢. Special features—The Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Commercial and Industrial Studies.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

DAVIS SCHOOL.

Military Boarding School

FOR BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

Full preparation for any College or for Business. Healthy location; fine climate; mild winters; excellent buildings; Cadet Cornet Band; Cadet Orchestra; Resident Surgeon. No Charge for Medical Attention. No Extra Charge for Languages or Sciences. Department of Art. Full Course in Telegraphy. VERY LOW RATES. For Register with full particulars address

COL. A. C. DAVIS, Sup't.,
WINSTON, N. C.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country

All the leading novelties, such as:

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in

Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

The following line of Corsets can always be found in our stock:

The celebrated C. B. Corset in 3 grades.

Thompson's Glove Fitting Corset.

Dr. Warner's Health Corset.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corset.

Madame Melville's Corset.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,

has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111. Jan. 1892. Phone 111.

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware, CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't.
Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't
Fayetteville, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
Salem Female Academy.

WHY

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway

is the BEST LINE for patrons from Salem, N. C., to Arkansas and Texas?

It is the Only Line that runs from Memphis to Arkansas and Texas Two Trains Daily.

Road Bed and Equipment are first-class. Sure connection by all lines from the East, and when sufficient to justify a Special Pullman Palace Car or Day Coach will be furnished for the exclusive use of the party, with an agent to escort to destination.

The same arrangements can be made to return from Texas or Arkansas to the School. For complete Itinerary of Route, address

A. A. GALLAGHER, Southern Pass. Agt.
103 Read House, Chattanooga, Tenn.

H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

A NICE LINE OF
OIL STOVES,
AT THE "BIG COFFEE POT,"
AT BOTTOM PRICES.

Our latest novelties are:

Pat Flue Stoppers, Picnic Mugs,
Star Safety Razors, Pie Lifters,
Perfection Cake and Pie Tins and Egg
Beaters, all at very reasonable figures.

We solicit a share of your patronage.

Very respectfully,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.,

NORTH.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrodsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 25 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 11 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England Points and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Baltimore, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

SOUTH

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas; New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California. Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas Points, Anniston, Columbus, Montgomery, Mobile, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination.
For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION CHAS. H. MILLS, Ticket Agt. C. S. BARRETT, T. F. A. Depot.
D. J. MULLANEY, Div. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
C. C. HARVEY, CINCINNATI, O. D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA
SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Pre-eminently the Teachers' and Pupils' Route.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us, patronized, subsequently, any other line.

This is the only line from Memphis running Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer in Memphis from Eastern Lines.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

L. V. & E. T. BLUM,
BOOKSELLERS, STATIONERS AND PRINTERS,
Salem, N. C.

Print THE ACADEMY, CATALOGUE, HOW TO GET TO SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY and other publications issued by the Institution.

"SOLD ON MERIT."
THE LIGHT-RUNNING "DOMESTIC"

IS SOLD BY

W. P. ORMSBY,
TWIN-CITY MUSIC HOUSE,
WINSTON, N. C.

Do you want a Piano?
Do you want an Organ?
Do want any Musical Instrument?
W. P. ORMSBY
is agent for Stieff's Celebrated Pianos, and Loring & Blake's Palace Organs.

Liberal allowance for old instruments in exchange.

Call or write to
W. P. ORMSBY, Twin-City Music House,
WINSTON, N. C.

Oct. 1891-ty.

A. SUSSMANN 232 6th Ave. N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION	ADDRESS

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIV.

SALEM, N. C., MAY, 1892.

NUMBER 126.

The Fountain and Promenade.

Our illustration presents to our readers a very pleasing view from the rear porch of Main Hall. The Fountain has been changed at least as to its surroundings. The wooden railing has been removed and in its stead a rockery and border of ferns. Beside it the old pupil will recognize the Weeping Willow tree planted by Principal ROBERT DE SCHWEINITZ, and just in the rear of the brick chapel building are the two sycamores said to have been planted exercises varies little from year to year. Still the memories clinging to the Holy Season are so sacred in the case of many of our Alumnæ, that we feel certain that a sketch of the Easter services, 1892, will be welcome.

Beginning with the Palm Sunday service, and ending with the Easter Sunday celebration, there ran through all of the meetings an earnestness and a heartiness that was quite marked. On the first day named above, large and beautiful palms and ferns decorated the pulpit platform very crowded, but at the same time very enjoyable occasion.

The chief occasion of interest, however, centered about the joyous and gladsome Easter Sunday celebration. Already at 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning, the solemn stillness of the holy day was broken by the sweet strains of music as the message was conveyed in this manner from one portion of the town to the other that the time for the celebration of the resurrection of the Messiah was at hand. At about five o'clock the church bell rang out the call by Bishop JACOBSON. In the rear of the picture the broad promenade, where perhaps you have walked many a time "to the gate," and where to-day scores of girls enjoy the "breath of fresh air," after meals and during recess. We trust the reproduction of this interesting spot may be a source of pleasure to many of our friends.

The Easter Celebration.

In giving a sketch of the Easter celebration, it is impossible to introduce any new or strange features, since the order of and Bishop RONDTHALER on this occasion and on the following Thursday received 57 new members into the church as a result of his own earnest labors and those of his assistant, Rev. JOHN MCCUISTON. During the week the reading services were held from night to night, and on Maundy Thursday, Good Friday and Great Sabbath during the day time as well as at night. A large number of the pupils at the Academy communed with the congregation at the Thursday communion service. The school attended the Great Sabbath Love Feast, also, which was a for all to gather at the house of God, and ere long an immense throng of members of the church and of friends was present.

"The Lord is risen, the Lord is risen indeed," was proclaimed, and after a few moments spent in prayer and song the procession moved up Church street. It was an impressive sight to see the nearly 600 young people in line,—the Home Sunday School leading, then the pupils of the ACADEMY, and then the Davis Cadets,—finally the many hundreds of people forming the congregation. The antiphonal rendering of the instrumental music as the procession moved forward was very pleasing indeed. As the noble avenue of cedars was entered, the bright clouds were tinged with the ruddiest morning glow, and before the sun had risen all had passed along the hard, smooth walk and had entered the sacred precinct of "God's acre." It was estimated that at least 5,500 were present, and a solemn hush pervaded the entire assembly as the Bishop, under the shadow of the venerable cedars, continued the prayers of the Easter morning service. The young people joined in the hymns with commendable zeal and earnestness, and only those whose hearts were closed to feelings of serious impressions failed to feel a throb of sympathy.

But the morning service is over. All had repaired to their various homes, and several hours had passed. Between 10 and 11 o'clock the church bell again calls the worshipers together, and could you have been present, dear reader, in the Moravian Church on that morning, you would have had old and sacred memories vividly revived. The first note of the organ proclaimed the resurrection spirit of the occasion. The large choir, assisted by the Salem Orchestra, under the able direction of Prof. SCHMOLCK, added to the wave of feeling abroad in the immense throng, as they sang with peculiar force and power, The pulpit scene, too, was a striking one. A large cross of cedar wood, over which were displayed in gilt letters the words, was almost embowered in beautiful Easter lillies, ferns and rare plants. From this tastefully decorated pulpit, and following the preparation made by the music, Bishop RONDTHALER delivered a strong and eloquent sermon, using as his text the words "I know that my Redeemer liveth." At the close of the service as the congregation was dispersing, Mr. Peterson, the organist, invited Prof. LINEBACK to render a selection of music, which he did in full accord with the occasion.

"THE LORD IS RISEN,"

During the day, many hundreds of people visited the grave yard, in order to enjoy the profuse floral decorations on the graves of loved ones. The day was cool and pleasant, and this helped to swell the number of visitors.

In the evening the closing service was held, and the Easter of 1892 was a thing of the past.

Doubtless many old pupils will peruse the above sketch, and will vividly recall the Easter spent in Salem; perhaps one year ago; perhaps ten years since; perhaps half a century has rolled away. But whoever the reader may be, and wherever the home may be, we trust the season brought with it pure and holy Easter joy for every one.

From the Sewing Department.

Silk is a fibrous substance produced by many insects, principally in the form of a cocoon or covering in which the creatures are enclosed and protected during the period of their principal transformation. The webs, nests, etc., formed by spiders are also of silk. But the fibres used for manufacturing purposes are exclusively produced by the mulberry silk moth of China. The silk industry originated in China and according to native records it has existed there from a very remote period. The empress Se-ling-she, wife of a famous emperor Hwang-ti, encouraged the cultivation of the mulberry tree, the rearing of the worms and the reeling of the silk. Among the Chinese the silk worm is known by the name of "si." The empress is said to have devoted herself personally to the care of silk worms and she is by many, credited with the invention of the loom. The Chinese guarded the secret of their valuable art with vigilant jealousy, and there is no doubt that many centuries passed before the culture spread beyond the country of its origin. One of the most ancient books of Japanese history, the Nihongi, states that towards 300 A. D., some Koreans were sent from Japan to China to engage competent people to teach the art of weaving and preparing silk goods. They brought with them four Chinese girls, who instructed the court and the people in the art of plain and figured weaving, and in honor of these pioneer silk weavers a temple was erected in the province of Setsu. According to a tradition, the eggs of the insects and the seed of the mulberry tree were carried to India by a Chinese princess, concealed in the lining of her head-dress.

At its first metamorphosis it produces a caterpillar, then bombylius and lastly chrysalis, all these changes take place within six months. From this animal women separate and reel off the cocoons and afterwards spin them. It is said the silk was first spun in the island of Cos, by Pamphile, daughter of Plates.

Towards the beginning of the Christian era raw silk began to form an important and costly item, among the prized products of the East which come to Rome. Under the care of the Greeks the silk worm took kindly to its Western home, and the textures of Byzantium became famous. Into England silk manufacture was introduced during the reign of Henry VI. The moth wings are short and weak, the fore pair are falcate and the hind pair do not reach to the end of the body. The larva is hairless of an ashy grey or cream color, and attains to a length of from 3 to 3½ inches. SUSIE WRIGHT.

—The Union Republican has the following hearty and friendly words to say of our Institution in a recent issue :

"Eighty-nine years is a long period of time, and during the interval many changes have taken place in our towns, State and nation. During all these years, however, that famous institution of learning, SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, has continued its sessions consecutively and stands to-day upon the eve of its 89th annual birthday, the oldest Female College in the South, and among the most thorough in this broad land of ours. Over 10,000 Alumnae have left its halls to grace, elevate and make happy and bright thousands of homes all over the Union and we look upon the ACADEMY and the noble work it has and is still accomplishing with pride, veneration and respect, and as a great factor for good to humanity, for it has truthfully been said 'that the hand that rocks the cradle rules the destiny of nations.'

"It is also gratifying to note that the session soon to close has been successful, even more so than any of its predecessors. Over 300 pupils have been enrolled, the health of both faculty and pupils excellent, and although times have been close, and particularly so in the Southern States, even financially, there is every reason for congratulation.

"Let it also be remembered that while the ACADEMY is venerable in point of years, it is abreast of the times in every branch of modern education and we have but to mention some of the special departments, viz : telegraphy, commercial, stenography, dress-making, cooking, needlework, surveying, etc., to verify the assertion.

"For the Commencement Week, May 22nd to 26th, every preparation is being made."

—Saturday evening, April 16th, a number of the pupils gathered in the Laboratory and Mr. CLEWELL read the latter portion of Ben Hur, accompanying the same with Stereopticon views of the arrest, trial, crucifixion and burial of Christ.

—The following letter was received by THE ACADEMY, from the Mrs. Frank Leslie party whose visit we spoke of in our last issue:

On board private Car Dazy Crocket, en route for New York:

SATURDAY EVENING, April 15, 1892.

Conforming to a suggestion from Mrs. Frank Leslie, we the members of the party organized ourselves into a meeting for the recording our sense of deep obligation to the many who have made this journey most exceptionally delightful. The memories of our experience of true, genuine southern hospitality will linger within us during our lives with the sweet fragrance of their flower-laden country.

* * * * *

To the dear warmhearted friends of Winston-Salem, we pause for inspiration of words to express how deeply into our heart of hearts the wonderfully touching welcome made. We were told we were welcome, but we needed not the telling. We felt at home, and most thoroughly enjoyed our stay. Our entertainment at the Club, so cordially given, with words of genuine ring; our drive through the beautiful Twin-City, revealing surprises at the hitherto unheralded natural beauty of the scenery; the wonderful elaborate and massive new hotel its magnificent situation was a revelation and thoroughly enjoyed. We were also charmed with our visit to the historical grounds of old Salem, and were deeply affected by all so carefully shown and described. Our visit to the Moravian ACADEMY was especially interesting; not one of us but was deeply impressed with the exceptional excellence of its situation, its history and its management. The lovely entertainment given at the school, the unaffected, amiable ways of the superintendent, teachers and scholars have all combined to make a powerful and lasting impression.

Our thanks are due to Messrs. P. H. Hanes & Co., and R. J. Reynolds, for a thoroughly enjoyable time in the tobacco factories, and for the souvenirs of our visit.

We shall always bear in grateful and peculiar remembrance the endorsement of the First National Bank, through its President and Directors. The opportunity afforded us to examine into its affairs results in our report that their capital of hospitality is unimpaired, and that we found an immense surplus in the art of dispensing it.

Our day at Winston-Salem was most memorable.

WM. FULLER TUFTS, Chairman,
(Mrs.) FRANK LESLIE,
W. C. K. WILDE,
Mr. & Mrs. J. W. RYCKMAN,
Miss B. RYCKMAN,
Mrs. A. M. GRISWOLD,
Mr. & Mrs. L. H. CRAMER,
Mrs. WM. F. TUFTS,
B. S. PARDEE.

Correspondence.

—We were very glad to hear from one of the girls of '89 recently and to learn that she hoped to be here at Commencement.

It has been a long while since I heard from you and I shall assume the pleasant duty of breaking the silence. The three years that I have spent away from school have passed pleasantly and quickly. It seems but yesterday that I was a school girl at SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, and under your kindly guardianship.

My mind was constantly reverting to Salem on Easter day, and I so much wished to be with you and enjoy again the interesting and impressive services at that time. But I hope it will not be long until I see dear old Salem. This is the re-union-year, I believe, for the class of '89 and BIRT and I hope to be with you if nothing prevents.

I notice from THE ACADEMY, how many improvements have been made, and it makes me feel just a little bit jealous of the present pupils. I met an old Salem pupil not long ago, and enjoyed a lengthy chat with her. She never tired of asking questions about the ACADEMY, the teachers, the improvements &c. She is quite an old lady now, and says the memory of her school days becomes sweeter to her as her age advances. She was there I think in 1840, and is now Mrs. Dr. Dodson. She was formerly Miss BELLE GRAVES.

I know you are quite busy now preparing for Commencement, and I will not take too much of your time. Please write to me as soon as you can find a little leisure.

BIRT joins me in sending much love. Please present our kindest regards to the other teachers.

Affectionately,

MARY FITZ PATRICK.

Mt. Pleasant, Texas.

—Our next is from a pupil 9 years ago, MARY FROST, now Mrs. John Maxcy.

The institution over which you preside is my Alma Mater, as I lived within her walls for four years without leaving. So did also my sister, hence my warm attachment to it, for I left my home a little child. Salem was indeed my home, and it has ever been my desire to return. I wish to educate my niece, and would like you to send me a catalogue that I may learn terms &c. Will you need any additions to your corps of teachers for the ensuing year,

Should you not be in need of any I might be enabled, to procure a place either in the Sister's or Widows House, as these places were termed in ante-bellum days. Can you refer me the heads of these establishments, I had the misfortune to lose my husband more than a year ago. My fifteen year old boy is off at boarding school and I am desolate and lonely. Your speedy reply will afford me much gratification.

Most respectfully,

Mrs. JOHN MAXCY, nee MARY FROST.
Providence, Sumter Co., S. C.

—LAURA WHITNER gives us some items of interest about her sister's wedding.

I suppose you have heard about the wedding which was the all absorbing theme for a long while. That was no more than could be expected, however, for it makes quite a difference to have an elder sister go out of the home circle. She is keeping house in a pretty home of her own about a mile beyond us. Mr. Chase is in town at his business all day. I expect she misses the large family circle from which she went, almost as much as we miss her.

After a few weeks warm weather we had some severe cold last week, and the orange trees and blossoms, have been considerably damaged by the heavy frost.

With the first breath of spring my thoughts turn to Salem, our walks and the Easter season. How I would enjoy being with you then. But I cannot, and so must remain your affectionate pupil in Florida.

LAURA WHITNER.

Fort Reed, Fla.

—The Republican, of Winston, says:

"A MOST EXCELLENT SELECTION.—It will give the citizens of both communities and the thousands of patrons and friends of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY pleasure to learn that Principal CLEWELL has secured the services of Rev. Walter W. Moore, D. D., of Hampden-Sidney University, Va., to preach the Baccalaureate Sermon before the Senior Class of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY at the Commencement exercises, embracing May 22nd-25th. Dr. Moore is both a scholar and an orator and his acceptance is a matter of genuine congratulation."

—From the Fayetteville Observer, some time since, we clip the following:

"Although nearly two months are yet to elapse, the faculty of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY are busily engaged in the preparation of the programme for the celebration of its 89th anniversary. It is a grand old school, and its Commencement is a big thing requiring a good margin of time."

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., MAY, 1892.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—Monday, May 2nd, Mr. CLEWELL announced the names of the three pupils who read essays on Thursday morning of Commencement. They are as follows:

Salutatorian—EMMA KAPP.
Class Essay—BLANCHE WOOD.
Valedictorian—AVA STROUP.

COMMENCEMENT.

Programme, Hotel and Railroad Matters.

The present number of THE ACADEMY will reach our readers only a few days before the close of the present year, and as we hope to have many of our friends and patrons with us, a few words in regard to the preparations will enable you to enter more fully into sympathy with us. Of the sermon on Sunday we need not say anything, since the mere mention of the name of the Rev. W. W. Moore, D. D., is a guarantee of the rich feast of intellectual and spiritual good things awaiting us on that occasion.

The Seniors' are as usual working hard on their essays and these short, crisp, carefully prepared theses, introducing as they do each successful member in turn to the audience, will be the feature of Monday and Tuesday evenings. Music of course will be added to lend its charm to the occasion.

The Art Exhibit will take place at 2 P. M. Tuesday, and promises to be unusually interesting. The School Chapel will be used, and in addition to the special work in painting, drawing and embroidery, the various other departments, commercial and industrial will be represented. The place in which it will be held affords good opportunity for special decorations, so that in this direction we look for something in advance of past years.

Tuesday evening at 9 P. M. the annual reception will be tendered the "workers" in connection with commencement. And how could commencement be what it is without these workers from town? The newspaper representatives, the Orchestra, the male singers, the ushers, and many others,—to be without any one class would seriously affect the occasion, and it is an inspiring thing to thus gather together the outside forces united in up-building the interests of the Institution.

The Alumnae meeting has been arranged with special care. This too will be held in the ACADEMY Chapel, where a cool and comfortable hour is assured for all. The decorations are in the hands of a special committee, and the programme has been specially and carefully planned. Besides the intellectual portion, or reading of papers, and the business matters, a social feature will be introduced, when friend may meet and converse with friend and a good time had. We also note the class reunion ('89 if we mistake not) and trust other classes will follow their example.

The Grand Concert will be a grand concert in the true sense of the word. If you could hear the one hundred and more voices and instruments under Professor SCHMOLCK's direction as they render the Inflammatus or the Messiah choruses, you would agree with us that this feature of Commencement will be a grand success. Besides the vocal and instrumental music Miss SCRIBER will introduce elocution into the programme.

Then comes the last number, the Commencement proper; we note the address of the President of the State University Dr. GEO. T. WINSTON, and who has ever attended one of those touching Commencement morning occasions without being vividly impressed with the same. The profusion of spring flowers; the happy faces of the successful pupils; the class gathered for the last time as a class; the diplomas in hand, the farewell tremor in the voice, the tear often standing in the eye—for are not these young persons to be absolutely separated for all time,—all these make Commencement a time of joy, but of very tender joy.

From this glance at the exercises we turn to the matter of railroads and hotels. Mr. Turk has written us as follows:

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 28th, 1892.
Mr. JOHN H. CLEWELL,
Principal Salem Female Academy,
Winston-Salem, N. C.

Dear Sir:

Referring to your letter a few days since, I beg to advise that account above occasion, we will sell tickets from all points on our line within the State of North Carolina to Winston-Salem, and return, at rates named in Tariff 3, circular 3085. Tickets to be sold May 20th to 25th inclusive, limited returning May 31st, 1892.

Will have local notices of these rates appear in the leading daily papers.

I now have the matter up, and will endeavor to arrange to have reduced rates authorized from Southern Passenger Association points to Winston-Salem, and return, account your Commencement,
Very truly,
W. A. TURK, A.G.P.A.

From this it appears that a distance of 100 miles, round trip will be $ 4.50
200 " " " " " 7.00
300 " " " " " 10.50

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad and the Norfolk & Western Railway have indicated their intention to give reduced rates, but at present date no word has been sent to us. In order to make the matter clear, we would suggest that if your agent has not received instructions and you live on any of the following lines, write or get your agent to telegraph to any of the following persons:

W. A. TURK, Ass't Gen'l Pass. Agent
Richmond & Danville Railroad Company,
Charlotte, N. C.
W. B. BEVILL, Gen'l Pass. Agent, Norfolk
& Western Railway, Roanoke, Va.
W. E. KYLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent, Cape
Fear & Yadkin Valley, Railway, Fayetteville, N. C.

If any information in regard to reduced rates is desired, communicate at once with one of the above parties.

In regard to hotels, the matter is now settled. No more crowding, no more need to sleep in halls or on cots. The Hotel Zinzendorf, the Hotel Quincy, the Jones House and a number of private families will be able to accommodate all who come, at rates ranging from $2 to $5 per day.

In conclusion we would say that nothing has been left undone to prepare for a pleasant occasion, and we believe all will be as successful as the plans have been carefully mapped out.

The following is the programme condensed:

Sunday, May 22nd, 11 A. M., Baccalaureate Sermon, by the Rev. W. W. MOORE, D. D., of Hampden-Sidney.

Sunday evening a service will be held in the Moravian church, at which Bishop EDWARD RONDTHALER will preside.

Monday, May 23rd, 7:45 P. M., Seniors' First Evening.

Tuesday, May 24th, 2 P. M., Art Exhibit.
7:45 P. M., Seniors' Second Evening.
9 P. M., Reception tendered those who aid in the Commencement work.

Wednesday, May 25th, 2:30 P. M., Alumnae Meeting.
7:45 P. M., Grand Concert.

Thursday, May 26th, 9 A. M., Commencement. Orator, President GEORGE TAYLOR WINSTON, LL.D., of the North Carolina State University.

The following letter, received since the above was written, explains itself :

ATLANTA, GA., May 6th, 1892.

Rev. J. H. CLEWELL,
Principal Salem Female Academy,
Salem, N. C.:

Dear Sir:

Blank form 11, properly filled and signed by you, making application for reduced rates account Commencement of Salem Female Academy, Salem, N. C., May 22-26, 1892, has been received.

I am now authorized to offer you rate of one full fare going and one-third of the highest limited fare returning, on the certificate plan, as explained in circular letter form 7, enclosed herewith for persons attending this meeting; certificates to be signed by you as Principal.

If these rates are accepted by you please advise me promptly, in order that our members may be given ample notice.

Yours very truly,
M. SLAUGHTER,
Asst. Commissioner.

First.—Each delegate or member desiring the excursion rate must purchase a first-class ticket (either limited or unlimited) to the place of meeting, for which he will pay the regular fare; and upon request the ticket agent will issue a printed certificate of purchase of the general form.

Second.—If through tickets cannot be procured at the starting point, parties will purchase to the most convenient point where such through tickets can be obtained, and repurchase through to place of meeting, requesting a certificate from the ticket agent at the point where repurchase is made.

Third.—Tickets for the return journey will be sold by the ticket agents at the place of meeting, at one-third the highest limited fare, only to those holding certificates signed by the ticket agent at point where through ticket to place of meeting was purchased, and countersigned by the Secretary or Clerk of the Association, certifying that the holder has been in regular attendance at the meeting.

Fourth.—It is very important that a certificate be procured, as it will indicate that full fare has been paid for the going journey, and that the purchaser is therefore entitled to the excursion fare returning. It will also determine the route via which the ticket for return journey should be issued.

Fifth.—Ticket Agents will be instructed that the excursion fares will not be available for the return journey, unless the holders of certificates are properly identified, as provided for in the certificate, including the statement of the Secretary or Clerk that there have been in regular attendance not less than 25 persons holding receipted certificates of the standard form.

Sixth.—The certificates are not transferable, and the signature affixed at the starting point, compared with the signature to the receipt, will enable the ticket agent to detect any attempted transfer.

Seventh.—You should be particular to notify every person desiring to secure the excursion rate that the following rule will not be deviated from under any circumstances:

"No refund of fare will be made on any account whatever, because of failure of the parties to obtain certificates."

You will observe from this rule that it will be absolutely necessary for each person to obtain a certificate from the agent where the ticket is purchased to the point where the convention is held, otherwise he will be unable to obtain the excursion rate returning, and will be obliged to pay full tariff fare both ways.

—The sale of the People's Press office by Messrs. L. V. & E. T. Blum to Messrs. Crist & Keehn marks an interesting and important transfer. The Messrs. Blum have conducted the business for many years, they having received it from their father who had spent quite a large portion of his life in upbuilding its interests. No warmer friends of the ACADEMY and of our towns exist to-day than these gentlemen, and from their establishment have appeared the various publications of the school for many years. The interest taken in the form of the publications, such as the Catalogue, Programmes, THE ACADEMY, &c., had more than what was included in the mere dollars and cents,—it showed a deep and warm patriotism. For these and for many other tokens of friendship THE ACADEMY as a paper acknowledges its obligation to these gentlemen.

One feature of the transfer, however, calls for special mention, and that is the fact that in the members of the new firm we find old, not new friends. During the ten and more years of our life as a paper, the senior member of the new firm (then foreman of Messrs. Blum's establishment) personally supervised the issue of each and every number of THE ACADEMY. In addition to this, his pen was every ready to utter a good sentiment when the weal of the school was in question, and this sterling and outspoken friendship is (alas!) sometimes wanting in directions where we would have expected it to have been found and justice would have called for it. But we wander from the subject. In this new firm of Messrs. Crist & Keehn we welcome good and tried friends, who step into the places of staunch veterans in the efforts to build up our school, our town and section. We trust that the same prosperity that has attended the old firm may attend the new. THE ACADEMY extends a farewell to the old, and offers a hearty greeting to the new!

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The vocal examinations have been in progress, and were finished last week.

—The girls who visited home at Easter returned with unusual promptness.

—Ask the 4th Room girls how to fasten eyes to false faces when the mucilage has disappeared from the room.

—LIZZIE says she will come back next year if the gardener will plant a large field of her favorite vegetable.

—The general rehearsals for the Commencement occasions are unusually successful.

—Miss LEHMAN has as usual been very busy with the preparations for the two Seniors' evenings.

—The weather has grown very warm, and hence the longing for the end of the term has also grown.

—Mrs. Dr. Dixon, of Greensboro Female College, paid us a visit recently, walking through the buildings and grounds.

—Two interesting gatherings were held in Winston last month: one in the Baptist Church, and the other in the Y. M. C. A. hall.

—It seems quite natural to see HATTIE and LIZZIE DELL SUTTON in and out of the school. Their younger sister, KATIE, is now a member of the Freshman Class.

—"You know me by my walk, you know me by my talk, you know me by my general get up," created quite a sensation at the recent entertainment. Yes, don't be uneasy; we have no difficulty in recognizing you!

—Some things are better unsaid. Scene—Professor entertaining a group of girls. After a time he remarks, "Well, I must go." Pupil, (really desirous to express her appreciation of the courtesy) earnestly replies, "O, thank you!"

—A day or two since an esteemed member of our Institution entered a store in great haste, and desiring to ascertain whether it was possible to purchase deviled crabs, electrified the merchant by hurriedly exclaiming, "Mr. Devil, have you any crabs!"

—Among the visitors to Salem during Easter, who arrived after our April ACADEMY was printed, we note the following names: Miss Davis, Charlotte, N. C.; Mr. Cheek, Hillsboro, N. C.; Col. Palmer, Richmond; Mrs. Burson and daughter, Bristol, Tenn.; Mr. Thornton and daughter, Fayetteville, N. C.

—Mr. W. C. K. Wilde while on his visit to the ACADEMY asked what method of punishment was used. Upon being told that we did not strive to punish badness but to reward goodness, he asked to see a "Golden 4." Receiving one as a memento, it was interesting to hear that later he met Miss EVANS in New York and displayed his trophy properly filled out from the ACADEMY visit.

—Several friends have visited the school during the past weeks. Among the number we note Mrs. Hewson, Mrs. Jones, Mr. Jones and Mr. Leach.

—Mr. CLEWELL visited Richmond a week or two since, being the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer while in the city. He also spent part of the time with Mr. and Mrs. Osterbind. No one can visit this beautiful and historic city without feelings of great interest, and these feelings are strengthened when he falls into the hands of such hospitable and kind friends.

—Several of our pupils have heavy hearts at this time because of death or serious sickness in their family circle. NETTIE GLENN was called home by the death of her father; BERTIE BRIDEGESS received a telegram announcing the death of a younger brother and MARY CLARK left on Saturday to watch at the bedside of her dying uncle. THE ACADEMY extends its deepest sympathy to all of these friends.

—The purchase of the Roanoke & Southern Railway, gives to our patrons and friends another means of reaching our towns, and to many sections a far more easy route. It is now an applicant for the travel to the great northern cities, while the friends living in the western portion of Virginia, and in parts of Tennessee, will also find the journey greatly shortened, and all in the South Western States can if they desire use the route. But we will let the Norfolk & Western people speak for themselves in explaining these points in a later article.

—The additional work taken up by the Library Circle is in the line of art study. The following are the topics being worked out by individual members in regard to architecture:

Architecture among Ancient Oriental Nations.

Architecture of the Greeks.

Architecture of the Roman Imperial Period.

Architecture of the Byzantine Period, 300-1000 A. D.

Architecture of the Romanesque Period, 1000-1200 A. D.

Architecture of the Gothic Period, 1200-1500 A. D.

Architecture of the Period of the Renaissance, 15-19 century.

—The Rev. Dr. Thomas Hume, of the University of North Carolina, paid a visit to our towns April 23rd and 24th. On the evening of the 23rd he delivered a very interesting and instructive lecture before the pupils of the ACADEMY, taking as his subject the poet Tennyson, and specially "Idyls of the King," dwelling at length on the "Quest of the Holy Grail." The Doctor is always a welcome visitor to our Institution, but specially so when he comes laden with so rich an intellectual treat. Sunday morning he preached an earnest and eloquent sermon in the Moravian church, and on the afternoon of the same day he attended the service in the Academy Chapel, taking part in the same.

—The annual reception was tendered the incoming and the outgoing Senior classes at the Principal's house Friday evening. In addition to the members of these classes, numbering more than a hundred, invitations were extended to the Trustees, Principals of other schools and the members of the ACADEMY Faculty. The night was clear and warm, electric lights, added to the bright moon, gave the appearance of softened daylight to the terraced garden, and the larger portion of the company chose the out door accommodations. The house was decorated with azalias, laurel and cedar, and, filled with bright and tastily dressed girls, formed a scene of rare beauty. Refreshments, consisting of salads, cakes, fruits and ices were served, and about 11 o'clock all said good night, having enjoyed greatly the hour of social converse.

—The Entertainment given by the Hesperian Society, April 22nd, was a success financially and otherwise. The receipts amounted to between $40 and $50. Great interest attaches itself to the practice of the parts and mysterious indeed are the many movements of the participants. The Entertainment happened to fall on a rainy night, but the many fears as to audience or no audience were groundless. Quite a number of novel features were introduced. Among them we note the pansy song, the mixed quadrille, and the tableaux of nations. The opening dialogue was certainly true to life,—well, perhaps we speak a little too fast, since we really have never seen how it would be if Col. Davis' Cadets should give him the slip and find their way into the sacred precincts of the ACADEMY. All we have to say is that it probably would be something like the scene as represented by the members in their little "p'ay" of the evening. It is, of course, impossible to give a detailed criticism of the stronger and weaker points, but we reproduce the programme, which was as follows:

PART I.

1. Instrumental Solo. Chant du Nord.
Miss M. CLARK.
2. Dialogue. When the Cats are away the Mice will play.
Teacher—Miss JUNIPER.
Pupils—WINNIE, SELINA, MAGGIE, LEONIE, MIRIAM, GERTIE, CLARA and MARIA.
Boys next DOOF—JAMES, CHARLIE, WILLIAM, SAMUEL, PERCIVAL and THEODORE.
3. Vocal Duet. Go Pretty Rose.
Misses E. CLARK and BRIDGESS.
4. Tableau. Easter Morning.
5. Instrumental Solo. La Baladine.
Miss CROUCH.
6. Song. Only a Pansy Blossom.
Misses COWLES, A. MALLORY, KAPP, E. GULICK, McKEOWN, M. CLARK.
7. Quadrille.

PART II.

1. Violin Solo.
Miss ALIE MALLORY.
2. Recitation. Death Bridge of the Tay.
Miss AVA STROUP.
3. National Tableau. Recitation and Song.
4. Instrumental Solo. Troisième Mediatim.
Miss A. WESTBROOK.
5. Tableau. The Fire Worshippers.
6. Dialogue. Matrimonial Advertisement.
Mary Cole—Miss LULA GROGAN.
Martha Cole—Miss LILLIAN CRENSHAW.
Jack Cole—Miss FRANK CREIGHT.
Grandmother Cole—Miss MARY CLARK.
7. Tableau. Nine Muses.
8. Duet and Chorus. Good Night.
Misses STROUP and BRYAN and HESPERIAN SOCIETY.

Married.

GREENE—DINKINS.—On April 26th, Dr. WALTON L. GREENE, to Miss MYRIAM DINKINS of Memphis, Tenn.

McNUTT—WESTER.—April 28th, Mr. JOAN McNUTT, to Miss MAUD WESTER, of Rockwood, Tenn.

MARTIN—THOMAS.—May 5th, Mr. W. MARTIN, to Miss LIZZIE THOMAS, of Jefferson, N. C.

GRAY—FITZGERALD.—May 12th, Mr. EMORY L. GRAY, of Winston, to Miss THEO FITZGERALD, of North Danville, Va.

→* MISS EMMA I. LEINBACH,*←
(OF SALEM, N. C.)

AGENT FOR THE SELECTION AND PURCHASE OF

PIANOS,

NO SHODDY PIANOS HANDLED.

Good Second-Hand Pianos, Prime Order, from about
$75 Up. New Pianos from $275 Up.
155 Lexington Avenue New York.

I cheerfully certify that Miss Emma Leinbach has purchased Pianos for our institution, and for residents of our community, and has, in every case, given eminent satisfaction. She unites the three qualities which fit her for responsibilities of this kind,—she has fine taste and excellent business judgment; she is a thorough musician, she is thoroughly conscientious.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal,
Salem Female Academy

Salem, N. C., Feb. 11, 1889.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one I will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,
W. T. VOGLER,
JEWELER,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.
Sept. '91-'92.

THE SALEM STEAM BROOM WORKS,

Main Street, Salem, N. C.,
W. O. SENSEMAN & CO., PROPRIETORS,
MANUFACTURERS OF
PARLOR, HEARTH, WHISK, STABLE
AND FACTORY BROOMS,
which we offer the trade at lowest prices.
Soliciting your orders we are
Yours truly,
W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.
Salem, N. C., September, 1891.

WANTED

A position as Book keeper, in some Southern State.
Address, "A. L.," ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.
March, '92-31.

WANTED

A position as Soprano in a Church Choir, (Episcopal preferred.)
Address, "D. A.," ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.
March, '92-31.

GRANDEST DISPLAY

OF
TRAVELING BASKETS, LUNCH BASKETS
LADIES' WORK BASKETS,
FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and FANCY
GOODS, at very low prices.

All orders by mail will receive prompt attention.

Mrs. T. B. DOUTHIT, SALEM, N. C.

The Student's Series of Histories.

Edited by WILLIAM SMITH, LL. D.

Each one of these serviceable and attractive volumes is acknowledged to be the best summary in our language of the particular branch of knowledge to which it belongs.

Ancient History: A Manuel of Ancient History, from the Earliest times to the Fall of the Western Empire. 636 pp. Price $1.25.

The Christian Church, I: The History of the Christian Church during the First Ten Centuries, By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 618 pp. Price, $1.50.

The Christian Church, II: The History of the Christian Church during the Middle Ages. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 700 pp. Price, $1.50.

The East: The Ancient History of the East, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of Alexander the Great. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. Illustrated, 650 pp. Price $1.25.

England: A History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Revolution of 1688. 808 pp. $1.50.

England (CONSTITUTIONAL): The Constitutional History of England. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 748 pp. Price, $1.25.

England (QUEENS): Lives of the Queens of England, from the Norman Conquest. By AGNES STRICKLAND, Illustrated. 682 pp. Price $1.25.

France: A History of France, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire in 1852. Illustrated. 730 pp. Price $1.25.

Germany: A History of Germany, from the Earliest Times. By CHARLTON T. LEWIS. 800 pp. $1.50.

Greece: A History of Greece, from the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. 704 pp. $1.25.

Greece (GENERAL): A General History of Greece, from the Earliest Period to the Death of Alexander the Great. By GEORGE W. COX, M. A. 710 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome: A History of Rome, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By H. G. LIDDELL, D. D. 768 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome (GENERAL): A General History of Rome. B. C. 753—A. D. 476. By CHARLES MERIVALE, D. D. 702 pp. Price, $1.25.

Roman Empire: The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By EDWARD GIBSON. Abridged. 678 pp. Price $1.25.

Middle Ages: View of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 708 pp. Price, $1.25.

Modern Europe: A History of Modern Europe, By RICHARD LODGE. 772 pp. Price, $1.25.

New Testament: The New Testament History, With Maps and Woodcuts. 780 pp. Price $1.25.

Old Testament: The Old Testament History, from the Creation to the Return of the Jews from Captivity. With Maps and Woodcuts. 716 pp. Price, $1.25.

A complete catalogue of School and College Text Books will be forwarded on request.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

Franklin Square, New York.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,
SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

The 90th Annual Session begins August 27th, 1891. Register for last year 356. Special features:—the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Commercial and Industrial Studies.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

DAVIS SCHOOL.

A MILITARY COLLEGE.

Degrees in Civil Engineering, Science and Art. Full Commercial Course. Practical Course in Telegraphy Instruction in Music and Art. Cadet Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health.

For those not prepared for College Classes there is a complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. No charge for medical attention. Low Rates. For particulars, address,

DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country
All the leading novelties, such as :

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Cherron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in
Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of
Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.
The following line of Corsets can always be found in our stock :

The celebrated C. B. Corset in 3 grades.
Thompson's Glove Fitting Corset.
Dr. Warner's Health Corset.
Dr. Warner's Coraline Corset.
Madame Melville's Corset.

Our Spring stock of
LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,
has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.
ROSENBACHER & BRO.,
Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.
Phone 111. Phone 111.
Jan. 1892.

S. E. ALLEN,
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,
CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.
WINSTON, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't. Greensboro, N. C.      W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't Fayetteville, N. C.

TO THE PATRONS OF
Salem Female Academy.

WHY

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway

is the BEST LINE for patrons from Salem, N. C., to Arkansas and Texas?

It is the Only Line that runs from Memphis to Arkansas and Texas Two Trains Daily.

Road Bed and Equipment are first-class. Sure connection by all lines from the East, and when sufficient to justify a Special Pullman Palace Car or Day Coach will be furnished for the exclusive use of the party, with an agent to escort to destination.

The same arrangements can be made to return from Texas or Arkansas to the School. For complete Itinerary of Route, address

A. A. GALLAGHER, Southern Pass. Agt. 103 Read House, Chattanooga, Tenn.
H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.

A NICE LINE OF

OIL STOVES,
AT THE "BIG COFFEE POT,"
AT BOTTOM PRICES.

Our latest novelties are:

- Pat Flue Stoppers, Picnic Mugs,
- Star Safety Razors, Pie Lifters,
- Perfection Cake and Pie Tins and Egg Beaters, all at very reasonable figures.

We solicit a share of your patronage.

Very respectfully,

W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.,

NORTH.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrodsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 35 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 14 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England Points and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

SOUTH

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas; New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California. Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas Points. Anniston, Columbus, Montgomery, Mobile, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination. For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION. CHAS. H. MILLS, Ticket Agt. C. S. BARRETT, T. P. A. Depot. D. J. MULLANEY, Div. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn. C. C. HARVEY, CINCINNATI, O. D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA
SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Pre-eminently the Teachers' and Pupils' Route.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us, patronized, subsequently, any other line.

This is the only line from Memphis running Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer in Memphis from Eastern Lines.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga. H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

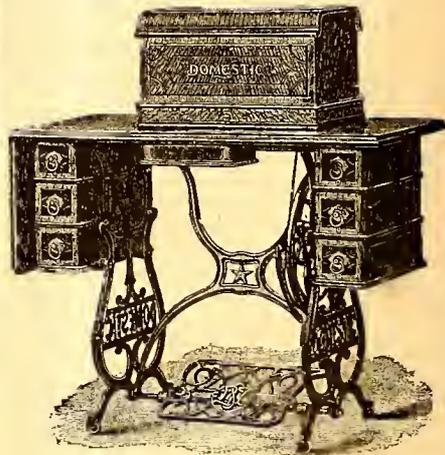

L. V. & E. T. BLUM,

BOOKSELLERS, STATIONERS AND PRINTERS,
Salem, N. C.

Print THE ACADEMY, CATALOGUE, HOW TO GET TO SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY and other publications issued by the Institution.

"SOLD ON MERIT."

THE LIGHT-RUNNING "DOMESTIC"

IS SOLD BY

W. P. ORMSBY,
TWIN-CITY MUSIC HOUSE,
WINSTON, N. C.

Do you want a Piano?
Do you want an Organ?
Do want any Musical Instrument?

W. P. ORMSBY
is agent for STIEFF'S Celebrated
Pianos, and LORING & BLAKE'S
Palace Organs.

Liberal allowance for old instruments in exchange.

Call or write to
W. P. ORMSBY, Twin-City Music House,
WINSTON, N. C.

Oct. 1891-19.

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $ 7.25

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIV.

SALEM, N. C., JUNE, 1892.

NUMBER 127.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C.

90 Years of Experience in Educational Work. Full Preparatory and Collegiate Instruction; Also Special Schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Industrial and Commercial Branches. 327 on Register last year. Send for Catalogue and other information if you have a daughter to educate, or if you are interested in educational matters.

COMMENCEMENT, 1892.

"THE ACADEMY never prepares for a public occasion without having fair weather," said a pupil recently. Well, let that be as it may, the weather during the Commencement just closed was ideal. It is true that Sunday morning the skies were heavy and the rain falling, but by evening the sun had again appeared and remained with us until a few hours after the diplomas were presented and the last of the exercises over, when it again disappeared and the rain and storm again took possession of the scene. During the days preceding Sunday, May 22d, parents, relatives and friends arrived in numbers, and among those who assembled in the Moravian church on Sunday morning could be seen faces from all parts of our country,—from New York to Texas. Yes, it was raining Sunday morning, but what effect had that on the audience? None. The large home church was just as full as ever,—that is, every seat was occupied, all the aisles were filled with chairs, and friends were standing at all of the doors. The pulpit end of the church was platformed forward for a distance of 30 feet or more, and on this platform were seated the Senior Class, Junior Class and a number of representatives from other classes. The front of the stage was decorated with large and beautiful stands of rare water-lilies, hundreds of the sweet flowers adding their fragrance and charm to the attractive scene. It is hardly necessary for us to state who the kind donor of these choice flowers was, since no one in our State save Doctor BAHNSON could supply these rare flowers in such profusion. It is also hardly necessary for us to say that the scene upon the platform was a chaste and attractive one. The service, too, was in keeping with the spirit that afterwards pervaded all of the exercises. Mr. CLEWELL presided, and was assisted by Bishop RONDTHALER. After an opening exercise of selections from the Church Litany, portions of Scripture and a hymn, the Salem Moravian church choir, assisted by the Salem Orchestra, rendered the chorus, "The Heavens are Telling," from Haydn's Creation. Professors LEINBACH and PETERSON presided at the organ. The Baccalaureate sermon was delivered by the Rev. WALTER W. MOORE, D. D., of the Union Theological Seminary, Hampden-Sidney, Va. There is probably no young divine in the service of the Church more universally beloved and respected than Dr. MOORE. Hence he had the attention and sympathy of his audience from the outset, and as one the papers remarked next day, "a more beautiful and more appropriate baccalaureate sermon was never heard in this venerable church." Dr. MOORE'S text was taken from Prov. 31:31: "Favor is deceitful and beauty is vain, but a woman that feareth the Lord shall be praised." The sermon first clearly defined what true beauty is, not merely a pretty face, nor a well developed figure, but a light that comes from within. As a stained glass window is a dull and unattractive thing when looked at from without, but becomes a thing of beauty when illuminated from within, so the face that has no attraction save the physical gifts of nature, soon becomes an unattractive object, unless lighted by the illuminating soul qualities which are created by the fear of the Lord. The speaker then earnestly set forth what these priceless treasures of the soul are, how they may be obtained, and how they will make every face become lovely and every life a thing of beauty. With almost breathless eagerness every word was received, and when the closing words were spoken it was apparent that the lesson had made its way into the hearts of the congregation, as well as of the class addressed. The speaker said in effect: "On behalf of the Principal and instructors of this venerable institution, who are profoundly solicitous for your highest welfare, on behalf of all these people of God who have assembled to testify their interest in your graduation, and on behalf of the great and good of every age, I charge you solemnly, in the name of God, as you stand on the threshold of womanhood that you give your hearts to Him who is not only an almighty Saviour, but also a perfect pattern, and by the beauty and blessedness and power of His holy religion I charge you to fashion your life by its heavenly truth and to adorn your souls with its immortal beauty." Immediately after the sermon Miss MATHEWSON sang Gounod's "Forever with the Lord." Her voice was sweet and clear, and the selection in harmony with the spirit of the sermon. In the evening the usual Sunday night service was held in the church, Bishop RONDTHALER delivering an earnest discourse on the text, "Follow Me," Luke 9:59. On this occasion the Seniors again occupied the platform, wearing the Oxford cap and gown, which costume has been the right of the Senior Class only throughout the year.

Monday and Tuesday evenings, punctually at 7:45 o'clock, the exercises of the Seniors' Evenings were entered upon. These evenings consist chiefly of Essays, interspersed with vocal and instrumental selections. The essays are short, crisp productions, three or four minutes in length and interesting to listen to. Besides the intellectual part of the exercises, the reading of the essay introduces each member of the class to the audience, and in this way the composition of the class can be studied, and through them a glimpse of the spirit which influenced the school-year. Each member of the Class read an essay, either on Monday or Tuesday evening, or Thursday morning. The list of Seniors is as follows:

ANNA D. ADAMS.	HATTIE A. ADAMS.
DAISY E. BROOKES.	MARY V. CLARK.
LILIAN L. CRENSHAW.	OLLIE L. FAIN.
EDNA E. FISHER.	AGNES A. FOGLE.
MAY FRANKLIN.	ALICE E. GILLESPIE.
ELLA F. HEGE.	CLEORA C. HEWSON.
EMMA A. KAPP.	FRANCIS LEACH.
MAMIE R. LEWIS.	CHRISTA MCFADYEN.
ELDRED L. MALLORY.	BLANCHE MORGAN.
ETHEL M. MORRIS.	CARRIE P. OLLINGER.
FANNIE LOU PACE.	LIZZIE E. PATTERSON.
ANNIE W. PENN.	BESSIE D. PURNELL.
ALICE G. RAWLINGS.	ANNIE M. SCHOOLFIELD.
SUE E. SICELOFF.	E. LOUISE SODDALL.
MARY S. STILLWELL.	TILLA M. STOCKTON.
AVA E. STROUP.	LEONIE M. TERRELL.
FLORENCE TISE.	HESSE I. YANCEY.
MARY E. WOOD.	LILLIE M. YANCEY.
BLANCHE P. WOOD.

Among the musical and elocutionary numbers we notice the following names: Miss SCRIBER, Misses PALMER, CROSS, MCFADYEN, H. ADAMS, LEWIS, HEWSON, YEREX, A. M. SCHOOLFIELD, STROUP, M. LUNCEFORD, P. DUKE, L. CRUTCHFIELD, CARROWAY, DAISY CRUTCHFIELD, KELLETT, ELLIOTTE, COVINGTON, C. and H. OLLINGER, B. WOOD, HYMAN, M. CONRAD, BAHNSON, H. YANCEY, FAIN, CHEATHAM, L. WILLIAMS and E. CLARK. To many it seems somewhat strange that such numbers attend the essay evenings. But whatever may be the theory in the case the fact remains unaltered that every seat is taken, the aisles are filled, and the vestibule packed with a quiet, attentive and sympathetic audience. This in itself is a stimulus, and add to this the training received at the patient hands of Miss LEHMAN, and we do not wonder that the Seniors acquitted themselves in such a manner as to receive the following kind words from the Winston Daily Sentinel: "The essays were bright and interesting. There was not a single dull one. The topics discussed show that the young ladies have been inspired with true aspirations and taught to think. Many of the essays displayed much literary talent, and all of them showed a liberal stock of general information and thorough work on the part of both teachers and pupils. Many who have attended Commencements at the Academy for years say that the essays last night altogether were the most creditable they have heard from an Academy graduating class. The audience was interested from the beginning, and all the essays were heartily applauded."

At the close of the exercises Tuesday evening in the church the Principal extended a cordial invitation to the kind friends who had assisted in the Commencement thus far, to repair to the Academy dining hall where they would be received and entertained by Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL and the members of the Senior Class. Perhaps no more striking feature of the strength of the school can be seen than the gathered forces of its outside friends. There were present representatives of the Salem church choir, the Salem Orchestra, male singers, the ushers, press reporters, railroad, telegraph and express men,—one hundred or more in number. The time spent in this social converse was necessarily brief, owing to the lateness of the hour, but short as the time was, the most hearty appreciation of the warm friendship shown to the Institution was expressed by the Principal, and short addresses on the part of the guests displayed a readiness to continue the efforts in behalf of the school's interests. Certainly this large body of workers is an element of great strength in the future of Salem Female Academy.

We must now go back to the afternoon of Tuesday, in our story of the Commencement. As already announced special preparations had been made to eclipse all previous Art Exhibits, and there is no doubt but that these efforts were crowned with success. The Academy Chapel was the place selected, and all day Monday and on Tuesday morning, busy hands were decorating and arranging. In the centre of the hall was a group of orange trees from which peeped statues in half-hidden nooks. On the stage were arranged rare palms and other plants while in front of tastily arranged drapery Apollo flirted with Diana on the other side of the hall. But let us briefly glance at the different groups of work as displayed in the exhibit. On entering we see a tastily arranged booth, beneath which is the exhibit of the Cooking School. You may have had your doubts as to the efficiency of the cooking school—now you must be convinced that the doubts are groundless; certainly no bread could be whiter, biscuits lighter or salads more appetizing. Next, we come to the handsome and artistic display in the glass case, the contribution or the Botany Class; the herbariums were opened so as to show the pressed flowers, deftly mounted on one page, while on the other was noted the description of the plant. A few steps bring us to the table representing the telegraphy school, an instrument in working order, with all the accessories, such as battery, relay, sounder, key, &c. The neighbor of this table is also from the Commercial Department, in the centre of which stands a bright type-writer, and clustered all around it specimens of work in short hand and the translations of the same, type-writing, &c. Not far distant is the Book-keeping table, with the trial sets, the various parts of the machinery used in the department,—college money, checks, card-merchandise and so on. Just beyond we see the books of the Industrial Sewing School, with the stitches so neat and fine that it strained the eyes to examine them, and the patches and piecings so neatly done that the line dividing the two could scarcely be recognized. Above and around all these the beautiful work in the Embroidery Department was displayed, while on wall and on case were to be seen the drawings and paintings. Of these we can say nothing in detail, suffice it to add that the exhibit was well received and attracted a stream of visitors all during the hours that the doors were opened, the carriages at times extending over a line nearly two blocks in length.

At three o'clock the same afternoon a very interesting class reunion took place in the Library. It was the first class reunion formally held, being the Class of '89. This class consisted of 24 members at graduation, and of this number 14 were present at this Commencement. The following is the list: Misses HATTIE SUTTON, MARY FITZPATRICK, BERT FITZPATRICK, MARY FRIES, CARRIE SHELTON, MINNIE FARMER, BIRDIE GOSLEN, DAISY RUFF, MINNIE WINKLER, LIDA FAIN, CARRIE STOCKTON, JANIE SHERKILLE, MARY PFOHL, and ETTA SHAFNER. A few invited guests were present after the business meeting was over, and refreshments were served while Dr. RONDTHALER and Mr. CLEWELL made congratulatory addresses on the successful nature of the reunion. The Library was decorated with fresh field daisies, the class flower of '89.

From the foregoing pleasant picture it is only a step to Wednesday afternoon's programme, viz: the general Alumnae Meeting. The meeting this year was held in the Academy Chapel. The tasty decorations of the Art Exhibit were allowed to remain, and some 300 or 400 chairs arranged on the floor of the hall. The class of '89 occupied places on the platform and they, together with the officers of the Association were literally embowered by tropical plants and flowers. Miss VOGLER presided, and papers were read by Miss SIEWERS and Miss JENKINS, a song was sung by Miss RONDTHALER (words by Miss ADDIE FRIES). Mrs. Dr. KERNAN made an excellent address, the Class of '89 made a report, and everything betokened great interest and enthusiasm. The election of officers resulted in the selection of Mrs. Judge STARBUCK as President, and Miss RONDTHALER as Secretary and Treasurer. Gifts were added to the Alumnae fund, swelling the same to about eleven hundred dollars, and then all partook of the lovefeast which had been provided for the meeting. While the lovefeast was being partaken of the social feature was added, and half an hour was spent in pleasant conversation and the renewing of old friendships. Before the meeting was over one of the oldest of the Alumnae, Mrs. STURDIVANT, '36, spoke a few words, and then Bishop RONDTHALER conducted a brief religious exercise,—thus bringing to an end the most pleasant and most largely attended Alumnae gatherings in the history of the Academy.

And what shall we say of the Grand Concert, Wednesday night? The crowd! Why, one friend remarked that the throng was so great that it was difficult to get inside the corporate limits of the town! Whether that will stand the test of investigation or not, one thing is certain, that one car load of passengers after the other drew up to the church and the inmates of the cars looked out upon the surging mass of humanity around doors and windows, and did not leave their seats in the car, but returned home unable to even get near the church building. To one who was on the platform inside the church the scene was a very striking one, but what impressed every body was the unusual quiet and order. President WINSTON remarked the next morning that he had never seen better order and more respectful and sympathetic attention in so densely packed a company either in this or any other country. The concert consisted of two parts,—the first portion being vocal and instrumental selections from the classic composers, and a number of recitations. The enthusiasm of both audience and performers was very great, and the general tone of the execution more satisfactory than is usually heard under similar circumstances. The following persons took part: Soloist in the Inflammatus, Miss ETHEL MORRIS; in the various selections of the first part were Miss ADELAIDE SCRIBER, Misses REED, F. CONRAD, PALMER, N. LUNCEFORD, A. MALLORY, E. CLARK, M. CLARK, E. MALLORY, E. HEGE, A. LEINBACH, CROSS, WATSON, WESTBROOK, TOTTEN, BRIDGESS and S. SHELL. The second portion was the first part of Handel's immortal oratorio, "The Messiah." As one friend remarked, it was a bold thing for a school to venture on this difficult and classic composition, but it was a yet more satisfactory thing to render it in the creditable and enthusiastic manner in which it was rendered. The choral class of the Academy, consisting of some seventy-five voices, was aided by the following male singers: Messrs. H. S. CRIST, BRICKENSTEIN, ATWATER, HAUSER, EBERT, W. and R. SPAUGH, LICHTENTHALER, F. VOGLER, BOYD, CHICK, HUYCK and JONES; accompanist, Miss AMY VAN VLECK. In addition to the male soloists, Messrs. VOGLER, EBERT and BRICKENSTEIN, the solos for female voices were taken by Misses SCRIBER, RONDTHALER and MORRIS. The Salem Orchestra was composed of the following members: Messrs. CARMICHAEL, J. BUTNER, S. PETERSON, ORMSBY, G. E. BUTNER, SEARER, W. LEINBACH, BRICKENSTEIN, B. PFOHL, J. K. PFOHL, D. BUTNER, W. PETERSON, S. and H. MICKEY, J. PETERSON, S. PFOHL, J. A. and E. W. LEINBACH. The entire chorus was under the direction of Prof. PAUL SCHMOLCK, and to him great credit is due for the finished manner in which this and other portions of the music of Commencement was rendered. Prof. SCHMOLCK is a tireless worker and a fine organizer, and without this hard and earnest work the Grand Concert would not have held the great audience present Wednesday evening for the space of two hours in the closest interest and attention. But the last strain of the grand old oratorio has died away; the blazing electric lights are shut off; the street cars have whirred away on their errand of distributing the passengers to their hotels and homes; the surging crowds on street and square have dispersed; the street lights are undisturbed by the shadows of passers-by thrown on the soft, green sward of the fountain; the lights disappear one after the other from the windows of the massive Academy buildings,—only the tread of the night-watchman is heard, as he goes his round, lantern in hand; all is at rest,—the last night's rest for many a young girl within her old College home!

Here is Thursday morning, and here is the sun bright and clear; here is the cool and refreshing breeze, and here are the beautiful water lilies, the class flower; see how bright and cheery the venerable old church looks on the Commencement morning of 1892, as teacher or pupil, professor or parent, hurries here and there on an early morning errand, for the Commencement exercises begin at 9 o'clock. To adequately describe the exercises of Thursday morning is impossible; the mingled currents of feelings in the many young hearts, depicted in the faces at the various stages of the exercises must be seen to be realized,—hence we confine our account to a simple narrative of the events as they occurred. At 9 o'clock the graduating class entered the church and took their places on the platform. They were followed by the Principal and Trustees of the Academy, the Principals of other schools and the ministers of Salem and Winston. Then came the Junior Class and finally the members of the other classes. The diplomas were borne on two silver salvers at the head of the procession by two little girls. After an inspiring overture by the Salem Orchestra, a portion of Scripture was read by the Rev. Mr. LUTZ, and prayer offered by Dr. MOORE. Miss EMMA KAPP then read the Salutory, and Miss BLANCHE WOOD the Class Essay. After the latter number Mr. CLEWELL introduced President GEORGE TAYLOR WINSTON, of the North Carolina State University, who delivered one of the strongest and most interesting addresses ever offered to an Academy graduating class. His subject was the "Culture of Woman." President WINSTON gracefully alluded to the fact that in 1820 a young woman, graceful and beautiful, graduated at Salem Female Academy, and a young man, talented and studious, graduated at the University. In 1822 this young man led this young woman to the altar, and in 1844 these two, none other than President and Mrs. James K. Polk, entered the White House at Washington. "Methinks I have learned somewhere in mystic prediction," continued the speaker, with a smile, "that May 26th, 1892, another fair graduate goes forth from Salem Female Academy to meet a gallant University graduate of June 1st, and that in 1900 again these two shall enter the White House at Washington!" With clear-cut, powerful sentences the speaker showed how life was a wretched, incomplete existence where woman was man's slave, not his companion. It remained for the rude inhabitants of the German forests to first carry out the true ideal as taught by Christ Jesus. The high conception of woman to-day is the blending of the German strength and the beauty of Christian culture. The cultured woman gives the elevated, happy home, and whatever thrills at the home threatens our civilization; the underlying idea of the nunneries and monasteries is the enemy of the home,—the multiplicity of the fashionable club rooms has as its logical sequence, the destruction of the home circle. But with educated, cultured womanhood the final results are sure, all must give way, and the power of the culture and loveliness will conquer, and in conquering redeem the world. When President Winston closed his eloquent address there was an expression of regret on the faces of the audience that the rich treat had not been prolonged.

After brief remarks by the Principal and by Dr. RONDTHALER, the latter presented diplomas to the 37 graduates whose names have been mentioned earlier in this article. In addition to these diplomas were awarded in special departments as follows: Instrumental Music, Misses WATSON and REED; Telegraphy, Misses COLEMAN, MORRIS and TERRELL; Stenography, Misses ELLIOTTE, MOORE and WYNNE; Book-keeping, Misses R. BEAR, BRIDGESS, ELLIOTTE, LIZZIE GILMER, EFFIE GILMER, M. LUNCEFORD, M. STIPE, TOTTEN, WOOSLEY. Misses ELLIS and COLEMAN received the degree of A. B. as Post Graduates.

The Orchestra rendered an appropriate selection, after which Miss AVA STROUP read the Valedictory. Sweet and tender was the Class Song, "Farewell," followed by another orchestral selection, and then as "finis" was written across the end of the chapter, the sacred words of the New Testament benediction solemnly closed the exercises of the goth school year of the Academy's history.

—The Railway ticket office was transferred to the Academy Wednesday before the close of school, and from all appearance a lively business was done. Mr Pfohl has his hands full at these times, in fact at all other times also, but during those days he was specially popular. He desires us to say that if any errors occurred in connection with the paying of charge to pupils he will esteem it a favor if you will notify him of same.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., JUNE, 1892.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.

Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—The 91st Annual Session will begin September 1st, 1892. Examinations for new pupils will be held August 30th and 31st, 1892.

—The authorities of the Academy will esteem it a favor if intending patrons will register the names of daughters or wards in advance.

—Pupils in attendance during the year just closed, and who will be with us next year are requested to report at the Academy promptly at the opening of the term. By so doing all questions relative to room company, alcove, &c., can be satisfactorily settled.

—As will be seen from the report of Commencement, published elsewhere, the exercises of the week were unusually happy and successful. Certain it is that no public occasion ever had more ideal weather; the entire 8 pages of the week's exercises were carried out without dropping a number; the audiences were in perfect accord with the occasions; the speakers were not only in hearty sympathy with our work, but are two of the most eloquent orators in the South; of the music, one friend remarked that it was worth a thousand mile trip to hear the Oratorio alone, given on Wednesday evening; truly the Commencement was an "all round," happy and successful occasion.

—As the Commencement is to a certain extent an index of the year, we need scarcely add that 1891-92 was one of the most satisfactory years in the history of the Institution.

—The questions is often asked "What are the prospects for the next year." We are pleased to state that there were over two hundred names on our register before the close of the past term, of which number about 110 are boarding pupils. This beginning promises a full attendance, notwithstanding the fact that money is "close" in many sections.

—Our June edition of THE ACADEMY consists of 12,500 copies, the largest issue printed in any one month in the 12 years history of the paper. As many copies go into the hands of strangers, we reproduce the view of the front of Main and South Halls.

—We certainly appreciate the hearty support given to the Academy journal, and are pleased to say that it has been more than self-supporting during the past year. But the most important question in the history of the paper is to get it into the hands of as many persons as possible. To this end the Alumnae Society has made the one financial requirement of membership to be that of subscribing for THE ACADEMY. Of course this does not mean that where two or three persons in one family belong to the Association, each should subscribe, but there are many on the list of membership who are not on the list of subscribers. It not this a good time to send in your subscription, if you have not done so.

—If you have a daughter to educate, you ought to have all the information you can get in regard to methods of instruction, modes of character training, and so on. We will be pleased to send you a catalogue, telling you something of our methods and history, and we will also be pleased to send you our pamphlet "How to get to Salem Female Academy," containing all necessary railroad information, if you will give us your address on a postal card.

—It is Mr. Clewell's intention to spend a month visiting the homes of pupils in Texas and Tennessee, during the latter part of June and the first portion of July. He will probably also make a short trip into Ohio, to visit the field of his former labors.

—The catalogue shows an attendance of 327 for the year just closed, representing 23 States and foreign countries.

A Pleasant Surprise.

Some days since a letter was received from Miss Anna L. Ogburn, one of our esteemed Alumnae, with instructions not to publish the same. Of course we will not disobey orders, since the Alumnae Society is growing too strong for any one to disobey their commands with impunity. But Miss Ogburn did not forbid us to tell what was in the letter, and so we will speak of our surprise. Miss Ogburn has recently made a trip to the West Indies, to New Providence in the Bahamas, and while there thought of the old Alma Mater at Salem, and while thinking devised a plan. The plan was to send a box of specimens to her friends here, and so when she returned to Baltimore the box was packed, and came to hand some days since. The opening of the box was a great surprise and pleasure to us, since not only was it a welcome token of affection from an old pupil, but the intrinsic value is very great, especially in connection with the studies of the pupils. The following is the list of articles:

- Loaf Sponge, 12x14 inches.
- Cup Sponge, 9x14 inches with 4 Cups.
- Grass Sponge.
- Velvet Sponge.
- Finger Sponge, 10 Fingers
- Glove Sponge.
- Reef Sponge.
- Wool Sponge.
- 1 pair Flamingo Wings—Red and Black, size 18x30 inches.
- 1 Bunch Woman's Tongue Beans.
- 1 Pod from Silk Cotton tree.
- 1 Bunch Feather Grass.
- Beans from Poncienna Tree, 20 inches long.
- 3 Sand Boxes.
- 5 Specimens of West India Baskets.
- 2 Specimens Brain Coral.
- 4 Specimens Conch Shells.
- 1 Basket Small Shells.
- 1 Branch White Coral.
- Star Fish, 13 inches across.
- Sea Feather, 4 feet long.
- Purple Sea Fan, 20x30 inches.
- Yellow Sea Fan, 12x20 inches.
- 1 bunch Sisel fibre.

What makes this gift of special moment at this particular time is the fact that the work upon the museum has just commenced, and by September the collection thus far made will be located in its own home. The room just below the 5th Room has been chosen, and here the various specimens of minerals, shells, plants, insects, historical relics, curiosities, &c., will be deposited and labeled, to be used in connection with studies of the pupils, and as a place of great interest in preserving the historical objects of the Institution. In the case of the collection just alluded to, we have given the order for a neat glass case, and will carefully arrange the collection, naming it the "ANNA L. OGBURN COLLECTION." Thus our warm friend will have established a neat and lasting token in her old Alma Mater's walls, and one which will not only afford profitable study for the classes when they reach the sponge and coral life and the plants of the tropics, but which will also be an incentive for others to follow her example. We only recently received the picture of Comenius from an Alumna, and now to add this valuable collection shows that the interest is growing; may the growth increase and spread till in numbers, influence and usefulness, a yet greater future will be reached by the Salem Female Academy.

Names of Alumnae and Visitors.

It is impossible to secure a complete list of the friends who visited our town on the occasion of the recent Commencement. But THE ACADEMY has gathered as many as possible, and will be pleased to note in the September number any additional names if you will kindly send them to us. Those who registered at the Alumnae Meeting (members not guests) are as follows:

- |                        |                       |
|------------------------|-----------------------|
| Mrs. Wm. H. Hall,      | Miss Daisy Brooks     |
| " Gertrude Foster,     | " Tilla Stockton      |
| " Alice Ramsay         | " Ethel Morris        |
| " D S Reid             | " Mamie Lewis         |
| " Charles Lee Smith,   | " Christiana McFadyen |
| " Mattie Hailey        | " Hattie Adams        |
| " L M Crossland        | " Annie McCuiston     |
| " Bonnie Rose          | " Fannie Lou Pace     |
| " P H Booc             | " Annie Penn          |
| " W O Senneaman        | " Mary Stillwell      |
| " Charles M Corpening, | " Hessie Yancey       |
| " Ann Sturdivant       | " Lillie M Yancey     |
| " E E Shelton          | " Lizzie Patterson    |
| " A L Grunerl          | " Eldred Malloy       |
| " J F Cronse           | " Blanche Wood        |
| " J W Goslen           | " Mary Franklin       |
| " F C Meitang          | " Blanche Morgan      |
| " A S Lemly            | " Abie Gillespie      |
| " E F Carmichael       | " Alice Rawlings      |
| " J H Stockton         | " Anne May Schoofield |
| " Edward Rondthaler    | " Carrie Ollinger     |
| " Sallie J Tise        | " Anna D Adams        |
| " H T Edhanson         | " Otie Lee Fain       |
| " J F Shaffner         | " Ella Hege           |
| " A C Vogler           | " Agnes Fogle         |
| " L M Fries            | " Carrie Stockton     |
| " R W Belo             | " Mary Fries          |
| " C A Hege             | " Birdie Goslen       |
| " M A Siewers          | " Carrie Shelton      |
| " M E Landquist        | " — Hall              |
| " C A Fogle            | " Annie Pittman       |
| " F W Stockton         | " Pattie Beck         |
| " L A Briez            | " Mary Welfare        |
| " R L Hendricks        | " Bessie Winkler      |
| " C J Watkins          | " Mary Lineback       |
| " J W Fries            | " Gertrude Jenkins    |
| " C B Pfohl            | " Laura Lemly         |
| " M V Horton           | " Sallie Vest         |
| " Jmuns Starbnck       | " Etta Shaffner       |
| " C H Fogle            | " M A Fogle           |
| " F H Fites            | " A Van Vleck         |
| " R A Jenkins          | " Addie Fries         |
| " A J Sprinkle         | " Jane Welfare        |
| " M F Patterson        | " Corrie Pfohl        |
| " C P Norfleet         | " Mary Meinung        |
| " A H A Williams       | " A M Hagen           |
| " John Stockton        | " Florence Meinung    |
| " Flora E Beck         | " Sophie Butner       |
| " A B Gorrell          | " Claudia Winkler     |
| " W J Conrad           | " Alice Rondthaler    |
| " H L Ruggans          | " Emma Fisher         |
| " W B Ellis            | " Lula Hege           |
| " M C Prather          | " H L Foltz           |
| " W T Brown            | " Bessie Pfohl        |
| " Fr C Brown           | " Lina Ackerman       |
| " Vernon Long          | " Anna Landquist      |
| " Frank J Lupfert      | " Annie Mickey        |
| " J C Briston          | " Emma L Chitty       |
| " Emory Gray           | " Mamie Peterson      |
| " P H Hanes            | " Hennie Peterson     |
| " D D Shelton          | " Hattie Sutton       |
| " F B Efrid            | " Mary Zevely         |
| " Addie Bailey         | " Jessie Brown        |
| " E C Chlard           | " Carrie Mickey       |
| " F G Crutchfield      | " Carrie Jones        |
| " Frank Miller         | " L C Van Vleck       |
| " J L Patterson        | " Rosa Ellis          |
| " S T Montague         | " A T Steiner         |
| " J F Gilmer           | " Addie Shore         |
| " J A Biting           | " Lizzie D Sutton     |
| " G H Rightis          | " M E Vogler          |
| " Eliza Kiemei         | " Bettie Brown        |
| " Geo A Boozer         | " Pamela Bynum        |
| " Wm C Crist           | " Flora Lott          |
| " N S Siewers          | " Gertrude Siewers    |
| " C W Vogler           | " Carrie Riggs        |
| " R P Lineback         | " Etie Butner         |
| " E T Strickland       | " Lizzie Chitty       |
| " Wm H Barnard         | " Lou Shaffner        |
| " Geo E Nissen         | " Sallie Shaffner     |
| " J H Kapp             | " Lizzie Leinbach     |
| " E T Lehman           | " Minnie Fagg         |
| " Ella Carter          | " Kate Jones          |
| " Geo A Fain           | " Lida Fain           |
| " G W Pickle           | " Julia Smith         |
| " T R Purcell          | " Emma Cooper         |
| " J J Dunn             | " Agnes Colman        |
| " J G Yancey           | " Mamie Thomas        |
| " W M Kellett          | " Blanche Thomas      |
| " Jos Ollinger         | " Bessie Thomas       |
| " Charles McIver       | " Nellie Cramer       |
| " S M Pritchett        | " Lillian Thompson    |
| " Ada Hemsath          | " Bertha Hicks        |
| " Mrs Dr Kernan        | " Birt Fitzpatrick    |
| " W A Leish            | " Mary Fitzpatrick    |
| " Edna Fisher          | " L Fitzgerald        |
| " Julia Smith          | " Minnie Farmer       |
| " Emma Kapp            | " Mary F Paschall     |
| " Florence Tise        | " Lula Cox            |
| " Mary Clark           | " Annie Reid          |
| " Lonie Siddall        | " Daisy Ruff          |
| " Cleora Hewson        | " Mary Pfohl          |

In addition to the above we were pleased to welcome the following among the large company present during Commencement Week :

- |                          |                   |
|--------------------------|-------------------|
| Mrs D C Hewson           | Miss Addie Laciar |
| " J G Yancey             | " Annie Sloan     |
| " Virginia Owens         | " Minnie Keruer   |
| " R E Patterson          | " Leach           |
| " Geo T Leach            | " Lizzie Kime     |
| " Floy Malloy            | " Carrie Cowles   |
| " C C Lamb               | " Lillie Hodnett  |
| " Hodnett                | " Janie Sherille  |
| " J M Crenshaw           | " Williams        |
| " Cross                  | " Annie Booth     |
| " S T Morgan             | " McGwin          |
| " J J Penn               | " Carter          |
| " J H Kapp               | " Maggie Penn     |
| " A Cooper               | " Ware            |
| " Dicks                  | " Annie Purnell   |
| " R L Coleman            | " Kapp            |
| " O J Lehman's daughters | " Camille Hunt    |
| " W M Terrell            | " Rice            |
| " Greenlee               | " Annie Staples   |
| " Kennie Babson          | " Madge Graham    |
| " M J Clark              | " Jeanie Smith    |
| " J G Rawlings           | " Kellett         |
| " W R Toomey             |                   |
| " J H Schoofield         |                   |
| " G W Shell              |                   |
| " A N Chaffin            |                   |

Messrs Carrier, Cranor, T V Brooke, Keruer, R E Paterson, G T Leach, G C Lamb, J P H Adams, A J Adams, G T Greer, J M Crenshaw, S T Morgan, Lawrence Thomas, Samuel Chedester, Dangerheld, Hutchison, T R Purnell, J H Kapp, Jas Kapp, Thos Kapp, Fr Thornton, Will Jones, Gillespie, Will Holt, Majette, Greenlee, John Anderson, W G Robson, Hy Stockton, J G Rawlings, H L Morris, Jos Ollinger, Smith, W R Toomey, G W Shell, W P Wood, R R Galloway and son, B L Duke.

That Pledge.

Our readers will doubtless feel convinced that the season of activity in behalf of the school, on the part of outside friends, is coming, in fact is already here. But it will be equally interesting to know that within the school all is push and work. The following will illustrate the statement. At the close of the school year it has been customary for the Euterpean and Hesperian Societies to give a banquet, to which a few friends are invited, in addition to the members of the Society. This year the banquet was equally as brilliant and successful as on previous occasions. It was pleasant to sit beneath festoons of daisies, and fresh cut rose boughs, and partake of the delicacies served by trim little waitresses chosen from the membership of the Societies. It was also pleasant to sit and listen to the wit and wisdom that flowed unrestrained from the lips of speakers,—but one of the most significant parts of the programme was "that pledge," which betokened the prosperity of the societies in a special manner. It seems that the societies are not satisfied with their present quarters, and hence have formally pledged themselves to contribute $500 to the trustees if the latter will erect a two story building and give the Societies permanent and uninterrupted use of the same. As the school is in need of several additional rooms, the trustees will most probably accept this offer, and in that case "Society Hall" will crystallize into a reality. Thus you see, kind friends, the work is going on inside the school as well as among the Alumnae.

—Great appreciation was shown in connection with the rare plants and flowers donated by Dr. Bahnsen, Mr. Hege and other friends. These things contribute much to the success of Commencement.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The Hotel Zinzendorf, Hotel Quincy, and many private boarding places were filled by the guests at Commencement.

—The ushers in the church were certainly taxed during Commencement, but they know their business and not a jar or discord occurred throughout.

—Poor Laura Leslie received the sad news of her father's sudden death, the very day on which she was to start home. Miss. Bessent went with her on her mournful journey.

—The sight of the long line of street cars in front of Church and Academy was an interesting one after the evening exercises of commencement week.

—The dinners on Sunday May 22 and Thursday May 26 were honored by the presence of Drs. Moore, Winston and a number of invited guests. The dining hall was tastily decorated.

—The serious illness of Mr. and Mrs. Clewitt's little son rendered the many duties of Commencement week a heavy burden for them; as we go to press with THE ACADEMY, the little fellow is rapidly improving.

—The Seniors picniced at Friedberg a few days before the close of school. Mr. Fogle was there with his "four in hand," and Dr. Rondthaler and Miss Lehman escorted the party. Prof. Wurreschke accompanied another party to Bethabara on a little jaunt about the same time.

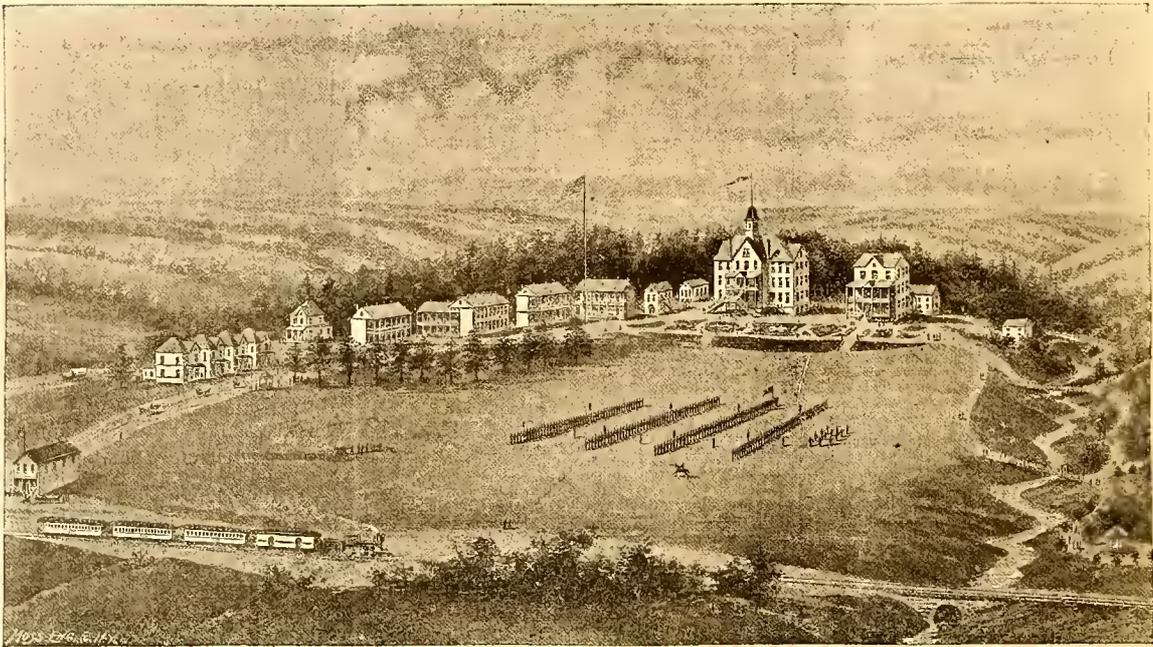

—"Just like fairy land" is the expression often heard as passers by look upon the smooth green lawn under the light of the electric lamp. The community owes much to Mr. Jas. Lineback, who has the oversight of this spot and our beautiful cedar avenue.

—In a few days Mr. and Mrs. Clewitt will go down to Carolina Beach, in order to prepare the Kuri Cottage for the reception of the teachers who will rest and recuperate there this summer. We will give a history of the Academy Cottage at the Seaside, in the September issue of our paper.

—There were 6 members of the class of '81 on the platform in the Alumnae meeting, viz :

- Mrs. Cordie Sluder Barnard.
- Mrs. Susie Biting Shelton.
- Mrs. Bettie Brown Vogler.
- Mrs. Lula Martin McIver.
- Miss Constance Pfohl.
- Miss Kate Jones.

—A number of changes will be made in the library during the summer. Nearly 1000 square feet of floor room is now used, but the addition of another room will greatly facilitate the use of this department. More desks will be added for writing purposes, and a plan is now being devised by means of which it is believed the usefulness of this heart center of the Institution will be greatly increased.

DAVIS SCHOOL.

Above we give a picture of the well known DAVIS SCHOOL, which is about one mile and a half from SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Davis School is a Military College. Degrees are given in Civil Engineering, Science and Art. For those not prepared for the college classes there is a complete Preparatory Department. This institution is beautifully situated, has an able faculty, and has a very large patronage from many sections of the United States. If any of our readers would like to get full particulars write for Register. Address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

—Our friends of the Press were unusually kind and warm in their reports concerning the close of our school year. About twenty thousand words were sent out by the Western Union Office on the several nights of Commencement. What would our school do if deprived of our newspaper friends!

—It will be a matter of satisfaction to know that Miss Scriber, who captured the audience whenever she appeared, and who did so much fine work since her arrival in our midst, will be with us next year; Prof. Schmolck will also continue his labors in the music department, and the manner in which he handled the music in general during Commencement week shows him to be a fine organizer.

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON, N. C.

First National Bank Building.

Married.

GREEN—SMITH.—On May 5th in the Presbyterian church of Craig, Missouri, Mr. Frank M. Green to Miss Alberta Smith, daughter of the late Rev. D. Z. Smith.
 JANNEY—SPENCER.—On May 28th, Mr. George Hails Janney to Miss Margaret Allen Spencer, of Spencer, Va.
 DAVENPORT—TILLERY.—At the residence of the bride's brother in Rocky Mount, N. C., Wednesday, June 1st, Mr. D. F. Davenport of Hamilton, N. C., and Miss Maggie C. Tillery of Rocky Mount.

ILIFF'S
Imperial Atlas of the World.

GRAND WORLD'S FAIR EDITION.
 Official Maps United States and World.
 Official Census United States and World 1890.
 Grand Panorama World's Fair Buildings.
ENLARGED. REVISED TO DATE.
 The Standard Authority.
 The Reference Book of the Century.
 Agents wanted in every Town to whom Liberal Terms will be given.

FRANKLIN PUBLISHING CO., Publishers.
 157 York St., SAVANNAH, GA.

A NICE LINE OF
OIL STOVES,
AT THE "BIG COFFEE POT,"
AT BOTTOM PRICES.

Our latest novelties are:
 PAT. FLUE STOPPERS, PICNIC MUGS, STAR SAFETY RAZORS, PIE LIFTERS, PERFECTION CAKE AND PIE TINS, AND EGG BEATERS, ALL AT VERY REASONABLE RATES.

Very respectfully,
W. O. SENSEMAN & CO.,

Alumnæ Scholarship Fund.

We are pleased to note the increased growth of the fund during the last month. As will be seen below the amount has nearly reached one thousand dollars, which brings the society to the first "mile post" in its work. As will be noticed nearly $400 were contributed in the meeting last month and no names attached. If any names have failed to reach us we will be pleased to acknowledge the same, if notice is sent to us. If the subscription be added to the cash thus far paid in, the sum will reach about eleven hundred dollars.

Miss A Steiner	$ 2.00	Mrs. V Long	7.00
Miss M E Vogler	5.00	Mrs. A H A Williams	5.00
Mrs. L M Fries	5.00	Miss A Van Vleck	1.00
Mrs. M F Patterson	2.00	A friend	5.00
Mrs. Jas Dicks	1.00	Miss Mary Zevely	1.00
Mrs. Yancey	1.00	Miss Delia Blackburn	2.00
Mrs. E Kremer	.50	Mrs. J Blickenderfer	1.00
Miss Addie Fries	5.00	Mrs. F H Fries	25.00
Miss Mary Fries	5.00	Mrs. J C Buxton	5.00
Pres. Geo T Winston	5.00	Miss Lena Chaffin	5.00
Miss D Smith	.50	Mrs. H E Fries	25.00
Mrs. Albert Brietz	.50	S F A	100.00
Mrs. Dora Dunn	1.00	Rev. J F McCuiston	3.00
Miss Daisy Ruff	1.00	Mrs. Dr W J Conrad	5.00
Mrs. Frank Meimung	.25	Miss M Meimung	.25
Cash Alumnae meet g	39.73	Previously ackn'ged	681.35
Mrs. A B Gorrell	5.00
Mrs. H L Riggins	1.00	Total	$969.08

The People's Press,

A Weekly Newspaper published in Salem, N. C., at $1.50 a year. 4-pp., 32 cols. Special attention paid to all matters concerning Salem Female Academy.

Send subscriptions to Miss M. A. Fogle, Salem, N. C., who is our authorized agent.

CRIST & KEEHLN, Props.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON.
JEWELERS,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALM, N. C.

Sept. '91-1y.

The Student's Series of Histories.
Edited by WILLIAM SMITH, LL. D.

- Ancient History: A Mosaic of Ancient History, from the Earliest Times to the Fall of the Western Empire. 636 pp. Price $1.25.
- The Christian Church, I: The History of the Christian Church during the First Ten Centuries, By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 618 pp. Price, $1.50.
- The Christian Church, II: The History of the Christian Church during the Middle Ages. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 700 pp. Price, $1.50.
- The East: The Ancient History of the East, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of Alexander the Great. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. Illustrated, 650 pp. Price $1.25.
- England: A History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Revolution of 1688. 863 pp. $1.50.
- England (CONSTITUTIONAL): The Constitutional History of England. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 748 pp. Price, $1.25.
- England (QUEENS): Lives of the Queens of England, from the Norman Conquest. By AGNES STRICKLAND, Illustrated. 682 pp. Price $1.25.
- France: A History of France, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire in 1852. Illustrated. 730 pp. Price $1.25.
- Germany: A History of Germany, from the Earliest Times. By CHARLTON T. LEWIS, 800 pp. $1.50.
- Greece: A History of Greece, from the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. 704 pp. $1.25.
- Greece (GENERAL): A General History of Greece, from the Earliest Period to the Death of Alexander the Great. By GEORGE W. COX, M. A. 710 pp. Price $1.25.
- Rome: A History of Rome, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By H. G. LIDDELL, D. D. 768 pp. Price $1.25.
- Rome (GENERAL): A General History of Rome. B. C. 753-A. D. 476. By CHARLES MERIVALE, D. D. 702 pp. Price, $1.25.
- Roman Empire: The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By EDWARD GIBBON, Abridged. 678 pp. Price $1.25.
- Middle Ages: View of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 708 pp. Price, $1.25.
- Modern Europe: A History of Modern Europe, By RICHARD LODGE. 772 pp. Price, $1.25.
- New Testament: The New Testament History, With Maps and Woodcuts. 780 pp. Price $1.25.
- Old Testament: The Old Testament History, from the Creation to the Return of the Jews from Captivity. With Maps and Woodcuts. 716 pp. Price, $1.25.

HARPER & BROTHERS,
Franklin Square, New York.

THE SHORT LINE TO NEW ORLEANS, MEMPHIS,

AND POINTS IN THE SOUTHEAST.

TAKE "THE ST. LOUIS LIMITED"
12 HOURS SAVED

BETWEEN
FORT WORTH, DALLAS AND ST. LOUIS AND THE EAST.

THE DIRECT LINE

TO ALL POINTS IN MEXICO, NEW MEXICO, ARIZONA, OREGON and CALIFORNIA.

THROUGH Pullman Buffet SLEEPING CARS
BETWEEN
Dallas, Fort Worth, and St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco.

For rates, tickets and all information apply to, or address any of the ticket agents or
GASTON MESLIER,
Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
Dallas, Texas.

June 1892-1y

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country
All the leading novelties, such as :

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy
Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in

Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton
Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

The following line of Corsets can always be found in our stock :

- The celebrated C. B. Corset in 3 grades.
- Thompson's Glove Fitting Corset.
- Dr. Warner's Health Corset.
- Dr. Warner's Coraline Corset.
- Madame Melville's Corset.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,
has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.
Phone 111. Phone 111.
Jan. 1892.

A NEW ROUTE

TO
WINSTON - SALEM, N. C.,

BY THE

Norfolk & Western R'y

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS
from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS
from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS
from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS
from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville.

By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.
Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules, &c., address
W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892-1y

The Cotton Belt Route.

Has handled more students to and from Arkansas and Texas than all other Southwestern lines combined ; and its continued popularity with the principal Southeastern schools is the highest guarantee of the excellence of its service and the truthfulness of its representations.

Two Daily Trains between Memphis and the Southwest.

THE ONLY LINE receiving and delivering passengers at Memphis without a long and disagreeable omnibus transfer across the city.

THE ONLY LINE with through sleeping car service between MEMPHIS and the SOUTHWEST.

THE ONLY LINE with through car service between MEMPHIS and points in CENTRAL TEXAS.

Comfortable Reclining Chairs Cars,

With all modern conveniences, in charge of special agents; are furnished for the exclusive use of larger parties and are run through without change from starting point to destination; while individual students receive careful attention and are met by agents at junction points, en route, who render all necessary assistance and advice.

PRINCIPALS OF SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES, PARENTS AND GUARDIANS are requested to address any of the following for whatever information they may desire concerning

The Cotton Belt Route.

W. G. ADAMS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Nashville, Tenn.
S. G. WARNER, S. E. Pass. Agt., Memphis, Tenn.
H. H. SUTTON, Trav. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. H. WINFIELD, Gen. Pass. Agt., Tyler, Texas.
E. W. LABEAUME, G. P. & T. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.
June 1892-1y

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851
BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.
New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths,
Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.
Session begins September 1.
Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892-1y

CREAT THROUGH LINE

FROM

ARKANSAS, TEXAS and THE SOUTH-WEST

TO

SALEM and NORTH CAROLINA

VIA

Iron Mountain Route.

Write to the undersigned if you contemplate attending Salem Female College for rates, routes and time-tables.

H. C. TOWNSEND,
Genl. Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

June 1892-1y

TO THE PATRONS OF
SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem, Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah,
Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah
Florida and Western systems in South Caro- lina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove
Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR
& YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove
Union Station.

J. W. FRY,
Gen. Sup't.
Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Pass. Ag't
Fayetteville, N. C.

THE BEAUTIFUL

NORTH.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrodsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 35 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 17 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir
Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England Points and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Columbus, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

SOUTH

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian,
Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas;
New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California.
Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas Points. Anniston, Columbus, Montgomery,
Mobile, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination.
For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information,
call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE,
READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION
D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA

SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars
free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Pre-eminently the Teachers' and Pupils' Route.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us,
patronized, subsequently, any other line.

*This is the only line from Memphis running
Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer in Memphis from Eastern Lines.*

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway
Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick. Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

CRIST & KEEHLN,
PRINTERS AND PUBLISHERS,
Salem, N. C.

Print THE ACADEMY, CATALOGUE, HOW TO GET TO SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY and other publications issued by the Institution.

"SOLD ON MERIT."

THE LIGHT-RUNNING "DOMESTIC"

IS SOLD BY

W. P. ORMSBY,
TWIN-CITY MUSIC HOUSE,
WINSTON, N. C.

Do you want a Piano?
Do you want an Organ?
Do want any Musical Instrument?
W. P. ORMSBY
is agent for STIEFF'S Celebrated
Pianos, and LORING & BLAKE'S
Palace Organs.

Liberal allowance for old instruments in exchange.

Call or write to
W. P. ORMSBY, Twin-City Music House,
WINSTON, N. C.

Oct. 1891-1y.

A. SUSSMANN 232 6th Avenue, N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	50
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE

ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XIV.

SALEM, N. C., SEPTEMBER, 1892.

NUMBER 128.

1802--1892.

THE present year is one of interest to the world because the figures 1492--1892 imply so much to both the old and the new. Following the line of thought suggested by this feature of our country's history, we can point with pride to the dates 1802--1892 as applied to the history of our venerable institution. Nine decades, ninety years! How much has transpired in that space of time! We become so accustomed to repeating the words "ninety years" that we are inclined to have its full import destroyed and to lose the proper perspective. If the mind actually turns to the month of October, 1802, in imagination we see the call extended to the first Principal of the ACADEMY, and we become conscious of the fact that the smoke of the Revolution had scarcely cleared away and that the great civil strife was still three generations off,—yes, the great civil war was closed in time, and another generation passed, when first we find ourselves at the beginning of September, 1892. But September 1st, 1892, was reached. 90 years were closed and the 91st year entered upon, with all that rush of feeling and expectation which accompanies the beginning of a new epoch of time. No one can contemplate the opening of a new period of school-life, the beginning of the year which is to be another link joined to the ninety already gone, without a sense of peculiar interest. What will it have in store for the large number of persons sheltered by the Alma Mater. Successes? May it be so. Sorrows? Some must be mingled within the cup. While the mind of every thoughtful person reaches forward still, were the power given, no hand would be rash enough to raise the curtain and display all that the year has in store. Come weal, come woe, we will let each day unfold its experiences, and receive them from the hand of that wise Providence who has guided the ACADEMY during the long line of years already closed.

The present year was not free from difficulties in our Southern States. While there is no suffering spreading itself over any great section, still there is a general stringency in money matters, cotton is low, real estate is not readily transferred to advantage, so that a shrinkage in attendance would not have been a matter of surprise. In this respect, however, it became apparent even before the first of September that there would be no shrinkage, but even an increase in numbers, which for this year was a matter of special congratulation. The opening week had many pleasures in store,—we name a few.

Not only was the attendance large, but the return of the pupils was prompt. The opening exercises were well attended and the class work entered upon with vigor the same day. Then, too, it was cheering to notice the faces of so very many of the old pupils present at the very first recitation. We are pleased to welcome new faces in the rooms and halls, but when the forms of the old pupils appear here, there and everywhere in house and grounds, their presence seems an encouragement, an endorsement of the work in hand. Nor did the day scholars fail to unite in the spirit just described. They came out in numbers far exceeding the previous year, and to the careful observer this is a significant fact, since it shows that where the ACADEMY'S work is best known it receives the most hearty support.

With the circumstances as we have just stated how could the spirit be otherwise than pleasant. From year to year there has been a steady dropping out of objectionable tendencies. Either the irregular pupil drops into line, or else she drops out of the school. So that when the first week was ended it was remarked by one of experience that "we never had a more pleasant opening." In fact, the harmony was so complete that in the office hardly a protest was filed against either Latin, Algebra or Geometry, and the Alumnae will tell you it was not always thus. Our paper goes to press a little later than usual, hence we have had a good opportunity to observe the following weeks, and they seem to promise the same thing for the entire year. May it be so!

This salutatory of the ACADEMY would hardly be complete if we failed to add a word in regard to the numbers. According to the development of our towns the circle of friends and relatives of our citizens has increased. Hence, a large number of pupils who would formerly have entered the ACADEMY as boarders, now reside with an uncle or aunt, a brother or a sister. If, to the list of those boarding within the school we add these names, and still further increase the list by adding the names of the day pupils from the towns, and also the list of teachers, the total number at this time exceeds three hundred; a number which will be still further increased by late arrivals. Therefore, in view of all of the above facts, we may truthfully claim that the opening of the 91st school year has been a very happy and successful one.

SALUTATORY.

BY MISS EMMA A. KAPP.

BRIGHT, fair-faced May, flinging sweet odors from her golden censor, today wafts us all a realized greeting; and, as we glance over this company of friends, gathered from far and near, we feel a thrill of deep and holy joy. As eye meets eye, and heart responds to heart, it becomes my happy privilege to welcome you, dear friends, to this our Commencement Day.

We are pleased to have with us Rev. Dr. MOORE, whose polished and ornate utterances still sound in our ears from our Baccalaureate Sermon, and will continue to make sweet melody in our hearts for many days to come. Though his chosen field of work lies elsewhere, we are entitled to claim a sort of property in him through long and intimate association.

We are honored to have President WINSTON with us, who, as he guides the helm of our University, stands at the head of the educational interests of the State. We feel a just pride in the noble institution over which he so worthily presides, as the Alma Mater of our brothers and friends, the Mecca to which their eyes turn, as ours do to SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

To the large band of Alumnae who have come to renew their school-days, we give a cordial greeting,—and as old memories come back, like a sweet, pianissimo strain, their faces grow tender with thoughts of the days that are no more, when they, too, were school-girls, looking out from Salem, this "Port of Peace," with puzzled eyes, upon the alluring sea of life on which they were soon to embark. We greet them with affectionate pride, as we see how they are bearing the heat and burden of the day, doing their work faithfully and well, and wherever we hear of them they are an honor to their Alma Mater.

We are glad to see so many members of the Class of '89, who, before they separated, fixed upon this year for their reunion,—before the cares and perplexities of life have had time to wear furrows on their brows.

To the many friends who have come here today, to honor us and the occasion, we give a hearty welcome.

Nature is tuned up to the highest key of gladness,—and, if we cannot be happy today there is no use in trying. Some one has said that the same emotion produces smiles and tears; there is a very short suspension bridge between a smile and a tear, from eye to lip,—and the two feelings lie very close to each other today. Like Hamlet, we have "one auspicious, and one dropping eye," for, amid the flowers and music and joy of Commencement, the minor strain of Farewell is sounding in our ears, and the Good-bye is trembling on our lips.

"Swifter than a weaver's shuttle" is aptly applied to the occurrences of human existence, and with peculiar appropriateness to the regularly recurring intervals of college life. It seems to us as if the Commencement of 1891 had but just disappeared around the corner, when, lo! the Commencement of 1892 is at the door. We hear the advancing steps of the new Seniors, the Class of '93,—ready and more than willing to take our places, and thus the changing scenes move on and on.

This Commencement—our day—the time to which we have so long looked forward, has come: it has gleamed like a star on our school-horizon, ever growing brighter and fairer as the season approached. The time has come when

"Dear hearts shall discover
While dear hands are laid on the head,
The child is a woman,—the books may close over,
For all her lessons are said,"

All? Ah, no! we have but learned to use the tools of our life-work: the greater, deeper lessons lie before us. The enthusiasm, the inspiration of Commencement will soon be over, and we return home to adjust ourselves to old and yet new conditions of domestic life and society, and we will soon show the trend of our endeavors; will show what use we have been making of our advantages. The fitting of self to our sphere will now be our problem, and it will be a more difficult one than any of the problems of the higher mathematics could possibly be.

It has been said that no one has a higher opinion of his or her own powers than a young graduate, but we know that this idea is not always correct. Our hearts, naturally, beat time gleefully to "Life's Morning March," but care and responsibility will gradually tone down its exuberance. We know that the rewards of life are not more easy to attain than formerly, but, on the contrary, every field of usefulness for educated women is more crowded than ever before. People are wanted just as much or more than they ever were, and there will always be the degrees of good, better, best,—or the reverse. Which of these ranks will we enter?

THE ACADEMY this year contains representatives from twenty-one different States,—truly a wide field of usefulness, and each one of us should carry into this field the results of the work done and the training received here. Silently, without noise or circumstance, all the operations of Nature are brought about. Noiselessly the dawn creeps up the eastern sky, kissing the mountain tops and flooding the whole earth with golden glory. Silently mighty influences are at work during the world's winter time, yet a few days of bright sunshine robe the hills in emerald, and array the trees in their mid-summer splendor. Quietly, unobtrusively, would we work, leaving the results to Him who sees the end from the beginning.

Recently, one of our Alumnae, the daughter of Governor Holt, was chosen to christen a fine large cruiser, newly built. As she broke the bottle of wine over the bow of the stately vessel, the last props and undergirders were removed, and it slipped out of the dock amid the cheers and acclamations of a vast multitude.

To-day we are about to see the last restraints of our school-life removed, and, as we move out into broader waters, your smiles and approval constitute the choice wine that flows over the bows. Give us your good wishes and your prayers that we may grow more and more like that of our great Exemplar and Captain;—and, at last, avoiding all wrecking rocks and shoals, we may safely thread the Narrows and enter the harbor of Eternal Peace.

Mr. Clewell's Narrow Escape.

AS announced in the June number of the ACADEMY, Mr. CLEWELL started South early in July for the purpose of visiting a number of the pupils in their homes. He first stopped at Charlotte, then went to Spartanburg, S. C., and to Atlanta, Ga., and after a brief stay in that city he started on the journey to Dallas, Tex., but before reaching Vicksburg suffered the horrors of a terrible railroad accident, from which he escaped as if by a miracle. But we will let him tell his own story as printed later in the Twin-City Daily:

"We were about one hour late, and were some four or five miles from Vicksburg, making up time as we approached the city. I think I was reading at the time, and remember that it was the middle of the afternoon. The speed at which we were running was probably fifty miles an hour. As we approached a thirty-foot embankment, at the bottom of which was a pond of water, by some accident the Mann Boudoir car left the track, and after bumping over the ties for a short distance was hurled with fearful force down the embankment. The first intimation of the catastrophe I can recall was akin to the helpless feeling a person has in falling. I heard some one in the next state room shriek, "My God, we're gone!" just as the car toppled over, and in a twinkling it was on its side. I also remember springing up in desperation as it went over, my feet landing on the window of the car as it ploughed down the side of the bank, filling the stateroom with dust. I made a grasp for the door, which was immediately above my head, but as I did so the walls of the stateroom, roof, doors and windows were crushed in as you would crush an egg-shell. There was at the same time a terrific crash, and I knew nothing more. What I have just described occupied but a second of time, for the speed at which we were going hurled us down the steep embankment as if the car had been hurled from a huge cannon's mouth. What followed I knew nothing of, and give it as it was gathered from others, since I did not regain consciousness for three or four hours,—in fact, it was a day and a half before I could convince myself that it was not a dream.

"The train broke loose from the sleeper as the latter went down, and ran quite a distance before it could be checked. In the meantime, some who were in the wreck had extricated themselves, and not being seriously injured, began the work of releasing the imprisoned victims. It was not an easy task. Axes and saws were brought from the other cars, for the wrecked sleeper appeared like a huge pile of kindling wood. One of the first efforts was very unfortunate. A young man was pinned in beneath a window, and as the rescuer broke the glass with his heel a piece fell on the prisoner's throat, cutting a deep gash, exposing the windpipe and coming within one-half inch of severing the jugular vein. Another party dragged out a young lady who, though the bones of her shoulder were crushed, rushed back and forth crying that her father was drowning. In falling the rear end of the car went into the pond, and the old gentleman was pinned down so that his head was under the water. Sturdy workers soon cleared away the obstruction, got him out, and rolled him on the ground until he at last showed signs of life. Parties say they finally came to where I was shut in, and cut me out from among the broken timbers, my face covered with blood and in an unconscious state. One of the gentlemen who helped me out was from Vicksburg, Miss., the other from Louisville, Ky. The wounded were all taken to the Piazza Hotel. About sunset, or a little later, I opened my eyes, and saw through the window the red light in the West. A number of persons were in the room, and I knew that my face was being sponged with cold water, but I did not feel the least interest in who they were, where I was, or what they were doing. At last some one said, 'I don't like it that he does not rally,' and I remember that they raised me up, gave me some medicine, and I then gathered energy enough to ask where I was. They told me that I had been in a wreck some hours before, I asked them if I was hurt, and they said they were trying to find out. I also remember standing up as the doctor felt of the joints of the spine, and then said, 'Fortunately it is only a shock as no bones are broken.' Under the influence of restoratives I was able to stand soon after and to walk about, but only for a moment or two now and then would consciousness return, and being in this dazed condition they placed a 'guardian' over me, who remained constantly with me till I started for home. The return was a necessity since besides cuts and bruises I had evidently received a blow on both head and spine, in fact, I must have been tossed about so as to reach all the other possible parts of the body; I felt as if I had been run between the upper and nether mill stone. As in a dream I recall the circumstance of going out to get a hat, for all my goods had been lost; so, too, as in a dream I remember going to the supper table (but do not remember whether I ate anything or not), paying my hotel bill, talking with a newspaper reporter and finally starting on my homeward journey, to nurse the bruises and cuts, for of course the Principal of a school could not visit the patrons with a black eye, a cut nose, and an injured spine; and, in addition, several physicians assured me that it might require weeks to recover from the shock.

"On my trip home every lurch of the coach filled me with terror, and as the faculties of the mind gradually returned, I realized that I had been face to face with death, since nothing but the protecting hand of God could save a man alive from the crushed and broken timbers which our return train passed late that night. I looked out of the window as we crept by at a snail's pace, and I saw a black mass with lanterns on and about it, but drew back again with a shudder and thanked God for his protecting care. The line in our Church litany, "Watch over those who travel by land or sea," will always have a special meaning for me in the future, and those who have never been in a railroad wreck should make one of their prayers to be that they may be spared the awful terrors of the ordeal."

--We are indebted to Rev. R. P. Leinbach for the donation of a set of Shakespeareana for the year 1884, to the ACADEMY library.

Personal.

--Mrs. Charles Garrett (FANNIE BUTNER), of Knoxville, Tenn., spent several weeks of July with her parents in Salem.

--We were very sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Lelia F. Crenshaw, LILLIAN'S mother and the wife of Thomas F. Crenshaw, LaGrange, Ga. Mrs. Crenshaw was the daughter of Col. A. B. Frost, a banker of LaGrange. After a thorough course of study in LaGrange, her education was finished at a celebrated educational institution of Berlin, Prussia. She was a brilliant woman of varied accomplishments and highly esteemed.

--Our sympathy likewise goes out to MARY and FANNIE PRETLOW, Class of '90, in the death of their mother at Franklin, Va.

--Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Burton (ALICE SHELTON), of Danville, Va., were here at the beginning of the new school year. In their company we were likewise glad to see Mr. Fitzgerald, who brought his little daughter, KATIE, to the ACADEMY, Mrs. W. Shelton, &c.

--We acknowledge with pleasure the reception of a photograph of little Miss Luta Douglas Frierson, the bright-eyed, wide-awake, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Frierson (NELLIE BEWLEY), of Anderson, S. C.

--Mrs. Rutherford, of Houston, Texas, better known to our Alumnae as AMANDA CARDWELL, recently spent some time with Mrs. Shelton (NELLIE BELO) and was as happy to greet her old friends and classmates as they were to see her bright face again.

--September 14th was a notable day for excursions in the twin-cities. Several different Sunday Schools were here, from Danville, Va., and from Wilkesboro, N. C. Quite a number of old friends and former pupils appeared at the ACADEMY, so that it seemed almost like a small Alumnae meeting. We saw among others FANNIE MCKINNEY, now Mrs. Fitzgerald, of Pelham, N. C.; ALICE JOHNSON, now Mrs. A. B. Henderson, REBECCA JOHNSON, now Mrs. J. A. Henderson, Mrs. Wm. Shelton (FANNIE JOHNSON) Mrs. R. A. Schoolfield (ANNE FRANCE) Mrs. K. F. Alexander, Miss ANNIE MAY SCHOOLFIELD, of Danville, Va.

--Miss SCRIBER is at present using one of the rooms in the old Annex,—the one used last year by Miss MATHEWSON.

--Among the many personal items that we might give of interest to our many readers, we note a few:

--While at Wilmington we met Mrs. Wright, of Columbia, and found her friendship for the Alma Mater as strong as ever.

--LILLY BELLE NEWBURY called at the Academy Cottage, Carolina Beach, this summer, and the friends also enjoyed a visit from ADDIE NIMOCKS, BERTHA and REBECCA BEAR.

--After a sermon delivered in the 2nd Presbyterian church, Wilmington, Mr. CLEWELL met EDITH RAMSAUR who had been spending some time in Eastern Carolina.

--Mrs. W. J. Woodward (MARY WORTH, 1871) paid her respects to a number of teachers, July 14th. She lives in Wilmington at present, and is the mother of eight children.

--At the opening of the term we had the pleasure of shaking hands with a number of former pupils, and among the number we note ANNIE MAY SCHOOLFIELD, CARRIE COWLES and LIZZIE FITZGERALD.

--Miss TRACY, the new instructor of Vocal Music has arrived, and commenced her work in South Hall, occupying the room on the second floor opposite the Library. We will have something more to say of Miss TRACY'S work next month.

Mr. Eli Spough who was night watchman for a number of years and who has been connected with the ACADEMY service more than ten years resigned his position in August and removed from town. Mr. Tesh has taken his place as night watchman.

--The ladies who have charge of the various room companies are as follows:

North and South Senior Rooms, Miss LEHMAN.

Third Room, Miss SALLIE SHAFFNER and Miss FLORENCE MEINUNG.

Fourth Room, Miss MARY MEINUNG and Miss LOU SHAFFNER.

Fifth Room, Miss TIETZE and Miss HEGE.

Sixth Room, Miss JONES and Miss MICKY.

Seventh Room, Miss PITTMAN and Miss SIDDALL.

Eighth Room, Miss VEST and Miss BARROW.

Ninth Room, Miss CHITTY and Miss BESSENT.

Tenth Room, Miss HEISLER and Mrs. SMITH.

Park Hall, Miss WOLLE and Miss BROWN.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., SEPTEMBER, 1892.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.
Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—With the present number of THE ACADEMY the subscription of very many of our friends expires, and we trust that we may be favored with a renewal of all the subscriptions. A little more interest on the part of recent graduates in this respect will be welcome.

—The success of the ACADEMY cottage, established at Carolina Beach, is a matter of congratulation. The greater portion of the teachers spent a longer or shorter time on the shore of old Ocean, and from time to time in the future, the ACADEMY will have something to say of the many and varied experiences.

—We call attention to the request made by Miss ADDIE FRIES in regard to desired information. The historical work in which she is engaged is one of great need at the present time, and when ready for print will be welcomed by all the friends of the school. We rejoice to know that this long felt need will be soon supplied.

—Circumstances caused the publication of THE ACADEMY to be delayed till end of September, and as we desire to mail our papers the middle of each month we will try to print the October number in about two weeks from the present time. Hence the two numbers coming so near together will be considered as forming the opening paper of the year. In the October number we will notice several subjects which are omitted this month, viz: a description of our new building; the experiences at the ACADEMY seaside cottage; the enlarged Library; Dr. RONDTHALER's jubilee celebration, and other items of interest.

—During the warm, dry weather of September the fountains in yard and ground appeared very inviting and cool. The Park is certainly a "thing of beauty," and seems also to be a "joy forever." Few spots in our broad land equal the Academy pleasure grounds in natural beauty.

To the Loyal Daughters of Salem Female Academy.

THAT throughout the length and breadth of our fair Southland, and in the wide expanse of our great country from Maine to Mexico, from California to the Atlantic seaboard, our Alma Mater has exerted a powerful influence for good we proudly declare, yet, how shall we substantiate our claim? Other colleges show us page on page of listed names of those who, once boys within their walls, have since attained renown as doctors, scientists, judges, governors, presidents of the United States, but if the stranger asks of us "what have you done?" what may we say? what record can we show? Thousands of happy homes from which these men went forth, you say,—yet when did generalities ever convince the world or one inhabitant thereof? Should we not rather say, "See, these women have gained positions of influence through their own exertions, these mothers have trained these famous sons, these wives have nobly aided their husbands to gain the honor of the nation, these daughters have bravely filled the stations in which their fathers' successes have placed them?" As one who has the matter much at heart I ask you, Daughters of the ACADEMY, to join me in this good work, and send me full information which will enable me to compile a complete list of all pupils of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, younger or older, who have themselves become famous, or were the mothers or daughters of famous men or women, stating in addition the positions those "famous men or women" occupied. Then in the future we may confront the world with definite assertions which none may question or gainsay.

ADELAIDE L. FRIES,
Salem, N. C.

Correspondence.

—We gather once more around the board of our Alma Mater for a social chat; and though separated in body we can still meet through our correspondence columns for interchange of thought and affectionate inquiry. Our first communication is from MAY FRANKLIN, a recent graduate:

It has been just a month since you wrote me, and when I received your letter I was sure it would be answered in less than a week, so glad was I to hear from you, but as I have been going about most of the time I have put off writing till now.

Mamma has been well for some time now, and she says I must have all possible pleasure. For nearly two weeks I was in Dan-dridge, with old Salem girls. ALICE HARRIS asked about you especially, and sends you a great deal of love, so too did Miss CYNTHIA SWANN, and others. Can't you make us a visit? we would enjoy it so much and you have so many girls around here. I hope Mr. CLEWELL will come to us as soon as he is strong enough. I was so sorry to hear of his accident.

Last Friday was my birthday, also OLLIE's and my only sister's; it is quite a coincidence that three of us should have our birthdays on the same day; OLLIE's sister, Mrs. Gallion, gave us a reception in the evening, and we had a very pleasant time.

This winter I suppose I will devote my time to art. I can be at home all the time and that is a great consideration. I have only been sick once since I reached home. I ride out every day and that I think will make me strong. Papa and Mamma gave me a new saddle and riding habit on my birthday, and my horse is such a dear creature, that I would like to spend more time than I do on horseback.

A few weeks more, and the Academy will be full of girls. I don't want any one else to have my place, and I feel that I will always have a place in S. F. A. Don't forget me please, and write soon.

With a great deal of love,
MAY FRANKLIN.

Flat Gap, Tenn.

—AVA STROUP also writes from Shelby, N. C., as follows:

I have thought of writing frequently since I left school, but I knew you would get a great many letters, and so I waited awhile. It is almost time for another school year to begin. The vacation has seemed very short to me, and for you, I fear it has been a very brief time of rest. I hope however that you will spend many more days in the ACADEMY.

I presume I will spend the winter at my home in Texas; it seems so strange that I am not returning to S. F. A. I hope you will have an excellent class but I do not want any to eclipse the class of '92 in their record. Please write.

Your affectionate pupil,
AVA STROUP.

Shelby, N. C.

—A few selections from NELLIE BEWLEY FRIERSON's letter will also be of interest to her many friends:

"First let me thank you for your kind letter we enjoyed it so much. If you could peep in just now, I know you would think you had a sweet picture before you, as baby Luta lies on her little white pallet; she seems to be trying to see in how many different ways she can coo and crow. It is only within the last weeks that she has discovered that she possesses the wonderful accomplishment. She was six months old on August 3rd. The photograph represents her more robust than she really is. Of course, she is the only baby in the world to us, and the very light and joy of our home.

Sister LUTA (Mrs. Sullivan), lives in Elberton, Ga., only 40 miles from us, but we miss her so much. She thinks her Charlie is the only man in the world; Sister IDA, (Mrs. Mitchell) argues that her Dr. is the choice, and I know I have the best.

Katie Paddison Sheets' death was a great shock to me; it was so sad. I know KATE and ALICE OLLINGER are enjoying themselves in Europe, it is such a grand trip for them. LUTA was over and spent two weeks with us a short while ago. We talked a great deal of Salem, and of all the dear teachers and girls. I would so much enjoy a visit to the school, and will try and surprise you all some day.

Remember me kindly to Dr. R., Mr. CLEWELL and their families, and the teachers who were there when I left. I hope you will be strong enough to resume your duties when school opens.

With much love,

NELLIE BEWLEV FRIERSON.

Anderson, S. C.

—SUSIE GULICK sends us words of affectionate interest, from which we will take a selection:

THE ACADEMY gave quite an interesting account of Commencement, and as I could not go, I read it with such interest that I imagined I was taking part in it. LAURA WHITNER wrote me the other day asking when we should have our Class reunion. I think she is as anxious as I am that it should be next year. I have the greatest longing to see some of my school friends. It seems to me that the friendships made at school are more disinterested than those of later years.

Have you heard anything of EMMA HALE? I heard that she had been teaching music this winter. I think she is the only member of our class who has been doing something for herself. I am going to work next winter. Before I finish let me tell you of GEORGIA BAXTER. Her health is completely broken down and she is in a hospital North for treatment.

Yours sincerely,

SUSIE GULICK.

Columbia, S. C.

—The following lines are from Mrs. J. R. Henderson:

Having been called from home by illness in my brother's family your letter was not answered, but upon my return I at once hasten to reply. Owing to the condition of my family it will be impossible for us to send our daughter till the latter part of October or the first of November, and I think I can safely say that you will have a smart, studious and dutiful pupil in her.

I was a student of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY during the last year of Rev. R. DESCHWEINITZ's control, and the first year of Mr. GRUNERT's, and of course, I feel a considerable attachment to the institution.

Very respectfully,

Mrs. J. R. HENDERSON.

Wilkesboro, N. C.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The first and second stories of Main Hall were painted during vacation and the floors stained, making the appearance very fresh and attractive.

—A comfortable play house is being arranged in the east end of Annex Hall, for the use of the 10th room girls. It is a specially favorable location, since the many pipes from the water heater furnace will make the place warm in winter.

—An invitation was extended in chapel some days since to all who desire to engage in long autumn rambles to join with the parties during the succeeding weeks. These rambles in the woods are always enjoyable, and also add much to the health and strength of the pupils.

—Neat walnut cases were placed on the walls of the study parlors to hold the hymn books. A new and very fine publication, entitled "Offices of Worship and Hymns," from the Moravian Publication Office has been introduced into the daily chapel service, and will, in many respects, be superior to the Hymn Book for this particular service.

—The 19th of September has been observed as a holiday for a number of years, that being the date of the Principal's birthday. It so happened this year that it was the same day that Mr. Stevenson visited our towns, and so no plans could be made for a ride or any out-door enjoyments. The procession, in which so many hundreds engaged, formed a source of great interest to the girls, but we will speak of this in another connection. Early in the morning Mr. CLEWELL was summoned from the office and on entering the room he saw a committee standing in solemn state, and he meekly asked, "What have I done?" The committee informed him that he had passed into the hitherto unknown boundaries of another year, and in consideration of this fact they would transfer to him the small black case which was then given to him, and which was found to contain an elegant solid gold watch. It was certainly a beauty, and it is also certain that a better watch was never brought to our towns. Mr. CLEWELL was both astonished and delighted and seemed to wear a prouder air all through the day, and could scarcely refrain from telling everybody he met what time it was. On the birthday table was also a goodly array of handsome remembrances, a gold-mounted watch-guard, gold cuff buttons, a flexible hymn book, "Hours with the Bible," by Geikie, and other tokens. In the afternoon the reception tendered Gen. Stevenson took place, and at night Dr. RONDTHALER delivered a lecture with stereopticon illustrations. After the lecture the party repaired to the dining-room where ice cream and cake was served. Tuesday, at 10 o'clock, the "birthday dinner" was enjoyed by the school, a number of guests being present. A ride has been promised for the near future.

—The new teachers who this year enter upon their duties in the ACADEMY are Misses ETTA BROWN, OTELIA BARROW and ELLA SIDBALL.

—Mr. C. A. Fogle who has always displayed so lively an interest in the Academy's welfare, has gone to Las Vegas, New Mexico, to seek relief in a higher altitude. The good wishes of THE ACADEMY go with him. We trust he may be speedily restored to health and strength.

—An abstract of the news of the day is placed on the board in Main Hall, early each morning. In addition to what is commonly known as news, the "board" will keep the pupils posted on the latest discoveries in science, travel and kindred topics. It is not put down as a part of the "school plan" but may be made a source of profit to all who wish to use it.

—By the new plan the Library is a safe place, as far as temptation is concerned. Ground glass windows give all the light that is needed, and hence no special supervision is needed. It is open all the time, day and night, and 7 days in the week.

—The gymnasium is much used, and it is well that it is so. With the enlarged and comfortable condition of the Library, the splendid place for romping in the gymnasium, and the delightful strolls in yard and Park,—the large halls of the main building are generally occupied only by a small company during the day.

List of Boarding Pupils

who have registered previous to the time that the September ACADEMY is printed. The Day pupils' list will be published next month.

Irene Points, Jennie Anderson, Daisy Crutchfield, Addie Nimmocks, Lillian Crutchfield, Julia Tuck, Mary Conrad, Cleve Barnes, Florence King, Madge Barnes, Lizzie Majette, Maggie Borum, Jennie Majette, Eva Kerner, Louise Morrison, Sallie Penn, Sallie Parker, Georgie Ennett, Alice Rawley, Katie Hanes, Mattie Kellett, Sallie Boyd, Dowie Chedester, Anna Withers, Fannie Creight, Sallie Jarvis, Maggie Peden, Anna Davis, Sallie Bonner, Annie Carrier, Minnie Crouse, Mattie Johns, Mary Cowles, Lillian Gosling, Susie Wright, Eliza Hoffman, Roxie Storey, Laura Brown, Edna Lineberry, Lucia Swanson, Fanny Perrow, Bertha Dawson, Mattie Williams, Ella Anderson, Mattie Cooper, Huberta Read, Mary McKeown, Carrie Covington, Ethel Weaver, Alma Chaffin, Eliza Gulick, Sallie Adams, Laura Leslie, Hattie Ollinger, Maud McGinnis, Jennie Harper, Annie Moore, Carrie Crouch, Mary Moore, Katie Crouch, Maud Cheek, Pearl Read, Narcie Taylor, Lucy Ball, Mary Osterbind, Ethel Roberts, Kittie Fitzgerald, Susie Reynolds, Bessie Whitner, Claudia Dicks, Daisy Schoolfield, Bessie Brooke, Nellie Cummings, Kate Brooke, Mattie M. Williams, Mary Millis, Mary McCauley, Marie Lawson, Daisy Thompson, Julia Jones, Blanche Sims, Annie Pearsall, Ella Neeley, Lottie Thornton, Carrie Greer, Blanche Thornton, Harriet Cross, Claudia Palmer, Lucy Williams, Lena Colwell, Cora Taylor, Minnie Handcock, Eva Chetham, Beulah Brooks, Agnes Stallings, Fodie McKay, Bessie Foy, Lettie Hairston, Mary Johnston, Annie Hairston, Agnes Johnston, Carrie Rollins, Ula Avent, Pauline Burden, Viola Davis, Margie Flake, Ola White, Florence Toomey, Lucy Thorp, Alice Thompson, Cornelia Lineback, Lizzie Schofield, India Kerner, Lena Wellborne, Effie Gilmer, Lucy Brown, Alpha Woosley, Helen Dunn, Cora Cowles, Mattie Elliott, Nannie Shell, Josephine Moses, Sarah Shell, Lola Jackens, Gertrude Robbins, Alice Cordill, Luda Morrison, Irma Cordill, Maggie Pope, Addie Lineback, Bertha Bear, Elizabeth Nicholson, Annie Smith, Ethel Burton, Mattie Elliott, Josephine Moses, Lola Jackens, Alice Cordill, Irma Cordill, Addie Lineback, Elizabeth Nicholson, Ethel Burton,

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs. Mattie Bogle, Midland, Tenn.; Miss Theo. Fitzgerald, N. Danville, Va.; Mrs. E. C. Clinard, Mrs. Dr. J. W. Conrad, Mrs. Dr. C. J. Watkins, Mrs. Boone Rose, Winston, N. C.; Mrs. Edith J. Wessels, New York City; Mrs. Dr. Hill, Arcadia, N. C.; Mrs. L. A. Brietz, Miss Mary Zevely, Mrs. W. A. Lemly, Mrs. Ada Hemsath, Miss Jessie Brown, Mrs. Rosa Norfleet, Sajem, N. C.; Mrs. C. A. Lumpkin, Summit, Miss; Miss Bessie Purnell, Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs. P. W. Booe, Walkertown, N. C.; Mrs. Jacob Blickenderfer, Farmington, Washington; Miss Lizzie Patterson, Liberty, N. C.; Miss Julia Smith, Greenville, Tenn.; Mrs. Dora Dunn, Neuse, N. C.; Mrs. Chas. M. Corpenning, Marion, N. C.; Miss Eula Cox, Miss Bettie Cox, Sedge Garden, N. C.; Mrs. A. Sturdivant, Charlotte, N. C.; Miss Agnes Parker, Coatopa, Ala.; Miss Lullie Bridgers, Tarboro, N. C.; Mrs. W. C. Wright, Columbia, S. C.; Mrs. J. W. Roseborough, Columbus, Miss.; Mrs. Dr. B. F. Cox, Redaba, N. C.; Mrs. J. H. Kapp, Bethania, N. C.

Married.

LEVERING-SHULTZ.—In Bethlehem, Pa., on July 13th, Mr. LEWIS LEVERING to Miss MARY SHULTZ.

VOGLER-GOSLEN.—In the Moravian church of Salem, N. C., on September 13, HENRY E. VOGLER to Miss BIRDIE V. GOSLEN, daughter of J. W. Goslen, editor of the Union Republican,

Died.

DEADERICK.—In Jonesboro, Tenn., on July 30th, Miss LULA DEADERICK, Class of '88. Thus a third dearly loved member of the class of '88 has passed away during the year. Quiet and retiring in disposition LULA made friends wherever she went by her sterling qualities of mind and heart. After tending a sick sister through a long illness she herself was prostrated with typhoid fever, then a swift decline set in, and in a few months she was called up higher.

HILL.—In Germantown, N. C., August 21st, Miss CORNELIA C. HILL, daughter of Dr. L. N. Hill. She attended the ACADEMY in 1881, and and was a quiet, studious girl, very faithful in the performance of her duties.

SHEETS.—At her residence on Cool Spring Street, Fayetteville, N. C., on June 7th, 1892, Mrs. KATIE PADDISON SHEETS, wife of W. S. Sheets, Esq.

Thus has entered into rest one of the fairest and noblest of our citizens, in the early summer of her years, when her feet had but touched the flood of human struggle and sorrow.

Educated at that famous institution of learning, SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, she took the highest rank in her studies. She devoted herself to teaching for a time, which, like everything else she undertook she did intelligently and well.

Nine months ago she gave her hand in marriage to one of our estimable young men W. S. Sheets, Esq., and from that hour her beautiful life has shone like a star upon the mingling activities of our city.

The love of kindred and friends, the sympathy of a whole city, the intercession of holy men and women,—none of these powerful influences could keep her, and, so out of the midnight and the storm as well as out of the firelight and shadow, she passed the gates ajar. —Fayetteville Observer.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only and embraces, under general date of entrance,— 1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

—I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!

1883.

- 5609 ANNIE M. FANT. —
O. H. Fant, Anderson, S. C.
5610 JESSIE RAMSEY. — 1866.
W. S. Ramsey, Baltimore, Md.
5611 JENNIE W. WILLIAMSON. — 1868.
W. E. Williamson, Asheville, N. C.
5612 MARY ETTA CRAIG. — 1869.
John H. Craig, Gastonia, N. C.
5613 IDA E. HOLLAND. — 1868.
Dr. E. B. Holland, Dallas, N. C.
5614 MAMIE JONES. — 1865.
Mrs. Mary E. Whitaker, Cary, N. C.
5615 LULA M. TATE. — 1866.
Armstrong Tate, Graham, N. C.
5616 PATTIE JOHNSTON. — 1866.
5617 MOLLIE JOHNSTON. — 1868.
5618 LIZZIE JOHNSTON. — 1871.
W. B. Johnston, Ruffin, N. C.
5619 ANNIE L. STOKES. — 1869.
Emma Stokes, Danville, Va.
5620 THEO. FITZGERALD. — 1868.
Thos. B. Fitzgerald, Danville, Va.
5621 MARY V. WALKER. — 1868.
Mrs. S. M. Walker, Oxford, N. C.
5622 ELLIE ALEXANDER. — 1894.
Dr. A. W. Alexander, Charlotte, N. C.
5623 BEULAH YOUNTZ. — 1867.
S. Yountz, Fifeville, N. C.
5624 ANNA F. MILLER. — 1863.
5625 JUANITA MILLER. 1864.
5626 LAURA B. MILLER. — 1866.
Chas. H. Miller, Blacksburg, Va.

S. E. ALLEN.

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

First National Bank Building.

ILLIFF'S

Imperial Atlas of the World.

GRAND WORLD'S FAIR EDITION.

Official Maps United States and World.
Official Census United States and World 1890.
Grand Panorama World's Fair Buildings.

ENLARGED. REVISED. TO DATE.

The Standard Authority.

The Reference Book of the Century.

Agents wanted in every Town to whom Liberal Terms will be given.

FRANKLIN PUBLISHING CO., Publishers,
157 York St., SAVANNAH, GA.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxydized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON.

JEWELERS,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-1y.

The Cotton Belt Route.

Has handled more students to and from Arkansas and Texas than all other Southwestern lines combined; and its continued popularity with the principal Southeastern schools is the highest guarantee of the excellence of its service and the truthfulness of its representations.

Two Daily Trains between Memphis and the Southwest.

THE ONLY LINE receiving and delivering passengers at Memphis without a long and disagreeable omnibus transfer across the city.

THE ONLY LINE with through sleeping car service between MEMPHIS and the SOUTHWEST.

THE ONLY LINE with through car service between MEMPHIS and points in CENTRAL TEXAS.

Comfortable Reclining Chairs Cars,

With all modern conveniences, in charge of special agents; are furnished for the exclusive use of larger parties and are run through without change from starting point to destination; while individual students receive careful attention and are met by agents at junction points, en route, who render all necessary assistance and advice.

PRINCIPALS OF SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES, PARENTS AND GUARDIANS are requested to address any of the following for whatever information they may desire concerning

The Cotton Belt Route.

W. G. ADAMS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Nashville, Tenn.
S. G. WARNER, S. E. Pass. Agt., Memphis, Tenn.
H. H. SUTTON, Trav. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. H. WINFIELD, Gen. Pass. Agt., Tyler, Texas.
E. W. LABEAUME, G. P. & T. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.
June 1892—1y

The Student's Series of Histories.

Edited by WILLIAM SMITH, LL. D.

- Ancient History: A Manuel of Ancient History, from the Earliest times to the Fall of the Western Empire. 636 pp. Price $1.25.
- The Christian Church, I: The History of the Christian Church during the First Ten Centuries, By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 618 pp. Price, $1.50.
- The Christian Church, II: The History of the Christian Church during the Middle Ages. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 700 pp. Price, $1.50.
- The East: The Ancient History of the East, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of Alexander the Great. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. Illustrated, 650 pp. Price $1.25.
- England: A History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Revolution of 1688. 808 pp. $1.50.
- England (CONSTITUTIONAL): The Constitutional History of England. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 748 pp. Price, $1.25.
- England (QUEENS): Lives of the Queens of England, from the Norman Conquest. By AGNES STRICKLAND. Illustrated. 682 pp. Price $1.25.
- France: A History of France, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire in 1852. Illustrated. 730 pp. Price $1.25.
- Germany: A History of Germany, from the Earliest Times. By CHARLTON T. LEWIS. 800 pp. $1.50.
- Greece: A History of Greece, from the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. 704 pp. $1.25.
- Greece (GENERAL): A General History of Greece, from the Earliest Period to the Death of Alexander the Great. By GEORGE W. COX, M. A. 710 pp. Price $1.25.
- Rome: A History of Rome, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By H. G. LIDDELL, D. D. 768 pp. Price $1.25.
- Rome (GENERAL): A General History of Rome. B. C. 753—A. D. 476. By CHARLES MERIVALE, D. D. 702 pp. Price, $1.25.
- Roman Empire: The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By EDWARD GIBBON. Abridged. 678 pp. Price $1.25.
- Middle Ages: View of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 708 pp. Price, $1.25.
- Modern Europe: A History of Modern Europe, by RICHARD LODGE. 772 pp. Price, $1.25.
- New Testament: The New Testament History, With Maps and Woodcuts. 780 pp. Price $1.25.
- Old Testament: The Old Testament History, from the Creation to the Return of the Jews from Captivity. With Maps and Woodcuts. 716 pp. Price, $1.25.

HARPER & BROTHERS,
Franklin Square, New York.

THE SHORT LINE TO NEW ORLEANS, MEMPHIS

AND POINTS IN THE SOUTHEAST.

TAKE "THE ST. LOUIS LIMITED"
12 HOURS SAVED

BETWEEN

FORT WORTH, DALLAS AND ST. LOUIS AND THE EAST.

THE DIRECT LINE

TO ALL POINTS IN

MEXICO, NEW MEXICO, ARIZONA, OREGON AND CALIFORNIA.

THROUGH Pullman Buffet SLEEPING CARS

BETWEEN

Dallas, Fort Worth, and St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco.

For rates, tickets and all information apply to, or address any of the ticket agents or

GASTON MESLIER,
Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
Dallas, Texas.

June 1892—1y

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country

All the leading novelties, such as:

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in

Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

The following line of Corsets can always be found in our stock:

The celebrated C. B. Corset in 3 grades.

Thompson's Glove Fitting Corset.

Dr. Warner's Health Corset.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corset.

Madame Melville's Corset.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,

has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111.

Phone 111.

Jan. 1892.

A NEW ROUTE

TO

WINSTON - SALEM, N. C.,

BY THE

Norfolk & Western R'y

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville.

By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL,

ALLEN HULL,

Gen. Pass. Agent.

Trav. Pass. Agt

ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892—1y

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851
 BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.
 New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.
 Electric Lights,
 Hot and Cold Baths.
 Efficient Instructors.
 A Model Home School for Boys.
 Session begins September 1.
 Catalogue sent on application.
HORNER & DREWRY
 Principals.

June 1892-1y

GREAT THROUGH LINE

FROM

ARKANSAS, TEXAS and THE SOUTH-WEST

TO

SALEM and NORTH CAROLINA

VIA

Iron Mountain Route.

Write to the undersigned if you
 contemplate attending Salem Female College for rates, routes and time-tables.

H. C. TOWNSEND,

Genl Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

June 1892-1y

TO THE PATRONS OF
 SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and
Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah,
Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points
 on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah
Florida and Western systems in South Caro- lina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove
Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR
& YADRIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove
Union Station.

J W FRY,
 Gen. Sup't.
 Greensboro, N. C.

W E KYLE,
 Gen. Pass. Ag't
 Fayetteville, N. C.

THE BEAUTIFUL

NORTH.

The shortest and most direct line to Harrodsburg, Shelbyville, Lexington, Frankfort, Paris. Only 11 hours and 35 minutes Chattanooga to Louisville, only 11 hours Chattanooga to Cincinnati, only 12 hours Knoxville to Cincinnati, without change, with luxurious Pullman Boudoir
 Sleeping Cars through without change, making close connections North-bound for St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo and Canadian points, New York, Boston, New England Points and the Summer Resorts of the North and East, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

SOUTH.

The only line Chattanooga to Birmingham, Meridian,
 Jackson, Vicksburg, and Shreveport, making direct connections without omnibus transfer at Shreveport for Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Galveston, Austin, Texas;
 New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Mexico and California.
 Shortest and Quickest Line to New Orleans, with solid Trains and Through Pullman Sleepers, making direct connections for Texas, Mexico and California. Close connection made en route for Memphis, Little Rock and Arkansas Points. Anniston, Columbus, Montgomery,
 Mobile, Natchez.

Passengers ticketed and Baggage checked through to destination.

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information,
 call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE,
READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION
D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA

SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars
free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Pre-eminently the Teachers' and Pupils' Route.

We have handled the First-Class Schools of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and other States for a series of years, and in no instance has any school, commencing with us,
 patronized, subsequently, any other line.

This is the only line from Memphis running
Two Daily Trains through to Texas without change of cars, and without Omnibus Transfer
in Memphis from Eastern Lines.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway
 Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
 H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

CRIST & KEEHLN,
 PRINTERS AND PUBLISHERS,
 Salem, N. C.

Print THE ACADEMY, CATALOGUE, HOW TO GET TO SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY and other publications issued by the Institution.

"SOLD ON MERIT."
THE LIGHT-RUNNING "DOMESTIC"

IS SOLD BY

W. P. ORMSBY

TWIN-CITY MUSIC HOUSE,
WINSTON, N. C.

Do you want a Piano?
 Do you want an Organ?
 Do want any Musical Instrument?
W. P. ORMSBY
 is agent for STIEFF's Celebrated
 Pianos, and LORING & BLAKE's
 Palace Organs.

Liberal allowance for old instruments in exchange.

Call or write to
W. P. ORMSBY, Twin-City Music House,
WINSTON, N. C.

Oct. 1891-1y.

A. SUSSMANN 232 6th Ave. N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
A COMPLETE
FOR $ 7 25

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX 8 CONTENTS	3 25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1 75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1 75
SKETCHING STOOL	50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE
 ON APPLICATION
 ADDRESS

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XV.

SALEM, N. C., OCTOBER, 1892.

NUMBER 129.

The Academy Cottage at the Seaside.

TO sketch the history of the Seaside Cottage is not an easy task, but as we feel that we have many sympathetic friends who are readers of THE ACADEMY we will endeavor to give to them an outline of the experiences of the summer, condensed enough so as not to weary and detailed enough to retain the interest of the reader. It will be remembered that last Spring it was decided to offer each instructor within the Institution ten days entertainment at the seashore, believing that in this way a testimonial would be given to the faithfulness of the years' work, that the health of the teachers would be benefitted, and that the certain result of such an experience would be a union of all interests in sympathetic efforts on the part of all the laborers within THE ACADEMY.

The place selected for carrying out the above idea was Carolina Beach, a delightful, refined and attractive summer resort, some 12 or 15 miles from Wilmington. The spot was one peculiarly fitted for the purpose. Leaving Wilmington on the splendid steamer bearing the same name as the city, an hour's sail over the smooth and broad Cape Fear river, which rivals the Hudson in the great body of water that rolls outward to the ocean, and a ride across the tongue of land which separates the Cape Fear river from the Atlantic Ocean, brings us to Carolina Beach. If the reader will examine the map of North Carolina, it will be seen that this tongue which extends downward from Wilmington is very narrow and very long; being 25 miles long it is in many places only a mile wide, often less than that. The only easy communication with Wilmington is by boat, hence the isolation adds a certain romantic interest to the place. Still, because of the fact that half a dozen trips are made each way every day by the steamers, it seems no privation to be "off the railroad." Carolina Beach is a town of considerable size, there being a row of cottages extending nearly or quite a mile along the beach, and having the hotel at about the center of the town. A good store and easy communication with Wililmington make the securing of supplies an easy matter.

Near the southern end of the beach included by the settlement stands a large, neatly painted building, known as the Kure Cottage. This building has 6 rooms on the first or main floor, two above the story indicated and four below. The entire building is surrounded by a large portico, which is such a luxury in connection with a seaside sojourn. It was this cottage which had been rented for the summer, and which Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL, with their family and the necessary domestic help, took possession of early in June, in order to make ready for the visitors from the ACADEMY.

We will first give a list of the friends who spent a longer or shorter time beneath the roof of the ACADEMY cottage, and will then take up the various experiences of the summer without strictly attempting to follow the chronological order, or to associate the individuals with events. The persons who accepted the invitation, the teachers, the former teachers and the officials of the institution were as follows:

Bishop and Mrs. Edward Rondthaler, Miss Alice and Mr. Howard Rondthaler, Rev. and Mrs. R. P. Leinback, Rev. Edward S. Wolle, of Philadelphia, Mr. George and Miss Lizzie Wolle, of Bethlehem, Pa., Mr. C. B. Pfohl, Miss Amelia Steiner, Miss Mary Fogle, Miss Mary Meinung, Miss Bertha Regennas, Miss Lou and Miss Sallie Shaffner, Miss Gertrude Siewers, Miss Maria Vogler, Mrs. Annetta Smith, Miss Carrie Vest, Miss Emma Chitty, Miss Carrie Jones, Miss Adelaide Scriber, Miss Carrie Mickey, Miss Lula Hege. We might add to these the names of Mr. and Mrs. Clewell as host and hostess, Masters Clarence, John and Reginald Clewell, and Master Ralph Siewers: nor should we forget Julia, Joyce and Alf, each of whom had his or her share to perform in connection with the summer's comfort. Though not strictly guests of the ACADEMY cottage, a number of persons came down from Salem with the friends, and, boarding near the Kure cottage, were often with us and always welcome guests. Among the number we notice Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Goslen and Master Junius, Mrs. John D. Siewers, Master Charlie Siewers, Miss Regina Vogler and Miss Clara Vanc. Short visits of a few hours were made by Mr. G. R. Shultz, Mr. E. A. Ebert and quite a number of other friends. It will thus be seen that between forty and fifty persons were a longer or a shorter time under the roof of the ACADEMY Cottage, enough to keep the current of summer experiences moving briskly on.

From the general "make-up" of the parties it can be easily surmised that the visit consisted of more than the enjoyment of the wind and waves. A company of scholars accustomed to hill and mountain will revel in the new life and scenes about them when sojourning at the seaside. Many were the walks and rambles up and down the smooth beach, gathering shells and pebbles, sea weed and jelly-fish, chasing swift-footed crabs, searching for slyly-hidden turtle eggs, watching the ebb or flow of the tide, resting on the mast of some wrecked steamer, watching the sails of a distant vessel, gazing at the lazy porpoise as he rolled over the crest of the wave, or admiring the swift plunge of an eagle as he seized a great fish in his talons; these were joys fresh and delightful. But in addition to these were rich historical points of interest to be examined, Revolutionary lore to be sought after, incidents of the late war to be listened to, great engineering works to be wondered at, — in fact, while Carolina Beach is a delightful place at which to rest, it is just as delightful because of the stimulus it gives to the student to use this rest time for quiet acquisition.

We will not in this letter enter upon a description of the more distant fields visited by the parties, as for instance, Southport, Fort Fisher, or Wrightsville, but will dwell for a moment on the matter of bathing, as enjoyed at Carolina Beach. The beach is probably the finest in the world. Far as the eye can reach there is a gentle curve to the shore, with no inlet causing the dreaded "undertow." Then, too, a bar, several hundred feet from the shore, tempers the power of the waves of old ocean at low tide, so that small children may sport with ease and safety in the water; but the bar does not prevent the billows from thundering in at high tide with sufficient force to toss the strongest man hither and thither. But even at high tide the danger to bathers is very slight. The ACADEMY cottage was provided with bathroom facilities, so that at almost any time the striking costumes of the metamorphosed teachers and professors could be seen wending their way down to the white sands and the foam capped waves. "Who would have taken that to be the Principal of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY!" was heard on the porch soon after the first party arrived, and "O, just look there"—but we will draw the curtain,—those things belong to the seaside. Many were the delusive plans made and many were the plans shattered by the waves! "I don't mind anything about sea bathing," exclaimed a new arrival, "but I don't want to get my hair wet." "All right," says a wicked friend, "just come out here with me," and away they went, while a moment of calm overspread the surface of the water. A moment of calm,—yes,—but like the thunder of a great tempest the next wave came on, and had ten thousand barrels of water been poured over the victim the hair could not have been more completely soaked. And then how shall we describe the feelings of the exhausted couple who, after struggling for half an hour at a disadvantage against the waves, concluded to rest a brief space high above the safety line. Seated on the smooth sand, the sparkling water flowing gently about them,—see the heartless tidal wave rushing madly on, and imagine all else in an eclipse, save only four dainty little feet, high in the air, and waving the signal of distress!! But the kind reader must not suppose that discouragements of this kind dampened the ardor of the party. Far from it. Many became expert bathers, venturing far out into the waves, taking swells ten, twelve, even 15 feet high with as much ease as the waves took them a few days before. Some to float, some to swim, and some to dive through the mass of water that surged over them with an angry "swish" and whirl, which was only an inspiration and a tonic which gave a zest to the attack later made on the clam soup and pig-fish.

And among the many pleasant pictures that come before the mind, none is more pleasant than that of the dear friend whose obituary appears in another part of this issue of the ACADEMY. No one who saw the zest with which he entered into the enjoyment morning and evening, day after day, would have supposed that his summons to the other shore was so near. Yet, such is the character of our experiences here on earth,—joy and sorrow, greetings and partings on the same day. To many of us the fact that his bright, cheery face was so long with us in the happy party, and that he seemed to glean so much pleasure from the scenes and experiences will stamp the history of the ACADEMY seaside cottage with a red-letter seal. Peace to the memory of this good and kind friend!

To be continued.

Valedictory. June, 1892.

BY MISS AVA STROUP.

IN some of the great crises of life human beings are very much alone. Not even the dearest friend can look into the secret penetralia of the soul and share its experiences; but a Commencement depends for its interest and enjoyment upon the presence and hearty sympathy and co-operation of congenial friends. The inspiration of numbers, of music and of flowers, all together unite to form an occasion which represents the choicest modern culture, as it is the outgrowth of the highest Christian civilization. Its poetic and ideal elements give it an added charm for us who today stand at the very center of things.

We, who close our school-life today, look eagerly forward to the uncertain Future, which looms up before us like "A dome of many colored glass, Staining the white radiance of Eternity," and backward, in retrospective vision, to those years which are embalmed with fragrant memories. Our familiar haunts will soon know us no more; others will take our places, and if we should return in five or ten or fifteen years, we would not be the same. As Mrs. Hemans expresses it:

But ye! ye are changed since you met me last:
There is something bright from your features
pass'd,

There is that come over your brow and eye
Which speaks of a world where the flowers must die;

You smile,—but your smile has a dimness yet.
O, what have you looked on since last we met."

The Present Time, the child and heir of all the Past, the parent of the Future, lies before us, to use as we will.

The year following the reception of a diploma is one of the perilous times of life. So much depends on this first year. We have been living in the enjoyable equality of college life, its freedom from responsibility and domestic care. We have been spared many home cares and worries, which with the self-sacrificing spirit of parents and friends, have been kept out of sight in their letters to us. Perhaps the little sister, who was so ready to obey every word, has grown into the precocious girl, with keen eyes for sisterly defects and with decided opinions of her own, and our former circle is the same, yet not the same.

Some, as they leave school, plunge into the gay world of society and become mere butterflies of fashion. And how unworthy such a course is of immortal beings. Others become discontented and try to find some special work elsewhere.

There is a great and growing demand for educated young women to do their duty along the simple, wholesome lines of domestic life; let us not fail there no matter what other mistakes and blunders we shall make; our home duties come first. If we have no home ties let us lift our eyes and see what fields are inviting us on all sides. It is a glorious age in which we live; to have been born in such a stirring and important time is a privilege. but "Whatever the toil, the season or the structure, Let us build well,—build worthily."

Our work may at times be distasteful, but what glorious rewards are given to the lowest service "In His Name." With this clause,

"Even drudgery is divine,
Who sweeps a room as for his laws,
Makes that and the action fine."

The final reward is not according to the degree of elevation, but according to our faithfulness.

Ere we break the chain that binds us to our happy school-life, we fain would stretch forth a detaining hand to check the moments that are fleeing so swiftly by. Already we hear the hushed congratulations for the incoming Seniors, and the curtain which falls for us rises for you. Reluctantly we resign our haunts and our privileges to you, and beg you at the close of the long vacation, when you return with fresh zeal to your last year's work in September, to bestow one thought upon us. Do not let us be entirely forgotten where we have reigned supreme so long.

Five years have I gone in and out among you, in this my ACADEMY home, protected and guided by its sacred influences, and it is with a sad heart that I quit this secure shelter. I would fain delegate to some one else the task of saying farewell to you, my classmates, linked together as we are by the tenderest ties. Our class flower, the white water lily, "stainless as light," speaks to us of the purity to which we all should aspire. And we feel like Sir Galahad, as he says:

"My strength is as the strength of ten,
Because my heart is pure."

As we gaze upon its fragrant petals in our distant homes it will ever speak to us of the affection with which we have been joined together in joy and sorrow, in disappointment and success. The golden heart which I've enclosed in its chalice heart will remind us of the golden rewards of pure and upright living. Wherever we meet with its delicate aroma, by the subtle currents of thought and memory, as by an enchanter's wand, it will bring this pictured scene before us, this Commencement day, with its mingled feelings of pleasure and pain, the glad and joyous home-coming, with its minor keys of sad good-byes. All of earth's music must have its minor strains, but today, methinks, it is borne on every passing breeze.

Farewell, a word that must be and hath been, a sound which makes us linger, yet it must be uttered to one with whom we have dwelt in the familiar intercourse of room and class life, and who calls us her children. Under her watchfulness and kindly attention our class of '92 has developed a strong individuality, and it is hard to speak the parting word.

To our Principal who has always planned for our happiness and well-being, we turn with faltering lips to say, Farewell.

We feel that though many miles may separate us, that in you we shall always have a friend who will follow our course with affectionate interest, rejoicing in our successes and sympathizing with us in all the experiences of life.

Our friend! Our pastor! What words can fittingly convey to you our feelings of sadness and regret now that the parting hour has come. You who have been pastor, friend and father, will be able to fathom the depth of our feelings which we are unable to express.

To all the teachers of this our school home we tender a loving farewell, and trust that we may still be remembered though others must necessarily occupy our places.

As the years pass by our diplomas will be written all over with the names and faces of Pastor, Principal, teachers, classmates and friends. They will become dearer and more precious, until at last we shall, we trust, be gathered in glad reunion under the palms, by the river, amid the white-domed mansions of Eternal Peace.

Bishop Edward Rondthaler's Jubilee.

JULY 24th, of this year marked the fiftieth milestone in the life of Dr. RONDTHALER, and the Salem congregation determined to signalize the occasion by a special token of their esteem and affection. His pastorate has already extended over fifteen years or more, and, hence, his work has become familiar to all the members of the large congregation over which he presides, and has made for him many friends among other congregations also. Committees had been busy some time previous to the date named and the plans completed for an appropriate observation of the day. July 24 fell upon a Sunday, so that the afternoon of that day was selected for the gathering. The committee decided to appoint a love feast for the entire congregation, and in this sacred service to present to the pastor the tokens of love which generous members had provided. The day was very beautiful, and the attendance at the morning service large. In the afternoon, however, a far greater number assembled anxious to unite in the happy occasion. The children of the various Sunday Schools were present, numbers of friends from home and abroad. At the request of the committee, Mr. CLEWELL came up from Carolina Beach, in order to preside at the gathering. There were with him on the platform a number of other ministers, viz.: Revs. McCuiston and Thaler of the Moravian church, and the Revs. Brown, Davis and Lutz from neighboring congregations. After a few remarks on the part of the presiding minister, and the singing of a number of appropriate hymns, a representative of each division or class of the congregation presented the Bishop with a token from that class. In behalf of the single sisters of the congregation, Miss Constance E. Pfohl presented, with many good wishes, two large and costly pictures, one "Jerusalem," the other "The Agony in the Garden." Mr. Clarence Shore followed with an equally happy and hearty address, presenting from the single Brethren a complete set of 6 vols. of the Century Dictionary. Mrs. D. H. Starbuck then arose and in a very feeling manner conveyed to the pastor the congratulations of the widows of the congregation, who accompanied their good wishes with a very fine and costly clock. Col. F. H. Fries represented the married people, and in a most hearty manner conveyed their kindly feeling, adding that the leather covered suit just behind the Bishop's chair was the gift from this class of his membership. At the conclusion of Col. Fries' address, the children arose, sang a number of stanzas, and presented their pastor with a beautiful silk dressing gown. To say that the recipient of all these "good things" was surprised, is to put it mildly. He seemed to be overwhelmed, in fact he could scarcely realize that all was meant for him, and doubtless the congregation quietly enjoyed the Bishop's surprise, for they had labored to make it such. The value of the gifts was about $400. Before the conclusion of the happy occasion the Brethren Davis, Brown and Lutz had added their kind wishes, and long as the service was all seemed to desire more of it rather than the contrary. Friends then came forward and wished the pastor many more years of service in the church. The beginning and ending of the day was very appropriate. At six A. M., a number of members of the colored congregation gathered in front of the parsonage and sang hymns, later personally offering their congratulations. As there was no service in the church at night many friends called after tea, and while thus closing the happy event, the sweet strains of music from the instruments of the church band came to the gathered company like a benediction to the day. Certainly few men can look back to a happier day than this one must have been to Bishop RONDTHALER, for a more complete and well rounded expression of good wishes from friends and members could scarcely be devised, and in closing the fifteen years of the present ministry, and fifty years on the life journey, both pastor and people are to be congratulated on the successful programme devised and carried out as described. It is the intention of the committee to publish the addresses made on the occasion named, and should any of our friends desire a copy of the pamphlet, THE ACADEMY will take pleasure in sending one to the address furnished us.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., OCTOBER, 1892.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

ROBERT PARMENIO LINEBACK,

born in Salem, North Carolina, May 15th, 1831, died in Bethania, North Carolina, October 10th, 1892.

Again it becomes our sad duty to record the death of a warm and earnest friend of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, and a Trustee since 1884. Seldom does an official, not a member of the faculty, take as lively and active an interest in the welfare of an Institution, as the Rev. PARMENIO LEINBACH did in the ACADEMY. He was troubled when clouds seemed to overhang its welfare, and he was the first to rejoice when the sunshine of prosperity was again with it. We know that many, many pupils of the ACADEMY will remember his pleasant visits, his genial word of kindness, his hearty hand-shake, and hence we give a brief sketch of his life.

He was born in Salem, in 1831, and spent his boyhood in this place. Already at an early age he devoted himself to the service of the church, and in 1848 he went to Pennsylvania to engage in his studies preparatory to his ordination to the ministry. He spent eleven years in this State, studying, teaching, and engaging in editorial work. At the end of that time he returned to North Carolina, serving the Moravian Church for a period of thirty-three years. Many difficult fields were placed under his care, and during the trying days of the civil war the obstacles seemed at times insurmountable. But he was a man of faith, of prayer, and of energy, and these three characteristics caused all his efforts to be crowned with success. Being a man of very active habits he probably overtaxed his strength, and about a year ago he was prostrated by an illness which necessitated his withdrawal from the active ministry. This summer he spent a month at the seaside, and those of his friends who saw his activity and cheerfulness thought that he might live a number of years. But the Lord willed otherwise. Having completed his plans for removing to Salem, and the very morning of his departure from Bethania having dawned, he was suddenly stricken, and a few days later peacefully fell asleep in Jesus. A memorial service was held at Bethania in which a large congregation of sympathetic friends joined. The body was then taken to Salem, and on Tuesday the 11th of October the funeral services were held. There were some ten or twelve of the clergy present on the platform, Bishop RONDTHALER preaching a most tender and earnest sermon, paying a loving tribute to the memory of this dear friend whom he had known for 40 years. The pupils of the ACADEMY were present, he having been a trustee for 8 years; the members of the Male Academy were present, as Brother LEINBACH had been Principal of that Institution for five years. Members of the Masonic Fraternity paid their tribute, and many other friends joined in the services, and followed the remains to the grave. Rev. J. H. CLEWELL read the burial service at the interment.

The deceased was a man of rare qualities. One was that of a strong faith, a prayerful nature and an open, out-spoken practical religion.

Whether you saw him at home, or abroad, on the cars, at a hotel, on the steamer's deck, everywhere he was glad to let every one know that his religion was the cause of his genial and kindly nature. Another marked quality was his utter disregard of self, and his continued thought and concern for others. He was a thoroughly kind man, carrying sunshine with him everywhere, and making you feel better because of his visit. And we would also note his scholarly attainments. In the midst of his busy life of active duties, he had time to fill his mind with a rich store of knowledge, and ranked high on the list of finished scholars. In 1884 he was offered the Principalship of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, but declined, though seldom has one been found who loved the Institution more than he did. Thus passed from the earth a good and useful man, one who left the world better because of his life; and as the Autumn sun bathed the landscape with a soft radiance as his body was laid to rest,—the scene of beauty seemed to be a type of the beautiful life which had just closed.

Our Vocal Department.

IN the last issue of THE ACADEMY we were unable to give a sketch of the new Professor of Vocal Music, Miss TRACY. But as so many friends, here and abroad, watch with patriotic interest the personality of those who fill the various departments of the ACADEMY, we give the main points regarding Miss TRACY'S life and work.

She was born in New York State, and moved to New York City while still a child, graduating at the Van Norman Institute. She was thoroughly trained in piano music, as well as for voice culture, under Bernardus Backelman, the foremost teacher of technique and standing at the head of piano forte teachers in New York. She studied Harmony with John P. Morgan, the organist of old Trinity, and under the principal teacher in New York for the voice, L. Skougard Severini, who died in 1885. In the summer of 1887 Miss TRACY went to London and studied with William Shakespeare, returning again in 1888 and remaining till 1889, at which time she received the certificate which authorized her to teach his method. Miss TRACY has had experience in teaching in the South, as well as in the North and West, and comes to us with the warmest recommendations from those who know her best. She is enthusiastic in her work, does not confine herself to the "letter of the law," but makes her influence pleasantly felt wherever there is work to be done, even though it does not technically belong to her department. With a large and growing class we predict a very successful year for the Vocal Department.

Correspondence.

—We first give a few lines from EDITH CLARKE:

Enclosed find 50 cents for THE ACADEMY. I am now at home after being absent two years and three months. I spent the past summer in Asheville, N. C., where I had a most delightful time. I am now employing my time in reading and improving myself in various ways. It seemed strange to me at the beginning of September not to return to Salem. Give my love to the teachers and girls, Mr. CLEWELL and family and accept many good wishes for a successful school year.

Very sincerely,

EDITH M. CLARKE.

Bryan, Texas.

—LIZZIE PATTERSON gives us some welcome items:

Are you too busy to grant me a few minutes? All the summer I have expected you to fulfill the promise in regard to that visit to us. I know you have not forgotten it, and if you have, please take this as a gentle reminder.

Have you entirely recovered from injuries received in the wreck? How glad I was to know that they were not fatal. We do not have wrecks on the C. F. and Y. V. Railroad.

My vacation thus far has been exceedingly bright and pleasant. I had a very pleasant surprise recently. Prof. J. M. Weatherly gave me charge of the music class in his school here, so I can remain at home, and still find something to do. Please remember me to the teachers and girls, to Mrs. CLEWELL and the children. Hoping to have you with us sometime, I am

Yours sincerely,

LIZZIE PATTERSON.

Liberty, N. C.

—Our next is from a dearly loved pupil of the past, LAURA JEFFERIES, now Mrs. Roseborough, of Columbus, Miss.:

I suppose you are taking vacation now, and enjoying the needed and well-earned rest. It gives me much pleasure to read THE ACADEMY, to see accounts of the old girls, and to know of the great prosperity of the school. Its scriptural foundation, guarded and kept free from improper innovations will insure its continued success. Can you tell me anything of EDITH SPEAR? (Eddie). Her health was poor for a long time, and I have often wondered if she had quite recovered. Several of my friends have enjoyed your European travels.

I have five small children, but my husband and I still have the hope of seeing the Old World ere we quit the New. He goes on a vacation soon and will probably go to his favorite resort, Chataqua, N. Y. I am saving myself for the Worlds' Fair at Chicago next year, and would be so glad to meet you there.

On the 29th of June we had a most brilliant wedding; it looked more like the royalty of England. Rev. Mr. Bakley of the Methodist church lives just across the street from us, and is a pleasant friend and acquaintance of ours. I asked him why send so far for the Moravian ceremony, when he might have had it by coming across the street. He performed the ceremony and used part of your service. My husband has often taken extracts from it, for it is beautiful.

I have a busy life, and am trying to make it useful: many thanks for your encouraging words. We have a delightful church, and I can truly say "the lines have fallen to me in pleasant places."

Our manse is undergoing repairs and we will soon be very commodiously domiciled in a cool brick house, with all the surroundings and belongings that make an old Southern home pleasant. Should you ever come so far South how glad I would be to have you stop in Columbus—fair city of beautiful trees and lovely flowers.

With much affection,

Your old pupil,

A. L. ROSEBOROUGH.

Columbus, Miss.

—Another dear friend writes in her own peculiarly happy style, but we can only quote here and there from her welcome letter:

I fully intended to come to Salem at Commencement this year, but alas! for my intentions. I was taken sick on May 17th, and remained in bed a month. I send you some verses I made as I lay there; the weather reminding me of those exquisite June days of the past, but then you will think I really do sigh for the past, when I do not mean it in that way at all. I think of all your girls of '87, I must be the happiest.

I do not think I ever wrote you that we moved to Georgia; we have been here almost a year now. I like it ever so much, but I can't say I like it quite as well as South Carolina. We are not very far away from Anderson, if we are in another State, only about 35 miles. I go home quite often; was over just about a week ago, and had a charming visit. There is only NELLIE left at home with mama. I guess NELLIE wrote of sister IDA's marriage; I have just made her a visit also. She lives at Westminster, S. C., and is now Mrs. Dr. Mitchell.

Do please let me hear from you, I want a letter so much.

Lovingly,

LULA BEULA LULLIN.

Elberton, Ga.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—While a number of pupils were passing along the north walk of the Salem Square a large limb fell from the great sycamore beneath which they were passing and threatened to seriously injure them. Falling so near the company it was a matter of great rejoicing that none were hurt.

—Boarding pupils who have arrived since October 1st are the following:

Mattie Shore.

Katie Cranor.

Lizzie Chaffin.

Catherine Gibson.

Elizabeth Chewning.

Carrie Chewning.

Mabel Peterkin.

Jessie Peterkin.

Maggie McArthur.

—The Rev. Dr. Peschau, of Wilmington, visited Winston-Salem on the occasion of the first anniversary of the Lutheran church in the former town, and on the evening of the Sunday preached in the Moravian church to a large congregation. On Monday evening he delivered a lecture on "Germans, and their influence on the history of our country." The lecture was listened to by a large audience, and was a scholarly effort, replete with deep thought as well as of sparkling humor. The Doctor's many friends here were glad to shake hands with him and hope to see him again in the future.

—"To the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, from W. M. Cummings, Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 11th, 1892." The above was written on the fly leaf of the book entitled "Life and Letters of General Thomas J. Jackson," by his wife Mary Ann Jackson. We greatly appreciate this token of esteem from our friend, first because of the warm friendship which it indicates, and also because it is the first donation to the Library this season. Now that the Library has been enlarged, and made so much more attractive, we trust that spirit of liberality on the part of the Alumnæ and friends may cause them to add many valuable works to this growing center of the ACADEMY life.

—The Recital given in the Chapel, Oct. 5th, was the first of this season, and was heartily enjoyed. The "audience was large," since the school fills the Chapel. The numbers were taken by Miss TRACY, Miss SCRIBER, Prof. SCHMOLCK and Mr. KELLY. This happily blended vocal, instrumental, elocution and violin, and it was a fine combination for an enjoyable hour. Miss TRACY captured the audience on this her first introduction to the school,—Miss SCRIBER is of course, always enthusiastically welcomed,—Prof. SCHMOLCK was in a good humor and showed it in his fine execution. We give the programme:

1. Vocal Solo. The Heart's Spring.
Time ..... Von Wickede.
MISS TRACY.
2. Violin Solo. The Keel Row, ... Voks.
MR. KELLY.
3. Recitation. The Boat Race. Holmes.
MISS SCRIBER.
4. Piano Solo. Fantasie de Concert.
Ryder.
Prof. SCHMOLCK.
5. Vocal Solo. Angel's Serenade.
Braga.
With Violin Obligato.
MISS TRACY,
Assisted by Mr. KELLY.
6. Violin Solo. Silver Bell Overture.
Schleppgrell.
MR. KELLY.
7. Piano Solo. Souvenir de Kieff.
Schulhoff.
Prof. SCHMOLCK.

—ELIZA GULICK brought us two pretty fan-tail pigeons as an addition to our ACADEMY pets, which are becoming quite numerous. They remind us of the great flocks that frequent the precincts of the Guild Hall of London, the Cathedral churchyard of St. Paul's, the great Cathedrals of Florence and Venice, where they are fed by the State. The pigeons of St. Mark's, Venice, are especially noticed by travellers, as hundreds of them patter about fearlessly among the passers-by and are fed every day at 2 o'clock, P. M. It was originally the custom there to have several pigeons or doves on Whit Sunday or Pentecost, which were set at liberty to fly above the heads of the awe-struck worshippers, as emblems of the Holy Ghost. These took up their abode amid the crockets and corbels of the cathedral, and their numerous progeny exist there to this day. On one occasion a priest who was accustomed to call for the Holy Ghost to appear in the cathedral in the form of a dove was somewhat taken aback when, instead of a snow-white dove, a thin, piping voice was heard, "die Katze hat sie gefressen (the eat ate her)."

—The vacation visits of those members of the faculty who did not run down to the seashore were distributed as follows: Miss TIETZE went to Illinois; Miss WOLLE to Pennsylvania; Miss COOPER and Miss FAIN to Tennessee; Miss BESSENT to Concord, N. C.; Miss MATHEWSON to Connecticut; Prof. SCHMOLCK to Canada.

—Rev. Edward Crosland was ordained a minister of the Moravian Church by Bishop Rondthaler in September. He has taken charge of the congregations of Bethania and Kernersville.

—Rev. Arthur Thæler, of the Moravian Theological Seminary, has received and accepted a call to assist Bishop Rondthaler in the care of the large Salem congregation, having entered upon his duties during the Summer.

—Miss WOLLE and Miss JONES have charge of one of the classes in the Salem Boys School. The work in connection with the school named seems to be in a flourishing condition.

General Stevenson's Visit.

IT was once said that the South lived on politics before the war. Such may have been the case then,—it is far from being true now, since business, progress, enterprise are ahead in the race. But Winston-Salem is noted for its enterprise in all directions, and whatever it undertakes it does with a rush and a vim. Hence, when it became known that Gen. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic nominee for Vice President of the United States, would visit our twin-city all determined to unite to make the event a brilliant one. You might have thought that the ante bellum spirit had returned, and that the town and country had gone wild over politics. On a more careful examination a keen observer would have smiled to see not a little twin-city enthusiasm mixed with the demonstration, as well as political enthusiasm. Be that as it may, we repeat that the towns of Winston-Salem never do things by half, and this day was no exception to the rule. A great barbecue had been prepared, and we will not attempt to say how many sheep and hogs and cattle had been killed, but the reader may imagine when we say that provision had been made to feed 10,000 or 12,000 persons. With the day came fine weather, and with it came an immense company of visitors,—thousands of them; the procession came too,—seemingly endless. As the General, in his carriage drawn by four grays, reached the Salem Square, the ACADEMY girls showered fine, cut flowers into and around the vehicle. As he rose from his seat and bowed his thanks the enthusiasm of the great throng broke into wild cheering, and it was hard to say whether the girls would not carry the enthusiasm of the day over and above the candidate for the Vice Presidency. And when the gallants on horseback arrived, how the flags and badges were showered on and around the large front portico. The procession approached the ACADEMY a "badged procession;" when it had passed the ACADEMY it was a "badgeless procession;" the girls had the badges.

At four o'clock General Stevenson and party called at the ACADEMY. They consisted of were met at the front door by Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL and other representatives of the school and escorted to the Chapel where the pupils were gathered. Flowers and tropical plants were mingled with the "red, white and blue" decorations, and the electric lights turned on. The scene was a pleasing one. Gen. Stevenson made an earnest address to the bright young company, stating that he had known many Alumnae of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, among them the great and grand character, Mrs. Jas. K. Polk, and that on each one of the present pupils rested the grave responsibility of so living, now and in the future, that she would not fall below the standard of the noble Alumnae of the past. After the address General and Mrs. Stevenson, together with the other members of the party, descended to the floor from the rostrum, and spent a few moments in social converse, shaking hands with many of the friends present.

The scene is again at the front portico. The teams are ready to start. The General and his worthy lady declare the visit to the ACADEMY to be one of the most pleasant of their experiences within the State,—the handkerchiefs of the pupils heartily respond to the compliment, a clatter of horses' hoofs is heard,—and General Stevenson's visit is at an end.

Our Old Fire Engine.

THE ACADEMY'S old fire engine is becoming quite famous, as will appear from the following extracts from Raleigh and Greensboro papers:

"At the express office this morning was a curiosity and an old piece of machinery, being sent from Salem Female Academy to the Raleigh celebration. It was the first fire engine ever brought to America, and was built in 1784. On the pipe is 'Johann Thomas Puchler, Gnadenberg, 1784.' It is very much like the large paste tubs used by circus bill posters, having two handles on each end with a long lever, or pump handle, by means of which the water is forced up through a brass pipe, on the end of which is the hose. By laboring at the lever a good sized stream is thrown. The old machine is still in good working order, and will be returned to Salem after the Raleigh exhibition."—Greensboro Record.

"The fire department will parade 17 pieces of apparatus on Tuesday. The first division will consist of old style apparatus. At the head of this division will be a float bearing the oldest fire engine in the United States. It was in use in Salem, N. C., as far back as 1784, and the owner has refused $5,000 for the apparatus. The engine comes by express and will be fully insured, and while in the city, through the courtesy of Mr. B. S. Jerman, cashier, will be placed in the safe deposit vault of the Commercial and Farmers' Bank. The engine weighs 150 pounds. Next will come another old piece of apparatus, belonging to the city of Fayetteville. This engine is so old that it has turned gray. We understand the reason for putting the Salem engine on a float is because it is so old it cannot walk. Mr. W. S. Primrose, through Mr. Henry E. Fries, of Salem, secured the engine for the parade."—News and Observer.

Subscriptions Received.

Mr. Timothy Vogler, Misses M. E. Vogler, Jane Welfare, Tilla Stockton, Lou Shaffner, Theresa Peterson, Florence Meinung, H. Foltz, A. M. Hagan, Sallie Shaffner, Mrs. R. L. Patterson, Mrs. Wm. J. Peterson, Salem, N. C.; Mrs. S. M. Pritchett, Stapleton, S. I.; Mrs. S. L. Patterson, Yadkin Valley, N. C.; Miss Kate Furman, Ramsay, S. C.; Miss Edith Clark, Bryan, Texas; Mrs. M. E. Scarborough, Ridge Spring, S. C.; Mrs. F. G. Crutchfield, Winston, N. C.; Miss Edna Lindsay, Reidsville, N. C.; Miss Eloise McGill, Fayetteville, N. C.; Mrs. Wm. M. Kellett, Waco, Texas; Miss Annie L. Ogburn, Smith's X Roads, Va.; Mrs. Amelia R. Woodward, Cincinnati, Ohio; Mrs. James Garrity, Corsicana, Texas; Miss Annie Makepeace, Providence, R. I.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only and embraces, under general date of entrance,— 1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

*— I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!*

1883.

- 5627 ELLA C. THOMPSON. — 1869.
- 5628 JESSIE A. THOMPSON. — 1871.
Mrs. L. Thompson, Charlotte, N. C.
- 5629 ROSITA PALMER. — 1871.
Frederick O. Palmer, Zacatecas, Mexico.
- 5630 FANNY STACKHOUSE. — 1865.
Mrs. Stackhouse, Little Rock, S. C.
- 5631 L BELLE ALFORD. — 1869.
H. C. Alford, Shoe Heel, N. C.
- 5632 SALLIE W. KENNON. — 1866.
Wm. F. Kennon, Summerfield, Ala.
- 5633 LILY FOSTER. — 1869.
J. A. Foster, Macon, Ga.
- 5634 MAGGIE SPENCER. — 1869.
D. H. Spencer, Spencer's Store, Va.
- 5635 MAMIE CRITZ. —
J. P. Critz, Penn's Store, Va.

1884.

- 5636 MATTIE MOTLEY. — 1866.
- 5637 MOLLIE MOTLEY. — 1868.
K. J. Motley, Lawsonville, N. C.
- 5638 MARY SUE MOTLEY. — 1869.
A. H. Motley, Reidsville, N. C.
- 5639 MAMIE PURCELL. — 1869.
David Purcell, Wentworth, N. C.
- 5640 HELEN DAISY MURPHY. — 1866.
Dr. J. S. Murphy, Company Shops, N. C.
- 5641 FLORENCE J. URVY. — 1879.
J. S. Fisher, Concord, N. C.
- 5642 L. ELLEN WARREN. — 1867.
Mrs. Irene Warren, Snow Hill, N. C.
- 5643 MARY ETTA SELLARS. — 1861.
Constantine Sellars, Haw River, N. C.
- 5643 EDDIE PAYNE HUNNICUTT. — 1868.
C. W. Hunnicutt, Atlanta, Ga.
- 5645 MARY A. MCEACHERN. — 1858.
John H. McEachern, Lumber Bridge, N. C.
- 5646 HATTIE K. SWIFT. — 1870.
Z. Swift, Warrenton, Va.
- 5647 MATTIE GRIMES. — 1872.
T. S. Grimes, Lexington, N. C.
- 5648 TALULA WILSON. — 1869.
Col. M. M. Wilson, Newton, N. C.
- 5649 BELLE S. SAWYER. — 1869.
Mrs. A. Sawyer, Magnolia, N. C.
- 5650 BELLE COBLE. — 1868.
P. M. Coble, Gabson, N. C.
- 5651 PABELIA B. VAUGHAN. — 1868.
Harris Vaughan, Raleigh, N. C.
- 5652 MOLLIE E. TUCKER. — 1867.
Henry Tucker, Kilgore, Texas.
- 5653 HELEN MOORE. — 1870.
Marcellus Moore, Greenville, N. C.
- 5654 EMMA A. ROLLINS. — 1874.
Wallace W. Rollins, Marshall, N. C.
- 5655 MAGGIE MCKINNON. — 1870.
D. P. McKinnon, Plainville, N. C.
- 5656 LIZZIE L. WOLLE. — 1870.
Mrs. C. E. Wolle, Bethlehem, Pa.
- 5657 JENNIE C. SIEGER. — 1864.
Wm. S. Sieger, Bethlehem, Pa.
- 5658 ANNIE ELIZ. WALKER. — 1871.
Jas. E. Walker, Fandleman, N. C.
- 5659 FLORENCE SWANN. — 1864.
Mrs. V. C. Swann, Dandridge, Tenn.

Married.

BLUE-MASON.—On September 30, 1892, Mr. BLUE, of Laurinburg, S. C., to Miss MATTIE MASON, (Class of '91).

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.

Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.
Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,
Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
October, 1892.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxydized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,
W. T. VOGELER & SON.
JEWELERS,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91—1y.

A. SUSSMANN 232 6th Ave. N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

- BOX & CONTENTS 3.25
- SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF 1.75
- SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
- SKETCHING STOOL 50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country All the leading novelties, such as :

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of Ladies Corsets and Underwear, which we are offering at Low Prices.

The following line of Corsets can always be found in our stock :

The celebrated C. B. Corset in 3 grades. Thompson's Glove Fitting Corset. Dr. Warner's Health Corset. Dr. Warner's Coraline Corset. Madame Melville's Corset.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS, has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.
Phone 111. Phone 111.
Jan. 1892.

Horner Military School, OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY

Principals.

June 1892—1y

CRIST & KEEHLN,
PRINTERS AND PUBLISHERS,
Salem, N. C.

Print THE ACADEMY, CATALOGUE, HOW TO GET TO SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY and other publications issued by the Institution.

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION, D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.
The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

The Cotton Belt Route.

Has handled more students to and from Arkansas and Texas than all other Southwestern lines combined; and its continued popularity with the principal Southeastern schools is the highest guarantee of the excellence of its service and the truthfulness of its representations.

THE ONLY LINE receiving and delivering passengers at Memphis without a long and disagreeable omnibus transfer across the city.

THE ONLY LINE with through sleeping car service between MEMPHIS and the Southwest.

THE ONLY LINE with through car service between Memphis and points in Central Texas.

W. G. ADAMS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Nashville, Tenn.
S. G. WARNER, S. E. Pass. Agt., Memphis, Tenn.
H. H. SUTTON, Trav. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. H. WINFIELD, Gen. Pass. Agt., Tyler, Texas.
E. W. LaBEAUME, G. P. & T. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.

June 1892—1y

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah, Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY,
Gen. Supt.
Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Pass. Agt.
Fayetteville, N. C.

Iron Mountain Route.

Great through line from Arkansas, Texas and the Southwest to Salem and North Carolina.

Write to the undersigned if you contemplate attending Salem Female College for rates, routes and time-tables.

H. C. TOWNSEND,

Genl. Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

June 1892—1y

Norfolk & Western R'y

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville.

By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892—1y

The short line to New Orleans, Memphis and points in the Southeast.

Take the "St. Louis Limited," 12 hours saved, between Fort Worth, Dallas and St. Louis and the East.

The Direct Line to all points in Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona, Oregon and California.

Through Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars between Dallas, Fort Worth, and St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco.

For rates, tickets and all information apply to, or address any of the ticket agents or

GASTON MESLIER,
Genl. Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
Dallas, Texas.

June 1892—1y

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

First National Bank Building.

The Student's Series of Histories.

Edited by WILLIAM SMITH, LL. D.

Each one of these serviceable and attractive volumes is acknowledged to be the best history in our language of the particular branch of knowledge to which it belongs.

Ancient History: A Manual of Ancient History, from the Earliest times to the Fall of the Western Empire. 636 pp. Price $1.25.

The Christian Church, I: The History of the Christian Church during the First Ten Centuries, By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 618 pp. Price, $1.50.

The Christian Church, II: The History of the Christian Church during the Middle Ages. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 700 pp. Price, $1.50.

The East: The Ancient History of the East, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of Alexander the Great. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. Illustrated, 650 pp. Price $1.25.

England: A History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Revolution of 1688. 868 pp. $1.50.

England (CONSTITUTIONAL): The Constitutional History of England. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 748 pp. Price, $1.25.

England (QUEENS): Lives of the Queens of England, from the Norman Conquest. By AGNES STRICKLAND, Illustrated. 682 pp. Price $1.25.

France: A History of France, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire in 1852. Illustrated. 730 pp. Price $1.25.

Germany: A History of Germany, from the Earliest Times. By CHARLTON T. LEWIS. 800 pp. $1.50.

Greece: A History of Greece, from the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. 704 pp. $1.25.

Greece (GENERAL): A General History of Greece, from the Earliest Period to the Death of Alexander the Great. By GEORGE W. COX, M. A. 710 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome: A History of Rome, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By H. G. LIDDELL, D. D. 768 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome (GENERAL): A General History of Rome. B. C. 753—A. D. 476. By CHARLES MERIVALE, D. D. 702 pp. Price, $1.25.

Roman Empire: The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By EDWARD GIBBON. Abridged. 678 pp. Price $1.25.

Middle Ages: View of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 708 pp. Price, $1.25.

Modern Europe: A History of Modern Europe, By RICHARD LODGE. 772 pp. Price, $1.25.

New Testament: The New Testament History, With Maps and Woodcuts. 790 pp. Price $1.25.

Old Testament: The Old Testament History, from the Creation to the Return of the Jews from Captivity. With Maps and Woodcuts. 710 pp. Price, $1.25.

A complete catalogue of School and College Text Books will be forwarded on request

HARPER & BROTHERS,

Franklin Square, New York.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XV.

SALEM, N. C., NOVEMBER, 1892.

NUMBER 130.

SOCIETY HALL.

THE name "SOCIETY HALL" has been given to the new building erected just east of the Chapel and facing Annex Hall; the new hall thus forms the southern boundary to the beautiful green court which has been enlarged during the last years, and is becoming more and more attractive as the various Halls are built about it. Two causes led to the erection of Society Hall. The first was the need of a proper home for the two Literary Societies. These organizations, founded six or eight years since, have moved from place to place, striving to find a settled home, but in vain. For a time the chapel was used; the former Professor's music room; the 4th story was fitted up; the basement room was called into use,—and it is to be wondered at that the Societies continued to exist. At last, however, a settled determination appeared to secure accommodations fitted for the proper development of the work and suited to the dignity of the same. This was the one cause. The second was that the various classes were growing so rapidly in numbers that they had to be divided, and another class was added to the preparatory department,—these, too, increased, and it became an imperative necessity to provide larger and better classrooms. With these facts before the Trustees, an adequate sum was placed at the disposal of the Principal of the School, and to this sum the societies promised to add $500, provided the second story of the new building be considered as the actual property of the two Societies, and provided also that the work of the Societies be always in accordance with the spirit of the Institution.

The needs of the case were laid before the Messrs. Fogle Bros., and the working out of the details of the plans was one of the last of the many patriotic efforts put forth for the benefit of the ACADEMY by the junior member of the firm, Mr. Charles A. Fogle previous to his death. Mr. C. H. Fogle gave an unusual amount of care to the carrying out of the details and the construction, the result being that the school has added a neat, attractive and comfortable building to its already large group.

The size of Society Hall is 50x30 feet, the height about 50 feet. It is a frame structure, and is built in what might be termed Queen Anne style, although this term has been employed so often as to become rather indefinite. To those who are familiar with Annex Hall we will perhaps be able to picture the new building when we say that it is the reverse of that structure. Annex Hall has one central gable, extending forward, while Society Hall has two gables, the center of the building forming an alcove some six or eight feet in depth. A wide portico with spindle work ornaments extends the entire length of the building, this portico being surmounted by a smaller one above, the latter being specially neat and attractive, and designed for the exclusive use of the girls belonging to the societies. The two gables above either society hall form a fine finish to the structure, a dormer-window breaking the space between the two large gables. The gables are finished with casement windows with small panes of glass, the front of the gables being shingled. Attractive stained glass surrounds the large double doors on the first and second floors,—the whole forming as neat, home-like and attractive an effect as it is possible to imagine, the general effect being of course improved by the tall and stately trees in front of Society Hall, and by the pleasant outlook presented by Annex Hall, with its terraced front and bevy of pupils constantly going in and out of the building.

We will now in imagination enter the wide front door of Society Hall. We find on either side double class rooms, connected by folding doors. The east rooms belong to Sophomore A and Sophomore B classes; the west rooms are to be the homes of Freshman A and Freshman B. Large slate slabs from the Pennsylvania quarries line the walls, the wood work is finished in hard oil and native woods, while the large folding doors enable the instructors to lecture either to the assembled class or to the separate divisions. The wide hall between these comfortable class rooms adds not a little to the attractiveness of the first floor. The stairway, too, is wide and is ornamented with a handsome newel post and guarded by a walnut railing and turned oak spindles. The upper hall is a duplicate of the one on the first floor, the doors on the east and west leading into the Euterpean Society Hall to the east, the Hesperian Society Hall on the west, and a large double door opening upon the balcony already described. The two large rooms are 20x30 feet each, and the ceiling 12 feet high. The space will admit of a membership of 75 or 80 persons. Here, too, the finish is hard oil and native pine and oak. Above this story is a large room, about 28x45 feet, lighted by dormer windows and the two gable casement windows; this has been prepared for the museum and historical room, and will fill a long felt want in the school-life. Thus the three stories of Society Hall are carefully assigned to their respective parts of the ACADEMY machinery, and by the time this article is read by our Alumnae and friends, will be the scene of one of the busiest and most active fields of the school world.

Saturday evening, Nov. 5, was chosen as the time for opening the new Hall. All day busy workmen were engaged in putting the finishing touches to the building; electric wires were tested before the current was turned on; stoves were put in place; carpets tacked down; windows cleaned; floors brushed off,—but all this was as nothing compared to the excitement which accompanied the approach of the bevy of girls who took possession about the middle of the afternoon. As if by magic there came a rush of pictures and chairs; curtains and hangings; rockers and lounges; statues and casts; flowers and plants, and how the deft hands worked! And how the bare rooms changed, assuming a home-like aspect! or rather, as some one expressed it, they appeared like two large and finely furnished hotel parlors. Of course, it would not do to tell how keenly one Society watched the other, in order that any special point of superiority be noted, and if possible be excelled. "High-toned" rivalry stimulates and such was the case in connection with the work of Saturday, Nov. 5. We will not attempt to describe the decorations, suffice it to say all who visited the Halls were delighted with the results.

At 7:45 p. m. a few guests assembled in the chapel, viz:—the teachers, pupils not members of the Societies, the Trustees, and those who directly or indirectly had been connected with the erection of the building. The one society entered at the north entrance to the chapel, the other at the south; on the platform were seated Mr. CLEWELL, with Bishop RONDTHALER beside him, and Prof. SCHMOLCK and the pupils who took part in the musical exercises, as also the officers of the Societies on either hand. The programme rendered was as follows:

1. Fantasia Brillante.....Leybach.
Miss LULA MORRISON.
  2. The Spanish Gypsy.....Watson.
Miss HUBERTA READ.
  3. The Ballad of the Oysterman.....Holmes.
Miss FLORENCE KING.
  4. Valse in D Flat.....Chopin.
Miss ELIZABETH NICHOLSON.
- Presentation of the Halls to the Euterpean and Hesperian Societies by Rev. J. H. CLEWELL.
Response by Miss CARRIE GREER, President of the Euterpean Society, and by Miss FANNIE CREIGHT, President of the Hesperian Society.
Address by Bishop EDWARD RONDTHALER, D. D.
5. Etude. Op. 14. No. 1.....Ravina.
Miss ADDIE LEINBACH.
  6. Love's Joys.....Gumpert.
Miss LILIAN CRUTCHFIELD.
  7. Excelsior.....Longfellow.
Miss SUSIE REYNOLDS.
  8. Le Dernier Sourir. Scherzo Brillante
Wollenhaupt.
Miss LILIAN GOSLING.

The words of Miss CARRIE GREER, President of the Euterpean Society, were as follows:

About the first of October, 1887, it was suggested by a number of Seniors that a Literary Society ought to be founded, and a meeting was therefore called October 10, a chairman appointed, and the necessary officers elected by ballot.

The name Euterpean was adopted, various entertainments were successfully given and a banquet was held near the close of the term which proved to be a great success. Since that time the Society has had a continuous and prosperous existence, and the interest has not as yet flagged.

As the President of this Society I voice the sentiments of the entire organization. In accepting this hall we do so with a hearty appreciation of the favor shown by the Principal and Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY for the handsome building in which we are soon to assemble as our home. The Societies thank you for your kindly and efficient help, and the whole school feels a partnership interest in it.

We have dreamed of such a building, of cosy halls, where we could meet and carry on our regular Society work, but the fulfillment of this dream has exceeded our most sanguine expectations.

Four years ago we spoke of it, and wondered whether such a thing were possible, and we rejoice in its accomplishment in a grand success.

A very important part now remains to be done, and we hope to be able to do it.

We will have a new incentive, we will feel as if we had a local habitation and a name to keep up, and will go to our task with renewed vigor and energy.

Miss FANNIE CREIGHT said:

This the 5th of November will be a day long remembered by the Hesperian Society of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

To-night for the first time we have a local habitation, that we are proud to call our own. We have flitted like Noah's dove without finding a settled place, and now as we enter our new Hall we feel a thrill of joyful praise, for it is a hall to be proud of.

I, in behalf of the Hesperian Society, accept and gratefully thank you, the Trustees and Principal of the ACADEMY, for what you have done for us in rearing this beautiful building. How little did we think 4 years ago that the eloquent prophecy made by Mr. CLEWELL at the annual banquet would so soon be realized. He portrayed to our minds a handsome structure that would some day cause us to proudly say, those are the Hesperian and Euterpean Society Halls. We hardly thought this to be any more than an idle dream. Yet to-night it is fully realized.

We feel now that our little band has not struggled in vain all these years, for now we really have something to work for.

We must keep up the standard of the Society and cope more earnestly with our sisters, the Euterpeans, in trying to foster the spirit of improvement in such a manner as to be a power for good and influence that is felt throughout the school.

During the remarks of the Principal he presented to the two Societies the handsome carpets placed on the floor earlier in the day. Bishop RONDTHALER'S words were earnest and forcible, and we regret that space forbids our reproducing the same.

At the close of the above programme, the entire company repaired to the new building. All admired the beautiful effect as the bright lights streamed from the many windows, seeming to say, "Welcome to all." Half an hour was spent in inspecting the building, when, at the tap of the bell, the company proceeded to the dining-room, where refreshments were served, and a social half-hour spent. The party then dispersed, and in speaking with one and another in regard to the evening the universal sentiment seemed to be that while the experiences were unique, few evenings during the past years have exceeded this one in real pleasure and enjoyment.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Names of pupils who have registered since our last issue of THE ACADEMY:

THERESA LIPSCOMBE.
MARION SHEPHERD.
NELLIE SCALES.
FLORENCE GLENN.
CARR CHISMAN.

—Elsewhere will be found the advertisements of Nazareth Hall, Davis School, Bingham School and Horner School, all good, first-class Institutions. Send us your daughters, and send these schools, named above, your sons, and you will make no mistake.

—KATIE CRANOR found it necessary to run home a few days to recuperate, but is again at her post of duty.

—We were again favored by visits from a large number of our patrons, many of whom took a stroll through the Park while here.

—Will not our friends of the Euterpean and Hesperian Societies each furnish THE ACADEMY with a column of news items, for our regular publications?

—The very cool weather in October necessitated fires, and the sharp frosts caused the orange and lemon trees to beat a hasty retreat into their winter quarters.

—We had hoped to publish the list of day pupils ere this, but circumstances have prevented thus far. The day school, regular and special pupils, now numbers nearly 140.

—The falling leaves in the School Park and in the Square in front of the ACADEMY presented a pleasing sight as they were whirled hither and thither by the autumn winds. The bare trees are not so pleasant, however.

—The death of Mr. C. A. Fogle, which took place in New Mexico, whither he had gone in search of relief from his illness, is peculiarly felt by the ACADEMY, inasmuch as his kind and active friendship made itself felt in many ways for the good of the institution.

—Notice the Seniors! It is all because of those Oxford caps and gowns. Becoming,—yes, of course, they are. How could it be otherwise with such fine fits, and such a fine set of girls to be fitted! We congratulate you on this index of your dignity,—may you be well worthy of the uniform.

—The famous Winkler ginger cakes now have their regular place on the lunch list Tuesdays and Thursdays, and seem to be acceptable to the pupils.

—Two hundred cords of wood were shipped over the Norfolk & Western Railroad to the ACADEMY for our winter use. A new "horse-power" has been put in and we thus feel certain that no dearth of heat will be experienced.

—The Concert given in the ACADEMY Chapel by the Salem Orchestra and a number of musicians from our towns for the benefit of the new Theological Seminary was a success, and netted quite a handsome sum.

—A neat pigeon-house has been given to the tenth room, and a pair of handsome fan-tail pigeons in it. But, alas! troubles will come, so the owners of the fan-tails have found already. We hope later efforts will be more successful.

—The Call was the name of a daily morning paper published recently in Winston-Salem. It was carefully edited, and during its publication was very kind in its expressions in regard to our Institution and its work. We regret that it was found necessary to discontinue its publication.

—Rev. Mr. Reichel and wife visited our towns, spending some time as the guests of Bishop and Mrs. RONDTHALER. Both were prominently engaged in school-work in Germany, and have now devoted their lives to the Foreign Mission work of the Moravian Church. They were on their way to Central America, and will be stationed near the terminus of the proposed Nicaragua Canal.

—Two very disastrous fires broke out in Winston Sunday night and Monday morning, Nov. 13th and 14th. Although the fire companies worked nobly and aid was sent from Greensboro in the form of fire companies, two blocks were destroyed, one of which had on it some of the finest buildings in the State. The loss was very heavy, and the business of many successful firms will be carried on with great difficulty for want of suitable quarters. A number of our patrons were among them and the ACADEMY extends its sympathy in their heavy losses.

—A comfortable covered way has been built between Society Hall and the Gymnasium.

—Among the names of new pupils will be noticed that of FLORENCE GLENN. In registering her name at the office the interesting fact was stated that she was a member of the fourth generation that had been educated at the ACADEMY. The names are as follows :

- 1st. Miss Isabella Wilson.
- 2d. Miss Mary Wilson Cunningham.
- 3d. Miss Martha Cunningham Glenn.
- 1th. Miss Florence Glenn.

—And here comes a hearty protest from an esteemed Alumna; in giving the date of her birth we inadvertently made it appear that she belonged to an age far earlier than her own, something like a generation, more or less. We are sorry, very sorry, and are striving to devise some means by which we can make amends for the injury, but in the meantime we give the protest; she says: "I think that is a cruel trick; if I was wine or something of that sort that improves with age, there might be something in it, but this way I object. Still, when people do notice it they may perhaps place a charitable construction upon it and say that I retain my youthful appearance very well."

—The Moravian, published at Bethlehem, Pa., has the following in a letter from Mr. Joseph Rice, recently on a visit to our towns: "The ACADEMY is an important element in congregational life. The girls attend the church services and Bishop RONDTHALER teaches them as a Sunday School, which brings him into direct contact with them. Under the Principalship of Rev. J. H. CLEWELL its remarkable success is continued. Its register shows 325 teachers and pupils. During the past five years three buildings have been erected and paid for at a cost of $15,000, viz: ANNEX HALL, which is used for living rooms for about 40 persons; PARK HALL, divided into Laboratory, Class Rooms, Industrial Department and Study Parlor for one Room Company; SOCIETY HALL, the most recent building, just completed, has two double-class rooms on the first floor, two large Halls on the second floor, to be occupied respectively by the Euterpean and Hesperian Literary Societies, while the third floor will be used as a museum. For the erection of this last building the girls of the school will contribute $500. So great is the confidence in the Institution that citizens of the towns are sending their daughters as boarders, so that they may be entirely under its influence." The writer of these cordial words was on a visit to represent the New Theological Seminary, and in answer to his appeals for gifts carried back with him something more than $7000. The Principals of the ACADEMY in many instances were graduates of this Institution.

—Columbus Day was observed as a holiday within the school. Mr. Augustus Fogle appeared with a line of conveyances about 9 o'clock, and the pupils, divided into parties, enjoyed an hour's ride into the neighboring woods, through Winston, back to the ACADEMY. The day was fine and hence all enjoyed the ride. At 1 o'clock a "holiday" dinner was served, which all enjoyed even as they had the ride. In the evening a special programme was rendered, prepared with a view to commemorate the anniversary of the Discovery of America, 400 years ago. The numbers were as follows :

Chorus. America.

Essay. Columbus' Early Life.

Miss SUSIE REYNOLDS.

Recitation. The Mutiny. Sight of Land. Rogers.

Miss ANNIE CARRIER.

Vocal Solo. Sleep little baby of mine. Dennei.

Miss GERTRUDE ROBBINS.

Essay. Columbus' Preparation for the Voyage.

Miss LAURA LESLIE.

Chorus. Spanish Hymn.

Essay. Columbus' Voyage and Discovery of America.

Miss HUBERTA READ.

Vocal Solo. } a. Entreaty.....Bol.m.
 } b. Serenade.....Neidlinger.

Miss CLAUDIA PALMER.

Recitation. Ode for Columbus Day....Proctor,
 Miss ETHEL ROBERTS.

Essay. Columbus' sufferings and death.

Miss MATTIE BELO WILLIAMS.

Chorus. Italian Hymn.

After the programme, which was listened to by the school and a few invited guests, the day was closed by social pleasures in the various study parlors.

—A number of hours have been spent in practice of hymns in the Chapel, during the week, and on Sunday afternoon. The singing on the various occasions when the school is gathered together is better this year than usual.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., OCTOBER, 1892.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.

Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—The Class Essay, read Commencement morning, last June, will be published in the December issue of THE ACADEMY. The description of the opening of Society Hall calls for special space in this number.

THE CHRISTMAS RECESS.

THE faculty of the ACADEMY has decided to suspend recitation Wednesday, December 21st, at two o'clock. This is done in order to meet the desires of those who will visit home during the recess. But this is two days earlier than usual, and meets every reasonable desire; in making this change the faculty have also decided that no pupil will be excused under any circumstances before that hour and day, and we urge patrons to aid us in preventing the injury which always follows withdrawal previous to the close of the week's work. This will enable pupils to leave Thursday morning, or Thursday noon, as the case may require.

BOXES.

—To the few friends who failed to receive our notice in regard to "provisions" in boxes we would beg leave to state that for more than a year nothing save fruit or small boxes of candy have been allowed to pass into the school, except at Christmas. This rule has received the endorsement of almost all of our patrons. The health of the school has greatly improved, the doctor's bills have been reduced to a small fraction of what was necessary formerly, and we have thought the matter was understood and accepted by all. This, however, is not the case, since box after box has arrived with contents of such a nature that we could not allow them to pass in. It is not a pleasant matter to deal with the question in this shape, and hence we once more emphasize the fact that no general rule of this nature is passed until it has been carefully considered, but when it does we make no exception.

Better Than All Else.

IT is our pleasure to record a season of unusual religious interest within the school during the past month. How or whence it came is difficult to say, but like all true works of the Spirit of God it is apparently not man's work. Some Sundays since after an earnest sermon in the church by Bishop RONDTHALER, a number of pupils in the Senior Room asked advice in regard to spiritual matters from their faithful teacher. The next day and on the following days, Bishop RONDTHALER, who acts at present as pastor within the school, was called in and held a season of prayer with the seeking young souls. This was followed by other prayer-meetings, in the Senior room and in other rooms, and also by earnest counsel and advice by pupils with each other, and by the earnest Christians who make up the faculty of the Institution. It was a wonderful and a pleasing sight during those days. No duty was suspended; no pleasure denied; no smiles were wanting; the school-life went on in the even tenor of its daily programme; but as you passed by this room company, say at 5 p. m., you would notice sweet religious songs; in this group you would see an unusually earnest expression, perhaps occasionally one weeping. But the Spirit of God was working powerfully, and one after the other came out from under the cloud and recognized the light. There were probably fifty or more church members among the pupils at the opening of the term, and there are now nearly double that number who will be ready to confess the Lord Jesus Christ when they return to their homes, and become active members of their home churches. It would do you good, Christian reader, if you could see the bright and happy faces, and note how the school tasks are performed with renewed zeal and earnestness. At the close of the regular daily 5 o'clock services, held in the 3d room, both Dr. RONDTHALER and Mr. CLEWELL addressed the earnest young people, and it was an hour long to be remembered. For these reasons we have given this editorial the title "Better than all else," for while we rejoice to send pupils back to the parental care with developed minds, cultivated intellects and with accomplishments which will be admired by friends; while we rejoice to have pupils leave us with the bloom of health in the cheek and the elastic step of strength, better than all else is the knowledge that while beneath the ACADEMY roof a young soul has been won for Christ, for when all things earthly have passed away, these shall shine as the stars forever and ever.

To the Class of '91.

Several of our number have written to me in regard to fixing a time for a class reunion, and have requested me to sound the "assembly." The best way seems to be through the columns of THE ACADEMY. I therefore wish to ask each girl of the Class of '91 who may be interested to send to me the choice she may have as to the season, whether Easter or Commencement, and the year for our meeting. I will be very glad to have letters, but hope all will send at least as much as a postal. The greatest number agreeing upon one season and year, will determine the time of our meeting, and due notice will be given of the decision through the same medium now employed.

Let me hear from you as soon as possible, please, and address,

MISS LAURA WHITNER,
Fort Reed, Fla.

THE ZINZENDORF,
Winston, N. C., Nov. 14th, 1892.

Rev. J. H. CLEWELL:

Dear Sir:—After much delay in correspondence I have succeeded in obtaining round trip tourists' tickets from points mentioned in schedule herewith enclosed to Winston-Salem. Thinking possibly the same might be of advantage to your patrons I hand it to you with pleasure.

Very truly,
L. W. SCOVILLE, Manager.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., AND RETURN.

Limited to three months from date of sale.
Baltimore & Ohio R. R., to Shenandoah Jc.
Norfolk & Western R. R., to Winston-Salem
Returning same route.

Through Rates.

Baltimore, Md., $19.30	Johnstown, Pa., $22.55
Bellaire, O., 27.15	Keyser, W. Va., 19.75
Cameron, W. Va., 25.75	Martinsb'g, W. Va., 15.65
Chester, Pa., 22.80	McKeesport, Pa., 24.25
Clarksb'g, W. Va., 23.75	Meyersdale, Pa., 20.30
Connellsville, Pa., 22.50	Morg'nt'n, W. Va., 24.75
Cumberland, Md., 18.80	Moundsv'e, W. Va., 26.45
Fairmont, W. Va., 23.75	Mt. Pleasant, Pa., 23.00
Frederick, Md., 16.55	New York, N. Y., 27.30
Grafton, W. Va., 22.85	Oakland, Md., 21.00
Harp. Fer., W. Va., 15.45	Park'sb'g, W. Va., 26.85
Philadelphia, Pa., 23.30	Uniontown, Pa., 22.95
Piedmont, W. Va., 19.95	Washington, D. C., 17.30
Pittsburgh Pa., 24.80	Washington, Pa., 25.50
Rockwood, Pa., 20.75	Wilmington, Del., 22.30
Somerset, Pa., 21.15	Wheeling, W. Va., 25.85

Correspondence.

—We are glad to hear from our dear friend ANNIE OGBURN again, and sorry that years of invalidism have been allotted to her in the inscrutable wisdom of Providence:

October has come again, and reminds me that I must remember my subscription for the dear little paper.

Since I wrote you last, I have been to Ocean View on the Virginia coast, Sharon Springs, N. Y., and at last my search for health has led me here to the Lebanon Valley surrounded by the hills of the Blue Mountains. This is indeed a lovely spot in Berks Co., Pa. I seem to be improving a little, but whether I shall ever be well again remains an open question. I hope none of my old friends and schoolmates have been called upon to spend so many long years in invalidism, and yet—the clay must not say to the potter, "what dost thou? or, why hast thou formed me thus?" We can only trust our "Father's hand."

Please send me two or three of the latest catalogues. Everything concerning the dear old school is of interest to me, I am always glad to get the papers. With love and best wishes to old friends, I remain Truly and sincerely,

ANNIE L. OGBURN.

Walter's Park, Wernersville, Pa.

—Our next is from one of our recent graduates, MARY STILLWELL, ANNA HAROLSON's daughter.

In the September number of THE ACADEMY we read the account of your narrow escape, and though we were sorry to learn of the accident which probably prevented you from making as many visits as you would otherwise have done, we were glad to know that you escaped more serious injuries. After receiving all those bruises you were no doubt glad enough to reach home again.

I see from the list of names in the ACADEMY that the school opened with a very large number, which will no doubt increase during the following months. It would afford me much pleasure to see S. F. A. again, with the teachers and pupils. We do not realize the attachment we have for the school we attended until we have left it for good.

Remember me kindly to Dr. RONDTHALER, Miss LEHMAN and the other teachers who taught me.

Very sincerely,
MARY SUE STILLWELL.

Anniston, Ala.

—HATTIE FOSTER gives us a few welcome lines also:

I have been wanting to write to you for some time, but thought the columns of the first issues of the paper would be filled with letters of the recent graduates. I thought of you at the beginning of the term and wished so much to be with you. I saw from the papers that Mr. CLEWELL had been in Atlanta. As he was that near I wish he had come on to Americus, but there are so few Salem girls here: in fact I do not know of any one here besides myself but Mrs. Bagley (LAURA JOHNSON), who was there in '72, '73 and '74.

Miss MARY PFOHL and her younger sister, Addie, have been here on a visit to their aunt, Mrs. Harrold. Miss MARY will leave for Salem soon, probably to spend the winter there.

With many good wishes for all those connected with the ACADEMY, I am,

Yours truly,

HATTIE FOSTER.

111 Lee Street, Americus, Ga.

—LILY DAVIS (class of '80) writes from far off Minnesota:

I have a friend who is desirous of sending her daughter to a Moravian school, and as I am an old ACADEMY girl I feel sure she could not do better than send her daughter to Salem. If you would kindly furnish me with a Catalogue and pamphlet I would appreciate it.

Respectfully,

LILY DAVIS FINLEY.

750 Holly Avenue, St. Paul, Minn.

—A few lines from LOULIE BRIDGERS, received before Commencement, were accidentally misplaced, but we will give them now, for friends have been anxiously inquiring about her:

I hoped much to be present at the Class Reunion. It would have been a great pleasure to meet my classmates and teachers again. I am afraid if I wait much longer I will not feel as if it were the same ACADEMY I love and honor so much. The more I see of the world the more I admire the ACADEMY and the work of those associated with it.

With best wishes for a happy Commencement week, particularly to the members of my old class who have come to their reunion, I remain,

Very sincerely,

LOULIE BRIDGERS.

Lawrence, N. C.

—ELOISE MCGILL also gives us a brief call:

Enclosed please find 50 cents for my subscription to THE ACADEMY for this year. I have not yet received the September number.

I was glad to note from the papers that you had so large an opening. It is very gratifying to me, as it must be to every Alumna of the Institution; to know that the School is becoming larger every year. My interest and love for the dear ACADEMY grows stronger every day.

With best wishes for a prosperous and happy school year, and with kindest regards for yourself, I am,

Sincerely yours,

ELOISE MCGILL.

Fayetteville, N. C.

Our Library.

Just before printing THE ACADEMY we have received a royal donation for our Library through the patriotism and friendship of our friend the Hon. Thomas H. Sutton. We will not be able to tell our readers about it in this issue, but will only say that it is the most valuable acquisition received during the present administration.

The Reference Library of the ACADEMY has recently been enriched by the purchase of "Appleton's Cyclopaedia of American Biography," in six large, finely bound volumes. The work is exceedingly valuable, and gotten up in a pleasing and attractive style; it is calculated to supply a long felt want and pressing need. Each volume has ten superb steel portraits of our most eminent men, besides being profusely illustrated with good wood-cuts. It is edited by James Grant Wilson, and John Fiske.

A great amount of work is done in the Reference Library, and any further equipment of this department is well applied. There are few more interesting sights than the busy girls studying with note book and pencil in the various departments of the Library and Reading-Room, and as they transcribe items of value from immense Cyclopedias, or spend leisure time in reading carefully selected books, magazines and papers, the place becomes more and more important.

We acknowledge with pleasure the reception of an English Ballad Book compiled by Katharine Lee Bates, of Wellesley College, Mass., and sent to us by the publishers, Messrs. Leach, Shewell and Sanborn, Boston and New York. The work belongs to the Students series of English classics, and will be welcome to all Teachers and Students of English Literature.

Personal.

—MINTA HICKS was married in January to Mr. John T. Garrison, a young lawyer of Centre, Texas.

—MRS. Lash Gaither, (FLORENCE CLEMENT) called in to see us some time ago. We were very pleased to see her again.

—We see from the late Guilford Collegian that IDA VAIL, of Charlotte, N. C., one of our Alumnae, has been elected State Superintendent of the W. C. T. U.

—KATIE HAINES was kind enough to add two fine Pouter pigeons to our Academy aviary. We hope they will fraternize peacefully with our many feathered pets.

—We sympathize deeply with Mrs. Leaville (MARY CREIGHT) of Winnsboro, S. C., in the death of her husband, who departed almost suddenly after a very brief illness during the summer.

—We have received various letters from recent pupils who say "please do not publish my letters in THE ACADEMY." Of course, we respect their wishes, but if they knew how eagerly their classmates and old friends read and value every word they would withdraw all prohibition.

—It was a great pleasure to receive a call from Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ollinger, of Milton, Fla., and their two daughters, ALICE and KATE. They were returning home from Boston, Mass., where CARRIE is studying in the New England Conservatory of Music, and concluded to give us a pleasant surprise, while calling on their daughter HATTIE now with us in the ACADEMY, and several other Florida girls. Mrs. Ollinger (SALLIE BATCHELDER) is a graduate of the ACADEMY, with her three daughters, ALICE, KATE and CARRIE, while HATTIE the youngest is closing up a fine family record with credit to herself and to them.

Married.

BROWN—THOMPSON.—In the Methodist Centenary Church, Winston, N. C., October 12, Mr. GEO. BROWN and Miss ELSIE THOMPSON.

SIDDALL—SHORE.—In Salem, N. C., Oct. 13, Mr. THOMAS H. SIDDALL to Miss ADELAIDE L. SHORE (Class of '87).

SEAWELL—WEDDINGTON.—At the Second Presbyterian Church, Charlotte, N. C., October 19th, Mr. LUKE SEAWELL to Miss BESSIE WEDDINGTON.

MOORE—CLARKE.—In Bryan, Texas, November 8, at the residence of Mrs. S. G. Yates, Mr. M. V. Moore, of Asheville, N. C., to Miss EDITH M. CLARKE. After December 1st they will be at home to their friends in Asheville, N. C.

SUSONG—SWANN.—In Dandridge, Tenn., September 14th, Mr. J. A. SUSONG, of Greenville, Tenn., to Miss VICTORIA SWANN (Class of '87).

RAHDERS—MCCANLESS.—At Dunn's Mountain, N. C., November 2d, Mr. FRANK ALPHONSE RAHDERS to Miss HANNAH MARTIN MCCANLESS. At home after November 10 at Lakota, N. D.

—To correct an impression that sometimes exists in regard to the matter of visits home at Christmas, we will state that the majority of pupils remain in the ACADEMY. Every effort is put forth to make the season, a happy one, rooms are profusely decorated, the church services are interesting and enjoyable, and the presents sent from home make the ACADEMY seem like an exposition with its treasures of beautiful and useful things. Still no objection is urged against visits home provided pupils remain till the close of recitations and return promptly after New Year's Day.

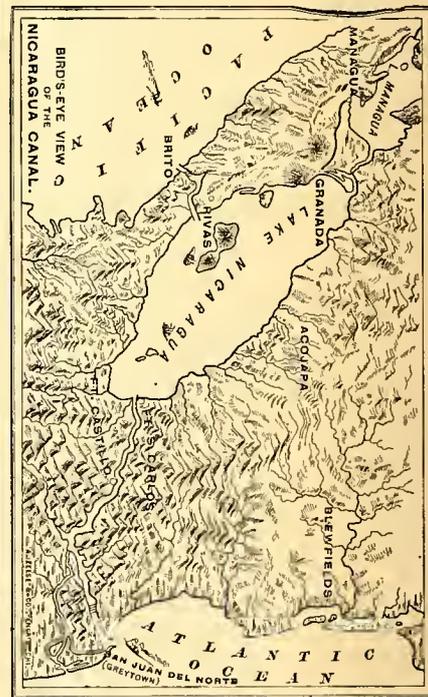

—We clip from one of our exchanges what will probably be of interest to our musical friends:

AN ANTHEM.—"I say Bill, what's a hanthem?" "What," replied Bill, "do you mean to say you don't know what a hanthem is?" "Not me!" "Well, then, I tell yer. If I was to tell yer, 'Ere, Bill, giv me that 'and spike,' that wouldn't be a hanthem, but was I to say, 'Bill, Bill, Bill, give, giv, giv me that, that hand, hand-spike, hand, handspike, spike, spike, spike, ah-men, ah-men, Bill giv me that hand-spike, spike, ah-men!' why that would be a hanthem."

Subscriptions Received.

Miss Anna Adams, Bagdad, Fla.; Mr. G. R. Shultz, Washington, D. C.; Miss Mary Y. Clark, Columbia, S. C.; Miss Olivia Warner, Bethlehem, Pa.; Mrs. John H. Tise, Salem, N. C.; Mrs. J. G. Hall, Hickory, N. C.; Miss Kyle Pace, Waco, Texas; Mrs. J. B. Churchill, Alma Place, La.; Miss Mary Fitzpatrick, Mt. Pleasant, Texas; Mrs. J. L. Minnaugh, Columbia, S. C.; Mrs. Wm. Holman, Raleigh, N. C.; Miss Mary A. T. Pretlow, Franklin, Va.; Mrs. J. A. Hadley, La Grange, N. C.; Mrs. Mary L. Early, Wood Lawn, Va.; Mrs. W. B. Martin, Eatonton, Ga.; Mrs. John B. Eaves, Statesville, N. C.; Miss Ida W. Blackwell, Allison, N. C.; Mrs. F. W. Foster, Wilmington, N. C.; Mrs. Amanda Rutherford, Houston, Texas; Mrs. Maggie Siler, Davenport, N. C.; Miss Blanche

Wood, Asheboro, N. C.; Miss Eliza Murphy, Atkinson, N. C.; Miss Hattie Foster, Americus, Ga.; Miss Mamie Lewis, Montezuma, Ga.; Miss Anna Hames, Jonesville, S. C.; Miss Clyde Peacock, Goldsboro, N. C.; Mrs. B. W. Moore, Van Buren, Ark.; Miss Mattie Woodell, Raleigh, N. C.; Dr. J. W. Hunter, Mrs. J. H. Stockton and Miss Gertrude Siewers, Salem, N. C.; Miss Mary Stillwell, Anniston, Ala.; Mrs. Stella Slappey, Fort Valley, Ga.; Mrs. Wm. Biting, Sherman, Texas; Miss Agnes Coleman, Sedalia, S. C.; Miss Nellie Lunceford, Smithfield, N. C.; Miss Martha Jeffreys, Mill Brook, N. C.; Miss Eldred Mallore, Rockport, Texas; Dr. A. H. Byrd, Entaw, Ala.; Mrs. H. S. Prince, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. N. L. Simmonds, Charlotte, N. C.; Mrs. E. C. Williams, Tyler, Texas; Mrs. L. A. Smyth, Carisbrook, Jamaica; Miss Kate Pearsall, Morganton, N. C.

—We give above a map of the manner in which the Nicaragua Canal will effect the distance of places by water routes. This work is now in progress, over $2,000,000 has been expended, and it is expected in 5 years to complete the same. From New York to San Francisco the distance will be shortened more than 10,000 miles; from Liverpool to San Francisco will be 8,000 miles less, and from New Orleans 12,000 miles less. The cost of the canal will be $100,000,000.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.

The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.

REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

Nov. '92-tf.

DAVIS SCHOOL

A MILITARY COLLEGE

Degrees in
CIVIL ENGINEERING,
SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes, there is a Complete Preparatory Department.

Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars, address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.

Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.

Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,

Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.

October, 1892.

Horner Military School,

OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY

Principals.

June 1892-1y

CRIST & KEEHLN,

PRINTERS AND PUBLISHERS,

Salem, N. C.

Print THE ACADEMY, CATALOGUE, HOW TO GET TO SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY and other publications issued by the Institution.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnæ of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxydized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON.

JEWELERS,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,

Salem Female Academy,

SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-1y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

ASUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N.Y.

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

FOUNDED 1802.

Salem Female Academy.

SALEM, N. C.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country

All the leading novelties, such as :

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.30 Up.

Also the latest novelties in

Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,

has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

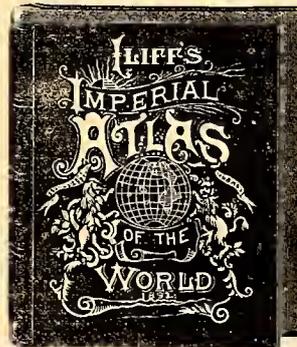

Phone 111.

Phone 111.

Jan. 1892.

ILIFF'S Imperial Atlas of the World.

Cheapest, Best and Most Complete Atlas Published.

SIZE 12X15-350 PAGES.

GRAND WORLD'S FAIR EDITION.
Official Maps United States and World.
Official Census United States and World 1890.
Grand Panorama World's Fair Buildings.

ENLARGED, REVISED, TO DATE.

Complete with New Railroad Maps of the States and Territories of the United States, North and South America, Europe, Asia and Africa, with illustrated descriptive matter of the same brought down to April, 1891. Full page maps of the principal Cities of the United States and Canada (31 in number). Diagrams of Population, Manufactures, Industries, Debt, Wealth, Nationalities, etc., etc., together with a complete index of all the Cities, Towns, Villages and Hamlets of the States and Territories of the United States, giving the population of each.

THE STANDARD AUTHORITY.

THE REFERENCE BOOK OF THE CENTURY.

Price, bound in Embossed Cloth, . . . . . $4.25
Price, bound in Half Morocco, . . . . . 5.50
Price, bound in full Russia, . . . . . 7.50

Agents wanted in every Town to whom Liberal Terms will be given.

FRANKLIN PUBLISHING CO., Publishers,
157 York St., SAVANNAH, GA.

Nov., Dec. Jan.

THE BEAUTIFUL

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION, D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

The Cotton Belt Route.

Has handled more students to and from Arkansas and Texas than all other Southwestern lines combined; and its continued popularity with the principal Southeastern schools is the highest guarantee of the excellence of its service and the truthfulness of its representations.

THE ONLY LINE receiving and delivering passengers at Memphis without a long and disagreeable omnibus transfer across the city.

THE ONLY LINE with through sleeping car service between Memphis and the Southwest.

THE ONLY LINE with through car service between Memphis and points in Central Texas.

W. G. ADAMS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Nashville, Tenn.
S. G. WARNER, S. E. Pass. Agt., Memphis, Tenn.
H. H. SUTTON, Trav. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. H. WINFIELD, Gen. Pass. Agt., Tyler, Texas.
E. W. L'ABEAUME, G. P. & T. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.
June 1892—1y

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY,
Gen. Sup't,
Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Pass. Ag't
Fayetteville, N. C.

Iron Mountain Route.

Great through line from Arkansas, Texas and the Southwest to Salem and North Carolina.

Write to the undersigned if you contemplate attending Salem Female College for rates, routes and time-tables.

H. C. TOWNSEND,

Gen'l Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

June 1892—1y

Norfolk & Western R'y

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville. By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892—1y

The short line to New Orleans, Memphis and points in the Southeast.

Take the "St. Louis Limited," 12 hours saved, between Fort Worth, Dallas and St. Louis and the East.

The Direct Line to all points in Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona, Oregon and California.

Through Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars between Dallas, Fort Worth, and St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco.

For rates, tickets and all information apply to, or address any of the ticket agents or

GASTON MESLIER,
Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
Dallas, Texas.

June 1892—1y

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow are, Glassw are,
CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

First National Bank Building.

The Student's Series of Histories.

Edited by WILLIAM SMITH, LL. D.

Each one of these serviceable and attractive volumes is acknowledged to be the best summary in our language of the particular branch of knowledge to which it belongs.

Ancient History: A Manual of Ancient History, from the Earliest times to the Fall of the Western Empire. 636 pp. Price $1.25.

The Christian Church, I: The History of the Christian Church during the First Ten Centuries. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 618 pp. Price, $1.50.

The Christian Church, II: The History of the Christian Church during the Middle Ages. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 700 pp. Price, $1.50.

The East: The Ancient History of the East, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of Alexander the Great. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. Illustrated, 650 pp. Price $1.25.

England: A History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Revolution of 1688. 808 pp. $1.50.

England (CONSTITUTIONAL): The Constitutional History of England. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 748 pp. Price, $1.25.

England (QUEENS): Lives of the Queens of England, from the Norman Conquest. By AGNES STRICKLAND, Illustrated. 682 pp. Price $1.25.

France: A History of France, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire in 182. Illustrated. 730 pp. Price $1.25.

Germany: A History of Germany, from the Earliest Times. By CHARLTON T. LEWIS. 800 pp. $1.50.

Greece: A History of Greece, from the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. 704 pp. $1.25.

Greece (GENERAL): A General History of Greece, from the Earliest Period to the Death of Alexander the Great. By GEORGE W. COX, M. A. 710 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome: A History of Rome, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By H. G. LIDDELL, D. D. 768 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome (GENERAL): A General History of Rome. B. C. 753—A. D. 476. By CHARLES MERIVALE, D. D. 702 pp. Price, $1.25.

Roman Empire: The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By EDWARD GIBBON, Abridged. 679 pp. Price $1.25.

Middle Ages: View of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 708 pp. Price, $1.25.

Modern Europe: A History of Modern Europe. By RICHARD LODGE. 772 pp. Price, $1.25.

New Testament: The New Testament History, With Maps and Woodcuts. 780 pp. Price $1.25.

Old Testament: The Old Testament History, from the Creation to the Return of the Jews from Captivity. With Maps and Woodcuts. 716 pp. Price, $1.25.

A complete catalogue of School and College Text Books will be forwarded on request

HARPER & BROTHERS,

Franklin Square, New York.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XV.

SALEM, N. C., DECEMBER, 1892.

NUMBER 131.

The Academy Cottage at the Seaside.

IN our last article we spoke of the location and appearance of our seaside cottage, and of some of the enjoyments offered to the visitors. This one will have for its object the description of a few of the journeys themselves.

One of the spots visited a number of times was Southport. Twenty-five miles below Wilmington this interesting town is situated, at the mouth of the Cape Fear River. The sojourner at Carolina Beach must make a 2 miles run back to the river from the beach, and at the pier he waits a few moments for the comfortable little steamer, the Passport. Leaving the pier we steamed across the river and stopped at some of the rice plantations, admiring the smooth, rich green covering of rice, which had a peculiarly delicate tint at the time we passed it; beyond these fields could be seen the homes of the planters, with the huge porticos looking riverward, and dating back to periods before the Revolutionary War. In summer the owners of these beautiful homes leave them, since the peculiarly wet and marshy condition of the land necessary to raise rice makes the malarial poisons abundant. A little lower down the river is old Brunswick, interesting because of the ancient church and graveyard, marking the spot where the colonial inhabitants assembled and resisted the landing of teas some years before the famous scene in Boston harbor. The spot is now overgrown with trees and brush, but is a picturesque hillside, tempting the passer-by to stop and examine. This our party could not do, but steaming down the broad river, two, three miles wide, we watch the tugs pulling the vessels up to Wilmington, or salute an ocean steamer as it passes us. The cool breeze was most welcome, and as we sat on the deck beneath the awning, it was difficult to realize what we saw in the papers, viz.: that in every section of the country persons were perishing from the severe heat of the July sun. To our left a high mound now appears, and we are told that famous Fort Fisher is the name of the mound. Of this spot we are to speak later. Beyond this we pass what is known as "The Rocks," an immense dam built by the Federal government, in order to shut up "New Inlet," as it was termed, and send the entire current of Cape Fear river out into the ocean at the old mouth near Southport. The work is a masterpiece of engineering skill, and cost more than $2,000,000. But the results are very satisfactory, since the channel has been deepening ever since this upper mouth has been closed, and now the largest ocean vessels can safely make their way to Wilmington, and old Ocean has formed a beach beyond the rock work of the government. Passing the "Rocks" we notice "Bald Head" light house, towering high above surrounding objects in its clear whiteness. But now our steamer turns southward as it rounds a point, and Southport suddenly looms up before us. It is a picturesque town, the homes being neat and comfortable, the streets wide, immense live-oaks growing everywhere, and the beautiful crape myrtle lending a rich and lovely tint to the scene. Mr. Stevens, editor of the Southport Leader, was with our party on several occasions, and was untiring in his efforts to give us pleasure. He accompanied us to Fort Caswell, just across the way from Southport, to Bald Head light house, and on several sails on the ocean.

After a half-hour spent at the wharf at Southport, Capt. Dixie gave the signal and we were moving out toward the ocean itself. As soon as we passed the point of land on which Fort Caswell stands the swell of the ocean struck us, and we began to rock. To the uninitiated the sensation was peculiar. "Ladies, you had better take seats on the benches and hold to the railing," was the somewhat startling advice of Capt. Dixie, and Mr. Stevens smiled. It was interesting to notice the expression on the faces of the party as the Passport rose on the wave, and with a plunge went down on the other side. You may imagine how you would feel if the chair on which you are seated while reading this article should suddenly grow unsteady, rise to the ceiling, and then with a plunge dive to the cellar! Such was the Passport on that day in July. The wind was strong from the southeast, and had been blowing hard for some days past; the ocean was rough and choppy, and it is probable that during our noonday sail in the little steamer we were pitched and tossed in as genuine a fashion as is the case in the great steamers while crossing the Atlantic. How did we fare? Well, I don't know that I ought to tell. Still it would have done you good to see Miss Mary grasp that iron post, when we apparently started for the bottom; she thought it was her last chance! But, alas! she caught her neighbor's little finger between her hand and the post, and she had a ring on her finger, and the death-like grip with which post on one side and ring on the other treated that neighbor's hand is terrible to relate. The finger was not cut off, but Miss Mary would not let go either, and when we all recognized that we were not to find a watery grave, we succeeded in freeing the imprisoned hand, but the neighbor would not trust another chance of ring and post! About the rest you ask? Oh, how I would like to tell! Have you ever read of "sea-green" Robespierre? Well, one took the life-raft, and covered by gossamer was heard from no more. By this time we were apparently feeling more at ease. Three, four, five miles, and the dim outline of the shore began to appear hazy in the distance. Suddenly a dismal sound was heard, the harsh clang of a bell, and we gazed hurriedly about us to see what produced this strange sound. A moment later and we saw the "bell-buoy,"—which, anchored miles from the shore, constantly rings out its notes of warning to vessels and pilot boats, telling them of treacherous sandbars and hidden rocks. The waves themselves constantly swing this buoy back and forth, and although it was noonday when we passed it, methinks I can hear its strange and wierd tones even now while writing. If such was the effect at noonday, what would be the impression made on a starless midnight, or in a driving snow-storm, or a smothering fog, or heard at intervals above the howling of some terrific storm in inky darkness. Kind reader, if you ever feel discontented, or lonesome, or timid, and want to imagine something which is worse, just think of this bell-buoy of the Atlantic, with storm and darkness about, and even though you are in a churchyard at midnight, that spot will seem cheerful by comparison. Let us return to our party.

A mile or two behind us the bell-buoy has disappeared, and we hear the Captain smilingly say that we will stop awhile and fish. Do you know what that means, kind reader? Well, one of our party, so dignified, so smiling, (I wish I could tell you who it was), suddenly gets an attack of "sea-green." It spreads over her face, it effects her expression, she sits rigid like a statue, and all gaze and wonder. Then one of the brightest and cherriest of our company rises and carefully crosses over to our friend, with sympathetic word and action, but with a naughty twinkle in the eye. Just a little fun, you know,—nothing cruel, oh, no! only a little fun. With mock earnestness the fun-maker begins to console, but the rigid face and fixed stare are not relaxed. Fine sport that to see the rosy lip and sparkling eye of the one gently teasing poor suffering humanity in the case of the other. All watch the scene and are interested. Listen to the words: "Really, I would not feel so bad; this miserable sea-sickness will soon be over; it will then be pleasant to look back to; really I would not——" But, behold! the sentence is not finished; the features of the teasing "sinner" change; the rosy lips are no longer rosy; the sparkling eye sparkles no longer,—but from forehead downward spreads the dreadful sea-green tinge, and these two "pillars" of S. F. A sit in rigid solemnity, contemplating,—what! The echo answers "what!"

And now the Captain sees that it is time to move on, and soon we are safely at the pier at Southport, and if, perchance you should see one of the two we have mentioned walking to-day in our academic halls, you would hardly be able to imagine the striking scene on the Passport described above.

If you have gone thus far with us on our journey, kind reader, we would like to take you farther, but space forbids. We would like to have you go with us over to Smith's Island and land in Capt. Savage's pilot boat, preparatory to climbing the winding stairway of Bald Head lighthouse; to go along the sand, pure as the driven snow, and gather the lovely shells; we would like to take you to Fort Caswell, with its moat and draw-bridge, its, subterranean passages, and its revolutionary time aspect; to the United States life saving station, to examine the machinery used in saving shipwrecked men and women; yes, we would like to have you enjoy with us many of these scenes of interest, but the journey would transgress our space, so in imagination we will flit northward a dozen miles to the pier where a special train, sent out by the courtesy of Capt. Harper, awaits the party, and a few moments later all are gathered around the table at the Academy Cottage; "Alf, bring in another bowl of clam soup!" and "Alf, bring in the pig-fish now!"—but let us draw the veil, or our readers might grow hungry, so we will say good-by for this month.

To be continued.

Essay on Class Motto.

"Palma non sine Pulvere."

Read Commencement, 1892.

BY MISS BLANCHE WOOD.

OUR age is the age of effort, and the man who does not exert himself in some way drops out of the race, the struggle for the great prizes of life, Honor, Wealth and Fame.

Anything within the range of possibility can be commanded by persistent, intelligently directed labor.

Youth is the time for enthusiastic effort, the time when the recital of great deeds and heroic achievements stir the blood and kindle a burning desire to do likewise. The time is likely to come, however, when the boundless possibilities of early visions are discovered to be illusory.

It is not common to find downright indolence in young life, but activity is apt to be misdirected. To direct the superfluous animation of youth into legitimate channels is therefore a noble task. There are some few constitutional shirkers among the human race,—there is a disposition among some few people to avoid downright labor, and to dodge along through life in easy paths. Some pessimists tell us that all mankind are naturally lazy; that a very small minority love work for its own sake, but that all love for exertion of any sort is an acquired taste; like a taste for tobacco or pickled olives.

It matters little to us whether it be natural or acquired; the important fact is whether the work is done. The necessity for labor came upon us with the Fall. It was necessary to keep the race from going to ruin at a headlong rate, to give them something to do, something to keep all superfluous energies employed, in order to keep humanity out of mischief, as the careful mother seeks out fitting occupation for her little ones to keep them from doing that which is hurtful. Our Heavenly Father did this in laying upon us the necessity for exertion. He also made us to see that nothing worth having is ever obtained without labor, that we get some of the returns of our labor as we go on, but in the end the glorious victor palm crowns the successful effort. We are under obligations to do something in this life. As every man has his own especial niche, which he and he alone can fill, so every man and woman has work to do, work of some kind every day of life. Labor is the price we pay for what we wish to use and enjoy. The absolute necessities of life are few in number, but with a higher culture luxuries have a way of increasing prodigiously.

All values are based on labor, whether it be the growing of cotton, wheat or tobacco, the manufacturing interests, or the trade and barter by which the productions of the different sections are interchanged.

Thus the balance adjusts itself on the basis of values, but labor of some kind is our only means of happiness. Carlyle's definition of happiness was "to have congenial work, and to be able to do it," the contentment which springs from useful work shows that it is right and fitting that we should engage in it. The world owes a living only to the sick, those who are mentally or physically incapable of doing for themselves.

All kinds of business that promise large results at little cost are overcrowded, for many are trying to become rich without producing anything. We have been a nation of workers, but the desire for sudden wealth without working for it is demoralizing. There is too little thoroughness in preparatory work; too much smattering even in the training of the young.

Faithful work is always rewarded; the guerdon, the reward may not come early, but it is sure to come. It comes in steady principle, in sterling character, in the good opinion of those about us, and in the approval of conscience. If you do not believe that these rewards are worth working for, consider the person who lacks them, who as the legitimate result of his own deeds is wanting in self-respect and in the respect of his fellow-men. Consider the worth of a good name, of a clear unsullied reputation. What arithmetic can compute its value, or what plummet can sound the depths of sorrow over a lost reputation.

God has made men very different from each other ; as distinct in their individuality as if no other soul were in the universe, as if Nature had broken her mould after framing us, and the faculties of our souls differ as widely as our features, but in one thing we are all alike, and that is in needing regular work to reach any elevation of soul or spirit, as well as in looking forward to its glorious rewards in the end. Woman's work is so different in its nature from man's that she scarcely looks forward to any special crown at the end. The thousand and one little worries, little duties, little annoyances, the "insect" cares which so largely make up a woman's life, surely deserve some reward. Occasionally there is one like Mrs. Browning, who, through much physical weakness, sang the most melodious poetic strains, was recognized as the first female poet of the day ; or a George Eliot, who through years of ambitious struggle, at length wrote her name among the greatest novelists, able to portray all the feelings of the human soul with matchless fidelity.

But while the few receive the reward of appreciative fame, the many finish their course in unobtrusive duty, faithfully performed, never heard of outside of their own circle. Their influence, however, tells for time and eternity, and in the end, when the rewards of well spent lives are apportioned by an unerring Judge, their work will receive its due recognition, as done "in His name."

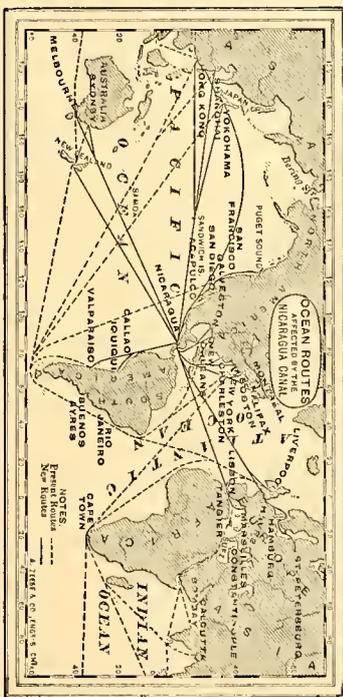

American society is so prone to do homage to material prosperity, to the man of woman who is able to amass wealth. Money is a good thing, a very excellent thing, and no one can afford to depreciate its worth, but it is not the only thing worth striving for. It is not the flower of all the ages, earth's last best gift, a well-rounded life, that has made the best of its materials, of its circumstances, is the sneesful one.

After labor comes rest : after the tumult and strife of youth and middle age we reap the results of our early endeavors. As we get on in years, the years are all the while getting into us, life's ripe, rich years of reward, of fruition. After the deep joy, the unspoken fervor of strife, comes the victor palm. Above the tumult, above the struggle, you sit in the serene evening, awaiting your promotion. Along the western sky flames the auroral glory of another life. The palms of victory wave over you as you come to the golden sunset. Slowly and gently the shadows lengthen, the weaknesses of age are but the stepping stones into the river.

"A palm for the victor! a crown of light!
Encircled with jewels, so radiant and bright,
Night never hath gloomed where its lusty glows
And he who hath won it hath earned its repose
In the Land of Eternal Peace."

Maps of the Great Central American Canal.

The above map gives the manner in which the Nicaragua Canal will effect the distance of places by water routes. This work is now in progress, over $2,000,000 has been expended, and it is expected in 5 years to complete the same. From New York to San Francisco the distance will be shortened more than 10,000 miles ; from Liverpool to San Francisco will be 8,000 miles less, and from New Orleans 12,000 miles less. The cost of the canal will be $100,000,000.

The above map gives a very good idea of the route followed by the proposed Nicaragua Canal. 26¾ miles will have to be excavated, and 142¾ miles will be along natural waterways, viz : Lake Nicaragua and the San Juan River. It is of interest to our Moravian Church because of the important fields of missionary work at Blewfields and the surrounding country. The lake will be a safe harbor, and can accommodate the navies and commerce of the world.

—The burning of the beautiful Hotel Zinzendorf, on Thanksgiving day, was a catastrophe to our towns which will cause regret to many of our patrons who had partaken of its hospitalities, and enjoyed its elegant appointments and beautiful location. About eleven o'clock in the morning fire originated in the back portion of the structure, and rapidly spread to the main portion. In less than two hours not a timber remained. Those who witnessed the conflagration say that it was a scene that beggars description. The heat was so intense and the shower of burning shingles so widely distributed that for hours after a force of men were kept busy "fighting fire" in the neighborhood. The financial loss was about $125,000, insured for $100,000. The hotel will be rebuilt.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., DECEMBER, 1892.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—The Christmas Recess begins Dec. 21st, at 2 p. m. No pupil will leave the School previous to that date and hour with the consent of the faculty. Recitations will be resumed on Tuesday morning, Jan. 3d, 8:45 o'clock, and parents are requested to insist on a prompt return of pupils to their duties.

—The "box rule" will be suspended from Wednesday, Dec. 21st to Jan. 2d. After that date no boxes will be received till the close of school in June.

—Parents will please note that pupils are not permitted to visit the homes of friends or relatives during the Christmas recess. Ample observation has shown the wisdom of this rule, and hence we trust no one will request a variation of this decision.

—Home friends, on a visit to our towns, will kindly note that the ACADEMY claims supervision of the pupil at all times. A pupil who uses the visit of a parent to trespass on the rules of the Institution opens a train of unfortunate experiences; this is true in every instance, since to be happy one must be honest, and disloyalty to the rules of a school is not the course pursued by an honest pupil. The sufferer in the end is always, alas! the pupil.

COL. SUTTON'S DONATION.

AS we intimated last month it is our pleasure in this issue to announce a most valuable and generous donation, which Col. T. H. Sutton has secured for the ACADEMY Library. The donation is a two-fold one:

The complete set of Colonial Records, published by the State of North Carolina, and consisting of 10 large volumes. Heretofore the ACADEMY has enjoyed the use of the set belonging to Hon. H. E. Fries, and has greatly prized the courtesy of this gentleman, hence we rejoice in the possession by the school of the work named.

The second gift will be explained by the following letters mailed us by Col. Sutton:

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON,
November 17, 1892.

Dear Sir:

In compliance with request contained in your letter of the 14th inst., I beg to inform you that a set of the "Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies," commencing with Volume 6, and ending with Volume 39, with Parts I to VIII of the General Atlas, to accompany this work, have this day been forwarded to the Salem Female Academy, Salem, North Carolina.

The future issues of this work will be sent to this address as rapidly as printed, as will also the first five volumes as soon as received from the Public Printer.

Very respectfully yours,

GEO. B. DAVIS,

Major and Judge Advocate, U. S. Army.

To Hon. Z. B. Vance, U. S. Senate, Washington, D. C.

WINSTON, N. C., Nov. 25th, 1892.

MR. CLEWELL:—

I enclose you herewith a letter from the War Department to Senator Vance, relating to the Official Records of the War between the Union and Confederate armies, which explains itself.

You will see that the missing volumes will be supplied and those yet to be printed will be forwarded direct from Washington to the Academy.

I am glad to know that I was the means of securing to the Academy Library this valuable publication.

Yours respectfully,

THOS. H. SUTTON.

The letters given above will hardly convey a just idea of the extent of the donation. There are in the first place 9 large Atlases, giving sketches of every field of operation in the late war. Then there are 74 separate volumes of the Records, giving information on every desired point. Add to this two more volumes entitled "United States Geological Survey," and "United States Geographical Survey," and we have a total of 95 volumes secured for the ACADEMY through the energetic and friendly spirit of Col. Sutton.

Our Library has been enlarged and improved during the past few years, both as to room and as to number of books. The use of the Library by the pupils has also been greatly increased, hence this valuable addition described above could not have been placed in a department of the school where it will meet with a more hearty reception than in our growing and wide-awake Library. THE ACADEMY has long urged the friends of the School to come to the aid and support of this promising field; some have already responded in the past, as we have noted in the columns of previous numbers; but we have never thus far been called upon to announce a more generous donation than that of Col. Sutton in the gift of the Colonial Records and of the War Records, and as an institution we thankfully acknowledge the same.

KING'S DAUGHTERS.

IT is known to very many of you that there exists in the ACADEMY a circle of the King's Daughters, which has been appropriately, as well as suggestively, named "The Four-Leaved Clover," each leaf representing a Christian grace;—Do all the good you can; Be just as kind as you can; Give all you can; Lend a hand.

During the present year so great has become the enthusiasm that we cannot refrain from telling you something of our work. Latterly we have been interested in making "Brownies," and succeeded so well that in our Brownie Exhibition of a few weeks ago we realized quite a nice little sum.

We will take this occasion to thank Mrs. M. V. Moore (better known to us as EDITH CLARKE) for her thoughtful Christmas donation.

Our untiring leader, Miss FOGLE, says she would be glad to receive letters or remembrances of any kind from those who were once one of us. We love to think that we are a link in what we hope will be a long chain, each year forming one of these links. If I am not mistaken we are the fifth link, and number at present about sixty members. Our meetings are held on Sunday afternoons at 4 o'clock. We would be glad to hear what our sisters of past years are now doing to carry out the ten times one idea.

Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year from us all, I am,

Yours affectionately,

SUE REYNOLDS,

Secretary.

Papers read at the Columbus Celebration.

THE following papers were read in the Chapel on the occasion of the Columbus celebration; the first one is by SUSIE REYNOLDS and the second one by LAURA LESLIE. We hope to present the remaining two papers in our January number.

Early Life of Columbus.

We meet this evening to celebrate the 400th anniversary of the Discovery of America. And what more fitting theme could engross our time than speaking o him whom all the world is delighted to honor, Christopher Columbus.

In Genoa, one of the quaintest and most interesting of cities, was born in 1435 or '36 (the exact date being uncertain) the illustrious and time-honored discoverer—not discoverer, as the little primary boy answered on being asked who Columbus was?

While very young he attended school at Pavia, then a celebrated school of learning. Having early evinced a decided inclination for the sea, he devoted himself with especial zeal to the mathematical and natural sciences, in order to fit himself for a maritime life.

His stay at Pavia cannot have been long, for at the age of fourteen he returned home, and was engaged for a short time in his father's trade of wool-combing. This was far from his taste, however, so he finally made his choice of life and became a sailor.

Little is known of him during the years he spent at sea. It is certain, however, that these unknown years were stormy, laborious and eventful. He travelled over all the known parts of the world. He has written, "Wherever ship has sailed, there have I journeyed."

He now prepared himself for still greater achievements by mastering all the science essential to his calling,—learned to draw maps, charts, etc., and in fact fitted himself in general to become a perfect and practical seaman. He did not come into notice until he went to Lisbon, at the age of 34 years. It was here that he married and settled. Some time was then spent by him on the island of Porto Santo, which had been colonized by his father-in-law, who was an Italian navigator. Here he was brought into association with persons interested in maritime discovery. It was about this time that he seems to have arrived at the conclusion that much of the world remained undiscovered. And to the verifying of this conclusion he devoted the remainder of his life,—thus proving that "men are the builders of their own destinies," and "there is no failure except in no longer trying."

Preparation for the Voyage.

From the time of Aristotle down through the centuries, it had been the belief of learned men that the earth was spherical and that by sailing westward from Europe, Asia or the Indies, as it was then called, could be reached.

This belief was especially impressed upon the mind of Columbus by the reception of a letter bearing upon that subject from Paolo Toscanelli, a noted student of Geography. This was while at Lisbon, probably in the year 1474.

He soon after applied to the King of Portugal for aid, but to learn that "It is easier to conquer on the field of battle than to combat prejudices and extirpate abuses."

Being disappointed here, he determined to leave Portugal, and with his little son, Diego, set out for the Spanish port of Palos, and it was there that he gained the friendship of Juan Perce de Marchena, the guardian of the convent of Santa Maria de La Rabida, to whom he mainly owed it that his suit was successful in the end.

This friendship began by his stopping at the convent gate to ask for bread and water for his little boy, and it constantly grew stronger in the months which followed while he remained in the convent as a guest and talked with Marchena and other learned men about the subject which so filled his mind and heart. Possibly Marchena commended him to the Cardinal Mendoza, for it was certainly by his aid that he obtained at last an opportunity to lay his plans before King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella at Salamanca in 1486.

For the time being his suit was rejected, and it was during the period of weary waiting that he sent his brother Bartholomew to England to lay his project before Henry VII. But as the historian Castell quaintly puts it the king unhappily refused to be at any charge in the discovery, supposing the learned Columbus to build castles in the air.

Columbus again presented his suit to Ferdinand and Isabella, being aided by the patronage of the Duke of Medina Celi, whose friendship he had won; but the only encouragement he received was that when the war against the Moors should end they might listen to him more favorably.

This appeal was made in May, 1489, and as nothing resulted therefrom by October, 1491, he decided to abandon Spain as he had abandoned Portugal, and to seek assistance at the court of France.

In fulfilment of this purpose he came again to the convent of La Rabida to get his son Diego and to enlist the sympathy of his friends. This at last Marchena gave him in a practical way. He wrote a most urgent letter to the Queen in advocacy of the project Columbus had in hand.

This letter turned the scale. Presently Columbus was summoned to the court and everything seemed in a fair way for a successful issue until the great rewards he insisted upon in case he should be successful caused the matter to be broken off. Convinced that he had nothing more to hope for in Spain, Columbus mounted his mule and set forth for France. When he was fairly gone his friends made one more appeal to the Queen, and to the glory of Spain this appeal was not in vain.

It was upon the bridge of Pinos, two leagues from Grenada that a messenger overtook him with the glad news that, at last, he could realize the purpose which had been so strong for many years.

The glory thus won for Spain belongs to Isabella alone. It was through her that the King's consent was obtained, and the cost of the expedition was charged against the revenues of her own kingdom Castile.

---

Chronicle and Gossip.

---

—Miss VEST's excellent recital was repeated before the Conference company.

—Several rooms in the Principal's house have been renovated by painter and paper hanger.

—VIOLETTA DAVIS was called home by the serious illness of her sister, who is now improving.

—Mrs. Fitzgerald, of North Danville, Va., is spending some days with Mrs. Gray, of Winston.

—SALLIE JARVIS was compelled to leave school for a time on account of her mother's illness.

—Cards are out for the marriage of Prof. C. R. Brown, of Winston, to Miss Annie Meyer, of Rochester, N. Y.

—Miss LEHMAN has been suffering from quite a severe attack of illness, but has so far recovered as to be able to resume her duties.

—Mr. Burton, of distant Colorado, is east on business, and, of course, ETHEL is happy. He will remain with us till after Christmas.

—Will not the King's Daughters let us have an occasional communication in regard to their work? Former members will welcome the same.

—Many of the Alumnae were present during Conference week, and gave us a friendly call. It always gives us pleasure to welcome them.

—We enjoyed a pleasant visit from President Lash, of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad, some days since. Mr. Lash inspected all of the buildings.

—A Thursday evening prayer meeting is being regularly held in Society Hall,—one or the other of the Societies having tendered the use of their halls for that purpose.

—A few pupils took Thanksgiving turkey at home, the large majority remaining here however, were undismayed, and the attack on celery and turkey was a victory in every way.

—We have received an invitation to the marriage of Miss MINNIE FAGG, of Asheville, to Mr. Theodore F. Mallory, December 21st, in the M. E. church. THE ACADEMY extends its best wishes on the happy occasion.

—The King's Daughters have been busy for some time manufacturing "Brownies" according to the well known models as shown in St. Nicholas. "Carrying the Yule log" was nicely represented in the "French Room," a small admission fee being charged for the evening.

—The Thanksgiving decorations in the church were interesting. Large piles of the "fruit of the soil" were on and about the pulpit, and the service throughout was typical of the feeling. It was said by a statesman in Germany that America alone could produce a genuine Thanksgiving day.

—The cold weather has driven the music instructors to "Winter quarters." Prof. SCHMOLCK occupies the room formerly occupied by Prof. MARKGRAFF. Miss BROWN and Miss MICKY have moved to old Annex. Miss LEHMAN occupies the room beside the Telegraphy Department.

—This month the regular calisthenic drill was commenced. It is a pleasing sight to witness the quick brisk drill which brings color to the cheek, fresh blood to the brain, and fills the lungs with pure air. The health of the school has been unusually fine, and this regular drill makes the prospects for a continuation of the same very good.

—Both the Euterpean and Hesperian Literary Societies have been busy drafting new Constitutions, which were examined, corrected and finally adopted by the Societies. The meetings are now being regularly held, a number of new members have joined the ranks of these busy workers, and the evenings are both interesting and profitable.

—The pulpit of the Moravian church was filled Sunday morning, December 4th, by the Rev. Dr. Dixon, President of the Greensboro Female College, and in the evening by Bishop Hendricks, who presided at the M. E. Conference. Both sermons were able efforts and were greatly enjoyed by the immense throng that filled the church.

—A slight fire in one of the out buildings back of the Principal's house threatened the safety of the latter, but was extinguished without serious results. In the struggle Mr. CLEWELL's hands were seriously burned, so much so that he will not be able to attend to full office duty for some time. The trigonometry class declare that the logarithms were not scorched in the least, however, and proceeded as usual, even though the hands suffered.

—The opening of Society Hall has necessitated a number of changes. They are as follows:

Sophomore A. and B., east side of Society Hall, and Freshman A. and B., west side of Society Hall. Class C. has the room in South Hall, opposite Junior Class rooms. Class B. has the old Senior class room in Main Hall. Class A. occupies the middle room, first floor of Park Hall. The other classes were not changed.

—The day scholar department has regularly organized by the election of officers. The names of those chosen by ballot are as follows:

President, Nannie McGhee.
Vice President, Beatrice Smith.
Secretary, Maggie Pfohl.
Treasurer, Sallie Marler.

The object of this organization is to guard the interests of the growing day school department, to aid the school in the development of the same, and to assist individual members as occasion requires.

—A week or two since a terrible crash startled our communities, and although sensations are not rare, this was a new form. The noise came from the direction of the depots and the crowd that surged thither found that the large trestle just beyond the Norfolk & Western station had fallen, carrying with it a locomotive and train of freight cars. The wreck was a very terrible one, but fortunately no lives were lost. A negro woman living near by is said to have rushed into her Mistress' room, when the crash came, screaming. "Dere, I told you dat comet would get us, and here it is!"

—A very interesting meeting was that of the Methodist Episcopal Conference in Winston, early in this month. Between 200 and 300 ministers and laymen were present from a distance, and the sessions were of an unusually interesting nature. Saturday, December 3rd, a musical programme was rendered in the Academy Chapel, complimentary to the Conference and the visitors; the Chapel was filled to its utmost capacity, and all seemed to have enjoyed the hour. Later the company inspected the various buildings on the Academy grounds. The musical programme was as follows:

- 1 Piano Duet. Tarantella.....Lichner.
Misses CLAUDIA PALMER and ANNIE MOORE.
- 2 Vocal Solo. Sound the Signal Loud.
Gumbert.
Miss LUDA MORRISON.
- 3 Piano Solo. En Poste.....Bachman.
Miss LILIAN CRUTCHFIELD.
- 4 Vocal Solo. Douglas Gordon.....L. Kellie.
Miss GERTRUDE ROBBINS.
- 5 Piano Solo. Tarantella.....Pieczonka.
Miss DAISY CRUTCHFIELD.
- 6 Recitation. Drifted Out to Sea.
Miss LENA COLWELL.
- 7 Piano Solo. Concert Fantasie.....Ryder.
Prof. SCHMOLCK.
- 8 Vocal Duet. Crucifix.....Faure.
Misses CLAUDIA PALMER and HUBERTA READ.
- 9 Recitation. A Stray Child.
Miss ROXY STORY.
- 10 Piano Duet. Pearl of the Tropics.
Ed. Sherwood.
Misses MAUD KELLETT and KATIE HANES.
- 11 Vocal Solo. One Spring Morning. Nevin.
Miss HARRIETTE CROSS.
- 12 Recitation. "Gobble 'uns"
Miss CARRIE BAHNSON.
- 13 Piano Solo. La Fileuse (The Spinning Girl).....Kaff.
Miss SIDDALL.
- 14 Vocal Solo. The Message.....Blumenthal.
Miss TRACY.

Died.

BRIETZ.—In Rogersville, Tenn., Dec. 13th, Mrs. LENNIE PRICE BRIETZ, aged 20 years.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.

The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.

Rev. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

Nov. '92-tf.

DAVIS SCHOOL

A MILITARY COLLEGE

Degrees in
CIVIL ENGINEERING,
SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes, there is a Complete Preparatory Department.

Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars, address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.

Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.

Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,

Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.

October, 1892.

Horner Military School,

OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY

Principals.

June 1892—1y

CRIST & KEEHLN,

PRINTERS AND PUBLISHERS,

Salem, N. C.

Print THE ACADEMY, CATALOGUE, HOW TO GET TO SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY and other publications issued by the Institution.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present. No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON.

JEWELERS,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,

Salem Female Academy,

SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91—1y.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsome line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country

All the leading novelties, such as:

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of

Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in

Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,

has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

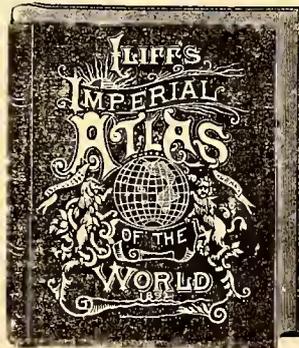

Phone 111.

Phone 111.

Jan. 1892.

ILIFF'S

Imperial Atlas of the World.

Cheapest, Best and Most Complete Atlas Published

SIZE 12X15—350 PAGES.

GRAND WORLD'S FAIR EDITION.

Official Maps United States and World.

Official Census United States and World 1890.

Grand Panorama World's Fair Buildings.

ENLARGED. REVISED. TO DATE.

Complete with New Railroad Maps of the States and Territories of the United States, North and South America, Europe, Asia and Africa, with illustrated descriptive matter of the same brought down to April, 1891. Full page maps of the principal Cities of the United States and Canada (31 in number). Diagrams of Population, Manufactures, Industries, Debt, Wealth, Nationalities, etc., etc., together with a complete index of all the Cities, Towns, Villages and Hamlets of the States and Territories of the United States, giving the population of each.

THE STANDARO AUTHORITY.

THE REFERENCE BOOK OF THE CENTURY.

Price, bound in Embossed Cloth, . . . . . $4.25

Price, bound in Half Morocco, . . . . . 5.50

Price, bound in full Russia, . . . . . 7.50

Agents wanted in every Town to whom Liberal Terms will be given.

FRANKLIN PUBLISHING CO., Publishers,

157 York St., SAVANNAH, GA.

Nov., Dec. Jan.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS:

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STUOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N. Y.

FOUNDED 1802.

Salem Female Academy.

SALEM, N. C.

THE BEAUTIFUL

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, OF CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION, D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga. H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

The Cotton Belt Route.

Has handled more students to and from Arkansas and Texas than all other Southwestern lines combined; and its continued popularity with the principal Southeastern schools is the highest guarantee of the excellence of its service and the truthfulness of its representations.

THE ONLY LINE receiving and delivering passengers at Memphis without a long and disagreeable omnibus transfer across the city.

THE ONLY LINE with through sleeping car service between MEMPHIS and the Southwest.

THE ONLY LINE with through car service between Memphis and points in Central Texas.

W. G. ADAMS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Nashville, Tenn. S. G. WARNER, S. E. Pass. Agt., Memphis, Tenn. H. H. SUTTON, Trav. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn. W. H. WINFIELD, Gen. Pass. Agt., Tyler, Texas. E. W. LEBEAUME, G. P. & T. Agt., St. Louis, Mo. June 1892-1y

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't. Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt. Fayetteville, N. C.

Iron Mountain Route.

Great through line from Arkansas, Texas and the Southwest to Salem and North Carolina.

Write to the undersigned if you contemplate attending Salem Female College for rates, routes and time-tables.

H. C. TOWNSEND,

Gen'l Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

June 1892-1y

Norfolk & Western R'y

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville.

By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

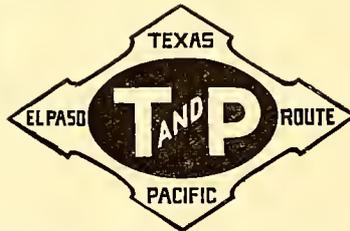

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL, Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt. ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892-1y

The short line to New Orleans, Memphis and points in the Southeast.

Take the "St. Louis Limited," 12 hours saved, between Fort Worth, Dallas and St. Louis and the East.

The Direct Line to all points in Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona, Oregon and California.

Through Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars between Dallas, Fort Worth, and St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco.

For rates, tickets and all information apply to, or address any of the ticket agents or

GASTON MESLIER, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt., Dallas, Texas.

June 1892-1y

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Holloware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

Gray Block.

The Student's Series of Histories.

Edited by WILLIAM SMITH, LL. D.

Each one of these serviceable and attractive volumes is acknowledged to be the best summary in our language of the particular branch of knowledge to which it belongs.

Ancient History: A Manual of Ancient History, from the Earliest Times to the Fall of the Western Empire. 636 pp. Price $1.25.

The Christian Church, I: The History of the Christian Church during the First Ten Centuries, by PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 618 pp. Price, $1.50.

The Christian Church, II: The History of the Christian Church during the Middle Ages. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. 700 pp. Price, $1.50.

The East: The Ancient History of the East, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of Alexander the Great. By PHILLIP SMITH, B. A. Illustrated, 650 pp. Price $1.25.

England: A History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Revolution of 1688. 808 pp. $1.50.

England (CONSTITUTIONAL): The Constitutional History of England. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 748 pp. Price, $1.25.

England (QUEENS): Lives of the Queens of England, from the Norman Conquest. By AGNES STRICKLAND, Illustrated. 682 pp. Price $1.25.

France: A History of France, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Second Empire in 1852. Illustrated. 730 pp. Price $1.25.

Germany: A History of Germany, from the Earliest Times. By CHARLTON T. LEWIS. 800 pp. $1.50.

Greece: A History of Greece, from the Earliest Times to the Roman Conquest. 704 pp. $1.25.

Greece (GENERAL): A General History of Greece, from the Earliest Period to the Death of Alexander the Great. By GEORGE W. COX, M. A. 710 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome: A History of Rome, from the Earliest Times to the Establishment of the Empire. By H. G. LIDDELL, D. D. 768 pp. Price $1.25.

Rome (GENERAL): A General History of Rome. B. C. 753-A. D. 476. By CHARLES MERIVALE, D. D. 702 pp. Price, $1.25.

Roman Empire: The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. By EDWARD GIBBON. Abridged. 678 pp. Price $1.25.

Middle Ages: Views of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. By HENRY HALLAM, LL. D. 708 pp. Price, $1.25.

Modern Europe: A History of Modern Europe, By RICHARD LODGE. 772 pp. Price, $1.25.

New Testament: The New Testament History, With Maps and Woodcuts. 780 pp. Price $1.25.

Old Testament: The Old Testament History, from the Creation to the Return of the Jews from Captivity. With Maps and Woodcuts. 716 pp. Price, $1.25.

A complete catalogue of School and College Text Books will be forwarded on request

HARPER & BROTHERS,

Franklin Square, New York.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XV.

SALEM, N. C., JANUARY, 1893.

NUMBER 132.

The Academy Cottage at the Seaside.

SITTING as we do, in chill January, by a glowing fire, in a well-warmed room, with the snow covering the outside world and with the keen wintry wind driving the thermometer away down toward zero, it is difficult to imagine that just six months ago we were settled in the Kuri Cottage, hunting the shady side of the house and courting the coolest ocean breezes. Yet so it was, and ere long the snow will be forgotten and the sea breezes longed and sought for.

The 4th of July was observed in a proper manner with fireworks, which added to those from the hotel near by made quite a display. Perhaps we did not rival Coney Island on this patriotic night, but the boys in the party, especially the small boys, got an amazing amount of fun out of the affair. Of a more stirring nature, however, was an experience which befell a party some days later, as they were strolling down the beach, toward Fort Fisher, one beautiful Sunday afternoon. A number of miles were traversed, beautiful shells were being gathered, the breeze was acting as an invigorator, and the smooth beach seemed to invite the feet to go on and on,—but we will let a correspondent of the Daily Sentinel tell the story:—

“After walking some miles we noticed that the sky was being overcast by clouds, and a few moments later the first rain drops warned us that it was time to beat a retreat. We began the same in the midst of a light shower. Before passing half the distance between us and home, we glanced back and beheld, to our horror, that over the surface of the ocean was hurrying a cloud black and appalling in appearance. Shelter there was none, save a little sand-bank about as large and high as a dining table and about a hundred feet distant. In a moment the whole sky seemed dark, and the storm or cyclone (for such it was) bore down toward us. The terrible funnel shaped portion of the cloud, which always brings death and destruction with it, passed about a hundred yards or more west of us, rushing in mad fury northwardly. Although we were not directly in the track of the cloud, we were so near that for a time we feared it would go hard with the party. In a twinkling our umbrellas were twisted into fantastic shapes and all seemed to grow dark about us, as a blending of sand and rain whirled past. Three members of the party were hurled violently to the ground, a fourth one bracing herself against the wind allowed it to carry her forward. Some of the party reached the little sand mound, stretching themselves flat on the ground, face downward, and thus the fury of the storm passed over them. These provided for your correspondent hurried forward to the one still in the power of the wind, fearing that a sudden whirl might drive her into the sea, but by this time the fury had abated, and although the storm still raged and surged, the raindrops striking with the force of hailstones, we were now able to stand and guide ourselves along the smooth beach. When we arrived at the cottage a more forlorn company could not have been imagined; every thread of clothing had been soaked, and sand had been whirled over us; our shoes were full of water, our hair of sand, but fortunately all were safe. We found on our arrival that the whirl had passed just back of the cottages, across Alligator Pond, demolishing the grand stand, and carrying with it other buildings, strewing some of the debris on the shore across the sound. Our party was satisfied with this introduction to a genuine seaside storm.”

During the visit of Bishop RONDTHALER and family a famous walk to Fort Fisher, some miles down the beach, was planned. Very early in the morning the start was made, and right buoyant were steps and spirits. Two miles or more were passed, and the hills of the Fort seemed very near. Two miles more and they seemed only a little ways off and luring the party on. Two miles more and we could not tell whether the distance was only very near, or a little way off; were only certain of one thing, we were not yet there. When we did get there some of the party decided to get back as soon as possible, so, after a few moments spend in surveying the mounds, the wrecks in the water, and so on, we beheld the party, in small sections, making its way towards the cottages. Others felt very brave and independent and sought recreations and entered upon rescarches of various kinds. There was that turtle nest hunt, when, by dint of digging, we found the adroitly hidden eggs. Think of it!—a nest with 128 eggs, and not one of the largest nests either. The eggs nearly as large as hen eggs, and laid in one night by one turtle! Yes, a water bucket full with the 128, and the assurance on the part of our guide that he had frequently found more than 200 in a single nest,—two water buckets full! Then the bold explorers went on top of the earth works of the old Fort, which was like climbing a small mountain, and while here picked up many relics, such as pieces of exploded shells, bits of iron, wire, and so on. We went also to the great Government work called the Rocks, and walked far out on the dam which closed New Inlet, made so famous during the war by the passage of blockade runners into Cape Fear river with Confederate supplies. At last it became evident to every one that it was time to turn our footsteps homeward, when, alas! for the first time we discovered how tired the party really was. We sought for some sign of our companions, but found no trace in the dim horizon. Wearily we began the return, a silent company. At the end of the first mile the silence was broken by one member, who remarked: “I believe the other end of the road has broken off,” and the silence of the rest of the party gave consent. The cottages, some 6 miles away, could be easily distinguished, and this added to the almost despairing feelings of the company. Another mile we dragged our feet wearily over the sand, when we saw an inscription on the sand which ran thus: “We shall meet by and by!” No one but the facetious Philadelphian, who was either in a hammock at the cottage by this time, or perhaps in the cool surf, could have left this tantalizing blow to our feelings. Again all was quiet, till at the end of the third mile we again saw an inscription, “Step by step!” Yes, indeed, “step by step.” If we had had the heartless joker our misery would have been lightened by a thrust into the surf which was now rapidly approaching high tide, thus driving us up into the soft sand of the upper beach. Oh, how the noon sun did pour down on us; the breeze seemed to die away; the cottages were apparently as far away as ever, though we had dragged along over four miles of soft sand, and at last one of the party exclaimed, "I cannot reach home; I have given out!" A second reiterated the sentiment, and the third party left the two vanquished ones seated on a brown block of loam, shielded from the sun by the magnificent proportions of a small umbrella. The other member now moved rapidly along the beach, traversing the remaining distance in about three quarters of an hour. He found Mr. Kuri's two-wheeled cart with the horse hitched to it, contracted for the use of the same, and soon was bumping along, every movement of the horse being correctly photographed, as it were, by the sensitive cart. A dark cloud was gathering in the west and the driver predicted a squall. So much more need of haste. When about a mile from the vanquished portion of our party we could make out their presence like two small specks in the dim distance. We drew nearer. We reached the spot. We took out the bucket containing the ice, the lemons and refreshments, and I wish you could have seen the faces of that fragment of our party! "Moses gave the Israelites water in the desert," said one, "but I do not think he added ice!" Well, we trudged on back to the cottage and found all of our party. All were safe and no harm done. When it gradually dawned on us that we had undertaken, or more properly speaking had really accomplished a 12 or 15 miles' walk in the bright sunshine of a sweltering August day, without a foot of shade anywhere on the road and no water to drink,—as this all became evident the originator of the trip stood meditatively among his friends for a moment, and then remarked, "Well, I always gave myself credit for having more sense than I really seem to have," and as all smiled approval he disappeared into his own room within the cottage.

Concluded next month.

—The Sunday School celebrations were of an unusually bright and attractive nature, the one in connection with the Home School having for the first time a powerful arc-light electric stereopticon. This brought out the pictures on the large screen in a clear and beautiful manner.

Papers Read at the Columbus Celebration.

THE following are the two remaining papers read at the recent Columbus Celebration,—the first being read by HUBERTA READ, and the second by MATTIE BELO WILLIAMS.

Columbus' Voyage and Discovery of America.

On Tuesday, the 3d of August, 1492, Columbus set sail, to discover a new land, a little before sunrise, in the presence of a great crowd of spectators who sent up their supplications to Heaven for a blessing on this voyage, which they wished for rather than expected.

On the 13th of August Columbus arrived at the Canary Islands without any occurrence that would have deserved notice on any other occasion. But in a voyage of such expectation and importance every circumstance was the object of attention. The rudder of the Pinta broke loose the day before she left the harbor and that accident alarmed the crew as a certain omen of the unfortunate expedition. Columbus refitted his ships, however, and having supplied himself with provisions, he again set sail from Gomera (one of the most westerly of the Canary Islands) on the 6th of September. Here the voyage may properly be said to begin, for Columbus directing his course due west left at once the usual track of navigators and stretched into unknown and unfrequented seas. The first day he made but little way as it was very calm, but on the second he lost sight of the Canaries, and many of the sailors, dejected and dismayed already, began to beat their breasts and to shed tears as if they were never more to see land. Columbus soothed their troubled hearts with assurances of success and the prospect of vast wealth in those regions to which he was conducting them.

Columbus saw from the spirit of his companions that he must struggle not only with difficulties which he knew must come, considering the nature of his undertaking, but also with such as were likely to arise from the ignorance and timidity of the people under his command.

In this course he came within the sphere of the trade winds, which blow invariably from east to west. He advanced before this steady gale with such uniform rapidity that it was seldom necessary to shift a sail.

When about 400 leagues west of the Canaries he found the sea so covered with weeds that it resembled a meadow of vast extent, and in some places they were so thick as to retard the motion of the ships. This caused new alarm. The sailors thought that they were now arrived at the utmost boundary of the navigable ocean, that these floating weeds would obstruct farther progress and concealed dangerous rocks, or some large tract of land which had sunk in that place. Columbus tried to persuade them that what had alarmed ought really to encourage them. At the same time a brisk gale arose and carried them forward; several birds were seen hovering about the ship and directing their flight toward the west. The desponding crew resumed some degree of spirit and began to entertain fresh hopes.

On the 1st of October they were 770 leagues to the west of the Canaries. They had now been three weeks at sea; they had proceeded far beyond what former navigators had attempted or deemed possible; all their predictions of discovery drawn from the flight of birds and other circumstances proved false. The prospects of success seemed now to be as distant as ever. The men became so alarmed and impatient that they declared they had performed their duty by venturing so far and could incur no blame by refusing to follow a desperate adventurer to certain destruction. Some of the bolder ones proposed throwing him into the sea. Columbus was sensible of his perilous condition, but he retained perfect presence of mind. As they proceeded indications of land seemed to be more certain. The birds began to appear in flocks and Columbus, for a second time following their flight, turned his course from due west to southwest. But after sailing for several days in this new direction without any more success the hopes of the men subsided faster than they had risen. Columbus promised them that if they would follow him three more days and that if at the end of this time he had not discovered land, that he would go back with them to Spain. They thought this was reasonable and sailed on and on.

For some days the sounding line reached the bottom and the flocks of birds increased. The crew of the Pinta observed a cane floating and also a piece of timber. The sailors aboard the Nina took up the branch of a tree covered with red berries.

The clouds around the setting sun assumed a new appearance; the air was milder and during the night the wind became unequal and variable. Columbus was so confident of being near land that on the 11th of October, after prayers for success, he ordered the sails to be furled and the ships to lie to, keeping strict watch lest they should be driven ashore in the night. During this interval of expectation no man slept but every one kept on deck. About two hours before midnight Columbus observed a light at a distance; a little after midnight the joyful sound of "Land! Land!" was heard from the Pinta; but having been so often deceived every man had now become slow of belief.

As soon as day dawned on the 12th of October, 1492, all doubts and fears were dispelled. From each ship was seen an island whose flat, verdant fields, well stored with wood and watered with many rivulets, presented the object of a delightful country. The crew of the Pinta began the Te Deum as a hymn of Thanksgiving and were joined by those of the other ships. As soon as the sun rose all the boats were manned and armed. They rowed toward the island, and as they approached the coast saw a multitude, whose attitudes and gestures expressed wonder at the strange objects which met their view. Columbus was the first European to set foot in the new land which he had discovered.

He landed in a rich dress with a sword in his hand, his men following, all kissed the ground and knelt as they stepped upon the land they had so long desired to see. They next erected a crucifix and prostrating themselves before it gave thanks to God for conducting their voyage to such a happy issue.

The natives, or Indians, as Columbus afterwards called them, were at first shy through fear, but soon became familiar with the Spaniards—thus in the first interview between the inhabitants of the old and new worlds everything was conducted amicably. The former, enlightened and ambitious, formed already vast ideas with respect to the advantages which they might derive from the regions that began to open to their view. The latter, simple and undiscerning, had no prophetic vision of the calamities and desolations which were approaching their country.

Columbus' Sufferings and Death.

On the 16th of January, 1493, Columbus, who had lost sight of Martin Pinzon, set sail alone in the Nina for the East, and four days afterward the Pinta joined her sister ship off Monte Christo. A storm, however, separated the vessels, and a long battle with the trade-winds caused great delay, and it was not until the 18th of February that Columbus reached the Island of Santa Maria in the Azores.

Here he was threatened with capture by the Portuguese governor, who could not for some time be brought to recognize his commission. On the 24th of February, however, he was allowed to proceed, and on the 4th of March the Nina dropped anchor off Lisbon. The king of Portugal received the Admiral with the highest honors, and on the 13th of March put out from Tagus, and two days afterward, Friday, March 15th, anchored at Palos. The court was at Barcelona and thither, after despatching a letter announcing his arrival, Columbus proceeded in person. He entered the city in a sort of triumphal procession; was received by their majesties in full court, and, seated in their presence, related the story of his wanderings, exhibiting the rich and strange spoils found in the new land, the gold, the cotton, the curious arms, the mysterious plants and the nine Indians which he had brought with him for baptism.

All honors and privileges were conferred to him; the title of Don was conferred on himself and brothers; he rode at the king's bridle; he was served and saluted as a grandee of Spain and greatest of all honors a new and magnificent scutcheon was blazoned for him, whereon the royal castle and lion of Castile and Leon were combined with the four anchors of his old coat of arms.

In 1493 Columbus made a second voyage, and found the colony which he had left destroyed. Deciding on building a second fort, he pitched on a spot where he founded the city and settlement of Isabella.

On the 10th of March, 1496, Columbus, after exploring much new land, went back to Spain. He returned to the New World in 1498, with six ships, on Wednesday, August 1st, when he beheld for the first time the mainland of South America, the continent for which he had sought so long. He thought it but a small island, and named it Zeta. For many days he coasted the continent, esteeming as islands the several projections he saw, and naming them accordingly. And it was not until he had looked on and considered the immense volume of fresh water poured out of the river, now called the Orinoco, that he concluded that the so-called archipelago must indeed be a great continent.

Columbus made yet another voyage in 1502. During this expedition he touched at some parts of South America and also at some of the formerly discovered islands, but he failed in making any important discoveries on account of the bad state of his vessels which were old and unfit for sailing. With a squadron reduced to a single vessel he now returned to Spain where he heard with regret of the death of his patron, Isabella.

Ferdinand was jealous and ungrateful; he was weary of a man who had conferred so much glory on his kingdom, and was unwilling to repay him with honors and privileges he so richly merited. Columbus, therefore, sank into obscurity and was reduced to such straightened circumstances that according to his own account he had no place to go except an inn, and very often had not the means to pay his bills.

Columbus never appeared greater than when in prison and brought in chains to Spain through the instigation and malice of Bobadilla, his notorious enemy. He wore his chains proudly until the king himself ordered their removal. It was his last request that they should be buried with him. Disgusted and mortified by the base conduct of Ferdinand, exhausted with the hardships which he had suffered, Columbus died at Valladolid on the 20th of May, 1506. He died with a composure of mind and with sentiments of piety becoming that supreme respect for religion which he manifested in every occurrence of his life. His body was afterwards transferred to St. Domingo, and buried in the Cathedral there, but on the cession of that island to the French it was transferred to Havana in the Island of Cuba, where we hope it will rest in peace.

—THE ACADEMY acknowledges the gift of a very neat and practical office calendar from the Pope Mfg. Co., Boston and New York. If you need a good Bicycle write to them; if you need a good calendar, doubtless they will send you one if you drop them a line. We also acknowledge the receipt of one of those beautiful wall calendars, gotten out by Weston, Dodson & Co., and sent to us by Mr. William Sieger, of Bethlehem, Pa. This is one of those clear and neat productions which is a joy the year round.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., JANUARY, 1893.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—THE ACADEMY would suggest to the officers of the Alumnae Society that a meeting be called for an early day, in order to make preparations for the gathering of old pupils in June next. There will be many points to discuss and many plans to be carried out if the best results are to be attained. THE ACADEMY will be glad to communicate to its readers any suggestions which may be sent to it.

—It is but right that the ACADEMY should recognize the firm stand which pupils and parents took in complying with the earnest request of the faculty that all pupils remain till the close of the term. Every recitation was finished, every duty attended to before a single pupil withdrew. This applies only to the boarding pupils. To our great surprise many from the day school department were absent during the last day or two, and according to the notice given in advance received marks for unexcused absence. This had an injurious effect on reports that otherwise had stood among the best. We trust that another year this unfortunate result may not appear.

CHRISTMAS.

THE official dividing line between September and June in the school reckoning is January 10th, but the commonly accepted division line is the Christmas season. The Christmas just passed was, as usual, filled with joy and pleasure. About the usual number of pupils remained in the school, some seventy-five or more. The boxes arrived in great numbers, the evergreens came into yard and rooms, the call for twine and tacks was heard at the office, and every look and step, word and act proclaimed the near approach of the happy season of Christmas. And when the day arrived the scene within the school was a very attractive one. The bright and happy faces of the pupils attested their enjoyment of the day. Large tables were literally loaded down with presents, and the trees and festoons, the laurel and cedar, were a fitting framework for the Christmas joys.

In the church the decorations were of a new and very attractive design. The pupils attended all the services throughout the week, and we believe many a pupil cherishes these services as among the most pleasant of her remembrances of ACADEMY life. There was the Christmas Eve service; the bright, triumphal Christmas Day gathering; the various Sunday School entertainments; the solemn New Year's Eve meetings, and finally those of New Year's Day. From various letters which have come to us from parents we know that many pupils entered into the exercises with more than a superficial enjoyment, and that in so doing they carried with them more than a passing benefit.

Alumna Scholarship Fund.

THE names of Mrs. Will Brown, who paid $12 to the fund, and Mrs. Barnard, who paid $5, did not appear in the June number of THE ACADEMY, though the amounts were included in the total then given. Since then the following sums have been received:

Mrs. Ada Hemsath, - - -	$1.00
Miss Lavinia Williams, - - -	5.00
Miss Jessie Brown, - - -	2.00
Interst, - - -	22.92
Mrs. S. Kernan, - - -	2.00
Mrs. P. H. Booe, - - -	2.00
Mrs. Winkler, - - -	1.00
Mrs. L. Patterson, - - -	5.00
Mrs. R. P. Lineback, - - -	1.00
Mrs. W. Kellett, - - -	1.00
Mrs. Chas. Lee Smith, - - -	1.00
Miss Sallie Vest, - - -	.25
Miss Carrie Mickey, - - -	.25
Miss Lula Hege, - - -	.25
Miss Pamela Bynum, - - -	.50
Mrs. Lula Smythe, - - -	.25
Miss Mary Fitzpatrick, - - -	2.00
Miss Mary S. Stillwell, - - -	.50
Previously acknowledged, - - -	969.08
Total, - - -	$1017.10

—Many of the pupils called at the Principal's house on Christmas day and the day following; they seemed to enjoy the decorations, and engaged in games with the "little folks." During the visit the house presented a lively scene.

Death of Matt Walker.

FOR thirteen years or more MATT WALKER, the colored man who had the direct care of our large buildings, was engaged in his duties in the ACADEMY, and his face was as familiar in the yard and halls as the buildings themselves. All of the pupils knew MATT, and the "wants" which he filled would number tens of thousands. This being the case former pupils will be greatly shocked to hear of the terrible accident which befell him on Thursday, January 10th, resulting in his death in a most awful manner. The large circular saw was being run to prepare wood for the school; this saw is connected with a horse-power machine, run by four horses, and great speed is attained by the saw in its revolutions. For perhaps thirty years this method of preparing the wood has been in use in the ACADEMY, and never before has a serious accident occurred. But although the entire plant had been rebuilt only a few weeks since and seemed perfectly safe, it is probable the extreme cold weather, which had been below zero for some days past, had its effect on the balance wheel, and with a noise like the report of a cannon it flew into pieces, one or more pieces striking MATT, making a horrible wound in his side and ranging downward almost severed his left leg. Only those who saw it can imagine the dreadful sight presented; but the poor man was mercifully spared long suffering, in fact, he probably was at once unconscious, though he gave one or two cries. In a few moments the end came and MATT WALKER lay a corpse. Four or five other men were with him, but no one else was hurt.

The force of the fragments of the bursted wheel can scarcely be estimated, but can only be compared to a cannon ball. One piece went upward, cut lengthwise entirely through a joist 2x10 inches, made a large hole in the floor, cut through and splintered into fragments a pine rafter, tore a hole in the roof and flew,—no one knows where. Only one small piece of the wheel was found.

The body was at once placed in the hands of the undertaker, dressed in a shroud and placed in a coffin before being taken home. Everything that could be done to comfort the widow was done by many friends.

On Friday afternoon the funeral took place, conducted by Rev. Alex. Hepler, Revs. J. F. McCuiston and J. H. Clewell taking part. As was said in the discourse MATT was always willing to lend a helping hand at work or in cases of distress. He was skillful in his work, far above the average, and never was untrue to a duty assigned him during his many years of work in the ACADEMY, and for a long time to come will his hearty laugh, his cheery song and his ready response be listened for by the many persons about our buildings to whose wants he ministered.

Correspondence.

—Our correspondence for the month contains an interesting communication from a pupil of 30 years ago, CHRYSEIS VIRGINIA WEST, now Mrs. Cannon:

How the leaflets from the great book of the lives of Salem girls flutter in with tales is stranger than fiction! Some all aglow with life, love and happiness—silver chimes of wedding bells—clarion notes of worldly honors—then slowly along sweeps the funeral dirge; sad mothers bring their dead babes and lay them on the loving breast of our precious Alma Mater

This leaflet tells of one whose hair once so golden is silvered, whose joyous laugh is frozen on her lips, whose eyes are dim from tears.

Along her pathway lie three little graves, and though childless here, the angel forms are hers still—"over the river," not rebellious but crushed with sorrow, yet her heart echoes Zinzendorf's hymn,

Jesus thy blood and righteousness,
My glories are, my beauteous dress,
Midst flaming worlds in these arrayed,
With joy I shall lift up my head.

Her feet have passed through the "swellings of Jordan"—the cross has been heavy—her eyes are fixed upon the crown. Pray Sisters that she may wear it one day!

Nec CHRYSEIS VIRGINIA WEST, of Chester, S. C., entered SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, January, 1860—left in 1862. Six months in "Select Class" Now Mrs. Ellis B Cannon, Spartanburg, S. C. Married July 11th, 1871 Thus introducing myself I bring you loving greeting and join again the band of noble daughters, worthy children of so grand a mother!

I could fill pages with fragrant memories, sweet as blowing flowers to me, but alas! faded to the hurrying young world.

I was thirteen when I entered SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, an only child and motherless. Heart broken at parting from my father I was put in the 7th Room. Never shall I forget how dear Miss CARRIE SIEWERS came in and taking my hand in her loving clasp, talked so kindly and comfortingly then when she knew my simple story, how much kinder she grew. Blessed be her memory! How she used to tell us of Jesus and Heaven. Truly she

"Allured to brighter worlds, and led the way."

My "day-keeper" was MOLLIE HEGGIE, Ala. We were the youngest girls in the room and always walked with Miss CARRIE, one on each side holding her hand. I lived in the 7th, 6th, 5th, 3rd, 2nd and 1st Room. My "room-teachers" were Misses SIEWERS and STEINER, HERMAN and BUTNER, VOGLER and KREMER, WELFARE and CHITTY, PFOHL and SIDDALL, STAUBER and BRIETZ. My music teachers were Miss AMELIA VLECK and Prof. E. W. LINEBACK. While I was living in the 1st Room Miss STAUBER passed her sixtieth birthday, and she said to us. "Girls, to-day I have been a teacher in this Academy for forty years, I entered on my twentieth birthday and I am sixty years old to-day." This was part of a little speech of thanks she made to us for the simple offerings we had placed upon her table after draping it in white. She used to call me "Laughing Jinnin" and it was my delight to fly to her bidding. My last "day-keeper" was SUE YANDELL, gifted, sensitive SUE I have the parting note she wrote me in 1862. Love is not measured by years. A friend sent me two copies of THE ACADEMY, dates June, 1889, and June, 1890. Oh! how many tender memories they awakened! How many faces came silently before me up the long aisles of Time! Husband said he hadn't seen me so "enthused" in years! Why not? In one was a precious letter from Rev. ROBERT DE SCHWEINITZ, and in the other this—"Prof. E. W. LINEBACK at the organ." As I read, in fancy the notes of the grand old "Hallelujah Chorus" rolled and swelled through the room just as we sang it in the long, long ago. "For the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth." How the words pulsed through my heart—

"With a faultless rhythm and a musical chime
A broader sweep and a surge sublime,
As it blends in the ocean of years."

I should like to be in touch again with dear old Salem, for as dear Mr. ROBERT DE SCHWEINITZ truly said "all those who have ever graduated from its walls, be it modern or be it in the olden times—retain for it a most tender and loving remembrance."

I enclose a dollar for THE ACADEMY—2 years subscription.

Tenderly and truly yours,

Mrs ELLIS B. CANNON.

Spartanburg, S. C.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Majette were in Salem during the holidays.

—Both Literary Societies are preparing for entertainments to be given in the near future.

—We regret that several very interesting subjects could not be treated in this number of our paper.

—Mr. Fogle and Col. F. H. Fries visited the ACADEMY Christmas Day and inspected decorations and gifts.

—Mr. Jackens paid us a passing visit during Christmas week, and, of course, made LOLA very happy.

—Mr. Burton, from Colorado, has had his visit prolonged by business matters, but will soon return to his western home.

—The Midwinter Concert will be given in February, and every effort is being put forth to make it an enjoyable occasion for our friends.

—We have been requested to give the address of a former pupil, EVELYN STALLINGS, who is now married, and which is Mrs. J. B. Smith, Pikeville, N. C.

—A number of sleds were sent over to the school during the recent snow fall, and were enjoyed by many pupils. Some ventured out to the Avenue, and enjoyed the fine coasting there.

—HELEN DUNN has presented the Museum with a very fine collection of shells from the tropics. Her mother gathered the same, and we are much pleased to add them to our growing store of attractive objects.

—More disastrous fires were added to the long list already suffered by our towns. On Monday, December 26th, three fine dwellings were consumed, and a livery stable; a number of valuable horses perished in the latter fire.

—Among a number of pleasant tokens of affection presented to Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL from friends we note the handsome oil painting from Miss SIEWERS. It will always have a prominent place in their home and is greatly appreciated by the recipients.

—From McMillan & Co., publishers we have received a fine work entitled "The Story of the Iliad," which is one of a series of Classics for young people. The work is a fine one, the series is good, and the publishing house is certainly one of the best. THE ACADEMY uses a number of their publications.

—The Moravian Synod, held early in December for the election of a member of the Governing Board, termed Provincial Elders' Conference, selected the Rev. Jas. E. Hall to fill the position. This election also fills the vacancy in the Board of Trustees of the ACADEMY, since the government of the ACADEMY is vested in the Board named above.

—The "beautiful snow" made its appearance during Christmas week, and as it whirled and eddied back and forth, covering park and yard, street and houses with its pure white mantle, the spirits of the girls rose in proportion. For many who had never witnessed the beauties of a snow storm the sight had special charms, though every one, young and old, finds some pleasure in the winter visitor.

—The Christmas Day dinner was after the custom of the past two or three years, with a candle burning at each pupils place, and a number on each window. The room being otherwise darkened, the scene was a very bright and pretty one. The other custom, which has prevailed for a much longer season, viz: the roast turkey and the mince pie—was also observed, and notwithstanding the many boxes in the neighboring box room, was treated in a very hearty and satisfactory manner.

—We were very much surprised and grieved to hear of the sudden sorrow which has befallen Miss AVA STROUP, in her distant Texas home. After a long separation from her father she returned to him this Fall, only to spend a few weeks in ministering to his failing strength, and then to close his eyes in his last long sleep of death. AVA's many friends and THE ACADEMY join in expressing heartfelt sympathy in this sudden sorrow.

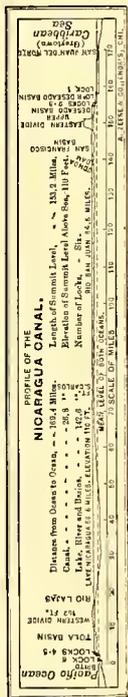

—The New Year's Reception tendered the teachers and pupils by Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL, was an occasion of unusual interest this year, and proved to be one of great enjoyment. A time was spent with games and music, after which refreshments were served. The latter too were fully appreciated. Thus the years glide swiftly away, and one New Year's Day succeeds another in swift succession. It will be the last New Year's occasion which many of our pupils will celebrate as inmates of the ACADEMY, even though the Institution has grown dear to them in many ways.

—Just before the close of school Miss TRACY's pupils, assisted by others, gave a very enjoyable recital in the ACADEMY Chapel. Miss TRACY is rapidly earning an enviable name for her fine work among her pupils, and the recital was in every way an enjoyable occasion. We give the program:

- Chorus. { a. A Sailor's Lullaby, .....Vincent
          { b. The Sabbath Morn, Mendelssohn
- Vocal Solo. "Brown Eyes,".....Osgood.
                  Miss EDNA FISHER.
- Recitation. Kate Shelly.
                  Miss DAISY THOMPSON.
- Vocal Solo. Little Maid of Arcadie.....Sullivan.
                  Miss ELLA HEGE.
- Piano Humoreske.....Kroeger
                  Misses AGNES FOGLE and EDNA FISHER.
- Vocal Solo. The Creole Lover.....Moncrieff.
                  Miss MATTIE KELLETT.
- Piano Solo. Martha.....Burgmuller.
                  Miss MAUD CHEEK.
- Vocal Solo. Little Doris.....DeKoven.
                  Miss PEARL READ.
- Recitation. Our Folks.
                  Miss KATIE HANES.
- Vocal Solo. Four Leaf Clover.....North.
                  Miss MAY PEGRAM.
- Vocal Trio. Speed thee, little boat.....Proch.
                  Misses GERTRUDE ROBBINS, NELLIE SCALES, HELEN SHIELDS.

—A very fine exhibition of the work in the Art Department was given a few days before the close of school in December. Miss SEWERS deserves great credit for the success of the term with needle, pencil and brush.

—But didn't the boxes pour into the school after December 21st! The girls forsook the dining room those days. Besides the cake and candy, turkey and pudding, they contained many valuable gifts which were displayed Christmas Day.

—We give this month the third of a series of maps concerning the proposed Nicaragua Canal, intended to connect the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. It will be of interest to note the relative elevation of the two Oceans, the lake and the location of the various locks. This promises to be to our part of the world what the Suez Canal has been to the Eastern lands, and we trust that the great work may soon be completed.

—The cold has been very severe during January. One morning the thermometer registered zero, and another morning touched six below zero. The snow that covered the ground during these days, and especially the snow fall on opening day was a source of great pleasure to the pupils.

—The Euterpean Society is working away on a pretty operetta which they will give the end of January. It is entitled the "Old Year" and besides consisting of fine music, includes quite a considerable amount of acting, with special costumes for the occasion. The energy of the Society will make the effort a success, and we know the public will respond to their efforts.

—The following names have been added to our list of pupils since the beginning of the year:

Blanche Harris,	Douschka Pass,
Lena Leslie,	Irene McCandless,
—Brown,	Sue Winston,
India Dixon,	Louise Dicks,
Florence Settle,	Mattie Davis,
Mary White Fetzer,	—Barnes,
Maggie Morton,	—Barnes,
Annie Morton,

Married.

BRAME—WATSON.—In Winston, N. C., on November 17th, 1892, Mr. PETER BRAME to Miss MARY WATSON (class of '91.)

ERWIN—ECTOR.—On December 12th, Rev. IRA ERWIN to Miss MINNIE ECTOR, of Winston, N. C. The newly married couple are stationed at Hendersonsville, N. C., for the next year.

WISEMAN—CONRAD.—On December 15th, Dr. J. WISEMAN, of Farmington, N. C., to Miss ELLEN CONRAD, daughter of E. A. Conrad.

MALLOY—FAGG.—On December 21st, by Bishop Rondthaler, Mr. F. T. MALLOY to Miss MINNIE FAGG, of Asheville, N. C.

MAGMIDER — WILLIAMSON —On December 22nd, Prof. J. O. MAGMIDER to Miss ROSA WILLIAMSON, of Reidsville, N. C.

HORNADAY—SNOW.—On January 18th, 1892, in the M. E. Church, Durham, N. C., Mr. JAS. M. HORNADAY to Miss OLLIE SNOW

Died.

HERTZ.—In Thomasville, Ga., Tuesday, January 5th, 1893, Miss CARRIE HERTZ, aged 20 years. This announcement of the early decease of one of our recent pupils will bring sadness to many hearts. She was a member of the Third Room company, and had many friends while with us. We give a brief sketch of the sad event, as taken from a Macon paper: DEATH OF MISS CARRIE HERTZ AT THOMASVILLE YESTERDAY.

A feeling of sadness pervaded the city yesterday morning when it became known that Miss CARRIE HERTZ, daughter of Mr. J. H. Hertz, was dead.

Miss HERTZ was in the bloom of beautiful young womanhood and left Macon about three weeks ago in the best of health and spirits to visit relatives and friends in Thomasville, little dreaming that He who gave her life was even then waiting to take her away shortly.

About two weeks ago Miss HERTZ was attacked with peritonitis and gradually grew weaker and weaker, despite the efforts of skilled physicians and the patient nursing and watching of friends and relatives until Tuesday night at 9:45 o'clock she quietly and peacefully passed away. The remains were brought to Macon and were met at the train at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives, who escorted them to the home of her father, corner Cherry and New streets, from which the funeral will take place at 10 o'clock this morning. The interment will be in Wolff's cemetery.

Miss HERTZ was just 20 years of age, and her lovable nature and charitable disposition, together with her personal beauty and intellect, drew around her a large circle of friends such as few are fortunate enough to have.

The sorrowing parents have the sympathy of the entire community.

NAZARETH HALL,
NAZARETH, PA.
Moravian Boarding School For Boys.
FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $205 per annum
The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.
REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.
Nov. '92-11.

Degrees in
CIVIL ENGINEERING,
SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes, there is a Complete Preparatory Department.
Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars, address
DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education

Maj. R BINGHAM, Supt.
Licut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,
Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
October, 1892.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851
BY JAMES A HORNER, M.A., L LD.

Healthful Location.
New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.
Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.
Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.
Session begins September 1.
Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY
Principals.

June 1892-1y

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxydized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,
W. T. VOGLER & SON.

JE WELERS,
234 Main St., WILMINGTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-1y.

ASUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A COMPLETE FOR $7.25

FOUNDED 1802.

Salem Female Academy.
SALEM, N. C.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country

All the leading novelties, such as:
Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in
Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of
Ladies Corsets and Underwear, which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of
LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS, has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.
ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.
Phone 111. Phone 111.
Jan. 1892.

ILIFF'S
Imperial Atlas of the World.

Cheapest, Best and Most Complete Atlas Published.

SIZE 12X15-350 PAGES.

GRAND WORLD'S FAIR EDITION.
Official Maps United States and World.
Official Census United States and World 1890.
Grand Panorama World's Fair Buildings.

ENLARGED, REVISED TO DATE.
Complete with New Railroad Maps of the States and Territories of the United States, North and South America, Europe, Asia and Africa, with illustrated descriptive matter of the same brought down to April, 1891. Full page maps of the principal Cities of the United States and Canada (31 in number). Diagrams of Population, Manufactures, Industries, Debt, Wealth, Nationalities, etc., etc., together with a complete index of all the Cities, Towns, Villages and Hamlets of the States and Territories of the United States, giving the population of each.

THE STANARD AUTHORITY.
THE REFERENCE BOOK OF THE CENTURY.
Price, bound in Embossed Cloth, . . . . . $4.25
Price, bound in Half Morocco, . . . . . 6.50
Price, bound in full Russia, . . . . . 7.50
Agents wanted in every Town to whom Liberal Terms will be given.

FRANKLIN PUBLISHING CO., Publishers,
157 York St., SAVANNAH, GA.
Nov., Dec. Jan.

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION, D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.
The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

The Cotton Belt Route.

Has handled more students to and from Arkansas and Texas than all other Southwestern lines combined; and its continued popularity with the principal Southeastern schools is the highest guarantee of the excellence of its service and the truthfulness of its representations.

THE ONLY LINE receiving and delivering passengers at Memphis without a long and disagreeable omnibus transfer across the city.

THE ONLY LINE with through sleeping car service between MEMPHIS and the SOUTHWEAT.

THE ONLY LINE with through car service between MEMPHIS and points in Central Texas.

W. G. ADAMS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Nashville, Tenn.
S. G. WARNER, S. E. Pass. Agt., Memphis, Tenn.
H. H. SUTTON, Trav. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. H. WINFIELD, Gen. Pass. Agt., Tyler, Texas.
E. W. LABEAUME, G. P. & T. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.
June 1892-13

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't., Greensboro, N. C.
W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Fayetteville, N. C.

Iron Mountain Route.

Great through line from Arkansas, Texas and the Southwest to Salem and North Carolina.

Write to the undersigned if you contemplate attending Salem Female College for rates, routes and time-tables.

H. C. TOWNSEND,
Gen'l Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

June 1892-14

Norfolk & Western R'y

A new route to Winston Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville.

By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

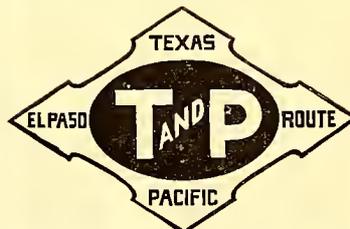

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Trav. Pass. Agt.
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892-14

The short line to New Orleans, Memphis and points in the Southeast.

Take the "St. Louis Limited," 12 hours saved, between Fort Worth, Dallas and St. Louis and the East.

The Direct Line to all points in Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona, Oregon and California.

Through Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars between Dallas, Fort Worth, and St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco.

For rates, tickets and all information apply to, or address any of the ticket agents or

GASTON MESHER,
Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
Dallas, Texas.
June 1892-14

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

Gray Block.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boylston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth, 337 pages. Price $1.00. By mail, $1.10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English.

Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: "It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of all that is necessary in grammar."

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 80 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth, 325 pages, $1.75. By mail, $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to the fundamental moral ideas and principles.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.40.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth, 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the excellent discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford. pp. vi, 255. 1 mo, cloth, 84 cents.

"Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Herald.

"Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the latter use."—Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics

Under this title Messrs Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hamden—Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature, Classical Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cooper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverley, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Puffus Choate—Thackeray's Four Georges and English Humorists, Parts I and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Egibard's Charlemagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulisses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odyssey &c., will be published.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

PUBLISHERS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '93-'94.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XV.

SALEM, N. C., FEBRUARY, 1893.

NUMBER 133.

ALUMNÆ ASSOCIATION.

AS the Commencement of '93 grows less misty in the perspective and the swiftly passing days and weeks seem to be hurrying us faster and ever faster toward the close of another school term, while the fair girl graduate begins to feel that all the hopes and ambitions of school-life are becoming centered in the moment when she shall become the happy possessor of the long-coveted "sheep-skin," her older sister, is thinking of that gathering during Commencement Week, which as the years pass is growing more and more dear to the heart of every Alumna,—the annual meeting of the Alumnae Association! It is then that our Alma Mater throws open her doors to welcome her cherished daughters from North, South, East and West, as they flock back to her, their hearts tender with many memories.

The January issue of THE ACADEMY called the attention of the officers of the Association to the fact that it was high time to be up and doing, that the meeting of '93, might even exceed former occasions in the heartiness of its welcome, and the attractiveness of its programme. The timely hint was all that was needed, and on February 3rd, at a call-meeting the Executive Board discussed at length ways and means of reaching the desired end, during which meeting the following points were brought forward:

1. How may the June Alumnae meeting be made specially interesting and attractive?
2. What new work (if any) should be taken up by the Society?
3. How may the Scholarship Fund be increased? (It has now reached between $1,000 and $1,100.)
4. Can THE ACADEMY be used between this date and June to promote the Society's welfare and if so, in what manner?

Many suggestions were advanced, and during the past days the Secretary has received several communications bearing directly on the above points and containing valuable ideas, which cannot fail to interest the various committees and the Association as a whole.

One of our Vice-Presidents writes:

"Might not some of the letters and papers usually read at our annual meetings be replaced by a short address on some subject connected with the Association! Among the many Alumnae some lady could surely be found more or less accustomed to public speaking.

"As regards work: Should not steps be taken to aid some girl during the next year to such an extent as the interest on the Scholarship Fund will allow.

"Might not a certain part of THE ACADEMY be set aside in which all articles and items of special interest to the Alumnae might find a place, and would not that in itself be something of an advertisement of the Association, bringing it before such readers of THE ACADEMY as are not members, and affording a common meeting ground for those who are?"

Another lady speaking also of the advisability of an address says:

"Among the honorary members of our Association, the fathers, husbands and brothers of the Alumnae, might we not find some gentleman ready to give us a stirring address on how to increase the Scholarship Fund?"

From Winston we are in receipt of two letters, from one we quote the following:

"Was it not suggested at one of our meetings that we have an Alumnae dinner? It would be very pleasant for the resident Alumnae to entertain the visiting members of the Association at either dinner or luncheon or perhaps supper. I am sure that the work in connection with it would be a labor of love."

And from the other:

"The Scholarship Fund might be increased by circular letters or cards, similar to the renewal cards for THE ACADEMY, being sent not only to members of the Association but to any former pupils or friends of the school. In this way some might contribute who otherwise would not care to send in so small an amount.

"Could not one issue of THE ACADEMY be gotten out between this date and June, principally for the purpose of promoting the welfare of the Association, giving its history, objects, etc.?"

"By calling special attention to the Society in this way many who are not members might be induced to join, and others who take little interest might be brought into close connection with us."

From an Alumna within the ACADEMY we have received these ideas:

"The June Alumnae meeting may be made attractive by the Chapel decorations and perhaps by some word or inscription, assuring a hearty welcome.

"The fund may be increased by gifts from the members during the June meeting.

"THE ACADEMY should each month have an article relating to the June meeting, inviting all Alumnae if possible to be present."

These ideas and suggestions cannot fail to awaken in each member of our Association an earnest desire to do her part toward the success of our next meeting.

As can clearly be seen through the various communications the officers have the matter very deeply at heart, and no effort will be spared to give you the heartiest of welcome, the very best of programmes and the very pleasantest of times at the approaching meeting.

Will you not in turn do what you can to bring about the desired result by letter, suggestion, communication of any kind, and the assurance of your presence at our June meeting of '92?

ALICE J. RONDTHALER,
Secretary.

A Trip to California.

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, }
January 28th, 1893. }

Dear Miss Lehman:—Should THE ACADEMY be not too full of more readable matter, and you will kindly permit me the space, I should enjoy informally telling your young girls something of our mid winter overland trip to this wonderful California.

Conciseness shall be my aim, believing that brevity will be the safest bulwark possible to build around myself against the keen-edged criticisms of your alert Seniors, the wide-awake Juniors, to say nothing of the fear arising from contact with the progressive Sophs.

On Monday morning of January 16th, we left Louisville, Tuesday morning at 7:20 we arrived at Kansas City. Two days were pleasantly spent in this interesting city where we had the happiness to kiss a pretty bride beneath the marriage bell, and munch the wedding cake.

Thursday at noon, we left via Santa Fe en route westward. All through the State of Kansas broad prairies, cold winds, ice and snow monotonized the scene. A novel sight was the sawing of ice on the frozen rivers, with implements resembling our common earth plows, with horses attached. At other places skating carnivals were held, portions fenced in for this graceful gayety, and the fun, though the mercury had well nigh dropped out of the thermometer, was hearty.

On Friday morning our eyes opened on a still more western countenance; we were in Colorado and lifting our gaze from the hamlets along the way, we beheld an appalling verge of sheer peaks, whose great long bodies lie and rise like impassable walls against further progress, and we seem really to have gotten to the end of civilization, but persistent serpents that our long trail bespoke us, with two enormous engines ahead we wound our way slowly, sometimes three to five miles an hour, up the iron path, till lo! we, from an altitude of more than 9,000 feet looked out on a new world, as it were. But no sooner seen than lost for our heads were set on a purpose and that purpose seemed to "get up and get," so down the incline we dashed as if ghosts of the much abused "Noble Red Men" were in our wake. On topmost crag and sides of these mountains not a sign of life is visible; no tree, shrub, or twig, not even a bird; nothing but "the beautiful" from heaven is this bleak, barren waste hospitable to; the snow glistens in the sunshine like myriads of diamonds and varies the dirty, earthly grandeur. Down this winding pass of the Ratow range, we hurriedly sped, plunging finally into New Mexico, a land redolent still of the Aztec and the Spaniard. Here too comes to us in human flesh, the degenerated Red man. A filthy, slovenly savage people, who eyed us more or less suspiciously from the station platform. Some have a fair expression and understanding of our American tongue, and all know how to beg money of the white strangers, and have a novel way of reducing the coveted coins from our reluctant pockets, viz: The painted and smear-faced squaws (and they wear bangs same as we white folks) carry their papooses, strapped to the native board, wrapped in ragged coverings, and ask "so much a peep ten cents." You attempt to deceive them with nickle or penny, their flat noses dilate, their shaggy heads contemptuously turn and a half human cry—"no good, no good" proceeds from a pretty firmly set lip. It seemed to me that every stream ran red in memory of the days when these wild men were a power in this land, and that every crevice and canon echoed the reverberating war-cry. I was glad to hurry away from them.

Next we were in Arizona, and miles and miles of sterile stretches lay before, around and about us. Here dead volcanoes in curious architectural forms our gaze rested upon. These Towers of Silence imagination may play upon to the erection of any scene massive that fancy might dictate. Prairies follow:—the adobe houses of the primitive Mexicans are squatted singly and in breast work clusters along the railroad bed, some almost exclusively Mexican villages or hamlets. These adobes are of clay, no windows in most, simply an opening with board door set up; decidedly primitive and ugly little specks scattered over these wide plains, unproductive to every appearance. These people live by cattle raising. Snow crested mountain peaks never leave our trail. The great canons in these immense prairies are peculiar, no upheaval apprises you of their presence. The porter calls out in a voice not sweet from culture, "look out for the canon," and we look; great deep gullies from some unknown cause are sunken hundreds of feet and stretch for many miles in this grazing plain; dry as if the waters of Time had never washed their rocky sides or flown through the sandy bottoms. They stop as suddenly as their beginning was. Saturday night we reluctantly shut out the scenes of the day on this Mojara desert, for when we awoke, what is to meet our expectant eye! We arise, quickly dress, catching a passing glance as we do of what? We have forgotten a desert ever was possible; A very rose-garden is at our elbow; we are in California, and on the Sabbath morn when thanks to a God of this Fairy Land were so easy and so natural to make. In a few hours—by orange groves groaning under the heavy weight of delicious yellow fruit, and fragrant with some just in blossom, we were borne into Los Angeles, a beautiful city of 70,000 inhabitants, twenty-one miles off the Pacific coast. Summer green is everywhere; the balmy, soft breeze of an eastern May day fans our cheeks; no fires; windows up, fresh air, delightful existence, walks and drives; perfection's best under this California sky. We are told that July is but few degrees warmer than January. To-day the indicator reckons sixty-four (64) degrees. I believed all this and my surprise at the delighted experience prepared me for anything—but listen, the bright sunny sky was suddenly veiled, and while we were in an open top buggy to fully enjoy without the unnecessary obstruction of covering, and in the twinkling of an eye; rain drops pelted us terrifically and the happy delusion was broken. This is not all a garden of perpetual sun, but these shadows fall as food and drink upon the soil, which like camels on the desert takes in heavy beverages which last a long time. It may be months ere another rain falls. Most of the cultivated lands are irrigated, and this I could not quite understand until I had seen the process; around the ranches (and all ground above twenty feet is a ranch in this particular world) are dug ditches four or five feet deep and about every twenty feet throughout the grooves are small shallow furrows leading from this main ditch. When irrigation is required this large ditch is filled with water gathered from the mountain snows and rains, and is carried over the fields—excuse me—ranch, through these smaller indentations, which by absorption waters the thirsty ground, thus taking the place of our good old Eastern and Southern copious rain falls.

I should like to whisper in the young ladies ears a delicate little feature—but oh my! of this perfect land, yet a fear creeps into my soul that other heads-than the sensible ones of our young ladies might per chance find it out and thereby be deterred from a visit to this Paradise, I had best desist, oh, well, I'll risk it. No sooner do we set foot on these perpetual summer grounds than those very Cindarella pedals of ours begin to grow, and our home patent leathers become so affectionate in their embrace that our only refuge is a California shoe. Now whether this is another Divine favorance to this specially favored spot I am sure I don't know; but the merchants greet you with the same-old-thing kind of a smile, and are affable and solicitous.

Since I have carried my scribbles beyond the fatal No. 13, by paper tablet measurement, let me thank your kind Principal most earnestly for the many privileges allowed me in my visits to dear old Salem, and express a fond hope of being with you again just as informally at no distant day.

Mrs. WM. R. TOOMEY.

The Mid-Winter Concert.

ALTHOUGH the weather was very decidedly against any great outpouring of the people on the occasion of the ACADEMY'S Mid Winter Concert, Thursday evening, February 16, yet the Chapel was packed to the last inch with an audience of devoted friends, and many were turned away. The Institution must certainly feel a great satisfaction at this evidence of disinterested friendship on the part of the representative element of our 16,000 people. The audience had its reward, too, for a more enjoyable evening has not been spent by the participants for these many days. The great bouquet of happy, blooming maidens on the rising tiers of seats in the east end of the chastely decorated chapel was made yet more lovely by the electric illumination, which, by the aid of powerful reflectors, was made to bear directly upon this centre of attraction—the girls of the South. The blending of the colors, the dancing of hundreds of eyes, the sheen of toilet and jewel, and, more than all, the glow of purest health, made up a scene of interesting beauty.

The programme was carried through without wait or halt,—in fact, there was a decision, a business about it, that spoke volumes for the careful training by the instructors, and the intelligent perception of the pupils. It was not professional, but methodical.

It cannot be contradicted that there is a larger number of good piano players in the ACADEMY'S music department than we have known for some time, demonstrating that the musical curriculum, persevered in for many years, is bearing rich fruit. Prof. SCHMOLCK has labored with great earnestness during the past session, and as music director he must feel a justified pride in this happy exhibit of his charge. The instrumental solos, duos and quar-tettes were of a pleasing nature in their harmony, and the young ladies, in execution and expression, earned well deserved and freely accorded applause from the audience. Misses VEST and VAN VLECK, the excellent assistants in the Music Department, through the fine work of their pupils, have also reason for satisfaction in the happy manner their pupils presented the results of their labors.

The vocal solos attested strongly to the fact that Miss TRACY is "the right woman in the right place." She has frequently delighted us in solos in the church services, but no evidence of her work as an instructor had come before the public. The result, as shown in the concert, justifies all expectations. She has imparted the purity and simplicity of her style to her pupils, and by her winning personality draws out their best efforts. The solos, duets and part songs were all gems, and were greatly appreciated.

No department of the ACADEMY'S work has interested the writer of this more than that presided over by Miss SCRIBER. She has the gifts of the tragic and comic muses equally. Her pupils reflect great credit upon her, and their work is eagerly looked for by the audience. "A good reader makes a good talker," and as our Southern women are already good at any and everything, the Elocution Department of S. F. A. will make many scores of them talkers par excellence.

The two choruses were sung by nearly the entire school, and were rendered with a magnificent volume of melody. In the "Hear my Prayer" the chorus was especially well handled, Miss TRACY'S solo standing out sharp and clear against the accompaniment of 200 voices.

The Salem Orchestra opened and closed the concert with a couple of selections, which they played with a brilliancy and finish equal to the other parts of the programme.

In the midst of many of the entertainments of the winter given out in the towns this Mid-Winter Concert of 1893 shines a "gem of purest ray serene."

PEN STICK.

- Overture. Calif of Bagdad.....Boieldieu.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
- Chorus for Female Voices. "Little Peasant Maid,".....N. Lochr.
CHORAL CLASS.
- Piano Solo. Polonaise Opus 40, No 1..Chopin.
Miss LILLIAN CRUTCHFIELD.
(Pupil of Miss VEST.)

- Vocal Solo. Canzonetta from Margitta,
Meyer-Helmund.
Miss LUDA MORRISON.
Flute Obligato—Mr. K. PFOHL.
- Recitation. Ginevra.....Susau Coolidge.
Miss ANNIE CARRIER.
- Piano Duet. Return of Spring.....Moelling.
Misses A. FOGLE and E. FISHER.
- Vocal Quartette. The Peasant's Wedding.
Soderman.
Misses LUDA MORRISON, SCALES, K. CROUCH and SHIELDS.
- Piano Solo. Titania. Morceau de Concert.
Lefebury Wely.
Miss ELIZABETH NICHOLSON.
(Pupil of Prof. SCHMOLCK.)
- Vocal Duet. From Flower to Flower..Koelling.
Misses LILLIAN CRUTCHFIELD and HUBERTA
READ.
- Recitation. A Boy Hero.....Anonymous.
Miss FANNIE CONRAD.
- Semi-Chorus. Gipsy Life.....Schumann.
Incidental Duet by Misses H. CROSS and H.
SHIELDS.
- Piano Quartette. Grand March de Concert....
.....Wollenhaupt.
1st Piano—Misses AMMIE SMITH and SALLIE PENN.
2d Piano—Misses BEULAH BROOKS and AGNES STALLINGS.
(Pupils of Prof. SCHMOLCK.)
- Vocal Solo. Le Parlate d'Amor.....Gounod.
Miss FLORENCE SETTLE.
- Piano Solo. Bacchanale.....Wehli.
Miss K. CROUCH.
(Pupil of Miss VAN VLECK.)
- Recitation. Raggedy Man.....J. W. Riley.
Miss CARRIE BAHNSON.
- Canon for Two Voices. Friendship Marzials.
Misses N. CUMMINGS, M. CONRAD, P. READ, B.
FOLLIN, M. KELLETT, A. DAVIS, L. GORRELL,
B. BROOKS.
- Piano Duo. Les Huguenots.....Meyerbeer.
1st Piano—Miss LILLIAN GOSLING.
2d Piano—Miss NELLIE SCALES.
(Pupils of Prof. SCHMOLCK.)
- Vocal Solo. The Noblest.....Schumann.
Miss GERTRUDE ROBBINS.
- Piano Solo. Marche Hongroise..Wollenhaupt.
Miss ADDIE LEINBACH.
(Pupil of Prof. SCHMOLCK.)
- Recitation. Ben Hur's Chariot Race.....
.....Gen. Lew Wallace.
Miss ADELAIDE SCRIBER.
- Vocal Solo. The Angel's Serenade.....Braga.
Miss CLAUDIA PALMER.
Violin Obligato—Mr. JOHN BUTNER.
- Piano Duet. Second Rhapsodie.....Liszt.
Misses LUDA MORRISON and GERTRUDE ROBBINS.
(Pupils of Prof. SCHMOLCK.)
- Chorus. Hear my Prayer.....Mendelssohn.
CHORAL CLASS.
Soloist—Miss ANTOINETTE C. TRACY.
- March. Philadelphus.....Wiegand.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.

—An enjoyable musical Recital was given on the evening of January 30th, by the pupils of Prof. Brown and Prof. Huyck. THE ACADEMY acknowledges the courtesy of an invitation. The ladies who took part were Mrs. Prather, Mrs. Hendricks and Miss N. Wood and Miss Carraway. Much credit is due to Profs. Brown and Huyck for their generous interest in the music of our towns.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., FEBRUARY, 1893.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.

Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—It is a pleasing feature to note the fact that our friends are so liberally supplying material for THE ACADEMY that points of current interest must be carried over to the March number. We will next month speak of the special interest in connection with physical exercise, which promises a healthy close to the present year.

—We are pleased to present the very interesting communication from Mrs. WM. R. TOOMEY, found on 2d page, and hope to hear from her again.

—The present Senior Class is contemplating several radical steps in regard to Commencement which, if carried out, promise to cause the present year to be one long to be remembered in its influence. We will speak of them later.

—Should the suggestion of the member of the Alumnæ Society in regard to the cards be carried out, the ACADEMY will agree to furnish the cards, 100 or 500, or more, if needed. It would be one practical way of increasing the fund by the time the date of the June gathering arrives.

—We publish with great pleasure the communication found on our first page from the Secretary of the Alumnæ Association. This organization has within its power the possibility of doing great good for the Alma Mater, and we trust that the ACADEMY may be able to devote at least one page each month to Alumnæ matters. Send the communication to the Secretary and they will quickly find their way to the columns of the paper.

A Liberal Gift.

THE executor of the estate of Miss A. J. Stauber, better known to our former pupils as Miss Hannah Stauber, has just made a final settlement in court of the estate. The money, accumulated by industry and economy, amounted to about $10,000, and the entire sum was bequeathed to various religious causes. The distribution was as follows :

$5,000 to the Provincial Elders of the Southern Province of the Moravian Church.
1,500 to the Moravian Mission Work.
1,500 to the American Bible Society.
1,500 to the American Tract Society.
200 to the Sunday School Work of the Southern Province of the Moravian Church.
100 to the Theological Seminary.
100 to the Alaska Mission.
100 to the Bohemian Mission.

These liberal gifts suggest to THE ACADEMY the advisability of urging our friends to consider the necessity of gifts for the good of our School. As we have often stated, the welfare of the Institution is threatened by every approaching danger, and a few moments study will show to each reader that while all is quiet and serene in the academic sky at present, circumstances over which we have no control may in a day cover this sky with dark clouds of storm and trouble. For instance, a widespread cholera epidemic in our land; some virulent disease within the school; disaster by fire; a few years' mismanagement by the executive officer,—or other causes which we might mention, could reduce the numbers in attendance, and thus remove the support and cripple the work, scattering the carefully gathered faculty, and necessitate the slow and gradual work of "making bricks without straw." Suppose, on the other hand, during the next generation, the Trustees set aside a portion of each year's income as a reserve fund; suppose other friends follow the example of Col. Fries and directly donate sums of money for the endowment of the ACADEMY; suppose the Alumnæ Society continues its work so successfully begun, and ere long has $5,000 or, in time, perhaps $25,000, to aid deserving pupils; suppose here and there friends leave in their wills an item for the permanent support of the school in the form of a bequest, as did Miss Stauber in the case of other Church interests; suppose that within a generation $200,000 can be gathered together, a sum sufficient to insure the support of a good faculty will always be at the disposal of the Trustees, and so long as this support would be assured the darkest cloud would have a silver lining.

We believe the ACADEMY would have long since been endowed by the accumulation of smaller gifts and efforts had the need been placed before its friends. Within the past few years a good start has been made, and if to the enviable record of the past work of the school be added a continuation of the Lord's blessing and also a good substantial endowment of money gifts,—who will venture to predict the future work of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Ten years nearly remain till the close of its first century. What will these ten years do in the matter of the endowment? We trust that many friends will ponder these things, and in pondering them be led to act for the permanent good of the work.

To the Class of '88.

My Dear Classmates :—Five years have almost passed since an excited group of girls adopted the sage and pink as their own colors, and comforted their hearts for Senior trials and vexations with "Finis Coronat Opus." And do they still remember the declaration, "After five years we will hold a Class Reunion," and echo it with the two central words, "we will!" Since I am on the ground will you permit me to assume the place of Secretary and respond to the request that you will each write to me very soon, offering any suggestions you may wish concerning the Reunion, and especially saying that your plans for the Summer include Salem, your Alma Mater, and the Reunion of the Class of '88. Surely no one will be willing to be forgotten then! So let us establish our claim in person, and if that should be in any case impossible let a letter of greeting be your representative to your Class. Then will our Reunion once more illustrate our Class Motto, and crown the work of the years so swiftly sped.

Sincerely yours,
ADELAIDE L. FRIES,
Salem, N. C.

Correspondence.

—We open our communications for the month with a letter from ELDRED MALLORY, one of the graduates of '92:

It affords me great pleasure to send fifty cents for THE ACADEMY, and no doubt my pleasure will be doubled each month when I receive the paper and learn something of what is taking place in the ACADEMY.

I have enjoyed myself immensely and feel as if I would like to spend another year in SALEM ACADEMY. Several friends made us a visit, BIRDIE BRIDGESS among the rest, so you may know we had a very pleasant time.

With much love to teachers, pupils, yourself and family, I remain.

Yours sincerely,
ELDRED MALLORY.

Rockport, Texas.

—Our next is from KITTIE FAIN who was here 4 years ago, and yet it seems as if it had been but yesterday :

Some of us have been intending to write for THE ACADEMY for some time, but neglected it. I enclose 50 cents for which please send the paper, beginning with the October number. I always enjoy reading it and do not like to miss a single number. We all enjoyed the September number which you kindly sent us.

I was sorry I could not be with you all last Commencement. I hope though to return some day to see you all, and the changes that have been made since I left. I suppose your girls will soon be thinking of their essay subjects. I can hardly realize that it is almost 4 years since I read mine, yet it seems a long time since I saw you all.

We are having such bitter cold weather and there has been some snow on the ground since the week before Christmas. The French Broad river at this place is frozen over quite thick, and people walked across. MATTIE and LIDA with several of our Mossy Creek friends came over during the holidays, and spent a day and night with us. They are both quite well. MATTIE is still teaching in the Rogersville College. I have not seen MAY since Christmas as the weather has been so cold and bad. MARIA is with us now, and her sister FLORA also. We would be quite lonely without them while we are thus housed up. I am so glad to have OLLIE at home again ; it seems a long time since we last spent a winter together.

OLLIE joins me in much love to you and the other teachers.

Affectionately,

KITTIE R. FAIN.

Dandridge, Tenn.

—MARY CLARK, of Columbia, S. C., also gives us an interesting communication :

When you bade me "Good-bye," and said "Let me hear from you, Mary?" I did not think it would be so long before I wrote, but you know how the summer vacation always slips away, and it seems as if this last one was the shortest I remember. Several girls visited me, and I, in my turn took a short trip to Lincolnton, but Mamma could not spare me very long as she knew I would go away again this winter.

Probably ELLA NEELY has told you I am at the College for Women studying hard again. I like the school very much but the arrangements are quite different from what I had been accustomed to at S. F. ACADEMY.

We receive company and visit on Friday afternoon and Saturdays. We have study hall and rooms; attend the first Presbyterian Church, and we are required to report any disobedience of rules. It is so hard not to talk at certain times.

We have about 52 boarders and as many day scholars, a large number for so young a school. The grounds are very pretty but altogether artificial, for it was formerly a private home. It covers a whole square, and has a high brick wall around 3 sides and an iron fence in front. My studies are Latin, English Language, Literature, Reading and Music, with a great deal of practice and the study of Harmony, so you see, I am kept quite busy.

SUSIE GULICK and I have been together several times and enjoyed our afternoons. She is busy with her Stenography and Typewriting. We have a very fine music teacher, Mr. Abell from Connecticut.

I would have enjoyed being in Salem on Dr. RONDTHALER'S Jubilee day. Have you any Post Graduates this year? Please write to me as soon as you can.

With much love,

MARY CLARK.

Columbia, S. C.

—We were likewise truly glad to hear from CHRISTIANA MCFADYEN of the class of '92 :

I thought of writing early in the Summer, but kept putting it off until I began to teach. Since then I have not had much time beyond my school-room duties.

My school was right fatiguing as I had 39 on the roll, and as it was a public school it was attended irregularly, which did not make the duties any lighter. Yet they kept good order and progressed in their studies. I like teaching very much, and one advantage in this situation was that I could spend the time from Friday afternoon till Monday morning at home. I hope you are enjoying the Christmas holidays. We are having a very quiet time being snowed in by the heaviest snow that has fallen for some years. I would be delighted to receive a letter from you at any time.

Affectionately,

C MCFADYEN.

Ralford, N. C.

Alumna Scholarship Fund.

Miss Carrie Shelton, - - -	$5.00
Mrs E. E. Shelton, - - -	5.00
Mrs. Dr. N. S. Siewers, - - -	10.00
Mrs. W. M. Earnhardt, - - -	.50
Previously acknowledged, - - -	1017.10
Total, - - -	$1037.60

Chronicle and Gossip.

—We have received Vols. 2, 3, 4 and 5, of the War Records, which nearly completes this valuable collection.

—During the severe cold of January the snow fell to a considerable depth, and coasting became the order of the day.

—Prof. SCHMOLCK suffered from a severe attack of illness in January, but returned to his class after about two weeks absence.

—Several stoves were placed in Annex Hall to supplement the hot water system of heating during the recent very cold weather.

—THE ACADEMY acknowledges the courtesy of an invitation to the celebration of the 22nd inst., by the Washington Literary Society of Davis School, in their Society Hall.

—LIZZIE BURGESS is engaged in teaching music in Prof. Betts' school in Madison, N. C. ; she has a large class, and the school is in a flourishing condition, numbering from 70 to 80 scholars.

—The young ladies of the Seventh Room with Miss PITTMAN and Prof. SCHMOLCK arranged the handsome decorations which graced the platform on the occasion of the Mid-Winter Concert.

—During the prevalence of snow and ice Miss SCRIBER met with a painful accident which might have been a very serious one. A few days under Mrs. MOORE'S faithful care enabled her to return to Annex Hall.

—We had hoped to invite you to a visit through the columns of THE ACADEMY to the various departments in the school, but as we have not yet gathered all the material desired, we will postpone the visit till the March number.

—In view of the suffering in town among the poorer families a special committee was organized, which in connection with the societies already existing, furnished aid to many who would otherwise have suffered greatly for want of food and fuel.

—During the recent very cold weather the wood yard was thrown open and any who desired to saw wood were given the opportunity of earning a few days wages. Quite a number of men availed themselves of the offer, and the scene was a lively one.

—Miss LOU SHAFFNER was confined to her room with illness the end of January, for a number of days, but the Fourth Room girls were found to be in good trim when she returned, they having watched the interests of the room company during the forced absence of their teacher.

—The ACADEMY had the pleasure of sending out two pupils, Misses ADDIE DAVIS and MATTIE SHORE, from the Dress Making Department at Christmas, fully equipped and able to measure and draft garments to fit any figure, by the admirable system of A. McDowell.

—A very pleasing recital was given under Miss S. VEST's direction some days since, the following being the programme:

1. Piano Solo. Etude 19.....Sherwood. Miss MARY CONRAD.
2. Vocal Duet. Carnival of Venice.....Bordese. Misses PEARL READ and KATE CROUCH.
3. Piano Solo. Poeme d'Amour.....Davis. Miss ANNIE DAVIS.
4. Recitation. The Station Master's Story. Miss SALLIE PENN.
5. Vocal Solo. Brightly the Sunlight Gleaming.....Metia. Miss NELLIE CUMMINGS.
6. Piano Solo. Papillons Roses.....Thome. Miss NANNIE WOOD.
7. Recitation. Home Sweet Home. Miss CARRIE ROLLINS.
8. Piano Solo. Consolation.....Mendelssohn. Miss MAY DAINGERFIELD.
9. Violin Solo. Ave Maria.....Gounod. Miss HEISLER.
10. Vocal Duet. The Starry Heavens.....Pinsuti. Misses MARY CONRAD and ANNIE DAVIS.
11. Piano Solo. The Joyful Peasant.....Schumann. Miss MATTIE KELLETT.

Euterpean Society Entertainment.

A VERY successfully rendered operetta was given by the members of the Euterpean Society, Feb. 2d and 3d, entitled "New Year's Eve." The plot was briefly as follows: Father Time and the Old Year are represented as in conversation, when Father Time asks the Old Year for an account of the manner in which he has spent the 12-month just closing. The Old Year calls up the Seasons and the Months and bids them prepare to show Father Time pictures of the past. This they agree to do, and in the second act Spring shows a pretty tableau, "Crowning the May Queen," but Time is not pleased. Summer displays a picnic scene, and Autumn a harvest field with reapers. With the latter Time is better satisfied, but not till a company of Shepherdesses sing, at Winter's bidding, a Christmas song to Bethlehem's Star, is he entirely content to praise the Old Year. In the third act the seasons, months and sprites, in fact all who participated, assemble on the stage, and as the hour of 12 is solemnly tolled, the company sing a farewell song, and Father Time removes the Old Year from the throne, placing the New Year in his stead. Then as the two, with their long white beards and faded gowns, slowly withdraw, the chorus breaks out into a happy greeting to the little New Year who, richly adorned with a robe of purple, golden crown and sceptre, receives the homage of the months and seasons with becoming dignity.

The entire performance was highly creditable. The music was pleasing and fine; the costumes were very appropriate throughout; the acting natural, and the audiences large and appreciative. The two gentlemen who kindly took the parts of Old Year and Father Time deserve the thanks of the Society for the splendid manner in which they interpreted their parts, and the little six year old chap who impersonated the New Year captured the house. The costumes of the four seasons were specially worthy of note, though if we were to begin to compare notes it would be difficult to say which of the score of girls were worthy of the palm.

To Miss TRACY was chiefly due the success of the occasion, since she was tireless in her drilling of the girls, and her ability as an instructor was seen to great advantage on these two evenings. Space forbids a more lengthy sketch of the evening, but all will rejoice with the Euterpeans when we state that some $75 was added to their treasury.

The following was the cast:

Father Time, Mr. B. J. Pfohl; Old Year, Mr. John Butner; New Year, Master J. H. Clewell, Jr.; Spring, Claudia Palmer, of Va.; Zephyr, Mattie Kellett, Texas; Dewdrop, Nellie Cummings, Virginia; March, Mabel Peterkin, South Carolina; April, Sallie Penn, Virginia; May, Carrie Greer, Virginia.

Summer, Gertrude Robbins, North Carolina; Rainbow, Minnie Hancock, North Carolina; Sunshine, Mary Cowles, Washington, D. C.; June, Pauline Borden, Georgia; July, Elizabeth Nicholson, Mississippi; August, Mary McCauley, North Carolina.

Autumn, Huberta Read, Texas; Cloud, Katie Hanes, Winston, N. C.; Jack Frost, Ola White, Georgia; September, Mattie Elliott, North Carolina; October, Alice Cordill, Louisiana; November, Lena Colwell, North Carolina.

Winter, Harriette Cross, Rhode Island; Snow, Ethel Roberts, North Carolina; Sleet, Daisy Schoolfield, Virginia; December, Sallie Adams, Florida; January, Aylmer Chaffin, Florida; February, Carrie Rollins, North Carolina.

In the Harvest Scene Miss Luda Morrison, North Carolina, sang the "Last Rose of Summer." Gathered in the circle were Jessie Peterkin, North Carolina; Lizzie Chaffin, Mary Osterhind and Kittie Fitzgerald, Virginia; Georgia Ennet, Ola Avent and Viola Davis, North Carolina.

In the Star of Bethlehem scene, Lucia Swanson, Alabama, was leader of the Chorus of Shepherdesses; others were Effie Gilmer and Mattie Kellett, Texas; Hattie Ollinger, Florida; Claudia Palmer and Sallie Penn, Virginia; Luda Morrison, North Carolina.

Effie Gilmer, Texas, was "Queen of May." Gathered around her were Lena Colwell, Ola White, Alice Cordill, Mattie Elliott and Katie Hanes.

In the picnic Tableaux were Bessie Whitner, Sue Reynolds, Bertha Dawson, Hattie Ollinger, Julia Jones and Sallie Boyd.

Married.

JOHNSON—VALE. — In Charlotte, N. C., January 31, Mr. SAMUEL MYRTLE JOHNSON to Miss IRENE VALE. After March 1 the address of the young couple will be 1795 Ogden St., Denver, Col.

MERRINE—MORRHEAD. — On Feb. 8, in Leesville, N. C., Mr. B. FRANK MERRINE to Miss LILY MORRHEAD.

Subscriptions Received.

Miss Ava Stroup, Annona, Texas; Mrs Hennie Schiff Prince, Washington, D. C.; Mrs J. H Jennings, Plum Branch, S. C.; Mrs W. H Lewis, Atkinson, N. C.; Mrs M. B. Roan, Yanceyville, N. C.; Mrs Ellis B Cannon, Spartanburg, S. C.; Miss Mary Pfohl, Columbus, Ga.; Miss Alice Gillespie, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mrs D. H Starbuck, Winston, N. C.; Miss Mattie Caldwell, Concord, N. C.; Miss Helen de Schweinitz, Bethlehem, Pa.; Mrs J. H. Thom, China Grove, N. C.; Miss Christina McFadyen, Ralford, N. C.; Miss Annie Reid, Wentworth, N. C.; Mrs Hattie S Willard, New York City; Miss Maggie McKinnon, Rowland, N. C.; Mrs Mattie Mason Blie, Rockledge, N. C.; Dr N. S Slewars, Salem, N. C.; Miss Roxie Armheld, Greensboro, N. C.; Mrs Kate Hayley Emery, Memphis, Tenn.; Mrs Ida A McFarlane, La Grange, Ga.; Miss Carrie Grunett, Nazareth, Pa.; Miss Lizzie Clement, Mocksville, N. C.; Mrs Cappie Craig, Greenwood, Miss; Mrs Susan Keehln, Mrs A A Spaug, Salem, N. C.; Mrs J S Miller, Winston, N. C.; Miss Cleora Hewson, Orange, Texas; Rev Jas E Hall, Salem, N. C.; Miss Daisy Little, Little Rock, Arkansas; Miss Laura McMickle, Edwardsville, N. C.; Mrs Frank Miller, Prof W. A. Blair, Mrs E. E. Shelton, Mrs Jas A Gray, Miss Delia Blackburn, Mrs Cora Lipfert, Mrs Jas A Bittling, Winston, N. C.; Miss Amelia Stelner, Mrs G. H Rights, Mr J A Lineback, Mr J T Lineback, Miss Amy Van Vleck, Mr W T Spaug, Miss Lida Moore, Mrs H A Lemly, Mr A C Vogler, Mr H W Fries, Mr J W Fries, Mr F H Fries, Mr H E Fries, Mrs L M Fries, Miss Bessie Pfohl, Mr A F Pfohl, Mr B Pfohl, Mrs E W Lineback, Mrs Dora Ebert, Miss Mary Welfare, Mrs H S Crist, Mrs Mary Horton, Mrs Dr H T Bahison, Mrs C S Hauser, Mrs M E Jenkins, Salem, N. C.; Miss Kittie D Fain, Dandridge, Tennessee; Mrs Susan V Hart, Farboro, N. C.; Mrs J G Sides, Bethania, N. C.; Miss Agnes Parker, Coates, Alabama; Mrs Walter W. Moore, Hampden-Sidney, Va.; Lieut S C Lemly, Washington, D. C.; Mrs May Grizzard, College Point, Md.; Miss Allatia Westbrook, Decatur, Ga.; Mrs S A Honston, Wood Lawn, Cal.; Miss Tillie Harmon, Kernersville, N. C.; Miss Nina Flournoy, Shreveport, La.; Miss M DuFour, Mill's River, N. C.; Mrs J F Ramsay, Asheville, N. C.; Mrs S C Look, Alorton, Va.; Mrs C W Kelling, Norfolk, Va.; Mrs Leonora F McKay, Dickinson, N. C.; Mr Jos A Rice, Bethlehem, Pa.; Miss K W Evans, New York City; Mrs Harriet Clemmous, Asheville, N. C.; Mrs Thos Holt, Raleigh, N. C.; Misses A and K Ollinger, Milton, Florida; Mrs Eliza Clark Brown, Marion, S. C.; Miss Daisy Ruff, Rock Hill, S. C.; Mrs Dr Kernan, Marion, Va.

Alumnæ Badge Pins.

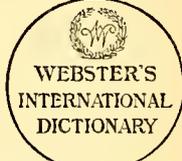

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS, and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

EVERY Family Student School Library

Every Person who Reads or Writes SHOULD OWN

THE NEW WEBSTER

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

A NEW BOOK FROM COVER TO COVER, Successor of the "UNABRIDGED," Fully Abreast of the Times.

Ten years spent in revising, 100 editors employed, over $300,000 expended.

Sold by all Booksellers.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Publishers,
Springfield, Mass., U. S. A.

Do not buy reprints of obsolete editions. Send for free pamphlet containing specimen pages, testimonials, and full particulars.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of _____ Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.
The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.
REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.
Nov. '92-1f.

DAVIS SCHOOL
A MILITARY COLLEGE
Degrees in
CIVIL ENGINEERING,
SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes, there is a Complete Preparatory Department.

Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars, address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.

Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.
Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,
Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
October, 1892.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths;

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY

Principals.

Jun - 1892-1y

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxydized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON.

JEWELERS,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,

Salem Female Academy,

SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-1y.

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS 3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF 1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
SKETCHING STOOL 50
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A COMPLETE FOR $7.25

FOUNDED 1802.

Salem Female Academy.

SALEM, N. C.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country

All the leading novelties, such as: Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS, has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111.

Phone 111.

Jan. 1892.

ILIFF'S
Imperial Atlas of the World.

Cheapest, Best and Most Complete Atlas Published.

SIZE 12X15-350 PAGES.

GRAND WORLD'S FAIR EDITION.

Official Maps United States and World.

Official Census United States and World 1890.

Grand Panorama World's Fair Buildings.

ENLARGED, REVISED, TO DATE.

Complete with New Railroad Maps of the States and Territories of the United States, North and South America, Europe, Asia and Africa, with illustrated descriptive matter of the same brought down to April, 1891. Full page maps of the principal Cities of the United States and Canada (31 in number). Diagrams of Population, Manufactures, Industries, Debt, Wealth, Nationalities, etc., etc., together with a complete index of all the Cities, Towns, Villages and Hamlets of the States and Territories of the United States, giving the population of each.

THE STANDARD AUTHORITY.

THE REFERENCE BOOK OF THE CENTURY.

Price, bound in Embossed Cloth, . . . . $4.25

Price, bound in Half Morocco, . . . . 5.50

Price, bound in full Russia, . . . . 7.50

Agents wanted in every Town to whom Liberal Terms will be given.

FRANKLIN PUBLISHING CO., Publishers,

157 York St., SAVANNAH, GA.

Nov., Dec. Jan.

THE BEAUTIFUL

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION, D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.
The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers from Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

The Cotton Belt Route.

Has hauled more students to and from Arkansas and Texas than all other Southwestern lines combined; and its continued popularity with the principal Southeastern schools is the highest guarantee of the excellence of its service and the truthfulness of its representations.

THE ONLY LINE receiving and delivering passengers at Memphis without a long and disagreeable omnibus transfer across the city.

THE ONLY LINE with through sleeping car service between Memphis and the Southwest.

THE ONLY LINE with through car service between Memphis and points in Central Texas.

W. G. ADAMS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Nashville, Tenn.
S. G. WARNER, S. E. Pass. Agt., Memphis, Tenn.
H. H. SUTTON, Trav. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. H. WINFIELD, Gen. Pass. Agt., Tyler, Texas.
E. W. LABEAUME, G. P. & T. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.
June 1892—J

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage at Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J W FRY, Gen. Sup't, Greensboro, N. C.
W E KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't, Fayetteville, N. C.

Iron Mountain Route.

Great through line from Arkansas, Texas and the Southwest to Salem and North Carolina.

Write to the undersigned if you contemplate attending Salem Female College for rates, routes and time-tables.

H. C. TOWNSEND,

Gen'l Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

June 1892—1y

Norfolk & Western R'y

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville. By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL, Gen. Pass. Agent, ALLEN HULL, Trav. Pass. Agt.
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892—1y

The short line to New Orleans, Memphis and points in the Southeast.

Take the "St. Louis Limited," 12 hours saved, between Fort Worth, Dallas and St. Louis and the East.

The Direct Line to all points in Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona, Oregon and California.

Through Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars between Dallas, Fort Worth, and St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco.

For rates, tickets and all information apply to, or address any of the ticket agents or

GASTON MESLIER, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt., Dallas, Texas.
June 1892—1y

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

Gray Block.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boylston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth. 337 pages. Price $1.00. By mail, $1.10.

It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English.

Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: 'It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of all that is necessary in grammar.'

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 80 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth. 325 pages. $1.75. By mail, $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.40.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth. 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the excellent discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford. pp. vi., 255. 16mo, cloth, 84 cents.

Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day. — Rochester Herald.

Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the latter use. — Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready:

Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hamden—Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature, Classical Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cowper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverly—Milton, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Fables Choate—Thackeray's Four Georges and English Humorists, Parts I. and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Eginhard's Charlemagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odyssey etc., will be published.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

PUBLISHERS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '93-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XV.

SALEM, N. C., MARCH, 1893.

NUMBER 134.

1802—1893.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register or present year will exceed 350. Special features:— the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

The Academy Cottage at the Seaside.

IN this closing letter we would like to tell you something of our fishing experiences. There are two fields in which to indulge in the pursuit—on the Sound where the water is quite smooth and placid, and on the ocean where the billows ceaseless roll. A number of parties first took the former and sometimes were real successful. It was interesting to see the odd shapes of the fish jerked into the boat. Here comes a croaker, indulging in its solemn reproaches for a long time as it lay croaking on the bottom of the boat; this is followed by a stinging ray, with its broad, raw-meat like appearance, and its sting threatening the inmates of the boat; sun-fish, trout, sheephead and now and then a crab were drawn in until several long strings were secured as trophies. At another time, wind and tide were against us, and scarcely a dozen rewarded our efforts. But the sound fishing was dwarfed with the ocean trips. Four stalwart fishermen were needed as a crew, for we had to battle with waves and breakers. As we stood on the shore it seemed an impossibility to pass over the breakers as they dashed their spray high in the air, but with skilful hands at the oars we rose on them as lightly and easily as when in the days of boyhood we rose up in the swing on the old apple tree. To those who were not subject to sea-sickness the sensation was very invigorating. Up and down our boat went and soon shore and cottage grew small and faint in the distance. The sensation was a peculiar one to those not accustomed to it, only a half inch plank between you and the water many fathoms deep, the shore miles away and the boat tossing up and down like an egg-shell. At last we reached the "Rocks," a ledge on which the fish gather in large schools. But the interest became intense as the lines were lowered and we felt the fine fellows fast to the hook. "Pig-fish" (so named because of the grunt they utter as they leave the water) were caught in numbers. Here comes a five-pound trout, and another draws in an equally large sheep-head. "Why, my line is caught!" cries one of the party as he draws hard on the strong hook. "All lines in the boat," cries the captain, and we obey. He then instructs the one whose line seems to be caught to slowly haul in the same, which he wonderingly does. There it goes under the boat, evidently something very much alive, and he pulls harder on the line. The next moment the "something" materializes into a shark, which rises to the surface, sends a shower-bath over every one in the boat, dives down again, twists into the air, and finally snaps the hook with one great effort and disappears. Soon another one is hooked and greater care is observed. As he is brought to the edge of the boat a strong hand grasps his head and a knife is plunged into his brain. Then he is drawn in and lies harmlessly at the bottom of the boat, nearly as long as Clarence is tall. And so the sport goes on as we drift from one field to the other. The company did not consist of gentlemen only, but a number of ladies indulged also, and were very successful. On the two occasions prior to the return to Salem more than 200 fish were caught, many of them weighing from four to six pounds.

Lest our letters should be unduly prolonged we will note briefly only three more points of the many that might be chosen. One was a very delightful day spent in Wilmington and Wrightsville as the guests of Mr. Sprunt. The great cotton compress, belonging to Mr. Sprunt, is one of the finest in the country, and to any one who has not seen its powerful machinery in operation a visit is of great interest. Our party also visited Wrightsville, where the State Guard was encamped, and enjoyed the fine prospect at the lovely Ocean View beach. In this connection we wish to acknowledge the many courtesies shown us at various times by Captains Harper and Dixie and their polite assistants; Dr. Peschau and other clergymen of Wilmington; by the proprietor and clerks of the Orton hotel; by Mr. Sprunt; by Mr. Stevens, of Southport; Mr. Kuri, of Carolina Beach, and by many others whose names we remember with gratitude.

The second point we note was the peculiar beauty of the phosphorescent display on the crest of the waves at night. Like immense fiery serpents the brilliant lines of fire shone out as the waves broke on the shore; the glory of the sight cannot be described, it must be seen to be appreciated. One night we walked down to the water's edge with a friend who had just arrived. The night was very dark—even the outlines of the cottages could not be seen; in the distance a few twinkling lights appeared at the hotel, and we stood at the union of land and sea. The roar of the ocean under these circumstances was appalling, and add to this angry roar the waves tipped with bright fire, and this fire suddenly flashing out into a fiery streak miles in length, and just back of it another of equal length, and back of this a third, chasing each other with resistless speed and roaring like giant storms struggling with each other. This is the night scene. By day the effect is different. The light of course is absent, but the phosphorescent creatures are there, and when bathing you meet with their little tentacles and lasso cells, and woe to the one who meets them! They call them sea-nettles, and certainly they deserve the name. One wrapped itself about the foot of the writer of this sketch, and you may well say, nettles! Yes, add electricity to nettles, and needle points and chestnut burrs and pins and knife points, and roll them together and apply them again and again, and you will understand what this paralyzing sting really is. Fortunately the effects are not permanent, and a little laudanum or camphor will relieve the pain, but while the little fellows apply their dose to neck, arm or foot it is an experience not easily forgotten.

The third point alluded to is the grandeur of the natural displays at the seaside. We walked out one evening with Capt. Goslen, of the Winston Republican, and witnessed one of the most gorgeous sunsets it has ever been our lot to look upon. It required no stretch of imagination to feel that the splendors were those of the celestial city. Colors and tints, shapes and beauties, changing, blending and interblending, till as you gazed in wonder and admiration it seemed supernatural rather than natural. On another occasion we had a rainbow pictured on the eastern sky. No broken or fading tints, but one great, grand, complete, brilliant bow, resting with its two pillars on the surface of the water, grander than any similar sight ever witnessed in our mountain section. Then the moonlight! but we will refrain, since each new subject brings up a whole chapter of pleasant memories.

The ACADEMY Cottage experience is at an end, and throughout it was an enjoyable one. Not only was the school-life of the busy laborers in the ACADEMY thus turned into new channels, but in following them it was with that peculiar sympathetic pleasure which comes when intimate friends unite in a common enjoyment. Nor can we forget the benefit which will follow in class-room work, for with the pleasure was blended much careful research. Then too we should remember how this large company was spared sickness and accident, showing that throughout the summer the Lord's blessing was with us.

We trust these random notes may recall pleasant memories for more than one of the seaside party and also enlist the interest of their friends throughout our broad land. With this hope we say to Kuri Cottage and to all the experiences of the summer, Vale! Vale!! Vale!!!

Hesperian Society Entertainment.

THE Hesperian Society gave a little play on the evenings of March 2d and 3d, interspersed with vocal and instrumental music and tableaux. Very large audiences were present on both evenings, and seemed highly pleased with the performances. $90 was realized. The following was the programme:

Instrumental Solo. Tarantella.

Miss DAISY CRUTCHFIELD.

Vocal Duet. Gondelleid, Graben-Hoffman.

Misses MARY CONRAD and ANNIE DAVIS.

Tableau. The Fountain.

Misses Carrie Bahson, Florence King, Maud Cheek, Maggie Paden, Theresa Lipscomb, Susie Wright, Addie Leinbach, Jennie Anderson, Sallie Bonner, Laura Hoffman, Lottie Thornton, Jennie Crouch, Vocal Solo. Love's Joys, Gumpert.

Miss LILLIAN CRUTCHFIELD.

Recitation. Jane Conquest, James Milne.
Miss DAISY THOMPSON.

Vocal Trio. Good Night, Leslie.
Misses PEARL READ, ANNIE DAVIS and HELEN SHIELDS.

Tableau. The Cross.

Misses Adelaide Scriber, Rokszy Story, Addie Nimocks, Lolo Jackins, Mattie Cooper, Nannie Shell, Dovie Chedester, Ella Neely, Maud McGinnis, Cora Cowles, Kate Crouch, Eva Cheatham, Alice Rawley, Eliza Galick.

Vocal Solo. a. Midday in the Village, Goring-Thomas. b. The Vow, Meyer-Helmund.

MISS RONDTHALER.

DRAMA.

"THE UGLIEST OF SEVEN."

Adapted from the German by Miss M. G. Townsend.

CHARACTERS.

Ernest Hellwald—MARY McKEOWN, heir to the late Countess of Falkenbrun.

Jeremiah Ambrose—NARCIE TAYLOR, steward of the late Countess.

Ernestine, ANNE CARRIER,
Rosa, MATTIE B. WILLIAMS,
Elise, MATTIE M. WILLIAMS,
Gabrielle, BLANCHE THORNTON,
Amelia, MAGGIE BORUM,
Dora, CORA TAYLOR,
Adelaide, MATTIE JOHNS,
Daughters of Ambrose.

Madame Moorplitz,—FRANK CREIGHT
Madame Kunkel, —LILLIAN GOSLING, Madame Mousetooth,—JOSEPHINE MOSES, formerly friends of the Countess.

Peasants. } LOUISE MORRISON,
LUCY THORPE,
KATE GIBSON,
AGNES STALLINGS,
INDIA KERNER.

ACT I.

Ernest Hellwald, a German student, has fallen heir to half a million dollars, provided he will agree to marry the ugliest of the seven daughters of the late steward of the Castle. If he will not accept this condition the entire estate shall be used to found a lunatic asylum. The young man starts to the Castle of Falkenbrun, but is beset by thieves and left for dead. He is found in this condition by Earnestina, one of the Steward's daughters, who assists him to rise, and conducts him to the castle near by. When they reach the Castle they are met by Ambrose and his other daughters. Ambrose is a superstitious old Englishman, who welcomes the stranger and wonders at his incoherent talk about the "seven" and the "ugliest." After the evening meal the guest bids the family good night, but steals a kiss from the hand of Earnestina, while the old father dozes in his easy chair.

ACT II.

This scene opens in a garden, where Earnest has come to wander back and forth and meditate. Earnestina enters soon after and discovers the young student. They compare notes, find that they have previously seen each other in Venice, and Earnest confesses his love for the fair young Earnestine, and is encouraged. Soon after this three old ladies, with their affections centered on cats and parrots, medicine and beauty-water, horses and dogs, arrive, and they are, by the instructions of the will, to decide which is the ugliest of the seven daughters, but not knowing why they are thus to decide. They summon the seven girls, and after a careful inspection decide among themselves to pronounce Rosa the ugliest and Earnestine the loveliest. The young student hears the decision and knows that he must either give up his beloved Earnestina or his fortune

ACT III.

Earnest and Earnestine are seen seated in the garden. He tells her the decision which he has overheard. She declares her intention to insist on his renouncing her and retaining his fortune. Suddenly Earnestine rises and declares that she will make the old ladies pronounce her the ugliest. When the company is assembled to hear the decision, Earnestine suddenly rushes in, declares that she has almost killed the pet cat of one of the old ladies, whereupon the latter faints; she continues, that in the struggle she smashed the medicines and "beauty-water" of the second, and this causes the second to faint. Finally she deeply insults the third, who, in a rage, calls upon her two companions to rise for revenge. The last scene shows the angry old women pronouncing their spiteful decision that Earnestine is the ugliest of the seven, when the young student rushes forward, frantically embraces the old ladies to their unutterable astonishment, and cries out that lands and his beloved are both his own. Mutual explanations follow, the feelings of the old ladies are comforted with handsome presents and the father bestowed upon the happy heir of Falkenbrun the hand of his young daughter because she had been pronounced "THE UGLIEST OF SEVEN."

ACT I.—SCENE 1.—Study of Young Hellwald. SCENE 2.—Country Road in the Forest. SCENE 3.—Library at Castle Falkenbrun.

ACT II.—SCENE 1.—Garden at the Castle. SCENE 2.—Parlor at the Castle.

ACT III.—SCENE 1.—Garden at the Castle. SCENE 2.—Parlor at the Castle. SCENE 3.—Room in the Castle.

King's Daughters.

IF the girls could see the pencil that is writing this they would know without seeing that an S. F. A. school-girl had it in hand. But nevertheless she is a King's Daughter and wishes to say that they have received their first letter from an old King's Daughter, viz: EDITH CLARKE MOORE. Well, we were delighted, and Miss FOGLE was the happiest one of all. Thank you very much, EDITH. If you could have seen us as one of our number read it, I feel sure you would have been fully repaid.

The circle has been lately divided into two divisions, which meet on alternate Sundays. But the circle will remain the same and still bear the name "Four Leaf Clover."

We take the liberty of letting all the old girls hear from EDITH. Wont more of our absent members let us know what they are doing in the Master's cause.

SUSIE REYNOLDS.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Feb 7th, 1893.

My Dear King's Daughters:—

After wanting to write you for some time and wondering what in the world I could say if I did, I have at last decided to do so even if I can't say much. How I would like to be with you in some of your Sunday afternoon talks! I used to enjoy the meetings so much, and often think of them as some of the dearest memories of my ACADEMY life.

While CARRIE ROLLINS was here at Christmas we visited some poor little twins who were born the day after Christmas, and the mother was too poor to buy even a flannel garment for them. I am sure that CARRIE will be sorry to learn that one of them is dead. Girls, you who have nice homes and fathers and mothers cannot realize how much suffering, dirt and poverty there is in the world until you visit around and look for it. I had never known what the word poverty truly meant until I became a King's Daughter, and it was my duty to search for it and relieve it if possible.

O, what a privilege it is to be a daughter of our blessed King! and to labor to please Him, and to know that His eye sees even the smallest service you offer "In His Name." And there are so many opportunities for you who are at school to work for Him. If you see a girl who does not dress as well or speak as correctly as you do do not avoid or scorn her, but if she is treated badly by some of the other girls just whisper a word of love and sympathy to her and notice the quick change which will pass over her face at your words, and that in itself will be a blessing to you.

I think one of the happiest moments of my life was while at Salem I spoke a few kind words to a girl who was being teased and persecuted by some of the thoughtless girls, and I was made, oh, so happy the next day to receive a thankful note from her, more so because I had forgotten my words a few minutes afterwards and the note was such a surprise. I still have it and will always keep it. Some of you try this and see if you are not happier. I am sure that our loving Savior will look smilingly down upon you for your kind words.

With best wishes for you all, I remain,

Lovingly yours,
• EDITH CLARK MOORE.

—THE ACADEMY acknowledges an invitation to a Book Reception of the Philomathian Literary Society of Mt. Amoena Seminary, Mt. Pleasant, N. C., Friday, March 24. The invitation was sent by BERTIE KIME, who is a member of the committee.

Correspondence.

—Life and death are strangely intermingled everywhere, even in our correspondence columns, and it is with sad hearts that we read the following concerning a dear friend just in the meridian of her womanly influence and ability.

I am grieved that the sad duty devolves upon me to send you the notice of the death of one of the ACADEMY'S dearest friends, once a pupil for three years, Mrs. James Garrity, (EMMA MOORE.) She left Salem in 1869, married at Calvert, Texas, in 1871, and in 1873 came to Corsicana, where she has ever since resided.

She always loved to recall her school-days at the ACADEMY, and only a few days before her death, while lying on her sick bed, showed me a letter from Miss SOPHIE BUTNER, her old teacher, who she often laughingly asserted was responsible for any good there was in her character, as she went to Salem an impetuous, undisciplined, motherless girl, and she had taught her the responsibility of living.

She was my dear friend for 20 years, and it was my pleasure to be with her during her one week of illness which was borne heroically. She told me repeatedly during those hours of suffering, she was not afraid to die if the end had come, but she had much to live for, and her husband and brother had no one else to brighten life for them. They are truly stricken. She left no child.

The day before she died a package came from her old day-keeper, Stella Neal Slapey, which was not opened till after her death, and in it we found two lovely scarfs, as a delayed Christmas present, and a tiny bouquet of violets, white hyacinths and rose geranium leaves, which latter we placed in her hand before the casket was closed, and she lies in her last dreamless sleep with the tender token from her girlhood's friend, her old day-keeper. Our community has sustained a loss no one else can fill.

We are looking for Professor and Mrs. MARKGRAFF this spring. He has recovered the use of his arm.

Hoping Mrs. CLEWELL and the little boys are well, I remain,

Respectfully,
Mrs. A. V. WINKLER.

Corsicana, Texas.

—An interesting letter from ANNIE MAKEPEACE was overlooked for some time, but like good wine it will keep until used: I had been thinking of writing you for quite a while but have been quite busy lately until Saturday last, when a party of us went down to Cottage City for a few days, and on my return I found THE ACADEMY, which I assure you I was very glad to receive. I send the money with this letter for my subscription, and wish it sent here, as I will be here for another year at least. I hold the position of stenographer in my brother's office in this city, (Providence, R. I.,) and am getting on very nicely, having been here since last April. I like the work more and more every day. It is not hard, only more of it some days than at others. I have quite a little time for reading and other things when brother is away which is quite often and sometimes a week at a time.

It does not seem two years since I was in your rooms as other girls are now. BERTHA HICKS writes me that EMMA HALE has been very ill. I hope soon to hear that she is better. I should be glad to have a letter from you at any time.

Yours affectionately,
ANNIE L. MAKEPEACE.

12 Cady St., Providence, R. I.

—Our next is from AGNES PARKER, from Coatopa, Ala:

At this time last year I wrote you enclosing 50 cents for a year's subscription for THE ACADEMY, and as the letter was lost you credited me with the subscription. I now enclose $1.00 to pay for it, last year's subscription and for this one also, as you have also been sending me the paper since October.

I hope the school is prosperous this year; I think of you all at the ACADEMY many, many times, and always with loving remembrance of your kindness to me. Please tell me what has become of Miss CONNIE PFOHL and Miss ANNE PITTMAN. I hear through THE ACADEMY of all the teachers I knew except those two.

I have enjoyed the account of your summer at the seaside, and am glad it was so pleasant. May you have many more as pleasant.

Give my love to Mrs. CLEWELL, Dr. RONDTHALER and all the teachers who were there in '88.

Sincerely yours,
AGNES S. PARKER.

Coatopa, Ala.

—We were glad to hear once again from an old friend, LUCIE MALONE, of '64 and '65, though sorry to hear that her health is not good. She is now Mrs. Thompson, of Tuscumbia, Ala.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., MARCH, 1893.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—The Register for the present year has not yet been made out, but the number of names on the roll will exceed 350. This is certainly a very satisfactory showing, especially when we note that many worthy institutions have suffered a shrinkage because of the stringency in money matters. The ACADEMY will have an increase of at least twenty-five names as compared with last year.

—The Twin-City Daily Sentinel deserves the gratitude of our Institution for the marked interest it has always shown in the work of the ACADEMY as an active industry, doing its work in the midst of our communities. The school needs the patriotic support of our people, and we think has it, but in no quarter is this shown in a more liberal degree than in the case of the Daily Sentinel. And just here it is proper to say that we have never seen a publication which strives to keep its pages so clear of objectionable matter as does the journal alluded to. Our daily papers are so often made the medium of long drawn out controversies, which profit little, but constantly stir up the bad blood of the community. This is absent in the Daily Sentinel, and yet its columns are always open to the free discussion of all topics which are not carried beyond the line of public interest. Then, too, the absence of marked seeking after scandals and grovelling into the filth of certain parts of the city (for every place as large as Winston-Salem has its dark side) is a matter to be rejoiced at. Every one must be well satisfied with the liberal support accorded every legitimate need of the community, and we trust our people may more and more appreciate our neighbor, and especially acknowledge this feature which gives us a daily newspaper wedded to the best interests of our city, and not under the thumb of the undesirable elements and influences of the community.

COMMENCEMENT.

THE time has arrived when our friends begin to look forward to the Commencement season, and although all the details have as yet not been arranged, enough has been done to warrant an editorial announcement of the same.

The Baccalaureate Sermon will be delivered by the REV. A. D. McCLURE, D.D.,

Wilmington, N. C., a gentleman who for scholarly attainments and eloquence in his delivery is favorably known in our own and neighboring States.

The oration on Commencement morning will be delivered by the HON. G. W. SHELL,

Member of Congress from South Carolina.

Mr. Shell has represented his District for some time in the past and has the confidence of his home friends to such an extent that he will continue to be their representative. It gives us special pleasure to make this announcement, because our Commencement has not had a representative speaker from South Carolina for several years and yet the number of pupils from this State has always been very large. We will therefore extend a double welcome to our honored guest on the morning of June 1st.

Another announcement which THE ACADEMY makes, and it is made with a special feeling of satisfaction, is described by the following letter addressed recently to the Principal:

REV. J. H. CLEWELL:—
Dear Sir:

We, the undersigned, wish to read our essays on Monday or Tuesday evenings, and to dispense with the so-called honors.

This was signed by every member of the Senior Class, and made the case a very clear one, since if the request is made that all the essays be read on Monday and Tuesday evenings, of course, the Thursday morning essays are left out entirely. THE ACADEMY does not know the beginning of the history of the so-called honors, but it does know that the "honor" is a very empty one, and has worked great evil in many directions. This is so very apparent that very many of the leading institutions of our land have abolished the custom, even as our Senior Class has neatly done this year. Let us point out one or two of the evils. Suppose there are twenty girls out of the forty in the class who are about equally gifted; friends at home unwisely stimulate the students to gain the appointment to one of the honors; a pupil is perhaps receiving the aid of a friend or relative, and they feel that if an honor can be secured that will be the best testimonial of the appreciation which they wish to show to the liberal friend or relative. The race begins in September, and a feverish struggle ensues. Sick or well the aspirants attend class; a single lesson missed may lose the prize; a single question in a single lesson may be the lost fraction that decides against the aspirant; only those who have watched the race can imagine how high the struggle reached: the work done was unnatural; the nervous strain was tremendous; there was risk of a break down in many instances and no possible way of taking off the tension from the string. Therefore, in the letter which we give above the question is solved. The honor is in graduation, and this may be attained only by industry and application. Some pupils who cannot cover the ground drop out at the end of Sophomore year; some stop at the end of the Junior year, and some discontinue the work even after they have commenced the Senior year. But to remain faithful to the end is the honor. To be reckoned among the better students is again an inducement to special but healthy and natural exertions. In this way the finest results are gained, health is retained, and an honor is within the reach of every pupil who remains steadfast during her four years' course of study. THE ACADEMY congratulates the present Senior class on this progressive step.

PORTRAITS OF FORMER PRINCIPALS.

AN effort was recently set on foot to secure the photographs of each of the former Principals of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, with the view of having a life-size portrait made for the School. After considerable effort all the photographs have been found except that of the Rev. SAMUEL KRAMSCH, Principal from 1802 to 1806. The entire list of Principals is as follows:

Rev. SAMUEL KRAMSCH.....	1802—1806.
Rev. ABRAHAM G. STEINER .....	1806—1816.
Rev. G. BENJAMIN REICHEL .....	1816—1834.
Rev. J. C. JACOBSON.....	1834—1844.
Rev. CHARLES A. BLECK .....	1844—1848.
Rev. EMIL A. DESCHWEINITZ.....	1848—1853.
Rev. ROBERT DESCHWEINITZ.....	1853—1865.
Rev. M. E. GRUNERT.....	1865—1877.

Rev. J. T. ZORN.....1877—1884.
 Rev. EDWARD RONDTHALER.....1884—1888.
 Rev. JOHN H. CLEWELL.....1888—

When the photographs of all save the first Principal had been secured request was made that Miss MARY FRIES, one of our Alumnæ, undertake the work of enlarging the portraits to life size. Miss FRIES studied this particular line of Art in this country and in Europe, and being also a warm friend of the ACADEMY, will put more than a passing interest in the work. She has at this date finished the portrait of the Rev. ABRAHAM STEINER, and has nearly completed that of the Rev. G. BENJAMIN REICHEL. We doubt not but that this announcement will be of great interest to many readers of THE ACADEMY and that as many of the portraits as may be finished by Commencement will be a source of pleasure to patrons and visiting Alumnæ.

PHYSICAL EXERCISE.

THE ACADEMY has always emphasized the need of physical exercise in connection with mental efforts if the best results are to be gained. It is difficult, however, to induce those who specially need the exercise to regularly take the same, since the very condition of the body which demands the exertion also calls for ease and induces the pupil to stay in the room when she should be out in the air. During the winter months calisthenic drill is held every day, but as this is necessarily short, some of the benefits of outdoor and long continued exercise are lost. To overcome this difficulty a small device was adopted for the months of February and March, which promises to accomplish much good. A "walking-track" was laid out in the gymnasium, and a small prize was offered to each girl who would every day walk two miles in not more than 30 minutes. The prize which acted as a stimulus to start the interest was to be a pound box of French candy. Quite an excitement was at once created, and walking became very popular. The gymnasium is so arranged that the fresh air blows directly through, so that the atmosphere is as pure as outdoor air. Soon the pupils found that the fatigue of the class-room vanished in the twentieth or thirtieth round of the track, and so bracing and exhilarating was the exercise when regularly engaged in that what was commenced because it was popular was continued because it was heartily enjoyed. Many of the girls soon added an extra mile or two to the prescribed amount and it is quite a common thing for two friends to start out for a four or five mile walk, chatting pleasantly as they finish round after round, and looking bright and fresh at its conclusion. February and March are usually the most difficult as to health, but aside from a number of colds (which cannot be provided against) the usual good health of the school has prevailed even during these weeks, and we feel the "box of candy" has contributed its quota to the same.

—Mrs. Robert R. Cotten visited Salem and Winston some time ago in the interest of the World's Columbian Exposition of Chicago, Ill., and we are indebted to her for appreciative words as follows: "I needed no proof of the excellence and high standard of your school, but my visit there made my convictions stronger, because seeing is believing. Excellence needs no proof and I shall be glad to see SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, our oldest educational institution, shown in its true and proper light in Chicago."

—Can any one of our readers give us information which will enable us to secure a photograph or portrait of Rev. SAMUEL KRAMSCH, Principal of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY from 1802—1806. Such information will be very greatly appreciated.

To the Class of '85.

WHEN we girls of '85 bade each other good-bye in the dear old S. F. A. we did not for one moment doubt that we would certainly meet the next year at Commencement.

Seven years have passed and the eighth Commencement is drawing near. Let us meet in Salem next June, and be once more together with our friends and teachers at our dear old ACADEMY, to say for ourselves what the eight years have brought to us.

Tenderly and faithfully yours,
 KATHARINE C. URQUHART.

—Among our visitors during the past month we note Hon. G. W. Shell, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Covington.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The approach of Spring is welcome after the rigors of the past winter.

—March winds came nearly two weeks ahead of almanac time.

—The reception of the Art League in Winston, March 16, was a very enjoyable occasion.

—Very interesting and profitable prayer meetings are held every Thursday afternoon in one or another of the Society Halls, and Wednesday afternoons in Main Hall.

Mrs. CLEWELL, accompanied by little John, Jr., visited her mother's home in Pennsylvania the early portion of this month. Although signs of Spring have reached our section Mrs. CLEWELL reports snow banks high and white still holding forth in that portion of the country.

—During the very severe weather in January the school buildings were practically without the pipe supply of water. The old time method of carrying water had to be resorted to, but we fear our present generation is not in every way like the generations of yore, since none seemed inclined to volunteer to carry the water, and so the duty devolved upon the colored men.

—Every Saturday evening Mr. CLEWELL conducts a "reading" in the Laboratory at 6 o'clock. During the past month Dickens' beautiful Christmas story, "The Cricket on the Hearth," has been the subject, and is illustrated with stereopticon views. The attendance is voluntary, but large. A story of Japanese life will next be taken up and will be illustrated by numerous drawings from the "land of the rising sun."

—February 22d was celebrated as a holiday by the ACADEMY. The day was cold, and so did not admit much outdoor enjoyment. But full justice was done to the roast chicken, mince-pie and cream-puffs. In the evening the Home Sunday School gave an exceedingly interesting entertainment, patriotic in its nature, and with illustrations thrown on a large screen by the powerful arc-light stereopticon. The latter part of the entertainment consisted of a Cantata, representing a reception tendered the various nationalities by the United States. The costumes were true to nature, and included many of the nations, from the jolly Irish couple to distant Japan. A good sum was realized for the Sunday School library. Nearly all the ACADEMY pupils attended the exercises and were much pleased.

—Recital No. 8 was in the hands of the Day School department, which consists of those pupils who reside in Salem and Winston and who do not board in the ACADEMY. During the last few years the number has greatly increased, so much so that the register now calls for about 150 in the regular course and in the special departments. They have regularly organized by the election of officers, and, as stated above, took charge of the Recital on Tuesday, Feb. 21st, at 1 o'clock, a. m. A number of the parents of the pupils were present, and the hour passed pleasantly to all. The arrangements were under Miss Fogle's supervision. The following was the programme :

Chorus. Sailor Lad's Song.

Piano Duet. Huzza! Hurrah!

Misses C. LINEBACK and A. FOGLE.

Song. Auld Lang Syne.

SOPHOMORE CLASS.

Recitation. Bonne Nuit.

Miss ADA SPAUGH.

Recitation. Pride of Battery B.

Miss CARO BUXTON.

Song. The Brook.

Misses SIEWERS, BAHNSON, SWICEGOOD and HEGE.

Recitation. Lorelei.

MEMBERS OF SOPHOMORE CLASS.

Recitation. Pied Piper.

CLASSES A. and B.

Piano Solo. Dancing Leaves.

Miss MARY TYLER.

Recitation. Acrostic. { Washington.
Class A.
Our Flag.

Miss L. McIVER.

Recitation. My Country.

CLASS C.

Chorus. Flower Dance.

—Rev. FRANCIS WOLLE, for twenty years President of the Bethlehem Seminary for Young Ladies, died on the 11th of February, at the age of 75 years. He was not only an educator but also an inventor of note, but specially distinguished as a scientist. His name will go down to history as one of the most distinguished men of the Moravian Church. The field in which his studies carried him was one not usually sought by students, viz: the microscopic forms of life in fresh water and kindred subjects. He discovered and named hundreds of kinds of these small forms of life, and on these matters was one of the foremost authorities in the world. The title of his works are as follows: "Desmids of the United States and List of Pedrostrums, with 1100 illustrations; "The Fresh Water Algae of the United States, complementary to Desmids of the United States," with 2300 illustrations. His last work entitled, "Diatomacea of North America" was finished only a few weeks before his death. In the death of Rev. Mr. WOLLE, the Moravian Church has lost a great and good man.

—THE ACADEMY is always pleased to follow the history of its former pupils and teachers, and clips the attached item from the New York Recorder about one well known to many of our readers :

"It is due to Miss Katharine Evans, of the National Conservatory of Music, that the chorus in "Faust" as presented by the pupils of the Conservatory recently, in Brooklyn, covered itself with honors. Two-thirds of the entire chorus was under her special instruction for the occasion, and the music was rendered with credit to the instructor.

"One hundred years ago the Moravian Church established an institution known as the Salem Female Academy of North Carolina, which has long been noted for the excellence of its musical advantages, and to this institution Miss Evans was called as musical director in the year 1888. When Mrs. Thurber, President of the National Conservatory of Music, wrote to Madame Viardot-Garcia asking if she could recommend any American girl who had studied with her to teach the Garcia method. Madame Garcia immediately wrote an unqualified letter of recommendation, naming Miss Katherine W. Evans; this led to her becoming one of the faculty of the Conservatory. She is an accomplished pianist and a linguist, as well as possessing literary ability."

—It is with great sorrow that we note the death of Mrs. James Garrity, of Corsicana, Tex. She is perhaps better known as "black-eyed". EMMA MOORE to her old school-mates, to distinguish her from another EMMA MOORE here at the same time, now Mrs. Draper, of Atlanta, Ga. Mrs. Garrity died Feb. 17, of pneumonia, after an illness of about a week, to the great distress of a large circle of relatives and friends. She had no children. The daily Courier-Observer says of her: "Her death drapes the whole community in mourning and leaves a void difficult to fill. Mrs. Garrity in her noble life was truly a good Samaritan, and hundreds have been the beneficiaries of her charities, while no poor applicant ever left her door unaided, and where want and poverty were there she left the impress of her munificence in supplying their needs. Our community was shrouded in gloom when the news of the death of this noble woman fell upon the city with its awfully solemn truth."

Alumnæ Scholarship Fund.

Miss Cleora Hewson, . . . . .	$ 1 00
Miss Mary Welfare, . . . . .	1 00
Miss Emma Fisher, . . . . .	5 00
Miss Agnes Fogle, . . . . .	5 00
Mrs. C. H. Fogle, . . . . .	5 00
Interest on Bond, . . . . .	30 00
Previously acknowledged, . . . . .	1037 60
Total, . . . . .	$1080 10

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs W M Earnhardt, Lenoir, N. C.; Mrs S L McBe, Greenville, S. C.; Mrs Lucie Thompson, Tusculum, Ala.; Mrs W P Pate, Gibson Station, N. C.; Mrs Laura Mof, Walkertown, N. C.; Miss Johnnie Cates, Maryville, Tenn.; Mrs Lyda David Elliotte, Oillon, S. C.; Miss Mattie Barron, Toisnot, N. C.; Mrs Or A Jones, Walnut Cove, N. C.; Mrs Frank Earnest, Laredo, Texas; Mrs John A Moore, LaSalle, Colorado; Mrs Maggie Wester Erwin, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mrs Julia Jones, Bethania, N. C.; Miss Minnie Farmer, News Ferry, Va.; Miss Rachel Sims, Durham, N. C.; Mrs R C Williams, Mooresburg, Tenn.; Mrs Leslie B Clark, Oallas, Texas; Mrs E S Peters, Calvert, Texas; Miss Mamie Thomas, Thomasville, N. C.; Miss Kate Urquhart, Blythe, Ga.; Mrs Or Buffalo, Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs Susan A Hurl, Jackson, Tenn.; Mrs J E Gilmer, Mrs Or Ector, Mrs Oof Slight, Winston, N. C.; Miss A C Tracy, Mrs L E Nissen, Miss Maud Butner, Mrs F C Meinung, Salem, N. C.

Married.

MATHESON—BUSICK.—In the Presbyterian Church of Madison, N. C., February 28, R. CLARENCE MATHESON, M. D., to Miss ESSIE BUSICK.

Died.

GARRITY.—In Corsicana, Tex., Feb. 17, 1893, of pneumonia, Mrs. JAMES GARRITY (EMMA MOORE), aged about 40 years.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1. Name of Pupil, 2. Date of Birth, 3. Name of Parent or Guardian, 4. Residence. We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

—I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!

1884.

- 5660 MARY ANNIE FLAKE, _____
F. B. Flake, Beverly, N. C.
5661 LILLIE MAY DOSS, _____
Miss Clara Burnham, Fort Worth, Tex.
5662 SALLIE E. JONES, _____
Dr. W. Q. Jones, High Point, N. C.

1885.

- 5663 LENA MAY RICH, _____
C. W. Rich, Mocksville, N. C.
5664 ETTA A. TATE, _____
Armstrong Tate, Graham, N. C.
5665 LENA HALL, _____
W. A. Hall, Morton's Store, N. C.
5666 JEANNIE MCKAY, _____
D. J. McKay, Lone Home, N. C.
5667 ANNIE MCKINNON, _____
D. P. McKinnon, Plain View, N. C.
5668 FANNY HOLT, _____
L. B. Holt, Graham, N. C.
5669 MARGIE C. TILBERRY, _____
L. F. Tilbery, Newbern, N. C.
5670 SALLIE A. BLUE, _____
E. McN Blue, Union Church, N. C.
5671 LULA TURNER, _____
Or. H. Turner, Cameroh, N. C.
5672 FLORENCE ELIZABETH CHAFFIN, _____
Wm. A. Chaffin, Germantown, N. C.
5673 EUGENIA H. BITTING, _____
John M. Bitting, Manor, Tex.
5674 BETTIE McLAURIN, _____
John B. McLaurin, Clio, S. C.
5675 ALICE P. OLLINGER, _____
5676 KATIE F. OLLINGER, _____
Joseph Ollinger, Milton, Fla.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of ——— Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal most directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.
The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1892.
REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

Nov. '92-1f,

DAVIS SCHOOL

A MILITARY COLLEGE

Degrees in
CIVIL ENGINEERING,
SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes, there is a

Complete Preparatory Department.

Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars, address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.

Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.
Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,
Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
October, 1892.

Horner Military School,

OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY

Principals.

June 1892-1y

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxydized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON.

JEWELERS,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,

SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-1y.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country

All the leading novelties, such as: Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of Ladies Corsets and Underwear, which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS, has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111. Phone 111.
Jan, 1892.

Alumnae Badge Pins.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNAE BADGE PINS, and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00. Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

SUSSMANN'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS 3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF 1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
SKETCHING STOOL 1.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N.Y.

A COMPLETE SKETCHING OUTFIT FOR $7.25

FOUNDED 1802.

Salem Female Academy.

SALEM, N. C

EVERY Family Student School Library

Every Person who Reads or Writes SHOULD OWN THE NEW WEBSTER

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

A NEW BOOK FROM COVER TO COVER, Successor of the "UNABRIDGED," Fully Abreast of the Times.

Ten years spent in revising, 100 editors employed, over $300,000 expended.

Sold by all Booksellers.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Publishers, Springfield, Mass., U. S. A.

Do not buy reprints of obsolete editions. Send for free pamphlet containing specimen pages, testimonials, and full particulars.

THE BEAUTIFUL

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION, D. G. EDWARDS, G. F. & T. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers from Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

The Cotton Belt Route.

Has handled more students to and from Arkansas and Texas than all other Southwestern lines combined; and its continued popularity with the principal Southeastern schools is the highest guarantee of the excellence of its service and the truthfulness of its representations.

THE ONLY LINE receiving and delivering passengers at Memphis without a long and disagreeable omnibus transfer across the city.

THE ONLY LINE with through sleeping car service between MEMPHIS and the SOUTHWEST.

THE ONLY LINE with through car service between Memphis and points in Central Texas.

W. G. ADAMS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Nashville, Tenn.
S. G. WARNER, S. E. Pass. Agt., Memphis, Tenn.
H. H. SUTTON, Trav. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. H. WINFIELD, Gen. Pass. Agt., Tyler, Texas.
E. W. LABEAUME, G. P. & T. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.
June 1892—1y

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY,
Gen. Sup't.
Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Pass. Ag't
Fayetteville, N. C.

Iron Mountain Route.

Great through line from Arkansas, Texas and the Southwest to Salem and North Carolina.

Write to the undersigned if you contemplate attending Salem Female College for rates, routes and time-tables.

H. C. TOWNSEND,

Gen'l Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

June 1892—1y

Norfolk & Western R'y

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville.

By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892—1y

The short line to New Orleans, Memphis and points in the Southeast.

Take the "St. Louis Limited," 12 hours saved, between Fort Worth, Dallas and St. Louis and the East.

The Direct Line to all points in Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona, Oregon and California.

Through Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars between Dallas, Fort Worth, and St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco.

For rates, tickets and all information apply to, or address any of the ticket agents or

GASTON MESLIER,
Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
Dallas, Texas.

June 1892—1y

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

Gray Block.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boylston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth. 337 pages. Price $1.00. By mail, $1.10.

It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English.

Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: "It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of all that is necessary in grammar."

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 50 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth, 325 pages, $1.75. By mail, $1.80. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.40.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth, 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the excellent discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford, pp. vi., 255. 12mo, cloth, 84 cents.

"Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Herald.

"Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the latter use."—Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hamden-Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature—Classical Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cowper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverly, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Ruins Choate—Thackeray's Four Gorges and English Humorists, Parts I, and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Egghard's Charlemagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides Tales from Odyssey etc., will be published.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

PUBLISHERS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '93-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XV.

SALEM, N. C., APRIL, 1893.

NUMBER 135.

1802—1893.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register or present year will exceed 350. Special features:— the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Mrs. Kilbuck's Visit.

THE month of March was the occasion of a visit from Mrs. John Kilbuck, the well-known Alaska missionary, who, with her husband, is doing a most remarkable and successful work among the natives of that distant land. Her husband is a full-blooded Indian, descendant of a noble line of chiefs who, generations back, were converted to Christianity. He is a highly cultivated man, having taken a full course at the military school of Nazareth, Penna., and later at the College and Theological Seminary at Bethlehem, Penna. Mrs. Kilbuck is the daughter of a Moravian minister, and while teaching school in Kansas received a wonderful call from God to enter this field just opening in Alaska. Mr. and Mrs. Kilbuck were married and started on their long journey of 6000 miles. In her lecture before the large audience in the Moravian church last month Mrs. Kilbuck told how seven years ago they started on the long journey from San Francisco, and soon found that the captain of their little vessel knew nothing of the navigation of the open sea, but that among the crew was found one who had in better days sailed many a craft across the ocean. He seemed raised up as by a miracle to pilot them over the 3000 miles of water and bring them safely to their destination. After the vessel had returned to the United States, in the hands of the same man who had started with them the vessel was wrecked and all on board perished. She described with simple language, but with an earnestness that held the audience for two hours without a sign of weariness, how the little party found itself on the Kuskokwim river's bank without a shelter, without a living being in sight save the insects that swarmed about them and tormented them. So realistic was her account that we imagined we saw the little vessel sail away and grow smaller and smaller in the distance, until it finally disappeared in the line where sea and sky met, and the last link between home and them was broken. Then they turned toward the new home. The first night a violent storm arose, and as the ground is frozen solid only a few inches below the surface, the tent pins were insecure, and the male members of the party were forced to go outside and hold down the tent. A few days later an accident cost the life of the carpenter in the party, and this sad and sore dispensation left the two remaining young men to labor and toil with unskilled hands to erect a shelter for them for the rapidly approaching winter. With noble efforts they toiled and ere long a house was built that sheltered them very comfortably, even though the nights were 20 hours long and the thermometer fell to 60° below zero.

That portion of the lecture which related to the characteristics of the land and of the people was of an extraordinarily instructive character. Rev. Mr. Rominger's lecture some years ago was listened to with great interest. But that merely took us northward a short distance comparatively speaking. Mrs. Kilbuck introduced us to a section 2000 miles distant from this point, and placed us in the midst of a new and strange land. She described the flowers ferns and mosses; the fruits and berries; the days ranging in length from 4 to 20 hours; the insects, animals, birds and fish; the natives, dirty and miserable, who never wash from the day they are born until the day they die, filthy and disease stricken, stupid and degraded, huddled together in small houses dug into the ground, 20 to 30 living in a hovel not 20 feet square, and several dogs added to the company. These scenes were all portrayed by the speaker, who contrasted the glories of the scenes in nature witnessed in many ways with the degradation which they had come to relieve. How difficult was the task! Not a word of English could the natives speak and not a word of the Esquimaux tongue was known to the missionaries. Curiosity soon brought the natives to see the first white woman that ever visited that section. Years were spent in gradually winning the confidence of the natives, gathering a small vocabulary of words and inculcating the first lessons of civilization. When one happy Easter season a number asked to be told more of the story of the Cross, and later gave their hearts to Jesus, the door was opened and the great work really commenced. Years have passed since then; many have become christianized and civilized; a flourishing school has been organized; homes are springing up around the Mission; other settlements of natives are calling for laborers, and to every hearer on the evenings of the lectures it seemed evident that the harvest was great but the laborers few. It must not be supposed, however, that the difficulties and dangers have disappeared. On the contrary the most thrilling dangers attend the work. The medicine men among the natives see their calling leaving them, and they incite to violence. More than once bands of fierce savages have attempted the lives of these heroic missionaries. And journeys must be undertaken, hundreds of miles in extent. On one occasion Mr. Kilbuck wandered 70 days among the mountains, threatened with starvation and freezing, wolves, avalanches and storms. But, by the mercy of God, he was saved, though so reduced by suffering that his own children failed to recognize him as he fell forward, weak and helpless, within the door. Our space is too limited to tell how in a thousand ways these noble Christians are laboring and toiling, but when history records the story of Alaska, or when the books of Heaven are opened, it will be shown that these belong to the great ones of the earth.

Mrs. Kilbuck started west soon after leaving Salem, to spend a short time in Kansas with her father, and then, with a small band of new workers, she will return to her husband and to the people who have learned to value and love her.

The Salem congregation and friends made a donation of a little more than $500 to the work, which gift was spontaneous and free, a result of the interest and enthusiasm elicited by Mrs. Kilbuck's earnestness and power.

One pleasing feature of the visit is that little Katie, the seven year old daughter of Mrs. Kilbuck, will remain in Salem. It is, of course, impossible to offer any advantages such as may be found in the States, in this wild country. Hence, when Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL offered to receive this bright little girl into their own family, as their own child, to grow up with their own little ones of near the same age, Mrs. Kilbuck accepted the offer, sore as was the separation from her sweet and beloved child. Hence Salem, and we might add the ACADEMY, has a link connecting it with distant Alaska. Little Katie has become quite a favorite among us, and it is a strange thing to hear her speak the peculiar Esquimaux tongue with as much or even more fluency than she does the English.

The prayers of many hearts follow the noble missionary as she travels onward to her trying but at the same time glorious work.

Easter.

THE Easter season has come and gone since the last number of the ACADEMY was printed, and every influence seemed to combine to make the week a happy and enjoyable one. Few pupils left school, since recitations were suspended only a very few days. The services during the earlier part of the week were in the evening, though from Maundy-Thursday till Easter Sunday the exact hour of the events of the betrayal, trial and crucifixion was observed in as far as possible. The early morning service on Sunday was, of course, the occasion which always presents the unique features. There is much anxiety the day before in regard to the weather. This year every one was satisfied, since a clear, fresh, mild atmosphere characterized the morning. The immense concourse of people was in charge of a number of the citizens, under the direction of the Mayor of Salem and the chief sexton of the church. Their duty was a double one, to care for the comfort of the well-disposed, and also to promptly take care of any who threatened to mar the enjoyment of the worshippers. Fortunately the latter were absent, and in the entire company of 6000 or more, every one seemed to be a worshipper. While the moon still retained power over the departing night, and before the tinge of red was seen in the east, the throng had assembled around the door of the sanctuary, where for 90 years and more a similar company had gathered, and the first portion of the litany was prayed. The procession then moved up to the beautiful Cedar Avenue, and thence into the "God's Acre," where, amid the graves of loved ones the remaining portion of the Easter morning service was prayed by Bishop RONDTHALER.

During this time the sun rose, and it never rose on a more glorious Sabbath day than this proved to be. The great throng of people, consisting of citizens of citizens of Salem, Winston and many neighboring towns, the Sunday School, pupils of the ACADEMY, cadets from Davis School, and others, seemed loath to leave the sacred spot. Many remained and admired the flowers on the graves.

At eleven o'clock the Easter sermon was delivered and in the evening the services of the week closed.

Saturday afternoon the pupils of the roth room took great interest in examining their daintily constructed nests in the Park and found that the "Rabbit" had not passed them by, but that a rich store of beautifully colored eggs awaited each one.

Here and There.

THE ACADEMY recently sent out some 15 or 20 sheets of paper to the representatives of the various departments, to the different room companies and to the literary societies; on the sheet was a request to furnish our paper with some items regarding the life and work of the same. No reply was received from any of the room companies, literary societies, studio, vocal or instrumental music departments, elocution or industrial department; from this it will appear that the gathering of information from the various portions of the school is not so easy a matter as might be supposed.

A number of individuals did respond, however, and we give as a result the following facts. From the Down Stairs Teachers' Room the following communication was received: "One morning in December, we Down Stairs teachers were surprised to find a portion of the ceiling of our room upon the floor instead of the regulation position overhead. This compelled us to move into Miss RONDTHALER'S French room, while the necessary repairs were being made. We were more than repaid for our stay in our restricted quarters when we were again invited back to our renovated room. We found a neat coal stove, a new ceiling freshly painted, walls kalsomined and floor stained, for all of which we are greatly indebted to Mr. CLEWELL. We wish also to return thanks to the ladies who presented the screen, pictures and various ornamental and useful additions, which combine to make our school home 'a joy forever.'"

MISS LEHMAN, writing for the Phonographic department, says: "The members of the advanced class in Phonography are looking forward to a very successful graduation in the next weeks. Good work is being done by all the Shorthand pupils, and the interest in the study is unabated. Most of them mean business and know what they are working for. . . . We noticed in a recent Twin City Daily that a position in Asheville, N. C., with a $1,000 salary, was offered to Miss MAMIE DWIRE, one of our short hand graduates of several years ago. She has heretofore been employed as stenographer at Messrs. P. H. Hanes & Co., Winston. . . . Miss GERTRUDE JENKINS spent several of the Easter holidays in Salem at her home. She is doing excellent work, and wherever we hear of our pupils we have reason to be proud of their success.

MISS LOU SHAFFNER says of the same Department: "More work is being done in the Book-keeping room this year than usual. The Manual has for some time been laid aside by several of the pupils, and Practical Sets substituted. . . . The new checks on our Academy National Bank are very pretty and were received with much pleasure. . . . We have at present 3 stores well stocked with merchandise of all kinds, the merchants are pleasant and obliging, always ready to attend to customers, and give us unlimited credit. Give us a call and encourage home enterprise."

MISS SALLIE SHAFFNER hands us the following from the Junior class: "The Juniors are busy pressing plants and flowers for their beautiful new Herbariums. The work is giving them much enjoyment, and it is pleasant to see the eagerness with which they engage in it, and the success which they have. . . . Numerous boxes of trailing Arbutus have been received from the mountains, and the fragrant little blossoms have been freely distributed. We are indebted to KATE URQUHART for a box of Gelsemium Sempervirens, (Yellow Jessamine.) . . . This year LIZZIE MAJETTE and BESSIE BROOKE were the first to begin their Hebariums."

Miss FOGLE writes: "I am still collecting cancelled stamps and would be happy to receive envelopes and stamps from any friends who would take the trouble to send them. In case of stamps on packages please leave the paper underneath the stamp. Columbian stamps are especially desired. . . . The day school department will receive merit cards about the middle of April."

The Secretary of the "Four Leaf Clover" writes: "We wish to acknowledge the receipt of a box of clothing for the Circle, sent by one of the former members of the King's Daughters, AGNES COLEMAN. With the aid of our leader, Miss FOGLE, we know they will be judiciously distributed."

Miss RONDTHALER, Secretary of the Alumnae Association, writes: "The desire to make the approaching meeting a success in every detail seems to be becoming more and more widespread; we are constantly receiving suggestions as to the pleasantest program possible, and although naturally all these ideas cannot be made use of, still it is very refreshing to see the evidences of interest. There is the certainty of at least one Class Reunion, that of the Class of '88, and we hear growing reports of movements being made by the Class of '85. These class-meetings, after years of separation, are such very enjoyable occasions that we hope every effort in that line will be fostered. . . . The executive Board has been investigating also the accommodations likely to be secured for guests during Commencement Week, in view of this year's limited hotel accommodations, and we think that the visitors will have no difficulty in securing comfortable lodgings if they will notify the Principal of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY in due season of their expected attendance."

Miss SALLIE SHAFFNER kindly furnishes us with the following Alumnae items: "KATE URQUHART is teaching school at Blythe, Ga., not far from Augusta. . . . It may be of interest to the pupils of thirty years ago to hear that HANNAH MCCALL, of Richmond Co., N. C., now Mrs. Ragland, is living in Denver, Col. Her family consists of five members, herself, husband and three children. . . . MARY ELLISON, "Mother Ellison" as she was familiarly called, lives in Washington, N. C., her old home. She is a widow, her husband, Dr. McDonald, having died two years ago. Mrs. McDonald anticipates visiting Salem next August. . . . Mrs. Polhill (MAGGIE PICKETT), (1861), of Hawkinsville, Ga., has also been heard from. She is living in her old home, the mother of six sons and two daughters. Her oldest daughter, Mrs. John Woodward, lives in an adjoining county. Her youngest son is ten years old. She also has had sorrow, her husband having died last August from paralysis."

—The past weeks have been weeks of unusual activity in Recitals. These occasions bring out many of the pupils and do the performers good, as well as give pleasure to the audience. The first occasion was under the direction of Miss TRACY and was as follows:

- Chorus. After the Rain.....Pinsuti.
- Vocal Solo. Thou'rt like unto a Flower.
Miss AMMIE SMITH. Rubenstein.
- Piano Solo. Danse des Fees.....Zeise.
Miss ANNIE MOORE.
- Recitation. Lasca.....Desprez.
Miss ETHEL ROBERTS.
- Vocal Solo. My Marguerite.....Old French Song.
Miss ANNIE DAVIS.
- Violin Quartette. Gavotte.....Scotsen Clark.
1st Violin—Miss GOSLING.
2nd Violin—Miss HEISLER.
3rd Violin—Miss E. NICHOLSON.
4th Violin—Mr. J. BUTNER.
- Vocal Solo. Answers.....Robyn.
Miss BIRDIE FOLLIN.
- Piano Solo. The Brook Song.....Heller.
Miss KATIE HANES.
- Vocal Duet. Good Night.....Geibel.
Misses NELLIE SCALES and BLANCHE HARRIS.

The next was under Miss HAGAN's direction, as follows:

- Piano Duet. Impromptu Polka.....Schulhoff.
Misses CHEATHAM and H. YEREX.
- Piano Solo. Invitation a la Valse.....Weber.
Miss BESSIE BROOKE.
- Vocal Solo. } a. Greeting.
} b. The First Violet,Mendelssohn
Miss LUDA MORRISON.
- Piano Trio. Musical Box.....Leibich.
Misses C. LEINBACH, A. FOGLE, I. MONTAGUE.
- Recitation. The Women of Mumbles Head.
Miss NELLIE SCALES.
- Piano Duet. Les Coursiers.....Gobbaerts.
Misses E. HOFFMAN and CORNELIA LEINBACH.
- Violin Solo. Angel's Dream.....B. Lagye.
Miss LILLIAN GOSLING.
- Piano Solo. The Water Sprite.....Lange.
Miss IDA MILLER.
- Vocal Solo. Sing, Smile, Slumber....Gounod.
Miss G. ROBBINS.
- Piano Duet. Military Galop.....Labitsky.
Misses M. TYLER and C. WELFARE.

The third was a programme complimentary to the Y. M. C. A., assembled in Convention at Winston, N. C.:

- Chorus. After the Rain.....Pinsuti
- Recitation. Jane Conquest.
Miss DAISY THOMPSON.
- Vocal Solo. } Entreaty.....Bohm.
} The Vow.....Meyer-Helmund.
Miss CLAUDIA PALMER.
- Piano Solo. Danse des Fees.....Zeise.
Miss ANNIE MOORE.
- Recitation. Genevra.
Miss ANNIE CARRIER.
- Vocal Duet. From Flower to Flower.....Kolling.
Misses L. CRUTCHFIELD and H. READ.
- Piano Solo. Gouttes d'Eau.....Ascher.
Miss LILLIAN GOSLING.
- Vocal Solo. Slumber Song.....Mendelssohn.
Miss GERTRUDE ROBBINS.
- Recitation. Foolish Little Maiden.
Miss ADELAIDE SCRIBER.
- Piano Solo. The Nun and the Fountain.
Sherwood.
Miss LILLIAN CRUTCHFIELD.
- Vocal Solo. The Kissing Gate.....Cowen.
Miss ANTOINETTE F. TRACY.

Misses A. and L. VAN VLECK'S recital was the fourth:

- Piano Solo. Gaite de Cœur. Valse...S. Smith.
Miss ADDIE NIMOCKS.
- Piano Solo. Evening on the Lake.....Eddy.
Miss DAISIE SCHOOLFIELD.
- Piano Solo. Meditation in the Woods.....Lange.
Miss DOVIE CHEDESTER.
- Guitar. Cuban Fangango.
- Misses MATTIE ELLIOTTE and ETHEL BURTON.
- Piano Solo. March Violets.....Hummel.
Miss CARRIE ROLLINS.
- Vocal Solo. Hush, my little one....Bevignani.
Miss HARRIETTE CROSS.
- Piano Solo. Cujus Animam.....W. Kuhe.
Miss FLORENCE GLENN.
- Recitation. Virginius.....Macaulay.
Miss JENNIE RICHARDSON.
- Piano Solo. In the Flowery Alps.....Lange.
Miss LOLA JACKINS.
- Piano Solo. Oberon.....S. Smith.
Miss JENNIE CROUCH.

Miss VEST directed the last:

- Piano Duet. Wedding March.....Mendelssohn.
Misses GEORGIA RIGHTS and MARY MOORE.
- Piano Solo. The Cuckoo.....Wallis.
Miss AGNES SIEWERS.
- Recitation. A Naughty Little Girl.
Miss FANNIE CONRAD.
- Piano Duet. Le Beau Danube Bleu.....Strauss.
Misses ADDIE BROWN and CLARA VANCE.
- Piano Solo. Spinning Song.....Eltmanreich.
Miss FANNIE CONRAD.
- Recitation. Artie's Amer.
Miss LOTTIE THORNTON.
- Piano Duet. Le Petit Carnaval.....Streabbog.
Misses BESSIE WATKINS and MARY CLINARD.
- Piano Solo. Souvenir de Bal.....Ludovic.
Miss CARRIE BAHNSON.
- Piano Trio. Polonaise. Op. 100.....Streabbog.
Misses ALICE WATSON, CLEMMIE TISE and LILLIE BROWN.
- Recitation. Dot's Christmas.
Miss ADDIE BROWN.
- Piano Duet. Zampa.....Herold.
Misses CARO BUXTON and BERTHA SHELTON.
- Piano Solo. La Fontaine.....Bohm.
Miss CARRIE CRUTCHFIELD.
- Recitation. Ruthie's Faith.
Miss ETHEL FOLLEN.
- Piano Duet. Les Coursiers.....Gobbaerts.
Misses MAY BARBER and EVA QUINCY.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., APRIL, 1893.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—During the month of May the ACADEMY Chapel will be closed, as far as relates to public occasions. Friends will confer a favor if they will not ask for the use of the Chapel for any form of entertainment during May.

—Patrons who desire us to attend to the purchase of tickets will please send the money in ample time, so as to avoid the difficulties attending the close of school and its many demands on our time. The school cannot advance money for this purpose.

—At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Alumnæ Association, the matter of providing places for visitors was taken up, and it was decided, if possible, to secure places in private families for those who desired such accommodation. It must be understood, however, that if such places can be secured the rate of board cannot be much if any less than at the hotel, since the outlay for a private family to accommodate strangers for so short a time is considerable. If our friends, therefore, send us a line giving notice of their intended visit we will serve them in as far as is possible.

—We welcome The Wachovia Moravian, published by the Moravian Church in the Southern States. Its object is to increase fellowship among the churches of this denomination, and to promote Christian work in general. It is a neatly printed, well edited, newsy little journal, and takes note of the current events of ACADEMY life. We welcome our new neighbor and wish it all success.

—The annual reception of the faculty of the Institution by Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL was an interesting occasion in more ways than one. The social converse is always pleasant, and this year was no exception. In addition to the appetizing repast, a tasty souvenir was given to each guest, consisting of a dainty cup and saucer. But to any one who was present it was also a specially noticeable fact that the ACADEMY has an unusually fine company of workers making up its faculty of thirty-five Professors and teachers.

—THE ACADEMY congratulates the Senior Class on the handsome ring chosen for this year's class. The shape is neat, not too heavy nor too light, but "just the thing." Many have declared it to be the best taste yet displayed.

Correspondence.

—We open our communications for this month with a letter from HATTIE FOSTER:

As Easter approaches my thoughts are centered more on the dear old ACADEMY, remembering the beautiful and impressive services we had on Easter morn. I have just returned from Columbus, Ga., where I have been visiting my aunt, Mrs. Redd, who was Miss EUPHROSIA DANIELS, and was at Salem some time in the forties, I think, while Mr. JACOBSON was Principal. We enjoyed talking together about the ACADEMY so much. When I showed her a picture of the buildings and grounds she could scarcely believe it was the same place.

ROBBIE KYLE was visiting in Columbus at the time I was there. We exchanged several visits which were exceedingly pleasant to me as I had not seen any one from Salem since I left there. Miss MARY PFOHL lived only a few doors from the place I was visiting. When I returned her call, and saw the picture of her class, and of Dr. RONDTHALER on her mantel, and then after having a long chat about Salem, I felt as if I were almost back there again. I suppose you heard of the sad death of RUTH CUNNINGHAM's father.

With much love for Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL, Dr. RONDTHALER and the teachers I am,
Yours sincerely,

MATTIE L. FOSTER.

Americus, Ga.

—Our next was written to Miss VOGLER by Mrs. Fain, and contains interesting items from a number of dear old friends:

Many thanks for the information in your interesting letter about sister JANE's death. We all appreciated and enjoyed Bishop RONDTHALER's memorabilia very much indeed. It wafled me back in imagination to the days of my childhood spent in Salem so long ago.

No doubt some of you wonder why we were sent so far away from home, before we had railroads, etc., I will try and explain as briefly as I can. Our father, Col. Wm. Moore, was a great admirer of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, and in his estimation it had no superior. His eldest daughter, (Sister JANE's own sister) finished her education there several years previous. I do not remember exactly what year she was there, but I think about 1838 to '41. A few years after her return from Salem, sister LIZZIE was married to Mr. W. D. Fain, of Dandridge, Tenn., my husband's oldest brother. Our parents then resided about 18 miles east of Dandridge. After her marriage our parents moved from Jefferson Co., to Ray Co., Mo., in 1845. In 1848 sister JANE and myself accompanied our father to East Tennessee, to visit our friends, where he left us in the Fall, and gave his consent for our brother-in-law to take us to Salem to school, and I think we entered the ACADEMY in October, 1848. I remember it was just as Mr. BLECK who was Principal was making arrangements to leave for the North, which he did in a short time, and Rev. E. A. DE SCHWEINITZ took charge of the school, and was Principal as long as I was there.

I wonder if the Miss A. L. FRIES with whom I am corresponding is a grand-daughter of our kind Principal. I remember he had three daughters, ADDIE, AGGIE, and I have forgotten the names of the youngest. It is with the fondest recollections I think of dear Mr. and Mrs. DE SCHWEINITZ, their untiring watchfulness and kindness to my invalid sister and myself, and when God called her home to the bright mansions of glory, they took me to their home, and kept me several weeks till my parents could send for me; such attention and kindness can never be effaced from memory.

And how I love to think of dear Bishop BAHNSON who was our pastor; his visits to the sick-room (where I watched day by day, the gradual decline of my sweet sister,) are so sacred and hallowed to my memory. I did want to shake hands with his son Dr. BAHNSON, while I was in Salem, but an opportunity never presented itself. I wanted to tell him how much I revered and loved his father, my sister's spiritual adviser. Will you tell him this for me.

MARIA and her youngest sister FLORA came up to visit us soon after OLLIE's return, and are spending the winter here. MINNIE and her husband left us in January for Nashville, where court will be in session until March. Gen. Pickle is away from her the greater portion of the year. LILA and Dr. Gallion are housekeeping in town here, so I see them every few days. She has such a sweet, bright little boy; he will be three years old next Monday. KITTIE and OLLIE are spending the winter at home.

KITTIE did have her heart set on going to Cincinnati in January to take art lessons, but Dr. Gallion advised her to abandon the idea for this winter.

Our oldest son and his family reside about two miles from us across the river. We have three beautiful boys; our second son George is a Civil Engineer, and is now engaged in Springfield, O. Our youngest son is practicing medicine at Lexington, Mo. I have one sister married and living in Lexington, (MOLLIE RANKIN) she and sister MATTIE MOORE went to school at Salem a few years after the war closed.

MATTIE BRISCOE whom you inquired about lives at Cleveland, East Tenn. She married a gentleman named Lea. How is Miss JANE WELFARE? My best wishes and love to her. KITTIE received THE ACADEMY and sends thanks to Miss LEHMAN. We are glad to know she has recovered from pneumonia. The girls wish to be kindly remembered to Misses L. and S. SHAFFNER, VAN VLECK and others.

Your sincere friend,

E. R. FAIN.

Dandridge, E. Tenn.

Two Miles Per Day.

The afternoon of Easter Monday was chosen as the time to distribute the box of French candy to those who had faithfully walked the two miles per day during the six weeks. The school was called to the chapel and Mr. CLEWELL first distributed the Golden Fours to those who had received less than three marks during the month just closed. He then spoke of the evident benefit to the school in the regular, systematic exercise of the past month or more, and proceeded to read the names of faithful walkers. They are as follows:

Misses Creight, Greer, Johns, McCauley, McKeown, Neely, H. Read, Perrow, Nimocks, M. B. Williams, Chaffin, I. Cordill, V. Davis, C. Dicks, Beulah Brooks, Dawson, Hancock, A. Moore, Roberts, A. Thomson, Wellborn, Thorp, J. Crouch, F. Cummings, Harris, Lineberry, McCanless, Pope, P. Read, Weaver, Crouse, Glenn, Whitner, Reynolds, Elliotte, Schoolfield, N. Cummings, Borum, Kellett, Moscs, Gosling, Richardson, Scrtle, Nicholson, J. Anderson, Bonner, Wright, Harper, Dixon, Shell, M. Morton, A. Morton, A. Cordill, J. Peterkin, Pass, Winston, Ollinger, Jones, Bessie Broock, K. Brooke, J. Majette, L. Majette, Flake, McKay, Henderson, A. Chaffin, Ennett, D. Thompson, Rollins, Withers, C. Barnes, Lawson, L. Dicks, Tuck, I. Kerner, Stallings, E. Kerner, McArthur, Dunn, B. Foy, L. Chewning, M. Cowles, Gibson, L. Jackins, M. Brown, M. M. Williams, Lena Leslie, M. Johnston, E. Hoffman, C. Lineback, T. Lipscombe, M. Moore, M. Sheppard, A. Johnson, and also Misses TIETZE and SCRIBER. The candy was handed to the young ladies by Mr. Carmichael, of the Daily Sentinel, as the names were read. A proposition was made by Mr. CLEWELL to continue the offer for those who desired to continue the regular walking and many accepted the proposition. As the "sweet" gathering was about to be dismissed Miss PITTMAN stepped forward and in the name of the teachers presented Mr. CLEWELL with a two pound box of candy from the teachers as an acknowledgment of the benefit the walking exercise had had on the health, happiness and good conduct of the school. The kind gift was accepted amid applause on the part of the girls, who did not seem at all jealous because Mr. C.'s box was again as large as their own.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Prof. SCHMOLCK made a business trip West some weeks since.

—Rev. EDWARD S. WOLLE spent several days in Salem.

—A very large limb was broken from the willow in the yard by the sleet.

—Mr. CLEWELL will deliver the address at the close of the East Bend School.

—A handsome five-residence flat is being erected facing the northern end of Cedar Avenue.

—A number of new books have been received, but we are not able to give the list in this number of our paper.

—Too much cannot be said in praise of the spirit that was abroad among the pupils during the Easter season. This contributed much to the enjoyment of all who are connected with the ACADEMY.

—A number of interesting items, especially those relative to the opening of the Museum, will be spoken of next month.

—We regret to learn of the death of ROBBIE KYLE's mother at their home in Alabama. THE ACADEMY extends its sympathy.

—The Catalogue for the year that is just closing is now ready for press and shows a list of more than three hundred and fifty.

—Miss TRACY rendered good service on the Salem church choir during Easter week. The music always plays an important part in the worship of the week.

—The Vogler store building has been raised some 25 inches, so that the pavement will come up to the grade of the street. It is a great improvement for our vicinity.

—Unusually neat and chaste decorations adorned the pulpit in the Moravian church Easter Sunday. The lovely, large, dark-red roses on the stand attracted much attention.

—The arrival of the fresh green leaves of early Spring is a welcome sight after the rigors of the past winter. The Park and the Square, with its smoothly-mown lawn, are very beautiful.

—We are indebted to Mr. Wesley Foltz for a fine small tree of long leaf pine. It has been planted just west of Park Hall, and, we trust, will become an ornament to that section of the grounds.

—Friday and Saturday of Easter Week the offices and parlor of the ACADEMY were closed, and the absence of the large company usually present on these days enabled all to appreciate the solemnity of the Easter occasion.

—We acknowledge the compliment of an invitation to the celebration commemorating the birth of Thomas Jefferson by the Jefferson Literary Society of Davis School, on Thursday night, April 13th. Bishop RONDTHALER was the orator for the evening.

—Professors Butner & Simmons have given the grand old organ in the Home church a thorough overhauling. What precious memories cluster about this instrument, memories touching every chord of human emotion! Long may its melodious tones peal forth the grand chorals of Moravian hymn-worship.

—The Salem Literary Society gave its annual entertainment in the ACADEMY chapel this month. Miss SCRIBER was secured as the elocutionist, and made a great success of the occasion. A handsome sum was realized. The Salem Literary Society has been in existence many years, and has a most judiciously selected library of hundreds of books.

—Saturday evening of Easter Week, Bishop RONDTHALER delivered a very interesting lecture to a number of pupils relative to places and scenes in the Holy Land. He exhibited a number of photographs with the stereopticon, taken while he was in the East, and these views added much to the enjoyment of the hour.

—New curtains and new furniture adorn the halls of the Euterpean and Hesperian Societies. We have had a glimpse into the sacred domain, but the ACADEMY would like a report for publication. If the ACADEMY can secure the interest of one Society in the matter of a report, there will be no trouble in getting a report from the other also, since we notice that one watches each movement of the other with vigilant eye.

—The University Glee Club gave a concert in the ACADEMY Chapel a couple of weeks since, and their efforts were well received by an appreciative audience. The boys were a fine-looking, manly, well-behaved company, and sang well. To put it in the form of a mathematical statement, — given a manly company of University boys to do the singing and a handsome company of ACADEMY girls to form the audience, and the logical conclusion will not be far wrong if an enthusiastic hour is supposed to be the result.

—A fire alarm box has been placed on the north-west corner of Main Hall, and is connected with the electric alarm in the City Hall tower in Winston. It is also connected with an indicator in the Salem engine house and with indicators in the houses of the chief of the Salem Fire Department, Mr. Frank Meinung, and also the home of Mr. Frank Vogler. By means of this alarm box the bell is sounded instantly and the locality indicated at all these places. As is well known to every one the first five minutes at a fire is worth more than an hour later on. These five minutes (or we might say fifteen minutes) are gained by the electric alarm, and when we add, in the ACADEMY, the tank system, the night watch every night (on windy nights two are on duty), together with the usual care exercised in matters of fire, it seems as if the risks of fire were reduced to a minimum.

The practical utility of the electric fire alarm system was demonstrated some days since. Fire was discovered in the roof of the former Zevely Hotel. A neighbor rushed to the ACADEMY's box, No. 52, turned on the alarm and ran back to the threatened danger. The wind was blowing a terrible gale, and had the fire gotten a start it is probable that much property in this end of town would have been sacrificed,—possibly the school-buildings even, since the wind was blowing directly toward the ACADEMY. The party who turned in the alarm held the fire in check with difficulty, and in 3 or 4 minutes the Winston engine was on the scene, and the Salem engine only a little later, and so the danger was happily averted. The Mayor of the town remarked that the fire-alarm boxes paid for themselves on this one occasion, since a difference of ten minutes would have probably cost the town the loss of many homes.

Alumna Scholarship Fund.

Mrs. C. A. Fogle,	$	1 00
Mrs. M. A. Siewers,		1 00
Miss Laura Lemly,		1 00
In memory of Douglas Dicks,		1 00
Miss A. T. Steiner,		1 00
Mrs. F. Stockton,		50
Miss Mary Meinung,		25
Mrs. R. W. Belo,		2 00
Mrs. J. W. Goslen,		5 00
Previously acknowledged,		1080 10
Total,	$	1092 85

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only and embraces, under general date of entrance,— 1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS. ACADEMY.]

*—I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!*

1885.

5677 LALLA EVANS POWER,
Rev. W. C. Power, Columbia, S. C.
5678 NELLIE L. GRIFFISS,
5679 ETHEL GRIFFISS,
John C. Grilliss, Chattanooga, Tenn.

5680 LOUISA CAMPBELL,
Charles A. Campbell, Macon, Ga.
5681 MAUD R. CLISBY,
Mrs. Jos. Clisby, Macon, Ga.
5682 ANNIE C. HANSON,
J. F. Hanson, Macon, Ga.
5683 SALLIE C. HAUSER,
T. C. Hauser, Yadkinville, N. C.
5684 MARY ALICE COOK,
G. W. D. Cook, Atlanta, Ga.
5685 MILLIE GENTRY,
L. M. Gentry,
5686 MARY ADA MILLER,
E. L. Miller, Sparta, S. C.
5687 ANNIE CARROW HILL,
Hon. J. B. Hill, Raleigh, N. C.
5688 LELIA SLOAN,
John F. Sloan, Davidson College, N. C.
5689 SUSAN ELLA CATHCART,
Samuel Cathcart, Wimsboro, S. C.
5690 BLANCHE ARMFIELD,
W. J. Armfield, Jamestown, N. C.
5691 NANNIE A. FLAKE,
F. B. Flake, Beverly, N. C.
5692 MATTIE WALSTON,
Mrs. Walston, Tarboro, N. C.
5693 LUTA C. BEWLEY,
5694 NELLIE C. BEWLEY,
Mrs. C. D. Bewley, Anderson, N. C.
5695 MINNIE M. FAGG,
M. J. Fagg, Asheville, N. C.
5696 DAISY McLAUGHLIN,
Jos. McLaughlin, Charlotte, N. C.
5697 FLORA NESBIT,
A. K. Nesbit, Charlotte, N. C.
5698 ELLA McCOMB,
H. E. McComb, Hickory, N. C.
5699 DELLA C. DAVID,
5700 SARAH MAGGIE OAVID,
J. H. David, Bennettsville, S. C.
5701 MARY R. WEATHERLY,
C. W. Weatherly, Bennettsville, S. C.
5702 DOAKIE WALKER,
R. L. Walker, Graham, N. C.
5703 ELLA THOMAS,
M. L. Thomas, Oxford, N. C.
5704 AGNES M. TOWNSEND,
Richard Townsend, Lumberton, N. C.
5705 FANNY McRAE,
Alexander McRae, Clio, S. C.
5706 ANNIE EARLY,
James Early, Hillsville, Va.
5707 LAURA MAYO,
James M. Mayo, Whitaker's, N. C.
5708 NINA FLOURNOV,
T. H. Morris, Shreveport, La.
5709 MAGGIE NISSEN,
Frank Nissen, Wauhtown, N. C.
5710 FLORENCE M. RICE,
W. A. Rice, Durango, Tex.
5711 MINNIE KILLEBREW,
5712 WILLIE KILLEBREW,
Wm. Killebrew, Marlin, Texas.
5713 MATTIE F. CLARK,
W. F. Clark, Danville, Va.
5714 KATHIE MAY PERRY,
F. K. Perry, Reidsville, N. C.
5715 ANNIE P. UROGHART,
5716 MAGGIE C. UROGHART,
R. F. Urquhart, Allen's, Ga.
5717 JENNIE RAGSDALE,
J. S. Ragsdale, Jamestown, N. C.
5718 VICTORIA SWANN,
Mrs. V. C. Swann, Oandridge, Tenn.
5719 SUE WATSON,
John Watson, Anderson, S. C.
5720 LULA MAY COX,
R. L. Cox, Sedge Garden, S. C.
5721 MARY LEWIS THOMAS,
Dr. R. W. Thomas, Durham, N. C.
5722 JULIETTA A. TALBOT,
Mrs. Mary R. Talbot, Eatonton, Ga.
5723 MINNA HOUSTON,
Dr. George Houston, Mt. Mourne, N. C.
5724 ROSA T. ADAMS,
Mrs. S. J. Adams, Bennettsville, S. C.

Subscriptions Received.

Miss Janie Sherille, Bennettsville, N. C.; Miss Pamela C. Goodwin, Swain, Texas; Dr. Samuel C. Goodman, Tyler, Texas; Miss Mary Lucky, Knoxville, Tenn.; Rev. W. H. Rice, New Dorp, Staten Island, N. Y.; Miss Louise Breitenbacher, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. C. A. Hege, Miss Flora Loti, Mrs. R. W. Belo, Miss Annie McCuiston, Salem, N. C.

Married.

ZADEK—TAYLOR.—At St. James Episcopal church, Texarkana, Tex., on April 12, 1893, Mr. BISMARCK ZADEK to Miss CARRIE TAYLOR. After April 13 the bridal couple will be at home to their friends in Corsicana, Tex.

A FORM FOR REQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a request to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of _____ Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $25 per annum.
 The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.
 REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.
 Nov. '92-1f.

DAVIS SCHOOL

A MILITARY COLLEGE

Degrees in
 CIVIL ENGINEERING,
 SCIENCE AND ART.
 Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes, there is a Complete Preparatory Department.

Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars, address
DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.

Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.
 Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.
 Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
 October, 1892.

Horner Military School,

OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY

Principals.

June 1892-1y

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON.

JEWELERS,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,

Salem Female Academy,

SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-1y.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country

All the leading novelties, such as: Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,

has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111.

Phone 111.

Jan. 1892.

Alumnae Badge Pins.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNAE BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $5.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

ASUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N. Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT A COMPLETE

DR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS _____ 3.25
 SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF _____ 1.75
 SKETCHING UMBRELLA _____ 1.75
 SKETCHING STOOL _____ .50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

FOUNDED 1802.

Salem Female Academy.

SALEM, N. C

EVERY Family Student School Library

Every Person who Reads or Writes SHOULD OWN

THE NEW WEBSTER

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

A NEW BOOK FROM COVER TO COVER, Successor of the "UNABRIDGED," Fully Abreast of the Times.

Ten years spent in revising, 100 editors employed, over $300,000 expended.

Sold by all Booksellers.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Publishers, Springfield, Mass., U. S. A.

Do not buy reprints of obsolete editions. Send for free pamphlet containing specimen pages, testimonials, and full particulars.

THE BEAUTIFUL

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information, call at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE, READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through Coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga. H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

The Cotton Belt Route.

Has handled more students to and from Arkansas and Texas than all other Southwestern lines combined; and its continued popularity with the principal Southeastern schools is the highest guarantee of the excellence of its service and the truthfulness of its representations.

THE ONLY LINE receiving and delivering passengers at Memphis without a long and disagreeable omnibus transfer across the city.

THE ONLY LINE with through sleeping car service between Memphis and the Southwest.

THE ONLY LINE with through car service between Memphis and points in Central Texas.

W. G. ADAMS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Nashville, Tenn. S. G. WARNER, S. E. Pass. Agt., Memphis, Tenn. H. SUTTON, Trav. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn. W. H. WINFIELD, Gen. Pass. Agt., Tyler, Texas. E. W. LaBEAUME, G. P. & T. Agt., St. Louis, Mo. June 1892—1y

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't. Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Ag't. Fayetteville, N. C.

Iron Mountain Route.

Great through line from Arkansas, Texas and the Southwest to Salem and North Carolina.

Write to the undersigned if you contemplate attending Salem Female College for rates, routes and time-tables.

H. C. TOWNSEND, Gen'l Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

June 1892—1y

Norfolk & Western R'y

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville.

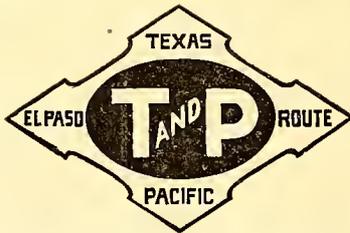

By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address W. B. BEVILL, Gen. Pass. Agent, ROANOKE, VA. ALLEN HULL, Trav. Pass. Agt.

June 1892—1y

The short line to New Orleans, Memphis and points in the Southeast.

Take the "St. Louis Limited," 12 hours saved, between Fort Worth, Dallas and St. Louis and the East.

The Direct Line to all points in Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona, Oregon and California.

Through Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars between Dallas, Fort Worth, and St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco.

For rates, tickets and all information apply to, or address any of the ticket agents or

GASTON MESLIER, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt., Dallas, Texas. June 1892—1y

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

Gray Block.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boylston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth. 337 pages. Price $1.00. By mail, $1.10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English. Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: "It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading seraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of all that is necessary in grammar."

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 80 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth, 325 pages, $1.75. By mail, $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.46.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth. 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the excellent discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford pp. vi., 255. 1st mo, cloth, 84 cents. "Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Herald.

"Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the latter use."—Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hampden—Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature, Classical Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cowper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverly, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Rufus Choate—Thackeray's Four Gospels and English Humorists, Parts I. and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Eginhard's Charlemagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odyssey etc., will be published.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

PUBLISHERS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '93-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XV.

SALEM, N. C., MAY, 1893.

NUMBER 136.

1802—1893.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register or present year will exceed 350. Special features:— the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Eloquence, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy.

BY MISS ADELAIDE L. FRIES.

[The following sketch which we begin in the present number, is the result of a great deal of tedious and patient work and research on the part of the writer. There are many facts connected with the more remote history of the school that have passed away forever, and sad it is to relate the fact. There are many other facts which dwell only in the memory of the older citizens of our place. With the call of the Master to these pilgrims to enter a new and better home the facts, of which they alone are aware, would also disappear. The writer has visited a number of these former laborers within the Institution and has gleaned facts which have probably never before appeared in print. With the beginning of our paper, THE ACADEMY, some fifteen years ago, the record has been more faithfully kept and current history recorded for our own use and for coming generations. But as THE ACADEMY publishes this article from month to month we feel that it will afford much pleasure to our readers; we feel grateful to our promising young Alumna for her earnest efforts in this line, and we know all our readers will welcome the sketches as they appear from month to month. It is the intention to eventually reproduce the articles in pamphlet form.—ED. OF THE ACADEMY.]

A LITTLE thrill of excitement passes over the knot of boys on the sidewalk, and the sage passer-by looks with half a smile across to the opposite corner, around which a company of girls is coming. Two by two they walk in orderly procession, but the laughing faces show very plainly that the formal arrangement has no depressing effect. Soon another company appears, and yet another, until a stranger would fain pause and wonder whence they came; or, if his curiosity were of a livelier sort, he would move forward a few steps until the ACADEMY buildings were full in sight, and even then, perchance, find the great four-story brick edifice, with its Doric portico, as impenetrable as the Sphinx. But no Sphinx is the great building to the thousands who have dwelt within her bounds, but a loving mother, whose very name causes a flood of memories to sweep over the heart, bringing to light the hopes and joys of many a half-forgotten year. What tales those walls could tell! and what a famous collection of autographs some one might make by removing bit by bit the layers of paint and whitewash which successive years have laid upon the interior,—for no chemist has yet been able to explain the strange affinity between a freshly prepared wall and the badly sharpened end of a pencil stump. But since the walls are dumb and the autographs concealed we must needs turn to the records of those times and to the memories of those who saw the days of long ago.

The Unitas Fratrum,—for this is the original and official name of the Church that has been commonly called "Moravian" since the time of its renewal, A. D. 1722, by men from the province of Moravia,—the Unitas Fratrum ever laid special stress upon its schools; so, in 1500, only forty-three years after its organization, we find a school in each of its four hundred parishes, in addition to several higher institutions of learning, which were attended by many young people not belonging to the Unity and by not a few nobles; and by 1600 the schools of the Unity held the first place in Bohemia. In 1620 when the Roman Catholics had gained complete control in Moravia and Bohemia, the schools were forcibly closed or given into the hands of the Jesuits, but John Amos Comenius, himself the child of wealthy Brethren and educated in the Unity's schools, went as an exile from his native land, and in western Europe acquired a fame as an educator that has come down the centuries until the recent three-hundredth anniversary of his birth received a world-wide celebration. With the renewal of the Church the Unitas Fratrum once more took its place among the educational agents of Europe and, later, of America as well.

Many of the Moravian boarding schools now in existence were established for the sake of the missionaries, who leaving their native land to labor in distant countries could place their children in these Church homes, feeling assured that their dear ones would receive every attention and be cared for physically, mentally and spiritually. But the ACADEMY was not one of these.

About 1800 there stood on the east side of the Salem Square, between the newly-completed church and a vacant lot, a two-story stone building covered with light yellow stucco, marked off in blocks, looking very fresh and bright among the trees. This was known as the "Gemein Haus," (Congregation House), an appropriate name certainly, considering the variety of purposes for which it was used. The second floor was a large Hall, once the church of the congregation, but, since the completion of the new church building, in use as a chapel. Against the western wall stood the reading table, and opposite it was placed the organ, the floor being raised a step or two on either side and behind it. Doors to the left and right of the pulpit gave access to the men and women who took their seats respectively in the north and south halves of the hall. The first floor was divided into three sections by two passages running east and west, and at the time of which we write the southern set of rooms was occupied by the girls' day school, while the minister lived in the others.

Many times visitors, in the place observed the unusual educational advantages enjoyed by the Salem girls, and expressed the wish that their daughters might share their privileges, and after much earnest thought, the leading men decided that a new field of Christian usefulness was being opened to them. Therefore, on the 31st of October, 1802, the ruling church board called as the first Principal of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY the Rev. SAMUEL G. KRAMSCH, a native of Silesia, but at that time pastor of Hope, N. C. His wife was well acquainted with the workings of the best boarding schools of the day, and he also was well fitted for educational work.

On the 6th of October, 1803, not quite thirty-eight years after the erection of the first house in Salem, the corner-stone of the ACADEMY building was laid on the lot just south of the Gemein Haus. It was placed at the northwest corner of the building, and into its copper case was put, in addition to other papers, a list of all the girls of the congregation under twelve years of age. They were 42 in number, and twelve of these in due course of time became teachers in the Institution. Among those present at the impressive ceremonies were a gentleman from Georgia and his eldest daughter, who, two years later, entered the ACADEMY as the first pupil from that State.

On May 16, 1804, before the house was completed, four girls arrived on horseback to enter as the first boarders, and quarters were arranged for them in the Gemein Haus. A little later four more came, to whom were added two Moravian girls from Salem, so the actual work of the school began with ten scholars,—ELIZABETH STRUDWICK, ANN and ELIZABETH KIRKLAND, from Hillsborough; ANNA and FELICIA NORFLEET, from Halifax; ANNA STEIN, from Fayetteville; REBECCA CARTER, from Caswell County; ANNA PAULINE SHOBER and MARY STEINER, from Salem: the first teachers being SOPHIA DORATHEA REICHEL, MARY SALOME MEINUNG and JOHANNA ELIZABETH PRAEZEL. The last of these was quite a remarkable musician. At a very early age she showed her great love for music and soon learned to play on piano, harp and organ. When only twelve years old she was given some music scholars in the day school where she was being educated, and to insure order an older teacher was always present when she gave her lessons. Busy days then followed, for as printed music was not so easily obtained then as it is now she had to copy all her scholars needed, as well as a great deal for the church choir. For some years she also played the organ for the week day services which were held every evening in the Gemein Haus chapel. No tunes were given out at these services; the minister began singing the hymn and the organist fell in with the playing as quickly as she could, so it was necessary for her to play all the tunes then used, without notes

TO BE CONTINUED.

Concert Complimentary to the Cadets of the Davis Military School.

Tuesday, May 9th, an unusual sight was witnessed within the precincts of the ACADEMY. About eight o'clock the entire battalion of the Davis Military School marched forth from the barracks, down through the streets of Winston, into Salem and directly to the historic ACADEMY. Nor did it appear as if their visit was either unexpected or unwelcomed, for the Chapel was brilliant with light and attractive with the pleasing faces of the girls. The battalion was in full dress uniform, and the brass buttons and bright swords made a gallant and attractive sight as they ornamented the many forms of the cadets and officers. When all were seated the entire chapel was filled,—the ACADEMY girls seated on the south side of the chapel and the cadets to the north. The performers then entered, occupying the chairs on the platform, and the concert began. The following was the programme:

Chorus.	After the Rain.....	Pinsuti.
Piano Duet.	Waltz Op. 42.....	Chopin.
	Misses LILLIAN and DAISY CRUTCHFIELD.
Recitation.	Ruthie's Faith.
	Miss ETHEL FOLLIN,
Vocal Solo.	One Spring Morning.....	Nevin.
	Miss HARRIETTE CROSS.
Piano Duet.	Spanish Dance.....	Moskowsky.
	Misses ANNIE and MARY MOORE.
Recitation.	Nutting.
	Miss FLORENCE KING.
Piano Solo.	Gouttes d'Eau.....	Ascher.
	Miss LILLIAN GOSLING,
Vocal Duet.	From Flower to Flower.....	Kolling.
	Misses L. CRUTCHFIELD and H. READ.
Piano Solo.	Etude.....	Chopin.
	Miss LOUIE SIDDALL.
Recitation.	Little Josie.
	Miss ANNIE CARRIER.
Vocal Solo.	Angel's Serenade.....	Braga.
	Miss CLAUDIA PALMER.
	Violin Obligato—Mr. JOHN BUTNER.
Recitation.	How Mose counted the eggs.
	Miss SUSIE RYNOLDS.
Piano Duet.	Pearl of the Tropics.....	Shewood.
	Misses M. KELLETT and K. HANES.
Chorus.	Gypsy Life.....	Schumann.

All the parts were rendered well, and in fact there seemed to be an unusual spirit abroad,—but perhaps it was only our imagination. Mr. CLEWELL spoke a few words of welcome to the cadets during the evening and Col. Davis responded in a short but hearty reply. At the conclusion of the programme the several companies formed in the central aisle and marched out by twos. It was a hearty and pleasing occasion,—one that all the young students enjoyed.

The Chopin Evening.

SATURDAY, April 29th, the last of the recitals before the close of school was given in the ACADEMY Chapel, under the direction of Miss SALLIE VEST. It consisted of music chosen from the compositions of Chopin. The evening was introduced with a finely written sketch of the great musician's life and work, read by Miss JENNIE RICHARDSON. This was followed by selections in the form of songs, instrumental solos, duets, and compositions for two pianos. Many of the selections were prefaced by a brief account of that particular piece, which added to the enjoyment of the music. Mr. John L. Butner and Mr. L. B. Brickenstein kindly assisted, and the music throughout was declared to be as well executed and as greatly enjoyed as any occasion during the year. The following is the programme in full:

Essay.	Frederick Chopin.
	Miss JENNIE RICHARDSON.
Waltz.	Op. 42.
	Misses LILLIAN and DAISY CRUTCHFIELD.
Impromptu.	Op. 66.
	Miss ELLA SIDDALL.
Rondo.	Op. 73.
	1st Piano—Miss CARRIE MICKEY.
	2d Piano—Miss LUDA HEGE.
a.)	In Death United.
b.)	My Charmer.
	Miss LULA MORRISON.
Polonaise.	Op. 22.
	Miss LAURA REED.
Violin.	Prelude in E Minor.
	Mr. J. BUTNER.
Mazurka.	No. 4.
	Misses MARY CONRAD and HUBERTA READ.
Funeral March.
	1st Piano—Misses C. PALMER and A. MOORE.
	2nd Piano—Miss M. KELLETT and K. HANES.
a.)	The Ring.
b.)	Forebodings.
	Miss GERTRUDE ROBBINS.

Etude, Op. 10, No. 5.

Miss LOUIE SIDDALL.

* Nocturne in G Minor, Op. 37.

Violin—Mr. J. BUTNER.

Violoncello—Mr. L. BRICKENSTEIN.

Scherzo, Op. 31.

Miss LULA HEGE.

a. } The Maiden's Wish.

b. } When to Depart, Love.

Miss CLAUDIA PALMER.

Concerto in F Minor, Allegro.

1st Piano—Miss ELLA SIDDALL.

2nd Piano—Miss LOUIE SIDDALL.

There have been sixteen recitals during the year, and by means of these carefully devised programmes many more pupils have enjoyed the benefit of the drill which playing in public gives than would otherwise have been possible. It is an education both to the hearer and to the performer.

Correspondence.

—The first communication is from one of our dear old friends of long ago, so long that not a single teacher is left of those so pleasantly remembered :

Almost 45 years ago, the writer went to school in Salem. She was in the first room, then presided over by the famous Misses STAUBER and BREITZ. The names of many of the girls and some of the teachers are still green in the garden of memory. In the first room were ELINOR MOSELY, ANN ELIZA PERKINS, ANN THOMAS, ASINATH SCOTT, ANNA and EUGENIA MORRISON, one was admired, the other beloved. One is the widow of the great and noble Stonewall Jackson. The teachers I remember are Misses BREITZ, STAUBER, PFOHL, LEINBACH. When we were sick, oh so sick with measles, the loving kindness and tender ministrations of one teacher won the heart of this lonely orphan girl. Her watchful care during those long weary nights, when she and Miss BREITZ took turns in waiting on and caring for us will never be forgotten. I was in the Chapel with 19 other girls; the sick room was full, at least 40 girls were down at that time with measles. What a time those long-suffering, patient, noble hearted teachers had with 40 sick, impatient girls. Surely it has not been 44 years since Mr. BLECK, the Principal, went to South Carolina to marry; the indignation of the teachers, his coming home with his young bride, his summary dismissal and hasty leave taking are all remembered so distinctly by me. The Mexican war was going on. One day Mrs. DENKE, the French teacher, came to the first room and very excitedly told Miss STAUBER that Louis Napoleon had been made President of France. Evidently she was not pleased. We could not tell exactly what she said as they spoke German, but her manner left a lasting impression.

What long walks we took, our day keeper, our birthday cakes, love-feasts in the church and little quiet romps in the room when the teachers were out, are pleasant to think of as one grows older, and lives more in the past, not that the writer is growing older, oh no! but there are signs, unmistakable signs of the inevitable. Miss STAUBER always called me SUSAN; my name was

SUSANNAH COLUMBIA THOMAS.

Marion, Va.

—Our next is an exceedingly interesting letter from Miss DELPHINE HALL who with her sisters and aunt has been spending a most enjoyable time out North :

The papers have given such a detailed account of the Naval Review, I have no doubt that you are tired of the subject, but thought you might possibly be interested from the impressions made from our standpoint.

It is not probable that such a pageant will ever again be seen in our waters. Drawn up in stately array headed by the Flagship of our White Squadron on the one side, and the magnificent Blake on the other, from which floated the colors of the nation which still claims to rule the sea, the picked vessels from nine great nations steamed majestically up the Hudson to where like three wondering spirits from the world of discovery and adventure waited the Santa Maria, the Nina and the Pinta, lacking only the phantom of Columbus and his crew. In sharp contrast to them is the bronze statue of Ericsson unveiled the same day at the Battery.

President Cleveland reviewed the fleet from the Dolphin as they were lined up on either side of the river, each vessel giving him a salute of 21 guns as he passed. The next day the crew and officers marched from 42nd street and 5th Avenue down to the City Hall, to be reviewed by Gov. Flower and his staff. The Germans and the Russians were the most military, the English, typical "jolly tars," the French moving with characteristic grace, formed a striking contrast to the Brazilians and Argentinians.

Yesterday we went over the Miantimoh and are going to inspect the other men of war; the Kaiserin Augusten, German;

Jean Bart, French, and Blake, English, are the finest in the fleet.

Our visit has been crowded with delightful episodes. We were invited to two exhibitions and receptions given by the Union League, the oldest, wealthiest and most fashionable club in the city; the last was an especially fine affair given the Duke of Veragua and foreign officers. We were also present at the opening reception for Spring and Summer in the Metropolitan Museum. Mr. Vanderbilt's loan of Turner's, being the greatest attraction. The Abbott collection of Egyptian antiquities and relics owned by the Historical Society, was very interesting. The colossal head of Thotmes III, (Pharaoh) the necklace and ear-rings of the first Pharaoh and three mummied bulls of Aphis, were among the vast collection of curiosities.

One of the most pleasant incidents of our stay in Washington was our call on Mrs. Cleveland. She received us most cordially and in talking with her I spoke of the pleasure she has given Mabel Gray in her note of thanks for the doll sent Ruth; with a charming smile she said: "Nothing like so much as the doll has given Ruth, for she is devoted to it." So Miss CHITTY can add another to her list of delights, for I have never known any child to possess one of those dolls that did not love it better and get more happiness out of it than any Parisian importation she might own. As we were leaving the White House a carriage drove up with two occupants, "Baby Ruth and Nurse Annie. The young lady was lifted out and borne into the house by one of the footmen, when she stretched out her little arms and said: "Annie, Annie." She was dressed and looked like any other baby with pretty blue eyes, a dear little face and bright color.

We expect to be at home in a short time, and could easily tire you with a description of the things I have touched upon and many more. With kind regards to all other friends.

DELPHINE E. HALL.

17, East 66 St., New York.

—Prof. E. W. Lineback has presented our Museum with two rare and interesting articles. The one is a beautiful silver leaf from a tree grown in South Africa,—the other is a string of eggs of the white ant, from the same section. The latter are larger than grains of wheat, and have almost the appearance of amber.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., MAY, 1893.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

COMMENCEMENT.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

WE publish once more the programme of Commencement Week, and trust that our friends may find as much pleasure in listening to the various exercises as we have enjoyed in making the preparations for their entertainment. The following is the condensed programme of the week :

Friday evening, May 26—Concert by the Vocal Department.

Saturday evening, May 27—Entertainment by the Elocution Department.

Sunday, May 28—Baccalaureate Sermon, by the Rev. A. D. McCLURE, D.D.

Monday evening, May 29—Seniors' First Evening.

Tuesday afternoon, May 30—Art Exhibit.

Tuesday evening, May 30—Seniors' Second Evening.

Wednesday morning, May 31—Class Reunions.

Wednesday afternoon, May 31—Alumnæ Society meeting.

Wednesday evening, May 31—Grand Concert.

Thursday morning, June 1—Commencement; the orator for the occasion is the Hon. G. W. SHELL.

For the information of our friends we note the following points :

The greater number of the exercises will be held in the Moravian church. Patrons are requested to call at the ACADEMY office and secure a patron's ticket, which will admit them to the church at the door on the south side of the building, where reserved seats will be retained till within a short time before the exercises begin. Owing to the very large number of friends who usually attend the concerts, we urge those patrons desiring to secure comfortable seats to reach the church not later than 7:30 o'clock. The exercises begin at 7:45—promptly with the stroke of the clock.

The Art Exhibit will be held in the ACADEMY Chapel; so, too, the Alumnæ meeting. The Class Reunion of the Class of '88 will be held in Society Hall, Wednesday, 10 A. M. Patrons who may desire to call on the Principal will find him in the office Monday during the entire day; Tuesday, in the morning; Wednesday, a portion of the morning and also a part of the afternoon; Thursday, after 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

In regard to hotel and boarding house accommodations, we refer patrons to the Hotel Quincy, on Main street, and the Jones House, also on Main street. There are also a number of private boarding houses in town. Usually the above named houses have not been able to accommodate all who visit our towns that week, hence those who cannot arrange with the hotels, and wish us to provide places, are requested to notify us in advance and we will, as far as possible, secure places in private families. This effort is the result of the interest of the Alumnæ Society, and those of our friends in Winston-Salem who will thus minister to the comfort of our visitors will confer a favor by notifying Mrs. MARY PATTERSON, Salem, or Mrs. MARY RIGGINS, Winston, or the ACADEMY office. Rates of board will be furnished when required.

Reduced rates on the railroads will be requested and will doubtless be granted. But your best plan would be to consult your ticket agent a week before Commencement, and if he has no instructions ask him to wire his Gen. Passenger and Ticket Agent in regard to the matter.

Pupils' railroad tickets and trunk checks must be secured at the school. Patrons, too, may purchase tickets in the ACADEMY a day or two before Commencement. But in order that all may work smoothly parents are requested to forward the ticket money to our care at once; the school requests parents to give this matter careful and prompt attention.

We would add in conclusion that each occasion during the week is in the hands of a competent superintendent, and no pains have been spared to make each programme as finished and complete as possible, not so long as to weary, but rather to lay stress on the care bestowed on the quality of the work,—and still to make it a fair representative of the year's work as shown in the progress of the average pupil.

From the present prospect the Commencement of 1893 promises to be one of marked interest.

JOHN H. CLEWELL,
Principal.

—THE ACADEMY proposes to print and carefully distribute an edition of at least 12,000 (twelve thousand) copies next month, and will be pleased to insert a few advertisements at a moderate figure, in order to aid in defraying the expenses of this special edition. No personal solicitation will be made, but if you think a few inches in this edition, setting forth your business, would pay you, drop us a line and we will call to see you. This paper will really advertise our section more fully than many of the foreign ventures which call for hundreds of dollars for their support.

—We call special attention to the letter from the Alumnæ Association printed elsewhere. This work deserves the warmest support. The gifts are not restricted to the members of the Association, but money will be welcomed from any friend. Let us consider for a moment one or two points that will follow the accumulation of this Fund. It will differ from funds used for current expenses in that a hundred years hence it will be as efficient as when first started on its work of doing good. Another point is that it will help that class of persons who have before them a long and promising future, and who, without this aid, must go into the struggle of life without that preparation necessary to success. THE ACADEMY would rejoice to see the fund doubled by the close of the present school year.

—We are indebted to a friend for several valuable papers for the historical portion of our Museum. The one is entitled "Terms of the Institution for Female Education at Salem," and signed by "John C. Jacobson, Principal of the Boarding School, Salem, N. C." Below the border is the imprint, "Blum & Son, print., Salem, N. C." The other is a copy of the "Hymn for the Festival of the Pupils in the Female Academy at Salem, Sept. 24, 1849." It is our hope that many of the historical papers and articles will thus gradually find their way into the collection recently started.

Scholarship Endowment Fund.

DOUBTLESS the members of the Alumnae Association have noted with interest and pleasure that each number of THE ACADEMY during the past year has acknowledged the receipt of donations to swell the Scholarship Fund, which was started two years ago, and has now reached and exceeded $1100.

The sums thus contributed have as yet not been large, but when a woman will she will, therefore, although the gathering is slow we are sure that every Alumna would raise her voice in an indignant protest should we say the Fund will never reach the desired $5000.

The need of the Scholarship Fund is most urgent. The many requests and appeals to the Principal for help in education are hard to turn away. Not until the Fund reaches $2,500 will the interest on it be sufficient to even partially assist a pupil and the Executive Board has agreed that the interest of the sum gathering must not be touched until the $2,500 has been reached. When we have $5000 on interest then alone will the way be perfectly clear to assist out and out those desiring an education.

The calls, as we have said, are urgent, perhaps more so than many imagine. We cite but one, which has recently come before the Executive Board. A former pupil, dying, leaves, as her last request, that her youngest daughter, a girl of twelve years, almost entirely without means of support, be sent to her mother's dear old school home, there to receive the training to enable her to battle with the world. What could be more touching than this petition! If only our Scholarship Fund had reached the point when we might give the help asked, but our hands are tied, so we must not touch the interest of the amount as yet accumulated. To use any of it would mean shipwreck to the entire Fund.

At the approaching meeting of the Alumnae Association the Scholarship Fund will come in for its full share of discussion. Will not every member of the Association, as well as every friend, give the subject of the Fund and the pressing need of its speedy increase some earnest thought in the weeks that lie between; and attend the meeting prepared to give or to pledge themselves for some amount towards swelling the Fund?

We must have it and we will have it, but the need being so urgent and calls coming so rapidly, we feel as if something should be done as soon as possible to meet the demand. Can we not at the approaching Commencement swell the amount to $2500? Some one has suggested the following reasons why we should contribute liberally to the Scholarship Endowment Fund:

1. Because I love the S. F. A. and wish others to be educated there.
2. Because we can begin to aid some worthy but needy daughter of an Alumna as soon as the Fund has reached $2500.
3. Because we can educate such a one when the Fund reaches $5000.
4. Because it is a noble work.

We are sure that every one of us will feel ourselves roused to do all that lies in our power to make the Alumnae meeting of 1893 memorable for having gathered in, not only the members from near and far, (and will each lady come prepared with her visiting card and address that we may record the names of those with us) but also for the most liberal subscriptions possible.

Alice J. RONDHALER,
Secretary.

King's Daughters.

REPORT OF THE YEAR'S WORK.

On the 18th of September, 1892, the circle of King's Daughters among the pupils of the ACADEMY organized for 1892-'93, and were ready for another year's work. Eight members were present, viz: Misses FRANK CREIGHT, ANNIE CARRIER, VIOLA DAVIS, SUE REYNOLDS, DAISIE SCHOOLFIELD, JENNIE ANDERSON, ETHEL WEAVER and CARRIE ROLLINS.

The name for this year has been, "Four Leaf Clover," representing respectively:

- Do all the good you can.
- Be just as kind as you can.
- Give what you can.
- Lend a hand.

Misses IRMA CORDILL, CARRIE ROLLINS and ANNIE CARRIER have from time to time filled the President's chair. Misses CARRIE ROLLINS, SUE REYNOLDS, BESSIE BROOKE and ETHEL WEAVER have served as Secretaries.

Whenever it was possible a story was related by our leader, Miss FOGLE. First came "Amy's Marriage," then the origin of the hymn, "Jesus Lover of my Soul," followed by "Our Hindoo Sisters," and at another time, "The Seven Sisters of our Globe." The story of "The Fairy Go Ask," encouraged us to make up a very generous Thanksgiving offering, which we decided should be given to "The Home." Then came the account of a visit to Siberia by a King's Daughter, viz: Miss Marsden.

On the following Sunday, the origin of the hymn, "Let the Lower Lights be Burning," was given, and an account of the "Schools in India," was read by Miss LAURA LESLIE. "The Last Hymn," was recited by Miss SUE REYNOLDS. The origin of the hymns, "There is a Land of Pure Delight," "Blest be the Tie That Binds," "Lo! on a Narrow Neck of Land," were given in successive meetings. Two stories, one entitled "How One Brick Built a Church in Less Than a Month," and the Indian Parable, "The Ruby—The Pearl—The Diamond," finished our chain of Stories.

Miss VOGLER has visited us from time to time and given us many pleasant thoughts to carry with us. Last Sunday she came to say good-bye before leaving for Chicago.

We have received contributions during the year from Misses EDITH CLARK MOORE and AGNES COLEMAN.

Donations have been made from time to time and we trust have been helpful to those in need and in circumstances less blest than ours.

Our attendance has been good throughout the year. We number sixty six, and have had as many as fifty-nine present at one time.

The hour from four to five on Sunday afternoon has become very dear to many of us and in our different homes we will often think of it during vacation. We hope that many will return in October to re-organize the "Four Leaf Clover Circle."

SUE REYNOLDS,
Cor Secretary.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Dr. N. S. SIEWERS, one of our Trustees, is erecting a very handsome residence at the south end of Cedar Avenue.

—ELIZABETH NICHOLSON returned to her home in Mississippi to join her sister in an extended summer tour.

—The District Conference of the Moravian Church South convened at the New Philadelphia church, on Wednesday and Thursday, May 3rd and 4th.

—We acknowledge an invitation to the Annual Commencement of the Madison High School, sent to us by Miss LIZZIE BURGESS. The date is May 22-26.

—The annual athletic contests of Davis Military School took place Thursday and Friday, May 11 and 12. We acknowledge the courtesy of an invitation from Mr. H. Chedester.

—Sunday, May 7th, the decorations in the church were of an unusually attractive nature. White water lilies, cut roses, ferns, and flowers of many varieties graced the pulpit platform.

—THE ACADEMY will have more to say of the portraits of its former Principals in the June number. Several are now finished and will add much to the decorations in the Alumna meeting.

—The new Catalogue is now in the printer's hands, and will be finished in the course of a week. From it we note the register for 1892-'93 reaches the satisfactory number of 362.

—The practice of essay reading is going steadily forward, and in many places and at almost any time the voices of the Seniors may be heard in "practice" preparatory to the Seniors' Evenings.

—The past weeks have given to us that peculiarly delicate tint of spring time which is seen only for a few days when the leaves of the trees are small. The beauty of the outlook as seen from Park Hall is very marked.

—We desire very much to secure a copy of the Catalogues from 1857 to 1865 inclusive. Any one who can send us the pamphlets referred to will confer a great favor, and we will insure the return of them to the proper owner.

—A recent meeting of the council of the Salem congregation ordered that all of the undergrowth in Wachovia Park should be cut out. This Park immediately adjoins ours, and the proposed improvement will benefit us in many ways.

—IRENE McCANDLESS was summoned home by the death of her great-grandmother, who passed away at the advanced age of 95 years. A few days later GERTRUDE ROBBINS was suddenly called to her home in Statesville, and found that her brother had died two hours before her arrival. THE ACADEMY extends its sympathy to both of these members of our household thus called on to mourn for departed friends.

—A more charming spot these Spring days than "the dell," at the foot of the terrace, can scarcely be found.

—The Zinzendorf Hotel will most probably be rebuilt at an early day. The West End Land and Hotel Co. have made exceedingly liberal propositions looking to this desirable end.

—The fountain in the yard is ornamented with a rich profusion of ferns which have been the special care of Miss LIZZIE CHITTY during the past years, and are a joy to all who are fond of this delicate member of the botanical world.

—Miss CARRIE JONES has given to the Class in Natural History an immense hornet's nest. The class has been studying insect life, and both this and the large wasp nest brought by Miss McCANLESS were examined with great interest.

—The advent of the luscious strawberry was unusually early this year and the supply promises to be very abundant. While they last they are always welcome, whether the fruit itself is served or whether they appear in the form of "short cake" or "ice cream."

—The electric service at Commencement will be of the same high character as in the past, both as regards the cars and the illuminations. One of the sights at Commencement is the long line of cars on the north and east sides of the Square. At night the scene is a brilliant one, indeed,—the arc lights overhead, the brightly lit cars, and the gaily dressed throng.

—An alarm of fire was turned in from the ACADEMY box some time since, and the engines responded with great zeal and promptness. It was found that the woods southwest of town were burning fiercely, and as a gale of at least 40 miles an hour was blowing directly toward town great uneasiness was felt by many on the west side. A change of wind and a light shower averted the danger.

Alumna Scholarship Fund.

Mrs. E. Carmichael,	$1 00
Mrs. Chas. D. McIver,	5 00
Mrs. J. C. Buxton,	5 00
Mrs. Geo. Rights,	60
Previously acknowledged,	1092 85
	$1104 45
ALICE J. RONDHALER, Sec'y.
Salem, N. C.

Married.

AVERY—PONDER.—On May 3rd, at Fair Play, Ga., Mr. WM. J. AVERY to Miss BESSIE PONDER.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

*—I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!*

1886.

5725 ELIZA E. CLARK.	_____
R. K. Clark, Little Rock, S. C.	_____
5726 CARRIE V. BORUM.	_____
Henry Borum, Keysville, Va.	_____
5727 LILLY J. SCOTT.	_____
Calvin J. Scott, Charlotte, N. C.	_____
5728 ANNA McLEAN.	_____
J. D. McLean, Laurinburg, N. C.	_____
5729 MYRA CABANIS.	_____
J. C. Cabanis, Giddings, Texas.	_____
5730 DORA CLARK.	_____
R. K. Clark, Little Rock, S. C.	_____
5731 MARY F. PASCHALL.	_____
J. H. Paschall, Reidsville, N. C.	_____
5732 MATTIE D. CRAFTON.	_____
Willie Crafton, Reidsville, N. C.	_____
5733 EMMA C. FURRER.	_____
Albert Furrer, Savannah, Ga.	_____
5734 DESSIE KEESE.	_____
Mrs. M. E. Keese, Anderson, S. C.	_____
5735 HELEN D. KEESE.	_____
_____	_____
5736 MINNIE P. BEARD.	_____
James Beard, Kernersville, N. C.	_____
5737 MAGGIE C. GRAHAM.	_____
T. B. Graham, Forest, Miss.	_____
5738 OPHA P. HUGHES.	_____
5739 DAISY E. HUGHES.	_____
J. H. Hughes, McMinnville, Tenn.	_____
5740 LILLY O. CLARK.	_____
R. K. Clark, Little Rock, S. C.	_____
5741 ANNIE B. HARDING.	_____
Fred. Harding, Johnson's Mills, N. C.	_____
5742 MARY V. SMITH.	_____
5743 HOLLIE L. SMITH.	_____
Mrs. Mary Smith, Coxville, N. C.	_____
5744 LIZZIE W. HICKS.	_____
W. J. Hicks, Raleigh, N. C.	_____
5745 LENNIE WALKER.	_____
James Walker, Fulton, Tenn.	_____
5746 ANNE L. SLOAN.	_____
R. L. Sloan, Reidsville, N. C.	_____
5747 EDNA J. INGRAM.	_____
Dr. A. H. Ingram, Pine Bluff, Ark.	_____
5748 MINNIE TRIMMIER.	_____
Capt. F. M. Trimmer, Spartanburg, S. C.	_____
5749 ILAH DUNLAP.	_____
S. S. Dunlap, Macon, Ga.	_____
5750 LOUISE H. BROWN.	_____
Brown, Macon, Ga.	_____
5751 SALLIE F. HUNNICUTT.	_____
C. W. Hunnicutt, Atlanta, Ga.	_____
5752 ALICE J. BOGGAN.	_____
J. A. Boggan, Wadesboro, N. C.	_____
5753 ANN ELIZA TREADGILL.	_____
S. H. Threadgill, Wadesboro, N. C.	_____
5754 JULIA H. FLAKE.	_____
F. B. Flake, Beverly, N. C.	_____
5755 JULIA V. DUNLAP.	_____
J. J. Dunlap, Paris, N. C.	_____
5756 MINNIE C. LITTLE.	_____
S. B. Little, Wadesboro, N. C.	_____

A FORM FOR REQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a request to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of _____ Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.

The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.

REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

Nov. '92-1f.

DAVIS SCHOOL
A MILITARY COLLEGE

Degrees in
CIVIL ENGINEERING,
SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes, there is a Complete Preparatory Department.

Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars, address
DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1799 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.

Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.
Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,
Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
October, 1892.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY

Principals.

June 1892-1y

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae to Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON.

JEWELLERS,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,

SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-1y.

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVE. N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
A COMPLETE FOR $7.25

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS 3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF 1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
SKETCHING STOOD .50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

FOUNDED 1802.

Salem Female Academy.

SALEM, N. C

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country

All the leading novelties, such as :
Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in
Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of
Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS, has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111.

Phone 111.

Jan. 1892.

Alumnae Badge Pins.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNAE BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $5.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

EVERY Family Student School Library

Every Person who Reads or Writes SHOULD OWN

THE NEW WEBSTER

WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

A NEW BOOK FROM COVER TO COVER, Successor of the "UNABRIDGED," Fully Abreast of the Times.

Ten years spent in revising, 100 editors employed, over $300,000 expended.

Sold by all Booksellers.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Publishers, Springfield, Mass., U. S. A.

Do not buy reprints of obsolete editions. Send for free pamphlet containing specimen pages, testimonials, and full particulars.

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information all at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD.

The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Throughcoaches and Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga.
H. W. MORRISON, G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

The Cotton Belt Route.

Has handled more students to and from Arkansas and Texas than all other Southwestern lines combined; and its continued popularity with the principal Southeastern schools is the highest guarantee of the excellence of its service and the truthfulness of its representations.

THE ONLY LINE receiving and delivering passengers at Memphis without a long and disagreeable omnibus transfer across the city.

THE ONLY LINE with through sleeping car service between Memphis and the Southwest.

THE ONLY LINE with through car service between Memphis and points in Central Texas.

W. G. ADAMS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Nashville, Tenn.
S. G. WARNER, S. E. Pass. Agt., Memphis, Tenn.
H. H. SUTTON, Trav. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. H. WINFIELD, Gen. Pass. Agt., Tyler, Texas.
E. W. LA BEAUME, G. P. & T. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.
June 1892-1y

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic coast Line, and Savannah, Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the then a change of cars is made at Walnut over Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the APE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut over Union Station.

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

J. W. FR Y, WE KYLE,
Gen. Supt. Gen. Pass. Agt
Greensboro, N. Fayetteville, N. C.

Iron Mountain Route.
Great through line from Arkansas, Texas and the Southwest to Salem and North Carolina.

Write to the undersigned if you contemplate attending Salem Female College for rates, routes and time-tables.

H. C. TOWNSEND,
Genl Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

June 1892-1y

Norfolk & Western R'y

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville.

By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892-1y

The short line to New Orleans, Memphis and points in the Southeast.

Take the "St. Louis Limited," 12 hours saved, between Fort Worth, Dallas and St. Louis and the East.

The Direct Line to all points in Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona, Oregon and California.

Through Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars between Dallas, Fort Worth, and St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco.

For rates, tickets and all information apply to, or address any of the ticket agents or

GASTON MESLIER,
Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt.,
Dallas, Texas.
June 1892-1y

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware,
CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

Gray Block.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth. 337 pages. Price $1 00. By mail, $1 10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English. Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: 'It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of a that is necessary in grammar

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 80 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth. 325 pages. $1 75. By mail $1 89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1 46.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth. 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the exact discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford. pp. vi, 255. 17mo, cloth. 54 cents. "Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Herald. "Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the after use."—Southern Educator. Du-hom, N. C.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: *Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hamden-Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature—Classical Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cowper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverly, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Fufus Choate—Thackeray's Four Georges and English Humorists, Parts I. and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Eginhard's Charlemagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odyssey etc., will be published.*

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,
PUBLISHERS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '93-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XV.

SALEM, N. C., JUNE, 1893.

NUMBER 137.

FOUNDED 1802.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, SALEM, N. C.

Possibly the reader of this paper may have a daughter to educate, or may have some friend who is interested in education. If so we respectfully offer for your consideration the following points in regard to SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.

This Institution is enjoying the benefit of a long and successful experience, which is worth as much in the life of an institution as it is in the life of an individual. For nearly 100 years this College has had its doors open, without being closed for a single day. As the first century is drawing to a close it is apparent to every one that the friendship of the Alumnae is stronger than ever before, the number of pupils larger than at any time since the war, and the devotion of these is a strong endorsement of the methods employed. These facts are of sufficient weight to enlist your attention while we say a few words about our work.

The ACADEMY is a high grade College, with a full college course, and also with a good preparatory school for younger pupils. We are also prepared to give every facility to post graduates. In addition to this the best Teachers and Professors are provided to give every facility in Music, Art, Languages, Commercial and Industrial Studies. Pupils may here prepare for teaching, office work and household duties, as well as to acquire the accomplishments of Music and Art.

A special feature is the discipline. The peculiar care and patient training exerts such an influence, that a SALEM ACADEMY girl generally carries the useful lessons all through her life, having received character training as well as intellectual gifts.

The location on the foot hills of the Blue Ridge, and just at the dividing line between North and South, as to climate, makes Winston-Salem a health resort.

If the above points are of such a nature as to interest you we would suggest that you glance at the following sketch of our recent Commencement, and also at the other articles which will really open a window that will enable you to get a glimpse of our life during the months of May and June. Or what is still better drop a line to the undersigned and receive a catalogue and other papers relating to this venerable and prosperous institution.

JOHN H. CLEWELL,
Principal.

COMMENCEMENT, 1893.

THE arrival of the June ACADEMY naturally carries with it the thought of Commencement, when the graduating class is introduced to the public, and is then enrolled in the long list of more than 10,000 names; when the special workers in music, art, commercial and industrial studies all bring their offerings to the occasion; when alumnae crowd to the old Alma Mater in such numbers that it is at times difficult to distinguish the former from the present pupils; when the entire year's work, which represents so much toil and effort, is seen to pass before us in one rapid, clearly outlined review, and is then forever a thing of the past. This is Commencement, and this is what the readers of THE ACADEMY expect us to dwell upon in our leading article in the June number.

Our year just closing had been one of peculiar smoothness in every respect, and many friends wondered whether the Commencement exercises would pleasantly close the very delightful school year. It was even so. The various occasions were so distributed as not to crowd each other, and each occasion had a responsible, interested superintendent; thus, the most minute details were examined and provided for, giving a smoothness quite unusual in so extended and varied a programme. Then, too, we were blessed with the most delightful weather. A light shower Sunday afternoon cooled the air, and the atmosphere was more like Spring than early Summer during the week. It will be impossible for us to enter into details as to individuals, lack of space will even prevent a copy of the programmes of the various occasions, but we will endeavor to take a glance at as much as we can, though a word-sketch must fall far short of the effect produced by the pupils, as with happy hearts and faces they entered upon the parts assigned to them in the exercises.

The programme of the week was as follows:
VOCAL CONCERT, Friday, May 26, 7:45 P. M.
ELOCUTION EVENING, Saturday, May 27, 7:45 P. M.
BACCALAUREATE SERMON, Sunday, May 28, 11:00 A. M.
SENIORS' FIRST EVENING, Monday, May 29, 7:45 P. M.
ART EXHIBIT, Tuesday, May 30, 2—5 P. M.
SENIORS' SECOND EVENING, Tuesday, May 30, 7:45 P. M.
CLASS REUNIONS, Wednesday, May 31.
ALUMNAE MEETING, Wednesday, May 31, 3 P. M.
GRAND CONCERT, Wednesday, May 31, 7:45 P. M.
COMMENCEMENT, Thursday, June 1, 9 A. M.

This programme was followed out with the omission of only one number, on Wednesday evening, occasioned by the sickness of one of the performers.

The Vocal Concert, Friday evening, was under the direction of Miss ANTOINETTE C. TRACY, the head of the Vocal Department, and was in itself a gem, of just that length of programme which made one feel that he wanted to listen to more. Miss TRACY has done very fine work during the year, and as one intelligent hearer remarked, she teaches so that her pupils show a true appreciation of vocal music,—they do not sing for the mere purpose of making a noise. The Concert was varied in its arrangement, being interspersed with solos, duets and semi-choruses, and also with instrumental selections for one and two pianos. The class of music was fine, but not beyond the full ability of the performers. The names of those in Part 1st are:—Misses A. MOORE, NEELY, KELLETT, HANES, PALMER, H. READ, M. CONRAD, CHEATHAM, TAYLOR, SMITH, K. CROUCH, B. FOLLIN, B. BROOKS, GORRELL, SHIELDS, ELLIOTTE, BURTON, LANDQUIST, A. LINEBACK, A. FOGLE, FISHER, L. CRUTCHFIELD, D. CRUTCHFIELD, L. MORRISON, LIPSCOMBE, CHEDESTER, HARRIS, CROSS, A. DAVIS, N. CUMMINGS. The second portion of the programme was from Marzò's Mass in F, by the entire vocal class, the soloists being Mrs. E. A. EBERT, Miss RONDTHALER and Miss SCRIBER. The interpretation of this beautiful Mass was exceedingly fine, the whole forming a very enjoyable close to the evening, and the exercises formed a very good opening for Commencement Week. THE ACADEMY extends its congratulations to Miss TRACY and to Miss VEST, Miss VAN VLECK and all who contributed to the programme.

The second evening, Saturday, May 27, was under the charge of Miss ADELAIDE SCRIBER, and the department she represents, viz: Elocution, has had a very prosperous year. The Concert was opened promptly at 7:45 with a musical selection. The selections were varied in their nature, some being humorous, some pathetic and some tragic. To those who listened to the efforts of the pupils it was apparent that the instructor has the power of transferring what she possesses to her pupils,—and it is also quite evident that the instructor possesses rare genius in the line of her chosen work. The names of those who recited are:—Misses WINKLER, FOLLIN, ROBERTS, D. THOMPSON, STOREY, COLWELL, REYNOLDS, WHITAKER, BAHNSON, RICHARDSON and F. CONRAD. Musical selections were given by Misses PALMER, A. MOORE, HENDERSON, COVINGTON, HYMAN, CROSS, BARBER, QUINCY, HARRIS and SCALES. This second evening was well attended, as was also the Friday concert, the two being a pleasant prelude to the exercises which followed.

Sunday morning was cool and clear, and early in the morning busy hands were decorating the large stage with a profusion of water-lilies, the generous contribution of Dr. H. T. Bahson. The entire platform was ornamented with a bank of these rare flowers, extending the entire width of the church. It is probable that a finer display of these lilies was never seen in the past in this sanctuary. In addition to other flowers a handsome bank of cut roses was placed in front of the pulpit, the gift of Mr. S. Miller.

The services began at 11 o'clock, and by that time the church was filled, pews, galleries, platform and aisles.

In speaking of the Baccalaureate Sermon and the services connected with it, the Daily Sentinel says: "It was able, ornate, and replete with practical and appropriate gospel truths, was one of the many kind expressions made by those who heard the Baccalaureate Sermon, delivered by the Rev. A. D. McCCLURE, D. D., of Wilmington, N. C., at the Moravian church yesterday morning. The services opened at the appointed hour, 11 o'clock, but the seating capacity was inadequate to accommodate the great crowd that assembled to hear the preacher expound to them the truths as found in the greatest of all books, the Bible. The young ladies composing the graduating class, 41 in number, with their director, Miss LEHMAN, occupied places on the front portion of the large platform. The class was divided, 21 facing the north side of the church, and 20 the south side. They all wore the classic Oxford black cap and gown. A small pulpit was erected about the middle of the platform, behind which were seated Dr. McCCLURE, Principal CLEWELL and Rev. A. D. THÆLER. After the congregation had sung hymn No. 667, and had united in a portion of the Church Litany the Rev. Mr. THÆLER announced the hymn No. 691, and after the singing of the same he read the scripture lessons for the day. Principal CLEWELL then appropriately introduced Dr. McCCLURE. The latter made a few introductory remarks, and then announced his text as follows: "And upon the top of the pillars was lily work; so was the work of the pillars finished." 1 Kings, 7:22. The speaker traced the classical and oriental meaning of the lily as a symbol, and the relation the lilies bore to strength when placed as an ornament on a massive pillar. In this portion of the discourse the speaker displayed deep and extended research. The second part of the sermon was a strong and earnest appeal to the pupils to build in strength, and on the strong pillar of character to place the lily work of the true, the beautiful and the good. At the conclusion of the sermon the Doctor offered up a fervent prayer. This was followed by a beautifully rendered solo by Miss TRACY, "A Light from Heaven," the solo having orchestral accompaniment, as had also the grand choir piece rendered just before the sermon. The choir was made up between 30 and 40 voices, Mr. E. A. Ebert director, and Mr. W. J. Peterson organist. The title of their selection was "Honor, Blessing, Power and Glory," by Tours, and it was sung with unusual power and sweetness. The close of the beautiful service was the singing of the well-known hymn, "Nearer, my God to Thee," the Doxology and Benediction. At night a sermon was delivered by the Rev. Mr. THÆLER, Dr. McCCLURE and Mr. CLEWELL taking part."

Monday was passed quietly in the School, many friends coming and going, scores arriving on every train, until both towns had assumed a gay and festive appearance. In the evening, however, all things changed, and the usual concourse of friends were seen coming to the church. And at no time during the week did the stage present a more attractive scene than on these evenings, when the beautiful Oxford white caps and gowns seemed to vie with the floral decorations and to even add lustre to the brilliant electric lights. The church was full both Monday and Tuesday evenings, as was also the case during the remainder of the week. By special request, Miss LEHMAN prepared a sketch of these two evenings, Monday and Tuesday, and we give the same:

"Each one of the 41 members of the Senior Class of 1893 appeared before the public in an essay of five minutes or less in length,—twenty-one reading on Monday evening and twenty on Tuesday evening. The essays were grouped in clusters of five, with vocal and instrumental selections between. It is a very nice operation to condense what may or should be said on one subject in a sketch of five minutes' length; almost any one can write a long sketch, but the faculty of condensation is not quite so general. Not a single senior was wanting, but 41 essays were read, embracing a very wide range of subjects, 'from grave to gay, from lively to severe.' The weather was propitious, the church was filled to overflowing, the white Oxford gowns and caps exquisite, the ribbons were of the regulation length, and general good feeling prevailed. The first essay, entitled 'Another Spell than Beauty's,' was read by Miss CLAUDIA PALMER, of Richmond, Va., in which the superiority of mental and moral powers to mere physical beauty was considered. Miss LILLIAN CRUTCHFIELD, of Winston, N. C., gave a humorous essay, 'A Man's a Man for a' That.' Next came 'Truth,' by Miss LOLIEN ALLEN, of Winston, N. C., 'Man a Pendulum Betwixt a Smile and a Tear,' by Miss MARY CONRAD, of Salem, N. C., and 'Grumblers,' by Miss MARY MCCAULEY, of Chapel Hill, N. C., completed the first group. Miss NARCIE TAYLOR, of North Danville, Va., began the second group with an essay, entitled 'A Tempest in a Tea Cup,' followed by 'Trifles Reveal Character,' by Miss FLORENCE BARROW, of Winston, N. C., 'Impressions,' by Miss BLANCHE SIMS, of Spartanburg, S. C., 'Mists of Doubt,' by Miss SALLIE HYMAN, of Salem, N. C., and 'Rewards of Industry,' by Miss LENA ANDERSON, of Cedar Grove, N. C. The third group began with 'Character,' by Miss ELIZA GULICK, of Columbia, S. C., 'Flattery,' by Miss LENA WELLBORN, of Wilkesboro, N. C., 'Which Gives Greater Pleasure, Books or Friends,' by Miss NANNIE MCGEEHEE, of Madison, N. C., 'Every Why must have Its Because,' by Miss BIRCHE KIRKE, Winston, N. C., 'Silent Influence,' by Miss ELLA NEELY, Yorkville, S. C., 'The Gift of Tongues,' Miss CARRIE GREER, Rocky Mount, Va. The fourth group consisted of 'The Power of Determination,' Miss ANNIE MOORE, Huntersville, N. C., 'Every Cloud has a Silver Lining,' Miss MATTIE BELO WILLIAMS, Newberne, N. C., 'Gardens of Pleasure,' Miss HUBERTA READ, Corsicana, Tex., 'Old Things have Passed Away,' Miss MATTIE COOPER, Statesville, N. C., and 'Follies of the Day,' by Miss MATTIE JOHNS, Auburn, N. C.

The essays of the Seniors' Second Evening are given in due order, being grouped into divisions of five, with music interspersed. 'Modern Heroines,' by Miss LAURA LESLIE, of Concord, N. C.; 'Smile and be Glad,' Miss FRANCES CREIGHT, Winnsboro, S. C.; 'Aspiration the Jewel of All Time,' Miss LENA CHAFFIN, Foster Falls, Va.; 'Necessity of Attention to Things as Well as to Books,' Miss DORA MILLER, Salem, N. C.; 'Many a Little makes a Muckle,' Miss BERTHA DAWSON, Littlefield, S. C.; 'The Beauty of Light,' Miss FANNIE PERROW, Lynchburg, Va.; 'Contentment a Pearl of Great Price,' Miss ALICE THOMPSON, Gaffney City, S. C.; 'To-morrow,' Miss IRMA CORDILL, Como, La.; 'Misunderstood,' Miss ANNIE CARRIER, Asheville, N. C.; 'Heaven from All Creatures Hides the Book of Fate,' Miss ETHEL ROBERTS, Durham, N. C.; 'Nothing is Lost,' Miss CLAUDIA DICKS, Randleman, N. C.; 'Sleep,' Miss ADDIE NIMOCKS, Fayetteville, N. C.; 'Mission of Flowers,' Miss MARY REID, Winston, N. C.; 'Oft from Apparent Ills Our Blessings Rise,' Miss MINNIE HANCOCK, Asheboro, N. C.; 'Worth - Not Birth,' Miss VIOLA DAVIS, Arcola, N. C.; 'Waiting,' Miss MARY MCKEOWN, Brooksville, Fla.; 'Influence of Cheerfulness,' Miss BEULAH BROOKS, Nashville, N. C.; 'Love of Fame,' Miss LUCY THORPE, Rocky Mount, N. C.; 'Advantages and Disadvantages of Wealth,' Miss LUCIA SWANSON, Tuskegee, Ala.; 'What Women Can Do,' Miss EFFIE GILMER, Orange, Tex.

The music was supplied by the following young ladies: Misses NIMOCKS, JONES, ELLA HEGE, SCALES, SHIELDS, REYNOLDS, DAVIS, CROSS, B. BROOKS, M. CONRAD, L. CRUTCHFIELD, DAWSON, HANCOCK, WELLBORN, H. READ, PALMER, L. and J. MAJETTE, P. READ, KELLET, K. CROUCH, K. and B. BROOKE, and L. MORRISON, together with the Chorus Class."

On Tuesday afternoon the Art Exhibit was thrown open to the public. It was displayed in the Academy Chapel, where the 132 paintings were hung, and many specimens of the pencil and crayon. The hall was beautifully decorated in other ways than with the pictures; orange trees, palms, and tropical plants were grouped here and there, while draperies formed rich backgrounds for casts and classic figures. In various parts of the hall were specimens of the work done by other departments besides the Studio, which is under Miss SIEWERS' supervision. The Cooking School, in charge of Miss WOLLE, had a table filled with bread and biscuit, cake and salads,—all the work of pupils in that department. Miss SALLIE SHAFNER had a case filled with beautiful specimens of pressed flowers, mounted in herbariums, the work of the Sophomore class in Botany; Miss LOU SHAFFNER had a number of completed book-keeping sets, from pupils who have been studying under her during the year, while the type-writer and telegraph instruments added to the interesting exhibit. The portraits of the first five Principals, done by Miss MARY FRIES, occupied easels on the platform, and were examined by many. They were the Rev. SAMUEL KRAMSH, 1802—1806; Rev. ABRAHAM STEINER, 1806—1810; Rev. BENJAMIN REICHEL, 1816—1833; Bishop J. C. JACOBSON, 1834—1844; Rev. CHARLES A. BLECK, 1844—1848. Large numbers of friends passed in and out of the hall from 2 o'clock till 5:30, and every one pronounced the exhibit the largest and most satisfactory ever displayed in the Academy. From Miss SEWERS we have the following points in regard to the Art Department: "On Tuesday, at 2 P. M., the Chapel was opened for visitors to inspect specimens of work by the Cooking, Botany, Book-keeping, Drawing, Painting and Needlework classes. Some of the drawings and paintings showed very decided talent and application, notably those of Miss SUSIE REYNOLDS and Miss SALLIE PENN, who will make their mark in the world (and make it artistically) if they persevere. Miss ANNIE DAVIS had the largest collection, and Miss BILHARZ showed remarkable results for one year's work. Mrs. RIGGINS and Miss CARRIE SHELTON exhibited crayon portraits. Much of the work was that of beginners, whose immature minds prevent the rapid progress to be found in the work of those whose reasoning powers are developed. Perhaps the most interesting feature of the display was the exhibit of Miss MARY FRIES, who displayed the portraits of the first five Principals of the Academy, finished in crayon. There was a variety of embroidery on silk, linen and cotton fabrics, and where a pupil had several pieces on exhibition it was interesting to note how her work had improved. Many a girl is trained into a deftness with and a liking for her needle by these flowery methods, as she will discover by and by, when her lace stitches become the prosaic darn, and the common name of her applied work is, a patch."

For some years the Alumnae have chosen Wednesday as their special day. In the morning and in the early afternoon the various Class Reunions are held, in Society Hall and in the Library. These reunions are always of a very delightful nature, and we hope to have a detailed report of the hour spent together by the various classes for some future number of the ACADEMY. A sketch of the history of each class will be found in the general report given below. The members of the Alumnae Society were busy during the morning, decorating and arranging for the afternoon meeting, and when the work of their skillful hands was at an end the hall was truly a thing of beauty. During the past year Mrs. ELLEN STARBUCK was President and Miss ALICE RONDTHALER Secretary and Treasurer. Miss RONDTHALER has kindly prepared a sketch for us, which is as follows:

"How many interests have come to cluster around the annual meeting of the Alumnae Association? When the Association was organized, the chief feature of its meeting was the pleasure experienced from the reunion of former pupils, nor has that reunion ceased to be one of the very happiest features, but, added to it has come the interest, ever growing and deepening, in the Endowment Fund, and since the need of the same has become so pressing, the members feel themselves drawn together by a vital tie, and feel, too, that the annual meeting of the Alumnae is of the utmost importance."

"On the afternoon of May 31, when the President rose to call the meeting to order, what a multitude of faces were turned toward her! the faces of those who had come from near and far to spend an hour happily and profitably in each other's company, under the shadow of their beloved Alma Mater. There was the Alumna over whom years of yesterdays had passed since leaving her school home, and beside her the fair girl to be graduated on the morrow, and to both the Chapel walls were sweetly familiar.

"Glancing upon the platform one could not fail to be interested, not in the palms and other foliage plants which served as such a graceful background, but on the thirty-two representatives of the classes of '73, '85 and '88. These class reunions are growing in favor, and we trust no Alumnae meeting in the years to come will be without at least one such gathering.

"After tender and earnest greeting from the President, the representative of each class was called upon to give a short report, consisting of such items of many a life-story and how as in Longfellow's ancient time-piece, the echo seemed to run through each,

"All are scattered now and fled,
Some are married, some are dead."

"The Class of '73 had held no formal reunion, but several of its members having come to Commencement to be present at the graduation of their daughters, it was found that seven of the class of twenty years ago could be gathered at the Alumnae meeting. Of course many changes had occurred in the two decades 'but to us,' said the class historian, 'our Alma Mater can never grow old, and we think we can show her no higher tribute of love and esteem than by having our daughters educated within her noble walls. May her present prosperity continue as long as time shall last, and may the blessings of God forever rest on SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY.'

"The Class of '85 were happy in gathering seventeen out of their twenty-four class-mates into the home once more. From their report we quote: 'Fourteen of our number have taken a life-school with only one pupil, the rest we hope may do likewise. Meantime they are variously engaged, some teaching, and others using' their various gifts aright in earning their own independent livelihood. The eight years have brought their measure of life's joy to all; to two, one of its deepest bereavements. Our class reunion took place to-day; we brought back the pleasure, fun, forgotten and unforgotten loves and likes of our schooldays, and none of its lessons and worries. We are sorry that all of our class-mates cannot be with us to bring back for a brief day the life of the past years; may our next reunion, however, be a fuller one, even a complete one, and may we be spared for many years of usefulness.'

"The reunion of the Class of '88 had proved most enjoyable, and they came forward eight strong, out of a widely scattered circle, to present their greetings. Even the five years had, however, brought many changes, and here, too, the sweet mingled with the bitter, three times in this short period had the Death angel thinned their ranks, and the story of three classmates had been closed over. Sweetly the Alumnae Song seemed to gather up these memories, the bright present and misty future, to itself, and many voices bore the fitting words out into the summer sunshine.

"The Endowment Fund and its needs carefully presented brought the Association face to face with the present and the prospect of the future usefulness of the Association. The thought of the many needy daughters longing for a helping hand made many a heart warm, and the Fund received a very valuable increase.

"The Lovefeast, solemn and sacred, carrying many a one back to other days, when similar occasions had been happy events in school-life, brought the exercises to a close. The hymns, the prayers, led hearts to remember that, 'though sundered far, by faith we meet around one common mercy-seat.' The hour of reunion was over, the welcomes were turned into farewells, and, as the President declared the Seventh Meeting of the Alumnae Association adjourned, Teachers, classmates, old friends and new, passed out into the busy world to meet in many cases only when the day of earth's conflict shall have ceased."

The names of those taking part were, Mrs. Starbuck, Miss Rondthaler, Miss Pittman, Mrs. Mary Lang Read, Miss Mattie Bahnon, Mrs. Will Reynolds. The religious exercises were conducted by Bishop RONDTHALER.

The Grand Concert was under the direction of Professor PAUL SCHMOLCK, and the programme was made up of selections by the full Chorus Class, together with numbers given by pupils from the Instrumental, Vocal and Elocution Departments. The auditorium was, as usual, crowded far beyond its capacity,—the windows being filled, and hundreds standing outside the building. The tone of the concert was bold and strong. The full choruses were sung by about two hundred voices, accompanied by two pianos in one instance, and without instrumental accompaniment in another. The time was good, the interpretation perfect, and the general effect marked. We note especially the fine work done by the male voices. The gentlemen who took part were: MESSRS. LICHTENTHALER, C. CRIST, F. VOGELER, F. STOCKTON, BOVD, Tenors; EBERT, BRICKENSTEIN, R. and W. SPAUGH and HAUSER, Basses, and never was there a more rounded accompaniment heard in our Commencement exercises. The Instrumental selections were for one and two pianos, and the performers showed a skill and confidence that was very gratifying. Of the vocal and elocution departments we have already spoken. The teachers who presented pupils for the programmes throughout the week, besides those already named, were Misses VEST, HEGE, MICKEY, HAGEN, BROWN, L. and A. VAN VLECK, SIDDALL and SETTLE. Mr. JOHN BUTNER added much to the several pieces to which the violin obligato was rendered. A general and truc criticism of the programme would be that it was so varied as to be enjoyed by all, was strong and clear cut in character, was not too lengthy, and the hearty applause indicated the pleasure of the great audience throughout. The names of those taking part are: Misses M. CONRAD, SCALES, SMITH, GOSLING, MORRISON, CARRIER, READ, SIDDALL, CROUCH, SHIELDS, CRUTCHFIELD, SETTLE, CROSS, DAVIS, PALMER, and Miss ADELAIDE SCRIBER. The pianos used at this and the previous entertainments were the Hallett & Davis Grand and Kimball Grand, furnished by the Standard Music Co., of Winston.

The closing exercises of the week, and we might add of the school year, took place Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. On this occasion diplomas were given to 41 young ladies who had completed the full college course and whose names have been already given in this article. In addition to this the degree of A. B. was conferred upon Miss LOUISE ELIZABETH SIDDALL, she also receiving a diploma as a graduate in Instrumental Music. In the Commercial Department the following names were announced as graduates: ELLA ANDERSON, ADDIE LINEBACK, ELLA HEGE, GEORGIA MURPHY, HATTIE WINKLER, JESSIE SHORE, ETHEL WEAVER, HELEN SHIELDS,—all in Book-keeping. In Phonography the following names were announced: AGNES FOGLE, SALLIE HYMAN, ADDIE NIMOCKS, FLORENCE TISE and HELEN SHIELDS. In Telegraphy,—HELEN SHIELDS. The music for the occasion was furnished by the Salem Orchestra, who not only appeared with the largest number of instruments, but added to the Commencement an exceptionally fine list of selections, in a most spirited and carefully interpreted manner. It is claimed by many who enjoyed the Commencement exercises that the Salem Orchestra never furnished finer music, thus adding new laurels to the many already gained. Miss TRACY sang a beautiful solo, with orchestral accompaniment, which was in keeping with the high order of music for the morning. Rev. JAMES E. HALL, of the Board of Trustees, read the Scripture, and prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. TURRENTINE, of the Winston M. E. church. The orator of the occasion was Hon. G. W. SHELL, of Laurens, S. C. He spoke earnestly and forcibly, treating of the enlarged sphere of woman's work, and predicting that in the near future greater progress would be made in opening other spheres of usefulness to the women of our land. He made humorous allusions to the unsuitableness of the male sex to fill certain fields of work still in their possession. His words of commendation for the ACADEMY were warm and earnest, and his advice to the young ladies practical and well suited to the occasion. Mr. CLEWELL, as Principal of the Institution, then made a report, and alluded to the unusually satisfactory experiences of the year; the numbers were large, having reached 362; the health was good, not a single case of serious illness having occurred; the conduct and spiritual life was all that could be desired. Bishop RONDTHALER then presented the diplomas, making an address, tender and sympathetic in its nature, and coming from the warm heart of this dear friend of the pupils, each word found entrance into the hearts of the young ladies who were about to say farewell to the Alma Mater. After the diplomas had been delivered, the young ladies of the graduating class arose and sang the "farewell song." The sight was one long to be remembered. The pure white costume of cap and gown was modest and becoming; the faces by this time showed that all realized the near approach of the end; the plaintive, tender voices, and here and there a tear glistened in the eye as the lips uttered the words of the farewell song; the audience was visibly moved by the scene, and it will form one of the most pleasant and touching remembrances of this year's class. The Benediction was pronounced by Dr. McCURE, and the school-year 1892-'93 was a thing of the past.

A correspondent of the Bethlehem, Pa., Moravian ends a communication to that paper as follows:

"Principal CLEWELL, his devoted wife and the faculty of the ACADEMY all deserve the highest praise for the work of the past session as exhibited in all the school's departments. Of these Mrs. CLEWELL should have a very large share of credit; quietly and unostentatiously she attends to her very responsible duties, and a glance into any part of the house-keeping of these 362 souls shows everything in the best of working order. I have had occasion to see the affection in which she is held by her girls, and their leave-taking of her is probably more sad than the severing of any other school ties.

"The loyalty of Winston-Salem to the ACADEMY is a great point in understanding the success of this school. Young and old, business men, all classes take an abiding interest in SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, and are ever ready to stand by the Principal in any emergency, and their strong encouragement and practical good will go a great ways in assisting Principal, Trustees and Faculty in carrying on the greatest work of modern times, viz: the higher education of girls and young women.

The immense Hanes' tobacco factory was destroyed by fire some weeks since. One week after this the old Salem Grist Mill was likewise burned.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., JUNE, 1893.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

The next school-year will open September 5th, 1893, at 10 A. M. New pupils can enter some days earlier, and it is to their advantage to do so. All pupils should be present by or before the 5th, since the fact that our numbers are so large makes it advantageous for the pupil to make provision for room, alcove, &c., early. Parents should drop us a line as soon as they decide to patronize our school, since this enables us to make ample arrangements in advance.

The large amount of space taken by the Commencement article makes it impossible for us to present the second part of the historical sketch by Miss FRIES. We will continue the publication of the same in our next number and continue it each issue till finished. We have had a number of extra copies of the May edition published, and will send a copy when request is made.

It will be difficult to duplicate the record of the year just closed, in the matter of conduct, religious interest and health, as well as in scholastic work. We trust the next Senior Class may be worthy leaders in all these particulars.

Many news items had to be curtailed because of lack of space, but, possibly, brevity may not be objectionable after all.

Portraits of the Early Principals.

As noted elsewhere, one of the pleasing features of the Art Exhibit was the group of portraits of the first five Principals of the ACADEMY, the Revs. KRAMSH, STEINER, REICHEL, JACOBSON and BLECK. The first difficulty was that of securing the photographs,—but ere long the difficulty was overcome, and all were safely in hand. The second difficulty was to take the very imperfect photographs, which in some instances were merely copies of imperfect oil portraits, and from the meagre material work out the desired results. It was not sufficient to have a moderately well executed portrait, we desired interest as well as mechanical execution worked in,—and both were fully secured when Miss MARY FRIES consented to make the copies. It was a difficult and tedious work, but one that has been well done, and all who have examined the results are well pleased with the undertaking. For the present the pictures will hang in the Principal's office, though we trust that in time the school will have a fire proof building that will safely contain many historical and other articles that should not be subject to the risk of fire. There are records now in possession of the school which could never be replaced if they should be destroyed by fire. We certainly feel a sense of satisfaction that all the difficulties attending this undertaking have been overcome and that this memento of the distant past has been secured for the school, and we take this opportunity of publicly conveying to Miss FRIES the acknowledgement of the Institution for her patriotic work.

Personal.

—We were pained to learn of the death of Miss BERTHA DE SCHWEINITZ, daughter of Rev. ROBERT DE SCHWEINITZ, so long known as the popular Principal of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, and now resident in Bethlehem, Pa. She died in Philadelphia, Pa., March 21st, at the age of 36 years. It seems but a short time since she was playing around the ACADEMY a very little girl, and now she too has gone. Our deepest sympathies go out to her aged father.

—The unexpected death of Mrs. C. A. Hege, (FANNY SPAUGH) was a great shock to the community. She was ill of a very severe cold, but as she had been in poor health for some years, no immediate danger was apprehended by her friends, and the solemn choral from the church band in the belfry was the first intimation of her death to many.

—The death of Mrs. MOLLIE JOHNSTON CRAIG after a protracted illness of over 5 months, was a severe blow to her many friends. A little more than a year ago she was married, and began life full of joy and happiness. On May 3rd, she died, after intense suffering. She was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church; she leaves a heart-stricken husband, a dear little babe, and a large circle of friends.

—All pupils remaining during vacation attended the picnic of the Salem Home Sunday School.

Names of Alumnae and Visitors.

It is impossible to secure a complete list of the friends who visited our towns on the occasion of the recent Commencement. But THE ACADEMY has gathered as many as possible, and will be pleased to note in the September number any additional names if you will kindly send them to us. Those who registered at the Alumnae Meeting (members not guests) are as follows:

- |                      |                       |
|----------------------|-----------------------|
| Mrs. M C Prather     | Miss Lizzie Heisler   |
| " Addie Baily        | " A L Pittman         |
| " Frank Brown        | " L VanVleck          |
| " Boyd,              | " A Van Vleck         |
| " E M Redd           | " M A Fogle           |
| " W B Ellis          | " Florence Cummings   |
| " I W Durham         | " Lula Hege           |
| " H C Eccles         | " Carrie R Jones      |
| " M J Horton         | " Bettie Cox          |
| " G E Nissen         | " Pattie Beck         |
| " Thomas Fuller      | " Berchye Kirk        |
| " Elizabeth Conrad   | " Minnie Hancock      |
| " Ellen Starbuck     | " Ora Thomsen         |
| " L A Breit-         | " Alice Thomson       |
| " John Tise          | " Irah Dunlap         |
| " Mollie Starbuck    | " Alice Rondthaler    |
| " Dr Watkins         | " Agnes Fogle         |
| " Dr Ector           | " Katharine Urquhart  |
| " Sallie Steadman    | " Edna Fisher         |
| " H Riggins          | " Ella Neely          |
| " Richardson         | " Lucy Thorp          |
| " H S K Morison      | " Lucia Swanson       |
| " P H Haues          | " Addie Bizzelle      |
| " G W Hinshaw        | " Kate Jones          |
| " H Favis,           | " Mattie Babson       |
| " E F Strickland     | " Rosa Spaugh         |
| " W B Pollard        | " Mary Fries          |
| " M S Read           | " Addie Fries         |
| " E T Carmichael     | " Tilla Stockton      |
| " L M Porter         | " Emma Kollins        |
| " M L Swanson        | " Laura Leslie        |
| " N S Stewers        | " Bessie Thomas       |
| " D S Reid           | " Carrie Mickey       |
| " G H Rights         | " Florence Meinung    |
| " J H Clewell        | " Flora Lott          |
| " Vernon Long        | " Lily Grogan         |
| " D D Shelton        | " Lillian Crutchfield |
| " Linas Patterson    | " Emma Colomay        |
| " M F Patterson      | " Mary McKeown        |
| " W J Conrad         | " Viola Davis         |
| " Felix Crutchfield  | " Benah Brooks        |
| " Robert Daniel      | " Daisy Brooks        |
| " R W Belo           | " Ella Hege           |
| " Augusta Winkler    | " E Welfare           |
| " J G Stockton       | " Mattie Williams     |
| " E C Chisard        | " S F Hunnicutt       |
| " W J Peterson       | " Bertha Hicks        |
| " W N Reynolds       | " Lizzie Hicks        |
| " Henry Vogler       | " Sarah E Shaffner    |
| " W A Lenly          | " Blanche Thomas      |
| " A C Vogler         | " Laura Morefield     |
| " G A Boozer         | " Mattie Johns        |
| " H J Stockard       | " Ethel Roberts       |
| " E S Gray           | " Narcie Taylor       |
| " F H Fries          | " Addie Nimocks       |
| " R L Hendricks      | " Carrie Greer        |
| " F C Meinung        | " Fannie Perrow       |
| " S J Montague       | " Dora Miller         |
| " L M Fries          | " Lizzie Chaffin      |
| " J H Stockton       | " Maud Broadway       |
| " Henry T Babson     | " Sophie E Butner     |
| " J W Fries          | " Annie Hill          |
| " T S Sprinkle       | " Addie E Meinung     |
| " C W Vogler         | " Minnie Mickey       |
| " Mrs Chas Stevenson | " Annie E McCuiston   |
| " Engene Ebert       | " Annie Landquist     |
| " John I Nissen      | " Lena Welborn        |
| " M E Landquist      | " Lula Ackerman       |
| " Ellen Shelton      | " Effie Butner        |
| " B M Kose           | " Sallie L Vest       |
| " J F Shaffner       | " Eliza J Gulick      |
| " J W Goslen         | " Farnela Bynum       |
| " S E Keechlin       | " Etta Shaffner       |
| " J A Vance          | " Mary Welfare        |
| " C H Fogle          | " Annie Moore         |
| " A B Gorrell        | " Mary M Zevely       |
| " W W Moore          | " A T Steiner         |
| " R P Lardner        | " Delphine Hall       |
| " Dora A Hopkins     | " Etta Brown          |
| " J P Crouse         | " Elizabeth Pfohl     |
| " Peter J Brame      | " Gertrude Jenkins    |
| " Charles Pfohl      | " Florence Tise       |
| " K A Jenkins        | " Ella Hinshaw        |
| " F J Liphert        | " Lizzie Lebach       |
| " K P Leimbach       | " Carrie Riggs        |
| Miss Sallie McLean   | " Mannie Thomas       |
| " Emma Chitty        | " Bertha Dawson       |
| " Emma Fisher        | " Laura Lenly         |
| " Lula Cox           | " Inna Cordill        |
| " Gertrude Stewers   | " Anna Kapp           |
| " Ross Elliot        | " Carrie Vest         |
| " Lizzie D Sutton    | " I. Shaffner         |
| " Maud Butner        | " Annie Reid          |

The following persons were guests at our Alumnae Meeting:

- |                     |                     |
|---------------------|---------------------|
| Rev A D McClure     | Mrs James E Hall    |
| Mrs A D McClure     | Rev L B Wurrtschke  |
| Mrs J B Richmond    | Mr A Lichthaler     |
| Miss M Bessent      | Mrs Edwards         |
| Miss Young          | Mr Frank Fries      |
| Mrs W E Hall        | Mrs Matilda Stewers |
| Col John E Brown    | Miss Helen Shields  |
| Bishop E Rondthaler | Miss Lucile Reid    |

- |                    |                    |
|--------------------|--------------------|
| Mrs E Rondthaler   | Mrs John McCuiston |
| Rev Arthur Theiler | Miss A Tracy       |
| Rev James E Hall   | Miss Hairston      |

In addition to the above we were pleased to welcome the following among the large company present during Commencement Week:

- |                     |                        |
|---------------------|------------------------|
| Mrs Hancock         | Mr Kellett             |
| Mrs Brooks          | Mrs Dawson             |
| Mr and Mrs Brooks   | Miss Sallie Brown      |
| Mr and Mrs Palmer   | Miss Annie Kerner      |
| Mrs Dicks           | Miss Meta Kerner       |
| Mr Gulick           | Mr Chewning            |
| Miss Laura Gulick   | Mr Burton              |
| Mrs Davis           | Mr and Mrs Woosley     |
| Mrs Leaves          | Mr and Mrs Crenshaw    |
| Mr and Mrs Nimocks  | Mr J Leslie            |
| Miss Fannie Moore   | Mrs Cowles             |
| Mr and Mrs McCauley | Master David Cowles    |
| Miss Mattie Gilmer  | Mr Cowles              |
| Miss Eliza Gilmer   | Mr Thornton            |
| Mr Carrier          | Miss Lizzie Fitzgerald |
| Mr John Taylor      | Mrs Nettie Tate        |
| Mr Harris           | Mr and Mrs Toomey      |
| Mrs Read            | Mr Colwell             |
| Miss Lillie Crouch  | Mr Harper              |
| Mrs Tietze          | Mr and Mrs Wright      |
| Dr Oliver Spencer   | Miss Edna Lindsay      |
| Mr John Taylor      | Miss Bert Lindsay      |
| Mr Geo Chaffin      | Miss Maud Harris       |
| Mrs Jones           | Mr Welborn             |
| Mrs Jones           | Mr John Cooper         |
| Mr J O Foy          | Mrs Chaffin            |
| Mr Morrison         | Mr Geo Painter         |
| Mr Wm Cummings      | Miss Fannie Avent      |

S. F. A. ALUMNÆ SONG.

1893.

BY MISS GERTRUDE E. JENKINS.

The perfume of roses floats in with the breeze,
Which murmuring sighs through the leaves of the trees.
With the gladness of summer our hearts throb and move,
And it thrills to our lips in this greeting of love,—
Hail! Alma Mater!

From South and from North leave thy daughters come home

The ghosts of the bright careless days that are past,
Are voicelessly speaking to hearts beating fast,
And pointing to earth, trees, and sky over all,
Living frames of dear scenes hung on memory's wall.
Oh, shades of youth!

When life is pervaded with questionless truth.

To-day there's a sweet minor strain in our song,
The remembrance of those who grew weary ere long;
They sighed—"Oh, ye portals of Sunset, nubar! fair"
And on cloud-wings they floated to Paradise fair.

Peace, peace to their souls!
The same love that is thine, to the end us enfolds.

There's a sigh on the breeze and a cry in the air,
From maidens who yearn for the sheltering care
Of these Halls, rich in classical lore, but in vain
Till our hands shall grasp theirs, gently leading them in.

To the full, 'tis more blessed to give than receive?

To-morrow we part. May the years as they roll,
Bring duty and love and peace to your soul,
May the labors, the gladness, the griefs, if they come,
Only deepen your rest when at last you'll be home,
And now comes—Farewell!

May Christ through His Love, keep you safe from all ill.

—Mr. CLEWELL attended the Teachers' Assembly at Morehead City, end of June, preaching before the Assembly, Sunday, June 25th, and addressing the gathering, Monday, 26th, on the subject "The Place of Latin in a Liberal Education." This meeting of the educators of the State is always a profitable and enjoyable occasion.

—We acknowledge invitations to the closing exercises of the school-year from the following institutions:— East Bend High School; Greensboro Normal School; College for Women, Columbia, S. C.; Davis Military School, Winston, N. C.; Graded School, Winston, N. C.; Elon College; Mt. Amoena Female Seminary; Augusta Seminary; Nazareth Hall, Nazareth, Penn.

Alumnæ Scholarship Fund.

Mrs. Richardson, . . . . .	$5.00
" Swanson, . . . . .	2.00
" Dora A. Hopkins, . . . . .	5.00
" W. W. Moore, . . . . .	5.00
" S. K. Stevenson, . . . . .	1.00
" James Hall, . . . . .	50
" J. G. Stockton, . . . . .	50
" P. H. Hanes, . . . . .	2.00
" Mary L. Read, . . . . .	5.00
" Mary F. Patterson, . . . . .	1.00
" E. C. Clinard, . . . . .	50
" Frank Miller, . . . . .	1.00
" Frank Brown, . . . . .	50
" G. A. Boozer, . . . . .	50
" R. T. Stedman, . . . . .	1.00
" D. S. Reid, . . . . .	50
" J. I. Nissen, . . . . .	1.00
" A. B. Gorrell, . . . . .	5.00
" R. A. Jenkins, . . . . .	1.00
" Wm. Brown, . . . . .	12.00
" Phebe Ector, . . . . .	1.00
" Annie J. Sprinkle, . . . . .	2.50
" George Rights, . . . . .	1.00
" Norfleet, . . . . .	1.00
" J. W. Hunter, . . . . .	5.00
Miss Annie Hill, . . . . .	1.00
" Fannie Moore, . . . . .	5.00
" S. E. Shaffner, . . . . .	1.00
" L. C. Shaffner, . . . . .	1.00
" Emma Kapp, . . . . .	1.00
" Laura Lemly, . . . . .	1.00
" Kate Urquhart, . . . . .	1.00
" Agnes Coleman, . . . . .	1.00
" Gertrude Jenkins, . . . . .	2.00
Misses A. and L. Van Vleck, . . . . .	1.00
Salem Female Academy, . . . . .	100.00
W. H. Hall in memory of wife, . . . . .	5.00
Cash, . . . . .	28.00
Mrs. L. M. Fries, . . . . .	5.00
Previously acknowledged, . . . . .	1104.45
	$1317.95

By order of the Board $300 has been loaned out at 8 per cent., so that the income from interest is now at the rate of $84 per year.

L. C. SHAFFNER, Treas.,
Salem, N. C.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The two new grand pianos used at Commencement elicited much favorable comment.

—Miss LUCY TIETZE's mother spent some time visiting friends in this section, taking in Commencement before going to her home in Illinois.

—Sixty pupils engaged in the two-mile daily walking class, and remained faithful to the close. They received the promised box of French candy.

—Commencement dinner was, as usual, a big success. Quite a number of friends sat down to this final meal of the closing year, and the good cheer was everywhere abroad.

—The Commencement platform was this year constructed in a somewhat different manner from last year, and was very much better as to results gained.

—Mr. CLEWELL visited East Bend Union School, June 26th, and delivered the address at the Annual Commencement of that flourishing institution.

—Dr. RONDTHALER visited the Synod of the Northern Province of the Moravian Church in May, but returned in time to be present at the closing exercises of our school-year.

—The invitations for Commencement were plain, neat and elegant. They were engraved by Wright, of Philadelphia, and the 41 names of the Graduating Class appeared on the 4th page.

—The school is under many obligations to the many friends who opened their homes for visiting guests during Commencement. Without this aid we would have been seriously embarrassed.

—Miss GRACE WOLLE will spend part of the vacation visiting friends in Virginia before going to her home in Pennsylvania, and Miss ANNIE PITTMAN will go to friends in Eastern North Carolina and in South Carolina.

—Examinations before the close of school were numerous in all departments, and in many particulars showed work far in advance of any previous ones. The instructors are to be congratulated as well as the pupils.

—The Annual Seniors' reception tendered by Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL to the outgoing class took place May 19th, and was a very enjoyable affair. The Junior Class was invited, and the large company enjoyed the evening in a hearty manner.

—Miss ANNA ADAMS has sent to little John Clewell, Jr., and also to Miss LEHMAN, two fine specimens of the Gopher, (Testudo Carolina) a species of large land tortoise. They are harmless and said to be very strong, so that children can stand on their backs and ride.

—A very enjoyable occasion was the wedding of Miss CARRIE MICKEY to Rev. Edward Crosland, in the Moravian church. The church was beautifully decorated, and a reception was tendered by the parents of the bride. THE ACADEMY extends its best wishes to this faithful former teacher in the Institution and to her talented and promising young husband.

—The following warm telegram was received on the afternoon of the Alumnæ Association Meeting, and explains itself:

HOUSTON, Tex., May 31.

To the Alumnæ Association, Salem Female Academy, Salem, N. C.:

I send you greetings. Years ripen and soften the affections, but the sweet memories of 'lang syne' grow stronger as we grow older. My thought is with you this day.

AMANDA CARDWELL RUTHERFORD.

—The Society Banquet was given May 12, and was a grand success. A few guests, consisting of members of the faculty and trustees were present, and with the good things served, the beautiful decorations, and the flow of wit and humor in the addresses made, the evening will be long remembered.

—Mr. PFOHL had his hands full in connection with the gigantic task of "getting the girls off" after Commencement. Few persons could get this difficult problem of trunks, checks and tickets better in hand than he has it, and none could be more faithful in the task. All was smooth as a piece of machinery.

—The "Workers Reception" tendered the large number of friends who aided us to make Commencement a success was attended by members of the Press, Ushers, Musicians, &c. It was a large and interesting company, and the Seniors aided the Principal and his wife in entertaining them. The evening was enjoyed by all.

—The names of the girls remaining during vacation are Misses LAURA and ELIZA HOFFMAN, NETTIE and MINNIE BARNES, and IRENE POINTS. Miss LAURA BLOUNT, of Texas, arrived Saturday after Commencement, making six in the company of vacation girls. They are in charge of Misses LILLIAN GOSLING and FLORENCE SETTLE, and occupy the Sixth Room as a study parlor and Fourth Room dormitory.

—The Davis Military School has closed another very successful year. This school is situated about two miles north of the ACADEMY on a beautiful and commanding hill, and it is as careful and conservative in the matter of discipline as it is possible for a school to be. Wednesday morning, June 7th, the Jefferson Society celebrated the close of the year with appropriate exercises, and at five o'clock the same afternoon an immense crowd was present to witness the Battalion Drill and sham battle. The Dress Parade followed the sham battle. At 8:30 o'clock p. m., the Washington Society had its annual celebration, the Rev. Mr. Lee, being the orator. The medals and diplomas were awarded on this occasion. Col. Davis, the Superintendent of this College announces that the prospects are good for next year and he will be pleased to furnish any information that is desired.

1802—1893.

Salem Female Academy.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register or present year will exceed 250. Special features:—the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Married.

CROSLAND—MICKEY.—In the Moravian church, in this place, on June 20th, by Bishop Edward Rondthaler, Rev. EDWARD CROSLAND to Miss CARRIE MICKEY.

RANEY—FARLEY.—On May 24th, in the Presbyterian church, of Milton, N. C., Mr. GEORGE A. RANEY to Miss MARY ELIZABETH FARLEY.

SCOTT—CAMPELL.—On June 7th, in the First Presbyterian church, of Houston, Texas, Mr. JOHN T. SCOTT to Miss MATTIE REBA CAMPBELL.

SMITH—FITZPATRICK.—On June 14th, in the Methodist Episcopal church, of Mt. Pleasant, Texas, Mr. EDWARD L. SMITH to Miss MARY FITZPATRICK.

JONES—WOODDELL.—In Raleigh, N. C., on June 14th, Mr. J. JUSTIN S. JONES to Miss MATTIE WOODDELL.

BRYANT—DICKS.—In Randleman, N. C., June 21st, Mr. STANHOPE BRYANT to Miss LILLIAN DICKS.

GALLION—FRANKLIN.—In the Presbyterian church, of Hebron, Tenn., Dr. EARNEST McMELLAN GALLION to Miss MAMIE FRANKLIN.

Died.

DE SCHWEINITZ.—In Philadelphia, Pa., March 21st, Miss BERTHA DE SCHWEINITZ, youngest daughter of Rev. Robert De Schweinitz, of Bethlehem, Pa.

HEGE.—In April, Mrs. C. A. HEGE, (FANNY SPAUGH) of Salem, N. C.

CRAIG.—On May 3rd, in Reidsville, N. C., Mrs. MOLLIE W. CRAIG, wife of Mr. Jasper N. Craig, and daughter of the late William Johnston, Esq., of Caswell county, Va.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of _____ Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal most directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country.

All the leading novelties, such as: Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings, in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up. Also the latest novelties in

Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c. We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear, which we are offering at Low Prices. Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS, has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders. ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices. Phone 111. Phone 111. Jan., 1892.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum. The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893. Rev. C. C. LANIUS, Principal. Nov. '92-1f.

DAVIS SCHOOL, A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART. Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education. Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt. Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A., Prof. of Military Science and Tactics. October, 1892.

Horner Military School, OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location. New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights, Hot and Cold Baths. Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys. Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application. HORNER & DREWRY, Principals.

June 1892—1y

Alumnae Badge Pins.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNAE BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae to Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxydized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGEL & SON.

JEWELERS, 234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer, Salem Female Academy, SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91—1y.

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.95

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOD	1.50
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE

ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

FOUNDED 1802.

Salem Female Academy.

SALEM, N. C.

For rates, Correct County Maps, and full information all at QUEEN & CRESCENT TICKET OFFICE READ HOUSE, or CENTRAL PASSENGER STATION D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. & T. A., Cincinnati, Ohio.

ARKANSAS, TEXAS AND CALIFORNIA SHORT LINE

Via THE MEMPHIS & LITTLE ROCK RAILROAD. The Quickest and most Direct Route to all points in the West and Southwest.

Connecting with Through coaches and Sleepers at Memphis from east and southeast, carrying Through Coaches and 1 Parlor Chair Cars free from Memphis to all prominent points in Arkansas and Texas.

Correspondence solicited from Principals of Schools and Parents concerning the safe conduct of scholars.

For further information, Maps, Schedule and Railway Guide address

R. A. WILLIAMS, S. E. Pass. Agt., Box 343, Atlanta, Ga. H. W. MORRISON G. P. & Tick Agt., Little Rock, Ark.

The Cotton Belt Route.

Has handled more students to and from Arkansas and Texas than all other Southwestern lines combined; and its continued popularity with the principal Southeastern schools is the highest guarantee of the excellence of its service and the truthfulness of its representations.

THE ONLY LINE receiving and delivering passengers at Memphis without a long and disagreeable omnibus transfer across the city.

THE ONLY LINE with through sleeping car service between MEMPHIS and the Southwest.

THE ONLY LINE with through car service between Memphis and points in Central Texas.

W. G. ADAMS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Nashville, Tenn. S. G. WARNER, S. E. Pass. Agt., Memphis, Tenn. H. H. SUTTON, Trav. Pass. Agt., Chattanooga, Tenn. W. H. WINTERFIELD, Gen. Pass. Agt., Tyler, Texas. E. W. LAUREAUME, G. P. & T. Agt., St. Louis, Mo. June 1892-1y

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the then a change of cars is made at Walnut ove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut ove Union Station.

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

J. W. FRY, Gen. Sup't, Greensboro, N. C. W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt., Fayetteville, N. C.

Iron Mountain Route.
Great through line from Arkansas, Texas and the Southwest to Salem and North Carolina.

Write to the undersigned if you contemplate attending Salem Female College for rates, routes and time-tables.

H. C. TOWNSEND, Gen'l Pass. Agt., St. Louis.

June 1892-1y

Norfolk & Western R'y

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middleboro, Louisville.

By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

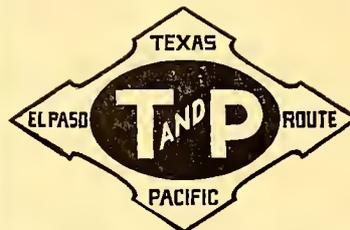

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL, Gen. Pass. Agt., Trav. Pass. Agt. ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892-1y

The short line to New Orleans, Memphis and points in the Southeast.

Take the "St. Louis Limited," 12 hours saved, between Fort Worth, Dallas and St. Louis and the East.

The Direct Line to all points in Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona, Oregon and California.

Through Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars between Dallas, Fort Worth, and St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco.

For rates, tickets and all information apply to, or address any of the ticket agents or

GASTON MESLIER, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agt., Dallas, Texas. June 1892-1y

S. E. ALLEN.

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

Gray Block.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boyston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth. 337 pages. Price $7.00. By mail, $8.10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English. REV. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: "It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of a that is necessary in grammar."

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 50 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth. 325 pages, $1.75. By mail $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.40.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth. 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the exact discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford. pp. vi., 255. 16mo, cloth, 84 cents.

"Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Herald.

"Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the latter use."—Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hampden—Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature, Cassica Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cowper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverly, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Rufus Choate—Thackeray's Four Georges and English Humorists, Parts I. and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Eginhard's Charenagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odyssey etc., will be published.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,
PUBLISHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '93-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XV.

SALEM, N. C., SEPTEMBER, 1893.

NUMBER 138.

1802—1893.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 262. Special features:— the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Continued from the May Number.

Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy.

BY MISS ADELAIDE L. FRIES.

JULY 16, 1805, the new building was solemnly consecrated. At 1 o'clock a procession formed in the Chapel of the Gemein Haus, consisting of the boarders and town girls, all in white, preceded by the ministers of the various congregations, and followed by the teachers. A choir of trombones dismissed them from their temporary abode, and a second choir welcomed them into their new school home. The whole company then assembled in the sleeping-hall,—the largest room in the house,—forming themselves into two large semi-circles, and after music and a fervent dedicatory prayer, a lovefeast was held. Two gentlemen from South Carolina also participated in the services, having come on that day to enter their daughters as the first pupils from their State. After the usual evening service of the congregation, the scholars once more assembled, this time before the house, and, together with the whole congregation, sang hymns of thanksgiving and praise. The occupants of the new house were the Principal, his family and 2 room companies, each with 10 girls and 2 teachers.

There is preserved in the archives a copy of the first Circular issued by the ACADEMY, printed on rather coarse paper, now yellow with age, and bearing date of May 23d, 1804. It is a quaint old document setting forth the "Terms and Conditions of the Boarding School for Female Education in Salem, N. C.," announcing that "the age of admittance of pupils between 8 and 12 years. The age of 15 terminates their stay in the School: unless parents choose to order their return home sooner, or their deportment be such as not to admit their continuance in the school." "The Branches taught are Reading, Grammar, Writing, Arithmetic, History, Geography, (German, if desired), plain Needlework, etc. Music and Fine Needlework, including Drawing, are two extra branches, in which instruction is given, if expressly desired." "The amount of the yearly expenses collectively may be calculated at the rate of between 160 and 180 Dollars, more or less." Application for admission is to be made in writing, and "it is desirable that such as are applied for should have had the small or kine pox and measles." The Circular is signed by the Rev. SAMUEL KRAMSH as Principal.

The manner in which the pupils were regarded is indicated by the Register, which bears the title, "Daughters in the Boarding School in Salem," and the home circle was simulated as nearly as possible in the household arrangements. Each company of fifteen to twenty girls was in the especial care of two lady teachers, who were "on duty" on alternate days, so there was always some one to whom they might apply for help or counsel, while the Principal endeavored to be Father, Pastor, Guardian and Friend for the whole of his large family; and letters from former pupils show that they truly felt their Alma Mater to be a second home. Mr. Kramsh was something of a botanist, and, having given each girl a garden, encouraged her to transplant many of the beautiful flowers discovered during their walks. One day, in the woods where Winston now stands, the girls surprised two little fawns, caught one of them in an apron, and brought it home, where it reigned as a great pet until it became unmanageable and had to be killed.

In these early days travelling on horseback was quite common, and many were the amusing incidents in a ride of hundreds of miles in the company of father or older brother, and, perhaps, two to six girl companions. One day such a party was riding along, and passing an open gateway they heard a cry, "Hard-in, oh! Hard-in!" It was the brother's name, and, after listening a few moments, he and his sister rode in to see who was calling. No one was in sight but a common black crow, which presently lifted up its voice, and proved that its tongue having been split it could speak almost as well as a parrot. When the ACADEMY was reached the escort would sell his superfluous horses and the side-saddles would be hung away until the school days were ended, and the young lady ready to return home. On one occasion a girl came with her father, who was en route for the South with a large drove of horses. She rode a beautiful little pony, pure white, with shaggy mane and tail, and expected to continue using it as she did at home. Great was her grief when she found it was against the rules of the school; but the pony was left at the hotel stables until her father should pass through on his way home, and she was allowed to ride with the Principal on Saturdays, and to oversee the care of her pet. Soon she grew to love the place where she was so tenderly cared for, and on her father's return the little white pony was given up, to await his little mistress in her Virginia home. In after years her daughter was sent to the same institution, and in grateful recognition of the kindness shown her a fine gray horse was sent as a present to the school for the use of the Principal.

In 1806 Mr. KRAMSH gave up the Principalship to Rev. ABRAHAM STEINER, a native of Bethlehem, Pa., who remained in charge for ten years. He followed up Mr. KRAMSH's custom of giving the girls flower beds, by laying out a large garden some distance south of the school, where each girl might work her will in her own plot of ground, and run a friendly rivalry with her neighbors as to who should have the prettiest flowers; or, if not inclined to work, she might take a book into the pleasant summer house, and there enjoy the surrounding brightness.

In the spring of 1807 the first death occurred in the ACADEMY. It was a dreary chilly day, and the children were indulging in a romping game in the lower hall, since they could not go out of doors, when one of their number, a wild little thing, threw herself against the door with such force that she fell senseless. She was borne to the sick-room, and her suddenly-sobered, badly frightened companions seated themselves on the stairs to wonder if she would get well, and whether she would go to Heaven if she died, for she had not been very good. At last they grew so disturbed that one of them went for the Principal, who comforted them by explaining that she had had no one to teach her to be good until she came to the School, and they might safely leave her case with God. But the following days were very sad, for the little one had received internal injuries and could not recover. She was buried in the Salem graveyard.

In the same year the first certificate of scholarship was issued, and was quaintly worded thus: "Be it known that Miss _____, daughter of _____, of _____ Co., State of _____, has for some time past resided and been a pupil in the Boarding School for Female Education in Salem, N. C., and as she is now on the point of leaving the said Institution, the Inspector and Tutoreses of the same cannot withhold from her the testimony of applause due her for her general good conduct as a Pupil in said Institution. She has followed her studies with all assiduity, and has made good progress therein, very willingly submitted to the rules of the School, and by her good conduct and strictly moral behavior has gained the good-will and esteem of those under whom she has been placed, and the sincere regard of the whole School.

"Given at Salem, the 29th day of October, 1897, for myself and in the name of the Tutoreses of the said Institution. "ABRAHAM STEINER, Inspector."

The number of pupils constantly increased and more room became imperative; the Principal and his family therefore moved into a house on Main Street, near the north-west corner of the Square, where they resided until the present "Principal's House" was built in 1810. Still the ACADEMY was more than full, and about the time that Mr. STEINER resigned a number of girls were placed as "out-boarders" with families in town.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Reunion of the Class of '85.

EARLY in March I received a letter from Kate Urquhart, stating her intention of attending the Commencement Exercises at SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, and proposing a Reunion of the Class of '85. Further correspondence and consultation resulted in the meeting of the members of the class resident in Winston-Salem at the home of Kate Bitting Reynolds, on May 12th. There were 9 present at the meeting, and we decided that a reunion of the class might be a success, even if there were but few of the non-resident members present, inasmuch as 13 of the class were then already in Winston-Salem. Lizzie Leinbach and Pamela Bynum were requested to write to all the girls inviting them to be with us. We decided that our meeting should be entirely informal, and that we would invite no guests except our Principal, Bishop Rondthaler, the present Principal, Mr. Clewell, Professor Wureschke and Miss Lehman. We thought it would add to the interest of the occasion if we could meet in the dear old ACADEMY, and accordingly requested Mary Hendrix to consult with Miss Lehman, and decide upon the best place for the meeting. We agreed upon the hour before the Alumnae Meeting, Wednesday afternoon, May 31st, as the time, and separated in the hope of meeting at least a large proportion of the "happy twenty-four."

At the appointed hour 17 members of the Class of '85, Miss Lehman, Bishop Rondthaler and Professor Wureschke met in the ACADEMY Library (the Studio of '85) and spent a delightful hour in social converse. It was, indeed, a happy time, as many of us had not met before since separated in June, '85. Of course, there had been many changes and but few, if any of us had realized the dreams of our graduation day. Those present were:—Mary Williams Daniel, of Panther Creek, N. C.; Dora Adams Hopkins, of Atlanta, Ga.; Lula Tate Stockard, of Chapel Hill, N. C.; Kate Urquhart, of Allen's, Ga.; and Kate Bitting Reynolds, Cora Hamlen Lüpfer, Annie Jones Sprinkle, Mary Hunter Hendrix, Mattie Franklin Mickey, Delphine Hall, Carrie Riggs, Pamela Bynum, Lizzie Leinbach, Ida Moore, Maggie Brown Pollard and Theo. Fitzgerald Gray, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Maude Broadaway, of Greensboro, N. C. From Lula we learned that Juanita Miller is now Mrs. O. C. Rucker, of Bedford City, Va. Alice Nunnally is at home at Ruffin, N. C., and Eugenia was then teaching in Reidsville. * Florrie Gibson is now Mrs. Allan D. Morris, of Shreveport, La. Bettie Shepherd Williamson, of Winston, was prevented from being with us on account of illness. A letter from Pattie Johnston King, of Blackwell's, N. C., announced the sad death of her sister, Mollie Johnston Craig on May 3d. This is the first break in our number, and it makes us sad to have to record it. Her death is particularly sad from the fact that she leaves a little daughter only six months old. We extend the sympathy of the class to the bereaved husband and sister.

We regretted that, on account of other engagements, Mr. Clewell could not be with us. He was thoughtful enough, however, to send regrets by Bishop Rondthaler, also a valuable suggestion by Mary Hendrix. We showed our appreciation of the latter by unanimously adopting it and acting upon it at once. The suggestion was that we effect a permanent organization by the election of class officers. After receiving some instructions from Bishop Rondthaler as to the modus operandi, we elected Mary Hendrix, President; Kate Bitting Reynolds, Vice President; Pamela Bynum, Secretary, and (by her request) Dora Hopkins, Treasurer. Mr. Clewell's idea, which we readily adopted, was that the class should be kept informed as to each other's whereabouts by means of circulating letters. The President is to write the first letter, which she will send to the Vice President. She, in turn, will forward this letter, with one from herself, to the Secretary, and those letters, with one from the Secretary, will be sent to some member of the class,—every girl receiving the letters to enclose them with one from herself to another member from whom she has not heard, proceeding by the list found in the Catalogue of S. F. A. In this way every girl will hear from every other one. We agreed to meet on the ACADEMY lawn Thursday morning immediately after the Commencement Exercises, and have a photograph of the class and guests taken as a souvenir of the occasion.

After having been regaled with some light refreshments, and requested Miss Lehman to escort us into the Chapel as she did when we were school-girls, we proceeded in a body to the Alumnae Association meeting.

We can hardly indulge the hope of ever again having so many of our number together, still we may express the wish that some day we may all meet again.

THEO. FITZGERALD GRAY.

[From the Moravian, Bethlehem, Pa.]

Death of Prof. L. B. Wurreeschke.

SATURDAY, July 8, 1893, just as the clock in the church-tower was striking twelve o'clock noon, the spirit of our Brother WURRESCHKE took its flight from this world to its eternal home. For some time friends had become aware of a decline in his strength. Naturally of a strong and robust frame, it was apparent that his step was no longer elastic, nor his method of doing his work so buoyant as of yore. On the day of his death he left his home on Park Avenue and came over to Main Street early in the morning. Having made some purchases he proceeded in the direction of the Salem Square, but it was noticed by several friends that when addressed he did not respond to the salutation. Before reaching Mr. Jones' store he dropped his cane and with difficulty picked it up. Stepping into the store he took a seat without saying anything. The proprietor noticed that he was evidently not well, spoke to him several times, but Prof. WURRESCHKE made no reply, his head bending forward till it rested on the store counter. Friends at once came to his aid, a physician was summoned, and he was taken to the home of Rev. J. H. CLEWELL. The family was hastily summoned, and every attention given to the sufferer, Drs. Bahson, Siwers and Gray all being present. After being in an unconscious state for some 4 hours, he died at noon.

The same evening his remains were removed to his home on Park Avenue. The absent sons were summoned by telegraph and arrived by midnight.

Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock the funeral services were held in the Moravian church, there being a very large attendance of friends and neighbors. The sermon was preached by Bishop EDWARD RONDTHALER, the Revs. Hall, McCuis-ton, Thæler and CLEWELL taking part. About six o'clock the body was laid to rest in the beautiful Moravian graveyard, all nature seeming to breathe peace on the assembled company.

Rev. L. B. WURRESCHKE was born in Germany, July 31st, 1839, and was thus nearly 54 years of age. He was educated for the ministry in his native country after the thorough methods prevailing there. Having finished the course of study he taught for a number of years in our Church schools in Germany and England. In 1866 he was ordained into the ministry, and the same year united in marriage to Sister Josephine J. Alector. After the marriage they went to the mission field on the West Indies, where the fatal yellow fever was raging at the time; both were stricken down with the dread disease, but their lives were spared. The failure of Mrs. Wurreeschke's health, after nine years' service, caused them to return to Europe. At this time a call was given Rev. Mr. WURRESCHKE to a Professorship in the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, and he accepted the same. This position he held till 1880, when he was elected Principal of the Salem Boys' School, and in this capacity he labored some years. During the last few years of his life Prof. WURRESCHKE occupied the position of book-keeper in the ACADEMY, also instructing certain classes in both institutions, as well as teaching certain young men from the town. His last year was an exceedingly busy one, he having more work than his failing strength really allowed. In addition to his educational work, Prof. WURRESCHKE often assisted in the services of the Salem church, and in other congregations in the District. At one time he had charge of the Salem congregation, during the pastor's absence at the General Synod in Germany.

His widow and six children survive him.

During the entire eighteen years of Bro. WURRESCHKE's stay in the South he loved to be in the office of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, and here he could be found a portion of almost every day. Next to his own home he was most attached to this spot, and hence it seemed most fitting that as it was so ordered that he was not to die at home, no more fitting spot could have been chosen than this house beneath the roof of which so much of his time was spent. Prof. WURRESCHKE was a man of strong intellectual powers. He had an original disposition, and possessed a beautiful and childlike faith. Having spent so many years in this field of labor he will be greatly missed, not only by his bereaved family, but by a large circle of friends and acquaintances, not a few of whom are former and present pupils of the ACADEMY, who will in many instances now learn for the first time of the death of their former friend and instructor.

J. H. C.

Mr. Clewell's Birthday.

TUESDAY, Sept. 19th, Mr. CLEWELL reached the 38th milestone on his life journey, and this date is usually observed as a holiday by the school. This year was no exception to the rule. This was the 10th birthday he has spent within the service of the school, and friends united to make the day an unusually pleasant one for him. The members of the school ushered in the day by sending over to the Principal's house a magnificent roller top desk, a perfect beauty and a model of convenience. Finished in native oak it contains drawers and pigeon holes, closets and shelves in every conceivable and inconceivable place,—in fact, "Rogers" remarked, after helping the men to carry it upstairs, that it only needed a bed in it to make a complete dwelling-house! In addition to the desk Mr. C. was also the fortunate recipient of a gold-headed cane, books and pictures, besides a number of handsome bouquets of flowers, with the congratulations of the kind donors. The open summer car was chartered for the day, and took each of the pupils an 8 mile ride over the electric railway lines. All day long the merry parties came and went from the large front portico, and the enjoyment seemed to be very great. The birthday dinner was carefully prepared and heartily did all respond to the great bell's invitation to the repast. In the evening Bishop RONDTHALER delivered a lecture on Palestine, describing his tour through the Holy Land, and illustrating the lecture with sciopticon views taken by him while in Palestine. All seemed to enjoy the day.

—Opening day was a bright and beautiful one, and the large number present at the chapel service was in glowing contrast to the depression which has hung over the business world during the summer. Mr. CLEWELL was assisted by Bishop RONDTHALER. The platform was tastily decorated with palms and flowers, and if the occasion may be taken as a type of the year, the year will be a very happy one indeed.

—During Miss PITTMAN's absence Miss Maria Vogler took charge of the 7th Room in her stead. It seemed quite natural to see her "on duty", and we wish it were for a longer period than the fortnight.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., SEPTEMBER, 1893.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—Acknowledgement of Alumnae gifts and ACADEMY subscriptions received will be published next month.

1893—'94.

We greet our patrons and friends at the opening of this new school year, the 94th year of the history of the ACADEMY. In bringing this greeting we feel very happy in view of many facts which promise well for the year that is before us. We note first the general tone that seems to be abroad among our pupils, new and old. As far as we can judge, we have a company of pupils who have gathered with the intention of spending a year of hard study, and also to observe the rules necessary to earn the title of excellence which accompanied the graduates of the past. Few who are outside of our busy life can realize how burdensome the presence of a single unworthy pupil really is. You dislike to dismiss her for the consideration you have for her parents, and you feel at the same time that it is costing much to retain her. Hence, we repeat, that with our list apparently free from this class, we have much to rejoice over.

Again, we note the confidence our home friends place in us as a school. Should you perchance stop in front of the ACADEMY some day just at two o'clock you would be surprised to see the number of carriages waiting for the pupils, and to note the very large number who attend from Winston and Salem and the immediate vicinity. It is not usually so in the case of Colleges. But the ACADEMY has always enjoyed the friendship of the communities in which it is situated, and it values this friendship,—for it shows a willingness to endorse our methods on the part of those who know us best. We trust that this feeling of confidence may ever continue to exist, and that our methods may meet a continuation of same,—for when we have the support of those who know us best we feel certain that we will enjoy the same feeling on the part of our more distant friends.

The liberal patronage enjoyed from abroad is a matter of considerable surprise in view of the "hard times," and "close money matters." Almost every business has suffered a shrinkage this year, but our numbers will probably reach those of last year, if not exceed them. This is a matter of great gratification.

We may further rejoice that in the Faculty so few changes have taken place. Nearly all the more responsible positions are filled by the same persons who labored in them last year, hence the machinery will doubtless move with smoothness and precision.

But one thing remains for us to desire, and that is the Lord's special blessing on us as individuals and as an organization. This was one of the rich treasures connected with the history of last year, and we fervently hope that it may be our privilege to record the same thing when the history of the present year is written.

—We take pleasure in announcing that our Music Department has secured the services of Prof. CHARLES SKILTON as the leader in this important field. There are now ten or eleven faithful workers in this field, and last year the number of pupils exceeded two hundred and fifty; but, throughout this department, the moving spirit should always be the gentleman Professor. It is his duty to give tone and strength to the Instrumental music, to guide the great choruses, and in every way to act as a leader.

The gentleman on whose shoulders the mantle has this year fallen promises to, in every way, fulfill the desires and expectations of the friends of the Music Department. Prof. SKILTON is an American by birth, his home being in New England. He is not only a musician but also a scholarly man, being a graduate of Yale College. After teaching sometime in this country, and also making quite a mark as a composer, he went to Germany and spent some time in study under famous musicians in that country. His work in the ACADEMY has commenced under the most favorable circumstances, he having not only won the confidence of the school by his musical ability, but having also gained a host of friends by his gentlemanly and courteous bearing to all around him. THE ACADEMY extends a hearty welcome to Mr. SKILTON.

—The Music Department is on an unusually strong footing this year. In addition to retaining the strong and well known workers, such as Miss TRACY, Miss VEST and others, whose names appear elsewhere, Miss SETTLE and Miss GOSLING are added to the list of workers. Both of these ladies are well known in the ACADEMY, and have secured very creditable classes even this early in the term.

—The ACADEMY extends a hearty welcome to Miss McFADYEN, who enters as an associate to Miss LEHMAN in the supervision of the Senior rooms. Miss McFADYEN is a graduate of some years since and has made a success thus far in all the previous work undertaken by her. We feel sure the same will be the case in connection with her work in our midst.

The University (N. C.) Magazine for October has an interesting article on SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY by Miss ADELAIDE L. FRIES, profusely illustrated with sketches of the grounds, a corner of the dormitory, groups of students, a portrait of Bishop REICHEL, and thumb-nail portraits of five of the Principals. Every girl who has ever studied at old Salem wants a copy. It may be had by sending 25 cents in silver, or in two cent stamps, to the University Magazine, Chapel Hill, N. C.

—In consideration of the very late date of issue of our September ACADEMY we will transfer a considerable portion of the news items of vacation, and of the opening of school to the October number. Thus our friends will please consider the September number sent out September 30th, and the October number to be mailed October 15th, as together forming our first number for the school year 1893-'94.

—We have had occasion this year to specially note the hungry methods employed by some schools to secure pupils by questionable means. An honest rivalry is always justifiable, but it seems to us a very short sighted policy which will resort to improper methods,—methods which are apparent to all and condemned by all just and fair-minded men. The SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY has always observed the rule of fairness to all; as a school we refrain from all unkind criticism of our neighbors; we also refrain from undue solicitation of pupils—feeling that pupils who do come to us come of their own free will, and are almost without exception contented with their choice. This fair and charitable method has placed the ACADEMY in the very front in the race, and to-day we are proud to note that our school family opens with more than 300, the names being given in another place, and we believe the year will take the list to 400 or more.

From the above facts our mind is taken back to a copy written for us years ago by a faithful teacher in the penmanship hour. The copy is probably as good and true now as then:—"Honesty is the best policy."

Scholastic List.

THE following is a list of teachers and pupils, according to the register at the present date:

Senior Room—Miss LEHMAN and Miss MCFADYEN.

Third Room—Miss S. SHAFFNER and Miss F. MEINUNG.

Fourth Room—Miss L. SHAFFNER and Miss M. MEINUNG.

Fifth Room—Miss C. VEST and Miss BARROW.

Sixth Room—Miss JONES and Miss TIETZE.

Seventh Room—Miss PITTMAN and Miss SIDDALL.

Eighth Room—Miss SETTLE and Miss GOSLING.

Ninth Room—Miss CHITTY and Miss BESSERT.

Tenth Room—Mrs. SMITH and Miss HEISLER.

Park Hall—Miss WOLLE and Miss BROWN.

In special studies the following is the list:

Music—Prof SKILTON, Miss TRACY, Miss S. VEST, Miss SIDDALL, Miss BROWN, Miss GOSLING, Miss SETTLE, Miss A. VAN VLECK, Miss L. VAN VLECK, Miss HAGEN.

Elocution—Miss SCRIBER.

Languages—Miss RONDTHALER.

Art—Miss SIEWERS.

Short Hand—Miss LEHMAN and Miss PETERSON.

Book-Keeping—Miss L. SHAFFNER.

Telegraphy—Miss S. SHAFFNER.

Industrial—Miss WOLLE.

Calisthenics—Miss QUERRY.

Bishop RONDTHALER and Mr. CLEWELL lecture on several topics each week.

The following is a list of pupils thus far registered:

Allen, Minnie	N C	Lehman, Ella J	N C
Allen, Nettie	"	Lawson, Marie	Va
Allen, Ollie	"	Leslie, Lena	N C
Anderson, Jennie	"	Loddrick, Daisy	"
Alexander, Adie	"	Leonard, Adie	"
Adams, Sallie	Fla	Lineberry, Edna	"
Blount, Laura	Tex	Lane, Rosa G	"
Barnes, Nettie	Ga	Lindsay, Annie S	"
Barnes, Minnie	"	Montague, Irene	"
Hitting, Lizzie	Tex	Mercer, M	"
Barrow, Florence	N C	Martin, Annie	"
Barrow, Mamie	"	Miller, Ida	"
Brown, Addie	"	Miller, Minnie L	"
Buxton, Caro	"	Marler, Sallie	"
Bahnonn Carrie	"	Majette, Jennie	"
Butner, Mabel	"	Majette, Lizzie	"
Boyd, Sallie	"	McGinniss, Maud	"
Barber, May	"	McGinness, Irene	"
Brooke, Kate	Va	McIver, Lizzie	"
Brooke, Bessie	"	McFadyen, Christina	"
Banks, Phrahe O	N C	Morton, Maggie	"
Burden, Emma	Ga	Morton, Annie	"
Brown, Martha	N C	Morrison, Luda	"
Brown, Lucy	S C	Morris, Mary E	"
Bonner, Sallie	N C	Oyle, Annie	"
Barker, Beulah	"	Osterbind, Mary	Va
Borum, Maggie	"	Ollinger, Hattie	Fla
Burson, Lizzie	Tenn	Points, Irene	Va
Burson, Amy	"	Powers, Percy	N C
Bessent, Nannie	N C	Patterson, Jennie	"
Bostie, Maggie	"	Pierce, Mattie L	"
Barton, Rachel	"	Pohl, Maggie	"
Barnes, Nannie A	Ala	Pass, Douschka	"
Bell, Kate	N C	Petway, Ada	"
Crutchfield, Daisy	"	Peterkin, Jessie	S C
Crosland, Daisy	"	Peterkin, Mabel	"
Cromer, Bessie	"	Parker, Sallie	N C
Conrad, Fannie	"	Palmer, Catherine	"
Crump, Bessie	Va	Quincey, Eva	"
Crutchfield, Lillian	N C	Robinson, Olivia	"
Crutchfield, Carrie	"	Rempson, Bessie	"
Crawford, Christina	"	Rights, Georgie	"
Cole, Marvin	"	Robinson, Clara	"
Chadbourne, Lucy	"	Riggs, Mamie	"
Curtis, Minnie	Tex	Roberts, Mamie	"
Cox, Daisy	N C	Rierson, Mamie	"
Covington, Carrie	"	Rierson, Maggie	"
Colwell, Lena	Ga	Rawley, Josie	"
Cummings, Nellie	"	Rawley, Leta	"
Cheatham, Annie	N C	Rawley, Kate	"
Cheatham, Eva	"	Rawley, Alice K	"
Cheek, Maud	"	Kayle, Leta	"
Chaffin, Alma	Fla	Rollins, Carrie	"
Crouch, Jennie	Tenn	Reid, Minnie L	"
Crouch, Katie	"	Richardson, Jennie	Ky
Cox, Bettie	N C	Robbins, Blanche	N C
Chedester, Dovie	"	Robbins, Gertrude	"
Cross, Harlette	Fla	Robertson, Maggie	"
Collins, Ada F	N C	Reynolds, Susie	Tenn
Chisman, Carr	"	Rumple, Fannie	N C
Clinard, Mary P	"	Sheets, Nannie	"
Daingerfield, May	"	Shore, Mary A	"
Dodson, Powell	"	Shore, Luella	"
Douthit, Connie	"	Shore, Birdie M	"
Douthit, Laura	"	Shore, Laura	"
Dicks, Louise	"	Shore, Ada	"
Ebert, Mamie	"	Sink, Harriet L	"
Ebert, Mrs Dora	"	Smith, Bessie B	"
Ebert, Ellen	"	Smith, Bessie M	"
Ellison, Hattie A	Ala	Smith, Sallie	Tex
Elliot, Mattie	Va	Smith, Beatrice	N C
Edwards, Laura E	Tex	Shell, Nannie	S C
Ferguson, Junie	N C	Sheppard, Marion	Va
Ferguson, Lucy	"	Siddall, Ella	N C
Ferguson, Minnie	"	Shelton, Bertha	"
Follin, Ethel S	"	Spaugh, Daisy J	"
Floyd, Pearl	S C	Spaugh, Ada	"
Fisher, Adie	N C	Steers, Frances	"
Fisher, Edna	"	Story, Roxie	Tenn
Foy, Lena	Va	Strupe, Mary	N C
Foy, Bessie	"	Swaim, Clara	"
Flake, Margie	N C	Stallings, Agnes	"
Faust, Fannie E	"	Setliff, Della M	"
Farrabee, Bertha	"	Setpe, Pearl	"
Fegle, Ada	"	Setpe, Mattie	"
Goodman, Julia S	Tex	Smitherman, Minnie	"
Goodman, Pamela	"	Smitherman, Ina	"
Glenn, Florence	Va	Sydnor, Pearl	Va
Gibson, Katie	N C	Sydnor, Ruby O	"
Garboden, Agnes	"	Schofield, Lizzie	N C
Goulshy, Minnie	"	Stockton, Tila	"
Gray, Bessie	"	Stockton, Gertrude	"
Henderson, Bessie	"	Sutton, Kate	"
Hoffman, Laura	"	Siewers, Agnes	"
Hoffman, Eliza	"	Scales, Nellie	"
Hege, Mena	"	Schoolfield, Daisy	Va
Hege, Elma	"	Taylor, Mary S	N C
Hege, Rosa	"	Tise, Clemmie	"
Hege, Ella	"	Tise, Eva	"
Hege, Carrie E	"	Tise, Bertie H	"
Hanes, Katie	"	Tise, Alma M	"
Hairston, Lettie	"	Tesh, Minnie	"
Johnston, Mabel	"	Tuck, Julia	"
Jefferson, Daisy E	Va	Thorn, Blanche	"
Jefferson, Marie L	"	Thornton, Lottie	"
Joyce, Alice R	N C	Thompson, Daisy	"
Jones, Maggie M	"	Tietze, Lucy	"
Jones, Mary B	"	Vaice, Clara	"
Johnston, Mamie	Aik	Vance, Lucy	"
Johnston, Agnes	"	Vaughn, Mamie	"
Kyle, Robbie	Ala	Vogler, Emma	"

Kyle, Florrie	"	Watkins, Bessie	N C
Kiger, Emma E	N C	Willson, Sallie G	"
Knause, Mary L	"	White, Ola	Ga
King, Florence	"	Watson, Alice	N C
Kellett, Erma	Tex	Welfare, Carrie	"
Kellett, Mattie	"	Withers, Anna	"
Kerner, Eva	N C	Whitaker, Phoebe	"
Kerner, India	"	Williams, Lucy	"
King, Georgie	"	Ware, Mrs A B	"
Kern, Alberta	"	Winkler, Claudia	"
Kern, Stella	"	Winston, Sue	"
Lichtenthaler, A L	"	Wright, Susie	"
Lineback, Bertha	"	Walker, Sadie	"
Lineback, Carrie	"	Walker, Ivy	"
Lineback, Lucy	"	Walker, Etta	"
Lineback, Cornelia	"	Woosley, Alpha	"
Lemly, Amanda	"	Wnrreschke, M	"
Lloyd, A Bertha	"	Wood, Nannie	"
Leak, Luella	"	Wood, Jennie	"
Leak, Ada	"	Young, Lillie	"
Lindley, Eva J	"	Yerex, Hattie	"

Special Vocal Class of 8.

Total number of teachers and pupils (no name being repeated) is 304.

Correspondence.

—We give a few selections from a number of our pupils who have written to us from their distant homes. FANNIE PERROW writes as follows:

How are you this morning, since all your girls have left the ACADEMY? I arrived safely home on Friday, and created quite a little breeze of excitement travelling in my robe and cap. Papa did not even know me at first, though every one appears to admire the costume very much.

I have not quite decided what I am going to do, will probably visit a while and then in September begin teaching. I can never forget the lessons I have learned in Salem. I will let you all know how I succeed in the field which is awaiting me. I will take up a few studies, and hope that Salem will never have cause to be otherwise than proud of me, if I continue in the good lessons I have learned in my Alma Mater.

Yours truly,

FANNIE S. PERROW.

Lynchburg, Va.

—MATTIE JOHNS appears to be enjoying her well-earned rest at home:

I do not suppose you have been very lonely since your girls left you, for you probably had enough to do. I forgot to leave money for my class picture with Mr. CLEWELL, so I will send it to you, and you can please hand it to him.

Would you mind marking me out a course of reading for the summer and fall? I would appreciate it so much. I am anxious that my two younger sisters should be educated in the ACADEMY. With best love from

Your pupil,

MATTIE JOHNS.

Auburn, N. C.

—BLANCHE SIMS sends us a very warm greeting:

It was my intention to write to you immediately after getting home, but found myself in the midst of Commencements, Wofford and Converse, and since that time I have been busy preparing to go to Tate and Carson Springs.

Will you visit the seaside this summer? It will probably take the entire summer for you to recover from the year's work. I have of course, spoken many a good word for the ACADEMY, but it hardly needs more praise; it is too well known.

With love from your old pupil,

BLANCHE SIMS.

Spartanburg, S. C.

—An older Alumna writes from far off Texas:

Please send me catalogue with terms of board and tuition. I have a grand daughter whose father is anxious to place her at school. Her mother is not living and I have had the care of her. From the spring of 1842 to the summer of 1844, I was an inmate of the school at Salem, and from experience can safely recommend it. I often think of the happy time I spent there, and of the many dear friends I left there, and wonder if there is one there who still remembers me. Misses STAUBER, PFOHL, BELO and CARRIE LEVERING were some of the teachers while I was there. Will you kindly tell me if any of them are still alive? Excuse this writing, my hands are old and stiff. Hoping to hear from you soon I am,

Yours respectfully,

SUSAN HOOKS.

Davenport, Red River Co., Tex.

—ELIZA GULICK also writes an interesting letter:

Some weeks ago I received my class picture, and when I received a second one, you may imagine my surprise, so I return it to you. So, school has really begun, I cannot realize it. How I wish I could return this year. I guess I will remain in Columbia this winter and rest up. I am rested already.

If I could only peep in on you for just one minute, I would try to be satisfied. SUSIE has gone to the World's Fair, and is very anxious to stay in Winston on her way home and visit the ACADEMY. I wish I was in her place.

I wonder if the Seniors this year will be as nice as we were! Of course they won't, they couldn't. Yesterday was Labor Day, and at night there was a ball, given to the laborers. Several of my friends, their mothers, my sister and myself went to look on, and enjoyed it very much.

Do give my love to all of the old girls, or any one else who lives in the dear old ACADEMY. Enclosed you will find 50 cents for THE ACADEMY.

Do let me hear from you soon for I am interested in everything, especially in our Society. We had a terrible storm here a week ago; we had to stay up all night. It seemed as if our home would be blown away. We lost over two hundred of our largest trees. For two days and nights we had no street cars or lights, the wires all being down. It was terrible. I am coming to see you soon

Yours, &c.,

ELIZA GULICK.

53 Blanding St., Columbia, S. C.

Personal.

—We enjoyed a very pleasant call from Mrs. E. B. Allison, a former pupil, who looked through the buildings, and had many pleasant things to say of the ACADEMY. She left a practical token of her friendship by presenting the Library with three valuable books, viz: Vols I and II of British Poets and "My Mother's Manuscript," by Lamartine. This last was a present from the author to Hon. Z. B. Vance—from him to Mrs. Allison, and from her to the ACADEMY.

—Mrs. M. E. Nicholson, of Glenview, N. C., sister of MARY and DORA THONE, pupils in 1842 and 1856, called during vacation. Her daughter EMMA NICHOLSON was a pupil in 1855. Her husband had 3 sisters in the school, MARTHA, SARAH and EVELYN NICHOLSON. Mrs. Nicholson's daughter is now Mrs. W. P. Nelson, of Sunshine, Ala.

—PAULINE ALLEN's old friends will be interested to hear of her. She married Dr. Samuel Rheney and died when her daughter Annie was quite small. Annie is now eleven years old, living in Keysville, Ga., and has been one of KATE URQUHART's pupils in her school at Blythe, Ga.

ANNIE ALLEN, PAULINE's younger sister, married Mr. John McCullough, but died a few months after her marriage.

—JENNIE RAGSDALE, (class of '87) has been at Bryn Mawr during the past year, and intends returning. JENNIE is doing good work in mathematics, her chosen specialty.

—Mrs. Dr. Hill (IDA RAGSDALE), class of '84) is gladly welcomed as a member of the Alumnae Association. Every former pupil of the ACADEMY should join it. No membership fees are required; the sole stipulation is taking THE ACADEMY, which every true daughter of her Alma Mater does at any rate.

—While visiting Marjón, Va., we were very much pleased to meet with former pupils of the ACADEMY; indeed we met them everywhere we go. Among them were Mrs. Staley, formerly PAULINE HULL, and Mrs. Dr. Kernan (SOPHIE KREMER), with her interesting and intelligent children; we were indebted to them for kindly attentions and pleasures during our stay in their lovely mountain home.

—ELLEN KERNAN a former pupil of the ACADEMY, is now Mrs. James C. Campbell, of Jonesboro, Tenn. She has five children.

—We were glad to meet with Mrs. Henderson during the summer. She was REBECCA JOHNSON, one of our warm hearted Yanceyville friends of the long ago. Her youngest son, about 18 years of age, accompanied her.

—KATE URQUHART made a pleasant visit during the summer, spending the time principally with ELLA HEGE, of Salem, and then visiting Mrs. Dr. Strickland (LILLIAN LEHMAN), Bethania, N. C., and Mrs. Dr. Hill, of Arcadia, N. C.

—Many thanks to the members of the class of '85, who met in Reunion during the late Commencement week, for a photograph of the group assembled on the portico of Society Hall. There were 15 members of the class in the picture with Bishop RONDTHALER, Mr. CLEWELL, Rev. I. B. WURRESCHKE and Miss LEHMAN. These class reunions, of which three were held last Commencement, are becoming more and more important and enjoyable with each passing year.

—A valuable donation was recently made to the Academy Library, of "William Hogarth's Works, by Mrs. Charles Stephenson, (SALLIE KREMER) of Baltimore, Md., a true and steadfast daughter of our Alma Mater. Her generous influence has been felt in various quarters.

—We see from the Winnsboro, S. C., News and Herald, an account of a Soiree Musicale, in which FANNIE CREIGHT's familiar name appeared in the list of the entertainers, in recitation and reading.

—Miss MATTIE CRAFTON, of Reidsville, N. C., is also cordially welcomed as a member of the Alumnae Association.

—Two grand daughters of one of our dear old friends and patrons, Dr. Samuel Goodman, Sr., arrived at the ACADEMY a week before school opened. Over sixty blood relations of this family have been educated in Salem, beginning with the Misses Moore, of Spartanburg, S. C., in 1809, down to the present day. If any other family can produce a similar instance of devotion to the ACADEMY we would be glad to hear from it.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Mr. CLARENCE THÆLER has been appointed book-keeper in the ACADEMY office. He is a brother of Rev. Arthur Thæler, an assistant pastor in the Salem congregation.

—Among the changes inaugurated this year is one in the Calisthenic dept.; Miss QUERRY, Superintendent of the North Winston Graded School, has assumed this branch of instruction, and has captivated the girls by her enthusiastic way of handling the exercises. We trust that her efforts will add greatly to the general health of the School, and we believe they will, since whatever Miss QUERRY undertakes becomes a success.

—The King's Daughters' Circle was re-organized on the first Sunday after school opened. The name of Four Leaf Clover was again selected. At present the Circle numbers eighteen. The election of officers resulted as follows:

- President—CARRIE ROLLINS.
- Secretary—DASIE SCHOOLFIELD.
- Corr. Secretary—SUE REYNOLDS.

[THE ACADEMY wishes the organization a very successful and blessed year.—Ed. ACADEMY.]

—A very enjoyable evening was the reception tendered the Music teachers by Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL the week after the opening of school. The workers in this department are so numerous that they form quite a company when gathered together. The evening was spent in enjoyable conversation, the same being interspersed with choice selections of music by one and another of the guests. Refreshments were served, and all pronounced this, the first musical reception, quite a success.

—A number of visits were made by members of the ACADEMY's force during the summer, but we failed to note them all. Mr. FROHL took a well-earned vacation and ran over to Asheville, stopping here and there to shake hands with friends. From Asheville he went to South Carolina, stopping at Spartanburg, Columbia and other points, and also at Charlotte, before his return home. Miss WOLLE spent the summer in Pennsylvania, but visited Foster Falls, Va., and Bristol, Tenn., before she went northward. Miss PITTMAN has had quite a round. Some weeks were spent in the eastern part of the State and with friends in South Carolina. Finally she went to the World's Fair, having had a busy summer. Miss SALLIE SHAFFNER and Miss SIEWERS also visited Chicago. Miss TIETZE went to her home in Illinois, returning to Salem via Chicago. Miss GOSLING visited her parents in Kentucky. Miss BESSENT spent the summer in Concord. Miss HEISLER was with friends in Washington City; Miss TRACY in New Jersey and New England; Miss RONDTHALER in New Jersey; Miss LEHMAN was in Virginia. Miss L. SHAFFNER visited Reidsville and Asheville; Miss BROWN was in Fayetteville. Other members of the faculty were here and there on longer or shorter jaunts, the summer being decidedly one of travel.

Married.

JONES—GROGAN.—On July 26th, Mr. WILLIE JOHN JONES to Miss LOULA GROGAN, of Grogansville, N. C. Their home will be in Ridgeway, Va.

COOK—FARMER.—On August 23rd, at Pleasant Grove, Va., Mr. D. McRAE COOK to Miss MINNIE FARMER, (class of '89.)

SCHENCK—PEYTON.—On September 14th, at Greensboro, N. C., Mr. DAVID SCHENCK, Jr., to Miss LULA PEYTON.

Died.

BARBER.—On August 9th, at Farmington, N. C., Miss EMMA BARBER, (class of '87.)

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken. Terms $295 per annum.

The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.

REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

Nov. '92-tf.

→ DAVIS SCHOOL, ←

A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.

Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address

DAVIS SCHOOL Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western R'y

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middleboro, Louisville.

By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL, Gen. Pass. Agent, ROANOKE, VA. ALLEN HULL, Trav. Pass. Agt.,

June 1892—1y

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892—1y

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country.

All the leading novelties, such as:

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up. Also the latest novelties in

Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,

has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111.

Phone 111.

Jan. 1892.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY,
Gen. Sup't.,
Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Fayetteville, N. C.

BOSTON BLOCK, - Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable.

Apply to FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N. C. September, 1893.—tf.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON.

JEWELERS,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,

Salem Female Academy,

SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91—lv.

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address, THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

A COMPLETE ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
 DR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOD & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N. Y.

S. E. ALLEN.

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware, CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

Gray Block.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.

Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.
 Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,
 Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
 October, 1892.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth, 337 pages. Price $1.00. By mail, $1.10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English.
 Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: "It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of a that is necessary in grammar."

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 80 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth., 325 pages, $1.75. By mail $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.40.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth, 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the exact discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford pp. vi., 255. 1<sup>mo</sup>, cloth, 84 cents.
 "Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Herald.
 "Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the latter use."—Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver—Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hamptden—Burlingame—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature, Cassica Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cowper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverly, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Fufus Choate—Thackeray's Four Georges and English Humorists, Parts I. and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Eginhard's Charlemagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odyssey etc., will be published.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

PUBLISHERS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '93-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVI.

SALEM, N. C., OCTOBER, 1893.

NUMBER 139.

1802-1893.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features:—the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy.

BY MISS ADELAIDE L. FRIES.

One of the most prominent personages during this and several succeeding administrations was Mr. Charles Bagge, "Daddy Bagge" the girls called him. He was a wealthy gentleman, and in his freedom from business delighted to do little kindnesses for the girls of the school. He took the mail to them, went for them when their friends arrived at the hotel, showed visitors through the school, notified the Principal of the arrival of patrons, and by a thousand and one kindly acts won the hearts of all.

In 1816, Mr. STEINER's health failed, and he resigned his office to Rev. GOTTHOLD REICHEL, although still assisting as book-keeper and teacher.

The customs of those days were certainly somewhat primitive. Rising from their little white beds, that stood side by side in the common dormitory, teachers and girls descended to the living rooms. There, upon a floor covered with the whitest of sand swept into intricate patterns, stood the long table with its rows of benches, and down the centre the candlesticks, one to each quartet of girls. All the little services, bringing the wood and water for the living-rooms, etc., were done by the girls, who were "day-keepers" by turns, two at a time. Every Friday, at 11 o'clock, the teacher and day-keepers cleansed the greasy candlesticks, and washed some fresh sand beautifully white and clean; then, at 2 o'clock, the teacher who was not on duty took the girls into another room, while the duty teacher and her two assistants swept out the old sand, wiped up the floor, sprinkled the new sand, and otherwise put the room in the most perfect order.

The dining-rooms were in the basement of the house, one room being used by the two younger companies, the other by the older ones. The girls sat on benches on either side of the long tables, while the teacher occupied a stool at the head, and when all were seated the teacher nearest the door began to sing the blessing:

"Leave Thy peace divine
With us, we are Thine,"

all present joining in. The tables were spread with coarse, tow-linen cloth, homemade, and the food was eaten from pewter plates, with steel knives and forks, and the tea or coffee taken from bowls without handles. On certain days these plates were scrubbed with rushes from the lowlands about the creek until they reflected as clearly as a mirror the bright faces looking into them. When the school was first opened the ladies living in the "Sisters' House" had charge of the kitchen, and boarded the school for the benefit of their establishment, but, in 1859, the school leased the kitchen, and the "Sisters" settled down to private lives in their own rented rooms. Some years after Mr. REICHEL became Principal a lady visited the school and was so struck with horror by the table appointments that he sent to the store and purchased china plates, mugs and cotton table cloths, whose patterns much resembled those of the common bed-spreads of to-day. The fare was plain but wholesome, and on Friday evening each girl received two biscuits, so large that often one would be saved until the next day, then perhaps be given to some girl friend from town,—and one of those town girls, now well advanced in years, remarked the other day that never since had she tasted anything just like those big biscuits, nor anything as good as they seemed then.

The day's work and pleasure over, the girls were all in bed by nine o'clock, the teachers following about an hour later. The senior teacher always went promptly at ten, but one evening she returned to the teachers' room with a perplexed face.

Turning to one of the younger teachers she asked: "Are you here or are you upstairs?" "Why, I think I am here," was the astonished answer. The question came again: "Are you here in the body or in the spirit? for if you are here in the body your spirit is upstairs in your bed, covered up as you always lie,"—and they went together to investigate and found a very substantial spirit, a girl who had taken possession in her sleep.

Girls and teachers dressed very simply, usually in calico, and made their dresses themselves. They wore no hats when they went to church, but caps instead, those belonging to the girls being made of white bobinet, with very full ruching round the face. When several strands of floss were run along the edge of the ruching and the cap with its bright ribbons was tied under the chin it was both pretty and becoming.

In 1824 the first addition to the ACADEMY was built, on the north side of the house. The first floor was the embroidery room, later known as the "town girls' room," and now divided into a number of small rooms for piano practice. The second floor was used as a chapel. It was the first appropriated wholly to school uses, and the day of its dedication, September 24, gave rise to the Chapel Festival, which was celebrated as a special day of prayer by the school for so many years. In the morning a service of song and prayer was held, and after the noon-day meal the pupils of the school, dressed in white, and, headed by the Principal, took a long walk all over town. Later in the day they participated in a Lovefeast. (These Lovefeasts, which are derived from the Agapæ of the Apostolic Church, are celebrated on various occasions, generally in connection with a solemn festival, or preparatory to the Holy Communion. The service consists in the singing of hymns and anthems, alternately by the choir and congregation. Printed odes are often used, prepared specially for the occasion. In the course of the service a simple meal, of buns and coffee or tea, is served, of which the congregation partakes together.—Moravian Manual.)

TO BE CONTINUED.

The Salem Fire Company's Anniversary.

ONE of the most interesting features of the late summer was the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the Salem Fire Company. The firemen's parade, on the 16th of September, was formed around the Salem Square, so that we of the ACADEMY had the full benefit of the handsome pageant. The Salem Band led the parade, which was made up in the following order: a float, with the oldest fire engine in the South, and standing around it were four boys, representing the uniforms worn by the firemen at the dates named: Lindsay Meinung, 1784; Ralph Siewers, 1855; Junius Goslen, 1868; Clarence Clewell, 1889. This was followed by the Winston Hose Reel, and the Volunteer Company; Winston's new Steamer, drawn by four horses; the Winston Hook and Ladder outfit; the Salem Hose Wagon, Steamer, and Hose Reels; the Vigilant Engine, drawn by two mules; ex-firemen in 40 carriages. The line of march was from the Square to New Shallowford Street, thence up Cherry to Fifth, thence to Main and back to the Square.

On their return to the Square the steamers were exercised for a time, throwing streams of water over the church, ACADEMY, etc. Mr. CLEWELL asked the Winston Hook and Ladder Company to place their ladder against the north end of the main building of the ACADEMY, and how quickly they did ascend it! some on the top side, and some on the bottom. When four of the boys went in at the window, a friend said to Mr. CLEWELL, "You will never get those boys out again!"—but he did.

At night the exercises were the crowning event of the celebration. They met in the ACADEMY Chapel, where the Salem Orchestra gave a fine selection. Then Mr. H. E. Fries delivered an address of welcome, to which a fine response was made by Col. G. E. Webb, Acting Mayor of Winston. Mr. E. A. Ebert read a paper of Reminiscences which had been translated from the German. Capt. R. B. Glenn delivered the address of the evening to an audience of over 250 people.

At the close of the address the company repaired to the spacious and finely-decorated ACADEMY dining-hall, where was found a handsome spread of good things, under the tasteful superintendence of Mrs. CLEWELL, assisted by some 25 young ladies from town. A number of letters were read from former firemen; toasts were given and happily responded to, and Bishop RONDTHALER congratulated the firemen on the success of their anniversary exercises. Short talks were made by Capt. Frank Meinung, Frank H. Vogler, and others, of Salem, members of the Winston Fire Companies, and Mr. Comenius Chitty, of Bethlehem, Pa. A vocal solo, with orchestral accompaniment, "Lost and Saved," was beautifully sung by Mrs. H. E. Fries, when the company separated, some time after the midnight hour had sounded from the neighboring belfry.

The Salem Fire Department.

SALEM'S first fire engine figured prominently in the Firemen's Celebration of September 16. It was discovered in the ACADEMY cellar by Will Pfohl, when he was employed in the School, and has since occupied a place of honor in our Museum, as the first fire engine in the South.

A meeting was held in the old Town Hall of Salem, Sept. 15, 1843, for the purpose of electing the first officers of the "Salem Vigilant Fire Company," but on the night they organized, more than three score and ten years had passed since the first steps were taken for the formation of a Fire Company, and the Salem Fire Company in reality celebrated its one hundred and twentieth anniversary instead of its fiftieth.

As every thing in those early days belonged to the Moravian church, the church through its various boards made and enforced the rules pertaining to the welfare of the town. It worked the roads, it owned the tavern, the bakery and the store; it also organized the first fire company and passed some fire regulations that sound quaint to us. As the town did not then have a printing press, it was the custom of the people to assemble in the church at least once a year, to hear the minister read the rules of the church and town and the fire regulations. The first rules relating to fire were read in 1773, just 120 years ago. Some of them related to the training and pay of a young man for the business of chimney sweeper.

The next step taken by the church authorities was the system of water-works, commenced in 1778. The first water-works which consisted merely in bringing the water in earthen pipes from Cool Spring, near where Calvary Chapel now stands, to various parts of town, was greatly improved in 1828 by the erection of a pump at the east end of Bank Street, which forced the water into a reservoir at the south end of the avenue, from whence it was conducted in pipes to 10 or 12 cisterns in various parts of the town. A hose could be attached to them for pumping water into a fire engine.

Two fire engines were brought from Europe in 1785, our small one and a larger engine mounted on wheels. In 1832 a new engine, costing with the hose $595, was bought in Philadelphia. This engine is now in Bethania. In 1859 a suction engine was purchased in Baltimore, the original "Rough and Ready," so called from a picture of Gen. Taylor which used to be on it.

In 1884 the town purchased a new Button hand engine, which was used only 2 years and then exchanged for the present Button steamer in 1886. There have been 33 fires and alarms in Salem in the 127 years of its existence.

Correspondence.

—As we gather for our monthly interchange of correspondence, the familiar handwriting of a dear friend (JANIE SHERILLE) comes before us, and we greet her with cordial affection:

You may be surprised to hear from me, but you know we old Salem girls never tire of hearing from or writing to any one at the dear old school home we all love so well. I feel that it has been quite an age since I was in Salem, as I missed the past Commencement, the first I have missed in seven years. Let me ask you just here, will you kindly send me a copy of the June ACADEMY, as mine has never appeared, and I have missed so much about Commencement by not seeing it.

You cannot imagine the great pleasure and surprise when the old girls saw Miss ANNIE PITTMAN once more in our own homes. I did not even know that she was any nearer than Salem until I went into our church last Wednesday night and took a seat near by her. I thought the service would never end so I could get to speak to her. Our District Conference was in session, so we never saw near enough of her, as we were all at church most of the time. I managed, however, to take her driving, and had her to spend a day with me. I am sure if you knew how much pleasure it is for us you would advise some of the teachers to come down to South Carolina every vacation. It is such a pleasure to hear all the ACADEMY news, though I pitied Miss ANNIE to have to tell each girl the same thing. I know she was tired before she got through.

If it will not be too much trouble would you kindly ascertain the rates from Winston to Chicago, over the Norfolk & Western Road; also the time required to make the trip. I would be under many obligations to you.

My love to Mrs. CLEWELL, Dr. and Mrs. RONDTHALER, and any teachers I may know. With best wishes, I am still an old Salem girl.

JANIE SHERRILLE.

Bennettsville, S. C.

—Our next is from HUBERTA READ, one of our recent Seniors:

Your letter was received and very much appreciated, as a letter from you always will be, and believe me that it was not from any lack of interest or affection that I have not replied ere this. Papa has hardly seen a well day since I have reached home. My little sisters, too, have been getting ready for a trip, and I was busy.

In regard to that money found, I would be glad if you would turn it over to the Alumnae Scholarship Fund in my name.

I was very sorry to hear of Prof. WURRESCHKE's death. It must be a great blow to his family.

I sent a dollar to Mr. CLEWELL for the Class picture some time ago, but it has not as yet reached me. I miss the dear faces of my companions so much.

I suppose now that school has opened you will have less time than ever for letter writing. Last year it always made me glad to hear you say "my girls," but now it almost breaks my heart to think that another class has taken our old places, and ere long, I am afraid, some of us will almost be forgotten. I suppose I have seen some of the girls for the last time, unless we have a reunion.

I heard that LAURA LESLIE was teaching in the ACADEMY. Doesn't it seem funny! I can scarcely realize it. I am going to study at home this winter, and would be glad if you would advise me, or give me a list of studies. I am taking music from Prof. Markgraff, and have to practice two hours a day till winter.

How is Miss Chitty? Have either of you been to the World's Fair? Please give much love to the teachers and your girls, keeping a large share for yourself and Dr. RONDTHALER.

Very truly,

HUBERTA READ.

Corsicana, Texas.

—We were also very pleased to hear from CLAUDIA PALMER; we were much indebted to her and to her estimable parents for kindly favors during a visit to Virginia in vacation. As we glance over the kind words and note the attentions bestowed in various quarters we must come to the conclusion that this world is quite a desirable place to live in.

I was so much disappointed that you could not come and spend some time with us; we would have enjoyed having you so much. Miss BROWN was here some time and she being fond of mountain scenery from its newness to her and I from long enthusiasm, we enjoyed it together very much.

I am going to visit ANNIE PENN. I hope you will have a good class in the new term, and hope they will be more considerate of you than we were.

Affectionately,

CLAUDIA PALMER.

Blacksburg, Va.

—AVA STROUP has taken up her work with commendable zeal, and we are glad to hear from her:

As you see from the heading of my letter I am in De Kalb, at Mr. Read's, filling the situation you so kindly assisted me to obtain. I am very grateful to you, and hope I may be able to teach in such a way that I may give at least a small amount of honor to my dear Alma Mater.

In a few more days the girls will be clamoring for a holiday on your birthday, and I trust a great many years will find a company of girls at S. F. A., celebrating your birthday, and may each one be brighter as it comes. With kind regards I am,

Very sincerely,

AVA E. STROUP.

De Kalb, Texas.

—Quite a number of our pupils have been detained at home by sickness, but are now improving and we hope to welcome them to their school home ere long.

Our Library.

The following books have been received:

1. The War of the Rebellion. Vol. 41, parts 1 and 2.
2. Short Hand Instruction.
3. Hawks and Owls of the United States.
4. The English Sparrow.
5. Description of 26 species of North American Mammals.
6. Biological Reconnoissance of South and Central Idaho.
7. Biological survey of San Francisco Mountain Region.
8. Fifteen new species of North American Mammals.
9. Revision of North American Pocket Mice.
10. Bird Migration in the Mississippi Valley.
11. National Museum, 1886. Part 2.
12. " " 1887.
13. " " 1888.
14. " " 1889.
15. Death Valley Expedition.
16. Board of Public Charities.
17. Life of Spurgeon
19. Geological Studies, Winchell. Griggs & Co., Chicago.
20. Minimum, French Grammar and Reader, Joynes. H. Holt & Co., New York.

—The vacation girls engaged in quite a number of rides and picnics during the months of July and August. The names of those remaining were Misses LAURA and ELIZA HOFFMAN, NETTIE and MINNIE BARNES, LAURA BLOUNT and a portion of the time Miss IRENE POINTS. Twice the party picniced at Friedberg and Mr. and Mrs. Hall showed great kindness. Mr. Fogle attended to the transportation there and back. Another picnic was held at the Reynolds Spring. One afternoon and evening the girls spent several hours riding over the various parts of our Twin City as the guests of Mr. A. Fogle, he having tendered them this complimentary ride. On the occasion of the birthday of one of the young ladies a car was chartered and the party taken over the various street car lines. Several special suppers were given in the play ground, and in fact every week had some special programme. A portion of the vacation time, a few hours per day were used for study and recitation, since it became quite apparent that vacation in the ACADEMY and absolute freedom from all duties was not a suitable combination. The party was joined by Misses SALLIE and PAMELA GOODMAN about the middle of August.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., OCTOBER, 1893.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.
Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

THE opening of a school year in an extensive establishment like ours is the setting in motion of a large and intricate system of machinery, of levers, of pulleys, of wheels within wheels, and almost every power, intellectual and mechanical, that can be imagined.

Formerly it took weeks before every department was in fair working order, but this year it was like pressing a button, and behold! the work was done. We have been specially favored with a smooth, pleasant beginning, without friction or hindrance of any sort. With the stroke of the clock set for the opening of school, the classes began their legitimate work, and by evening it seemed as if school were an old thing; every one doing his or her work with a promptitude and ease that was simply wonderful.

The health of the community in general, and of the ACADEMY in particular, is excellent. With the increasing interest in the Calisthenic drill, and the evident desire for strolls in the Autumn woods, we have the promise of few doctor's bills and of more efficient mental work all about us. There is an evident desire to do the very best, a pride in keeping up to the mark that is most gratifying to all concerned. The Seniors are leading off well in the good work, and their influence is felt in many little ways: in the singing, in the hearty responses in chapel service, in cheerfully responding to every request made of them.

The Junior Class is larger than ever before, and there is good material preparing for a superior Senior Class in '95.

WE note with pleasure The Monthly Endeavor on our exchange list. It is an interesting paper, published by the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Methodist Protestant Church of Winston, N. C., and it fills a long felt want in Christian work.

THE interest in the World's Fair appears to increase as the closing time draws near. The historic importance attaching to the whole affair, its elegance, its magnitude, its educational value, the reports of returning visitors, all stirred up an interest, so that our ACADEMY was well represented there both by Principal, teachers and pupils.

With the return of the girls, tongues will have to do double duty, though we might wonder how that were possible in some cases, for a school-girl's tongue comes as near to solving the problem of perpetual motion as anything we know of just now.

—The death of Mr. L. V. Blum, of the firm of L. V. & E. T. Blum, so long and favorably known, was sad news to the returning pupils of the ACADEMY. He passed away after a long and useful life of over fourscore years. He was one of the old landmarks of Salem, closely connected with all her interests as one of the publishers of her only local paper, dating from 1827 to a year before his death, The People's Press, Blum's Almanac, a welcome visitor for more than 60 years, the publication of THE ACADEMY from its inception in 1878, the Catalogues of the ACADEMY, even our "Golden Fours," our various programmes, all bore the familiar imprint, "L. V. & E. T. Blum." The Christmas season would lose its charm without many visits to Blum's Bookstore to select presents, and thus the sympathy of all connected with the ACADEMY goes out to the surviving brother in the severing of the brotherly tie.

Mr. Blum had been in failing health for some time, but it was with some surprise and much regret that we heard he had passed away on July 21st. His remains were laid to rest in the Moravian graveyard, borne to their last home by his brethren of the editorial profession, J. W. Goslen, G. H. Righ's, C. E. Crist, W. F. Burbank, G. L. Keehn and R. E. Carmichael. Mr. CLEWELL and Dr. RONDTHALER conducted the services.

—With the cool, bracing October days out-door exercise becomes delightful, and we cannot too strongly advocate its importance and necessity. The great draughts of oxygen invigorate the system and send the blood dancing through the veins and arteries, cleansing and burning out all impurities and giving life and vigor, a new zest to existence.

The deep-blue October sky is ideally beautiful,—no Italian skies are bluer; the blue Gentian, October's favorite flower, seems to have drawn to itself the exquisite coloring from the sapphire concave. The Golden-rod, which glorifies every field and hillside, is shot to the very core with the mellow autumn sunshine, while here and there a hectic flush appears on some oak or sourwood tree. The chattering squirrels nod a merry "good afternoon" to us as they peep around a hickory tree, and snatching up a nut they scamper away to add to their winter stores, and we return to our books, refreshed, cheered and strengthened by the unconscious, yet healing touch of our great mother nature.

THE September number of The Cosmopolitan has the most exquisite engravings of the World's Fair that we have ever seen. The engraver's art seems to have reached perfection in the wonderful exactness and softness of the printed lines. If we wish to see progress exemplified, we have only to place the engravings of the Orbus Pictus of John Amos Comenius, the beginnings of picture-making for children, side by side with these beautiful engravings of The Cosmopolitan. Foreign engravers and artists acknowledge the evident superiority of American artistic work, and they do it with a kindly appreciation which makes their opinion doubly valuable.

MISS ADELAIDE FRIES' historical sketches of the ACADEMY are meeting with much favor. We feel great pride in her work in this valuable direction, for we have been letting our past history drift into forgetfulness and oblivion. The old landmarks are passing away, and we should secure their reminiscences wherever we can.

Personal.

—We hear that JULIA DUNLAP was married in May to Dr. Ross. Our best wishes attend them in their new life.

—It is with deep sympathy for the stricken relatives and friends that we chronicle the death of LETTIE GILMER, of Winston, the lovely daughter of Captain and Mrs. J. E. Gilmer. LETTIE was an unusually bright, talented and engaging member of the Freshman Class of the ACADEMY, never satisfied until she had thoroughly mastered the lesson; her smiling, affectionate manner, her eager, courteous bearing, all endeared her to teachers and pupils, and many bitter tears were shed when we heard that this lovely flower had so early been transplanted to the fields of light above. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Robert E. Caldwell and Bishop RONDTHALER from the First Presbyterian church on July 10th, and the text chosen for the occasion was: "My beloved is gone down into his garden, to the beds of spices, to feed in the gardens, and to gather lilies."—Song of Sol., 6. 2.

Just three weeks after her remains had been laid to rest in the Salem Cemetery, her mother, Mrs. J. E. Gilmer (LAURA LASH), was laid beside her. The feeble health of the afflicted mother could not stand the shock of her daughter's death, and soon, too soon, according to our ideas, they were re-united under the green palms of the River of Life. The stricken father and husband, the sons of the deceased, have the sympathy of the whole community. This crushing blow, by which a happy family circle was desolated, is one of the mysterious dispensations of Providence to which we can only bow in humble submission.

—On September 28, LELIA RAWLEY, daughter of Mr. L. Rawley, of Winston, was also called from time to eternity, after an illness of less than 2 weeks, which only assumed an alarming character the day before her death. LELIA was a member of the Junior Class of the ACADEMY, and had just entered upon the work of the new term with the brightest prospects when the message came, "The Master is come, and calleth for thee." At the threshold of a lovely womanhood, just 17 years of age, she was called up higher. Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to her sister, JOSIE, a member of our Senior Class, and to the other near relatives so sadly stricken.

—The death angel Azrael has spread his sable wings over the families of several of our older Alumnæ. LILY LASH, of Bethania, N. C., is mourning the loss of her mother, Mrs. T. B. Lash, whose recent death deprives her of her only surviving parent, and breaks up the loving home circle.

—Mrs. Irvin Miller, of Salem, the mother of DORA, ADDIE and GERTRUDE, three of our Alumnæ, was found dead of heart disease on July 18th.

—Mr. Sigmund Rosenbacher, of the well-known firm of Rosenbacher Bros., of Winston, died in New York, on July 17th, after a distressing illness of months. He had sought relief at the Hot Springs of Arkansas, and had finally been taken to New York by his devoted family, where he died, at the age of 39. His wife, better known to our pupils as CARRIE ROSE, was married to him 8 years ago, and is now left desolate, with 4 small children. The remains were interred in Richmond, Va. May the God of the widow and the fatherless be the support of these stricken ones.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Miss LEHMAN made a brief visit to Philadelphia some time ago.

—Mrs. Jefferson, of Danville, Va., recently visited her daughters at school in the ACADEMY.

—Prof. Markgraff and family are with relatives in Corsicana, Texas, where the Professor has classes in French and Music.

—Prof. SKILTON is not only a musician but a well-rounded, scholarly man in other departments, notably so in Physics, where his lectures are very interesting.

—Mr. CLEWELL's thoughtful care for the comfort of the teachers showed itself in the present of a neat, rocking-chair to each duty teacher. The pupils were already well supplied.

—Prof. Dermott Butner has rebuilt a considerable number of the ACADEMY pianos, making them almost as good as new, and will finish the rest on his return from abroad.

—Four gophers were sent to Mr. CLEWELL by Mr. Adams, of Bagdad, Fla. They are not beautiful, but form an interesting study. Little John Clewell, a born naturalist, is charmed with them.

—MR. CLEWELL made up his mind, quite unexpectedly to us, to accompany Dr. RONDTHALER on a visit to the World's Fair, leaving here on October 6. We hope they will enjoy the much needed recreation.

—The Day-school Department has been regularly organized and duly officered. A meeting held in the chapel resulted in the election of MAMIE BARROW as President; KATIE SUTTON, Vice President; SALLIE MARLER, Secretary, and ADA FOGLE, Treasurer.

—Miss IRENE McCANLESS made a hurried run home to say farewell to ZULU and HANNAH, who left for Dakota.

—Miss EVA LINDLEY went home late in September, she having been indisposed for several days. She is rapidly improving and will soon resume her studies.

—Dr. Henry T. Bahnson and Rev. Jas. E. Hall visited Bethlehem, Penn., on the organization of the Board of Trustees of the Moravian Theological Seminary.

—Bishop EDWARD RONDTHALER, D. D., visited Philadelphia, Penn., to assist in the re-dedication of the First Moravian church, of which he was formerly pastor. The new edifice erected by the congregation is a very fine one.

—Our neighbor the Male Academy, is this year in charge of Prof. Jas F Brower and Prof. Howard Rondthaler. The attendance is large and increasing, and the school is sadly in need of a larger house and larger grounds.

—A number of pupils and teachers have taken a run to the World's Fair. Miss A. RONDTHALER left on Monday evening, October 2nd, Miss DAISY SCHOOLFIELD on Monday morning, and Miss SUE REYNOLDS on Tuesday evening.

—Two large and beautiful palms were purchased this summer from Mr. C. A. Hege. The plants stand some six or eight feet high, and are nearly as wide, the large and stately leaves adding to the beauty of the rear court, standing as they do between the fountain and the orange trees.

—The special prayer meetings at five o'clock Thursdays, in Society Hall, have been resumed, under the leadership of Bishop RONDTHALER. The attendance is entirely voluntary, but is very large. A Teachers' prayer meeting is also regularly conducted once a week during the term.

—Several new carpets have been given to the room companies this year. Among the fortunate number we note the North Senior (which also boasts a new lounge), the 9th Room and the 10th Room. The shade and texture of these carpets is very fine, and they will contribute much to the comfort of the room companies during the year.

—The special day of prayer for the children, observed by the Moravian Church the end of August, was one of great interest this year. The church was beautifully decorated with fresh cut flowers, and the services solemn and at the same time made very inviting for young and old. The final services were held in the front of the church, under the light of many gas jets, electric lights and Japanese lanterns.

—During the severe storm which visited the South the end of August, and caused so much damage in the neighboring town of Kernersville, two of the large trees in the square were blown down. It was quite a sad sight to see these beautiful shade trees prone upon the ground, for we learn to admire them because of their symmetry and beauty.

—During the month of August the Salem Orchestra tendered its friends a complimentary reception. The first portion of the programme was a delightful selection of music in the Academy Chapel. This was followed by a banquet spread in the dining room, where besides the "good things" provided by the Orchestra, addresses were made, and good cheer flowed freely. Many of the guests took advantage of a promenade in the grounds of the ACADEMY, which were illumined by many Japanese lanterns. The occasion was a very pleasant one, and enjoyed by all.

—One of the pleasing features of the Chapel services is the choir organized by Miss TRACY to aid in leading the singing during the morning service. The choir is not intended to do all the singing, but to lead and promptly lead the singing. Those who have thus far aided are Misses TRACY, SCRIBER, RONDTHALER, SIDDALL, SCALES, MORRISON, ROBINSON, CROSS, KELLETT and CHEDESTER. The beauty of the service is greatly enhanced by the kind aid on the part of the persons named above, and a sweet tone is thus given to the day by the heartiness of the morning prayers. We note also that all persons throughout the Institution, whether free or on duty, are present and the Chapel is well filled each day. This is as it should be, and will bring its blessing.

—Great changes were witnessed in the machinery of the culinary department this summer. The increase in number of pupils during the past few years has rendered the increase of facilities necessary. Hence a third section was added to the large range in the kitchen and a smooth floor of cement laid. The bake house has been supplied with a great wrought iron oven, shipped by Bramhall, Deane & Co., New York, in which the fire is kept continuously burning, and in which the heat is always "just right" for baking. This enables the person in charge to follow the bread with biscuits and rolls, and the cakes with puddings, without the former need of re-heating. Unless one is acquainted with the hundreds of loaves of bread and the thousands of biscuits needed by our family of 250, the improvement cannot be actually appreciated. Besides this there have been added various machines,—meat choppers, potato mashers, etc., and withal a spirit of advancement and improvement in methods and results which is quite noticeable and greatly appreciated by all.

—The first Recital was held Thursday, September 14th. The programme contained numbers by Miss TRACY, Miss SCRIBER and Prof. SKILTON. The two former are, of course, well known to the school audience and the reception was enthusiastic as usual. But equal to this was the reception accorded Prof. SKILTON, who appeared for the first time. His performance was much enjoyed, and the fact that it was largely his own composition added interest. The following was the programme:

1. Piano Solo. Bearolle, } Tschaikowski.
In May, . . . . . Skilton.
Before the Forest. . . . .
Prof. SKILTON.
2. Recitation. The Sisters, . . . . . Tennyson.
Miss SCRIBER.
3. Song. Spanish Serenade, . . . . . Skilton.
Miss TRACY.
4. Piano Solo. Largo, from Op. 10, No. 8, Beethoven.
Prof. SKILTON.
5. Recitation. Two Fishers, . . . . . John Bright.
Miss SCRIBER.
6. Song. The Erl King, . . . . . Schubert.
Miss TRACY.
7. Piano Solo. Polonaise, Op. 40, No. 2. Chopin.
Prof. SKILTON.

The second Recital was given September 28th, at one o'clock. It was partly complimentary to Prof. CHARLES BROCKMAN, of Greensboro, who will in the future give instruction on the Violin in the ACADEMY. Miss TRACY and Miss SCRIBER contributed some numbers to the programme, so also did Prof. SKILTON. Prof. BROCKMAN is considered one of the finest violinists in the State, and is already well known to us through his many visits to our town in the past. The music and recitations were all of a high order, and the pupils became so enthusiastic in applause and persistent encores that dinner would have been entirely forgotten had Mr. C. not warned them of the near approach of 2 o'clock. It was an hour of rare enjoyment, and is a testimonial of the strength of the musical department of the ACADEMY. The following was the programme:

1. Piano Solo. Album of Lyrical Pieces Grieg. a. Arietta. b. Waltz.
c. Watchman's Song.
d. Elfin Dance.
e. Folk Song.
f. Album Leaf.
g. Patriotic Song.
Prof. SKILTON.
2. Violin Solo. Faust Fantasy. . . . . Sarasate.
Prof. BROCKMAN.
3. Recitation. The March of the Men of Dundee. . . . . Ayfoun.
Miss SCRIBER.
4. Song. "Ay." . . . . Pease.
Miss TRACY.
5. Piano Solo. First Movement of the Sonata. Op. 31, No. 2. . . . . Beethoven.
Prof. SKILTON.
6. Song with Violin Obligato. Ave Maria. . . . . Bach-Gounod.
Miss TRACY, assisted by Prof. BROCKMAN.
7. Recitation. "Jennie." . . . . Brooks.
Miss SCRIBER.
8. Violin Solo. Elegy. . . . . Ernst.
Prof. BROCKMAN.

—The following is the list of officers for the Societies and also for the Senior Class:
CLASS OFFICERS.—President, Miss Carrie Rollins; Vice Presidents, Misses Lena Leslie and Bessie Brooke; Secretaries, Misses Daisie Thompson and Jennie Anderson.

HESPERIAN SOCIETY.—President, Miss Eva Cheatham; Vice President, Miss Daisie Crutchfield; Secretary, Miss Mand McGinnis; Treasurer, Miss Maggie Borum; Critic, Miss Dovie Chedester; Chaplain, Miss Jennie Anderson; Monitors, Misses Sallie Bonner and Laura Hoffman.

EUTERPEAN SOCIETY.—President, Miss Carrie Rollins; Vice President, Miss Mattie Kellett; Secretary, Miss Kate Brooke; Treasurer, Miss Sue Reynolds; Critic, Miss Martha Brown; Chaplain, Miss Bessie Brooke; Monitors, Misses Jennie Majette and Alma Chaffin.

—The Senior Class of '94 numbers 37; 29 boarders and 8 day pupils. The morale of the class is exceptionally good; by the first of October the newness has worn off, and the character of the Class, as a whole, has formulated itself. It is with peculiar gratification, therefore, that we look forward to a profitable and enjoyable year's work.

—The following is a list of pupils registered since our last issue:

- Pearl M. Addison.
Emma F. Brown.
Daisy Brooks
Cora Cowles.
Nettie Glenn.
Sallie L. Grogan.
Pearl Galloway.
Lillie McCrary.
A. J. Smith.
All from North Carolina.

Subscriptions Received.

Miss Janie Sherrille, Bennettsville, S C; Miss Pamela C Goodman, Swan, Texas; Dr Sam'l A Goodman, Tyler, Texas; Miss Mary Lucky, Knoxville, Tenn; Rev W H Rice, New Dorp, Staten Island; Miss Louise Breitenbucher, Atlanta, Ga; Miss Jennie Sieger, Bethlehem, Pa; Mrs Mary Leavell, Winnsboro, N C; Miss Nettie Reid, Reidsville, N C; Mrs F W Foster, Wilmington, N C; Mrs C E Stevenson, Baltimore, Md; Miss Lizzie Patterson, Liberty, N C; Miss Mattie Crafton, Reidsville, N C; Miss Eula Cox, Dunn, N C; Miss Laura Whitmer, Fort Read, Fla; Mrs Robt Butler, Savannah, Ga; Rt Rev J M Levering, Bethlehem, Pa; Miss Eliza J Gulick, Columbia, S C; Mrs John McDonald, Washington, N C; Mrs J E Schoolfield, Danville, Va; Mrs Julia A Jones, Bethania, N C; Mrs Ella Carter, Madison, N C; Mrs H C Eccles, Charlotte, N C; Mrs Dora Hopkins, Atlanta, Ga; Miss Agnes Coleman, Sedalia, S C; Mrs E B Allison, Turnersburg, N C; Mrs R A King, Blackwell's, S C; Miss Carrie Greer, Rocky Mount, Va; Mrs Frank Brown, Mrs W T Gray, Miss Bettie Cox, Mrs D S Reid, Mrs P H Hanes, Mrs Dr C J Watkins, Mrs Dr W J Conrad, Miss Addie Bizzelle, Miss Clara Querry, Miss Florence Barrow, Winston, N C; Miss Flora Lott, Mrs R W Belo, Mrs Florence Stockton, Mrs W J Peterson, Mrs W A Lemly, Miss Jane Wellare, Miss Lou Shaffner, Miss Theresa Peterson, Salem, N C; Mrs M E Scarborough, Ridge Spring, S C; Miss Olivia Warner, Bethlehem, Pa.

Married.

ANDERSON—REED.—On September 4th, Dr. ROBERT ANDERSON, of Davie Co., N. C., to Miss FLORA REED, of Winston, N. C.

FINLEY—COWLES.—On September 27, Mr. THOMAS B. FINLEY to Miss CARRIE E. COWLES, of Wilkesboro, N. C.

MALLOY—DUNN.—On October 10th, at Raleigh, N. C., Mr. JAMES EUGENE MALLOY to Miss SADIE ELIZABETH DUNN.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only and embraces, under general date of entrance,— 1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

— I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!

1886.

- 5757 MATTIE BAHNSON.
Charles F. Bahnsou, Farmington, N. C.
- 5758 ORA LILLIAN REYNOLDS.
Mrs. F. C. Reynolds, Asheville, N. C.
- 5759 ANNIE MAY REYNOLDS.
F. S. H. Reynolds, Asheville, N. C.
- 5760 MARY LAURA VANCE.
Gen. R. B. Vance, Asheville, N. C.
- 5761 JEANIE REYNOLDS.
R. O. Reynolds, Aberdeen, Miss.
- 5762 MYRIAM DINKENS.
James Dinkens, Aberdeen Miss.
- 5763 EDIE E. SMITH.
James Smith, Asheville, N. C.
- 5764 NELLIE H. WARNER.
J. H. Warner, Chattanooga, Tenn.
- 5765 LAURA T. STOKES.
Mrs. Emma T. Stokes, Dauville, Va.
- 5765 MARY ISABELLA SHULTZ.
Rev. C. B. Shultz, Bethlehem, Pa.
- 5767 KATIE A. LECKENBACH.
David Luckenbach, Bethlehem, Pa.

- 5768 EMMIE J. TUCKER.
Mrs. Angie Tucker, Sanford, Fla.
- 5769 JANIE M. SHERRILLE.
W. M. Smith, Bennettsville, S. C.
- 5770 KATE L. AYERS.
Hon. R. A. Ayers, Richmond, Va.
- 5771 ANNIE W. BOND.
F. I. Van Gilder, Asheville, N. C.
- 5772 MAMIE VAN GILDER.
S. T. Covington, Semora, N. C.
- 5773 DORA B. COVINGTON.
S. T. Covington, Semora, N. C.
- 5774 MARY R. ATKINSON.
Nail, Atkinson, Asheville, N. C.
- 5775 LIZZIE C. MOORE.
John W. Moore, Huntersville, N. C.
- 5776 ANNIE M. MOORE.
MRS. R. P. Lardner, Charlotte, N. C.
- 5777 MARY A. MOORE.
Alexander Buchanan, Chesterfield, S. C.
- 5778 FANNIE L. MOORE.
Roxana Buchanan, Chesterfield, S. C.
- 5779 ROXANA BUCHANAN.
J. H. Kumbough, Hot Springs, N. C.
- 5780 SADIE RUMBROUGH.
L. B. Scott, Semora, N. C.
- 5781 DAISY LITTLE.
Col. R. A. Little, Little Rock, Ark.
- 5782 AGNES S. PARKER.
R. M. Parker, Coatopa, Ala.
- 5783 LELIA PAYNE.
C. M. Payne, Atlanta, Ga.

1887.

- 5784 LAURA DICKS.
Dr. W. P. Dicks, Kernersville, N. C.
- 5785 FLORINE N. SCOTT.
L. B. Scott, Semora, N. C.
- 5786 HELEN PECK.
Dr. T. T. Peck, Wolf Creek, Tenn.
- 5787 WILLIE K. MILLER.
W. B. Wilson, Rock Hill, S. C.
- 5788 EDNA RUDISILL.
Mrs. M. T. Stahl, Memphis, Tenn.
- 5789 FLORENCE A. HARDEE.
G. S. Hardee, Rockledge, Fla.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.
The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.
REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

Nov. '92-1f.

→ DAVIS SCHOOL, ←
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address

DAVIS SCHOOL Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western R'y

A new route to Winston Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middleboro, Louisville. By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.
Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892-1y

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851
BY JAMES A HORNER, M.A., L LD.

Healthful Location.
New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.
Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.
Session begins September 1.
Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892-1y

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country.

All the leading novelties, such as:
Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,
in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in
Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of
Ladies Corsets and Underwear,
which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of
LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,
has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone III. Phone III.
Jan. 1892.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Supt., Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.

BOSTON BLOCK, - Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable.

Apply to FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N C
September, 1893.—tf.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2 50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxydized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,
W. T. VOGLER & SON.
JEWELERS,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.
Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91—1v.
ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.
THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,
THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
A COMPLETE OUTFIT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOD	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS
SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVE. N.Y.

S. E. ALLEN,
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware,
CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.
WINSTON N. C.
Gray Block.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892
"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.
Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,
Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
October, 1892.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boyston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth, 337 pages. Price $1 00. By mail $1.10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English.

REV. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: "It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of a that is necessary in grammar."

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 80 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth., 325 pages, $1.75. By mail $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.40.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth., 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the exact discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford pp. vi., 255. 1<sup>mo</sup>, cloth, 84 cents.

"Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Times and Herald.

"Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the latter use."—Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver—Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hamden—Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature, Cassica Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cower's Task—Sir Roger de Coverly, 18mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Rufus Choate—Thackeray's Four Georges and English Humorists, Parts I, and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Eginhard's Charemagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odyssey etc., will be published.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,
PUBLISHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '93-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVI.

SALEM, N. C., NOVEMBER, 1893.

NUMBER 140.

1802—1893.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features:— the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy.

BY MISS ADELAIDE L. FRIES.

The Chapel Festival of 1831 was held on a dreary, rainy day, and, during the morning, the whole town was thrown into a furor of excitement by the news, brought by wagoners coming from the direction of Lexington, that the negroes were in insurrection, under the leadership, it was believed, of Crooks and McBride, who had for some time been suspected of tampering with the slaves. A messenger was sent in haste for General Winston, the commander of the militia, slaves were locked up in garrets, and houses thrown open to receive the country people who flocked into the town for protection. On his arrival the General ordered the Salem Volunteer Company, recently organized, to guard the town; the ACADEMY girls gave up their lovefeast coffee and buns to the militia, who were then directed to station themselves along the Lexington road and give the insurgents a warm reception should they appear. In the meantime three reliable citizens had been sent out for information; one returned during the night, stating that they had seen some men with guns running, but nothing more. The next day brought the other two, who had been to Lexington, and found that the whole alarm was a practical joke perpetrated by the wagoners.

The Chapel was also the scene of elaborate decorations at Christmas, the most prominent feature being a beautiful transparency of the Birth of Christ. This picture was brought from Europe and must have been the work of a master-hand, for none imported since have equalled it in loveliness, and those who saw it speak sadly of its loss.

During the twenties an Indian girl attended the ACADEMY, and at Christmas her father visited her. He was very handsome, they say, a full-blooded Cherokee, tall and erect, with perfectly formed hands and feet; and, as he entered the chapel, he paused, and clasping his hands, gazed with silent awe upon the Infant Christ, while his negro servant, as interpreter, told him what it meant, and those who had taken him there looked on, deeply impressed with his unconscious tribute to the artist and his theme.

On May 31, 1831, there was a terrible fire in Fayetteville, N. C.; every church in town was burned, almost all the stores, most of the dwellings, and the Town Hall. Mr. REICHEL was so filled with compassion for the sufferers that he called the entire school together in the chapel, and telling them the sad story asked if they would not like to make up a purse to be sent to the burned and ruined city. Nearly all contributed something, and two of the teachers each gave five dollars, a whole month's salary, and were decidedly straitened in means for a month in consequence.

December 20th, 1833, Mr. REICHEL died, after a service of seventeen years,— the longest yet recorded,—and Rev. JOHN CHRISTIAN JACOBSON succeeded him in 1834, Bishop BECHLER having authority during the interregnum.

The number of pupils continued to increase, so, in 1835, a new chapel was built. This was to the east and was entered from the landing of the stairway leading to the second story. The decorations for one of the Christmas Dialogues held in this chapel are thus described by an eye-witness: "The eastern end of the hall was partitioned off by white drapery from floor to ceiling. Along the ceiling heavy festoons of evergreens reached from end to end, dropping to the floor on either side, while a bank of evergreens along the floor met the festoons, thus forming an evergreen frame whose enclosed space was divided into panels wrapped with festoons of cedar, laurel and spruce. In these panels were placed transparent paintings of the Nativity and other Bible scenes, among them portraits of the prophets and the temple scene, with aged Simeon holding the Babe in his arms, the devout Anna standing near by. Behind the curtains was the piano, and the music so mel- lowed was charming, especially the chorus, which sounded as at a distance, emblematic of the angelic chorus on the plains of Bethlehem. The girls taking part in the dialogue were dressed in white, with lace caps enveloping the head like a fleecy halo in the rather dim light of lamp or candle. The subject of the dialogue was 'the old, old story,' ever new, taken without change from the Gospels, and arranged in a conversational style. A group of maidens around a well discussed the wondrous news of the birth of a Saviour in a manger at Bethlehem, of the story of the Shepherds, and the hearing of the angels' song; then the older ones quoted some of the prophecies in the Old Testament relating to the birth of the Saviour, the Star of Bethlehem was noticed, and the visit of the Wise Men. The whole plot was simple, interesting and emotional. The singing was always good, and often very fine. The girls did the work, and the recitations were given with an earnest eloquence not often heard in provincial towns. The music was adapted by native musicians, and one of the most beautiful hymns, taken from the German and known as 'Morning Star,' is still sung every year in the Salem Moravian Church on the evening of the fourth Sunday in Advent."

The girls shared in all the church services of the congregation, and Christmas Eve brought the dearly beloved lovefeast, when, after the coffee and buns had been partaken of, and as the evening twilight began to close about them, a lighted wax taper was put into the hands of each child, and the minister, looking into the eager faces lit up by the soft radiance, told them of the Child who came one starry night to be the Light of the world. Next morning each room saw a merry group gathered about the table with its gifts, or around the "putz," so new to many of the girls. The "putz" consisted of a graceful cedar or pine, hung with popcorn festoons, bright chains and other ornaments, while about the base were snow-capped mountains, dark caves, hills and plains of soft, green moss, dotted with flocks of sheep, lakes and streams of water, and any other feature suggested by the ingenuity and taste of those who arranged the scene. In the midst of these pleasures the thoughts of loved ones keeping the same Christmas in homes so far away, only gave a tenderer tone to the enjoyment of the occasion.

TO BE CONTINUED.

The Place of Latin in a Liberal Education.

[Paper read by Rev. J. H. CLEWELL before the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly at Morehead City, June, 1893.]

IN treating this question I propose to do so from the standpoint of one frequently called upon to advise young minds in the choice of the line of work to be followed. It is, of course, necessary to define at the outset the sense in which liberal education is to be considered. Possibly some better term could be employed than the word liberal, but, with a few words of explanation, what is meant will plainly appear. By the term liberal education we mean the course of study which is followed by the great majority of our pupils in the higher classes of graded schools and in our colleges and seminaries,—but not that course of study which is limited as to time and has some specific, technical object in view. For instance, a young man of 16 begins a four years' course of study in one of our colleges, and we know that his desire is to accumulate knowledge in many lines of research, so that he may at the end of his course of study be said to have a well rounded or liberal education. But if he then turns his attention to a year's study of Shorthand, wishing in that time to attain a degree of proficiency, it is quite apparent that the rules regulating the first four years will not apply to the fifth year of study. In like manner what we will say in this paper must be understood to apply to the general education, or liberal education,—that form of education which claims the attention of the great majority of our young men and young women. With this brief definition of the difference between a liberal and a special course of study we next ask, Why is it necessary to write a paper on a topic so clear to every one? Why use the time of so august an assemblage as this to discuss the place of Latin in a liberal or general education? Is not that place fixed and beyond the scope of discussion? It should be, but is not. To one situated as he who writes this paper, it becomes quite evident, from year to year, that the place of Latin in a liberal education is not established. Instructors are found in large numbers who oppose the study of Latin directly or indirectly. This would be an evil even if it stopped there; but, so strong is the feeling in the matter, that when a pupil is about to leave their care, to enter broader fields of work, this same teacher delivers a charge to the effect that Latin is a useless study, time devoted to it is time lost,—therefore, better not study Latin. Coming from the source it does I have often been led to wonder at this advice! Another source of opposition to the study of Latin is on the part of parents. Whatever may be the original cause of this opposition, there is no doubt but that it exists, and here we find the greatest difficulty in overcoming the injury done. When a misguided teacher fills the mind of a departing pupil with prejudice against Latin that prejudice may be overcome because the pupil's connection with the teacher has ceased. But when a mother or father is the active source of opposition there is often greater difficulty in overcoming this opposition because the allegiance of a pupil to parents remains wherever the school-home may be. Then, too, we must not fail to note the natural opposition which exists in the minds of many pupils because of the labor connected with the study. This is more noticeable in the case of indolent or less talented pupils, for it is with Latin as with physical exercise: those who need it most are most averse to it. Hence, we see that the study of Latin has opponents in the very ranks of teachers, among parents and among pupils, and for this reason it is well for an Assembly like this to look fairly and squarely at the subject, and if this important branch of study has been displaced from its rightful position it behooves us in justice to restore to it its crown and sceptre.

Let us now return to the positive consideration of the topic, and ask, What is the place of Latin in a liberal education? and we venture the reply, that in a liberal education Latin should be always faithfully taught. It should be considered a requisite, just as we consider Mathematics a requisite. These two studies should be looked upon as twin sisters, and just as the study of Mathematics is looked upon as a necessity, so the study of Latin should be looked upon as a necessity. We will consider a few reasons why so great stress should be laid upon the study of Latin. Latin has gradually become one of the great tests of intellectual power. This view of the study is due to the fact that a pupil either is or is not in possession of the branch. A very brief examination will show whether a pupil is or is not a Latin pupil. Just so also is it with Mathematics: if a pupil can solve the problem in Algebra or demonstrate the theorem in Geometry we know exactly how the matter stands. So, too, if the pupil can decline and conjugate and can transpose Latin into English and English into Latin we know exactly how the matter stands. It is not so with many other studies. Take natural science as a test. A shrewd young man may purchase a half dozen of our magnificent modern text-books, and gather from them in a month's careful study in regard to Geology and Physical Geography, Anatomy and Physiology, Physics and Chemistry enough facts to seem to be well posted in regard to Natural Science. Mathematics and Latin are like a garden spot fenced in, with boundaries clearly defined; many of the other studies are like boundless prairies, apparently without limit, on which a passing stranger may stake off a claim and be an owner, or where some gray-haired sage has tarried beside a small pool and, with microscope in hand, has spent an entire life in studying the habits of animals invisible to the naked eye. Latin is like a yardstick when used as a test. It is fitted to such a use. For it tells more than the mere story of how much Latin the pupil has in his mind. It also tells the capabilities and possibilities. The clerk, with yardstick in hand, can successfully measure silks and broadcloth, linen and cambric, lace and tape. So the Professor, when he applies the test of a Latin examination can see back of the work in this branch how much capacity there is for Literature and Science, for Psychology and Logic, for Essays and Orations. Latin applied as a test to the mind is the yardstick. Mathematics the half bushel measure. What the yardstick and the half-bushel measure is to the great commercial world about us Latin and Mathematics are to the four or five years usually given to a liberal education by the young people of our land.

My hearers will acknowledge that custom, that is, general custom, is always worthy of study and consideration. Custom is not always right; but it will doubtless meet with your consent when I claim that what is custom relating to such a subject as we are now discussing will carry with it great weight. Therefore we invite you to note what has gradually become the test of entrance into our best institutions of learning. I have the honor of addressing many whose names rank high in our land as great and distinguished leaders in the noble work of education. If we could place before you their testimony I feel confident that they would bear witness to the fact that a candidate for advanced standing in a college course, who is deficient in either Latin or Mathematics, would present a weak case, if they were to be the judges in the matter. I have the honor of addressing many distinguished leaders in our graded school work,—that great factor which is doing more to make our land the greatest on earth (under the blessing of God), and you may go to Wilmington, to Raleigh, to Charlotte, to Asheville, to Winston, or to a score of other places where these fine schools are found, examine the programme laid down in their course of study, and I venture to say that in every case where a good and successful school is to be found, you will discover that Latin has a prominent and honored place. Nay more,—go into the sections away from the larger towns and cities, and interrogate the worker in the field who stands alone and labors against untold difficulties; he finds about him young people of promise, who will later be brought into sharp competition with others in the world of letters, and, as he laboriously begins the training of this young man, this young woman, for college or seminary, you will find that in no instance will this shrewd toiler fail to give to the young mind (afterward to shed lustre on the early teacher by every success in the broader field), in no case will he fail to give tireless drill to the two great test studies of Latin and Mathematics. For well he knows that just as he will be asked in some spheres regarding health and character, so in presenting himself at the door of the college or university, he will be asked as to his standing in Latin and Mathematics. General custom thus supports our position, and we see that in city, town and country this study of Latin has become one of the two standards or tests as to what a young mind has done and can do, and this is so satisfactory, as one of the chief standards that no longer is its merit generally questioned.

Allow me, however, to introduce another very significant fact as an argument to prove our statement. Have you ever noticed how quickly the business world grasps the tendency of the times in order to secure the greatest benefit from the rising wave. This being the case in regard to changing seasons, in regard to fashions and fabrics, in regard to stocks and real estate,—if we can show that the great business world has noted the truth we are demonstrating, that must have its weight. Glance at the great publishing houses, with their thousands and millions of dollars invested, and note the large number of splendid works being printed as aids to the study of Latin. As one engaged in educational work I am amazed as I see one book after another pass in review, each one full of merit,—some suited to the needs of the beginner, some suited to the advanced pupil; some adapted to the wants of the farm lad who studies by the tallow candle, others to the study of the classic old university or college building. And when I think of the cost of preparing and publishing each separate text-book, and multiply that by the large number of works on this subject, I conclude that the shrewd business world has not only recognized that Latin ought to be an essential in a liberal education, but that it is and will continue to be an increasing essential.

I note the regulations laid down by the successful managers of this great work that they have limited the papers to 20 minutes, and they have done wisely. Hence, as I have probably reached the limit, I can only allude passingly to two of the strongest arguments in favor of making Latin a necessity in a liberal education. But as these arguments have been so often presented to thinking minds, they will need nothing more than a mere mention. The one argument is the wonderful power of Latin to give strength and discipline to the mind. What exercise is to the general health, what the gymnasium is to the athlete, Latin is to the mind. It gives power and strength; it sharpens the perceptive power; it deepens the reasoning power; it aids the memory,—in short, it stimulates the entire intellectual life. The study of Latin may not be practically used by the merchant, but it will enable him to be keen in his perception of things and men; Latin may not be absolutely necessary to the lawyer (though his law books bristle with Latin phrases), yet the discipline given to his mind will enable him to reason out the strong points in his law cases; Latin may not be of practical use in Mathematics or Surveying, but it will help the student to solve the problems and overcome the obstacles by the inherent power given to the mind. This is the one point,—it is a great disciplinarian and mind-strengthenener.

The other and final argument is the relation that Latin bears to our own language. Neither Hebrew nor the poetic Greek have exerted nearly so great an influence on the English as the Latin. All the languages of Western Europe have been impressed with the Latin type, but none more so than the English. The Latin is capable of influencing other languages more so than the Greek, Hebrew or Arabic. The English language is capable of being influenced more than the others, as for instance the German and the Russian. Therefore, given the Latin strong to influence, and the English easy to be influenced,—the natural result is that even the mind of ordinary education needs a knowledge of Latin in order to fully understand our own English tongue. This fact alone, when developed and enlarged, is sufficiently strong and conclusive to establish our statement at the beginning of this paper. To sum up the points given above, we claim that Because Latin has become one of the chief and generally accepted standards in higher education;

Because the business world has recognized this claim by the numerous and fine publications;

Because Latin is one of the finest and best agents to strengthen the mind; and

Because our own English is locked up in many particulars where a knowledge of Latin is wanting,— Therefore, we conclude that Latin should form an essential part of every liberal education, and should be faithfully and always taught.

Leaving these arguments aside for a moment, I would crave the indulgence of this Assembly to suggest that it use its far-reaching power to correct the evil that undoubtedly exists in our State in regard to Latin. Our standard of scholarship is undoubtedly injured by every instructor in preparatory schools who impresses on his pupils that Latin is a dead language, in the sense of being "dead and gone," "dead and buried." Our standard of scholarship is being injured by every father and mother who says to son or daughter, "you need not waste time on Latin." Our standard of scholarship is being injured by every Principal or President who allows the immature mind to shape and fashion eclectic courses of study which are governed by every whim and taste, and which, in the majority of cases, will throw overboard this grand old study because like all good things it is attended with toil and difficulties. This is probably not an experience meeting, yet you will pardon me when I say that in the institution with which I am associated 230 pupils pursued the study of Latin, and many of these came to us filled with all manner of prejudices received from previous advice, and above all from the natural desire of immature minds to steer around a difficult task. I often found it more trouble to overcome these prejudices than it was to teach the language, but we have become convinced of the strength of our position, and I think that many a student would now rather take Latin than come to my office and attempt to get an excuse. Pardon the personal allusion,—but I wish to show you that an Institution that has an enrollment of 230 in the Latin Department practices what it preaches.

I know that other workers in the great cause of education have encountered these difficulties, and I trust this Assembly may now and in the future use its influence to do what no individual as an individual can do, viz: give to Latin its true and proper position in education; and not only in the case of Latin, but in the case of every branch of education. Thus may evils be eradicated; weak places made strong, and the educational interests of North Carolina be brought to the very front rank. May the largest teachers' association in the United States so prosper that the old North State, through its influence, through the influence of its educators, and by the blessing of God, may become the grandest educational State in this grand old Union.

---

—We are indebted to Mrs. J. H. Kapp (SALLIE LEHMAN, '68) for some exceptionally fine pears, whose weight ranged from one pound to one pound and five ounces each. This will do fairly well for North Carolina fruit.

---

—A number of gifts for the Museum have been received and await classification and later mention in THE ACADEMY.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., NOVEMBER, 1893.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—We devote a considerable amount of space to the two first articles of this month's issue, but we also feel that we need offer no apology for the fact. Miss FRIES' article is attracting much attention and we are constantly being asked for back numbers containing the first of the history. Mr. CLEWELL's paper has been asked for by a number of friends, and will doubtless be a matter of interest to those engaged in the study of Latin.

—The Triennial Synod of the Moravian Church is in session as we go to press this month. This body elects the Trustees of the ACADEMY, and has control of the welfare of the Institution. Naturally, the condition of the school is of great interest to this body, and its present prosperity a matter of congratulation.

—We have just added a new grand piano to the Music Department of the ACADEMY. It is of the Hallett & Davis make, Boston, and was purchased from the Standard Music Co., Winston. This gives us two grands on the chapel platform, a Steinway and Hallet & Davis. If we add to this the excellent work done by Mr. Butner this summer in rebuilding some ten or twelve of the practice pianos, making them virtually the same as new pianos, and to this add the excellent list of teachers who have charge of the department,—all these things combined give us much cause for congratulation.

—Recitations will be suspended this year, Friday, December 22d, at 2 o'clock P. M. As this is earlier than usual, and as the number of pupils who leave school at Christmas is limited to those who live within two or three hours' travel from the school, we urgently request parents to note our rule which forbids any pupil to withdraw before this date and hour. Day pupils will also note that absence during these days lowers the report and class standing very materially. THE ACADEMY recalls the fact that last year the parents and pupils kindly united with us in this matter, and saved much trouble experienced in previous years. Please note the date,—2 o'clock, Friday, Dec. 22d.

North Carolina University Magazine.

THE University Magazine last month published an article on SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, written by Miss ADELAIDE FRIES, of Salem. The sketch is carefully written and very comprehensive. It contains, briefly given, the story of a century, together with a number of illustrations. Among them we note a view of Main and South Halls: scenes in the School Park; a "Salem Girl," in classic cap and gown; a corner in the Dormitory; also small portraits of the Rev. SAMUEL J. KRAMSH, first Principal; Bishop REICHEL, third Principal; Bishop JACOBSON, fourth Principal; Rev. ROBERT DE SCHWEINITZ, seventh Principal; Bishop RONDTHALER, tenth Principal, and Rev. J. H. CLEWELL, eleventh and present Principal. THE ACADEMY acknowledges the courtesy of the University Magazine in thus laying stress on our history, and we trust will be only another bond to unite the interests of these venerable institutions which have always had so pleasing and close a friendship. And just here we may add that the North Carolina University Magazine has been greatly enlarged and improved, and should be not only a matter of pride to the grand old University, but also to the entire State. Our best wishes go with the magazine, and we hope to see it realize still greater things in the future.

—The unusual number of recitals given by the music school betoken great activity in that department.

Correspondence.

—We will begin our monthly meeting in our Correspondence circle with a pleasant letter from Mrs. Corpenning (MAMIE YANCEY) whose sojourn with us as a pupil, whose marriage in Mr. CLEWELL's parlor, as well as the baptism of her boy by Dr. RONDTHALER, all unite more closely the bonds between her and her Alma Mater.

"I left Detroit soon after writing you, with my husband and baby to go to Chicago, as Mr. Corpenning's company sent him to electrical work in the Exposition. I felt that we were fortunate, for, of course, we were anxious to see the Fair. We did enjoy it greatly, but finally grew tired of the heat and throng. I enjoyed coming home almost more than going, for baby was not very well, and I suffered from homesickness, a dreadful malady. I have been here about a month. Baby has grown strong and well. All the family are here, and the time is passing most pleasantly.

Mama kept your letter, thinking I was coming south much earlier, and so it, with several others, greeted me on my arrival. I will be here all the fall. Mr. Corpenning is in Philadelphia now, but I look for him very soon.

Another school year has begun with you. How fast, indeed, the days go by, and how we change, mentally as well as physically. Please excuse a blot on my letter; baby boy has gotten into a great glee over something, and gives me a vigorous pull every now and then. I hope you will have a prosperous and pleasant school term; the financial condition of the country is so depressing that the spirit of the girls ought to be willing and their advantages prized.

Wishing you and yours much love,

Ever your friend,

MAMIE YANCEY CORPENNING.

Marion, N. C.

—Our next is from a later pupil, CARRIE GREER:

It would be impossible to say how often I have thought of you and of Salem this past Summer. I often thought of writing, but the summer slipped away so quietly that I failed to do so. I suppose you are wondering what I am doing out here. I am teaching music, have a class of ten pupils, and will have more later in the season.

I enclose 50 cents for THE ACADEMY, for it will afford me great pleasure to read it, to hear of you all and what you are doing. Give my love to all connected with the ACADEMY, to Mrs. CLEWELL, little Katy, John and Miss LEHMAN. I would like so much to hear from you, but suppose your work is too heavy.

Your old pupil,

CARRIE V. GREER.

Pennington, Lee Co., Va.

—The following communication was written some time ago, but letters from old friends are always interesting:

Enclosed I send 50 cents for my subscription to THE ACADEMY. I intended to send it some time ago but neglected it. I have been teaching nearly a year, but have only three more weeks to teach. I am getting tired and will be glad when I can go home and rest. We do not live in Dunn now, but near Greenville. Please send me a Catalogue. I want it for a friend. Give my love to the other teachers.

Very sincerely,
EULA COX.

Dunn, N. C.

—EDITH CLARKE does not forget us in her new married life either:

Upon my arrival home yesterday I found two copies of THE ACADEMY awaiting me, and they reminded me that I have neglected sending on the money for this year; so I enclose the same. I have spent a very delightful summer. The last of August we went to Baltimore, Md. Thence we went to the World's Fair. The second car I got on after arriving in the "White City" contained quite a nice surprise, in seeing Miss PITTMAN and DAISY BROOKS. I afterwards had the pleasure of meeting ETHEL ROBERTS and ANNE CARRIER on the Fair Grounds. We stayed there ten days, then proceeded to Kentucky, visiting Danville, Harrodsburg, Bardstown and Louisville, where we had a delightful time, visiting relatives and friends. By "we" I mean Mr. Moore and I. Now I am safely at home for the winter. Wishing you a prosperous year, and with love to all my ACADEMY friends, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
EDITH CLARK MOORE.

No. 119 French Broad Ave., Asheville, N. C.

—LENA WELBORN also writes a few lines as follows:

I was so glad to get the September ACADEMY and to see such a long list of pupils. I wish I could be back there and fill my old place in the South Senior Room. I am teaching the four younger children, and am preparing my sisters for Salem. I teach four hours in the morning, and so have the entire evening at my own disposal. Enclosed find 50 cents for THE ACADEMY.

With best wishes for a happy and prosperous year, I remain,

Your old pupil,
LENA WELBORN.

Wilkesboro, N. C.

—We are glad to find such a number of our Alumnae eager to be busy. Nothing can be better for their development of character and general usefulness than congenial work.

I have often thought of writing to you during the summer, but I thought I would wait until school began. So many of your girls of '93 will be writing that I fear you will forget us of '92 if we do not make ourselves known. The year I have spent out of school has not changed me with regard to my love for the ACADEMY, but as I grow older I appreciate your care and kindness more.

This past year has been one of bereavement and sorrow to me, as you know my beloved father died. His death was a shock from which I can scarcely recover. The entire county has not ceased to mourn his loss. Through Mr. CLEWELL's recommendation I am now governess in the family of Mr. H. L. Read, of this place. I like to teach very much, but have learned from experience that a teacher's life has its cares. Mr. Read has two daughters and one step-daughter that he intends sending to Salem. One will be old enough next year, and the others the following Autumn. I think I will succeed in making them Salem girls in everything but name before I send them to you.

I noticed from THE ACADEMY that you have CHRISTIANA with you. I hope she will help you in many ways. I get letters from EMMIE more frequently than from any of the other girls, and I write to her oftener. Please write to me sometimes. With love to you and the other teachers,

Very truly, your pupil,
AVA STROUP.

De Kalb, Texas.

Personal.

—We are pained to hear of the death of Mrs. L. H. Sloan, of Reidsville, ANNIE's mother. Our warmest sympathy goes out to the bereaved family. She leaves 5 children, two girls and three boys.

—We also note the death of Mrs. Joseph P. Caldwell on Nov. 2d, in Statesville. She was the wife of the editor of the Charlotte Observer. Genial, sprightly, the genuine sunshine of her nature, mirrored in her attractive face, she was beloved and esteemed by all, and her death was a shock to her wide circle of relatives and friends. She was the daughter of Mr. C. E. Spratt, of Charlotte, and spent one winter in the ACADEMY. Thus in the very prime of a gracious and lovely womanhood, at the age of 35 years, she was called away from a devoted husband and four little children.

—Inquiry has been made by a former schoolmate, of MYRTIE WOOTEN. Will any one who knows of her please address THE ACADEMY.

—After a long silence, Miss A. VANVLECK received the sad news of the death of her old friend and pupil of years ago, Mrs. Carline Harrison Lanham, of Sherman, Texas. Mrs. Lanham was a staunch friend of the ACADEMY, a woman of lovely character, and we are grieved to hear that she died December 28th, 1891. She had only two children, boys, and the younger writes very tenderly of his mother. He says: "If the instruction that Mama received while at Salem assisted in making her the kind, precious mother that she was, I shall ever be indebted to the Faculty, and shall feel so at any rate. I love the name 'Salem,' because I heard my dear mother speak it so often. It seems as near and dear to me as our old home in South Carolina, where my parents were raised and many of our relatives live. I can never feel like any school is equal to Salem. My mother was happy and rejoicing as long as she was conscious, and her hopes were very bright for the life beyond."

—We were very sorry to hear of the trouble which has come upon the family of Mrs. STELLA NEIL Slappey in the death of her son George's wife, a lovely and beloved wife of several short years. She was Miss Fannie Harris, daughter of Hon. H. C. Harris, graduated at Wesleyan Female College about three years ago, and a few months later was married to Mr. George H. Slappey, a popular young druggist of Fort Valley, Ga. She was shrouded in her bridal gown.

—LIZZIE PATTERSON, with a husband of a few hours' standing, called in to see us a short time ago. The happy couple were on their way to Chicago, but finding they would be detained at Walnut Cove, they concluded to come to Salem and give us a short visit. Our best wishes follow these new travellers on life's road matrimonial.

—We see from the Charlotte Observer of October 27, an account of a marriage in high life, Miss Bessie Graham, grand-daughter of the late Governor Graham, of this State, to Mr. Joseph Maclean. The groom is well known among us as a musician of unusual gifts and distinction, as well as a gentleman of fine literary culture. He is a step-son of one of our well-known Alumnae, Mrs. CLARA DARGAN Maclean, of South Carolina, and is at present musical director of the Agnes Scott Institute at Decatur, Ga. He is also organist of the Second Baptist church, Atlanta.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The Misses Chaffin, sisters of Miss ALMA CHAFFIN, paid us a brief visit early in November on their way from Chicago and New York to their home in Florida.

—The Helen Borhek Memorial Chapel was dedicated in Bethlehem, Pa., October 22d. The chapel is a generous gift to the Theological Seminary in memory of the departed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ashton Borhek. The gift is between $12,000 and $15,000, and is a grand and lasting memorial of a dear daughter. Why cannot the ACADEMY rejoice in a similar liberal offering from some Alumnae.

—Oct 31st the various Sunday Schools of the Moravian Church in this District gathered in a great Convention in Salem. They came together nearly 2000 strong and presented a beautiful sight as they filed back and forth in the Salem Square. A number of bands headed the various processions, and with the bright and happy faces of the children and the tasty banners, made a mass meeting in the true sense of the word. The morning being very cool, the great throng filled the Salem Church and the ACADEMY Chapel. Addresses were delivered by a number of Sunday School workers. In the afternoon the company re-assembled at 2 o'clock, this time in front of the large portico of Main Hall. The choir and bands occupied the raised floor of the portico, the Sunday Schools occupying places in front of the building specially prepared for them. Lovefeast was served, addresses were made and songs sung. About 4 o'clock the company dispersed, the day being a memorable one in the history of Sunday School work in this section.

—The evening of Oct. 31st was used as the second of a series of lectures to be delivered during the year. The first lecture was on Palestine, delivered by Dr. RONDTHALER, in September. Tuesday, Oct. 31, being Founders' Day, and also the occasion of the Sunday School Mass Meeting (in which the pupils took part,) the evening was selected as the occasion for the second of the series of lectures. It was delivered by Mr. CLEWELL, the subject being "The City of Washington." A brief sketch was given of the history of the founding of Washington; this was followed by a description of many of the buildings, monuments, avenues and other places of interest. The lecture also covered some of the great historical features of the city, and was illustrated by the following stereopticon views:

- The Capitol.
- White House.
- Jackson's Statue.
- State, War and Navy.
- Treasury.
- Patent Office.
- Washington Monument.
- Soldiers' Home.
- Tomb of Washington.
- Washington Crossing the Delaware.
- (Colored.)
- Landing of Columbus. (Colored.)

At the conclusion of the lecture the allegorical picture, "The Mill and the Still," was thrown on the screen, and, after a few words of explanation in regard to the song, "Father, dear father, come home with me now," the three views illustrating this song were shown, while Miss GERTRUDE ROBBINS rendered very sweetly and touchingly the song itself, supported by a semi-chorus of voices. The effect of the scenes before the eye, and the ear listening to the song at the same time can hardly be imagined; many of the audience were heard to sob as the song progressed. This close to Founder's Day, coupled with the Sunday School Mass Meeting, helped to make the occasion an unusually pleasant one, as did also the Malaga grapes and fine apples distributed during the day.

—The two recitals since our last paper was printed were given by pupils of Prof. SKILTON and Miss TRACY. The first was on October 19th, the programme being as follows:

1. Morey.....Gavotte
MISS KATE CROUCH.
2. Mozart..Theme and Variations in A Major
MISS SCALES.
3. Hiller.....Trio: The Cuckoo.
Misses MORRISON, SCALES, CROSS.
4. Ahlborn.....Rustic Dance.
MISS SMITHERMAN.
5. Grieg.....Heart's Sorrows.
MISS ROBBIE KYLE.
6. Schubert.....Minuet.
MISS CHADBOURN.
7. Jensen.....Romance Poetique.
MISS ELLA HEGE.

8. Caracciolo.....Duets: Tuscan Folk Songs.
  - { a. A Flight of Clouds.
  - { b. Oh, happy are the Blind.
  - { c. Nearest and Dearest.
- Misses GERTRUDE ROBBINS and MARY MORRIS.
9. Tschaikowski.....Harvest Song.
MISS MORRISON.

The second was under Miss TRACY'S direction, and given Nov. 2d, the programme being as follows:

- Reinecke*.....Chorus. Faithful Love.
- Bendel*.....' Wonderful the Power of Love.
MISS HEGE.
- Thome*.....Papillon et Rose.
MISS KELLETT.
- Nevin, Neidlinger*, } ..... { At Twilight.
} ..... { My Laddie.
MISS NETTIE GLENN.
- Raff*.....Trio. "Day is at last Departing."
Misses KELLETT, CHEATHAM, CROUCH.
- Chaminade*.....Rosemonde.
MISS SCALES.
- Godard*.....Canzonetta.
MISS ROBBINS.
- B. O. Klein*.....Tempo di Mazurka.
MISS MORRISON.

Myles B. Foster.....Chorus. Cradle Song.

—Bishop RONDTHALER visited Mt. Bethel, Va., recently where he received 44 members into the Moravian church at that place. He also visited Wachovia Arbor and Fulps, organizing congregations at both these places.

—The Twin-City Daily recently published an article on schools in the Twin-Cities, and among other Institutions made very kindly mention of the ACADEMY. The Daily has always been very kind to our school and its interests and we greatly appreciate the same.

—The World is the name of a new evening paper, started this month in Winston. The first numbers are very neatly and tastily gotten out, and brim full of well written news items. We welcome the World and trust that it will flourish, as do almost all worthy business enterprises in our Twin Cities.

—Earlier in the month the weather turned suddenly very cold, and such a rush as there was for stoves and furnaces! The hum of the wood saw was heard and the coal wagon rolled merrily by to deposit its load of Anthracite and Bituminous.

—Bishop RONDTHALER and Mr. CLEWELL have returned from Chicago and we will probably receive some of their impressions for THE ACADEMY later, but as they were still struggling with Chicago colds at last accounts, we suppose the 'kerchief has not been exchanged for the pen as yet.

—The new names placed on our register since last month are as follows :

- Miss Lula Stafford, N. C.
- Miss Bertha Miller, N. C.
- Miss Sallie Goodrum, Ga.
- Miss Carrie M. Moore, Tenn.
- Miss Carrie Leonard, N. C.
- Miss Farrar, N. C.
- Miss Bilharz, N. C.
- Miss Agnes Weesner, N. C.

—The Oxford gowns and caps for the Seniors were at length received after impatient waiting, for the girls do not consider themselves fully fledged Seniors until they have "caught the full contagion of the gown," as Dr. Samuel Johnson puts it. There is nothing more dignified and classic than these gowns and caps; the white ones worn at last Commencement were such a success that it is not probable that we will ever again be willing to dispense with them. The plainest girls looked handsome and distinguished, and the universal remark was: "You have never had a finer looking Senior Class," but the difference lay in the simple, chaste and elegant gown and the beautiful uniformity which necessarily prevailed.

—The King's Daughters continue to meet every Sunday afternoon at 4 P. M., and we are just as happy as you were, girls, furthermore, we've had another "Brownie Exhibit."

We are now thinking of Thanksgiving Day, and our penny-box no longer has an empty jingle; still there is room for further contributions.

We hope ELIZA GULICK will make a success of her Brownie Enterprise.

We don't count letters with you, but we are always delighted to hear from any of the "Four Leaf Clover" girls.

SUE REYNOLDS, Cor. Sec.

Married.

MOFFATT—PATERSON.—On Oct. 11th, Mr. T. Moffatt to Miss Lizzie Paterson, of Liberty, N. C.

CALDWELL—BROWNSON.—On Oct. 17th, in the Presbyterian church of Cuero, Texas, Mr. Patton Howell Caldwell to Miss Agnes Jeanette Brownsou.

ATKINSON—BOVD.—In Summit, Miss., on Nov. 1st, Mr. Woodson Atkinson to Miss Annie Boyd (Class of '88).

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs. Florence Pritchett, Stapleton, S. I.; Miss Mattie Belo Williams, Newbern, N. C.; Miss Lena Wellborn, Wilkesboro, N. C.; Mrs. Jas. B. Minor, Greensboro, N. C.; Mrs. Ann Sturdivant, Charlotte, N. C.; Miss Ella Neely, Yorkville, S. C.; Mrs. J. S. Jones, Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs. Wm. J. Cooper, Knoxville, N. C.; Miss Helen de Schweinitz, Bethlehem, Pa.; Miss Mary Pfohl, Columbus, Ga.; Miss Lillie Lash, Bethania, N. C.; Mrs. Edith Clark Moore, Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. W. M. Kellett, Waco, Texas; Miss Mattie Johns, Auburn, N. C.; Miss Annie L. Ogburn, Smith's  $\times$  Roads, Va.; Miss Sallie Shaffner, Miss M. E. Vogler, Miss H. Foltz, Mr. Timothy Vogler, Salem, N. C.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of—Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The kinds which appeal more directly for support of this cause are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.
FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.
The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.
REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.
Nov. '92-tf.

DAVIS SCHOOL, A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address

DAVIS SCHOOL Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western R'y

A new route to Winston Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middleboro, Louisville.

By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Fullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Fullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892-1y

Horner Military School, OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A HORNER, M.A., L LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,

Principals.

June 1892-1y

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country

All the leading novelties, such as:

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS, has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111.

Phone 111.

Jan. 1892.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY,
Gen. Sup't.,
Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Pass. Agt,
Fayetteville, N. C.

BOSTON BLOCK, - Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable.

Apply to
September, 1893.—tf.
FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N. C.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnæ to Salem
Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON.

JEWELERS,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,

SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-1y.

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00. Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,
HET ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

ASUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

BOX & CONTENTS 3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF 1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
SKETCHING STIOL 1.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION AND ADDRESS

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware, CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.
WINSTON N. C.
Gray Block.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.

Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.
Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,
Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
October, 1892.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boyston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth. 337 pages. Price $1.00. By mail, $1.10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English.

Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: "It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But the truth I find it so. And I carry about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of a that is necessary in grammar."

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 80 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth. 325 pages. $1.75. By mail $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.46.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth. 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logic doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the excellent discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford. pp. vi., 255. 1 mo, cloth, 84 cents. "Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Herald.

"Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, in its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the after use."—Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hampton-Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature, Cassica Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cowper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverly, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Rufus Choate—Thackeray's Four Georges and English Humorists, Parts I. and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Eginhard's Charenagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odyssey etc. will be published.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

PUBLISHERS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '93-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVI.

SALEM, N. C., DECEMBER, 1893.

NUMBER 141.

1802—1893.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features:—the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy.

BY MISS ADELAIDE L. FRIES.

IN 1840 the following circular was issued, and it is of interest as showing the curriculum and terms of that day :

TERMS

of the Institution for FEMALE EDUCATION.
at Salem.

Entrance .....	$5 00
Board and Washing, and Tuition, including Reading, Grammar, Writing, Arithmetic, History, Geography, the use of the Globes, Composition, Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, Botany, Latin and French, Drawing and Painting, plain Needlework, &c., per quarter, .....	$30 00
Instruction in Music, per quarter, .....	5 00
Instruction in Ornamental Needlework, per quarter, .....	3 00
For the use of the Library, per quarter, .....	$1 00
Books, Stationery, Medicine and Medical Attendance, and other contingent expenses, placed to account.

One Hundred Dollars paid in advance.
Clothes found by Parents and Guardians or placed to account.

Bills adjusted semi-annually, and full payment to be made at the removal of a Pupil.

The amount of Board, Tuition and contingent expenses may be calculated at Two Hundred Dollars, more or less, for one year.

No pupil admitted without seasonable application by letter, post-paid, mentioning name, age, &c., nor unless an affirmative answer be previously returned by

Rev. JOHN C. JACOBSON,
Principal of the Boarding School,
Salem, N. C.

Little by little the school encroached upon the Gemein Haus, until, in 1841, it was arranged that a church chapel and parsonage should be built, on the completion of which the school took possession of the Gemein Haus and premises. Mr. JACOBSON had a porch built along the rear of the Gemein Haus, connecting it with that on the school building, so forming a covered way for the comfort of scholars and teachers. Behind the house stood a long shed, used for wash-kitchen, &c., and back of that the ground sloped down to the stream which runs through the pleasure grounds. Originally the school building had but two stories (of brick), with a high-pitched tile roof and double row of dormer windows in the German style, but about this time the roof and attic were remodeled, as shown in an old print from a drawing by Mr. E. A. Vogler.

In 1844 Mr. JACOBSON accepted a call elsewhere, and Rev. CHARLES ADOLPHUS BLECK took his place. It was now thought advisable to establish a more advanced course, as some of the girls were prosecuting more advanced studies under some difficulties,—reciting their French to the Principal himself at 7 o'clock in the morning for example. The first Select Class was therefore organized, consisting of 8 or 10 boarders and 2 day-scholars, taught by Mrs. DENKE, who, as MARY STEINER, had taught in the school for many years, and had lately returned from a two years' trip to Europe. They met in a small front room at the north end of the Gemein Haus, and considered it a pleasant innovation that, instead of the long straight rows of the other classes, they were allowed to sit around a table, albeit it was on benches devoid of backs.

In those days there were no long summer vacations, with deserted halls from which the girls had scattered to distant homes, but merely a few weeks' rest in mid-summer and a picnic or two as the particular treat of the season. Sometimes before the day dawned the wagons would go to the ACADEMY doors, and the waking town would ring with songs as the excursionists started for a nine or ten mile drive into the country. There the doors of some hospitable house would be thrown open, and after gaining wondrous appetites by their rambles in the woods, the girls would sit down to the plentifully laden board. After such a day, filled with pleasure and punctuated with melons, berries, or whatever fruit happened to be in season, they would drive home in the moonlight, happily weary and content.

In 1848 Rev. EMIL ADOLPHUS DE SCHWEINITZ became Principal. He was the first to issue a programme for the Annual Examination, the chief event of the school-year. Weeks before, great family coaches began to come, drawn by two or four horses and accompanied by a retinue of servants with baggage wagons, the old Hotel would be full to overflowing, and many families in town would throw their doors wide open, considering the patrons of the ACADEMY the guests of the town. For a week or two the school would be busy over private examinations. Day by day they assembled in the chapel, while the Principal examined each class in all the studies in which they had been so carefully instructed throughout the year. Then came the great day, when all gathered, with their friends, in the Moravian Church, whose galleries were elaborately decorated with the girls' work—landscapes in crayon and water colors, cross-stitch embroidery on canvass, showing floral designs, portraits of Washington, Scott and others, while about the Principal's chair were placed foot-stools, piano-stools, &c.; and before the session opened the patrons examined the work so displayed.

One of the first things on the programme was the roll-call, to which each girl responded by rising and curtsying, it being considered a proper introduction to the audience in view of the part each should take later, and it is said the boys intensely appreciated this part of the performance. Then followed dialogues, music and various exercises, showing the proficiency the classes had attained in their studies. Each pupil was given some part in the proceedings, so all took a deep interest in its success. Sometimes a group of girls would surround a table profusely decorated with flowers, and taking up leaves and blossoms talk about them, naming their parts, or, again, examples in Mathematics would be worked out on the blackboard. Often such work would be followed by friends in the audience; and once, only once, a gentleman thought he had discovered an error in the solution of an algebraic problem in the hands of that class, and sent a written notice to the Principal. But he, stepping forward, quickly proved the girls to be entirely correct, and the gentleman acknowledged the fact and highly commended the thoroughness of the instruction the class had received. Early in the next administration these public examinations were discontinued, and "Entertainments," chiefly concerts, took their place, developing at last into the "Commencement Exercises."

TO BE CONTINUED.

The General Endowment Fund.

THE Provincial Synod of the Southern District of the Moravian Church was held at Salem in November, and among other important legislation decided to begin an Endowment Fund for the benefit of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, the object of the Fund being to supply a steady aid to the general support of the Institution; this fund will apply its interest to the current expenses of the school, to add to the scope of the work in days of prosperity, and to support the work in the days of trial and adversity.

We give the text of the resolution as it was passed unanimously by the vote of the Synod:

Resolved, 1. That an Endowment Fund of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY be founded at once.

2. That the stock now held in the Salem Water Supply Company, and the Delaware & Chesapeake Canal bonds be turned over to this Fund.

3. That later, as any funds are available [from the income of the ACADEMY] one half of the amount be placed in the Endowment Fund, and one half be paid on the school debt.

4. When the school debt is paid a proper amount of the profits of the school shall be devoted to the increase of this Fund.

5. The Moravian Church and the Alumnae and friends of the school are invited by the Synod to add sums—smaller or larger, to this Endowment Fund.

6. All income from the funds shall be regularly paid to the school to be used for current expenses, and for the increase of the efficiency of the school.

7. The management of the Fund shall be in the hands of a Board composed of the Financial Board of this District and the Principal of the ACADEMY.

The funds alluded to, thus set aside for the beginning of the General Endowment, amount to $4,000, quite a snug nest egg. It will also be noted that the important step has been taken which will enable the school to place into this Fund any surplus which may accrue in days of prosperity. Another important point is, that this income is to be used for the current needs.

Finally, it will be noted that since the need of an Endowment Fund having been thus recognized, and the Fund started, friends of the school are invited to contribute any gifts which they may feel called upon to give, large or small,—one dollar, one hundred dollars, one thousand dollars; sums large or small will add just so much to the security of the future of the ACADEMY.

The recent Synod passed a number of important laws, and was a remarkable gathering because of the extraordinary spirit of unanimity existing among the delegates. But no more important step was taken than the one of which we now write.

It is a small beginning when compared with the great endowments of many other schools and colleges, yet it was a right step,—it was like the planting of small seed which if properly watched and blessed by the Lord, will become a great tree, overshadowing the venerable Institution in days of adversity and shielding it from the blighting heat of misfortune by its cooling shade. Had this step been deemed advisable fifty years ago, even as our fathers did in other departments of Church work, the ACADEMY would now have an endowment which would enable it to surpass in resources any institution in the South, and would give it an income superior to any endowment bestowed by State aid to other schools. But this step was not taken fifty years ago. Nine years ago the Louise Fund was founded and the first step was thus made in the direction of giving to the ACADEMY. Previous to this time the thought had never been considered a necessity. Bequests had been made to good causes in our own church and in other causes. Doubtless these estates would have contributed a portion of their funds to the endowment of the ACADEMY had the desirability been known and felt. But as we have just stated, up to the establishment of the Louise Fund, the question had never been considered.

A few years later the Alumnae Society began the raising of a Scholarship Fund, which was another step in the same direction, and this indicated that the need was being felt in a wider circle. The discussions in regard to the Alumnae Fund have cultivated the sentiment in a decided manner, and more good has been done than by the simple raising of the fifteen hundred dollars thus far secured. Outside friends having thus attested the need, the Synod has finally officially endorsed the movement, (for it is really a movement) by establishing the General Endowment Fund. The reader may here ask what are the prospects of this Fund becoming strong and powerful for good. We reply that the Fund has two sources of supply from either or both of which we may hope to see it grow to become a power in the history of the school. The one is the income from the school itself. If the ACADEMY continues to be faithful to its trust we may hope to have it enjoy prosperity, and if it continues to enjoy prosperity the Endowment prospectively will have a steady growth from that source. This may not be large at any one time, but in one or two generations the results may be marked. The other source is that of the aid of friends. May we not suppose that since the basket has been provided and the nest egg placed in the basket that other eggs will be placed beside the nest egg. Is there not a five dollar gift here,—is there not a one thousand dollar gift there to be given to the General Endowment Fund. When you decide to write your will can we not have you insert a clause bequeathing a part of your income to that Institution which has had so healthful an influence in shaping and training your own life? These certainly are not impossible things, and we trust they may be realized. Time may be needed; the work may be slow; but the beginning has been made, yes, happily made,—and ere long the structure will reach stately proportions, even though half a century is required to erect it. Only two things are needed;—faithfulness on the part of the representatives of the ACADEMY and the Lord's blessing on the effort.

—The ACADEMY Park has put on its autumn appearance; the leaves have fallen to the ground, the grass and flowers are withered, and yet the natural beauty of the spot is so great that even in Winter it is attractive, especially when wrapped in a mantle of snow, or covered with a crystal dress of sleet.

Correspondence.

—Some of our most enjoyable hours are spent in our Correspondence circle, where old friendships are more firmly cemented, and pleasant new ones are formed. We begin with a letter from a dear young friend of the class of '89, JULIA MEACHUM. After the directly personal part, she goes on to say:

In January I was a visitor at the Sam Houston State Normal in Huntsville, Tex., and, during the morning spent there went in and spent an hour with Miss Elliott, a cousin of DAISY RUFF, and considered a very fine teacher. She has been in the school for years. I met her at Col. Abercumbie's in Houston, when I was visiting his daughter, an old Virginia room-mate. Miss Elliott visited the ACADEMY in the summer of '90 or '91, and was very much pleased with it. In her literature class the text-book was the same one we used in our Senior class, and the bells sounding each hour throughout the building, were so like those in our old class rooms in Salem, that I felt that but for the absence of familiar faces I could imagine myself in Salem. There too the library was like the one in the ACADEMY, though not so large.

As a young lady I have had a nice time—have made and received several visits from my school-mates. I spent the past Christmas with ALLAH GIBBS, and about the middle of January left her home for Beaumont, where I spent four weeks with Lillie Long, an old Virginia school-mate. Then I went to P—where I found JEANIE SMITH and TIEBIE WOMACK. After leaving there, we three visited friends and then came to Anderson. JEANIE and THERESA PACE also spent two weeks with me.

All of the girls are now at home unless it may be that THERESA has not returned from Cincinnati. Since leaving school MAGGIE GRAHAM has visited in the State. I was to have been one of MARY FITZPATRICK's attendants at her marriage but it was impossible for me to go; she wrote it was a great disappointment not to have her "day-keeper" on her wedding evening, but it was a greater disappointment to me.

I am glad to hear that the ACADEMY and its surroundings are improving so much.

Give my kindest regards to Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL, Bishop and Mrs. RONDHALER, Mother MOORE, and all the teachers, Miss CHITTY and little AGNES SIEWERS. May heaven's richest blessing rest on you all.

Yours affectionately,

JULIA MEACHUM.

Anderson, Texas.

—Our next is from PATTIE JOHNSTON, of the class of '85. She was here at the same time with her sister MOLLIE, Mrs. Craige, whose early death we chronicled in an early ACADEMY:

Last evening I was very glad to receive your reminder that my subscription to THE ACADEMY had expired, for I would not like to miss a single number. I shall always retain a warm interest in dear SALEM ACADEMY, and it gives me great pleasure to note the progress it is making. Please remember me kindly to Mrs. CLEWELL, Misses FOGLE and SHAFFNERS. With best wishes.

Very sincerely,

PATTIE JOHNSTON.

Brinkleyville, N. C.

—We are pleased to hear from a pupil of some 18 or 19 years ago, SARAH RAND, a good and faithful scholar:

Enclosed I send the obituary of Mrs. J. Walter Myatt, who was a Salem girl, having spent three years in the ACADEMY, beginning about the fall term of 1870. Her sad death occurred on June 4th, 1893. She married well, was a good wife and mother, and altogether a successful woman.

I was at school in Salem a little more than 2 years, from the fall term of '72 till '74, and have a lively interest in all things pertaining to Salem, and more especially to the ACADEMY. Enclosed find 50 cents for THE ACADEMY.

Before my marriage I was SARAH RAND, from Wake county, but my home is in Johnston county, near Smithfield.

I should be delighted to visit Salem once again, and perhaps I may, when my little girl now two and a half years old, is old enough to send there to school. I would like to inquire about Miss MARIA VOGLER. I would like to learn where she is and if she is well.

Yours respectfully,

SARAH R. WELLONS.

Smithfield, N. C.

—We were also very glad to hear from MATTIE B. WILLIAMS, one of our late graduates, who like so many of our Seniors, has gone to teaching and is trying to do a good woman's work in the world:

Many times I have thought of writing to you since I left the ACADEMY but something always prevented my doing so. We have had right much sickness in the family this summer; I myself was on the sick list for a time. I have succeeded in getting a public school which will last about 4 months, beginning the first of November. I look forward to teaching with much pleasure for I have long had a desire to teach school. I think every day of the dear ACADEMY, and the days spent within its precincts.

It was with much sorrow I heard of LELIA RAWLEY's death; she was such a bright, lovely girl. I know she is missed among her companions and loved ones. We had 4 or 5 deaths in New Berne from typhoid fever, one severe case in our family with careful nursing and watching recovered.

I have had letters from a good many of the old girls, and they all seemed to be thoroughly enjoying their vacation. I would be glad to hear from you at any time.

With love for yourself, Mr. CLEWELL and family, and my other teachers, I remain

Yours sincerely,

MATTIE BELO WILLIAMS.

New Berne, N. C.

—Miss VOGLER hands us a letter from MAGGIE WESTER (Mrs. Erwin) from which we make some extracts:

Don't forget your promise or assertion never to forget me. I have not forgotten you. I have 4 girls whom I hope to have educated in the ACADEMY, and although you are not now connected with the ACADEMY perhaps you could give me information concerning some back numbers of THE ACADEMY. I have just finished reading the September ACADEMY and regret to learn of Prof. WURRESCHKE's death. I remember well with what patience and interest he explained our Chemistry and French to us.

Do you still live near the grand old cedars? I remember with pleasure the little visits you used to allow us to your dear mother. All my memories of Salem are sweet and sacred. I enjoy reading THE ACADEMY, and hearing of the flourishing condition of my dear old Alma Mater. If you let me know if I can get the back numbers of THE ACADEMY I named you will greatly oblige your old pupil.

MAGGIE WESTER ERVIN.

Chattanooga, Tenn.

—During the early part of the month three-quarters of an hour was taken just after supper for four successive days to read Dicken's Christmas story, "The Cricket on the Hearth." Mr. CLEWELL read the selections and Mr. Will Pföhl displayed the pictures accompanying the story on a large screen,—using the electric stereopticon belonging to the Home Sunday School.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., DECEMBER, 1893.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.
Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEBMAN, Salem, N. C.

ENDOWMENT.

THE great papers and magazines are, just at this time, issuing their Christmas numbers, filled with the spirit of that happy season. We do not aspire to elegant covers with elaborate designs, nor to pictures clothed in rich tints, nor to Christmas lore, but we feel that this number of THE ACADEMY should be called the "Endowment Number." It will be seen from an article published elsewhere that the Synod, the supreme authority in our Province, has, officially, established a general Endowment Fund, which step undoubtedly marks an epoch in the history of our Institution, and the future will show the truth of this statement. It will also be seen that the Alumnae Scholarship has reached a creditable figure as the acknowledgment column informs us; the placing of the stone bench beside the fountain recalls that gift; and we are at present arranging with a husband in a distant State, for the erection of a memorial to perpetuate for all time the name of a good pupil, who was later a most devoted and loving wife, but has now been called to her heavenly home. Of this memorial we cannot now speak, but hope soon to do so. All these things point to one and the same thing,—viz: that the friends recognize the necessity of coming to the support of our venerable institution, and helping to strengthen its finances, enlarge its buildings, beautify its grounds and park, and fill its halls with pupils.

The result of the endowment work as it now stands, all the result of the past few years, is:

Louise Fund.....	$2,000 00
Alumnae Scholarship (nearly)	1,500 00
General Endowment Fund....	4,000 00

Total,.....$7,500 00

This result is gratifying in several ways. One source of strength is the fact that it the result of work that can be steadily repeated from year to year, until great and important proportions have been attained. It has an element of strength that is not possessed by those endowments given by one man at one time. Suppose a man gives fifty thousand dollars to a school. All the world cries out, "Well done!" and congratulations are poured in from every hand. But the endowment is then considered finished and complete. On the other hand the beginning of the endowment of the ACADEMY is a growth—the result of a sentiment, not of one mind, but of the friends. The same power that has brought together the $7,500 can raise this sum to $15,000, and increase that to $30,000, and raise this to $60,000, and so on: it is a growth, slow perhaps, but "keeping at it" all the time, and in this fact lies the strength of the movement. We may also add that one of the most cheering features of this work is to note the smaller gifts as they are acknowledged from time to time,—the gift of one dollar, of five dollars, of fifty cents. Back of these small gifts are strong friendships and these friendships mean so much to a school. Hence THE ACADEMY wishes well to the new GENERAL ENDOWMENT, which places itself side by side with the LOUISE FUND and the ALUMNAE SCHOLARSHIP.

—The ACADEMY Chapel cannot be opened to any of the outside friends for Concert purposes between January 1st and February 15th, 1894, since within that time there will be two entertainments by the Literary Societies and the Mid-Winter Concert. Friends will note this, and kindly not ask for the use of the Chapel, since it is hard to say no to a request of this kind.

Personal.

—We are sorry to learn of the death of a former pupil, BETTIE STALLINGS. A friend sends us an obituary from a paper, but as we do not find the name of it we can only give the principal facts: "Before her marriage to Mr. J. Walter Myatt, 18 years ago, she was Miss BETTIE STALLINGS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Stallings, near Clayton, N. C. She was brought up in Johnston county, and educated in Salem, having spent three years in the ACADEMY. She was a woman of great purity of purpose, who allowed no caprice or passion to make her swerve from the line of duty. She possessed much practical sense and business capacity, to which qualities she united kindness, gentleness and refinement." Her death, on June 4th, was tragically sudden, and one of the saddest we have been called to mourn. She left a husband and 7 children, the oldest being a girl of 16 years and the youngest an infant. Her aged parents are also living.

—CLEORA HEWSON, we are glad to learn, is at a Normal School in Huntsville, Texas, more fully fitting herself to become a teacher. Nothing develops our girls more than congenial work.

—We are indebted to Miss CONSTANCE PPOHL for valuable information concerning some dearly-loved pupils of by-gone years. She met with LIZZIE CANTWELL's brother in the hospital where she is serving, and thus we learn that ALICE MILLER, who was here in 1867 or thereabouts, is now Mrs. J. W. Vanden, MATTIE BOONE is Mrs. Demetrius Lacey, REBECCA HURT is Mrs. W. J. Nelson, JANE GOODRICH is Mrs. W. D. Wiggins, while LIZZIE CANTWELL is not yet married. All these friends live in or near Jackson, Madison Co., Tenn. KATE MILLER, ALLIE's younger sister, is Mrs. Dr. Pendleton, San Marcos, Texas.

—MATTIE ELLIOTTE was summoned home by a telegram some weeks since, announcing the serious illness of her mother. Soon after her arrival home her mother died. MATTIE was so prostrated by the shock that she has thus far been unable to resume her studies. THE ACADEMY extends its deepest sympathy to her and to the remaining sorrowing friends.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Have you sent in your subscription for THE ACADEMY?

—The two literary societies are regularly at work.

—The fallen leaves indicate the near approach of Winter. Jack Frost has gotten in his work, and the Winter winds will do the rest.

—Miss Lavinia Williams has passed to her rest, after a protracted illness. She was active in christian work, and has educated quite a number of young people in the ACADEMY. She has been a resident in the Sisters' House for many years.

—Prof. SKILTON's classes in Harmony and History of Music are both enjoyable and profitable, and are attended by a number of our music-workers.

—The Thursday afternoon prayer-meetings are being conducted with unusual power this year in the Society Halls. Great good is being done.

—These charming Autumn days invite the pupils to take strolls in the beautiful stretches of woodland about town, and scarcely a day passes that does not see almost every one out for a jaunt.

—The King's Daughters raised quite a snug sum of money to be used in bringing happiness and good cheer to some friends on Thanksgiving Day. In a body the Society visited the "Home" during the afternoon.

—Mr. CLEWELL has been visiting the various classes and examining the work in Mathematics. The Music department will next be examined. This latter will occupy much of the time before the Christmas recess, since each of the 250 pupils will pass an examination as to the work accomplished.

—We had the pleasure of being present at a debate in the Euterpean Society recently, and were surprised at the energy displayed by the young ladies in the arguments deduced on both sides of the question. This Society, as well as its neighbor, the Hesperian Society, is doing good work.

—Bishop RONDTHALER delivered a very fine lecture on Palestine before the Home Sunday School and a general audience on Thanksgiving evening. The views were taken by the Bishop's own party when on his journey some years since, and were thus of more than ordinary interest. The lecture was well attended, well received, and a snug sum was realized for the Home Sunday School Library.

—If the present railroad time-table is in force January 1st, parents will please note that pupils returning on the R. & D. R'y, northbound train, from Charlotte, Salisbury, &c., must come on the morning. The Salem evening train leaves Greensboro before the northbound train arrives, hence to avoid remaining in Greensboro over night, the morning train must be used. Parents and pupils will please note whether or not the time table is changed after the publication of THE ACADEMY.

—We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to the celebration of the Seventieth Anniversary of the opening of the Union Theological Seminary, in Virginia, Thursday, January 4th, 1894. One of the papers will be read by Rev. W. W. Moore, D.D., son of our Mrs. M. MOORE, and who is so pleasantly remembered as having recently delivered the Baccalaureate Sermon before a recent Graduating Class.

—As announced last month, recitations will close Friday, December 22d, at 2 o'clock P. M., and will be resumed Tuesday, Jan. 2d, at 8:45 A. M. Pupils are requested to remain at their duties till the close. Last year the pupils from Salem and Winston caused us much trouble by being absent from school the last day or two. As many examinations are included in the work of these days, and as absence (save in the case of illness) is marked zero, the reports suffer materially by withdrawal previous to the close.

—During the present month a neat stone bench has been placed beside the fountain given to the school some years since by Dr. RONDTHALER. The bench is made of Indiana sandstone, and is about 2x2½ feet. The sides are "rock-face" finish, and on the top is inscribed "Presented by Bishop E. RONDTHALER, D D., 1885." The fountain stands just beside the spring, near to the old wheel house, and is one of the favorite spots of the park. This gift—fountain and stone bench—is a great addition, and years hence will stand as a pleasant remembrance of Bishop Rondthaler's Principalship and of his warm friendship for the institution.

—The young people of the six Bible classes of the Home Sunday School gave a delightful reception the 8th of December to the members and friends of the Salem congregation. The church chapel was used, the benches being taken up and chairs substituted. Large tropical plants were placed here and there and the room otherwise handsomely decorated. The refreshments were coffee and tea cakes, elegantly served by the young ladies of the classes. There was music by the Salem Orchestra, as well as by several young ladies, and also recitations. There were some 500 guests present. The evening was greatly enjoyed by every one, and has, no doubt, paved the way for many another just like it.

—THE ACADEMY acknowledges an invitation to a game of football played between the students of Davis School and Guilford College. We are pleased to note that our neighbor, the Davis Military School, is enjoying a prosperous year. Col. Davis, the Superintendent, informs us that he expects quite a number of new pupils in January. During the present session the cadets will be given a free trip to Washington City. Those who enter in January will be in time to go on this trip to the capital of the United States. If our readers desire to secure information in regard to this School, address Davis Military School, Winston, N. C.

—A very beautiful and unique thanksgiving decoration adorned the Moravian church on Thanksgiving Day. The pulpit was entirely covered by a decoration formed of cross sections of ears of corn of various colors, and forming a Maltese cross, surrounded by an ornamental frame. Above the pulpit was a shield formed in the same manner. Around the front platform were arranged cornucopias and mounds of fruits, vegetables and grains. The entire decoration was a fitting emblem of the bounteous harvest of the present year. The services were attended by a large congregation, the music was fine, and Bishop RONDTHALER preached an eloquent sermon.

—One of the most enjoyable and successful musical occasions of the season was the concert given December 12 by the Salem Philharmonic Society. This Society is in a very strong and flourishing condition at present, and it is claimed by many that the last concert was the best ever given by the organization. Mr. Eugene Ebert is the President of the Society, and Prof. Skilton, Director. The Philharmonic Society was assisted by the well-known Salem Orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Peterson. We note on the programme selections from Fannin, Cowen, Beethoven and Blumenthal, besides the chief number, which was Mendelssohn's beautiful music written for the XLII. Psalm. From among the performers whose names appear on the programme we find the following who are connected with the ACADEMY either as Instructors or in pursuing their studies: Misses TRACY, STEWERS, RONDTHALER, Mrs. EBERT, Prof. SKILTON and BROCKMAN. By this it will be seen that the ACADEMY is deeply interested in the Philharmonic Society's success, and trusts it may long flourish and do much good in the musical work of our towns. We learn that financially the concert was also a success.

—Among the pleasant experiences of the Synod was a reception tendered the delegates by the ACADEMY. At 3:30 P. M., on the second day of the Synod, a recess was taken and the company repaired to the ACADEMY dining-room, where a long table had been arranged and plates spread for all. The table was decorated with flowers and fruits, and a generous lunch was served. After a half-hour spent in this way the party was divided into groups of three or four persons, and each small company placed in charge of one of the Instructors, and thus escorted over all of the various buildings. The pupils had neatly decorated their rooms with evergreens, flowers and rich-hued Autumn leaves as a welcome and a token of regard for their visitors, and also accorded them welcome by their bright faces and cheery words. Another half-hour was spent in this way when "old Rouser," the deep-toned bell, summoned the company to the chapel, and there a very carefully arranged programme was rendered, in order to show to the friends the work being done within the Institution. The various numbers were heartily applauded, and many kind expressions were made in regard to the entire reception. The following is the programme of the musicale :

Recital No. 5.

Thursday, November 16, 1893.

5 o'clock P. M.

Academy Chapel.

Complimentary to the Delegates of the Moravian Synod.

1. Foster.....Song of the Mowers.
ACADEMY CHORUS.
2. Recitation. Papa's Letter.
MISS FANNIE CONRAD.
3. Durand.....Chaconne.
MISS ROBBIE KYLE.
4. Melra.....Summer Fancies.
MISSES MORRISON, SCALES and MORRIS.
5. Recitation. The Painter of Seville.
MISS JENNIE RICHARDSON.
6. Ravina.....Etude.
MISS NETTIE GLENN.
7. Whitney-Coombs.....Fields in May.
MISS GERTRUDE ROBBINS.
8. Beethoven. First Movement of the Sonata.
Op. 31. No. 2.
Prof. SKILTON,

9. Recitation. The Foolish Little Maiden.
MISS SCRIBER.
10. Molloy.....The Kerry Dance.
MISS TRACY.
11. Foster.....Cradle Song.
MISS TRACY'S CHORUS.

—The Recital given by the Elocution Department, in charge of Miss SCRIBER, was attended by a number of friends from town. It was bright and enjoyable. The following is the programme :

1. La Gracieuse. Valse.....Bohm.
CARRIE CRUTCHFIELD and ALICE WATSON.
2. Jerry.....Dickinson.
ROXIE STORY.
3. Rover in Church.....Buckham.
MAUD CHEEK.
4. The Leak in the Dyke.....Phæbe Cary.
FLORENCE KING.
5. How Girls Study.....McDonald.
CARRIE BAHNSON.
6. Danse Gracieuse.....Dennee.
AGNES SIEWERS.
7. Little Flo's Letter.....Anon.
PEARL ADDISON.
8. Keeping His Word.....Anon.
LOTTIE THORNTON.
9. The Freckled-faced Little Girl.....Bost. Globe.
FANNY CONRAD.
10. La Fontaine.....Bohm.
GEORGIA RIGHTS.

—Miss VEST'S pupils gave a recital since our last number was printed, and the half-hour was both enjoyable and profitable as a study. These occasions are very profitable for the pupils, since they drill them in the art of performing well before an audience. The following was the programme :

1. Moszkowski.....Spanish Dance. No. 3.
MISSES BESSIE and KATE BROOKE.
2. Blumenthal.....La Source.
MISS TILLA STOCKTON.
3. Recitation. Roland Gray.
MISS CARRIE ROLLINS.
4. Mozart...Minuetto. From 6th Symphony.
MISS MAY BARBER.
5. Godard.....Valse. Op. 56.
MISS GEORGIA RIGHTS.
6. Grieg...Norwegian Dance. Op. 35. No. 2.
MISSES CARRIE CRUTCHFIELD & ALICE WATSON.
7. Joseffy.....The Mill.
MISS DAISY CRUTCHFIELD.
8. Trouble in the "Amen Corner."
MISS DAISY THOMPSON.
9. Wagner-Brassin...Magic Fire. Scene from Walkure.
MISS ELLA SIDDALL.

—The Eighth Recital was given on Monday, Dec. 18, at 1 o'clock, P. M., by pupils of Miss HAGAN and Miss GOSLING.

These recitals do much toward inspiring confidence in the performers, and are thus accomplishing in a quiet way much good. The programme was as follows :

1. Etude Galop.....Quidant.
MISSES L. WILLIAMS and E. HOFFMAN.
2. Vocal Solo. When Ripples Flow.....DeKoven.
MISS LUDA MORRISON.
3. Menuet.....Paderewski.
MISS CARRIE LINEBACK.
4. Evening Bell.....Kullak.
MISS MARVIN COLE.
5. Recitation. An Idyl of the Period.
Geo. Baker.
{ Part 1—Fred and His Friend.
{ Part 2—Molly and Her Friend.
MISS NELL SCALES.
6. Schlummerlied.....Heller.
MISS DAISY SPAUGH.
7. Vocal Solo. Messages.....Neidlinger.
MISS GERTRUDE ROBBINS.
8. West End Polka.....D'Albert.
MISSES CARRIE LINEBACK, ADA FOGLE and CORNELIA LINEBACK.
9. Violin Solo. 5th Air.....C.Dancla.
MISS GOSLING.

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs Emma Lehman, Bethania N C; Miss Annie Makepeace, Providence, R I; Mrs D H Starbuck, Winston, N C; Miss Lizzie Chaffin, Foster Falls, Va; Miss Mattie M Williams, Wake Forest, N C; Mrs John S Scott, Houston, Texas; Miss Blanche Wood, Asheboro, N C; Mrs L A Smith, Fairfield, Jamaica; Mrs Sarah A Wellons, Smithfield, N C; Miss Eldred Mallory, Rockport, Texas; Miss Alice Hill, Germantown, N C; Miss J A Hadley, La Grange, N C; Mrs R S Daniel, Williams, N C; Mrs Stella Slappey, Fort Valley, Ga; Mrs J H Jennings, Plum Branch, S C; Miss Pattie Johnson, Brinkleyville, N C; Mrs E C Williams, Tyler, Texas; Mrs L F Satterfield, Cartersville, Ga; Mrs M B Road, Yanceyville, N C; Mrs Mary B Mumford, Smithville, Va; Mr F W Lineback, Miss Mollie Spach, Bethlehem, Pa; Miss Roxie Armfield, Greensboro, N C; Mrs R L Penry, Reedy Creek, N C; Mrs Susan A Hurt, Jacksonville, Tenn; Miss Ida W Blackwell, Allison, N C; Mr E H Austin, Philadelphia, Pa; Mrs Wm Holman, Raleigh, N C; Mr A S Schropp, Bethlehem, Pa; Miss Lizzie Hicks, Raleigh, N C; Miss Minnie Whitsett, Graham, N C; Miss Kate Furman, Ramsay, S C; Mrs Frank Earnest, Laredo, Texas; Miss Laura Leslie, Concord, C; Miss A M Hagen, Mrs A A Spach, Mrs Susan Keehl, Miss Gertrude Siewers, Miss A C Tracy, Prof Charles Skilton, Miss Mary Welfare, Salem, N C.

Married.

HICKSON—FIELDS.—In Kinston, N. C., on November 22d, Mr. William H. Hickson to Miss Lena Fields (Class of '91).

GILL—CHAFFIN.—At Hickory Grove, Va., on Nov. 22d, Mr. Charles H. Gill to Miss Lena Chaffin (Class of '90).

After Nov. 23 the address of the young couple will be Knoxville, Tenn.

SPAUGH—HEGE.—In the Moravian Church, Salem, N. C., on November 23d, Mr. Rufus A. Spauth to Miss Lulu Hege, for a time a teacher in the ACADEMY.

Alumna Scholarship Fund.

Mrs. W. A. Lemly, . . . . .	$5 00
Miss Huberta Read, . . . . .	2 00
Miss Addie Bizzell, . . . . .	50
Mrs. Dr. Siewers, . . . . .	5 00
Mrs. Louie Smythe, . . . . .	25
Mrs. Lula Tate Stockard, . . . . .	1 00
Miss Lizzie Chitty, . . . . .	1 00
Mrs. R. W. Belo, . . . . .	5 00
Previously acknowledged, . . . . .	1,337 95
Total, . . . . .	$1,337 70

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

*—I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!*

1887.

- 5791 KATIE M. FROST.
- 5792 LENA A. FROST.
- S. R. Frost, Corsicana, Tex.
- 5793 BEATRICE E. WINKLER.
- Mrs. A. V. Winkler, Corsicana, Tex.
- 5794 AVA E. STROUP.
- Dr. M. A. Stroup, Annona, Tex.
- 5795 SELMA KRULSHIK.
- H. Krulshik, Memphis, Tenn.
- 5796 HANNAH McCANLESS.
- 5797 ZULA C. McCANLESS.
- James McCANLESS, Salisbury, N. C.
- 5798 MARY B. CANNADY.
- J. F. Cannady, Wilton, N. C.
- 5799 FLORENCE CUMMINGS.
- M. P. Cummings, Aspen Grove, N. C.
- 5800 ADDIE LEE BIZZELLE.
- Jas. S. Bizzelle, Clinton, N. C.
- 5801 ANNIE SWANN.
- Mrs. V. C. Swann, Dandridge, Tenn.
- 5802 BETTIE MURPHY.
- John Beaman, Clinton, N. C.
- 5803 KITTIE FAIN.
- George A. Fain, Dandridge, Tenn.
- 5804 AVA RALSTON.
- C. J. Ralston, Mossy Creek, Tenn.
- 5805 LIZZIE FITZGERALD.
- T. B. Fitzgerald, North Danville, Va.
- 5806 MARGUERITE DUFOUR.
- A. DuFour, Mills River, N. C.
- 5807 ANNIE MAY SCHOOLFIELD.
- J. H. Schoolfield, Danville, Va.
- 5808 ELLER R. MCKAY.
- 5809 KATE A. MCKAY.
- J. McKay, Lone Home, S. C.
- 5810 LIZZIE E. WHITSETT.
- J. B. Whitsett, Gibsonville, N. C.
- 5811 MINNIE WHITSETT.
- I. W. Whitsett, Graham, N. C.
- 5812 EDNA E. LINDSAY.
- 5813 BERTA MAY LINDSAY.
- William Lindsay, Reidsville, N. C.
- 5814 CORRIE D. SAMPSON.
- Henry Sampson, Reidsville, N. C.
- 5815 ANNIE J. STAPLES.
- John G. Staples, Reidsville, N. C.
- 5816 BERT FITZPATRICK.
- 5819 MARY M. FITZPATRICK.
- F. W. Fitzpatrick, Mt. Pleasant, Texas.
- 5820 GRACE NICHOLS.
- Hub. John Nichols, Raleigh, N. C.
- 5821 BESSIE HOOKER.
- Mrs. S. A. Hooker, Wake Forest, N. C.
- 5822 ELLA MAY HINSHAW.
- G. W. Hinshaw, Winston, N. C.
- 5823 DAISY RUFF.
- 5824 HELEN RUFF.
- A. F. Ruff, Ridgway, N. C.
- 5825 OLLIE A. SNOW.
- H. N. Snow, Durham, N. C.
- 5826 NETTIE G. DUNLAP.
- J. J. Dunlap, Paris, N. C.
- 5827 MARY E. BENNETT.
- Ridson H. Bennett, Warlesboro, N. C.
- 5828 LENA C. CHAFIN.
- A. N. Chafin, Foster Falls, Va.
- 5829 JANIE SUTHERLIN SMITH.
- Maj J. T. Sutherland, Danville, Va.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of—Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appear more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c

NAZARETH HALL,
NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.
The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.
REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

Nov. '92-1f.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons, Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address
DAVIS SCHOOL Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western Railway.

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville. By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.
Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address
W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892—1v

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free. Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every drawing contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.
New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.
Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.
Session begins September 1.
Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892—1y

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country.

All the leading novelties, such as:

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy

Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in

Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,

has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111.

Phone 111.

Jan, 1892.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY,
Gen. Sup't.
Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Fayetteville, N. C.

BOSTON BLOCK, - Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable.

Apply to FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N. C. September, 1893.—1f.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnæ of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON,
JEWELERS,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.
On address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-1f.

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address, HET ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
A COMPLETE
FOR $7.25
IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS:

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS
ASUSSMANN 232 6th AVENUE

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware, CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.
WINSTON N. C.
Gray Block.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education
Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.
Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,
Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
October, 1892.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boyston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth, 37 pages. Price $1.00. By mail, $1.10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English.
Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: "It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of a that is necessary in grammar"
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 80 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth, 325 pages. $1.75. By mail $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.46.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth, 298 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the exact discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford pp. vi., 255. 1mo, cloth, 84 cents.
"Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Times add.
"Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the latter use."—Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hampden—Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature, Cassica Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cowper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverley, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Works—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Fables Choate—Thackeray's Four Georges and English Humorists, Parts I. and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Eginhard's Charenagagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odysseus etc., will be published.
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,
PUBLISHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, N. W. YORK.

Jan. '93-1f.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVI.

SALEM, N. C., JANUARY, 1894.

NUMBER 142.

1802—1893.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features:— the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy.

BY MISS ADELAIDE L. FRIES.

THE next Principal, Rev. ROBERT DE SCHWEINITZ, took charge in 1853, and guided the institution through twelve of its most eventful years. In 1854 the first Catalogue of the ACADEMY was issued. In the same year it was decided to tear down the Gemein Haus and rebuild, and work was immediately begun. The massive walls had been erected to resist the ravages of time, and when they were at last demolished the corner-stone was found twelve feet below the surface of the ground and its contents were transferred to the casket in the corner-stone of the "new ACADEMY."

Building was begun under the direction of Mr. Francis Fries,—who had undertaken the work as contractor, although he was at the same time the owner of the Salem Cotton and Woolen Mills,—the plans having been prepared by himself and the Principal. The dirt from the foundation was carted part way down the hill and thrown out there, and one day horse and cart lost their balance and rolled over and over to the bottom. In some inexplicable way the animal was not killed, and in a few days was at work again. Just inside the pleasure grounds to-day one path leads out upon a knoll, crowned with evergreens and a fountain, and no one standing there and looking about could imagine that she stood upon the very earth that once bore up the Gemein Haus. A little later some of the stones from the Gemein Haus were used in building the wall which raises the ACADEMY yard to its present level.

On August 9, 1854, the cornerstone was laid, and on March 24, 1856, the removal into the new house was begun. The Principal's official report thus describes the building: "The dimensions of the main building are 100 feet front by 52 feet deep, with a wing at the north  $70\frac{1}{2} \times 34\frac{1}{2}$  feet, and another at the south  $77 \times 44$  feet. "The main building, as well as the north wing, is four stories on the front, and at the rear (on account of the descent of ground) five stories, including the basement. The fronts of the houses are of pressed brick, expressly manufactured for our buildings, and are probably some of the first kind made in our State. "The front is ornamented by a large Doric portico, 50 feet in length and 13 in width. "It has four Doric columns, with two pilasters resting against the house. The height of the whole, including bases, columns and entablatures, is between 30 and 40 feet—the cornice of the entablature extending three feet above the sills of the third story windows. The whole is built strictly in accordance with the classical Doric order of architecture. "The roof of the house has but one inclination, from front to rear, and is covered with tin.

"The first and second stories of the main house are divided into a number of dwelling and school rooms, with smaller side rooms attached to each. Passages twelve feet wide extend through the whole length of the house in each story, and wide staircases run up on both ends of the main house from the basement to the fourth story. The entrance hall, on the first floor, into which the large front door opens, is about 20 feet square, connecting with the main passage by an elliptical archway of about 20 feet span. "On the south the passage connects by a closed and covered way with the old building.

"The whole third floor forms one dormitory. The fourth story is divided into ten rooms, those on the front being fine and airy, while those in the rear are roughly finished and only intended for trunk and store rooms.

"The north wing is divided into a large number of rooms to be used for various purposes, the whole second story being devoted to the so-called sick-rooms. "From this wing there is a covered and closed way leading directly into our church, and by this passage our scholars can enter the church under cover in all weather.

"There are porches, of 12 feet width, extending along the rear of the house, two stories high on the main building, and three on the north wing

"We have introduced a very complete system of ventilation throughout the whole building. Four main trunk ventilators run from the lower floor, extending above the roof. With these main trunks the different rooms are connected by branches.

"The south wing is not yet quite completed. The lower floor of this wing will contain a dining-room large enough to seat some 250 persons. On the second floor, which will be supported by iron pillars, our chapel will be located."

The south wing was finished in 1857, and the dining-room was opened on February 11th by a dinner, to which all the Southern Moravian ministers and their wives, with other guests, were invited.

The Chapel was solemnly dedicated on May 21st, (being the third built by the school,) and has held that office ever since, except once for a few months, when necessity forced its use as a dormitory. Beneath this wing is a basement long used for potato cellars, but now thrown into a large hall and given over to the girls for a gymnasium.

Soon after moving into the new buildings, the "town girls' room" was merged into the regular school. From the first the town girls were not wholly included among the regular pupils; no record was kept of their names; they had their own rooms in charge of special teachers, and, while joining with the boarders in most of their studies, they were separately instructed in writing and sewing. After this, the difference was not so distinctly marked, although some special arrangements have always been necessary.

TO BE CONTINUED.

CHRISTMAS.

THE story of the good old Christmas time within the ACADEMY has often been told in the columns of our paper, but as it is a subject that hears repetition, and as each year has certain peculiarities of its own we preface this sketch as above. Recitations closed Friday, December 22d, and immediately after the close the atmosphere of school seemed to disappear, and the Christmas spirit was abroad. Presents for companions and friends at a distance were being finished, packed up, mailed or sent to the express office. Christmas trees were blocked; festoons and mottoes prepared,—and all became a beehive. Saturday found the metamorphosis still more marked, when all the rooms assumed the Christmas attire. Sunday was, of course, a church day. The decoration in the church was unusually elaborate. Just back of the pulpit was a transparency depicting the Nativity. Around this was a solid bank of evergreens, and on each side graceful arches spanned the north and south entrance doors. Immense festoons hung from the ceilings, and mottoes in gilt and evergreen were distributed here and there.

The first special Christmas service was at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, which was the Lovefeast of the little ones of the congregation. To this meeting the small children, even infants, come, and the weather being mild, the church was filled with these young friends and their parents. Many of the ACADEMY girls attended this meeting as spectators. The entire school attended the 7 o'clock Lovefeast, as also the Christmas sermon and the Sunday School entertainments. We specially note the beautiful views thrown on the screen by the electric siopticon. Many were copies of the works of the great masters, and were of an educating influence.

Christmas Day is always a bright and happy time in the school. Santa Claus comes in all his glory; as Mark Tapley is made to say, "he comes out strong." Long tables are arranged in each room for the reception of the presents. Many gifts and boxes have arrived by express; busy fingers have worked many more in studio and embroidery room; the stores have been visited, and in some mysterious manner Santa Claus gets possession of all these things, and they are tastily arranged on the long tables. When all the packages have been opened the ACADEMY reminds one of a department in the Chicago Fair rather than a boarding-school, so bountiful and varied is the display. After the Christmas sermon has been listened to the bell summons all to dinner. When the dining-room is opened a perfect blaze of dazzling light greets the company. Wax tapers have been placed at each plate and on the window-ledges; the rows of gas jets, covered with colored globes, are all lighted (the hall having been previously darkened), and the electric lights gleaming—in all between 130 and 140 lights. And for the time being the turkey and the cranberry sauce, the celery and the mince pie, together with other appetizing dishes, rivaled even the "box room."

The early part of the afternoon was spent by the pupils and teachers visiting and inspecting the various rooms and buildings. From three to four o'clock Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL welcomed the young ladies at the Principal's House, and they indulged in games, gathered around the Christmas "putz," or examined the children's table, and by the sight of ball and tin horn, toy and puzzle, renewed remembrances of earlier days. The weather was perfect on this Christmas day, and nothing occurred to mar the pleasure. All good things must have an end, so the end of Christmas Day came, and when the Sunday School entertainment in the Church was over, the house was soon apparently deserted, when only the watchman had possession, and we suppose he hummed to himself as he made his rounds,

"'Twas the night after Christmas,
When all through the house," &c.

The Christmas week was passed very quietly, in fact when the box-room was such a favorite it could not have been otherwise! But, as the outside world considers the inside of a seminary for young ladies in a rather romantic light, and as the contemplation of ham and jam, cake and chow-chow do not harmonize with the above-mentioned romantic light, we will refrain from saying how many boxes were disposed off, how many hours of the twenty-four were devoted to sleep, and how little activity was indulged in during the week.

Thursday evening the entertainment elsewhere alluded to was given in the Sixth Room. Saturday evening the Miss Evans concert, also spoken of elsewhere.

On Sunday the usual special New Years' Eve services were held. At 4 o'clock the little ones of the Salem congregation were gathered together, and the history of the year briefly sketched. At 8 o'clock in the evening the "Memorabilia" was read. This historical document briefly sketches the chief events of the great world history of our towns, but especially of the Salem congregation. It was pleasing to note that the "hard times" had not caused the church gifts to fall off, and that as many members were received during the year as ever in its history. Some 1500 souls are now ministered to by Bishop Rondthaler and his assistants, Revs. McCuiston and Thæler. The midnight service was crowded as usual. At twelve o'clock the sound of brass instruments of music, the organ, and the voices of the congregation welcomed the new year, 1894. It was an inspiring sight to see half a dozen or more brightly lighted electric cars waiting beneath the great arc light in front of the church to receive and distribute the great throng to all parts of the towns. Thus the old year was bid a solemn farewell and the new year given a cheerful welcome.

In the school the day was passed pleasantly but quietly. At night Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL tendered the annual New Year's reception to the pupils, teachers and a few invited guests, from the number of the trustees and special workers for the good of the school. The reception was held in the school dining-hall, which was decorated with evergreen trees, and tastefully arranged with lounges and easy chairs, tables for games and other amusements. A piano had been moved in, and a large heavy curtain separated the front from the rear of the room. At 8 o'clock the company gathered and were welcomed by host and hostess. Lively conversation, games, music and promenading were in order. Miss TRACY, Miss SETTLE, Miss EVANS, Misses COLWELL and REYNOLDS, Prof. SKILTON and others favored the company with music and recitations. About 10 o'clock the large curtains were drawn, and the long tables appeared, filled with an inviting supper, in which fresh-cut sandwiches and fried oysters, olives and celery, cocoa and coffee, followed later by ice cream and various kinds of cake, were displayed in tempting array. An hour later the scene had changed, and the tables were far less attractive, in fact, they were exchanged for the front portion of the hall once more. The party soon after eleven o'clock separated. The bright hall was deserted, the school grew quiet, and we knew that the Christmas holidays were at an end, and as old Rouser spoke with his iron tongue from the housetop next morning, he did not say "play-play" as had been the case during the previous days, but the burden of his song now was "work—work; work-work; work-work!"

THE COOKING SCHOOL.

THE members of the Cooking Class recently issued a dainty little card with the following words inscribed on it:

The members of the Cooking Class of Salem Female Academy will be pleased to have you dine with them Saturday, January twentieth, at one o'clock.

The Cooking Class consists of the following members:—DAISY THOMPSON, SALLIE BOYD, SALLIE GOODMAN, ERMA KELLETT and NANNIE BARNES, with Miss WOLLE as the head. At the appointed time the favored guests gathered at Park Hall. They were the Rev. Dr. Hark, Bishop and Mrs. RONDTHALER, Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Bahnson and Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL. The table at which the guests were seated was beautifully decorated with roses fresh from the florist, the base of the vase being surrounded with a pyramid of fruit. Across the table were stretched bands of gold and white ribbon, and the table ware was of the daintiest kind. Several of the members of the Class served, while others presided at the table. The bill of fare was elaborate and served in seven courses, all the dishes having been prepared by the young ladies. The following is the MENU.

- 1st Course. Oysters on the half-shell.
- 2d Course Puree Tomatoes.
- 3d Course. Creamed Fish. Water Cress Sandwiches.
- 4th Course. Mutton Chops, with Peas. Potato Croquettes. Olives. Almonds.
- 5th Course. Quail on Toast. Mayonaise of Celery. Wafers.
- 6th Course. Charlotte Russe. Fruit.
- 7th Course. Crackers. Cheese. Coffee.

For an hour and a half the friends sat about the hospitable board, and the conversation was bright and enjoyable. The general impression was that the future homes which will be graced by these fair hostesses will be greatly blessed by the experiences and lessons received in the Cooking School.

And this leads THE ACADEMY to express its surprise that more pupils do not take advantage of this grandly successful department. It is not a course of study that requires a long time; the space from this date till Summer will give a fair practice in the art; it is a positive relief from the strain of the class-room; but the chief advantage is that what is learned here will never be forgotten, and will be one of the great factors to make a happy and healthy home. When it is once learned how to make light, flaky biscuits the art is never forgotten; when the exact manner of roasting and seasoning beef is attained, it is never necessary to learn it a second time, but it is forever a blessing in that family; then, too, the pupils are taught how to preside gracefully at a table; how to wait on a table when company is present; how to prepare a bill of fare for a course dinner; how to ornament and arrange a dining-room so as to make it as attractive as the parlor; how to arrange to the best advantage a kitchen, and so on. Some one may say, "I have taught or I will teach my daughter all this." We reply that in a department like the ACADEMY Cooking School, the plain, common sense results of many ideas are concentrated, and few homes are as successful as the result of many homes combined in one department. We feel certain that not one of the parents of the five girls would have begrudged the cost of the entire school-year as placed over against the results of this one day and dinner if they could have seen it as we saw it; and as to the future husbands of these young ladies,—but that reminds us, they all declared that such things as husbands were quite foreign to their thoughts! THE ACADEMY earnestly recommends the parents to use more fully the Cooking School of the Institution, if it is only for a five months' term.

But we have wandered away from our subject. The invited guests sat, as we have said, for an hour and a half about the hospitable board, and if the wives of the gentlemen had not been there to remind them of practical things, they might have continued the reception indefinitely! All were delighted with the afternoon, and Dr. Hark declared it to have been one of the most enjoyable events of his pleasant visit South. Long may the Cooking School flourish.

Dr. Kinyoun's Lecture.

ON January 2d a most interesting and instructive address was given to the physicians and health officers of Winston-Salem by Dr. J. J. Kinyoun, of the U. S. Marine Hospital Service. Dr. Kinyoun is a native North Carolinian, who, like many others, has become famous after removal from our State.

Of late years the great work of the Marine Hospital Service has been in the line of Sanitation and Preventive Medicine, and it is in this line that Dr. Kinyoun's investigations and researches have earned him a world-wide reputation.

The lecture was given in the chemical laboratory of the ACADEMY, and was illustrated by numerous Sciopicon pictures. These represented the various phases of the microscopic germs found in cholera, diphtheria, tuberculosis, &c. There were also pictures of modern appliances for the fumigation and disinfection of vessels and baggage, dwellings and furniture.

Dr. Kinyoun very graphically described the wonderful progress in Sanitation and the modern methods of Quarantine, comparing the present plan of active disinfection by the positive destruction of the disease germs with the former barbarous practice of confining all passengers, sick and well alike, in the disease-infected vessel or dwelling for a long time.

The Doctor is evidently in love with his work, and while the disgusting little creatures he exhibited with so much satisfaction are not calculated to inspire admiration, his enthusiasm was contagious, and his audience was thoroughly interested.

As an offset to the disagreeable and noxious disease germs which the Doctor has so sedulously cultivated, he has promised to send to our museum a series of harmless and beautifully colored products of his biological laboratory.

—A number of the Seniors indulged in a straw ride on New Year's day. The classic cap and gown looked quite picturesque in this new frame.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., JANUARY, 1894.

*Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.*

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.
Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

1894.

TO one and all of our patrons and friends THE ACADEMY extends its best wishes for the New Year. May you find much joy in the months before you, and not more sorrow than is needful in the midst of the imperfections inseparable from our mortal experiences.

—We again call attention to the fact that the ACADEMY Chapel cannot be opened to any outside interests during the month of January and the first half of February, because of the three School entertainments.

THE MID-WINTER CONCERT.

THE principal musical event of the term, aside from Commencement, is the Mid-Winter Concert. It is an occasion when the best talent is brought forward, side by side with the rank and file results in the various departments. Great care is always employed to arrange the programme smoothly and harmoniously, and that bestowed on the work this year could not be surpassed. Professor SKILTON had charge of the programme, and he was assisted by Misses TRACY and SETTLE in Vocal Music; Misses VEST and VAN VLECK in Instrumental; Miss SCRIBER in Elocution, and Prof. BROCKMANN in Violin. Each department produced a number of pupils who were grouped about the head of the department. The audience was thus enabled to see what each was able to do as represented by the head, as also what had been done as shown by the work of the pupils. The most careful preparation had been previously made to arrange the hall in its best attire. More powerful electric lights had been placed in the ceiling chandeliers; the front of the stage had been enlarged and supplied with a row of electric footlights; the grand piano had received new felts on the hammers; the walls had been gracefully festooned with drapery about the stage, and when the 250 chairs were occupied by the 250 bright-faced pupils who took part in the concert, the scene was so bright and cheerful that it drew forth many exclamations of admiration from the audience as it assembled.

The Vocal Department was divided into two lines, — chorus and solo. The full choruses were under the direction of Prof. SKILTON, and consisted of about 250 singers, assisted by male voices in the tenor and bass parts. These all elicited applause, but the closing selection, the "Finale of Euryanthe," Act I, called forth an unusual amount of favorable comment. Miss TRACY's solo was a beautifully rendered part, and her voice, already a favorite, won new encomiums. Mr. EBERT's voice, in the bass solo, was clear and expressive also, and called for many kind criticisms. Prof. SKILTON has displayed skill and success in the training of this large chorus, which is without doubt the largest chorus in North Carolina rendering this class of music.

The names of those who appeared in vocal solos, duets and semi-choruses are: Misses ADAMS, BONNER, BROOKS, BORUM, CHEDESTER, COWLES, D. CRUTCHFIELD, EDWARDS, FISHER, FOGLE, F. GLENN, JOYCE, LEHMANN, B. ROBBINS, HEGE, CROUCH, CHEATHAM, G. ROBBINS, SCALES, M. KELLETT, MERCER and MORRISON. It is impossible to particularize, nor would it be desirable to do so. But we will say, in general, that the vocal department is strong and successful this year, and both Miss TRACY and Miss SETTLE should feel well pleased with their pupils.

The Instrumental Music was varied, some of the selections being strong and forceful in their nature, others bringing out the softest and gentlest chords. We note the following names on the programme in Instrumental Music: — Misses JOYCE, MORRIS, CHADBURN, D. CRUTCHFIELD, INA SMITHERMAN, ADDISON, MORRISON, A. SMITH, KYLE, B. and K. BROOKE, HEGE and SCALES.

The Elocution Department has become a great favorite during recent years, and this Concert was no exception. Miss SCRIBER, of course, "brought down the house," and from the work of her pupils it is apparent that she is not only master of her profession, but has the ability of transmitting her talents to her pupils. This newer department holds a favorable position beside the older ones. The pupils who took part in elocution were Misses RICHARDSON, SCALES and REYNOLDS.

The Violin work was presented by Prof. BROCKMANN and his pupil, Miss GOSLING. Prof. BROCKMANN ranks as the finest violin player in the State, and the ACADEMY feels happy to secure his services. His selection on this occasion was received with loud and continuous applause, a well merited enthusiasm, welcome to the Professor and his many friends.

The gentlemen who assisted were Mr. D. S. BUTNER, Flute, and Messrs. LICHTENTHALER, VOGLER, BOYD, S. PFAFF, W. PFAFF, WINKLER, Tenors, and Messrs. EBERT, W. SPAUGH, HAUSER, E. HEGE, W. HEGE, LENTZ, PHILIPS, CRIST, SMITH, McCLEMENT and BRICKENSTEIN, Bass.

The Flute added much to the final chorus, and we note, in conclusion, the skilful work done by Miss A. VAN VLECK, as accompanist in the choruses.

The writers and composers used in the various selections were Foster, Low, Marzials, Jensen, Cagle, Dancla, Abt, Leubert, Krug, Lachner, Joseffy, Howells, Moszkowski, Pfeil, Bela, Chopin, Saint Saens, Grieg, Schubert, Meyer-Helmund, Rubinstein, Gounod, Gade, Miller, Weber.

About 1500 invitations were sent out to friends, and Messrs. ALLEN SPAUGH, C. B. PFOHL and W. C. GRUNERT, together with their assistants, Messrs. W. LINEBACK, W. HEGE, H. HOLLAND, H. VOGLER, and GEO. MILLER, had their hands full in caring for the comfort of the assembly. It was on this evening decided by actual count that 800 persons were in the chapel.

If we may judge from the many kind expressions made about the programme and its execution; from the large audiences and marked interest; from the enthusiasm displayed by the pupils, and the "all-round" satisfaction given to the friends, — if these tests be taken, the Mid-Winter Concert this year was the most satisfactory entertainment of its kind ever given in the Institution.

—The weather during the holidays was ideal, — cool enough to be bracing, but mild enough to almost render fires unnecessary. We trust the winter may continue to be as "open" as it has thus far been.

Correspondence.

—We gather in our correspondence circle for the first time in 1894, and greet each and every one of our Alumnæ with a cordial hand-grasp, and a happy New Year's wish. May the year be a prosperous and successful one; may her days and nights be sweet and peaceful, shot to the very core with the sunshine of God's favor, and may his benediction rest on us all.

We begin with a communication from a staunch old friend Mrs. Martha Allen Flake, of Beverly, N. C. :

Your favor has been received and contents duly noted. My father's name was Joseph Allen; by reference to your books you will find that I was in the ACADEMY in the year 1861. I was also there from October, 1865, till May, '67, having spent the intervening war time at home. We have educated five daughters in the ACADEMY. I was the sixth pupil, and now BELLE is the seventh out of our immediate family.

Her father was a dentist, Dr. H R Allen, and died in 1882, when his little girl was only two years of age.

We are very sorry to hear of Miss C. JONES' illness, and hope ere long to hear of her recovery. Our dear old Alma Mater is a noble institution.

Since my last letter to you, JULIA has taken charge of a school in Lilesville. MAMIE is at home now, and has improved much in health since the shock caused by the death of her husband.

Hoping to hear from you at an early day, I am

Sincerely yours,
MARTHA J. FLAKE.

Beverly, N. C.

—Our next is from MINNIE HANCOCK, the first one of the class of '93, to enter the state matrimonial. Our best wishes attend her in her new sphere; may every year be happier and brighter as it passes by:

You must not think by my long silence that I have forgotten you; I can assure you such is not the case. I think of you all, daily. I wonder if the Seniors of this year are as good as we were.

I visited ALICE THOMSON in the summer, and she and I paid several of the girls flying visits: BLANCHE SIMS, ELIZA GULICK, FRANK CREIGHT and LOLA JACKINS, indeed I have been at home very little since last June.

This morning I told Mama I was going to write to my Salem Mama and tell her what I was going to do to-day; it is this: I am to be married this evening at 8 o'clock to Mr. W. C. Hammer, a lawyer here, we will leave for the Northern cities at 8 o'clock.

Please give my best love to Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL, Bishop RONDTHALER and family, the teachers and girls, with ever so much for yourself, and many wishes for a merry Christmas, I am

As ever,
MINNIE HANCOCK.

Ashboro, N. C.

—Another kindly letter is from JANIE WHITNER, class of '89, now Mrs. Chase, a happy wife and mother:

What a long, long time it has been since I have heard from you. Perhaps you have forgotten JANIE WHITNER, and do not remember she has been married 2 years, and has a little boy just one year old to-morrow, any way it is she who is writing to you now. [Our memory is not so short as all that for such dear friends; we follow their course with too much interest and pride in their success for such forgetfulness.—EDITORS OF ACADEMY.]

I keep house, and in this part of the country it is very hard to keep good servants, so you may imagine that mine is a busy life.

Our little boy is named for my father, Franklin Whitner, and is as smart and bright as can be.

I have many plans for going back to Salem, but just how they will be carried out, I cannot say.

Yesterday Mr. Chase expressed you a box of oranges which I hope will reach you in good order, and I trust you will enjoy them. Remember me to the other teachers, with love for yourself,

Affectionately,
JANIE W. CHASE.

Sanford, Fla.

Personal.

—Miss PAULINA VOGLER, an old lady, some 80 years of age, resident in the Sisters' House, died near the close of November. Her long life was spent in quiet acts of unobtrusive kindness and good will. She had charge of the town girls in their room for a time many years ago.

—Our best wishes are tendered to MINNIE HANCOCK in her married life; may she always be as sunny faced and sweet tempered as she showed herself to be in her school life.

—LIZZIE CARTMELL's name in the December number of THE ACADEMY appeared by a mistake as "Cantwell;" her old friends would hardly recognize her by that name —EMMA ROLLINS (class of '90,) spent Christmas in Salem, and had a very enjoyable visit.

—Mr. W. Kellett's genial face also beamed upon us during the holidays, which he spent with his two daughters, MATTIE and ERMA, from Waco, Texas.

—Ten dollars are not often dropped on the street and as readily recovered as was the case with one of the Seniors just before Christmas. SUSIE REYNOLDS found that she had dropped a ten dollar bill somewhere about Mrs Douthit's, and her face which had grown dolefully long, assumed its naturally happy expression two days later, when it was restored to her by Mr. J. L. Kapp, of Bethania, who fortunately happened to find it.

—Miss C. M. McFADYEN spent the holidays with her parents in Raeford, N C. Miss BROWN and Miss BESSENT, of Concord, N. C., also took advantage of the intermission to run home.

—We see from The Mirror, published by the Bethlehem Female Seminary, that Mrs L. R Levering (MARY SHULTZ), is now living in Olney, Illinois. She has a little son, Charles Montgomery, about 4 months old.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Rev. J. Max Hark, D. D., President of the Young Ladies' College of Bethlehem, Pa., visited Salem at the instance of the Young Men's Missionary Society of Salem. He delivered a stirring address at their Lovefeast on January 19th, on which occasion $136 was taken up for the mission cause. While in Salem Dr. Hark visited and carefully inspected the ACADEMY, expressing himself well pleased with our appointments. It is a matter of great satisfaction to welcome into our midst men of ability and success like Dr. Hark.

—It gives us much pain to note the continued illness from which Miss CARRIE JONES is suffering. She will be unable to resume her work before Spring, possibly for even a longer time. Her many friends deeply sympathize with her.

--Miss WOLLE made a short run up into Virginia to be present at LENA CHAF-FIN'S wedding.

--The fountains in rear court and park have been painted to protect them from the winter's storms.

--The first snow of the season fell early in December, and was a welcome sight to the average school-girl.

--FLORRIE KYLE spent a month within the school as a boarding pupil during her sister's absence from Winston.

--In December, Miss FOGLE aided Miss TIETZE in the Sixth Room, on account of Miss JONES' serious and continued illness.

--CLARA ROBINSON has entered school as a boarder, and FLORENCE TOOMEY has again joined her friends as a member of the Seventh Room.

--All the members of Park Hall having visited home during Christmas save one pupil, this young lady moved to Main Hall, and Park Hall was closed.

--Mrs. A. H. A. Williams, of Oxford, N. C., made a brief visit to her daughter, LUCY. Mrs. Williams is an old pupil of the ACADEMY, and is a warm friend of our institution.

--EMMIE BURDEN was called home New Year's day by a telegram announcing the severe illness of her sister. THE ACADEMY sympathizes with her in this sad beginning of the New Year.

--The Seniors' caps and gowns are still a familiar sight in rooms, halls and grounds. This custom of wearing the classic Oxford cap and gown was a step wisely taken, and used as a prerogative of the Senior Class will continue to grace person and position in the future.

--The Thanksgiving dinner never fails to please, and this year was no exception. About twenty-five large turkeys were required to satisfy the reasonable desires, and some thirty roast chickens were held in reserve. As to celery and cranberry sauce, mince pie, and—but we will refrain.

--We had the pleasure of visiting the Christmas Entertainment in the Colored Moravian Church. The singing was very fine, as is always the case in this school, and the good cheer was enlivened by the hundreds of presents for old and young on the large tree. This school has a membership of about 300.

--A pleasant variation in Christmas week was the entertainment given by a number of the pupils in the Sixth Room. The proceeds of the entertainment were given to the King's Daughters, and the occasion was thus not only a pleasure to performers and audience, but also to the above-named Society.

--The ACADEMY enjoyed a very pleasant visit from Col. H. R. Lemly, who spent Christmas with his friends here in Salem. Col. Lemly has a very prominent position in the army of the United States of Columbia, South America, and has had charge of the exhibit of that country at the Chicago Exhibition.

--Among the recent additions to the Library we note that of "The Prince of India," by Lew Wallace. This work has created such wide-spread attention that it needs no criticism from our pen. The pupils will find a rich treat awaiting them for their reading hours, and we trust the work will soon show the results of much use.

--The Home Sunday School of the Salem congregation gave a very interesting entertainment on the evening of Dec. 25. In song and recitation the story of the life of Christ was reviewed, while the large electric stereopticon threw 24 beautiful views of these scenes on the great canvass in the front portion of the church. The entire programme was unusually instructive as well as entertaining.

--Among the many other familiar faces with us during the past month we note those of Mrs. ADA LINEBACK HEMSATH and Miss EMMA LINEBACK, of New York. Both these ladies were summoned to the sick bed of their father, Prof. E. W. LINEBACK, who was taken seriously ill before Christmas. We are pleased to note, however, that he has greatly improved since then, and is able to be about again.

--Saturday, December 30, the entire Fire Department of Salem and Winston was out on Dress Parade. Their new uniforms and excellent bearing were a credit to our Twin-City. At present there are three steamers and two hook and ladder companies. Since the Fire Department has been placed on its present satisfactory basis few fires have made any headway, and we sincerely trust that the suffering from this cause may grow less in the future.

--On Saturday evening of Christmas week a concert was given in the ACADEMY Chapel for the benefit of the Hospital.

Prof. Brown was the Director, and one of the most pleasant features of the occasion was the part taken by Miss Katharine W. Evans, formerly in charge of the Vocal Department in the ACADEMY, but now of New York city. She was warmly welcomed by her many friends, as was shown by the hearty manner in which she was recalled. We note on the programme Miss SIEWERS and Prof. SKILTON from the ACADEMY Faculty. Some $43 was taken at the door.

--The Hotel Phoenix is now open to the public. It occupies a large portion of the block on the west side of the Court House square, and is a model of beauty and compactness. Our friends will find this addition to the hotel accommodations a very acceptable piece of news. As the building and furniture are new, and the location in the very heart of the city, the only thing needed in addition is that a good and worthy man should have charge. The papers speak very highly of the gentleman who has leased the new hotel.

--The following books have been received for the Library:

From Hon. H. E. Fries—"The Growth of Industrial Art."

From Congressman Bower—Alaska, Eleventh Census. Population. Mineral Industries. Wealth, Debt and Taxation. Large Map of the United States.

Annual Report of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

From Secretary of Station, Raleigh—"Report of North Carolina Experiment Station."

--In addition to the books now used as readers the following four have been introduced in the various classes:—

American Literature, by Hawthorne and Lemmon, D. C. Heath & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

Stories from Waverly, by Gusiot, McMillan & Co., Publishers, London, Eng.

The Classic English Reader, Willson, University Publishing Co., New York.

Stories of the Old World, Church, Ginn & Co., Boston and New York.

All of these works are fine text-books, and are certain to be of great benefit in training the minds of the pupils for their later critical studies in Literature.

--The Columbia Desk Calendar which is issued annually by the Pope Manufacturing Company, of Columbia Bicycle fame, is out for 1894, much improved in appearance. It is a pad calendar of the same size and shape as those of previous years, having a leaf for each day, but its attractiveness has been heightened by the work of a clever artist, who has scattered a series of bright pen-drawings through its pages. It also contains, as usual, many appropriate and interesting contributions from people both bright and wise.

Married.

BLACK—SLAPPEY.—In Marshallville, Ga., in December, Mr. W. C. BLACK to Miss ALICE SLAPPEY.

FOUNTAIN—KEYSER.—On December 20th, in the Baptist Church of Marlin, Tex., Mr. JASPER CLUCK FOUNTAIN to Miss LOLA KEYSER.

HAMMER—HANCOCK.—In Asheboro, N. C., December 21, Mr. W. C. HAMMER to Miss MINNIE HANCOCK (Class of '93).

WILLIAMS—BAHNSON.—In Farmington, N. C., December 28, Mr. O. L. WILLIAMS of Mocksville, to Miss MATTIE BAHNSON (Class of '88.) Our best wishes attend them.

Subscriptions Received.

Miss Kittie R. Fain, Dandridge, Tenn.; Mrs. Minnie Hamner, Asheboro, N. C.; Miss Hurberta Read, Corsicana, Texas; Mrs. Mattie Sides, Bethania, N. C.; Miss Nellie Luncford, Smithville, N. C.; Mrs. Dr. Hill, Arcadia, N. C.; Miss Sallie Jarvis, Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. Amanda B. Rutherford, Houston, Texas; Mrs. Haitie Hill, Bristol Tenn; Miss Esplan Tomlinson, Tomlinson, Tate Springs, Tenn; Mrs. Ada Hemsath, Roseville, Ohio; Miss K. W. Evans, New York City; Mrs. J. S. Miller, Winston, N. C.; Miss Mattie Colwell, Concord, N. C.; Mrs. Woodson Atkinson, Summit, Miss; Miss Edna Lindsay, Reidsville, N. C.; Miss Maggie McKinnon, Rowland, N. C.; Miss Amelia Steiner, Salem, N. C.; Mrs. Dr. Buffalo, Raleigh, N. C.; Miss Minnie Trimmier, Spartanburg, N. C.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only and embraces, under general date of entrance,— 1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

*— I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!*

1887.

- 5830 MARY K. PENN.
Jas. G. Penn, Danville, Va.
- 5831 EMILY A. HAZLEBURST.
Wm Hazlehurst, Macon' Ga.
- 5832 LULA L. PEYTON.
Miss M. L. Lindsay, Greensboro, N. C.
- 5833 MARY A. T. PRETLOW.
S. B. PRETLOW, Franklin, Va.
- 5834 FANNY M. PRETLOW.
S. B. PRETLOW, Franklin, Va.
- 5835 MARY A. NEEI.
S. R. Neel, Davidsor. College, N. C.
- 5836 VIRGINIA BURSON.
Z. L. Burson, Bristol, Tenn.
- 5837 ALICE GRAY WARNER.
J. H. Warner, Chattanooga, Tenn.
- 5838 ETTA TAYLOR.
Mrs. S. E. Taylor, Oxford, N. C.
- 5839 LULIE BRIGGERS.
Mrs. Mary Bridgers, Tarboro, N. C.
- 5840 JANIE WHITNER.
Capt. B. F. Whitner, Fort Reed, Fla.
- 5841 MARY W. SMITH.
Mrs. L. P. Smith, Mexia, Texas.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in '86, the sum of—Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c

NAZARETH HALL,
NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.
FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum
The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.
Rev. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.
Nov. '92-tf.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address
DAVIS SCHOOL Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western Railway.

A new route to Winston Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Widdlesboro, Louisville. By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address
W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892-1v

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,

Principals.

June 1892-1v

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country.

All the leading novelties, such as:

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,

has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111.

Phone 111.

Jan, 1892.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

offers first-class service between Winston and Salem and Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine and all other points on the Atlantic Coast Line, and Savannah Florida and Western systems in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Solid trains run to Wilmington, where easy transfer is made by hack in the forenoon to the trains of the

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley,

then a change of cars is made at Walnut Cove Union Station, arriving at Winston-Salem at 9:00 p. m. Those not securing through tickets can purchase tickets and re-check their baggage to Winston-Salem at Wilmington. From all stations on the Main Line of the CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY to Winston-Salem only one change of cars is necessary, at Walnut Cove Union Station.

J. W. FRY,
Gen. Supt.,
Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Fayetteville, N. C.

BOSTON BLOCK, - Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable.

Apply to FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N. C.
September, 1893.—tf.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem
Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON.

JEWELERS,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,

Salem Female Academy,

SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91-14.

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price at the price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,
HET ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVE. N.Y.

S. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware,
CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

Gray Block.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.

Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.
Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,
Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
October, 1892.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boyston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth. 337 pages. Price $1.00. By mail, $1.10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English.
Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: "It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of a that is necessary in grammar."

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 80 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth, 325 pages. $1.75. By mail $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.40.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth, 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the exact discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford pp. vi, 255. 1 mo, cloth, 84 cents. Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day.—Rochester Herald.

"Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the latter use."—Southern Educator. Durham, N. C.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hamden—Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature, Cassica Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cowper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverly, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Rufus Choate—Thackeray's Four Georges and English Humorists, Parts I. and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Eginhard's Charemagne—Lamb's Tales from Olysses—Sainsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odyssey etc., will be published.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

PUBLISHERS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

'Jan. '93-15.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVI.

SALEM, N. C., FEBRUARY, 1894.

NUMBER 143.

1802—1893.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features:—the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy.

BY MISS ADELAIDE L. FRIES.

THEN followed the memorable years of the Civil War, which were, numerically speaking, the most prosperous the ACADEMY has ever known. Parents in all parts of the South sent their daughters here, and in 1857 one hundred and fifty-two new names were added to the Register. As the war clouds grew darker and darker, others came, their parents believing they would be safe in old Salem if safety could be found anywhere, and every day brought new applications until the message was sent abroad, "there is no more room; but if you will bring beds we will try to board you," and when even that resource failed a few became "out-boarders." Those long years in the sheltered nest, while the storm raged around and beyond, ripened in those girlish hearts a never-to-be-forgotten love for their Alma Mater, and some of the ACADEMY's warmest friends to day were won then. Not for a single day was the regular routine interrupted, but life moved on in its accustomed grooves with its little every day ups and downs. One of the pupils of that time writes: "ACADEMY girls were not always good,—they sometimes went into the dining-room and eat sugar, then had to be called before the court in the chapel, and hear Mr. DESCHWEINITZ tell them how much better they lived there than at their own homes, because coffee and sugar were not found in every man's house during the war. We had well furnished tables

"three times a day, and a luncheon at 4 o'clock. On the Principal's birthday we had big dinners, and the girls had big pockets made for the occasion, and the spoils we carried off lasted several days." But it was no easy task to provide for the two hundred and fifty girls entrusted to their care, in addition to the other members of the large family, and Principal and Steward had their hands full.

Formerly great droves of cattle and hogs passed through the town as regularly as fall came, varied by flocks of turkeys driven down from the mountains by men and boys, while venison hams were no rarity, and many people supplied themselves with them in winter; but now the Steward must needs scour the country, buy a few dozen cattle here, seventy-five or a hundred hogs there,—wherever, in fact, he could find them,—and it was no uncommon thing to see even the dignified Principal himself drive into town behind a drove of porkers. On one occasion, the Steward returned from such an expedition to Salisbury, reaching home about 10 P. M., only to be met by the news that some hogs were for sale up the country, and by 3 A. M., he was again in the saddle.

One day, toward the close of the war, the Principal and Steward were out trying to buy some wheat, and as they rode home news came that Stoneman's Brigade was moving towards Salem. Hurrying home they took the valuable papers from the office and hid them beneath the stone flooring of the cellar under the Principal's house, concealed the money in the floor of the sitting room, and when, on April 9th, 1865, the brigade approached, the Principal, the Mayor of the town, and several prominent citizens rode out to meet it, surrendered the place and asked for protection for the ACADEMY and other institutions, which was promised. About 5 o'clock a single cavalryman, pistol in hand, rode rapidly down Main Street, around the Square and back again; a little later three others came in the same manner. As they passed the old ACADEMY, the Steward, Mr. Fogle, was standing on the sidewalk, and drawing rein they pointed a pistol at his head and asked if he were not afraid, being unable to understand a people that walked the streets and went about their work as calmly as if the dreaded Yankees were hundreds of miles away. Then catching sight of the open windows of the Sisters' House the thought struck them that they were standing exposed to the fire of a hidden enemy, and they galloped away faster than they came. Soon the whole brigade marched down Main street. A plucky little "rebel" in the ACADEMY thereupon hung out a Confederate flag, but was promptly suppressed by her teacher. Some of the ladies in the Sisters' House became excited, and ran out to the sidewalk, waving handkerchiefs and aprons, and universal amusement followed the report to the General that "some women had broken out of a lunatic asylum, and needed looking after." The ladies were at first both mortified and angry, but soon joined in the laugh against themselves.

Two guards were stationed at the ACADEMY, one before the house and one in the backyard. The former was one of the General's aide-de-camps, and learning that he had not slept for six nights except such snatches as he could get in the saddle, Mr. Fogle offered to take his place and let him get a good night's rest. Giving instructions that he should be awakened were certain signals given from the camp south of town, the aide called in the sentinel from the back yard, and both thankfully went to sleep. At midnight a horseman came up, inquired for the sentinels and, suspecting foul play, at first flatly refused the invitation to go into the room where they were, but finally plucked up courage to follow Mr. Fogle and his lighted candle through the Steward's office into the room beyond. There he paused, utterly amazed, and with sundry superlatives, exclaimed: "A soldier in an enemy's country, in the dead hours of night asleep in an enemy's bed! Was the like ever heard in the annals of history!" One jerk landed the nearer sleeper on his back, but, discovering that it was the aide-de-camp, of higher rank than himself, the man desisted, and contented himself with carrying off the other sentinel, while the aide finished the night in comfort. Next morning a passing soldier discovered and took possession of one of the ACADEMY horses, but the aide, learning of it, forced him to return it.

After camping near town for a couple of days, the brigade marched past the school, up the Cedar Avenue, and while each man removed his hat, quietly crossed the graveyard and cemetery and passed from view.

Later a body of stragglers passed thro' the town, and the ACADEMY horses were stabled in the basement of the new building, where they remained in safety.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Mr. Garrity's Generous Gift.

The following letter will explain itself :

CORSICANA, TEX , Feb 2, 1894.

Rev. J. H. CLEWELL,
*Principal of Salem Female Academy,
Salem, N. C. :*

MY DEAR SIR :—I acknowledge receipt of your esteemed favor of the 27th ult., but have not yet received the sheets containing the design of steps. After mature deliberation, however, I am convinced that the design by your local architect, which I presume is a nice plain one, would be, all things considered, the most appropriate, and would, I know, be the choice of her in whose memory it is to be erected. In life she was ever plain and unaffected and avoided display, and was devoted to her home and charity. These beautiful traits of character were inherent in the young girl no doubt, but were greatly developed by teaching and example in your excellent school.

I send you enclosed $200 for the Memorial, and $200 more for your Endowment Fund.

With best wishes for the continued success of your ACADEMY, I remain,

Very truly yours,

JAS. GARRITY.

The above generous and liberal gift is made by Mr. Garrity in memory of his wife, Mrs. EMMA MOORE GARRITY. EMMA MOORE was born in Marion, Ala., Oct. 28, 1853, and attended school in SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY during the years 1866, 1867 and 1868. She was later married to Col. James Garrity, President of the 1st National Bank of Corsicana, Tex. Her married life was a very happy one, her every effort being devoted to the happiness of the home, and to deeds of kindness and charity in the community in which she lived. Feb. 17, 1893, Mrs. Garrity was called to her higher and happier home, and though we know that the Master, who doeth all things well, made no mistake in this summons, still it was a sad blow to husband and friends, and to the entire community in which she had lived and labored.

Mrs. GARRITY was always a devoted friend of the ACADEMY, a regular subscriber to the Alumnæ paper, a contributor to the columns of the correspondence department, and gave donations from time to time to the Alumnæ Endowment Fund. In view of these facts Col. Garrity determined to erect a befitting memorial in her school home, which would be at once plain and modest, but at the same time a perpetual remembrance. After corresponding with Mr. CLEWELL in regard to the matter he decided to erect a granite stairway, to be placed in some inviting spot in the grounds, and to call the same

THE EMMA MOORE MEMORIAL.

After examining the various sites, it was decided that a broad, granite stairway at the terrace in the rear court, midway between Annex and Society Halls, would be in every way the most desirable location. The two buildings referred to are about 200 feet apart, and midway between them is a terrace about four feet in height. The terrace is about 20 feet north of the broad walk leading to the Park, hence all visitors will pass by the steps on their way to the Park. All persons passing from Annex Hall or Park Hall to Society Hall will use these steps. Being in the center of the rear court or "yard" as it is usually called, it will become the favorite spot of meeting of pupils in the warm Spring and Autumn days. We have no doubt but that the EMMA MOORE MEMORIAL STEPS will become the favorite resort for the bright and happy groups of girls to sit and chat in the future. A broad gravel walk will connect the steps with the main walk and also with Annex Hall.

The stairway itself will be about 10 feet in width, and consist of 6 steps or risers. The first riser will be a large solid block  $2\frac{1}{2} \times 8$  feet. The other steps will be finished on each side with a massive coping, formed of a single block extending the entire distance from top to bottom. The finish to this coping will be what is known as "rock face;" a large block similarly finished will rest on the coping top and bottom. The coping will be cut with a double curve, the entire stairway presenting a light and graceful appearance, even though formed of such large blocks of stone. The foundations will be of cut stone, laid deep in the ground, the intention being to make it so permanent that at the end of a century the work will be as well preserved as the day it is finished. We have steps at South Hall that have stood a century and they seem to have been placed where they are, but yesterday. The terrace will be gracefully curved from the steps on either side, and we hope to have the work completed by Commencement, so as to be able at that time to transfer the stairway to the Trustees.

The contract has been given to Mr. McGalliard, of our place, who will, in person, superintend the getting of the blocks from his quarry near Mt. Airy, N. C. The quality of the granite will be chosen with great care, so that the lettering may appear to the best advantage. The inscription will appear on the vertical face of the risers, and will be as follows, each line being on a separate step :—

EMMA MOORE MEMORIAL.
PUPIL 1866—1868.
ERECTED BY HER HUSBAND,
JAMES GARRITY.
CORSICANA, TEXAS.

We also note with pleasure the gift of $200 to the Alumnæ Scholarship Fund. This Fund is steadily growing and despite the hard times has made very satisfactory progress this year. Who can estimate the good that this gift—that this Fund—will quietly do. When the kind donor of the above gift will have ceased to give the matter a thought, the good work of supplying annually some assistance to some worthy pupil will go steadily on.

Certainly the friends of the ACADEMY can rejoice that the spirit of giving is going abroad, and we hope that as a sentiment it may gain strength from year to year, and result in practical endowments for the greater efficiency of advanced education in our Institution.

The Musical Association.

The following paper was kindly prepared by Prof. SKILTON for THE ACADEMY :
On Monday evening, February 19th, the first meeting of the Musical Association of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY was held at the house of Mr. CLEWELL.

The Association was recently organized with Prof. SKILTON as President, and Miss VEST as Secretary. It consists of all the music instructors of the ACADEMY, holds meetings once in three weeks, and discusses subjects affecting the musical welfare of the ACADEMY. At each meeting the discussion is opened by one or more papers on the subject chosen, and is then informally debated by all present. An important feature is the record of current musical events, prepared from various magazines and papers by means of which the members are kept well informed in regard to the musical life of the world.

The subject of the evening in question was "The Comparative Importance of Popular Music." Two papers were read, by Miss AMY VAN VLECK and Prof. SKILTON. In behalf of popular music Miss VAN VLECK spoke as follows:

"It reaches the masses. In order to reach the masses we must be willing to descend to them for that purpose. Music of a light and pleasing character that can be easily comprehended and enjoyed by them after having been heard only a few times is what they can best appreciate.

"Songs of this kind become very popular in a short time. National airs are always and deservedly popular, linking not only people of one land but the people of different countries into one common humanity. Popular music can be more creditably performed by pupils who are devoid of talent or have only a limited amount of time to devote to music, or who commence this study when they are no longer young. The parents of many pupils having had no opportunity for improving or elevating their own taste for higher music do not appreciate the importance of its being cultivated by their children. Popular music affords them evident pleasure, while one of Bach's fugues would be utterly lost on them. With pupils of limited musical capacity, to hear them play a simple popular piece well is more pleasing than to have a soulless unsympathetic rendering of one of Beethoven's sonatas. Popular music is sometimes a relaxation. After listening to heavy classical music for hours a little variety is acceptable."

In behalf of Classical music Prof. SKILTON said:

"In the general education of a young mind we consider some contact with the greatness of history a necessity. It is not enough to fit one for present circumstances, we must consider the fifty years of future that lie before, and train our pupils so that they will have the capacity for developing along with changing conditions. A girl may be sufficiently educated to be a charming hostess and useful citizen in a town of 5,000 inhabitants, but if fortune should place her in Washington or New York, she might be musically beneath notice. Another girl may have learned from her schooling how to think and adapt herself to her surroundings so that she will never be at fault, but be equally charming and useful in the town or in Washington. As for her musical life classical music is the only kind which is capable of forming a refined and growing taste, and the only kind for which a lasting interest and affection can be felt. We have a new set of "Fountain Pieces," Sunlight Polkas, Liberty Marches, etc., every five years; and if by chance we stumble on one of them that our mothers played we wonder that the dear ladies could ever have endured such worthless stuff. Are the popular pieces of our own day better? But if we find an old copy of Beethoven's Sonata Pathetique it is just as grand in its weather-stained faded cover, as is our fresh, new Peter's edition. By classical music is meant not only the compositions of the ten or twelve great masters, but whatever really good music has appeared or is appearing at the present time. Let us give our pupils along with what they can readily appreciate some idea of the great and good music that is animating the world around them."

An interesting and profitable discussion followed the reading of these papers. Miss TRACY read the record of current musical events, including an article on the personality of Grieg. Refreshments were enjoyed and the meeting was adjourned after musical selections were rendered by Prof. SKILTON and Miss TRACY.

The Association fills a long felt want in the music department and an influential future seems to lie before it.

---

Chronicle and Gossip.

---

—Thanks to Mr. E. T. Blum for handsome calendars, one for each of the Society Halls, and one for the Teachers' Room.

—We were very pleased to see Miss ANNE PENN (class of '92), early in February. She was visiting in Winston, and gave us a passing call.

Messrs. P. H. Hanes & Co., have issued a unique calendar, consisting of a peacock with his gorgeous plumage outspread, displaying the hundred eyes of Argus which Hera thus immortalized. Twelve circular revolving calendars, one for each month, are placed around the outer edge.

—The ACADEMY Prayer Meetings are progressing steadily and doing a great amount of good. They are a blessed means of grace, and their influence is a power in the school. Things are quite different from what they formerly were,—a different atmosphere prevails.

—Through the kindly superintendance of Mr. James Lineback, the ACADEMY has had tombstones placed on the graves of those pupils who died years ago, while residing in the ACADEMY, and whose graves have not been marked by friends from the homes of the pupils. The following is the inscription on each of the stones:

CAROLINE ROBINSON, Pupil.

Born in Alabama, Feb. 21, 1845.

Died in Salem, Feb. 19, 1860.

MARTHA E. HOBBS, Pupil.

Born in Jackson, Miss., Apr. 4, 1846.

Died in Salem, May 9, 1861.

MARY WEATHERLY, Pupil.

Born in Bennettsville, S. C., Jan. 19, 1849.

Died in Salem, March 21, 1863.

—One of the most important personages (at least in his own estimation), is the huge turkey gobbler in the deer park. He seems to dispute the right of any to pass his domain, and enters into a furious tirade as the girls walk back and forth beside the wire netting. Some days since we noticed Bishop RONDTHALER on his way back from a stroll in the school Park. As he approached the spot alluded to Sir Gobbler seemed to have determined to dispute the reverend gentleman's right to coolly pass his domain. As the Bishop came beside the corner the gobbler had every feather spread, tail erect, head turned disdainfully downward, and, such a tirade of abusive gobbling, such threatening scraping of the wings we think no turkey ever indulged in before. The Bishop stopped, smiled, looked, and then resumed his walk. But the turkey renewed the attack with even more force and determination, and while we are not sufficiently versed in Prof. Garness talents to interpret the turkey language, we are led to believe that it was very foul language indeed. This continued during the entire length of the Park. Bishop smiling—turkey apparently growing nearer and nearer to the point when he would either exterminate his enemy or himself—when luckily the end of the Park was reached. The ACADEMY congratulates the Bishop on his narrow escape.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., FEBRUARY, 1894.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

ALUMNÆ NOTICE.

Members of the Alumnæ Society who have not sent in the sum pledged at the last meeting in June, 1893, are requested to do so as soon as possible. It is desirable to make a favorable report to the executive committee which will doubtless be called together in the near future.

L. S. SHAFFNER, Treas.

—The present month closes the 16th year of the history of THE ACADEMY news paper. For sixteen years it has regularly made its appearance, and has been the means of bringing together in sympathy and friendship the Alumnæ, who have become scattered all over the Union. It has also enabled the patrons to keep posted as to the progress of affairs within the School, and it has carried information to many intending patrons and pupils. We cannot speak confidently of the number printed in the earlier years of THE ACADEMY's history, but, during the past few years, not less than 20,000 copies per annum have been sent out, and thus, during the past 6 or 7 years the aggregate number published will reach at least one hundred thousand copies!

THE SPIRIT OF GIVING.

THE ACADEMY has often urged the matter of giving as a means of increasing the power of educational work, and we are pleased to note that the past month has shown how the spirit is growing. Elsewhere will be found the account of the generous donation of Mr. Garrity, consisting in a gift of $200 for a memorial to his wife, once an honored pupil in the school; $200 to the Alumnæ Endowment Fund, which Mrs. Garrity had aided and encouraged in her lifetime. The Alumnæ have also added about $100 to the Fund by interest and other gifts; and finally we note the $150 given to the two Literary Societies, on the occasion of their entertainments, in the form of admission fees. This makes a showing of $650 for the month of February, — quite encouraging in the line of endowment. One of the most cheering features is the fact that as the work of giving goes on, every one seems pleased, and some who have not heretofore considered the matter will now do so, since the work is fairly under way, and our funds will grow; the needed historical building, — for museum and archives will become a memorial to some child, wife or mother, and who can say but that the much needed memorial chapel may not some day be realized.

In our next issue we may have a pleasant little surprise for the Alumnæ Society in the form of still more income for their worthy fund. At all events it has been whispered to us that a plan is on foot to secure a snug little sum for that purpose.

—Dr. Kemp P. Battle, recently President of the State University, now filling the Chair of History in that institution, delivered a very fine lecture in the ACADEMY Chapel on the subject of "St. Paul at Athens." The lecture was given under the joint auspices of the ACADEMY and the Y. M. C. A., of Winston-Salem. The attendance was absolutely limited to the members of the Association and the faculty and pupils of the ACADEMY. The Doctor is a very erudite man and a pleasing speaker, and the lecture was greatly enjoyed by all.

—The ACADEMY requests all patrons to aid us in the matter of economy in connection with Commencement outfits. We have noted always the best results as to appearance on the part of those who observe our desires in using taste and economy, rather than display and extravagance.

—In connection with a letter in our Correspondence column about the 78 members of the LASH family, who went to school in the ACADEMY, we note the striking fact that a great-grandmother, grandmother, mother and daughter were Alumnæ of the School, viz: Mrs. Solomon Transou (SALLIE LASH), Mrs. A. Matthews (ANTOINETTE TRANSOU), Mrs. W. B. Glenn (SALLIE MATTHEWS), and NETTIE GLENN. Besides these there were sisters and cousins and aunts in great numbers. We do not think this record can be excelled, but we would like to hear from any who can approach it. The Richardsons, of Reidsville, Jones, &c., would make a fair showing, with probably a good many more, who have not as yet counted their numerical strength. It would be a great favor to us if they would do so.

—An active beginning has been made in the cataloguing of the museum cabinets. This collection has been slowly accumulating for the past years, and there are probably between 1500 and 2000 specimens on hand. We hope next month to begin the publication of the list.

—The several longer articles in this number of THE ACADEMY have crowded out the news items from our columns. But as the articles are interesting to our readers, we feel certain this variation from our usual programme will not be adversely criticised. The March number will follow this number very soon and will contain the points alluded to.

Correspondence.

—An item in the September ACADEMY, about the 60 odd members and relatives of the Goodman family of Texas, who were Alumnæ of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, has called forth a very interesting response from a member of the Lash family nearer home. We are truly glad to get these items, for as Dickens says: "Facts, sir! Facts are stubborn things!" Will not some other old and staunch supporters of the ACADEMY let themselves be heard from?

In the September ACADEMY I noticed a paragraph in reference to the number of relatives of Dr. Goodman who had attended SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. In counting the members of the Lash family in all its branches who have attended the school from earliest times down to the present, they number 78, and there may be some whose names have been overlooked. Sixty of the seventy-eight are descended from Jacob Lash who is mentioned in The Moravians of N. C., as the grandfather of the Lash family in this State. All are lineal descendants of George Lash, father of J. Lash, who emigrated to New York from Germany in 1710.

Of course, there is some allowance to be made in favor of the Goodman family, as they did not live in this State, and were not Moravians as most of the Lash's were and are. That the school is so well patronized outside the Church and State shows its true worth.

I wrote the above just before going to the Chicago Fair last fall, and noticing in the Winston Daily that you were at Chicago at the time, in the hurry of getting off I left it till I returned. I found the letter not long since, and thought I would copy and send it to you, if it is not too late in the day. Acting on the suggestion in the paragraph before referred to, if another family could equal or exceed the Goodman family in patronizing the ACADEMY, I obtain the results before mentioned.

Very truly,

KATE JONES.

Winston, N. C.

—Our sympathy goes out especially to the Reade family whose home was burned over their heads early in January, and they barely escaped with their lives. Both mother and daughter (MARY LANG '73 and HUBERTA READE, class of '93), are dear friends and esteemed Alumnæ of the ACADEMY:

Your kind letter of sympathy came yesterday; and I can assure you it was appreciated; it was a surprise, for I had written you two letters in the early autumn, and you had answered neither of them, so I had supposed you were too busy to keep up the correspondence.

It was indeed terrible to wake up and find my home burning. Papa and Mama had been out to tea and soon after retiring, which was about 12 o'clock, Papa said he smelled something burning; so he went up stairs to see if all was well and found things apparently so. He retired for the second time, and in about a quarter of an hour, hearing a crash, he rushed to the front door, and found the whole roof in a blaze. We did not have time to get any clothes or anything, even shoes, so I burned and cut my feet badly. Everything was lost. The Fire Companies were late, and when they reached us, what had been our comfortable home was a mass of burning embers.

We have no idea how the fire started, unless a tramp dropped a match or pipe. I certainly would like to have another diploma, for I prized my diploma, my essay and some pictures as much as any thing I had. I think I will write to Mr. Hough for another class picture.

I was so glad to hear of the revival, and hope it has done and is doing as much good as the one of last year. I joined the Methodist church soon after I came home.

Affectionately,

HUBERTA READE,

Corsicana, Texas.

—Our next is from a dear friend living on the Texan border of Mexico. She enclosed us a programme of a Mexican bull fight, which took place just across the line in Mexico, and for which we are greatly obliged, as well as for the intelligence she writes. Some of our happiest hours are spent in our Correspondence column:

It has been a very long time since I wrote to you or heard from you except through the columns of THE ACADEMY. Frank usually renews my subscription, and the cards sent for that purpose are so convenient that it is not necessary to write when we send the money.

To-day is the first cold day we have had since the middle of November. This north-er is shaking every door and window in the house, and no one leaves the fire any longer than is positively necessary.

Since I last wrote you I have lost a dear little boy; he died October 1890, just after his second birthday. He was terribly burned one afternoon and died the next morning. It was a great shock to us and seemed too great to bear. Now we have a little girl nearly two years old, her father's special pet. My boy is now eight years old and going to school. We talk of the time Ida will be old enough to send to boarding school.

I wish you could come down this way and let me go with you on a trip through Mexico. Affectionately,

JODIE WAUGH EARNEST.

Laredo, Texas.

—One of our pupils handed us a letter received from an old friend, from which she kindly permits us to make a few extracts:

"I was both surprised and delighted when they told me you had gone to old Salem to school, as I believe it to be the very best thing for you, indeed, I wanted to see you all the Spring to induce you to go. When the little souvenir paper came from you yesterday, I resolved that I would try and write to you.

"Do you know, dear, that I entered old Salem just 50 years before you did. It is hard for me to realize it I assure you. I was then an undisciplined, uneducated child. I came away in two years with a substantial foundation for an education and am better educated in some things than many of the graduates in some schools.

"Best of all, the discipline, the moral and religious training, strengthened me to fight the battle of life. The reminiscences were sad and yet delightful which were excited by the little paper you sent me and caused the tears to flow.

"I often wonder where all the girls are that were with me in Salem. What a bright array they make on memory's wall!

"Friends have been scattered like roses in bloom, Some at the bridal and some at the tomb!"

"Do tell me if Miss LYDIA STAUBER is still living? [No, she died in 1880, at the age of 80, after teaching in the ACADEMY 45 years she retired to the Sisters' House, where she spent the last ten years of her life in peaceful retirement.—EDITORS OF ACADEMY.]

"I hope you have recovered from your home sickness and will stay 2 or 3 years longer. I think the longer you stay the better you will like it. Salem stands in the front ranks of schools north or south."

—We also make some extracts from a letter recently received from a highly respected gentleman and patron of the ACADEMY:

"I regret that I failed to see more of you. I would have liked to express my sincere thanks for the care and interest you have shown to my little daughters, through you to your good wife, Mother MOORE and the teachers. Kindly express to them the earnest thanks of a devoted father, also to the pastor of the church for his kind christian advice to them. I feel that my children have been very fortunate in being surrounded by those who so thoughtfully care for their moral, mental, physical and christian education. In your school they have been so fortunate as to have for instructors, gentle, christian men and women, and they show the influence of such instruction. It will afford me very great pleasure to say a kind word for your ACADEMY wherever I can.

—A lady from Texas writes as follows:

"I have received the twigs so kindly sent in answer to my request, and write to thank you for the trouble you took in doing so. I have given the Catalogue and prospectus of your school to a gentleman here who was once a resident of North Carolina, and who has been thinking of sending his daughter to Salem. I wish I could induce all our girls to go to you, for they all need just such an education as your school gives."

—A letter from MAGGIE GRAHAM (class of '90), is also very acceptable:

"My subscription to THE ACADEMY expired a month or two ago, and I am sorry to have missed a number, but I was away on a visit of some weeks and thus neglected to renew it.

I would be very sorry to do without THE ACADEMY, for it is the connecting link with my dear Alma Mater. I suppose there are none of my schoolmates in the ACADEMY now, at least not as pupils, but I often see Miss LEHMAN'S, Miss PITTMAN'S and other names of well-known teachers. It seems impossible that I have been out of school nearly four years, and at times I would give a great deal to be seated in the dear old North Senior Room again with the girls of '90.

JEANIE SMITH and MARY FITZPATRICK have visited me since I left school, and I have seen ANNIE BOURDEAUX several times. I spent several delightful days at Lauderdale Springs with her last summer, and saw her during a visit to friends in Meridian, this winter. ANNIE is teaching in Meridian, and I believe likes it very much. My life had been filled with a round of happiness and pleasure until last winter when two of my little sisters, Birdie, and my baby sister Ethel died within 2 weeks, of diphtheria. I have one little sister Eliese, the only one left, who says she is almost ready to go to Salem.

Yours, &c.,

MADGE GRAHAM.

Forrest, Miss.

Literary Society Entertainments.

THE Literary Societies have given annually an entertainment for the past few years, at which a small admission fee is charged, for the purpose of adding to the gifts of the members, in securing means to carry on the work of the Society. This year each Society determined to give a play, the Hesperian Society selecting one, entitled "The Chaperon," and the Euterpean, "Rebecca's Triumph." Besides the financial gain to the Societies there are other benefits to be derived from this self unpaid duty. The drill in elocution is no small item. The plays were each one and three quarter hours in length, and the serious and humorous—the pathetic and the pleasing humors were all to be studied before the plays were ready for the public. This gave a pleasing addition to their drill in elocution which usually assumes the form of individual recitations. Another benefit gained was the enjoyment brought into the school life during the somewhat cold and gloomy months when nature wears her most forbidding garb, and if the pupils are not supplied with something out of the ordinary routine of school life it is very probable that the spirit of mischief will go abroad and one or another suffer some serious slip to enter into the history of their school experiences. This pleasant anticipation, this daily drill and practice, this hunting up of costumes for the Irish girl, the old maid, the crazy girl, for Jip and Nora, for Meg and Rebecca, and for the large number of other characters furnishes a safe and harmless outlet for the superfluous spirits, shut up by the January winds and the February weather. Well, we may also add that the present efforts were made to pay the second hundred dollars on the Society Halls. One of the trustees smiled when the girls offered to pay $500 for the Halls in the new building, but he did not know the girls as well as the writer of this sketch. They have now paid $200, and the rest will follow.

Regarding the plays we would say that it would be a dangerous thing to comment, for if the measure of praise should bend to the one side or the other, sad would be the result. We do wish to note a few points however. The one is to acknowledge the untiring zeal of Miss SCRIBER in training the girls. It was a great task, but she never wearied, and the success of the work was a testimonial both of her untiring zeal and rare ability. We also wish to note Mr. PFOHL'S kindness and good judgment in supplying the needed stage scenes. When a door was needed, a hollow tree, a rustic branch, a window, a cedar, or in fact anything else—it was only necessary to say the word and the article was forthcoming. Finally, regarding the ability of the girls, we cannot speak too highly. The rivalry of the two Societies forced each one to do their best.

We quote from the Twin City Daily Sentinel:

"The presentation of these charming dramas was a beautiful and convincing testimonial to the rare talents of the lovely participants and the ability of their instructors. Every character was well presented and sustained throughout. At one time the audience would be convulsed with laughter and the next moment sympathetic tears would fill their eyes."

The snug sum of $150 was realized by the two Societies.

We give below the cast of characters and the outline of the play.

The first one was given by the Hesperian Society, February 12th and 13th and was entitled

THE CHAPERON.

Miss Morong, Principal of Crandon Hall,
JENNIE ANDERSON.
Mrs. Dynecourt, of "Selbourne,"

DAISY CRUTCHFIELD.
Mademoiselle Jeanne, the French teacher,
DOVIE CHEDESTER.

Joyce Dynecourt, POWELL DOBSON,
Judith Grey, MAGGIE BORUM,
Phyllis Reynolds, MAUD MCGINNIS,
Barbara Creighton, PAMELIA GOODMAN,
Suzanne Horton, KATE BELL,
Lillian Gordon, NAN SHELL,
Mollie Howard, BESSIE HENDERSON,
Anna Dayton, KATE GIBSON,
Daisy Rogers, LUCY WILLIAMS, Pupils.

Miriam, the Gypsy, EVA CHEATHAM.
Jill, the Waif, MAUD CHEEK.
Nora, Mrs. Dynecourt's Maid, LIZZIE BURSON.

Tennis Drill—CORA COWLES, ANNA CHEATHAM, LOTTIE THORNTON, AGNES STALLINGS, HATTIE ELLISON, SALLIE BONNER, MARY JEFFERSON.

ACT I.—Playgrounds of Crandon Hall, the Seminary of Selbourne. Group of girls chatting in front; game of tennis in the background. A gypsy appears and faints from hunger; she is taken to the room of Joyce, one of the pupils, and given food. The French teacher, who dislikes Joyce, accuses the gypsy of stealing money, and the latter is driven from the grounds after she had told the fortunes of the girls and Mrs. Dynecourt.

ACT II.—Studio of Cousin Geoffrey, an artist. The French teacher comes to spy out the girls, who intend to visit the studio "on the sly." Nora, the Irish girl, locks her in a closet, and later saves the girls from being caught by the lady principal. Joyce, in disguise, acts as their chaperon, and the gypsy informs her that the waif, Jill, is really her sister, who was supposed to have perished in a railroad wreck to years before.

ACT III.—A lawn party at Mrs. Dynecourt's home. The school girls are there. The French teacher comes, and Nora, the Irish girl, settles old scores by putting red pepper in her tea. The French teacher confesses her crime, and the gypsy reveals to Mrs. Dynecourt, her benefactress, that Jill is her daughter whom she has long mourned as dead.

The second was given by the Euterpean Society, February 22nd and 23rd, and was entitled

REBECCA'S TRIUMPH.

Mrs. Rokeman, a wealthy lady, (age 49),
ALMA CHAFFIN.
Mrs. DeLaine, a widow, (age 60)

ANNA WITHERS.
Rebecca, a foundling (age 19) OLA WHITE.
Clarissa Codman, a spinster, (age 40),

LENA COLWELL,
Dora Gaines, SUSIE REYNOLDS,
Sadie Morrell, MARTHA BROWN,
Jennie Woodman, SALLIE BOYD,
Mellie Dunbar, MATTIE KELLETT,
Emma Stevens, LAURA BLOUNT,
Grace Greenwood, DAISY SCHOOLFIELD,
Maria Gray, MARY MILLIS,
Alice Leeds, SALLIE ADAMS,
Gussie Green, KATIE HANES,

Our Club.

Katie Conner, an Irish girl, LIZZIE MAJETTE.
Gip, a colored girl, CARRIE ROLLINS.
Meg, a vagrant, DAISY THOMPSON.

ACT I.—Kitchen of Mrs. DeLaine. Quarrel between Gip and the Irish girl "from the big house on the hill." Meg, an old crazy woman, is kindly cared for by Rebecca, Mrs. DeLaine's adopted daughter. The cooking class enter, singing like a "Mefodis camp-meeting." Gip rushes in, screaming, and tells the girls that Mrs. Rokeman's horse is running away. Rebecca succeeds in bravely stopping the same, and the rich Mrs. Rokeman offers to adopt Rebecca. Crazy Meg confronts Mrs. Rokeman, a scene follows, and the former utters the magic word, "Remember."

ACT II.—Scene in the forest on the Rokeman estate. Gip and the Irish girl again quarrel. The Cooking Club out for a picnic. The hollow tree serves as a postoffice for the old maid, Clarissa. The 18-year old letter is found. Clarissa is overcome when she discovers who her adorer really is.

ACT III.—Parlor at Mrs. Rokeman's mansion. Katy, the Irish girl, receives a love-letter, which is read by Gip. The lost ring is found. Crazy Meg reveals herself as Mrs. Rokeman's sister and Rebecca's mother.

—Some time since a prospective inmate of the ACADEMY arrived at the depot, but was not met by Mr. FROHL, as is the usual custom. The daily paper published in our neighboring town commented on this fact, stating that it was not usual for the arrivals for the ACADEMY to be entrusted to the care of others. This arrival, however, was a DEER from Georgia, and was to become an inmate of the little deer park just east of Annex Hall. The animal is a gentle creature, and was soon at home. The girls made quite a pet of it, and it came readily at their call, eating grass from their hands, and responding to their caresses.

Alumna Scholarship Fund.

Mrs. Col. F. H. Fries,	$20 00
Miss Etta Brown,	2 50
Col. Jas. Garrity,	200 00
Interest to Feb. 1,	73 08
Previously acknowledged,	1,337 70
Total,	$1633 28
MISS LOU SHAFFNER, Treasurer.

Married.

SMITH—CLARK — On December 27th, 1893, Dr. Z. G. Smith to Miss LILY CLARK, of Little Rock, N. C.

McSWAIN—McCALLUM.— On December 28, 1893, Dr. T. C. McSWAIN to Miss MARY McCALLUM, of S. C.

DONNELL—ANTHONY—On December 24th, 1893, at the M. E. Church of Little Rock, Arkansas, Dr. R. N. DONNELL, of Malvern, Ark., to Miss L. ANNIE ANTHONY, formerly of Salem, N. C.

MAYS—PACE.—In Corsicana, Texas, January 17, 1894, Mr. RICHARD MAYS to Miss THERESA PACE, class of '90.

LAUGHENOUR—VOGELER.— On January 31, 1894, in the Moravian church of Salem, N. C., Mr. JESSE D. LAUGHENOUR, of Woodland, Cal., to Miss MINNIE VOGLER, of Salem.

KIRKWOOD—SHERILL.— On Jan 31, 1894, in Bennettsville, S. C., Mr. R. S. KIRKWOOD to Miss JANIE SHERILL, Class of '89.

WATKINS—RAWLINGS.—On January 31, 1894, in the First Presbyterian church of Chattanooga, Tenn., Mr. ARTHUR JAMES WATKINS to Miss ALICE RAWLINGS, class of '92.

MOWRY—McRAE.— In January, 1894, Mr. MOWRY, of Charleston, S. C., to Miss EMMA McRAE, class of '86, of Cho, S. C.

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs. Cattie Craig, Greenwood, Miss; Mrs. Susan V. Hart, Tarboro, N. C.; Miss Annie Perkins, Greenville, N. C.; Mrs. Sarah Houston, Woodland, Cal.; Mrs. W. M. Earnhardt, Lenoir, N. C.; Miss Lily Belle Newberry, Magnolia, N. C.; Mrs. Joshua Chase, Sanford, Florida; Mrs. Mary L. Early, Woodlawn, Va.; Miss Rachel C. Sims, Durham, N. C.; Miss Madge Graham, Forest, Miss; Mrs. J. A. Moore, LaSalle, Colorado; Mrs. M. A. Haristene, New York City; Mrs. F. B. Gibson, Gibson Station, N. C.; Miss Annie Lanquist, Miss C. McFadyen, Miss A. VanVleck, Salem, N. C.

A FORM FOR REQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of _____ Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumna Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.

The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.

REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

Nov. '92-1f.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,

A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.

Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western Railway.

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middleboro, Louisville. By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL, Gen. Pass. Agent. Trav. Suppl. Agt., ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892-1v

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.
Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892-1y

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country.

All the leading novelties, such as:

Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in

Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of

LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,

has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Phone 111.

Phone 111.

Jan, 1892.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

in connection with the

Norfolk & Western R. R.,

via Walnut Cove.

Atlantic Coast Line,

via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH

between

WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to

J. W. FLY, W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Supl. Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.
E. B. KEAR, S. Agt. N. & W. R. R.,
Winston, N. C.

BOSTON BLOCK, = Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable. FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N. C.

Apply to September, 1893.—1f.

To the Parents and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,
W. T. VOGLER & SON.
JEWELERS,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.
Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91—1y.

ALUMNAE BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNAE BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price the price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address, HET ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

A COMPLETE ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT FOR $7.95

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

B.D.K. & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVE. N.Y.

S. E. ALLEN,
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware, CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.
WINSTON N. C.
Gray Block.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892

"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.
Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.
Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,
Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
October, 1892.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boyston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth. 337 pages. Price $1.00. By mail, $1.10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English.
Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: "It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of a that is necessary in grammar."
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 80 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth., 325 pages, $1.75. By mail $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles.
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.40.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth. 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the exact discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford. pp. vi., 255. 12mo, cloth, 84 cents.
"Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Herald.
"Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the latter use."—Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hamden—Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature, Cassica Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cowper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverly, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Rufus Choate—Chackeray's Four Georges and English Humorists, Parts I. and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Eginhard's Charemagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odyssey etc., will be published.
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,
PUBLISHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '93-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVI.

SALEM, N. C., MARCH, 1894.

NUMBER 144.

1802—1893.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features:— the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy.

BY MISS ADELAIDE L. FRIES.

THE close of the war brought a renewed rush to the school, the Register for 1866 showing 153 new names recorded,— the greatest number ever added during a twelvemonth. On February 6th, of that year, the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY was regularly incorporated as a college, and the standard of scholarship was raised, collegiate studies being introduced. In May Mr. DE SCHWEINITZ accepted a call to Nazareth Hall, in Pennsylvania, and Rev. MAXIMILIAN E. GRUNERT, who had been Assistant Principal for several years, took charge of the School.

For some time all moved smoothly, but on one Thanksgiving Day, when all were rejoicing in their many blessings, the small pox broke out in the school. Those who passed through it say: "Don't even think of that awful time!" but to the younger generation the story comes like the most thrilling pages from some old romance, for as girl after girl sickened, and enough nurses could not be obtained, the teachers bravely took up the task, tenderly caring for the sufferers day and night, and keeping up room and class duties at the same time, that those who were well should be in no way neglected. And richly were their labors repaid, for not one death occurred, and the school came through its time of trial right royally.

In 1873 the old building was remodeled to look like the twin sister of the new, except that it has no portico and is entered by four or five stone steps, covered by an arched roof, in the German style.

In 1877 Rev. J. THEOPHILUS ZORN became Principal, and the year following he began the publication of a school-paper, called THE ACADEMY, which, after a somewhat uncertain existence for six years, has now become an assured feature of the institution, chronicling, bit by bit, the events of its life as they pass from action into history, forming a pleasant means of communication among its Alumnae, and brightening the homes to which it goes with its girlish chatter and gossip.

In 1878 the first Senior Class was formed, to pursue a more advanced course. They continued to be considered a part of the first-room company, but were given a separate room, with rug and rocking-chairs, which, with the prospective diploma of graduation, made them the envy of all the juveniles, who must needs be content with stained floors and straight-backed chairs. There were six graduates at the close of the first year's work

In March, the little wooden buckets which so many generations of pupils had lovingly carried up and down the stairs, were laid aside, and large water-coolers were placed in the halls, immediately becoming favorite resorts during recess. About the same time the bowling alley under the back piazza was inaugurated, and bowling soon became a very popular pastime.

In 1880 the dressing-rooms were removed from the basement to the dormitory, and the space previously occupied by them was cut up into small rooms for piano practice. Music has ever been particularly cared for in the ACADEMY, and one lady, who was here more than sixty years ago, writes that she can still play the pieces learned in Salem; but not every one is blessed with a love of music, and for such it was a joyful day when the would-be performers departed to other regions and the study rooms were freed from the incessant jingle.

The "Chapel Festival" had long since ceased to be observed, and it seemed proper that the school should celebrate its birthday since Principal and scholars celebrated theirs; the 31st of October, "Founders' Day," was therefore set apart to be observed forever as an annual holiday.

In 1884, Rev. EDWARD RONDTHALER, the pastor of the Salem congregation and later Bishop of the Southern Province of the Moravian Church, took charge of the school, with Rev. JOHN H. CLEWELL as Associate Principal; and the ten years since have been very full of modernizing improvements, while the attendance, which had been comparatively small for some years, rose rapidly, until the numbers almost reached those of the crowded war times, and the school entered into an era of unexampled prosperity, which still obtains.

The first improvements were the study-parlors, in 1884, when the classes were assigned to separate rooms, with the conventional long tables, chairs and stained floors, while the living rooms were made cheery with warm rugs, small square tables, seating four girls each, and comfortable, straight-backed chairs for study hours, while rocking chairs and sofas invited the weary to repose after their labors. The interest felt in these arrangements is intimated by these lines, which appeared in THE ACADEMY about that time:

Those rocking-chairs! Those rocking chairs!
With what alternate hopes and fears
We've longed to see them come!
No pleasant, sparkling, fireside chat
Of balls and beaux, and this and that,
For want of rocking-chairs!

although former pupils will probably repudiate the suggestion that they could not talk, being without them. Candles had sunk into obscurity years before, the rooms being well lighted with gas. In the dining-room chairs replaced the stools which had superseded the still more primitive benches.

Mr. ZORN had begun improvements in the dormitories by placing the dressing-rooms on the same floor, and in 1885 the whole hall was transformed. A series of paneled partitions of pine and oak, about 3½ feet high, divided the room into alcoves, each large enough to contain bed, trunk, chair and rug, while the cream-colored curtains, with their red borders, hung from posts and rods some six feet high, complete the picture. These curtains may be opened or closed at will, according to the owner's love of solitude. (Be it softly whispered, they are always closed when a contraband cherry-pie or pickle bottle has been upset upon the bed and the teacher is momentarily expected, or when other mischief is in progress.)

TO BE CONTINUED.

Our Museum.

DURING the past year we have been gradually gathering the materials for the Museum, and adding them to those already in the possession of the school. When Society Hall was built the story immediately above the Euterpean and Hesperian Halls was devoted to the use of the collection; cases were made, and the articles gradually conveyed to their future home. The floor space is about 30x40 feet, and is lighted by five dormer windows. At present there are seven large cases, including more than 1,000 specimens, and a number of articles, historical and otherwise, occupying the room. The object of the Museum is a two-fold one,—first to preserve historical articles, and second, to gather a collection of articles to aid in the Natural Science studies, and in the class-room work in general. Among the historic collection are such articles as the old fire engine (1784); pewter plates, dating from the beginning of the present century; specimens of embroidery and painting, 50, 60 and more years old; stools used when the present dining room was built and other similar articles connected with the early life of the school. So, too, there are a number of relics connected with the Indian life of early days, such as axes, hammers, bows, arrows, spears, &c. War relics, such as shells and balls fired on historic battlefields, and we may add here the portraits of the Principals of the School from 1802 to the present time,—though these will be deposited in the ACADEMY office till such time as the Institution has a fire-proof museum and archive building.

In the museum proper we will first glance for a moment at the general plan, and then from month to month devote a column or two to the publication of the present catalogue, and later acknowledge the donations which we feel certain friends will from time favor us with. We note the cases:

Case I. is devoted to shells, and contains between 300 and 400 specimens, more than 200 varieties.

Case II. contains about 125 specimens of fossils, and several hundred specimens of minerals, running through the list of well known rocks and minerals, and containing very many that are rare.

Case III. contains a large collection of ores and stones, marbles, crystals and gems gathered by Miss LEHMAN, and deposited in the museum for the use of the school. In this case also are deposited a collection of coins, donated by Dr. Peschau, recently of Wilmington.

Case IV. contains the Anna L. Ogburn collection of sponges, shells, corals, &c., from the Bermuda Islands.

Case V. contains the W. H. Hall collections of sea animals, creatures of the crab, star-fish, shell and other families; also a large and valuable collection of birds' nests and eggs,—with perhaps three dozen specimens of fish, reptiles and insects preserved in alcohol.

Case VI. is of a general nature. At present there are specimens donated by Rev. R. P. Lineback, Prof. E. W. Lineback, and also donations from SUE WINSTON, HATTIE ELLISON, and HELEN DUNN, pupils. Among the general list we note donations from Misses LOU and SALLIE SHAFFNER and LIZZIE HEISLER, and others, whose names will appear as the list is published.

Case I. is largely composed of the Hartwig collection, purchased years ago. Mrs. Kilbuck, on the occasion of her recent visit, took with her goods to be used in the purchase of articles in Alaska, and we expect a box from that distant land this Fall.

As stated before, the idea of the museum is both historical and to serve in promoting the study of Natural Science. We hope to use the specimens to promote class interests. We also hope to secure the aid of our pupils in securing and arranging specimens. One of the most beautiful sights in the anthropological building at the World's Fair was a case of exquisite butterflies; we feel certain that before this summer is over we will have a large and varied collection of butterflies,—and shall we add,—horrid bugs and worms! We also believe that our pupils in their travels north, south, east and west,—by the sea and on mountain side, in America and beyond the ocean, will remember the museum, and will gather articles which will bring the country and sections in question nearer to us by means of these specimens of rocks, metals, insects, and creatures, woods and manufactured articles, relics and fossils. We believe that our Alumnae will have their interest aroused, and as they note from month to month the growth of this valuable collection, will donate or loan to the museum articles which will do far more good in such a collection than to occupy a corner in some dark closet or unused room. We want in time to enlarge the collection to such an extent that a new building will be needed, and then we hope that some generous hand will donate means enough to erect a memorial building for museum and archives. We have the site in mind and the general plan, and as the sum is not so great as, for instance, a memorial chapel, we trust the kind donor may not wait long. But, for the immediate present, we hope soon to begin various other collections, such as the photographs of as many teachers as possible, of old and of present pupils. A properly arranged department such as this would afford much pleasure to visiting Alumnae. We want to enlarge the collection illustrating Indian life; we desire to secure an object lesson in the form of war relics,—in fact, space forbids us to enlarge on what we hope to do in connection with this department, our Museum,—so we will pass to the contemplation of what we have thus far done.

The list which now follows will serve as an official catalogue, and in case teacher or pupil wishes to use the museum in connection with study and research it would be well to clip the list as it appears from month to month and preserve it in a scrap book. We will cheerfully furnish extra copies for this purpose. The Roman figures, I., II., III., IV., &c., will indicate the cases; the letter A will indicate that the specimen is general, that is, occupies some space in the museum not in the cases. The small figures attached correspond to the specimens in the cases, and by means of these numbers the specimen can easily be found. Thus

II 181—Copper Pyrites, with Blende, Derbyshire, England

In Case II, without much trouble, the little card 181 may be found, and the specimen examined. It is our intention to preserve the name of the donor in each instance. We now proceed to give the list of specimens contained in the first case, which is a part of the Hartwig collection alluded to above :

[NOTE.—The arranging and classifying of the lists which follow are in the hands of Miss LEHMAN and Mr. CLEWELL. As several scientific names are often given by different writers for the same article, the one chosen for these lists in such cases is of course arbitrary. Should any one desire information in regard to any specimen which will be named on this sheet or in any subsequent list, correspondence in regard to same is cordially invited.—]ED. ACADEMY.]

CASE I.

SHELLS.

Hartwig Collection.

- I, 1—Pterocera cenibis. West Indies.
- I, 2—Murex regius, varicty a. West Indies.
- I, 3—Murex rosea, variety b. West Indies.
- I, 2—Murex, variety c, d, e, f, g, h, i, j, k, l, m. All from West Indies.
- I, 2—Murex cornutus, variety n. West Indies.
- I, 3—Tritonia pilearis.
- I, 4—Buccinum glaciale. 2 specimens. Greenland.
- I, 5—Fasciolaria. 4 specimens.
- I, 6—Fasciolaria tulipa. 2 specimens.
- I, 7—Fasciolaria. 2 specimens.
- I, 8—Fasciolaria.
- I, 9—Strombus gigas.
- I, 10—Strombus gallus. Island of Tortola, West Indies.
- I, 11—Strombus bi-tuberculatus. St. Johns, West Indies.
- I, 12—Strombus.
- I, 13—Strombus lentiginosus. Phillipine Islands.
- I, 14—Strombus pugilis. St. Johns, W. Indies.
- I, 15—Strombus.
- I, 16—Purpura deltoidea. St. Johns, W. Indies.
- I, 17—Triton pilearis. St. Johns, West Indies.
- I, 18—Triton tuberosus, 2 specimens. St. Johns, West Indies.
- I, 19—Conus, 8 varieties.
- I, 20—Conus marmoreus. China.
- I, 21—Conus, 2 specimens.
- I, 22—Conus papilionaceus. Guinea.
- I, 23—Conus. Cape of Good Hope. S. Africa.
- I, 24—Conus mns. St. John's, West Indies.
- I, 25—Conus Proteus, 2 specimens.
- I, 26—Conus, 2 specimens.

- I, 27—Cassis testiculus.
- I, 28—Nerita pica. St. Thomas, West Indies.
- I, 29—Ampularia, 2 specimens. Lake Maracaibo, South America.
- I, 30—Ampularia, 3 specimens.
- I, 31—Bulimus.
- I, 32—Paludina.
- I, 33—Trochus coettatus. St. Johns, W. Indies.

Alumnæ Notes.

A MEETING of the officers of the Association was called the first week in March, and our Alumnæ will be glad to know that the plans for the approaching meeting at Commencement promise to make that gathering a most enjoyable and successful one.

It may be of interest also to our members to hear of some of the items which occupied the discussions of the meeting. Mr. CLEWELL informed us that a movement was on foot in the ACADEMY to assist the Endowment Fund ; a delightful operetta will be given very shortly, under the direction of Miss TRACY, the proceeds to be devoted to the Fund. It is very gratifying to learn that this Fund has attained the sum of $1648, and the Treasurer remarked while giving the figures that not nearly all the pledges given last May had been sent in, so that when all has been collected which, of course, will be done very soon, the sum will be considerably increased. It was suggested in this connection that any one desiring to give some large sum, say $1000, might have the privilege of naming the Fund, as he or she saw fit.

Several old classes hope to have reunions at the May gathering, the Classes of '84 and '86 being specially anxious to come together in as large numbers as possible.

It is the hope of the Committee to be able to make arrangements for a speaker for the meeting ; letters and papers of interest will be communicated ; the well-known Moravian Lovefeast will be participated in, and a specially interesting feature will be the presentation of the "EMMA MOORE MEMORIAL," spoken of in a recent number of THE ACADEMY.

From even so brief a report our Alumnæ may plainly see that no effort will be spared to make the meeting of '94 very bright and memorable. Let every member decide to be present, for, after all, the meeting of the old pupils around their beloved Alma Mater is the very happiest feature.

Alice RONDTHALER,
Secretary.

—Many of our readers will remember the beautiful avenue of cedar trees in front of the lovely Moravian graveyard in Salem, which is one of the most beautiful and picturesque spots imaginable. The following lines, written by Mr. John Henry Boner, a native of Salem, but now a well known poet and literary man of New York City, will be appreciated by our friends at home and abroad :

How Oft I've Trod that Shadowy Way.

Full many a peaceful place I've seen,
But the most restful spot I know
Is one where thick dark cedars grow
In an old graveyard cool and green.

The way to the sequestered place
Is arched with boughs that sad tree,
And there the trivial step of glee
Must sober to a pensive pace.

How oft I've trod that shadowy way
In by-gone years—sometimes while yet
The grass with morning dew was wet
And sometimes at the close of day,

And sometimes when the Summer's noon
Hung like a slumberous midnight ; pell—
Sometimes when through the dark trees fell
The sacred whiteness of the moon,

Then is the hour to wander there,
When moonlight silvers tree and stone
And in the soft night wind is blown
Ethereal essence subtly rare.

At such an hour the angels tread
That hallowed spot in stoles as white
As lillies, and in silent flight
They come and go till dawn is red.

—It may seem late in the year to speak of a plate warmer, but such is our intention in this item, notwithstanding the spring sunshine and opening flowers. One of the comforts of the winter just closing has been the plate warmer, placed in the dining-room at the beginning of the winter. It is a large zinc case or cupboard some six feet high and about as wide, and perhaps 15 or 18 inches deep. This is filled with perforated shelves, and in the bottom of the warmer is a small wood stove. This stove keeps the interior of the cupboard always warm, and plates, dishes and platters well heated. This is a luxury enjoyed and appreciated by all.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., MARCH, 1894.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

THE MEMORIAL STEPS.

THE center of attraction in the main court of the school grounds, during this week and last has been the work on the "EMMA MOORE MEMORIAL." As the great blocks of granite have been hauled to the spot and placed in position, one after the other, the interest among the pupils has been very great. In fact, nothing has elicited more pleasing comment during the year than this thoughtful act of Mr. Garitty's. The work has been done in a masterly manner; the design is so chaste and beautiful, and the idea of thus perpetuating the memory of a worthy pupil and beloved wife is so eminently proper that the thought naturally arises, "Why has this not been done before?"

We note two impressions which this memorial has already made: The one is the premium placed on the memory of a dear departed one. Had the record of this lady not been a worthy one at school; had her life not been filled with devotion to her home, and her days filled with acts of charity in the community in which she lived, it is morally certain that no memorial would perpetuate her memory in the old Park in her school-home. But because her life made the world better, and because it was one for others to follow, all unite with her husband and the school authorities in thus erecting this memorial which will remain generations unchanged. This object lesson places the upright pupil at a premium, and will aid us in instilling into the formative periods of the young lives in the Institution the fact that a good life is far more profitable and more to be desired than the contrary manner of living.

And the other thought is this:—that at a small cost, and in a modest and unassuming manner the memory of our loved ones (not necessarily departed friends) can be perpetuated. Hence we wonder that it has not been done sooner! For instance, would it not be a most desirable thing to perpetuate the memory of the first Principal, Rev. SAMUEL KRAMSCH, so that the date (1802) and man could be associated by some visible, tangible memorial; or, again, ought there not to be something in our beautiful Park, a pavilion we will say, built of metal, with tessellated floor and a fountain in the center,—something of this nature to commemorate the fact that Rev. ROBERT DESCHWEINITZ secured and laid out these grounds,—yes, is it not worthy that the man who could pilot the large school through the perilous times of the civil war should be thus remembered! How many of the younger generation know whose brains and strength, patriotism and time was put into the construction of the large and comfortable buildings which have for forty years sheltered hundreds and thousands of young people. Strangers admire the material and workmanship, and pupils enjoy the wide halls, high ceilings and ample stairways, but how very appropriate would not a memorial tablet be, perpetuating the fact that Mr. FRANCIS FRIES, Sr., had given so much of his effort and love to secure the results that we enjoy. No one can visit our new Theological Seminary without feeling impressed with the warmth of this style of memorial. So, too, the mind goes on to the number of faithful teachers who have given their life efforts to training the minds and characters of hundreds of young people, and whose real work far exceeds many in public positions among their fellow-men. Or, still further, are there not many more who, in real life, in the home, in the community, should be thus lovingly remembered by some memorial like that which Mr. Garitty has placed in the school-home of his devoted wife. Our buildings and park would assume new life and interest; here a stairway, there a tablet; here a fountain, there a pavilion; here a memorial case of books in the Library, there an artistic bridge in the Park; here a fund named for the individual, there a memorial building. In this way mother, wife, sister, child, would be perpetually associated with her school home; teachers would be fittingly honored for their untold works, humbly yet successfully done; Principals would be associated with the results of their plans and struggles; outside liberal friends in thus honoring the school and those connected with it, would bring to themselves the gratitude of generation after generation.

THE ACADEMY has long advocated this principle of loving commemoration, and as we notice the happiness the result of the effort brings to others, it feels that its efforts have been well made, and we trust the future will show a still greater realization of our desires in this loving devotion of friends and well-wishers.

SUPPLEMENT.

READERS of THE ACADEMY will find as a supplement to this number a blank to be filled out by or for some one who was formerly a boarding pupil in SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. The idea is to file these slips for the convenience of those who desire to know the present whereabouts of former associates, and as a matter of historical interest to the ACADEMY. If those who have not already filled similar blanks for themselves and all old pupils of their acquaintance, will fill this out and return it to Miss FRIES, they will confer a favor upon her, and possibly open a way for the renewal of old-time friendships.

"LILY BELL."

OUR readers will see elsewhere notice of the Concert to be given by Miss TRACY'S vocal class, for the benefit of the Alumnae Scholarship Fund. We most heartily commend this effort to the support and interest of our readers. In the first place the entertainment, "Lilly Bell," is an operetta of great merit musically. The vocal class this year comprises many fine voices, and the young ladies will give us the gem of the year musically. The scenic effects will be fine, the costumes attractive, and those of our people who recall "Laila," "The Twin Sisters," and other pleasing operettas in the past, will welcome this announcement.

But another feature commends the movement and should appeal to every Alumna—the fact that the proceeds will all be devoted to the Alumnae Fund. The young ladies are setting a worthy example in behalf of the Alumnae Society. Not satisfied with the dropping of a few dimes into the basket at the Alumnae meeting, they go to considerable expense in the matter of costumes, devote much time to practice, and thus hope to make quite a marked donation to the Fund. What we want to suggest to our readers is, that as a matter of patriotism for the Society, as a matter of encouragement for the young ladies, and as a matter of pleasure for yourself, come! Come the first night, come the second night! Come, if it is fair weather; come, if it rains! April 5 and 6 are the dates, and 25c. is the price of admission. Remember that if you hesitate to donate 25c. to the Alumnae Society, because you may think the sum too small, now is time to give it in the most graceful manner possible, and in giving the sum named you have the double benefit of aiding the worthy fund and getting the full worth of the gift in the enjoyment of the concert! We hope that every available place will be taken in the hall, and that the Alumnae Society may be surprised by the handsome sum turned over to the fund by this laudable and praiseworthy effort.

To the Class of '84.

Dear Classmates:—

Can you realize that next June will bring the tenth anniversary of our Commencement? During all this time I have cherished the hope that we would all meet again, and I feel that the approaching Commencement would be a most fitting time for our reunion.

Let us meet then at our Alma Mater and compare notes; and even though "the spirit of the old time should not come over us" the pleasure of meeting again will doubly "pay the pang of parting" we endured at Commencement, '84.

Yours sincerely,

IDA RAGSDALE HILL.

Arcadia, N. C., March 20, 1894.

—The full Commencement Announcements will be made next month, and as our paper will be printed a little earlier than usual it will greet you in time to make all necessary arrangements for your trip to Salem.

—Up to date of this writing the good health (and we may add the good conduct) of the school continues, and it is a source of great satisfaction to THE ACADEMY and must be to our patrons also, that such is the case. It is now two years since we have had a serious case of illness in the school.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The Choral Class is practising the "Song of Miriam" for Commencement.

—Mr. Sydnor spent several days with PEARL and RUBY during the past month.

—Miss JENNIE RICHARDSON has been formally installed in the 6th Room as Miss TIETZE's colleague.

—Miss LUDA MORRISON visited her home in Statesville recently, to be present at the marriage of a relative.

—Miss ANNIE MAY SCHOOLFIELD recently paid us a visit; we are always glad to welcome her in her school home.

Two hours were spent in rare enjoyment. We hope in the future to again welcome Mr. Williams to our communities.

—We acknowledge an invitation to the annual entertainment of the Washington Literary Society at Davis Military School, February 22.

—Little Reginald Clewell lay dangerously ill some time since, and for some days his recovery seemed doubtful. His life was, however, mercifully spared.

—During Miss FOGLE's recent illness Miss EMMA ROLLINS took her place for a time. Later Miss MARIA VOGLER and others attended to her duties in the school.

—The month of March has given to us unusually fine weather for the season of the year. The thermometer registered 85° on the 19th of the month and 86° on the 20th.

—A number of pupils are interested in the Dress making Department, and propose to make their own light spring dresses. The work is very skilfully and creditably done.

—The pupils have joined Mr. CLEWELL in strolls in the country during the early days of the month, and have always returned with rosy cheeks and well-whetted appetites.

—Miss CARRIE JONES' many friends will be pleased to hear of her improvement. We sincerely hope that ere long she may be restored to perfect health and to her duties in the school.

—Many readers of THE ACADEMY will hear with sorrow of the affliction which has befallen Mrs. Minnie Fagg Malloy, of Asheville, in the death of her father which occurred some weeks since.

—We acknowledge the receipt of a copy of the New Orleans Picayune, of the Carnival edition, profusely illustrated, sent us by Mrs. Anne Boyd Atkinson. Our esteemed friend will please accept our thanks for the courtesy.

—During the season of Lent Bishop RONDTHALER delivered a series of doctrinal lectures in the Home Chapel, in connection with the Wednesday evening services. The chapel was always crowded to its utmost capacity on each occasion.

—March 5th the Salem Orchestra gave their annual concert in the ACADEMY Chapel, and on the following Thursday an entertainment was given for the benefit of the Salem Literary Society. Both organizations secured quite a snug sum for their treasury.

—From a copy of the New York Times, sent us, we notice that Miss Evans recently gave a very enjoyable musicale in honor of Miss ADDIE LACIAR, who is visiting her in New York. Quite a number of musicians were present, and the occasion was a very pleasant one.

—Several of the ACADEMY pupils were invited to join the Home church choir in connection with the Easter services, and kindly consented to do so. The aid given to the congregational singing by the pupils is very great, and is highly appreciated by those who worship in this sanctuary.

—Among the rich treats given us during the past weeks was the rendering of Shakespeare's Henry IV. by the famous reader, Hannibal A. Williams. The ability of this gentleman is so well known that we need not comment on his effort. His interpretation was simply grand! The audience was select, the hall absolutely quiet, and —Rev. and Mrs. Poiet, missionaries from Central America, arrived here in Salem to sojourn for a time in our midst. The health of Mr. Poiet is not what it should be for the work in that tropical land, and we trust that renewed strength may be given him in order that he may be able to return to his field of labor ere long.

—Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL entertained the teachers at their home some weeks since. The real number of those engaged in the work of the school only appears when thus assembled. The good cheer flowed uninterruptedly, and a special decoration of palms, cut roses and other floral ornamentations betokened the special welcome accorded these faithful and successful workers in the school family. The evening was much enjoyed by all.

—The Calisthenic Drill has been very successfully carried on this year under Miss QUERY'S direction. The drill takes place every other day, and the very good health of the school is doubtless due, in part, to this systematic exercise indulged in by all of the pupils. Quite a number of the pupils have adopted the regulation suits used in all large gymnastic organizations for young women, and this costume will probably become universal within a short time.

—OLLIE FAIN writes that she is teaching music, has 6 pupils, and enjoys her work. She seems to be having a good time socially. KITTY FAIN and ANNIE SWANN are in Cincinnati, studying art, and are very pleased with their school.

—We are glad to see that LULA McENTIRE (Mrs. Leslie Clark), of Dallas, Tex., has not forgotten her former facility of composition. She recently wrote a very interesting article in a Texas paper, describing a meeting of cattle raisers in her section of country.

—We are glad to note the appearance of The Jeff, a monthly journal, devoted to the interests of the Jefferson Literary Society of the Davis Military School, of Winston, N. C. The general make up of this periodical is good, the different departments well officered, and we trust it will have a very successful course. H. C. Chedester, of N. C., is chief editor; J. P. Beckley, of W. Va., Manager, while the literary editors are A. L. Butner, P. M. Thompson and J. H. Pritchard.

—An interesting letter in the February ACADEMY, from Miss S. M. GULLY, of Clinton, Ala., excited quite a breeze of interested inquiry. The lady was at school here 50 years ago. We are always glad to hear from our Alumnae, and wish more of our friends would do likewise. We would be glad to know of Miss GULLY if her sister, AMANDA GULLY, who was here at school with her, is still living. They were both here in 1843.

—Through Miss TRACY'S kindness we recently received a donation of some half-dozen popular books for our ACADEMY Library, from Rev. H. P. Hodson, of New York City. The gentleman seems to take great pleasure in just such acts of thoughtful kindness. The books are :

Lorna Doone, by R. D. Blackmore.
The Coming Race, by Edward Bulwer Lytton.

Mystery of a Mining Town, by Walter Meredith.

Book of Fairy Tales.

Willie Reilly, by W. Carleton.

Daniel Deronda, by George Eliot.

—A very pleasing parlor entertainment was given on Friday, March 9, by the young ladies of the 10th room, in Annex Hall. Some fifty pupils and teachers were invited, and all enjoyed the half-hour very much. We give the programme below :

Song. November gave a Party.
ROOM COMPANY.

Recitation. Faith and Works.
PEARL ADDISON.

Song. "A Little thing like that."
LOTTIE THORNTON and the ROOM COMPANY.

Poem. Christmas Day. By AGNES JOHNSON.
AGNES JOHNSON, assisted by BELLE ALLEN and RUBY SATTERFIELD.

Violin Solo. Waltz.
LOTTIE THORNTON.

Recitation. The Bald-headed Man.
MARION SHEPARD.

Song. Katy-did.
MINNIE BARNES and ROOM COMPANY.

Dialogue. The Picnic. By AMY BURSON.
AMY BURSON, LENA FOY, ADA PETWAY and MAUD CHEEK.

Song. The Trio.
ROOM COMPANY.

—Our Fire Departments in the two towns have had a number of drills during the past months, and we have need to feel very proud of the excellent condition in which they now are. On one occasion all of the companies from both towns were out on dress parade. There were five or six companies, including steamers, hook and ladder and hose wagons, among them one well organized company of colored men. At other times the various companies have had drills at and around the School buildings, learning the "ins and outs," fitting ladders to the various structures, and so on. When the full force of one of the powerful engines, fed by the 6 inch water mains, with their tremendous water-pressure, is used, with the largest nozzle, the amount of water thrown is like a deluge. No fire could possibly pass beyond the first building, and with half a chance for the companies would never reach far even in one building before brought under control. With our night watchman, our electric fire-alarm and the three steamers, besides the hook and ladder companies, our towns have first class fire protection.

—The usual services preparatory to Easter were held in the Home church. The attendance at all the meetings was more than ordinary, and the interest very marked. The decorations for Palm Sunday were entirely of palms, including large and small varieties. The music was very good, the choir being assisted by the Salem Orchestra. As we go to press (23d inst,) Easter, '94, promises to be an exceptionally enjoyable one despite its early date.

—The school Park, under the stimulus of the recent weather, is already becoming a thing of beauty for another season. The "Dell" will soon be a favorite haunt for those who desire absolute quiet close to Nature's heart.

—We would call your attention under the heading of "Chronicle and Gossip" to the dates April 5th and 6th. See editorial columns for further particulars.

—Miss FRIES' history of the ACADEMY is attracting much favorable comment.

Alumna Scholarship Fund.

A Friend,	$5 10
Miss Mary Fries,	5 00
Mrs. John Fries,	5 00
Mrs. A. B. Gorrell,	5 00
Miss Kate Urquhart,	2 50
Mrs. Lewis Winkler,	5 00
Previously acknowledged,	$1633 28
Total,	$1660 88

MISS LOU SHAFFNER,
Secretary.

Subscriptions Received.

Miss Mary Stillwell, Pensacola, Florida; Miss Ella Siddall, Salem, N. C.; Mrs. T. H. Siddall, Salem, N. C.; Mrs. C. W. Kellinger, Norfolk, Va.; Miss Kate Urquhart, Milton, Ga.; Mr. S. A. Goodman, Sr., Tyler, Texas; Miss Pamela Jefferies, Omen, Texas; Miss Alice Bryan, Battleboro, N. C.; Mrs. J. W. Sherrod, Hamilton, N. C.; Miss Mamie Lewis, Montezuma, Ga.; Miss M. Jefferies, Home, S. C.; Prof. W. A. Blair, Winston, N. C.; Mrs. Minnie Laughenour, Woodruff, Cal.; Mrs. C. W. Vogler, Salem, N. C.; Mrs. L. B. Winkler, Salem, N. C.; Mrs. J. H. Tise, Salem, N. C.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only and embraces, under general date of entrance,—

1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.
If you shall please, if a special favor if earlier pupils of the Academy, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS. ACADEMY.]

*— I feel like one
 Who treads alone
 Some banquet-hall deserted,
 Whose lights are fled,
 Whose garlands dead,
 And all but he departed!*

1887.

- 5842 M. ALLAH GIBBS.
Mrs. S. S. Gibbs, Huntersville, Texas.
- 5843 TIBBIE WOMACK.
J. L. Smith, Mexia, Texas.
- 5844 ALVA K. DANIELS.
Dr. J. W. Daniels, Houston, Texas.
- 5845 JULIA MEACHAM.
W. W. Meacham, Anderson, Texas.
- 5846 JEANIE SMITH.
J. L. Smith, Mexia, Texas.
- 5847 MINNIE KERNER.
R. P. Kerner, Kernersville, N. C.
- 5848 SALLIE McLEAN.
Dr. A. McLean, Donoho, S. C.
- 5849 MARY McCALLUM.
Brown McCallum, Mineral Springs, S. C.
- 5850 FANNIE H. AVENT.
George W. Avent, Jonesboro, N. C.
- 5851 HATTIE SUTTON.
Thomas H. Sutton, Fayetteville, N. C.
- 5852 BESSIE HOLT.
John F. Holt, Caney, Texas.
- 5853 KATE O. MOSES.
W. W. Moses, Richmond, Va.
- 5854 NELLIE W. JOHNSON.
Mrs. S. E. Johnson, Warsaw, N. C.
- 5855 LILLIE J. ROGERS.
Mr. T. Rogers, Wiltou, N. C.
- 5856 MINNIE F. FARMER.
Pleasant W. Farmer, News Ferry, Va.
- 5857 NELLIE P. BRYAN.
Mrs. B. J. Bryan, Battleboro, N. C.
- 5858 HATTIE HAUGABOOK.
W. P. Haugabook, Albany, Ga.
- 5859 LIDA A. FAIN.
Samuel Fain, Mossy Creek, Tenn.
- 5860 ANNIE T. BROWN.
H. T. Brown, Anderson, S. C.
- 5861 ELLEN L. BROWN.
H. T. Brown, Anderson, S. C.
- 5862 IOA N. BLACKWELL.
Mrs. Mary Blackwell, Ruffin, N. C.
- 5863 LU CY L. TOMLINSON.
ESPRAN TOMLINSON.
Captain Thomas Tomlinson, Tate Springs, Tenn.
- 5865 ANNA M. FAHS.
LILY H. FAHS.
Mrs. C. F. Fahs, White Marsh, Va.
- 5867 ANNE E. DAVIS.
Dr. J. H. Davis, Stovall, N. C.
- 5868 CAMMIE M. BLACK.
J. W. Roddy, Rock Hill, N. C.

1888.

- 5869 FLORENCE K. BETHEA.
M. A. Parker, Raleigh, N. C.
- 5870 ANN ELIZA THREAGILL.
S. H. Threagill, Wadesboro, N. C.
- 5871 LILLIAN THOMPSON.
J. W. Thompson, Raleigh, N. C.
- 5872 LULA B. TANNER.
A. Tanner, Saluda, N. C.
- 5873 LILLIAN E. PARKER.
M. A. Parker, Raleigh, N. C.
- 5874 ADA V. EVANS.
- 5875 ALICE LEE EVANS.
S. Evans, Milldegeville, Ga.
- 5876 LIZZIE LASH GEORGE.
Mrs. A. E. George, Wenonah, Va.
- 5877 PATTIE R. PRICE.
Weldon Price, Athens, Ga.
- 5878 FRANCES FAILING.
Mis. M. Failing, New York State.
- 5879 NANNIE J. WOOD.
Thos. Wood, Rock Hill, S. C.
- 5880 WILLIE LEA LUTZ.
Dr. J. P. Henry, Greenwood, Miss
- 5881 MARY E. HOLT.
S. T. Harris, Henderson, N. C.
- 5882 MAG. GUNN.
G. D. Gunn, La Ville, Ga.
- 5883 MARIK L. WERBER.
Fred Werber, Newberry, N. C.

A FORM FOR REQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of—Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c

NAZARETH HALL,
 NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.
The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.
 Rev. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.
 Nov. '92-tf.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
 A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address
DAVIS SCHOOL Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western Railway.

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middleboro, Louisville. By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.
 Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address
W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
 Gen. Pass. Agent. Trav. Pass. Agt.,
 ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892—1y

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.
 Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.
 Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

Horner Military School,
 OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851
 BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.
 New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,
 Hot and Cold Baths.
 Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.
 Session begins September 1.
 Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
 Principals.

June 1892—1y

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country.

All the leading novelties, such as:
Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy Serges and Chevron Suitings,

in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.
 Also the latest novelties in

Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.
 We have a full new line of

Ladies Corsets and Underwear,
 which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS, has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.
 Phone 111. Phone 111.
 Jan. 1892.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

in connection with the
Norfolk & Western R. R.,
 via Walnut Cove.

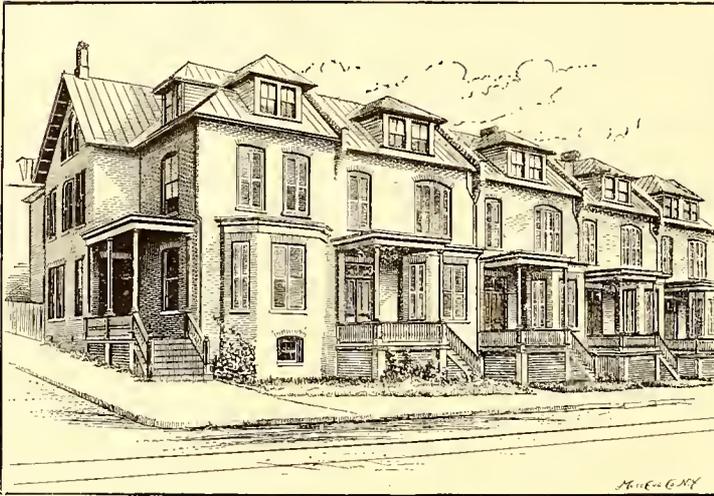

Atlantic Coast Line,
 via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH

between
WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to
 J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
 Gen. Sup't. Gen. Pass. Agt.,
 Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.
 E. B. KEARNS, Agt. N. & W. R. R.,
 Winston, N. C.

BOSTON BLOCK, = Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable.

Apply to FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N. C.
September, 1893.—tf.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnæ of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxidized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,
W. T. VOGLER & SON,
JEWELERS,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.
Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.
THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $5.00. Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,
HET ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

A COMPLETE ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT FOR $7.25
OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOD	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVE. N. Y.

S. E. ALLEN,
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
Tinware, Hollow ware, Glassware, CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.
WINSTON N. C.
Gray Block.

1793 Bingham School, Asheville, N. C. 1892
"Stands pre-eminent among Southern Schools for boys, and ranks with the best in the United States."—United States Bureau of Education.
Maj. R. BINGHAM, Supt.
Lieut. JOHN LITTLE, U. S. A.,
Prof. of Military Science and Tactics.
October, 1892.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boyston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth, 337 pages. Price $1.00. By mail, $1.10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English.
Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: "It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of a that is necessary in grammar."
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 80 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth, 325 pages, $1.75. By mail $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles.
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.46.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth, 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the excellent discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford pp. vi., 255. 1 mo, cloth, 84 cents.
"Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Herald.
"Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the after use."—Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hamden—Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature, Cassica Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cowper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverly, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Fufus Choate—Thackeray's Four Georges and English Humorists, Parts I. and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Eginhard's Charemagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odyssey etc., will be published.
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,
PUBLISHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVI.

SALEM, N. C., APRIL, 1894.

NUMBER 145.

1802—1893.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features: — the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies.

For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy.

BY MISS ADELAIDE L. FRIES.

In March, 1885, the ACADEMY received her first endowment. Hitherto it had been entirely dependent upon the yearly income, and this first gift was hailed with great delight, not only for its intrinsic worth, but also as an initial step in the right direction. [Other colleges have great endowment funds and are much benefitted thereby; why has the ACADEMY never been endowed by any of the thousands who have directly or indirectly been helped by her?] This first gift was for the benefit of the Art Department. From the beginning Embroidery and Drawing were taught by accomplished ladies, and specimens of the earliest cross-stitch embroidery, fine pencil drawings and water-color sketches are highly prized by their present possessors. Changing with the times the style of work changed, and cast drawing was introduced in the fall of 1883 by Miss TREGGER, of New York. She was followed by Miss LEWIS, also of New York, who, in her turn, was succeeded by Miss SIEWERS, of Salem. To-day the Studio occupies the fourth story of the north wing of the new ACADEMY, and the glass cases are full of handsome modern embroidery, while the walls are covered with well-executed drawings, crayon portraits and oil paintings.

In the earlier days Music, as well as

Art, was in the hands of the lady teachers, and through their efforts and the later professional services of Messrs. E. W. LINEBACK, S. D'ANNA and FREDERICK AGTHE, the standard was steadily raised, until, in January, 1885, it was announced that a regular course in Music had been mapped out, and that those who completed it satisfactorily would receive a diploma. Prof. GEORGE MARKGRAFF succeeded Prof. AGTHE, to be followed by Prof. SCHMOLCK, and he by Prof. SKILTON, who, with six lady assistants, now instructs the large number of pupils in Instrumental Music. The first lady professor of singing was Miss KATHARINE W. EVANS, who entered in September, 1888, being followed by Miss MATTHEWSON and Miss TRACY, the present incumbent.

Believing that many girls who could not teach would gladly avail themselves of an opportunity to become self-supporting, the Principal announced in December, 1885, that a Business Course had been arranged in which, for a merely nominal sum, girls might obtain a practical knowledge of Book-keeping, Phonography or Telegraphy; the standard being set so high that a diploma would warrant them capable of taking a place at once in an office. The way in which the classes filled up proved the wisdom of the plan, many joining who did not anticipate self-support, but realized the importance of such practical knowledge, and the fortunes of its graduates have sealed the success of the department.

In the same December a treasure was found in a distant part of a long cellar, in the shape of an old hand fire-engine, which, cleansed from the dust of years, throws a stream of water some fifty or sixty feet as readily as when new. It is a quaint little machine, putting forward the proud claim of being one of the oldest, if not the oldest fire-engine in the United States, and now occupies a place of honor in the school museum.

During the same month the ACADEMY Library and Reading Room was moved into its present quarters in the second story of the old building on the south side. The apartment had recently been used as a studio, and the walls of pompeian red gave a rich tone to the room. The first books for the Library were procured in 1813, No. 1 being a 20-page volume on Memory; in succeeding years frequent additions were made, the first Library being kept in plain closets ranged against the walls of the entrance hall in the old building. Thence it migrated to the second story, where it was placed in a series of handsome cases made by Mr. Edward Belo; thence to the Select Room; again to the first school chapel; and at last it reached its present place, growing all the while. Miss KRAMSH was the first Librarian; Miss STAUBER held the office for a considerable time; Miss ADDIE HERMAN rearranged and catalogued the books, and Miss LEHMAN, the senior teacher, occupies the position now. At first, it was a circulating library only; in Mr. ZORN'S time the Reading Room was opened and made attractive with newspapers and periodicals, and soon after its last remove a new closet was added which speedily became a favorite. The books might not be taken from the room, but in any leisure moment a girl might come, and, with her chosen author, ensconce herself in one of the easy chairs and rest her weary brain with a bright bit of fiction. A small room was cut off from the hall and reference books displayed there in easy reach of the students; and with rapid strides the Library assumed a busy, happy air of life. During the past year a third room has been fitted up, specially arranged for convenience in writing, and the Library is rarely unoccupied save at meal times.

TO BE CONTINUED.

For the Alumnae Scholarship.

Lily Bell, or the Culprit Fay.

IN our last number attention was called to an effort which was being made by members of Miss TRACY'S Vocal Class to materially increase the Alumnae Scholarship Fund by rendering the beautiful operetta, "Lily Bell, or the Culprit Fay." We can now speak of the effort as a matter of history, and a very pleasant item of history it is. To give a brief sketch of the effort we must divide the matter into three parts, — the advertising, the effort self, it and the results. The advertising was placed in the hands of the officers of the association. The following circular was issued and widely circulated :

Circular Letter from the Alumnae Society of Salem Female Academy to the Members of the Association and All Friends :

As has already been announced in the Alumnae journal, THE ACADEMY, and in other papers, Miss TRACY's Vocal Class propose to give an operetta in the ACADEMY Chapel, on Thursday and Friday nights, April 5th and 6th, entitled "Lily Bell, or the Culprit Fay," and the entire proceeds of which they propose to give to the Alumnae Scholarship Fund. These young ladies have gone to considerable expense in the matter of costumes, have given much time and effort to practice, and certainly deserve the hearty patronage of the Society and its friends. There are a number of reasons why you should encourage this entertainment :

1st. Because the Operetta will afford you an evening of refined musical enjoyment ; the Vocal Class in the ACADEMY is stronger than it has been for years, and its best effort will be made in this entertainment.

2d. The Operetta is a fairy play, and will be equally acceptable to old and young. The mere mention of "Laila" and the "Twin Sisters," kindred operettas, given years ago, will win many friends for this effort.

3d. The fact that you can make a donation to the Society, and still get the full worth of your money in enjoyment, adds to the attraction of this form of gift.

We will mail a number of these Circulars to "out-of-town" friends, and we trust they will visit our town in order to attend the entertainment ; if this is impossible, let us suggest that you cut a slit in a small piece of pasteboard, slip a "quarter" in it, mail it to one of the undersigned, or to the Academy office, and make the young ladies happy by your interest. The admission price will be 25 cents. No reserved seats.

In conclusion, let us urge you to attend, and if you yourself cannot come, buy a ticket and send some one else, thus helping to that extent. If a strong effort is made, by midsummer the Fund can be raised to a sufficient amount to enable the Society to place its first pupil in a position to begin receiving an education from the Society's Fund. This effort will largely decide whether the balance can be made up.

Mrs. D. H. STARBUCK, Pres.

Miss ALICE RONDTHALER, Sec'y.

Miss LOUISA SHAFFNER, Treas.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—Mrs. J. A. Bitting, Mrs. A. B. Gorrell, Mrs. Wm. M. Palmer, Mrs. E. A. Ebert, Mrs. Mary Lang Read, Mrs. R. L. Hendricks, Miss Addie Fries, Miss Gertrude Siewers, Miss Etta Shaffner, Miss Annie Pittman.

Winston-Salem, N. C., March, 1894.

A number of responses were received in the mail, and with them were the bright, shining quarters. Mrs. Edward Crosland (CARRIE MICKEY), Mrs. Hon. Wm. M.

Robbins, Mrs. Allen Morris (FLORRIE GIBSON), Miss CARRIE GKUNERT, and a number of friends in Winston-Salem responded with letters and used this medium to send a compliment to other friends in the form of a ticket. At the top of a neat little sheet of paper were two quarter-dollars, and below them this note :

With best wishes that 'Lily Bell' will be a grand success financially and otherwise.

Sincerely,

ELIZABETH L. WOLLE,
JENNIE C. SIEGER.

No. 66 Church St., Bethlehem, Pa.

The Twin-City Daily showed much interest in the matter, and aided the ladies to interest our communities ; posters were placed on trees and fences ; dodgers were distributed, and, finally, on the days appointed for the Operetta the weather was perfect.

The natural result of the combined efforts, described above, was to fill the hall, even standing room being at a premium. The audience was in full sympathy with the performance from the beginning to the end. The stage represented a woodland scene ; the sides and rear of the platform were covered with fresh cedar boughs, and at various points on the floor cedar trees were placed. Red lights flashed here and there in the midst of the green boughs, and added to the scenic effect. The costumes of the fairies were light and graceful, trimmed with gold and silver, and the crowns and sceptres of the two queens were ornamented with precious stones, which sparkled in the bright light. These gems were kindly furnished by Messrs. W. T. Vogler & Son. Probably no brighter or more attractive scene ever appeared on our stage in an entertainment ; in fact, it seems a difficult thing to imagine an improvement in either costume or execution of the operetta. One of the chief pleasures connected with the occasion was the excellence attained in the work of the vocal department. It is not only here and there that a voice is brought out, but all who took part in this effort showed marked results in their training. The operetta, as a pleasure to the friends was a success ; but as an index of the vocal work of the year was a more marked success. The story of the play is told in the following programme, used on the nights of the concert :

PERSONÆ.

Titania, Queen of the Fairies.....Miss MORRISON.
Lily Bell, her favorite.....Miss G. ROBBINS.
Thistledown, a rival.....Miss MORRIS.
Heart's Ease, a Fairy in Titania's train,
Miss CHEATHAM.

Eudora, Queen of Naiads.....Miss SCALES.
Silver Spray.....Miss BROOKS.
Incidental Solos—1st Act. Miss FOLLIN, Miss CHEATHAM. 2d Act. Miss COWLES, Miss KELLETT, Miss HEGE, Miss FISHER. 3d Act. Miss EDWARDS.

Chorus of Twenty-four Voices from Miss TRACY's Vocal Class:— Misses Sallie Adams, Nannie Barnes, Maggie Borum, Daisy Brooks, Dovie Chedester, Bessie Cromer, Eva Cheatham, Cora Cowles, Jennie Crouch, Daisy Crutchfield, Laura Edwards, Edna Fisher, Agnes Fogle, Birdie Follin, Ella Hege, Florence Glenn, Mattie Kellett, Ella Leitman, Mary Morris, Luda Morrison, Blanche Robbins, Gertrude Robbins, Nell Scales, Lucille Teague.
Accompanist.....Miss AMY VANVLECK.

SYNOPSIS.

ACT I. Fairies and Queen in the grove ; they leave the scene, Lily Bell remaining, confesses she has fallen in love with a mortal. Thistledown, a mischievous fairy, discovered her crime, and declares her intention to betray the fact. Lily Bell begs for mercy, offers her gold and jewels, but without avail. Thistledown rings the fairy bell and when the fairies have assembled the report is made. Titania, the Queen, bewails the fact that she is not a subject instead of a Queen, but at last passes sentence. She gives the culprit fairy three riddles, which when solved restore Lily Bell from banishment to the fairy home. Thistledown decides that she would like to try what this matter of love really is, and goes from fairy land down to earth.

ACT II. Lily Bell in the meantime wanders back and forth in solitude and suddenly finds herself before a large rock in which the Naiad Queen has been imprisoned, who calls to Lily Bell for help. She is instructed how to break the spell, and thus release Eudora, the Queen, of another realm. Thistledown is beset with a company of mischievous fairies who tease and mock her for having betrayed Lily Bell. Eudora and Lily Bell are welcomed by Eudora's subjects who help Lily Bell to solve the riddles. A fairy dance follows while Lily Bell and Eudora leave the scene.

ACT III. Thistledown has fallen under a cruel spell and appears with tattered gown and "goose wings," bewailing her betrayal of Lily Bell. Lily Bell and Eudora come on the scene, and all the past is forgiven. Titania's court is introduced, with the Queen bewailing the absence of Lily Bell. Three strangers arrive in disguise. They present three gifts, which really are solutions of the riddles ; viz: "Steam," "Telegraph," and "Photography." Thistledown is forgiven, Lily Bell is recognized and amid great rejoicing both Lily Bell and Thistledown are restored to the fairy realm.

The admission fee being small (25c) all connected with the operetta were surprised to find that the proceeds amounted to about $135.00. The expenses were a little less than $20.00, so that the sum turned over to the Alumnae Scholarship Fund was $117.55, as will be seen in the acknowledgement column. The friends will thus be pleased to learn that the sum added to the fund during the last sixty days, from entirely new sources, is some $400.00. This should encourage very liberal gifts at the approaching summer meeting.

Too much credit cannot be given to Miss TRACY, to the 24 young ladies who acted as soloists in so creditable a manner or joined in the choruses which were rendered so delightfully, to Miss VAN VLECK who rendered the accompaniments in so acceptable a manner, and to Mr. PFOHL, who supervised the stage decorations so successfully. One and all deserve congratulations, and the result of their work will be felt for the good of worthy pupils who will, in the future, derive the benefits of the Scholarship Fund.

King's Daughters.

THE closing meeting of the King's Daughters, which was held Sunday, April 8th, proved very interesting. The following account of the year's work was read by JANIE WOOD:

"The King's Daughters, which has always been of so much interest in the ACADEMY, held its first meeting shortly after the Fall Term began, September 10, 1893, and had held, up to Christmas, thirteen meetings, which were very well attended as well as very interesting. Much good work was accomplished by this faithful band and many hearts at the Home were made happier through the efforts of the Daughters of the King. The membership roll has attained to the creditable number of 53 members, and we feel that our labor has not been entirely lost.

"Our Heavenly Father has, we feel sure, abundantly blessed this little circle, which has so cheerfully worked for Him, and we feel that under Him we owe our heartfelt thanks and gratitude to our leader, Miss FOGLE, and to our faithful officers. It grieved us exceedingly to be obliged to suspend our weekly meetings on account of Miss FOGLE's illness after Christmas, but we feel that owing to her sweet counsel and advice many a stony place has been made smooth, and many a temptation met with courage and resistance, which otherwise perhaps we would have fallen under. Our dear President deserves many thanks for the faithfulness with which she has so cheerfully performed her trying task, and for the sweet dignity with which she has presided at a post which is so hard to fill to the approbation of all concerned.

Our secretaries have certainly performed their work well, and we heartily thank them for so cheerfully and willingly giving their time to make the meetings pleasant by the interesting minutes which have always been ready when called for.

"If there has been a single girl in the ACADEMY who has been helped and comforted this year through our efforts; if there has been a single burden rolled from any troubled heart; if any one has been encouraged and strengthened in their Christian life, we feel that our work has not been in vain, and we take heart and will try with new energy to make the last few months of the school year by our individual efforts yield even better results than those which have crowned our past.

"Let us not think that with the completion of our school duties we must also lay aside our efforts to do good as we do our books, but let us make this the beginning of lives of usefulness in the Master's vineyard, and try to continue the work that we have so bravely begun.

"There is enough sin, sorrow and woe in the world to employ all the time we are willing to consecrate to the Master's use, and even the smallest and least gifted of us would be surprised if she would only look around her and ask, 'what shall I do?'

"In May many of us leave the ACADEMY never to return, and before us lies the future which to some may bring joy and happiness, to others perhaps sorrow and disappointment and a life of patient waiting, but as in the harder lives many pleasures will occur to brighten the gloom, so in the happier lives griefs and sorrows will certainly come, and oh, let us be prepared to meet them with courage and say, 'Thy will be done.'

"Let us remember that we only have the one life to live, we may pass through this world only once, and so let us do all the good we possibly can. It is so easy to read a chapter from the Bible to some poor soul who cannot read, and we will never be the poorer for speaking a gentle, loving word, nor for giving an encouraging smile, or a tender pressure of the hand to one who is nearly discouraged.

"We have spent a sweet, pleasant year together and let us, when we part, remember each other in our prayers, and when we give a passing thought to those who have been with us so long, let us not deny them the benediction of a silent prayer.

When we part we shall never again be reunited on this earth, never again shall we be able to behold the cherished forms and sweet faces of those who have been our companions during '93 and '94. We shall each go on our separate paths, and those we are so accustomed to see about us will vanish from us as a summer cloud. We will leave behind us many who have won our hearts and affection, and it grieves us sorely to part from them. We know there are many we shall sadly miss who have so often comforted us when we were homesick or sad, and by gentle words have caused us to wipe away the tears from our weeping eyes, and look up to see the Father's face through the clouds of a present sorrow.

"Farewells are hard to speak, but ours will not be so hard as those who have no hope of ever seeing each other again, for we are able to say, 'God be with you till we meet again,' till we meet beyond the river in a brighter world, where God Himself shall 'wipe away all tears from our eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for in that happy land the former things shall have been done away.'"

SUE REYNOLDS,
Corr. Secretary.

—The Juniors arranged a spelling test some days since, and right royally was the battle waged. The hour assigned to the task was consumed, and still a dozen bravely held the fort. This number was reduced to four, and finally to two; the manner in which these two took column after column of words, ordinary words, extraordinary words, geographical names, words with silent letters, and words with vocal letters, led some members of the class to think that wet bandages would have to be applied to prevent brain fever. The test, however, was finally decided, the following being the result:

- 1st prize, "Ben Hur," to ELLA LEHMAN.
2d "Black Beauty," to PAMELA GOODMAN.
3d prize, "The Strike at Shane's," to INA SMITHERMAN.
4th prize, "Our Gold Mine," to LUCILLE TEAGUE.

—The stage in the chapel, which had been erected before the first society play, has been removed, and the usual platform alone appears.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., APRIL, 1894.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten number constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

Commencement Announcements.

WE are able this year to give our Commencement Announcements to our friends in full in this issue of THE ACADEMY. The addresses will be made by the following gentlemen:

Baccalaureate Sermon, by the Rev. T. H. PRITCHETT, D. D., of Charlotte, N. C.

Alumnæ Address, by the Rev. ARTHUR THELER, of Winston, N. C.

Commencement Oration, by the Rev. ROBERT STRANGE, of Wilmington, N. C.

Presentation of Diplomas, by the Rt. Rev. EDWARD RONDTHALER, D. D., of Salem, N. C.

It is needless for us to say that the above list of names indicates unusual care in its selection, and it would be impossible to find four men who would add more pleasure to the Commencement than the names given above. Each one has made his mark as a successful worker, and each one has earned the esteem of a wide circle of friends,—not confined to one State. Finally, each one is a warm and true friend of the ACADEMY, and will come with sympathy for the pleasures of the occasion, and determined to add to the pleasures of the week. We may well expect a rich treat of oratory this year, and the graduating class, as well as the institution in general, and its many friends, may well be congratulated on the happy arrangements for this year's Commencement.

The programme for the various occasions of the week is as follows:

Friday Evening, May 25, Concert by the Vocal Department, Miss TRACY directing.

Saturday Evening, May 26, Entertainment by the Elocution Department, Miss SCRIBER directing.

Sunday Morning, May 27th, Baccalaureate Sermon, by Rev. T. H. PRITCHETT, D. D.

Monday Evening, May 28, Seniors' First Evening, Miss LEHMAN directing.

Tuesday Afternoon, May 29, Art Exhibit, Miss SIEWERS directing.

Tuesday Evening, May 29, Seniors' Second Evening, Miss LEHMAN directing.

Wednesday Afternoon, May 30, Alumnae Meeting. Address by Rev. A. D. THELER.

Wednesday Evening, May 30, Grand Concert, Prof. SKILTON directing.

Thursday Morning, May 31, Commencement. Oration by Rev. ROBERT STRANGE. Diplomas presented by Bishop EDWARD RONDTHALER, D. D. Music by Salem Orchestra.

In addition to the above announcements we would say to our many friends that the hotel accommodations are now ample. The Hotel Phoenix is a new and large house, immediately west of the court house square; the Jones House (formerly the Quincey) has been refurbished, painted and made as good as new; Mr. Jones is a very genial host, and these two hotels will be able to nicely entertain all visitors. In the case of ladies who come without escort and who would prefer places in private families, we will be pleased to serve them if given notice of their wishes in due time. Application for the usual reduction of railroad rates will be made, as has been the case in previous years.

—We desire to call the attention of our friends to the fact that the ACADEMY is open the year round, and that quite a number of pupils will be in the school all summer. The necessity for keeping open the institution has been fully demonstrated and hence we wish to note several advantages which are offered to the public by virtue of this fact. We note the following:

Teachers who wish to do special work in the direction of self-advancement can obtain board in the school at a reasonable figure, can enjoy the benefits of a summer resort in our spacious park and large, cool halls, and at the same time arrange for work in any line they may desire, such as Music, Languages, Mathematics, Art, Elocution, &c.

Pupils who wish to prepare for a special class, or are deficient in one or another branch, may save a year by spending the summer months under private instruction.

Parents who may wish to find a healthy location in which to leave their daughters during July and August will find the ACADEMY all that could be desired.

Our reason for this announcement will be understood when we state that after keeping the school open a number of years for pupils and then declining to retain pupils for several summers, we have decided that the necessity exists for the summer arrangement we have just described. Correspondence is solicited.

Zebulon B. Vance.

THE death of Senator VANCE caused wide-spread grief over our land. His magnetic influence made itself felt everywhere, and in Washington, where great men may pass away without causing a ripple in the city's life, the universal sympathy and sorrow showed how much Senator VANCE was loved and esteemed. If this is true of Washington City, what shall we say of North Carolina, his native State, within whose borders he held a place shared by no other man. Born in the mountain regions, reared amid the log cabins and grand mountain peaks, he grew up to make his way, step by step, into distinction and into the affections of his people. During the late civil war he was both commander and governor. While Governor he showed in a marked degree that peculiar sympathy which he always displayed for those in trouble. Whether it was in providing for the wants of his soldiers, or caring for their families at home, he was always the same kind and sympathetic man. This won for him love as well as admiration. After the war he was elected to the United States Senate, remaining a member of that body till his death.

The special tie that bound him to the ACADEMY was his great kindness to the institution during the dark days of the war. He was always ready to aid in securing supplies, or to afford protection, and, under all circumstances, his friendship was warm and practical. A few years ago he was present at one of the Commencement occasions, and met the Principal who conducted the school during the perilous war times. The meeting was one long to be remembered, and many reminiscences of former days were indulged in. The ACADEMY will always be proud to honor its friend and protector.

The day of Senator VANCE's funeral the bells of the twin-city were tolled, and his old regimental band, with Mr. S. T. Mickey as leader, marched through the streets, rendering dirges and sacred music. They repaired to the Opera House where a very large concourse had gathered, to hold an appropriate memorial service. Addresses were made by Hon. C. B. Watson, Bishop RONDTHALER and others. At the same time loving hands laid to rest in Asheville, beneath the shadows of the noble old mountains all that was mortal of this great and good man.

—The ACADEMY Chapel will be closed during the month of May for any entertainments, lectures or concerts not connected with the school. This is necessary in connection with the Commencement work.

—THE ACADEMY desires to acknowledge the special favors shown us by Mr. James A. Gray, in connection with the Memorial Steps.

To the Class of '87.

After seven years of separation we desire to have a reunion of the Class of '87, and will be pleased to have as many members as can attend notify the undersigned. Letters have already been received from ten members of the class, and we hope to hear from quite a number more in answer to this formal notice. Address,

REBECCA MARKS BROWN,
April, 1894. Winston, N. C.

To the Class of '84.

Dear Classmates:

Can you realize that next June will be the tenth anniversary of OUR Commencement? During all this time I have cherished the hope that we would all meet again, and feel that the approaching Commencement would be a most fitting time for our reunion. Let us meet then at our Alma Mater, and compare notes; and even though "the spirit of the old time should not come over us," the pleasure of meeting again will doubly pay the "pang of parting" we endured at Commencement, '84.

Very sincerely,
IDA RAGSDALE HILL,
Arcadia, N. C.

March 20, 1894.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—New Virgils have been purchased and the faces of the Juniors wear broad smiles.

—The health of the school continues good, there having been no serious sickness this year.

—MATTIE CLARK paid us a hurried visit some weeks since, and we were pleased to welcome her to her old school home.

—Mrs. MORRIS, Miss MARY's mother, was present some days since, and took in "Lily Bell." We were pleased to welcome her.

—Miss MAMIE CLEWELL, of Baltimore, was present at the marriage of her cousin, GERTRUDE JENKINS, and visited her Alma Mater while in Salem.

—The Salem Philharmonic Society, under the direction of Prof. SKILTON, and assisted by the Salem Orchestra, will give a concert in the near future in the ACADEMY Chapel.

—We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to the Banquet tendered the North Carolina Association of Colleges by the citizens of Durham, N. C., at Trinity Park Inn.

—The Jefferson Literary Society of Davis School celebrated the birthday of Jefferson, April 13th, and kindly remembered the ACADEMY with an invitation. Mr. A. H. Eller was the orator of the occasion.

—A severe and unprecedented frost and freeze followed Easter, and as a result all fruit is supposed to be lost, while grain and vegetables were much injured. It was the severest cold ever experienced at this season, the thermometer standing at 17° above zero.

—The two weddings, noticed elsewhere, were very enjoyable occasions. Occurring on the same day the pupils from the school attended in a body. The decorations were very fine and the music beautiful, especially the Lohengrin Wedding Chorus, sung by 50 voices from school and town, under Prof. SKILTON's direction. THE ACADEMY's congratulations and best wishes go with these two newly-wedded couples.

—The EMMA MOORE MEMORIAL STEPS have been completed, and the landscape gardener has finished his work also, the bank has been built out to the steps, and very gracefully sloped, sodded embankments finished on either side with a geometrical curve. The walk from Annex Hall has been extended forward, in a direct line to the steps, a new walk, neatly gravelled with granite chippings, has been made to connect with the main walk in the rear court leading to the Park, and also to connect with the walk to Society Hall. We hope to present our readers with a picture of this beautiful addition to our school-grounds in the near future.

—The examinations in the special departments are now in progress, and the results are very satisfactory. Prof. SKILTON's class was the first examined; later, Miss SCRIBER's, in Elocution; then Miss TKACY's vocal, and, in turn, the classes under the care of Miss VEST, Miss SETTLE, Miss BROWN, Miss HAGAN, Miss GOSLING, Miss VAN VLECK, and Miss SIDDALL. Much progress has been made in all these departments of Vocal and Instrumental Music, and in Elocution. The unity of purpose existing among the large company of instructors has contributed greatly to the desirable ends gained, and the influence of the Musical Association has made itself felt in a beneficial manner.

—The Trustees made their annual visitation on Thursday, April 11. An effort was made to give them an insight into more than the simple "brick and mortar" of the institution. At 1 o'clock some of the brethren were present at the recital given by Miss VAN VLECK's pupils. At 2 o'clock the Cooking Department (Miss WOLLE, director,) served dinner in its dining-room, and this part of the programme seemed to be much appreciated. At 3 o'clock Annex and Society Halls were inspected. At 3:45 the Gymnasium was visited, and pleasure expressed at the progress made under Miss QUERY's direction. From the Gymnasium the party proceeded to the kitchen and bake house, inspecting the improvements made in these departments. At 4 o'clock they repaired to the Chapel, and there listened to an examination in Elocution of Miss SCRIBER's pupils. At 5 o'clock they visited Euterpean Hall and joined in the student's prayer-meeting. We believe the visit was a satisfactory and pleasant one.

—Mr. CLEWELL visited Fayetteville last month, and lectured before the students of the Lafayette Military Academy, Major Yerex, Superintendent. The Major had gotten out quite a neat invitation, as follows: "Complimentary trip to places of interest in Europe and America, under the auspices of La Fayette Military Academy. The invited guests will start on the pleasant journey from the Union Station, F. I. L. I. Armory, by the novel conveyance, "Stereopticon," at 8 o'clock, on Thursday evening, March 29th, under the guidance of Principal J. H. CLEWELL, of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. The L. M. A. Cadet Band will furnish music, and an interesting, enjoyable and instructive entertainment may be expected." A most cordial reception was accorded Mr. CLEWELL and Clarence (who worked the lantern and slides), and the spacious armory contained a company of probably 800 people. The lecture included a description of points of interest in Egypt, Palestine, Greece, Italy, England, and America. At the close of the entertainment many patrons and former pupils of the ACADEMY came forward and added to the warm welcome already extended. The night was spent under the hospitable roof of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, the parents of our Misses ETTA and MARTHA BROWN. In the morning of the following day Mr. Thornton, Misses BLANCHE and LOTTIE'S father, was visited, together with other friends. The occasion was a very enjoyable one for the ACADEMY'S representatives

—A very pleasing recital was given by Miss TRACY'S vocal pupils last month. The programme was as follows :

- Costa.* "No evil shall befall thee," Eli.
Misses MORRISON, ROBBINS, SCALES, KELLETT, CHEATHAM, CROUCH, COWLES and MORRIS.
- Mendelssohn.* "O rest in the Lord," Elijah.
Miss EVA CHEATHAM.
- Handel.* "Come unto Him," The Messiah.
Miss AMMIE J. SMITH.
- Handel.* "But Thou didst not leave," Messiah.
Miss MATTIE KELLETT.
- Haydn.* On mighty pens," The Creation.
Miss MORRISON.
- Mendelssohn.* "Lift thine eyes," Elijah.
Misses SCALES, KELLETT and CHEATHAM.
- Mendelssohn.* "Jerusalem that killest," St. Paul.
Miss SCALES.
- Handel.* "He was despised," The Messiah.
Miss MORRIS.
- Handel.* "I know that my Redeemer liveth,"
The Messiah.
Miss GERTRUDE ROBBINS.

—The recitals always form a very pleasant method of bringing all the pupils out in public, and a chapel filled with 300 companions certainly forms an audience which cannot be surpassed for sharp but at the same time friendly criticism. The 10th recital of the year was that given by Miss AMY VAN VLECK'S pupils, April 12th. The following is the programme :

- Piano Duo. Tripping thro' the Daisies...Sudds.
Misses MARY MULLIS and DAISY VAUGHN.
- Piano Solo. Berceuse.....Delacour.
Miss CARRIE ROLLINS.
- Vocal Solo. Could I.....Tosti.
Miss LAURA EDWARDS.
- Vocal Solo. Valse Les Sylphes.....Bachman.
Miss DAISIE SCHOOLFIELD.
- Piano Duo. Gaite de Coeur Galop.....Bchr.
Misses MABEL BUTNER and C. ROLLINS.
- Piano Solo. Fra Diavolo.....Smith.
Miss MARY OSTERBIND.
- Recitation. The Courtin'.....J. R. Lowell.
Miss KATHERINE HANES.
- Piano Solo. Menuet de Mozart.....Leybach.
Miss MAUDE CHEEK.
- Piano Solo. Spinning Song.....Mendelssohn.
Miss LIZAE BITTING.

—Recital No. 11, by pupils of Miss BROWN and Miss SIDDALL, was given in the Chapel, April 19th, at 1 o'clock. The programme was as follows :

- Rubinstein*.....Polka de la Boheme.
Misses ANNIE and MAGGIE MORTON.
- De Koven*.....Spinning Song, from "The Knickerbockers."
Miss CORA COWLES.
- Strcabbog*.....Bolero.
Misses MAY DAINGERFIELD, GERTRUDE STOCK-TON and AGNES JOHNSTON.
- Bohm*.....La Grace.
Misses BLANCHE ROBBINS and BESSIE CROMER.
- Recitation.....The Music Box
Miss DOUSCHKA PASS.
- Bachmann*.....La Capricieuse.
Miss MAY DAINGERFIELD.
- Strcabbog*.....Les Papillons.
Misses AGNES JOHNSTON and ADA PETWAY.
- Mattei*.....A Kiss and Good-bye.
Miss BLANCHE ROBBINS.
- Dwrand*.....Valse. Op. 56.
Miss BESSIE HENDERSON.
- Loesberg*.....Pepita.
Misses BLANCHE and LOTTIE THORNTON.

—A very enjoyable evening was given in the ACADEMY Chapel recently for the Young Men's Christian Association, under the direction of Miss SCRIBER. The "doll drill" was one of the features of the evening. Miss SCRIBER added to the many laurels she has already won.

Our Museum.

During the month we have added to our collection a skull, which is probably that of an Indian boy. In the side of the skull is a hole, which looks very much as if it were the result of a blow. Possibly it is the skull of some unfortunate captive, slain by a blow which crushed the skull,—though this can, of course, only be surmised. The following letter explains itself :

DOUGLAS, N. C., Mar. 27, 1894
Rev. J. H. CLEWELL :

Dear Sir :

I send the Indian skull I promised you. It was found upon the banks of the Dan River, the day after the great freshet in the river, on the 31st of July, 1890. The place was distinctly marked as a camping ground before the freshet and the washing up of the sands brought other evidences, such as broken pottery, flints, arrow-heads, bones, &c. If it will add any interest to your collection I will be glad.

With best wishes, I am,

Truly, your friend,

T. B. LINDSAY.

We have also been in correspondence with the Curator of the Guilford College Museum, who intends to spend the summer in Florida, collecting various specimens for their museum, and we hope to secure additions to our own in this way.

The continuation of our list of classified specimens is as follows :

CASE I.

SHELLS.

Hartig Collection. Continued.

- I, 34—Trochus Tuber. St. Johns, West Indies.
- I, 35—Turbó. Tortola, West Indies.
- I, 36 (a)—Haliotis cracherodides. (2) California.
- I, 36 (b)—Haliotis australis. New Zealand.
- I, 37—Paludina. (2)
- I, 38—Natica. (4)
- I, 39—Natica cannena. St. Johns, West Indies.
- I, 40—Pulla Striata. St. Johns, West Indies.
- I, 41—Dolium perdix.
- I, 42—Purpura patula. St. Johns, West Indies.
- I, 43—Helix.
- I, 44—Helix sudanensis.
- I, 45—Helix hortensis. Germany.
- I, 46—Helix. (Collection of many varieties.)
- I, 47—Helicina neritella. Jamaica, West Indies.
- I, 48—Helicina. (2)
- I, 49—Carocolla albitabris. Carribean S a Islands.

To be continued.

Alumnæ Scholarship Fund.

Mrs. H. T. Bahnson,	$	1 00
Mrs. J. F. Shaffner,		1 00
Miss Etta Shaffner,		1 00
Mrs. Dr. Bogle (Mattie Boyd), Midland, Tenn.,		1 00
Proceeds of "Lily Bell," operetta, by Miss TRACY's Vocal Class, (see list on 2d page this issue,		117 55
Previously acknowledged,		1660 88
	$	1782 43
Miss LOUISA C SHAFFNER, Treas.

Married.

HOWELL—JENKINS.—On April 18th, 1894, in the Moravian Church of Salem, Mr. ANDREW J. HOWELL, Jr., of Wilmington, N. C., to Miss GERTRUDE JENKINS, of Salem (Class of '83).

SAUNDERS—ALLEN.—On April 18th, 1894, in the Moravian Church of Salem, Mr. HAZEL M. SAUNDERS, of Sumter, S. C., to Miss LOLIEN ALLEN, of Winston, N. C., (Class of '93).

KUYKENDAL—RUFF.—On April 11th, 1894, Dr. KUYKENDAL, of Yorkville, S. C., to Miss DAISY RUFF (Class of '89).

In Memoriam.

Again the silver cord is loosed, the golden bowl is broken, and our beloved friend and classmate, JANIE WHITNER CHASE, on March 25th, 1894, left this earth for the paradise of God, in the 24th year of her age. After a short illness she died at her home in Sanford, Florida, leaving two little children, the younger an infant ten days old.

Our hearts are heavy at this the first break in our Class of '80, and we mourn our loss with bitter tears. Endowed with a peculiarly lovable disposition and great personal magnetism, she won the admiration and love of both teachers and classmates.

With bowed heads and reverent lips, though with aching hearts, we pray "Thy will be done." Thou gavest her to us as a precious friend. Thou has taken her away. Her death is our loss, but her glorious gain.

CLASSMATES.

1793. 1795.
BINGHAM SCHOOL,
FOR BOYS.
Established in 1793.

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESIDENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from prominent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANITATION are the BEST IN THE SOUTH, and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogues giving full particulars, address
Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Superintendent.
Jan '95.

A FORM FOR REQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of—Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c

NAZARETH HALL,
NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School for Boys,
FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.
The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1895.
REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.
Nov. '92-1f.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Fall Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address
DAVIS SCHOOL Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western Railway.

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville. By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.
Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address
W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
ROANOKE, VA.
June 1892—1v

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free. Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in color, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851
BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.
New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.
Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.
Efficient Instructors.
A Model Home School for Boys.
Session begins September 1.
Catalogue sent on application.
HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892—1y

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of
SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country

All the leading novelties, such as:
Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy
Serges and Chevron Suitings,
in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.
Also the latest novelties in
Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton
Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of
Ladies Corsets and Underwear,
which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of
LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,
has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.
Phone 111. Phone 111.
Jan., 1892.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

JOHN GILL, Receiver,
in connection with the
Norfolk & Western R. R.,
via Walnut Cove.
Atlantic Coast Line,
via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH
between
WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.
For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to
J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Sup't. Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.
E. B. KEARNS, Agt. N. & W. R. R.,
Winston, N. C.

BOSTON BLOCK, = Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable.

Apply to FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N. C. September, 1893.—1f.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2.50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in oxydized sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,

W. T. VOGLER & SON.

JEWELERS,

231 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,

Salem Female Academy,

SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91—1v.

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,

HET ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

ASUSSMANN 232 6TH AVE. N.Y.

A COMPLETE ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT FOR $7.25

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

W. E. ALLEN,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

Gray Block.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boyston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth. 337 pages. Price $1.00. By mail, $1.10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English.

Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: "It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of a that is necessary in grammar."

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 50 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth., 325 pages, $1.75. By mail $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.40.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth. 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logica doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the exact discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford. pp. vi., 255. 17mo, cloth, 84 cents.

"Most in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Herald.

"Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the latter use."—Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hamden—Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature—Classical Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Covell's Tale—Sir Roger de Coverly, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Fufus Choate—Thackeray's Four Georges and English Humorists, Parts I. and II.—Walter Besant's De Coligny—Eugene Ionesco's Chantageme—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Tales from Odyssey etc., will be published.

A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Bulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,

PUBLISHERS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '93-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVI.

SALEM, N. C., MAY, 1894.

NUMBER 146.

1802—1893.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features:— the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy.

BY MISS ADELAIDE L. FRIES.

IN the spring of 1886 a tennis court and half a dozen croquet grounds were prepared on the hill south-east of the park. Croquet and tennis, with archery, battledore and shuttlecock, had been introduced the previous fall, but the ACADEMY campus afforded too little space for their full enjoyment, and this addition to the Pleasure Grounds was received with great satisfaction.

The Pleasure Grounds themselves are the delight of the girls and the admiration of visitors. Laid out at the time the new ACADEMY was finished, each succeeding administration has helped to improve their natural advantages, thereby producing the happiest results. A flight of steps leads down from the campus into this thickly-wooded tract, which, on the hillside nearer the house, has been planted with evergreens and shrubs, among which wind numerous paths, while in spring-time the slope is blue with periwinkle, flowering amid its glossy leaves. To the left is perched the "little summer-house," heading a long stairway leading directly down to the brook. Over the neighboring fence is a stile, by which the girls may cross and visit the lily pond belonging to Dr. H. T. Bahnsen. There in summer time blossoms the wonderful Victoria Regia; whose great leaves easily bear without sinking the weight of a child of ten or twelve years; there the surface is gemmed with lilies, red, white, pink and blue, floating among their soft green leaves, surrounded by other aquatic plants and flowers; and from all this sweetness and beauty the little brook comes quietly stealing, under the fence, by the great rock, near the spring where the freshest coolest water girl ever tasted lies sparkling, through forget-me nots and ferns, to the bridge where the steep path leading directly to the tennis court crosses the ravine, and out into the sunny meadow beyond. Here and there the silence is broken by the musical splash of fountains, or perchance by the soft tones of lovers wandering near. Lovers! Only two girls, my uninitiated friend, but "lovers," nevertheless, for the day is past when your licke-krank wandered excitedly over the house until around a corner she caught a glimpse of your beloved form and fled as though you had a contagious disease, or when if you and she met unexpectedly both must turn and run, and call that love! Now many and long are the notes that are written, frequent the walks and talks, and when two so employ all the minutes that can possibly be spared—and some that can't—they are "lovers."

Beyond the brook the pathways climb a second hill, and there upon the summit stands the "big summer-house," where scores, nay hundreds, of girls have romped and rested, and feasted, too, on picnic days, and all about lie the woods untouched by a destructive axe, apparently a boundless forest, yet secured from intrusion by the fence, which, though out of sight, encompasses it all.

At the Commencement of June, 1886, the "ALUMNÆ ASSOCIATION OF SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY" was begun, with 46 ladies present. Just in this connection it is interesting to note in THE ACADEMY for May, 1880, that "a reunion of former "pupils presents so many difficulties "in the execution of the project that it "seems almost out of the question," yet determination and love of the school and of each other overcame all obstacles. In June, 1892, there were 452 names enrolled, and over $1000 had been collected toward a Scholarship Fund, [at present the sum in hand is $1800.—Ed. ACADEMY.] which when it reaches $5,000 will support at the ACADEMY the daughter of some Alumna who could not otherwise enjoy the benefits of the Institution. And the joy of those annual Reunions! Only those who have tried it know the pleasure of the anticipated or unexpected meeting with the dear friend whom we have not seen since we parted at the ACADEMY steps so long ago; and how tongues fly and eyes sparkle during the informal Lovefeast, which is in itself a sweet reminder of days gone by!

On October 10th, 1887, the Euterpean Society was organized, and a few months later the Hesperian. These two literary societies are composed of and carried on by the students, and, in addition to their other advantages, give the girls the rare and certainly much needed opportunity of learning something of parliamentary rules.

In May, 1888, Dr. RONDTHALER resigned the principalship to Rev. JOHN H. CLEWELL, continuing, nevertheless, to instruct some classes. The school had now become so large that more room was imperative, and, during the summer of 1888, Annex Hall was erected, just back of the "Bagge House," where Miss Lucinda Bagge used to live. The multiplication of buildings now necessitated better names than "old" or "new," therefore the "old Academy" was dubbed South Hall, the "new Academy," Main Hall, and the "Bagge House" became Old Annex.

Annex Hall is a two-story frame structure, 70x90 feet, in Queen Anne style, with roof of four gables and a deck. The first floor consists of a large entrance hall, two study parlors and several class-rooms, while the second floor is divided into thirty-six sleeping alcoves, neatly finished in native pine and oak. Gas is in every department, and bath-rooms complete on each floor. The parlors are prettily furnished, and the whole makes a very attractive home for the two younger room companies who are domiciled there. A covered walk connects it with Main Hall, rendering it easily accessible even in bad weather.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Our Museum.

In continuing the list of specimens which have been gathered for the Museum, we desire to call attention to a point which is one of the pleasing features of this department, and should appeal very strongly to our friends when they consider the question of donations. The point alluded to is that these donations form a pleasing remembrance of the kind giver. We preserve the faces of friends in the photograph album; the names are recorded in the autograph album; the affection within the home circle is cemented and the individual emphasized by loving gifts from parent to child and from child to parent,—the gift always recalling the giver. So, too, in the museum the various gifts will recall the persons who made the donation in a most pleasing manner. The ANNA L. OGBURN case is quite a marked feature, and this esteemed Alumna will be recalled to the remembrance of friends a thousand times by her kind thoughtfulness in sending to the Museum the collection which will be described in its proper place. So, too, the valuable case placed in our collection by Mr. W. H. Hall will forever associate him with the institution for which he has always had so warm a friendship. Thus, we trust, as time goes on many familiar and beloved names may be associated with the various articles or cases which they have placed within the Museum, for then they will aid us in our work, and at the same time help us to preserve name and friendship from generation to generation.

The following is a continuation of the specimens as catalogued:

CASE I.

SHELLS.

Hartwig Collection. Continued.

- I, 50—Carocolla acutissima. Jamaica, W. Indies.
 I, 51—Carocolla plicata. Porto Cabella, South America.
 I, 52—Delphinula.
 I, 53—Spirorbis.
 I, 54—Solarium.
 I, 55—Turritella imbricata.
 I, 56—Cypria tigris.
 I, 57—Cypria variolaris. (4)
 I, 58—Cypria.
 I, 59—Cypria arabica. Indian Ocean.
 I, 60—Cypria exanthema. Tortola, West Indies.
 I, 61—Cypria annulus. (2)

- I, 62—Cypria moneta. (3) Africa.
 I, 63—Cypria ovula.
 I, 64—Cypria carneola.
 I, 65—Natica histrio.
 I, 66—Natica peleronta. St. Thomas, W. Indies.
 I, 67—Cerithium. (2)
 I, 68—Scalaria.
 I, 69—Trivia.
 I, 70—Opercula.
 I, 71—Olivia reticularis. (Many varieties.)
 I, 72—(a) Olivia volutella. Panama.
 I, 72—(b) Olivia acuminata. West Africa.
 I, 73—Nerita versicolor. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 74—Spirula.
 I, 75—Buccinum. Cape of Good Hope, South Africa.
 I, 76—(a) Sigaretus maculatus. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 76—(b) Sigaretus haliotoides. (2) St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 77—(a) Trochus carneolus. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 77—(b) Trochus agglutinatus. St. Thomas, West Indies.
 I, 78—Nalica lactea. St. Thomas, West Indies.
 I, 79—Conus (small).
 I, 80—Bulla. (Many small specimens.)
 I, 81—Turritella.
 I, 82—Terebra Jamaicensis. St. Thomas, West Indies.
 I, 83—Fissurella. (Many varieties.)
 I, 84—Mitra granulosa. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 85—Crepidula.
 I, 86—Cyprea cinerea. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 87—Planorbis.
 I, 88—Limnea. (Many varieties.)
 I, 89—Columbella mercatoria. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 90—Marginella rosea.
 I, 91—Crepidula fornicata.
 I, 92—Cyclestoma.
 I, 93—Pupa incana.
 I, 94—Patella.
 I, 95—Serpula.

BIVALVES.

- I, 96—Pecten nodosus. Tortola, West Indies.
 I, 97—Pecten imbricatus. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 98—Pecten concentricus. Massachusetts.
 I, 99—Pecten ornatus. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 100—Pecten purpuratus.
 I, 101—Pecten.

- I, 102—(a) Asperulatus. Cape of Good Hope, Africa.
 I, 102—(b) Carneas.
 I, 103—Petunculus sericatus. (2)
 I, 104—Petunculus angulatus. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 105—Spondylus digitatus. Tortola, W. Indies.
 I, 106—Tellina carnaria. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 107—Venus rugosa.
 I, 108—Venus cancellata. St. Johns, W. Indies.
 I, 109—Venus paphia.
 I, 110—Venus reticulata.
 I, 111—Venus carneola.
 I, 112—Venus aphrodenoides.
 I, 113—Venus marmorata.
 I, 114—Venus mercenaria.
 I, 115—Cytherea Venetiana. Tortola, W. Indies.
 I, 116—Cytherea tigrina.
 I, 117—Cytherea maculata.
 I, 118—Cytherea lata.
 I, 119—Cytherea aspergata.
 I, 120—Amphidesma reticulatum. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 121—Lima Scabra. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 122—Pinna nobilis.
 I, 124—Spondylus regius.
 I, 125—Phasiennella rubens. East Indies
 I, 126— “ “ “ “ “ “
 I, 127—Area noa. (8)
 I, 128—Area incongrua. (3) Georgia.
 I, 129—(a) Area senilis. (6) With sea weed attached.
 I, 129—(b) Area transversa.
 I, 130—Chiton islandicus.
 I, 131—Chiton squamosus.
 I, 132—Chiton olivaceous.
 I, 133—Isammobia rugosa. St. Johns, W. Indies.
 I, 134—Tellina radiata.
 I, 135—Tellina striata.
 I, 136—Tellina tenera.
 I, 137—Tellina unimaculata.
 I, 138—Tellina bi-maculata.
 I, 139—Tellina maculosa. St. Johns, West Indies.
 I, 140—Tellina Fausta.
 I, 141—Cassis granulosa. St. Thomas, W. Indies.
 I, 142—Mactra Brasiliana. Tortola, West Indies.
 I, 143—Mactra ovalis.

To be continued.

Chronicle and Gossip.

--The close of the term seems very near indeed when the annual reception is tendered the Seniors and Juniors, the outgoing and incoming classes. The former numbers 37, the latter about 70. Thursday, May 10th, was the date, and on that evening both classes, together with the specials from Park Hall and a number of the Faculty, assembled at the Principal's House, where Mr. and Mr. CLEWELL had prepared for their reception. The house was brilliantly lighted, and electric lamps were distributed at different points in yard, porch and summer house. The orange and lemon trees, filled with fruit, together with the palms and other plants, looked very pretty, with the chairs and tables arranged among them. The company of 125 were soon at home, in room and hall, porch and terrace, and the time sped rapidly by as the happy young people engaged in conversation, rendered and listened to music, and promenaded back and forth. About 9 o'clock refreshments were served, consisting of meats and salads, pickles and olives, bread, crackers and salted almonds, coffee and chocolate, strawberries and ice cream, and many varieties of cakes. Those who are acquainted with the abilities of school-girls will have no doubt but that this part of the evening received a very considerable share of attention. Another hour was spent in social converse, and about 11 o'clock the company returned to the school, or to their homes in the towns. It is always interesting to note the growth of dignity which begins to develop in the Junior Class about this time, and at the same time to see the sturdy manner in which the Seniors condescendingly say by their actions: "Remember your place, children; don't be presumptuous!"

—Friday, May 4th, was chosen by the Euterpean and Hesperian Literary Societies for their banquet. The two societies, usually so jealous of each other (in a friendly way) on this occasion amicably met in the chapel for short exercises, and then adjourn to the dining-hall for the purpose of enjoying the banquet. On this occasion a few invitations were extended to the trustees, and to those who take a leading part in the preparations for Commencement, and also to the members of the Faculty. The exercises in the chapel began at 8 o'clock. Besides a number of selections, vocal, instrumental and elocutionary, the "Horoscope" was filled with remarkable predictions regarding the future of the members of the Senior Class. They are to fill every position (according to the "Horoscope") from the circus rider to the missionary, and from the woman's rights speaker to the angel of the domestic circle. Whether these predictions are to be realized time must show. Without appearing to be much oppressed by the dire fate prophesied for the several members of the class all repaired to the banquet-hall, and for quite a time rejoiced in the good things so liberally provided for the guests. Before dispersing a number of short addresses were made, and if all the good wishes expressed are realized, the coming year will be one of unusual prosperity for the two societies. The decorations in the banquet hall were unusually attractive, and different from those of previous years. In the centre was an immense bank of ferns and flowers, while a variety of potted plants graced various parts of the hall. The banquet was a success in every way.

--The past month has been a month of entertainments. Among the very pleasant occasions was that of the annual entertainment given complimentary to the Davis School Cadets. This year the evening was very fine as to the weather, and about dark the entire battalion marched down Main street, and were soon seated in the well-lighted ACADEMY chapel. The sight of this large company of young people of both sexes is both interesting and pleasing. Admiration is marked on both sides, the cadets seeming to deserve it because of their soldierly bearing, handsome uniform and manly deportment; the girls being equally worthy of it because—because—well, we are writing of ourselves so we must refrain! The programme was well rendered, and elicited the most hearty applause throughout. Mr. CLEWELL made a short address of welcome, inviting the Literary Societies of Davis School to hold one of their meetings in the ACADEMY Chapel, in order that the girls may enjoy hearing one of their intellectual battles, and the manner in which the cadets applauded the suggestion rather leads us to suppose that they will come. Lieut. Shipp responded to the remarks in a neat and humorous address. The programme rendered on the occasion referred to was as follows:

Foster.	The Butterfly's Ball. Miss TRACY'S CHORUS.
Beethoven.	"Egmont." Overture. Misses MORRISON and SCALES. Misses ROBBINS and MORRIS.
Recitation.	Benny and Blossom. Miss LOTTIE THORNTON.
Abt.	Boat Song. Miss SETTLE'S CHORUS.
Strcabbog,	Bolero. Misses DAINGERFIELD, GERTRUDE STOCKTON, AGNES JOHNSTON.
Gottschalk.	The Last Hope. Miss LIZZIE BITTING.
Schubert.	Who is Sylvia? Miss EDWARDS.
Mendelssohn.	Priests' March from Athalie. Misses OLLINGER and ADAMS.
Recitation.	Rock o' Bages. Miss MARION SHEPHERD,
Kullak.	Skating Song. Miss DAISY SPAUGH.
Raff.	"Day is at last departing." Misses KELLETT, CROUCH, CHEATHAM.
Behr	The Blacksmith. Misses CHEATHAM and TUCK.
Recitation.	Three Little Kittens. Miss PEARL ADDISON.
Abt.	The Merry Postillion. Miss MORRISON.
Ravina.	Minuet Miss WITHERS.
Marzials.	Go, pretty Rose. Misses ADAMS, BORUM, CHEDESTER, COWLES, EDWARDS, GLENN, JOYCE, LEHMAN, BLANCHE ROBBINS.
Recitation.	Too late for the Train. Miss REYNOLDS.
DeKoven.	O pro mise me. Miss ROBBINS.
Bohm.	La Grace. Misses BLANCHE ROBBINS and CROMER.
Foster.	Song of the Mowse. ACADEMY CHORUS.

—SALLIE BONNER has been detained at home by the serious and prolonged illness of her father. We deeply sympathize with our young friend who has just lost her dear mother and is now called upon to watch beside the sick-bed of her father.

—Pictures have been made of the "Emma Moore Memorial Steps," by Mr. Hough and Mr. Hege. The small size can be had for 20c., large size, 30c.

—KATIE BELL was suddenly summoned to Wilmington to the sick bed of her father, who passed away a few days after her arrival. THE ACADEMY extends its sympathy to her and her grief-stricken mother.

—Dr. RONDTHALER will deliver the sermon at the Greensboro Normal School Commencement next week. This institution has had a very prosperous year under the presidency of Dr. Charles McIver.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., MAY, 1894.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten number constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

Commencement Announcements.

The programme for Commencement is as follows:

Friday Evening, May 25, Concert by the Vocal Department, Miss TRACY directing.

Saturday Evening, May 26, Entertainment by the Elocution Department, Miss SCRIBER directing.

Sunday Morning, May 27th, Baccalaureate Sermon, by Rev. T. H. PRITCHARD, D. D.

Monday Evening, May 28, Seniors' First Evening, Miss LEHMAN directing.

Tuesday Afternoon, May 29, Art Exhibit, Miss SIEWERS directing.

Tuesday Evening, May 29, Seniors' Second Evening, Miss LEHMAN directing.

Wednesday Afternoon, May 30, Alumnae Meeting. Address by Rev. A. D. THAYER.

Wednesday Evening, May 30, Grand Concert, Prof. SKILTON directing.

Thursday Morning, May 31, Commencement. Oration by Rev. ROBERT STRANGE. Diplomas presented by Bishop EDWARD RONDHALER, D. D. Music by Salem Orchestra.

Friends from town who wish to have their carriages meet them at the close of the exercises, may order them for 9:30 o'clock, Friday and Saturday evenings, and for 10 o'clock, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. All the exercises, during the week, will be without tickets. On account of the difficulty of not finding place for the large throng of friends who usually honor us on Wednesday evening—the Grand Concert,—we have determined to pass this occasion over to the Alumnae Society, so far as control is concerned. The Alumnae Society has decided to charge an admission of 25 cents for the Grand Concert, Wednesday evening, May 30. It is believed that in this way the attendance will be somewhat reduced, and all who are drawn to the Concert with motives of real interest, will, for the first time in many years, be supplied with a comfortable seat, without undue crowding, and thus be able to enjoy what is doubtless the greatest musical treat of the year in a manner never before afforded our visitors and home friends. The income derived from the 25c. admission fee is not the consideration, but the first and only consideration is to offer to our patrons and interested friends the opportunity of enjoying the occasion. Had this expedient of passing the evening over to the Society not been adopted, it is probable that the excessive struggle for seats, which begins two hours before the concert commences, would have forced the authorities to drop this happy number from the weeks' festivities. But as now arranged we believe we will receive the thanks of our friends, and that a very enjoyable evening will be assured to all who attend. All other occasions are free to the public, without charge and without tickets of invitation.

—We are pleased to say that the special railroad rates offered our patrons in the past have been kindly given this year also.

The following letter from Mr. Turk explains itself:

May 5th, 1894.

Mr. C. BUFORD, Agent, Winston-Salem, N. C.:
Dear Sir:

Replying to yours of the 28th ult., we will sell tickets for above occasion from all points in North Carolina to Winston-Salem and return, on basis Tarif 1, Circular 5174; on sale May 23 to 30 inclusive, limited to June 3. The Southern Passenger Association has also authorized rates from points in their territory on certificate plan, one and one-third fares round trip, same as last year. We will issue circular in a day or two. Please advise Prof. CLEWELL.

Yours truly,
W. A. TURK, G. P. A.

Reduced rates are also on sale on Cape Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad, and on Norfolk & Western, at least from Martinsville to Winston-Salem.

According to the above letter our friends from points between Washington and New Orleans and as far west as the Mississippi river, in Tennessee and other States, will please secure from their local agent a certificate properly filled out, stating that you have purchased one full first-class ticket from the starting point to Winston-Salem, N. C. Bring this certificate with you to the ACADEMY office, and it will be signed by the Principal. When this has been presented to our agent at Winston-Salem, a return ticket will be sold at 1 cent per mile.

Please note the following points: In North Carolina round trip tickets will be sold, and no certificates will be needed. From other States the certificate plan requires one full first-class ticket to Winston-Salem; don't use mileage tickets, and do not buy to Greensboro, or any intermediate point; if your office is not a coupon office buy local ticket to nearest coupon office and then purchase through ticket and get certificate.

Make all necessary inquiries at once, and if your agent has received no information he will then have time to write to headquarters.

—Parents are requested to send money to our office to purchase tickets for pupils. Even though friends may visit us, in order to escort pupils home, it is necessary to leave money with us, since the large number at the depot, after the close of school, makes the purchase of tickets and the checking of trunks a very difficult matter. We have arranged to purchase tickets and to check baggage to the most distant points, at the school building. Therefore kindly remit money to us, and we will carefully attend to the matter as you instruct us.

—We repeat the announcement made last month in regard to hotels. The Jones House (formerly the Quincey) has been repainted and refurnished, and is now practically a new hotel. The price is $2.00 per day. The Hotel Phoenix is just west of the Courthouse, and is a new house, serving its guests at from $2.00 to $2.50 per day. The cars pass each of these hotels and run without change to the ACADEMY. In addition to these houses a number of private homes have been opened to guests at prices ranging from $1.00 to $1.50 per day, according to the time spent in our town. With these accommodations no one will be uncomfortably crowded; in fact, the preparations have never been more satisfactory than this year, and we will be pleased to furnish any desired information not included in the above notice. If you desire to engage places in private families, kindly communicate with us at once, giving date of arrival, length of stay, and number in the party.

Mendelssohn.....Caprice in A Minor.
Miss SMITH.
Hutchinson .....Pierrot.
Miss ROBBINS.

Correspondence.

—Our first is a letter from MARY STILLWELL, until recently of Anniston, Ala.:

I went off on a visit shortly after receiving the subscription card for THE ACADEMY, and was so busy having a good time I neglected to send in my subscription, but I send it now, for I enjoy the paper too much to stop it. Pensacola is my home now, but only arrived here last Friday. As far as I am able to judge it is an old-fashioned town, no electric cars or lights. Gas is used and horse or mule cars, but it is very likely that I will become fond of Pensacola, and it will probably be my home for years to come.

Though our Class Reunion is two years off I hope to be present. Hoping this year may be a very successful one with you all,
Very sincerely,
MARY STILLWELL.

—Our next is from MOLLIE HANNA ('76), of Calvert, Tex.:

Seeing an inquiry in the January ACADEMY for MARY W. SMITH, of Mexia, I would say she is unmarried and still a resident of Mexia. DORA COLE is Mrs. Connaughton, wife of a prominent hardware merchant of Calvert. I would like to hear of some of my old schoolmates, ROXIE BARRINGER, EMMA KEY, MYRTIE WOOTEN, and MAGGIE SMITH. I have been married 14 years and have two living children. On my return from the North in July I hope to stop in Salem and see my friends. I should be pleased to hear from any of my old classmates

Your old friend,
Mrs. E. S. PETERS.

—AGNES PARKER sends us a few lines:

I send you a package of Magnolia seeds so that you may raise some young trees for the playground. It is a very ornamental tree. I hope some time to send you more plants for the ACADEMY grounds. There were not many flowers there when I was with you. Please give my love to Mrs. CLEWELL, Miss EMMA CHITTY, and all of the teachers who were there in '88.

Sincerely yours,
AGNES PARKER.

Cofo'a, Ala.

LAURA LESLIE is also a welcome correspondent:

I suppose you know I am teaching, and you have seen enough of a teacher's life to know that it is a very busy one. I have the 4th grade in our school, and like my work very much. I think I was cut out for it. There are 38 pupils in my grade, and they are very studious for such little folks. School will close in April, and I shall feel lost. The approach of Easter makes me homesick for Salem. I enjoyed the service so much last Easter. The essay seems to be the all important subject of conversation now among the Seniors. LENA sent me a programme of the Hesperian Society's entertainment, but there were few familiar names in it.

Please give my love to Mrs. CLEWELL, Dr. RONDHALER and the teachers.

Sincerely yours,

LAURA LESLIE.

Concord, N. C.

—The Junior Class has reached a point in Geometry not attained by any previous class; that of making the five regular polyhedron figures, heretofore made by the Seniors only.

The Seniors have also accomplished more than former classes have done. They have studied Conic Sections, and are nearly ready to assist in the construction of a lighthouse reflector.

—The last programme in the regular course of recitals was that given under the direction of Miss SETTLE, Tuesday, May 15, the programme being as follows:

- Chorus. Boat Song.....Abt.
Soloists—Misses M. JEFFERSON and HENDERSON.
- Piano Duo. Valse, Op. 62.....Chopin.
Misses SALLIE and PAMELIA GOODMAN.
- Vocal Solo. O happy day.....Golz.
Miss JESSIE PETERKIN.
- Piano Solo. Gaetana Majurka ... ..Kellner.
Miss JENNIE MAJETTE.
- Recitation Her Letter.
Miss POWELL DOBSON.
- Vocal Solo. I once had a doll, dears.....Nevin.
Miss MARY JEFFERSON.
- Piano Solo. Pizzicati.....Delibes.
Miss MAGGIE JONES.
- Vocal Solo. I ask thee not.....Moszkowski.
Miss BESSIE HENDERSON.
- Piano Duo. Amaryllis.....Dressler.
Miss MARION SHEPPARD and C. CLEWELL.
- Recitation. Lost and Found.
Miss MABEL PETERKIN.

- Piano Solo. Gayposes.....Spindler.
Miss SALLIE GOODMAN.
- Semi-Chorus. Lullaby.....Chadwick.
Misses MERCER, J. PETERKIN, S. GOODMAN,
F. BARROW, J. MAJETTE, HENDERSON,
M. JEFFERSON, McFADYEN.
- Piano Duo. Bal Costume.....Rubinstein.
Misses LINDLEY and JONES.

Alumna Scholarship Fund.

Mrs. J. H. Clewell,	$ 5 00
Miss Bertha Dawson,	5 00
Miss S. F. Hunnicutt,	5 00
Miss A. Van Vleck,	1 00
Miss L. Van Vleck,	50
Mrs. E. E. Shelton,	5 00
Miss Carrie Shelton,	5 00
Miss M. Mickey,	1 00
Mrs. G. Porter,	1 00
Mrs. J. H. Stockton,	1 00
Miss Dora Miller,	50
Prev. acknowledged,	1782 43
	$1812 43

MISS L. SHAFFNER,
Treasurer.

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs. Dr. Bogle, Midland, Tenn.; Mrs. Dora V. Dunn, Raleigh, N. C.; Miss Laura McMickle, Edwardsville, N. C.; Mrs. R. C. Williams, Mooresburg, Tenn.; Miss Ava Stroup, DeKalb, Texas; Miss F. Meinung, Mrs. Frank Hege, Rev. James E. Hall, Miss Annie McCuiston, Salem, N. C.; Mrs. W. T. Gray, Winston, N. C.; Miss Bertha Dawson, N. C.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

—I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!

1887.

- 5884 LIZZIE E. KIME.
W. M. Kime, Liberty, N. C.
- 5885 ALMELIDA MCGREGOR.
Dr. G. C. McGregor, Waco, Texas.
- 5886 ANNIE T. CLREGG.
E. F. Clegg, Oniel, N. C.
- 5887 BERTHA M. HICKS
W. I. Hicks, Raleigh, N. C.
- 5888 SADDIE B. DUNN
R. G. Dunn, Raleigh, N. C.
- 5889 BETTIE M. COX.
R. L. Cox, Sedge Garden, N. C.
- 5890 KATE E. OGBURN.
M. I. Ogburn, Winston, N. C.
- 5891 DORA E. COX.
O. R. Cox, Cedar Falls, N. C.
- 5892 NELLIE B. CRAMER.
J. F. Cramer, Thomasville, N. C.
- 5893 LENA P. FIELDS.
Wm. C. Fields, Kinston, N. C.

- 5894 DAISY D. RAYNOR.
W. D. Raynor, Kinston, N. C.
- 5895 EVELLE B. THOMAS.
J. J. Thomas, Raleigh, N. C.
- 5896 SARAH C. CHEATHAM.
J. T. Cheatham, Oxford, N. C.
- 5897 RACHEL C. SIMS.
H. H. Sims, Durham, N. C.
- 5898 LILLIE FLEMING.
R. H. Fleming, Creedmore, N. C.
- 5899 MAMIE W. WADDELL.
5900 KATHERINE S. WADDELL.
D. C. Waddell, Asheville, N. C.
- 5901 MARTHA G. JEFFREYS.
Walter Jeffreys, Neuse, N. C.
- 5902 MATTIE M. WILLIAMS.
Major J. M. Crenshaw, Wake Forest, N. C.
- 5903 LUCILE ARMFIELD.
W. J. Armfield, High Point, N. C.
- 5904 ADDIE E. LINEBACK.
Rev. E. P. Lineback, Bethania, N. C.
- 5905 BELLE M. KING.
Rebecca B. King, Dalton, Ga.
- 5906 JULIA B. SMITH.
Dr. E. B. Smith, Greenville, Tenn.
- 5907 MATTIE G. FAIN.
S. N. Fain, Mossy Creek, Tenn.
- 5908 HEYTTIE JARNAGIN.
Milton P. Jarnagin, Mossy Creek, Tenn.
- 5909 LIZZIE DELL SUTTON.
T. H. Sutton, Fayetteville, N. C.
- 5910 EMMA LEE WELLS.
John D. Wells, Wilson, N. C.
- 5911 ANNIE BELLE MAY.
W. M. Frew, Rock Hill, N. C.
- 5912 FRANK L. CREIGHT.
W. B. Creight, Winnsboro, N. C.
- 5913 LIDA DAVID.
Dr. W. J. David, Bennettsville, S. C.
- 5914 LOU R. WINSTEAD.
H. A. Winstead, Toisnot, N. C.
- 5915 ANNE L. BOURDEAUX.
R. M. Bourdeaux, Meridian, Miss.
- 5916 MARY R. JEFFRIES.
William Jeffries, Home, S. C.
- 5817 ORA A. KENNEDY.
C. A. Kennedy (Uncle), Mexia, Tex.
- 5918 JULIA L. CRAIG.
J. H. Craig, Gastonia, N. C.
- 5919 VIOLA E. GUNTER.
A. C. Gunter, Gastonia, N. C.
- 5920 EMMA E. ILLER.
R. L. Iler (Guardian), Shreveport, La.
- 5921 THERESA C. PACK.
S. A. Pace, Corsicana, Tex.
- 5922 UNA T. EPES.
Dr. J. W. Epes, Apes, Alabama.
- 5923 MINTA L. HICKS.
E. S. Hicks, Center, Texas.
- 5924 SADIE E. SITTING.
Franklin Sittig, Houston, Texas.
- 5925 REBA M. CAMPBELL.
E. W. Sewall, Houston, Tex.
- 5926 ANNIE L. STUART.
Judge E. G. Stuart, Marlin, Tex.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of—Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The kinds which appear more directly for support of this fund are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c

NAZARETH HALL,
NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.
The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.
REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

Nov. '92-1f.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address:

DAVIS SCHOOL Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western Railway.

A new route to Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk. Only one change of cars from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Only one change of cars from Bristol, Morristown, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis. Only one change of cars from Bluefield, Big Stone Gap, Middlesboro, Louisville. By the completion of the Winston-Salem division (122 miles Roanoke to Winston, N. C.) the Norfolk & Western R. R. offers patrons of Salem Female Academy a quick and direct route from the South and West and from the North and East.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from New York and Washington.

Pullman Sleepers to Roanoke from Memphis and from New Orleans.

For further information, for maps, schedules &c., address

W. B. BEVILL, ALLEN HULL,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892—1v

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., New York, 361 BROADWAY.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., LL.D.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.
Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.
Session begins September 1.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892—1y

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.

Are now displaying the handsomest line of SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS ever shown in this section of the country

All the leading novelties, such as:
Bedford Cords, Plain and Fancy

Serges and Chevron Suitings,
in all the new shades. Also a full line of Suit Patterns from $7.50 Up.

Also the latest novelties in

Ginghams, Brocaded Satines, Cotton Pongees, Pineapple Tissue Cloth, &c.

We have a full new line of
Ladies Corsets and Underwear,

which we are offering at Low Prices.

Our Spring stock of
LADIES SHOES AND SLIPPERS,

has arrived and they are worth while looking at before buying elsewhere.

Special attention paid to Mail Orders.
ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

Leaders of Fashions and Low Prices.
Phone 111. Phone 111.
Jan., 1892.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

JOHN GILL, Receiver,
in connection with the

Norfolk & Western R. R.,
via Walnut Cove.

Atlantic Coast Line,
via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH

between
WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to

J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Supt. Gen. Pres. Agt.,
Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.

E. B. KEAR, S. Agt. N. & W. R. R.,
Winston, N. C.

1793. 1894

BINGHAM SCHOOL,
FOR BOYS.

Established in 1793.

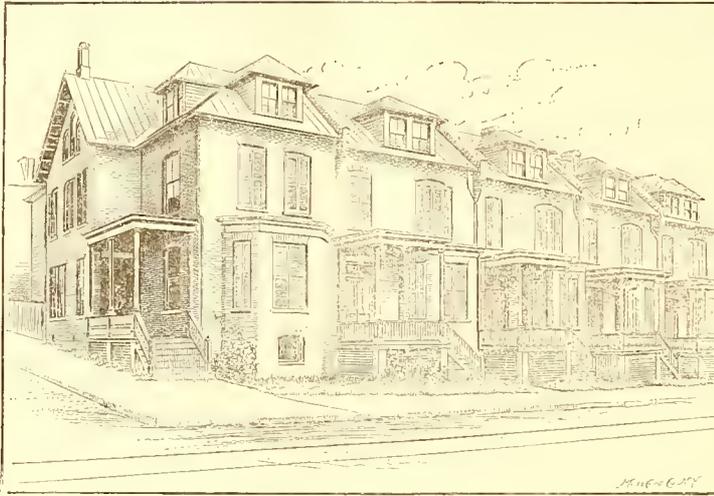

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESIDENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from prominent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANITATION are the BEST IN THE SOUTH, and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogue giving full particulars, address

Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Superintendent.

BOSTON BLOCK, = Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable.
Apply to
September, 1893.—tf. FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N. C.

To the Patrons and Members of the Alumnae of Salem Female Academy.

This cut, which is the exact size of the Spoon, represents the new STERLING SILVER SOUVENIR SPOON of the Salem Female Academy.

On the handle of the Spoon is represented the first building of the institution, which was built in 1802. In the bowl of the Spoon is represented the new buildings as they are at present.

No doubt this Spoon will prove very interesting to you as a Souvenir of this famous Institution.

If you desire to have one we will be pleased to send you one prepaid upon receipt of the price of the Spoon, $2 50.

They are made with the finest of workmanship, in polished sterling silver only.

Very respectfully,
W. T. VOGLER & SON,
JEWELERS,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

Or address, if you prefer,
Salem Female Academy,
SALEM, N. C.

Sept. '91—1v.

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to you on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,
234 Main St., Salem, N. C.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	.50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS
A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N. Y.

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

Z. E. ALLEN.

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Tinware, Hollow Ware, Glassware,

CROCKERY AND HARDWARE.

WINSTON N. C.

Gray Block.

NEW SCHOOL BOOKS

Published by Messrs. Harper & Brothers.

The Foundations of Rhetoric.

By ADAMS SHERMAN HILL, Boyston, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth. 337 pages. Price $1 00. By mail, $1.10. It is evident from the large number of teachers who have decided at first sight to introduce this book into their classes, that it will be a universal favorite in the schools. It is particularly recommended as an authority to all who wish to use correct English.
Rev. EDWARD EVERETT HALE writes of it to the author: 'It will not do for me to say again that the book is as entertaining as a novel; you would say that I repeat myself. But in truth I find it so. And I carry it about the house, reading scraps to admiring listeners. I think the first twenty-four pages make the best statement I ever saw of a that is necessary in grammar.'
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 50 cents.

The Principles of Ethics.

By BORDEN P. BOWNE, Professor of Philosophy in Boston University. 8vo, cloth., 325 pages, $1.75. By mail $1.89. This work is designed to be not so much a detailed discussion of specific duties and virtues as an introduction to fundamental moral ideas and principles.
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of $1.40.

The Elements of Deductive Logic. (Ready in January.)

By NOAH K. DAVIS, Prof. of Moral Philosophy, University of Virginia. 12mo, cloth. 208 pages. This book is designed as a text-book for undergraduates. It comprises the body of approved logical doctrine, so that in a limited time a student may acquire a rounded knowledge of the fundamental forms of thought, be profited by the exact discipline of the study, and prepared for the pursuit of the philosophical sciences.

Johnson's English Words.

An Elementary Study of Derivations. By CHARLES F. JOHNSON, Professor of English Literature, Trinity College, Hartford, Conn. pp. vi., 255. 12mo, cloth, 84 cents.
"Modest in size, but packed from cover to cover with information about the history of words used in the English of to-day."—Rochester Herald.
"Pretty certain to lead the way to a more serious study of our language, not only in the school but in the home circle as well, its modest size and untechnical character strongly commending it for the utter use."—Southern Educator, Durham, N. C.
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 60 cents.

Harper's School Classics.

Under this title Messrs. Harper & Brothers are issuing a series of volumes of convenient shape and size for supplementary reading at uniform price of 30 cents. All teachers interested in getting good reading matter for their classes are invited to acquaint themselves with this series. The following numbers are now ready: Oliver Cromwell—Addison—Lord Clive—Hamden—Burleigh—Machiavelli—Walpole—William Pitt—Primer of German Literature—Primer of Spanish Literature—Primer of American Literature—Primer of English Literature—Romance Period—Primer of English Literature—Cassia Period—Primer of English Literature, Modern Period—Cowper's Task—Sir Roger de Coverly, 16mo, cloth, per volume, 30 cents; and early in the new year Macaulay's Warren Hastings—Frederick the Great—Samuel Johnson and Lord Bacon—Whipple's Rufus Choate—Thackeray's Four Georges and English Humanists, Parts I. and II.—Walter Besant's, De Coligny—Egmond's Charentagne—Lamb's Tales from Ulysses—Saintsbury's Primer of French Literature—Cooper's Tales from Euripides—Fables from Odysseus etc., will be published.
A sample copy will be sent to any teacher on receipt of 25 cents.

Write for Educational Catalogue and Illustrated Rulletin of Text-Books, or for information regarding any branch of High School and College Text-Books in which you may be interested.

HARPER & BROTHERS,
PUBLISHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '93-13.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVI.

SALEM, N. C., JUNE, 1894.

NUMBER 148.

Salem Female Academy.

IF you have a daughter to educate the following points will be of interest to you, even though you may not decide to use our Institution as a school-home for your child. Many mistakes are made in the methods of education, and these mistakes influence an entire life-time in their results. The ACADEMY has a record for having done much good in the forming and shaping of the characters of the young people placed under its care in such a manner as to produce the best results as to intellectual ability, also in gaining the highest standing in Music, Art and the accomplishments, and, finally, in fashioning the finest and noblest types of character. We wish, therefore, to show you briefly what are our methods of work.

SCHOLASTIC COURSE.

We believe that to take an elevated position in life a lady needs as much intellectual power as she can possibly secure. Hence our Preparatory Department is careful and thorough, leading the class up as a unit to the College Course. The College Course, in its turn, is not split up into a score of mutilated and weakened special departments, but each pupil who strives to earn a diploma is given a well-rounded course in Mathematics, the Languages, Natural Science and in Literature. These four pillars hold up the structure of a well-developed mind, and a well-developed mind is needed to make a success of life, whether at home or as a teacher, whether in the midst of riches or in limited circumstances.

SPECIAL SCHOOLS.

Side by side with the main College Course are placed the various special schools, which give to the pupils the opportunity of securing the so-called accomplishments, or the more practical arts. Our space is so limited that it is impossible to describe these various special departments, therefore we will only state that each department is under the supervision of a specialist, and the 32 Professors and Teachers enable us to accomplish the most satisfactory results. The following special departments are in successful operation:

Music—Piano, Vocal, Violin, Guitar, Mandolin, Chorus Work, &c.

Art—Drawing, Painting, Portrait Work, and kindred studies.

Commercial—Shorthand, Type Writing, Book-Keeping, Telegraphy, prepares pupils for office-work.

Industrial—Sewing, Dress-Making, Embroidery, Cooking, prepares for home life.

Languages—Both in Class and Private Work in Latin, Greek, French and German.

Elocution—In its various branches.

Normal and Post Graduate Work—As pupils may arrange.

DISCIPLINE.

We have a large faculty (one teacher to every ten pupils) and hence the best home care and oversight are given. We believe that while at school the mind should be given entirely to school work, hence all diversions and recreations are under the guidance of the Faculty. The character and disposition of each pupil is dealt with as her special needs demand. No sweeping general rules, which suit no one in particular, exist in the school. Religious instruction is deep and earnest, but absolutely non-sectarian.

LOCATION.

The climate and topography could not have been more happily chosen. Midway between the cold North and the more enervating South, just on the foothills, where from mountain section or lowland, all are safe, the ACADEMY stands. For two years we have not had a case of serious illness, and in Salem, with a population of 5000 people, there was only one death during the past three Spring months. These facts tell the whole story.

NUMBERS.

Numbers are not always a criterion of success, but they generally indicate the confidence of the public. Hence we point to our Catalogue list of 345 names with some degree of pride, since it is quite a satisfactory record when we consider the so-called hard times.

EXPERIENCE.

The nearly one hundred years of our history has given to our school an accumulation of experience which serves well the interests of present patrons. That this accumulated experience is worth much is shown by the fact that in many instances the ACADEMY has retained the patronage of families through four generations, and in several instances more than 60 members of certain families, through several generations, have registered at the ACADEMY.

The above points are submitted as a matter of satisfaction to our friends and Alumnae, and for the consideration of those who may contemplate sending daughters to us in the future.

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.
Salem, N. C.

Commencement, 1894.

THE sands in the hour-glass have run down; the pendulum gradually growing slower and more measured in its vibrations has stopped; the wheel turned more and more slowly and finally moved no more; the year 1893-'94 is at an end; its experiences are no longer living, changing events, but are matters of history; the Class of '94 are Alumnae.—Commencement, '94, has come and gone. Sitting in quiet halls and deserted rooms the ACADEMY writer bites the end of the quill and wonders how the story of the week can best be told to our many readers. Well, we will lay down two guides, and between these we will pass. On the one side we will introduce all of the programmes in full, and on the other we will endeavor to tell the story of the Commencement season in plain, unadorned language. The study of the programme will enable the critical reader to test our work, while the general reader can glance over the article, skip the programmes and in a few moments have the general idea of what transpired during the closing week of the school year.

The exercises were held in the Moravian church and Academy Chapel. The front of the church was covered with a platform, rising in tiers, on which the school was seated. The weather was fine, even the one or two occasions which were accompanied with showers seemed to have lost nothing by this fact. The numbers were large; from our towns the registered pupils were more numerous than usual, and the partial list given elsewhere will show how large was the company of friends from a distance. We are accustomed to see large numbers at Commencement, but this year eclipsed the record of all previous years. Too much praise can not be given to Mr. A. A. Spough and his corps of efficient and gentlemanly ushers, who cared so tirelessly for the comfort of our guests. At no time during the entire week was there the least confusion or disorder, and we have never been able to say this in every respect in regard to any previous Commencement. The exercises on the various occasions were representative of the general work of the School, including beginners and medium as well as advanced workers. In examining the programmes this fact must be borne in mind.

The first occasion was the concert given under Miss TRACY's direction, and while it was called the Vocal Concert it really included selections from the Instrumental and Elocution departments as well. The Vocal Department has been in the hands of Miss TRACY and Miss SETTLE during the past year, with Prof. SKILTON as Chorus Director. Good work has been done; some of the more developed voices have been admirably finished; other voices have been "discovered," and promise good things for the future; all who have studied vocal music have been greatly benefited. The programme of Miss TRACY's evening, Friday, May 25th, was as follows:

Metra .....	Summer Fancies.
	CHORUS CLASS.
Rossini .....	Overture "Tancredi."
Misses CARRIE LINEBACK, ADA FOGLE and CORNELIA LINEBACK.
Marchetti .....	Holy Redeemer.
Misses SCALES, B. ROBBINS, F. GLENN, CROUCH, D. CRUTCHFIELD, CHEATHAM, COWLES.
Roeckel .....	Gavotte.
Misses IDA MILLER and BESSIE GRAY.
" CARO BUNTON and BERTHA SHELTON.
Parker .....	Hark, to the Mandoline.
Misses JOYCE and CHEATHAM.
Koelling .....	Semper Paratus.
Misses F. GLENN and CHEDESTER.
Visetti .....	La Diva.
Miss KELLETT.
Paderewski .....	Minuet.
Miss BITTING.
Vincent .....	Merry June.
Misses FISHER, FOGLE, CHEDESTER, BORUM, KELLETT, CROUCH, COWLES, CHEATHAM, LEHMAN, MORRIS.
Mason .....	Silver Spring.
Miss LILLIAN CRUTCHFIELD.
Coppee .....	The Night Watch.
Miss OLA WHITE.
Trolere .....	Changeless.
Miss CHEATHAM.
Eisfeld .....	Polacca.
Misses FOGLE and WILLIAMS.
Kjeruff .....	Last Night.
Miss FARRAK (with Guitar).
Wagner .....	Magic Fire Music.
Misses KELLETT and HANES.
" BESSIE and KATE BROOKE.
Cocven .....	Lovely Spring.
Miss SIDDALL.
Moszkowski .....	Bolero.
Misses KELLETT and HANES.
Buck .....	Robin Adair.
Misses ROBBINS, KELLETT, MORRIS, SCRIBER.
Rubinstein .....	Bal Costume.
Misses EVA LINDLEY and MAGGIE JONES.
Chadwick , }	Allah.
Cowen , }	Snow Flakes.
	Mrs. EBERT.
Bend .....	The Watersprite's Revenge.
CHORUS CLASS, assisted by Miss RONDTHALER, Soprano, Miss SCRIBER, Mezzo Soprano.

Saturday proved to be a charming day, and many visitors arrived on the various trains. The crowd that gathered at the doors soon after supper reminded one of the Grand Concert rather than of one of the earlier occasions when the public has not yet fully warmed up. In the Elocution Department, as is well known to our friends, the most successful work has been done. Three young ladies presented themselves for graduation, the first the ACADEMY has sent out from this department. The evening was greatly enjoyed and the young ladies acquitted themselves admirably. Miss SCRIBER's programme for Saturday evening, May 26th, was as follows:

Arditi .....	L'Ingenue.
Misses CARRIE BAHNSON and AGNES SIEWERS.
T. B. Macaulay .....	The Battle of Ivory.
Miss KATE HANES.
James W. Riley .....	An Old Sweetheart of Mine.
Miss MARTHA BROWN.
B. Harle , Master Johnny's Next Door Neighbor.
Miss ALMA CHAFFIN.
Nevin .....	I once had a doll, dears.
Miss MARY JEFFERSON.
Charles Dickens .....	Flight of Little Emily.
Miss CARRIE ROLLINS.
Anon .....	What a little boy thinks about things.
Miss ETHEL FOLLIN.
R. Browning .....	An incident of the French camp.
Miss FLORENCE KING.
Schubert .....	Impromptu, Op. 90, No. 2.
Miss DAISY CRUTCHFIELD.
C. C. Somerville .....	Home, Sweet Home.
Miss DAISY BROOKES.
Anon .....	How Aristarchus Studied Elocution.
Miss POWELL DOBSON.
Aden .....	Where's Aimette?
Miss NETTIE ALLEN.
Bischoff .....	Good Night, Sweet Dreams.
Miss MARY MORRIS.
Victor Hugo .....	The Escape.
Miss LENA COLWELL.
Anon .....	Little Flo's Letter.
Miss PEARL ADDISON.
W. Cartleton .....	Death Bridge of the Tay.
Miss DAISY THOMPSON.
Mendelssohn .....	Scherzo.
Miss GOSLING.
Anon .....	How the Gospel came to Jim Oaks.
Miss SUE REYNOLDS.
Mark Twain .....	How Tom Sawyer Whitewashed the Fence.
Miss ANNIE SCOTT LINDSAY.
Molloy .....	Semi-Chorus. The Triton.
Misses MERCER, J. PETERKIN, MOORE, S. GOODMAN, F. BARROW, HENDERSON, M. JEFFERSON, MCFADVEN.

Commencement Sunday is always one of the brightest and happiest of the occasions. Great banks of water lillies, white and pink, of many shades and varieties, so kindly and generously donated by Dr. Bahnsen, from his famous lily ponds, filled the church with fragrance and beauty. The music by choir and congregation is so full and grand,—all taken together makes Commencement Sunday one of the most pleasing days. The Moravian church choir was reinforced by a number of singers from town and was assisted by the Salem Orchestra. The morning anthem was the famous "Hallelujah" Chorus, the evening one being, "Unfold, ye portals everlasting." Miss TRACY also rendered very tenderly and feelingly a solo at the close of the sermon. The sermon this year was delivered by the Rev. T. H. PRITCHARD, D. D., of Charlotte, N. C., who spoke with force and power on the subject of "The Tongue, or the Influence of Pure and Impure Speech." The reverend gentleman was listened to throughout the sermon with marked attention, and the lessons set forth will long remain with the hearers. On the platform with the speaker were Bishop RONDTHALER and Revs. CLEWELL and THALER.

In the evening Bishop RONDTHALER delivered a very earnest farewell sermon. Monday and Tuesday evenings were under the direction of Miss LEIMAN, Mr. CLEWELL presiding. These are the Seniors' Evenings, when each member of the class reads a brief essay of three or four minutes' length, and in this way each member is introduced to the audience previous to Commencement morning. The essays are so varied in character, the girls so bright, fresh and interesting in appearance with their white Oxford caps and gowns, that these evenings too are always favored with large and sympathetic audiences. We give the names and subjects in full. Monday evening the programme was as follows:

SENIORS' FIRST EVENING.

Chopin .....	Valse.
Misses SALLIE and PAMELA GOODMAN.
One Tongue Enough for Any Woman.....	Miss C. ROLLINS.
It is not always May.....	Miss M. BARROW.
The Silver Question.....	Miss S. REYNOLDS.
Lost.....	Miss L. COLWELL.
Secrets.....	Miss S. BOYD.
Piccolomini .....	Ora Pro Nobis.
Miss HEGE.
Heller .....	Tarantelle.
Miss M. MASON.
Bubbles.....	Miss O. WHITE.
Other People.....	Miss G. KING.
The World as the Bat sees It.....	Miss D. CRUTCHFIELD.
Every One the Architect of his Fortune.....	Miss M. VAUGHN.
To-day.....	Miss E. LEMBERTY.
Leybach .....	"Oberton," Fantaisie.
Misses C. ROLLINS and M. OSTERRING.
Music bath Charms.....	Miss E. VOGLER.
Nothing Venture—Nothing Have.....	Miss J. ANDERSON.
Woman's Rights.....	Miss E. CHEATHAM.
Duty the Grandest Word in the Language.....	Miss E. HOFFMAN.
Trust not to Appearances.....	Miss B. SMITH.
Campagna .....	The Fairy Isle.
Misses M. KELLETT, C. COWLES, D. CRUTCHFIELD and E. CHEATHAM.
The Art of Appreciation.....	Miss A. WOOLEY.
Adversity a Promoter of Genius.....	Miss E. KYLE.
The Influence of Ideals.....	Miss E. HENDERSON.
North Carolina's Need to Erect Monuments.....	Miss J. TUCK.
Chadwick .....	Lullaby.
Misses MOORE, MERCER, PETERKIN, GOODMAN, MAJETTE, BARROW, HENDERSON, JEFFERSON, MCFADVEN.

On Tuesday evening the following was the order of exercises:

SENIORS' SECOND EVENING.

Schubert .....	3 Marches Militaire.
Misses B. ROBBINS and A. MORTON.
Hard Times.....	Miss M. BROWN.
Act Well Your Part.....	Miss M. KELLETT.
Avarice.....	Miss M. MCGINNIS.
America in 1492—America in 1894.....	Miss K. BROOKE.
The Curtain of Girlhood Fast Falling.....	Miss A. WITHERS.
Dancla .....	Pettie Valse for Violin.
Miss D. JEFFERSON.
Accompanist—Miss L. CHADBOURNE.
Amusements.....	Miss A. STALLINGS.
Times Go By Turns.....	Miss M. RIERSON.
Footfalls.....	Miss L. LESLIE.
Not for Self—but for Others.....	Miss B. BROOKE.
What Next?.....	Miss S. WRIGHT.
Eachman .....	Les Sylphides.
Misses B. HENDERSON and CLEVE BARNES.
The Graduate Going Forth to Battle with the World,
Try and You will Succeed.....	Miss K. HANES
Nature hath Framed Strange Fellows in Her Time?	Miss A. SPAUGH.
Labor Omnia Vincit.....	Miss M. FLAKE.
Brahms .....	The Gypsies.
Misses L. MORRISON and M. MORRIS.
Grin and Bear It.....	Miss J. PETERKIN.
The Columbian Exposition.....	Miss L. RAWLEY.
White wash.....	Miss C. COWLES.
Woman in Fiction—Woman in Real Life.....	Miss D. THOMPSON.
Foster .....	The Butterfly's Ball.
SEMI-CHORUS.

Tuesday afternoon was the date for the Art Exhibit, and the Academy Chapel was thrown open from two till five o'clock in the afternoon. The Art Department has been under the care of Miss GERTRUDE SIEWERS during the past year, and she has had a number of very talented workers under her care. This is especially true in drawing, a number of pupils giving promise of being a credit to themselves and the department in the future.

In addition to the specimens of work in drawing, painting and embroidery, there were exhibited specimens of work from the sewing school; a large table spread with a tempting display of eatables, from the Cooking School, Miss GRACE WOLLE in charge; an unusually fine collection of botanical specimens from Miss S. SHAFNER's class; Book-keeping work from Miss L. SHAFFNER's class; Shorthand and Type Writing from Miss LEHMAN's scholars; Wood Carving by Miss REGENNAS; cases from the Museum, embracing war relics, specimens of animals and reptiles, wood and stone; and finally we note the splendid group of portraits of former Principals, executed by Miss MARY FRIES. Three new faces were added to the list already mentioned in THE ACADEMY, and the entire group now embraces the following: Rev. S. G. Kramsh, 1802-1806; Rev. Abr. Steiner, 1806-1816; Rev. B. G. Reichel, 1816-1833; Rev. J. C. Jacobson, 1834-1844; Rev. C. A. Bleck, 1844-1848; Rev. E. de Schweinitz; 1848-1853; Rev. R. de Schweinitz, 1853-1866; Rev. M. E. Grunert, 1866-1877. The remaining names on the list of Principals are Revs. Zorn, Rondthaler and Clewell. Large numbers of friends visited the exhibit during the afternoon.

Tuesday, after the Seniors' Second Evening, a reception was tendered the Workers, who aided in making the Commencement a success. This invitation included the Moravian Church Choir, the Salem Orchestra, the male singers in the chorus, the ushers, railroad representatives, reporters, &c. Mr. CLEWELL presided, and he was assisted in entertaining the one hundred guests by the members of the Senior Class. The thanks of the Institution were extended to the friends while they partook of the banquet.

Wednesday was pre-eminently Alumnae Day. At 10 o'clock in the morning members of the Class of '87 met in Society Hall, and, in addition to the pleasures of the reunion, made plans for the future. In the afternoon members of the Class of '84 met in Society Hall, and they, too, indulged in the enjoyments and transacted the business usual on such occasions. Through the courtesy of Miss Blanche Armfield, Miss Jennie Sieger. Mrs. Wm. Nelson and others we will be able to give the results of these meetings and much information for the benefit of the scattered classmates and other friends. This information will appear in the September and October numbers, lack of space making it impossible in this issue of our paper.

At 3 o'clock, P. M., the Alumnae Meeting was called to order in the Academy Chapel, by the President, Mrs. Judge D. H. Starbuck. The programme for the afternoon was as follows:

I.

- Call to Order.
- Address of Welcome by the President.
- Report of the Secretary and Treasurer.
- Short Address and Letters.
- Report from the Class of '84.

Report from the Class of '87.
S. F. A. Alumnae Song, 1894.
Words by Mrs. GERTUDE JENKINS HOWELL.
Paper—Historical.
Miss ADOLLADE L. FRIES.
Paper—Financial.
Miss JENNIE SIEGER.
Address.
Rev. A. D. THELER.
General Business.
II.
Short Religious Exercises.
Lovefeast.
Conducted by Bishop RONDTHALER.

III.
Presentation of the EMMA MOORE MEMORIAL.

The attendance was large, as will be seen from the list given on another page. The interest was great, many declaring it to be the gem of Commencement Week. It will be impossible to enter into details, hence we will content ourselves by simply noting a few of the features of the occasion. One point was the character of the meeting. There was an earnestness abroad that we have seldom noted in the past. This had to be felt, it cannot be described,—but it meant much for the future good of the School. The contribution to the Alumnae Scholarship Fund was about $250, and if the door receipts at the grand concert be added, the fund was raised from $1850 to $2250. The religious part of the meeting, viz.: the lovefeast, was enjoyed by the old pupils and the home members, for this agapæ of the early apostolic Church seemed to bring with it a benediction. The presentation of the "Emma Moore Memorial Stairway," which appears so beautiful with its smooth lawn and terrace about it in the rear court, was made one of the features of the hour. Mr. CLEWELL made the presentation address on behalf of Col. Garrity, of Texas, and Bishop RONDTHALER accepted the gift in behalf of the Board of Trustees.

The classes of '84 and '87 were represented on the platform, and reports were read by Mrs. Wm. Nelson, of Danville, Va., and Miss Jennie Sieger, of Bethlehem, Pa.

The Grand Concert, Wednesday evening, in past years, had been in part a failure because of the unusual press and strain to secure entrance. Hence, after mature consideration, it was decided to charge an admission fee of 25 cents, to protect the friends from a distance and the patrons at home in what we believed to be their rights. The auditorium was filled to its utmost capacity, but no one was unduly crowded. $150 was taken in and given to the Alumnae Society. To the careful and able guiding hand of Prof. SKILTON is due the marked success of the evening. He was ably assisted by Miss TRACY, Miss SCRIBER, Prof. BROCKMANN and other instructors, also by the pupils from all departments. The grand chorus, "Song of Miriam," was the concluding number, sung by 200 or more voices, assisted by male singers. It was classical, of high order, but brief enough for a general occasion (30 minutes or less) and was faultlessly rendered. The programme was as follows:

- Foster.....Song of the Gale.
ACADEMY CHORUS.
- Moszkowski.....Waltz in Ab.
Misses KYLE and WITHERS.
- " HEGE and FISHER.
- Strozcki.....Happy Days.
Miss BIRDIE FOLLIN.
- Violin Obligato—Prof. BROCKMAN.
- Schubert.....Impromptu, Op. 90, No. 4.
Miss LUCY CHADBOURNE.
- Wilson.....How It Came About.
Miss MAMIE MERCER.
- Bunner.....A Sisterly Scheme.
Miss NELL SCALES.
- Moszkowski.....Waltz, Op. 34.
Miss TULLA STOCKTON.
- Abl.....Boat Song.
Miss SETTLE'S CHORUS.
- Rubinstein,Torchlight Dance from "Feramors."
Misses CHEATHAM and SMITHERMAN.
- Miller.....The Sioux Chief's Daughter.
Miss JANE RICHARDSON.
- Pinsuti.....Due Perle.
Misses SCALES and KELLETT.
- Mendelssohn.....Caprice in A Minor.
Miss ANNIE SMITH.
- Arditi.....L'Incontro.
Miss MORRISON.
- Schumann.....Novelette in F.
Miss ROBBIE KYLE.
- Wiggin.....The Ruggleless Dinner Party.
Miss SUE REYNOLDS.
- BeethovenConcerto in C Major, 1st movement.
Miss MORRISON.
- Second Piano—Professor SKILTON.
- Verdi.....Bolero from the "Sicilian Vespers."
Miss GERTRUDE ROBBINS.
- Mendelssohn.....Scherzo from Violin Concerto.
Professor BROCKMAN.
- Chapman.....Defence of Lucknow.
Miss SCRIBER.
- Tschaikowski.....June, Bicarolle.
Professor SKILTON.
- Schubert.....Song of Miriam.
Soprano Sjos by Miss TRACY.
Mezzo Soprano Solo by Miss MORRIS.
- ACADEMY CHORUS, assisted by Messrs. BOVO, JENKINS, LENTZ, LICHTENTHALER, K.
PFOHL, RONDTHALER, VOGLER, Tenors, and Messrs. H. CRIST, EBERT, HAUSER, E.
HEGE, W. HEGE, McCLEMENT, PHILLIPS,
R. SPAUGH, W. SPAUGH, Basses.
Accompanist—Miss A. VAN VLECK.
Second Piano—Miss GOSLING.

Thursday morning ushered in the closing scenes of Commencement Week. At 9 o'clock the procession filed into the church. Besides incoming Seniors and graduates there were seated on the platform the officials of the School, the ministers of the twin-city, a number of other friends and the Salem Orchestra. The oration, delivered by the Rev. ROBERT STRANGE, of Wilmington, was one of rare merit. His subject was "Visions," and his illustrations and conclusions showed him to be familiar with a wide field of classical literature. Dr. Strange's oration will long be remembered. Mr. CLEWELL made a short farewell address, after which Dr. RONDTHALER presented the diplomas to the graduates, the list of names being given elsewhere. The following was the programme:

- Rossini.....Overture. Semira nide.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
- Scripture, by Rev. JAMES E. HALL.
- PRAYER, by Rev. Mr. TURRENTINE.

Weber. Ocean, thou mighty monster. Oberon.
Miss ANTOINETTE C. TRACY.
With Orchestral Accompaniment.
ORATION, by Rev. ROBERT STRANGE.
Haydn.....Menuetto from Sinfonie in C.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS, by the Rt. Rev.
EDWARD RONDTHALER, D. D.
CLASS SONG.
Leutner.....Fest Overture.
SALEM ORCHESTRA.
BENEDICTION, by Rev. T. H. PEGRAM.

Thus ended one of the most remarkable sessions of recent years. It was remarkable for a number of reasons :—because of the numbers, so large in the midst of this hard year ; because of health, not a serious case of illness having occurred during the year ; because of the conduct, no flagrant case for discipline having been brought to the office ; because of the harmony of effort, no frictions existing to mar the happiness of the year ; because of the scholastic work, the standard having been raised in every field ; because of the religious life, the influence of the religious girls having given a pure and lovely tone to the life of the year.

—Should a copy of this number of THE ACADEMY fall into the hands of some former pupil who is not a subscriber, would not the present be a good time to send us a half dollar, and get the school news for the next year? See how happy you will make us by so doing.

—Pupils desiring to enter any particular class in our college course will do well to communicate with us in regard to the same, and those who are not fully prepared for some certain class which they wish to enter, may make good progress by spending 4 to 6 weeks with us during the months of July and August. Pupils may enter and begin their work at any time.

—Our present edition is one of which we can justly be proud. The number of papers printed this month will reach 50,000, probably one of the largest special editions ever printed by a paper in the Twin City. Each number is printed on the best book paper, the excellent and careful work being done at the printing house of Crist & Keehln, Salem.

—Our Summer School is doing a good work in a quiet way. Various lines of work have been taken up in mathematics, languages, commercial branches, music, and art. There are about 25 pupils thus engaged in reviewing their work of past years, or in marking out new fields of research. The work is nearly all done as so called private lessons, not in classes.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., JUNE, 1894.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—The rain did not dampen the Commencement enthusiasm.

—The ACADEMY has never closed a more satisfactory year, as to numbers, health, conduct and class room work than the one just finished.

—Pupils from the Twin City, as well as distant pupils will confer a favor by registering in advance, and as early as possible, since this enables us to make ample preparations in advance.

—If any one has any doubt as to the health of our town, he has but to note that in a population of 5,000 people Salem had but one death during the three Spring months. Can any town beat that record?

—As will be seen by our list published elsewhere, many names have been added to our list of subscribers during the past month. THE ACADEMY is now a self-supporting journal, and we rejoice to know that the number of its readers is constantly increasing.

—The second grand piano used at the Concerts during the Commencement week was kindly furnished by the Standard Music Company, Winston, N. C. The Hallett & Davis is the property of the school—the Kimball was specially secured for this occasion.

—We call attention to the advertisements found on our last pages. THE ACADEMY has refused as much as a page of advertising matter, simply because we were not certain that the character of the parties or the goods advertised were just what they should be. There are two things that we can say of each and every one of our advertisers : First, they are most successful men of business because of energy and worth ; and second, they slice off quite a large share from the trade of the ACADEMY, because pupils, teachers and patrons thus learn to know them.

Vance Memorial Window.

In a recent issue we spoke of the warm friendship of the late Senator Vance for the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. This being a well known fact, the Twin City Daily Sentinel, published an article advocating the plan of placing a memorial window in the Academy Chapel. On one of the Senior Evenings, Miss JULIA TUCK read an essay, in which she advocated more monuments for North Carolina, and among other things urged the friends to unite in this memorial window movement. The Sentinel reporter and Miss TUCK discussed the matter after the exercises, and the result was a class meeting of the graduates, at which the members decided to make an effort to secure $150 or more, and the Sentinel volunteered to start a public and popular subscription by which $150 more would be added to the Fund, the window to be donated as a gift from the class of 1894. The popular subscription was started at once, and at the present time amounts to some $60.00 or more. Letters have been sent to the members of the class of '94, and the first one to respond was Miss LIZZIE MAJETTE, of Como, N. C., who enclosed a $5. Some half dozen others have sent in their pledges to raise $5 or more by July 1st. In this way we can safely say that $100 are "in sight," with good prospects for the work to be successfully carried out when all pupils have been heard from. Plans will be carefully and wisely entered upon to secure exactly what is desired, and at a reasonable cost. If all works out as is now expected, the window will be placed in the chapel, protected from hail by a wire screen, and insured so as to be replaced in case of fire. The plan of the window will be such that in case of the erection of a new chapel in the future, it can be removed to the same. Friends and Alumnæ, and even strangers who may perchance read this article are cordially invited to contribute, larger or smaller sums, to aid in this patriotic work, since the larger the sum secured, the more attractive will be the memorial to North Carolina's great and noble son, Zebulon B. Vance.

—The lawns in the rear court of the ACADEMY are in beautiful condition, the closely mown grass on terrace and level being as smooth as velvet and as fresh and green as can be imagined.

—The prospects for a large and prosperous year are very good, despite the hard times. We find more than one hundred boarding pupils already on our register, and more than one hundred and fifty assured from Winston-Salem. Hence, with a nucleus of two hundred and fifty as a start, and with the Lord's blessing so plainly resting on the work in all its departments, we feel greatly encouraged in our prospects.

—We have already received applications from several schools desiring teachers, and hence we would again invite those of our former pupils who desire positions to communicate with us. We do not guarantee positions to all who apply, but quite a number have been located successfully in the past. To those who apply to us for teachers we assure an absolutely candid opinion as to the qualifications and personal characteristics of those whom we endorse.

—The growth of the Alumnae fund during the past year has been most satisfactory. There are no sums levied on members, no undue pressure brought to bear to increase the gifts more than some can afford, and even the smallest donations are welcomed with respect and consideration, for often back of a twenty-five cent gift there burns the purest love and patriotism! Although there has been no unpleasant pressure brought to bear, yet a clear $1,000 has been placed to the credit of the fund in the past twelve months. This speaks volumes in itself for the future work of our Alumnae.

—The ACADEMY has offered a scholarship each year to pupils of the Winston Graded School in the College Course and in Music, whom the Principal and Teachers may select as the "all round" best and most satisfactory pupils. Last year this honor was bestowed on Miss BERTHA LLOYD, and the ACADEMY assures Supt. Blair that the record of his first choice is all that he could desire. At the recent Graded School Commencement he announced the names of the two candidates who had won the honors as being the following: In the College Course, Miss BERTHA WHITE and in Music, Miss ADDIE WESTER. We trust these young ladies may honor us and the excellent Graded School which sends them to us.

—Bishop RONDTHALER delivered the sermon before the pupils of the Greensboro Normal School.

Names of Alumnae and Visitors.

Names of those from Salem and Winston who attended the Alumnae Meeting.

Salem.
Mrs W A Lemly	Rev A D Thaler
" W B Ellis	" J H Clewley
" J H Stockton	" J F McCuiston
" F C Meinung	" Dr Rondthaler
" J W Fries	Dr. N S Siewers
" Florence Stockton	" H T Bahson
" George A Boozer	Mr Frank Fries
" N S Siewers	" Will Peterson
" J W Goslen	" C H Fogle
" M V Horton	" Frank Vogler
" T H Siddall	" Lichtenthaler
" A C Winkler	" Howard Rondthaler
" Charles Hauser	Miss Addie Fries
" H E Fries	" Etta Brown
" George Nissen	" Lizzie Heisler
" C H Fogle	" Carrie Vest
" J A Vance	" Pattie Beck
" Charles E Pfohl	" Addie Meinung
" W J Peterson	" Annie McCuiston
" C J Watkins	" Florence Tise
" M E Jenkins	" Jessie Brown
" E F Carmichael	" Annie Pittman
" L M Fries	" Mary Zevely
" M F Patterson	" Laura Lemly
" Henry T Bahson	" L. C. Shaffner
" Eugene A Ebert	" Jane Wellfare
" F E Hege	" Etta Shaffner
" J D Tavis	" A Steiner
" G W Porter	" Florence Meinung
" A C Vogler	" Lula Ackerman
" Edward Leinbach	" Gertrude Siewers
" J F Crouse	" Daisy Brooks
" M E Landquist	" Claude Winkler
" F H Fries	" Emma Fisher
" F C Hege	" Augusta Hagen
" E A Milburn	" Ida Moore
" Edward Rondthaler	" H Foltz
" C P Norbeck	" Grace Wolle
" R L Hendricks	" L Van Vleck
Miss Mary Fries	" A Van Vleck
" Edna Fisher	" Ella Hege
" Agnes Fogle	" Sallie Vest
" Lonie Siddall	" Tilla Stockton
" Ella Siddall	" Heunie Peterson
" Laura Moorfield	" Flora Lott
" E A Lehman	" M Eccles
" Mary Wellfare	" C H Williamson

Winston.
Mrs J A Bitting	" P H Hanes
" Rufus Spough	" W T Brown
" E E Shelton	" Wm J Conrad
" A B Gorrell	" D S Reid
" Mattie Gibson	" P J Ector
" Emory Gray	" Henry Riggins
" Mary Prather	" Lizzie Blum
" C E Johnson	Miss Kate Jones
" Boone Rose	" Birehie Kirk
" J C Buxton	" Pamela Bynum
" E C Clinard	" Carrie Shelton
" Frank Lipfert	" Laura Reed
" Frank Brown	" Sallie Hyman
" Felix Crutchfield	" Kate Hanes
" H Montagne	" Gene Conrad
" M McGees	" Lillian Crutchfield
" D H Starbuck	Mr Rufus Spough
" Will Reynolds

Other Points.
Mrs M W Daniel, Panther Creek, N. C.
" C O Tyner, Atlanta, Ga.
" H C Thomas, Thomasville, N. C.
" Mrs Drake, South Carolina.
" Satterfield, Georgia.
" G Bryan, Charlotte, N. C.
" A J Boyd, Reidsville, N. C.
" Mrs Sturdivant, Charlotte, N. C.
" M V Moore, Asheville, N. C.
" T E Richardson, Reidsville, N. C.
" T B Lindsay, Douglas, N. C.
" S L Patterson, Palmyra, N. C.
" J C Goodman,
" Martha Flake, Beverly, N. C.
" Eliza Nelson, Danville, Va.
" Joe Hill, Areadia, N. C.
" Clara Joyner Davis,
Miss L Thompson, Raleigh, N. C.
" Emma Kapp, Bethania, N. C.
" Annie Reid, Welton, N. C.
" Lillie Lash, Bethania, N. C.
" Bigler, Philadelphia, Pa.
" Green, Wilmington, N. C.
" Hinnicut, Atlanta, Ga.
" Alice Hill, Germantown, N. C.
" Bertha Hicks, Raleigh, N. C.
" Kate Stoltz, Ruth, N. C.
" Bessie Thomas,
" Mamie Thomas,	Thomasville, N. C.
" Blanche Thomas,
" Roberts, Durham, N. C.
" Florence Cummings, Aspendale, N. C.
" Elizabeth Wolle, Bethlehem, Pa.
" Sieget,
" Lula Cox, Sedge Garden, N. C.
" Agnes Coleman,
" Dora Cox, Pedar Falls, N. C.
" Kittie May Penn, Reidsville, N. C.

Miss Alice Olinger, Milton, Fla.
" Blanche Armfield, High Point, N. C.
" Bessie Purnell, Raleigh, N. C.
" Beatrice Smith, Sparta, N. C.
" Florence Settle, Texas.
" Ada Spangh, Friedberg, N. C.
" Mattie Kellett, Waco, Texas.
" Ola White, Washington, D. C.
" Jessie Peterkin, Bennettsville, S. C.
" Anna Withers, Reidsville, N. C.
" Daisy Thompson, Raleigh, N. C.
" Kate Brooke, Sutherland, Va.
" Bessie Brooke,
" Jannie Anderson, Statesville, N. C.
" Alpha Woosley, Friedberg, N. C.
" Lizzie Majette, Como, N. C.
" Edna Lineberry, Trinity College, N. C.
" Carrie Rollins, Asheville, N. C.
" Julia Tuck, Selma, N. C.
" Lena Leslie, Concord, N. C.
" Sue Reynolds, Bristol, Tenn.
" Lena Colwell, Fenn, Ga.
" Sallie Boyd, Reidsville, N. C.
" Margie Flake, Beverly, N. C.
" Maud McGinnis, Charlotte, N. C.
" Susie Wright, Lewisville, N. C.
" Agnes Stallings, Pikeville, N. C.
" Eva Cheatham, Oxford, N. C.
" Cora Cowles, Wilkesboro, N. C.
" Bessie Henderson
Rev and Mrs J E Hall, Friedberg, N. C.
Mr D R Scott, Reidsville, N. C.
Mr J Leinbach, Bethlehem, Pa.
Mr George Wolle, Bethlehem, Pa.

Visitors in Salem during Commencement.
Col and Mrs Kyle, Gadsden, Ala.
Mr and Mrs Wright, Lewisville, N. C.
" Mrs W M Kellett, Waco, Texas.
Miss Mamie Brown, Fayetteville, N. C.
Mr E D McGinnis, Charlotte, N. C.
" R H McGinnis,
Miss Montgomery, Reidsville, N. C.
" Madge Richardson "
" Susie Richardson "
Miss Annie Busck, Brandon, Miss.
Dr. T V Brooke, Sutherland, Va.
Mr G A Tuck, Selma, N. C.
Miss Laura Leslie, Concord, N. C.
Major and Mrs A D Reynolds, Bristol, Tenn.
Mr Sevier, Asheville, N. C.
Mr J W Thompson, Raleigh, N. C.
Messrs. J B and J H Smith, Elkin, N. C.
Mr and Mrs Lineberry, Trinity College, N. C.
Mrs C N and Miss Lena Curtis, Waco, Texas.
Mr Wm Cummings, Palmyra, N. C.
Miss Mattie Clark, Danville, Va.
Miss Carrie Spangh, Friedberg, N. C.
Mr Claud Cheatham, Oxford, N. C.
Mr Hubert Cheatham,
Misses Emma and Kate Jefferson, Neapolis, Va.
Mr Jefferson, Neapolis, Va.
Mr Stallings, Athens, Ga.
Mr Chaffin, Milton, Florida.
Mr Mercer, Wilson, N. C.
Mr Tom Rollins, Asheville, N. C.
Mr and Mrs Seales and Hunter Seales, Reidsville, N. C.
Miss Mary Cowles, Washington, D. C.
Mr John R Taylor, Eutaw, Ala.
Miss Carrie Grier, Rocky Mount, Va.
Mrs E Lehman, Bethania, N. C.
Mrs Jones, Walnut Grove, N. C.
Miss G Courts, Gastonia, Texas.
Miss Cowles, Wilkesboro, N. C.
Miss Sallie Watkins, Moravian Falls, N. C.
Mr Hackett, Wilkesboro, N. C.
Mrs T and Miss Mary Spangh, Friedberg, N. C.
Mrs Pass, North Carolina.
Mr Joyce, Mt Airy, N. C.
Mrs Seales, Statesville, N. C.
Mr Cheek, Hillsboro, N. C.
Major and Mrs Robbins, Statesville, N. C.

—The press notices have been unusually full and complimentary this year. Much of the credit is due to Mr. Robert Carmichael, of the Twin City Daily Sentinel staff. In addition to the kindly notices of the exercises published in our North Carolina papers, we note that all the large dailies from Washington to Galveston were on his lists, and also find accounts of Commencement in the New York Tribune, New York Sun and New York World, &c. This is a matter of satisfaction, for no section of the South can be found where Alumnae and their descendants do not live, and hence the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY Commencements are matters of news and general interest. The courtesy of the press has always been greatly appreciated in these respects.

Alumnæ Scholarship Fund.

The Scholarship Fund has had a very nice addition made to its capital since our last number was printed. The one sum was the subscriptions of the members at the annual meeting on Wednesday, May 30th, and the other source of income was the small fee charged at the door at the Grand Concert, Wednesday evening. The Alumnæ Society is to be congratulated that the sum has reached the creditable figure it has now attained, having finished the second thousand, and started nicely toward the third thousand.

The following is the list of cash received:

Miss Lucia Swanson,	$5.00
Mrs. C. H. Fogle,	2.50
Miss Constance Pfohl,	2.00
" Lizzie Lineback.	1.00
" Kate Jones,	1.00
" Fannie Perrow,	1.00
" Lillian Crutchfield,	1.00
Mrs. Fay Peterson,	.50
" M. E. Scarboro,	5.00
" Theo. F. Gray,	.50
Miss Lula Ackerman,	.50
Mrs. D. S. Reid,	1.00
" P. H. Hanes,	4.00
" T. D. Kernan,	2.00
Miss L. Lemly,	1.00
" M. E. Vogler,	5.00
Mrs. J. W. Goslen,	.50
" J. S. Miller,	3.00
" E. F. Carmichael,	.50
" H. E. Vogler,	.50
" Chas. E. Stevenson,	1.00
Miss S. E. Shaffner,	2.00
" L. G. Shaffner,	2.00
Mrs. Amanda Lemly,	1.00
" Chas. Tyner,	5.00
" F. Stockton,	.50
" P. Ector,	.25
" Frank Fries,	5.00
" E. Rondthaler,	5.00
" Geo. Boozer,	.50
" W. A. Lemly,	1.00
" N. S. Siewers,	10.00
" James Hall,	1.00
" J. H. Stockton,	1.00
Mr. H. R. Scott,	5.00
Mrs. Robert Jenkins,	1.00
" Charles Hauser,	.50
Miss Emma Fisher,	.25
Cash rec'd at meeting, (no names)	32.85
Previously acknowledged,	1,812.43
	$2,087.03

In addition to the above sum subscriptions to the amount of about $150 were made to be paid during the year. This makes the fund about $2,250, cash and pledges or an increase of $1,000 during the past twelve months since last July. Decidedly the most liberal year the Fund has yet had. A few more years like the last, and the sum of $5,000 will be attained.

LOUISA C. SHAFFNER,
Secretary.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—President Crowell, of Trinity College, has resigned. This takes quite an active worker from our State.

—Dr. Shearer, of Davidson College, delivered the literary address before the graduating class of the Winston Graded School.

—We notice from a New York paper that one of our esteemed Alumnæ, Miss ANNIE MAY SCHOOLFIELD, won laurels as an elocutionist in the Berkeley Lyceum.

—Miss JENNIE SIEGER, Miss LIZZIE WOLLE, Mr. George Wolle and Mr. John Lineback were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL during Commencement.

—There were only two changes in the Faculty of thirty-two, which shows well for the contentment of the large numbers of Teachers and Professors in our Institution.

—A recent issue of the University Magazine contains a review of the history of the Institution, past and present, pictures of the buildings and faculty, and is in every way a valuable number.

—The Davis School Commencement took place early in June and was a very enjoyable occasion. The rain interfered with the second day's exercises. The year just closed has been a very successful one.

—Prof. SKILTON and Mr. Howard Rondthaler made a foot tour over the mountains in the Western portion of the State. One of our local papers irreverently announced that they had joined Coxe's army.

—Linden Hall, Lititz, Penn., this year celebrates its Centennial, and our congratulations are extended to our older and very successful sister school. We also note the very increased prosperity of the Bethlehem Seminary and Nazareth Hall, other Moravian Schools in Pennsylvania.

—Miss ELLA SIDDALL and Miss ANNIE PITTMAN did not apply for positions in the ACADEMY next year, and their places will be filled by Miss NELLIE SCALES, of Reidsville, N. C., and Miss LUDA MORRISON, of Statesville, N. C. THE ACADEMY extends its best wishes to these new members of the Faculty.

—A very pleasant company of girls remain in the ACADEMY during the summer. They are Pamela Goodman, Sallie Goodman, Powell Dolson, Annie and Ruby Satterfield, Sallie Goodrum and Miss Farrar and Parrish. They have a number of subjects in hand which they study from day to day, not with the zeal of "school time," but with sufficient energy to make the time both pleasant and profitable.

—The names of the Graduating Class of '37 will be found in the Commencement article, together with the subject of the essay. In addition to these the following diplomas were given:

In Instrumental Music:—Lillian Ruffin Crutchfield; Clara Lillian Gosling, Ella Florence Hege, Luda Morrison, Gertrude Maclin Robbins, Nell Scales, Amarinthia Jessie Smith and Mary Matilda Stockton.

In Vocal Music:—Luda Morrison, Gertrude Maclin Robbins, Nell Scales and Amarinthia Jessie Smith.

In Elocution:—Sue Sayers Reynolds, Jennie Trice Richardson and Nell Scales.

In Bookkeeping:—Nannie A. Barnes, Hattie Alderson Ellison, Katherine Brandon Gibson, Mary Elizabeth Johnston, Alice Ruffin Joyce and Jeannie Trice Richardson.

In Shorthand:—Alice Ruffin Joyce and Jennie Dalzell Wood.

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs Lizzie Patterson Moffit, Liberty, N C; Mrs T T Adams, Greenville, Tenn; Mrs Chas H Gill, Knoxville, Tenn; Mrs W B Wall, Reynolds, N C; Mrs Chas Stevenson, Baltimore, Md; Misses Bessie and Kate Brooke, Sutherland, Va; Mrs Geo Brown and Mrs Ann Sturdivant, Charlotte, N C; Miss Beatrice Smith, Sparta, N C; Mrs J G Hall, Hickory, N C; Mrs S L Patterson, Palmyra, N C; Mrs W W Moore, Hampden Sidney, Va; Misses Anna Withers and Sallie Boyd, Reidsville, N C; Mrs Clara Davis, LaGrange, N C; Mrs Wm Nelson, Danville, Va; Miss Alice Nunnally, Ruffin, N C; Miss Mamie Thomas, Thomasville, N C; Miss Annie Penn, Martinsville, Va; Miss M Du Four, Mills River, N C; Miss Lena Wellborne, Wilkesboro, N C; Mr Jos B Sievers, Decatur, Ill; Mrs Jas D Glenn, Greensboro, N C; Miss Jennie Ragsdale, Jamestown, N C; Mrs J D Graham, Sumter, S C; Misses Mary Meinung, Rosa Spough, M A Fogle, Ada Spough, Bessie Pfohl, Minnie Mickey, Dora Miller, Mrs J W Goslen, Mrs Aliee W Clewell, Mrs H A Lineback, Mrs C J Watkins, Mrs J R Johnston, Mrs J W Fries, Mrs F H Fries, Mrs L M Fries, Mrs H E Fries, Mrs H Tavis, Mrs R L Hendrix, Mrs H E Vogler, Mrs G A Boozer, Mrs Annie Sprinkle, Messrs H W Fries, A F Pfohl and B J Pfohl, Salem, N C; Mrs Boone Rose, Mrs J A Blum, Mrs W J Conrad, Mrs C E Johnson, Mrs D S Reid, Mrs M Hyman, Mrs P H Hanes, Mrs Watt Martin, Mrs R A Spough, Misses Pamela Bynum, Laura Reid, Sallie Hyman and Hattie Sutton, Winston, N C; Mrs L F Quimby, Los Angeles, Cal; Mrs A J Howell, Wilmington, N C; Miss Irma Cordill, Como, La.

A FORM FOR REQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of—Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal most directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnæ Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

Married.

GOODWIN—BROADWAY.—On June 28th, in Greensboro, N. C., Mr. EDWARD MCKEE GOODWIN to Miss MAUD FULLER BROADWAY.

At Home after July 15th, in Morganton, N. C. BRASWELL—BRYAN.—On June 21st, in Battelboro, N. C., Mr. MACK C. BRASWELL to Miss ALICE BRYAN.

LONG—SMITH.—On June 20th, at Mexia, Texas, Dr. ROBERT LONG to Miss MARY W. SMITH.

ARCHBELL—NELSON.—On April 25th, in Newbern, N. C., Mr. CHARLES ARCHBELL, of Idalia, to Miss SUDIE F. NELSON, of Newbern, formerly of Whiston, N. C.

WATSON—THOMAS.—On May 16th, in Winston, N. C., Mr. T. WATSON to Miss CARRIE THOMAS.

SMITH—MOSES.—Some time ago, Dr. GEO. L. SMITH to Miss KATE MOSES, of Hill Grove, Va.

JORDAN—DUNLAP.—In Macon, Ga., on April 25th, Mr. LEE JORDAN to Miss ILAH DUNLAP.

HARRIS—SLAPPEY.—In Fort Valley, Ga., on May 16th, Mr. W. H. HARRIS to Miss BEULAH SLAPPEY.

HORSE FOR SALE.

We have a fine young horse, medium size. Hamiltionian stock, well broken, 5 years old, which we will sell at a bargain. Suitable for a carriage horse, or for heavier work. Address or call at the

ACADEMY OFFICE,
Salem, N. C.

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE,

On Car Line, near Academy, Main St.

Nestling in the midst of the old historic part of Salem, a stroll along the well shaded street will lead you to the Store, where you will find a good assortment of

BOOKS, STATIONERY AND FANCY GOODS.

Call and see us or write to

L. V. & E. T. BLUM, Salem, N. C.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

JOHN GILL, Receiver.

in connection with the

Norfolk & Western R. R.,

via Walnut Cove.

Atlantic oast Line,

via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH

between

WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to

J. W. FRY,

Gen. Supt.,

Greensboro, N. C.

W. E. KYLE,

Gen. Pass. Agt.,

Fayetteville, N. C.

E. B. KEARNS, Agt. N. & W. R. R.,

Winston, N. C.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 262. Special features:— the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $205 per annum.

The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.

Rev. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.

Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Correct Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address

DAVIS SCHOOL Winston, N. C.

1793.

1894

BINGHAM SCHOOL,
FOR BOYS.

Established in 1793.

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESIDENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from prominent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANITATION are the BEST IN THE SOUTH, and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogue giving full particulars, address

Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Superintendent.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 4.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892-1y

HOTEL JONES,

J. L. JONES, late of Jones House, Propriet'r.
WINSTON, N. C.

All modern conveniences provided. Electric lights and bells. Table abundantly supplied with the very best that the market affords. We are anxious to please.

RATES, $2.00 PER DAY.

At Depot ask for Jones House 'Bus.

Reference: Salem Female Academy.

May, 1894.

June 15, 1894.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Our entire line of

SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS

will be sold from now until July 15th, 1894, at a

Cash Discount of 10 Per Cent.

In our SHOE DEPARTMENT we will also give same discount on LOW SHOES and SLIPPERS.

UNDER THE GUILLOTINE

75 Rolls of handsome

CARPETS

led to execution at the following reductions:

Body Brussels,	worth $1 35 at $1 00
All Wool 3-ply Ingrain,	" 1 80 " 80
" " 2-ply " " "	85 " 60
" " " " " " "	75 " 52½
Half " " " " " " "	65 " 50
" " " " " " "	50 " 37½

35c. Carpet at 25c.

ALL RUGS AT THE SAME PROPORTION.

Remnants of Carpet at Half price.

Our entire line of

LACE CURTAINS

will be offered AT COST.

Very Respectfully,

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,
WINSTON, N. C.

May, 1894.

Norfolk & Western Railroad.
THE SHORT BEST AND QUICK ROUTE

TO

Winston-Salem, N. C.,

FROM

Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee and all Southern Points.

PULLMAN VESTIBULED SLEEPERS

from Memphis and New Orleans to Roanoke, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Patrons of Salem Female Academy will have only one change of Cars at Roanoke, Va., FROM THE NORTH AND EAST. Pullman Vestibuled Sleepers daily from New York and Washington via Royal Blue Line and Shenandoah Valley Route to Roanoke, Va., where connection is made for Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond and Norfolk.

Sleeping Car Reservation and reliable information furnished.

Write or see one of the following agents before purchasing your tickets.

W. L. ROHR, Western Pass. Agent.

Reed House, Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. B. BEVILL,

M. F. BRAGG,

Gen. Pass. Agent,

Trav. Pass. Agt.,

ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892-1y

A SURE CURE FOR

DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Take a half hour dose of Bicycling two to three times a day. It is pleasant medicine.

Bicycles for Sale and Rent by

SENSEMAN & BRICKENSTEIN,

SALEM, N. C.

June, 1894.

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $5.00. Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

BOSTON BLOCK, - Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable.

Apply to FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N. C.

Our Specialties:

STERLING SILVERWARE,
FINE WATCHES,
DIAMONDS.

We have everything else kept in a first-class Jewelry Store.

Special attention paid to mail orders.

Fine Repairing and Engraving.

Very Respectfully,

W. T. Vogler & Son,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free. Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

A COMPLETE ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS
FOR $ 7 25

BOX & CONTENTS 3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF 1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
SKETCHING STOOL .50
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A. SUSSMANN 232 6th Avenue, N.Y.

READ!

The S. F. A. ALUMN.E, their friends and all others will find at

S. E. ALLEN'S,
Hardware & Crockery Store,
Winston, N. C.,

many useful Decorative, Household and Parlor Furnishing Goods of the latest designs.

Also a complete assortment of Tinware, Glassware, Stoves and Holloware, and Hardware for the Mechanic, Farmer, Contractor, Merchant and all others at prices to induce sales.

Call and examine or write for prices.
June, 1894-15.

WHAT THEY SAY OF HARPER'S PERIODICALS

New York Sun:—The manifold art that is represented here has a fascination as great as any fascination that may attach to books. The two volumes of the MAGAZINE are entirely beautiful in their pictorial features, and the literary part of them is marked by great and varied attractions. The WEEKLY is a chronicle, valuable, rich in entertainment, the BAZAR is a trustworthy repository of the fashions, and it has many desirable things besides, the YOUNG PEOPLE is in the first rank of publications for boys and girls. This is a splendid array. But it is hardly necessary to say so. The whole world knows it.

Philadelphia Ledger:—It is one of the many distinctions which have made the fame of the Harpers that they are always in advance of the times. No firm, it is safe to say, has done more to raise the tone and morale of weekly and monthly literature than have the Harpers. They have catered to the popular taste in so far that they have supplied to their clients the best goods only, but they have never courted a dubious notoriety. No word has ever been printed in their periodicals which could not be quoted without offence in any home circle. The most lavish praise is not too extravagant to be meted out to the great talent and industry which is annually summed up in these volumes. They are read in every climate and wherever the English language is spoken. They are a credit to American literature and American enterprise.

N. Y. Observer:—HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE fills a place of its own. It has always been entertaining and bright, but has happily combined profit with pleasure, instruction with entertainment. HARPER'S WEEKLY ranks highest in its class of literature, if it does not stand dirtier and alone. It has played an important part in American history, and wields a powerful influence to-day. Keen observers, concise writers, skillful artists, and able and vigorous editorial management have produced a volume equal to any of the series. The WEEKLY will be popular as long as it has the good management which has characterized its past career. . . . There is no more prized and trusted authority in its own particular realm than HARPER'S BAZAR, and numberless ties bind it to its large and refined constituency. . . . But if any youth under eighteen or under eighty can examine five consecutive pages of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE without paying a hearty tribute of laughter, we do not envy him. We confess to the weakness, if such it be, of enjoying the bubbling and irresistible fun of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.

New York Times:—He who reads HARPER'S MAGAZINE will not only become a well informed person; he will find himself familiar with the best moods of his day and generation, with the best that the world is doing in all departments of activity. HARPER'S WEEKLY reflects the world's history, not in details and amplitude so much as by a process of selection, for it notes what is most significant and impressive.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

Per Year:

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.....	$1.00
HARPER'S WEEKLY.....	4.00
HARPER'S BAZAR.....	4.00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.....	2.00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

PUBLISHED BY

HARPER & BROTHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

June, 1894-15.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVI.

SALEM, N. C., SEPTEMBER, 1894.

NUMBER 149.

1802 - 1894,

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features: — the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy.

BY MISS ADELAIDE L. FRIES.

PERHAPS throughout the whole college settlement there is no more comfortable place to be found than the "Sick-room." This was originally in a building back of South Hall, now occupied by domestics' rooms, but when Main Hall was built the entire second floor of the north wing was set apart for this purpose. There are rooms for the Matron, a parlor, dormitories and kitchen, and everything is so bright and cosy that there is always a little danger that some girls may "not feel well" for the pleasure of going there. One of the former matrons used to keep a number of herb teas simmering on the hearth and administered one or another variety to those that came, laughingly asserting that she had once been a girl herself and knew what they needed. So successful was she in her prescriptions that a lengthy stay in the sick-room was usually unnecessary, and the story of her "teas" was handed down by her patients to their children and grand-children, and is repeated by them with great amusement. But the sick-rooms to-day are comparatively little used, for the simple, wholesome life led by the girls does much to ward off illness, and the ease with which contagious disease is quarantined renders epidemics extremely rare.

In September, 1889, a Post Graduate Course was organized, leading to the Degree of A. B., and eight "Posts," under the direction of Miss BAKER, a graduate of Vassar, spent a busy, happy year. At the close of the session each "Post" presented to the Library a book, inscribed, "To our Alma Mater, from .. ..," desiring to be remembered as a loving daughter of the ACADEMY by those who should read and enjoy the volume in later years. Then, in parting, they bequeathed to the School their class color, gold, with the wish that it might be recognized as the School color. Gold! 'Mid all the tints and harmonies of the celestial bow, or of the bright-robed denizens of field and woodland, where could one be found rivalling in lustre that which forms the fairest setting for the sapphire and the diamond, whose very name stands emblematic of all purity and all truth! And for a school, tried in the furnace of nigh a hundred years, with thousands of daughters in whose hearts and lives her principles have stood untarnished through storm and sunshine, while they forged, link on link, love's chain about her, what should the emblem be? Gold, pure, imperishable gold! and may none ever see its beauty dimmed!

In November, 1889, quite a number of the Seniors made a tour of the Northern cities for instruction as well as pleasure. For some years it had been customary for the class to take a short trip together before they said farewell, but that year many of the girls, especially from the far South, gladly embraced the opportunity, and a party of seventeen was soon formed in charge of Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL. The experiment was so successful that the same plan was followed during several succeeding years.

In the fall of 1890 electric lights were run through all the buildings, illuminating the front of the house and sparkling like fireflies over the campus.

In December Park Hall was ready for use. This stands just north of Annex Hall, and a covered passage way connects it with the second story of the latter, while the covered walk from Main Hall also reaches it. On the first floor are the laboratory, Seniors' recitation room, and another class room; on the second floor a study parlor and the rooms of the Industrial Department. This new department was only waiting sufficient space for its organization, and was at once begun. It is especially designed to supply the absence of home training in the direction of domestic duties, and affords the girls who desire it an opportunity to learn, not theoretically but by practice, the art of sewing and dress-making, cooking and the care of the dining-room. The rooms are very conveniently fitted up, and those who have been guests of the girls at a meal which they have prepared pronounce the department a decided success.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Alumnæ Meeting Papers.

WE begin with this number the publication of a series of papers read at the Alumnæ Meeting held in connection with the last Commencement. The papers contain much information in regard to former pupils which could not otherwise be obtained. The papers now in our possession are those read by Mrs. Eliza Morehead Nelson, of Danville, Va.; Miss Blanche Armfield, Jamestown, N. C.; Miss Jennie Sieger, Bethleheh, Pa., and Miss Adelaide Fries, Salem, N. C. The paper here given is the one written by the first name on the list, and in succession we will print the other papers, feeling certain that they will be welcomed by our readers. The list of the class, the reunion of which the paper treats, is as follows:

Emma Sophia Cooper, Sarah Elmina Craig, Ada Real Dodson, Agnes Graham Dulin, Margaret Elizabeth Grier, Della Mary Catherine Hine, Mary Lenoir, Mary Elizabeth Lewis, Eliza Lindsay Morehead, Mattie Bryant Nichols, Mary Estella Nissen, Julia Ida Ragsdale, Alice Jacobson Rondthaler, Martha Hughes Spencer, Elizabeth Elvira Thomas, Laura Jane Wilson, Claudia Augusta Winkler.

Re-union of the Class of 1884.

BY MRS. WM. NELSON.

I greatly appreciate the honor done me in being asked to write a Class Paper, but had you requested a lullaby, or dissertation upon the care and training of children, or the management of servants, it would have been more in my line, and I could have woven beautiful theories.

1894! Is it possible that ten years, yes, ten years, have gone since that June we stepped forth so fearlessly to meet the shadowy future. And could the pages of the life of each be read what tales of joy and sorrow, of tears and happiness, of trials met, of temptations sometimes conquering and sometimes conquered, would be revealed. To some few perhaps the years have brought only sunshine, to some others the sunshine and shadow mingled, while to others the shadow at times has been so dark that even the silver lining was lost sight of.

After ten years in the school of life we all come to our "re-union" with greater appreciation of the careless, happy days spent in the old ACADEMY, and with sincere thanks to teachers who labored, day after day, to show us that only by patience and faithfulness can the efforts of life, whether great or small, be crowned with success. And though we may return, looking and feeling only a little older, which one but will pause and await the days, months and years instead of rushing forward as we once did, saying:

"Then haste thee, time, 'tis kindness all That speeds the winged feet so fast."

For our first sweet youth is gone,—gone from us forever. We all are changed in many respects,—some have even changed their names.

IDA was the first to break the ranks, and as Mrs. Joe Hill she is now training the feet of four little ones day by day and step by step.

We hear from BETTIE as Mrs. Will Hudson, and she, too, has heart and hands full caring for three boys and one girl.

SALLIE comes to us as Mrs. Brady, leading one little tot by the hand.

From Mrs. J. McD. Michael, known as MARY LENOIR, we hear that she would be with us were it not for those two boys.

LIZZIE, after flitting around, came back to her first love, and is now Mrs. Watt Martin. Ah! LIZZIE! we all remember when Watt was only a friend.

Agnes soon found Virginia more attractive than North Carolina, and were she with us we would have to introduce her as Mrs. Ballard Starling.

MATTIE SPENCER, were we to call you, I fear the voice would be drowned by the murmur of the waves on the Pacific shore, so we will send a letter to Mrs. Lee, telling all about our Re-union.

Have we any public grievance? we shall have to ask Mrs. Will Gray, of Washington, more familiar to us as ADA, to lay the matter before the President.

STELLA, known on the stage of life as Mrs. Montague, assures us that little Paul is quite the dearest little fellow!

ELIZA comes along just here as Mrs. Nelson, and assures us just the same thing of her little Harris.

ALICE, as of old, still reflects credit on her class, and is now teacher of Languages in her Alma Mater.

CLAUD is resting under the shadow of the ACADEMY, but EMMA has gone to Tennessee, and we hear that MATTIE NICHOLS is at home.

In 1884 17 answered the roll call, but LAURA, MARY and DELLA,

"They, the holy ones and weakly,
Who the cross of suffering bore,
Folded their pale hands so meekly,
Spoke with us on earth no more."

In 1894 14 answered. 1904!—I pause. Who will answer and who will have joined "that innumerable caravan?"

The pleasure of our Reunion has been marred only that from the fact that the fourteen even chairs have not been filled. Could we but pierce the mists that surround us, or gaze into the invisible world, no doubt we should see the absent ones making desperate efforts to have us understand that they are with us in the spirit.

But, alas! in this working-day, practical world of ours we can no longer close our eyes, call up our absent ones, and hold sweet converse. As "Ships that pass in the night and speak each other in passing,

Only a signal is shown and a distant voice in the darkness,
Lo! on the ocean of life we pass and speak
one another,
Only a look and a voice, then darkness again and silence."

And so, once more, we have drifted together, and are about to pass on again and take up life and its varied responsibilities, but it has renewed our youth and given us greater strength to travel on to the end of the road of life in thus meeting and talking of the days that are no more, and once more bidding each other God speed.

Vacation at the Academy.

THE vacation that has just closed at the ACADEMY was in many respects a peculiar and unusual one. It was unlike any one in the past, since there was a small portion of work laid out for each day as described elsewhere. This removed the feeling that there was nothing to look forward to during the weeks to come before the opening of school. Then, too, it was peculiar from the fact that the numbers were larger than usual, and we may add that it was quite unlike any year in the past because of the fact that we did not have a single pupil in the school who was in a discontented and unpleasant frame of mind. It has been said in the past that it was impossible to have a company of girls in the ACADEMY during vacation and yet have them to be contented and happy. And the belief was almost general that even a good and high toned pupil would degenerate in the course of the summer. Well, perhaps, under the old plan of spending the summer this may be true. But it is equally true that under the plan adopted last summer not only can a company of girls, older and younger, be happy, but the conduct can be without cause for criticism. We give credit to the work of the teachers who so kindly labored to this end, to Miss GOSLING, Miss HEISLER, and Miss SCRIBER, who had duty turns of one month each, and also to Miss LEHMAN, Miss SALLIE and Miss LOU SHAFNER, Miss EMMA CHITTY and Miss TRACY, who gave time and effort in the matter of instruction to the boarding pupils, and who thus contributed very much to the profit as well as to the pleasure of the summer. There were other teachers who kindly assisted in the work of the Summer School, but in this sketch we only refer to the company of boarders, and the work in class, and as a "donation" to the good will of the season. Then, too, we mention with satisfaction the names of the pupils, since the work of the summer was not only to find personal pleasure, which is after all a selfish position to take, but they assumed the task of bringing happiness to others, and in doing this they found the true rule to secure happiness for themselves. If only all, old and young, could realize this truth there would be a great revolution in school life and in life out of school, viz: the great satisfaction that arises from an effort to make others happy, and the great happiness which comes to the one who takes this course.

But we will return to the story of the summer in the school. The list of pupils who remained over summer, or who were with us a longer or shorter time is as follows: PAMELA GOODMAN, SALLIE GOODMAN, POWEL DOBSON, SALLIE GOODRUM, ANNIE SATTERFIELD, RUBY SATTERFIELD, LOULIE BRIDGERS, EMMA SMITH, SUDIE PARISH, SALLIE FARRAR, BERNICE COURTS and ELLA COURTS. It would be impossible to give a detailed list of the experiences of the summer in so short an article, but we will mention the chief occasions that varied the life within the school. The first trip was made to the Pilot Mountain. The entire company were safely stored away in the school wagon, and started northward about seven o'clock in the morning. After a pleasant ride through the charming rolling country which forms the approach to the mountains, they arrived at Mr. Dalton's home about the middle of the afternoon. A warm welcome was accorded the party, and everything was done to give them a pleasant stay.

The next day the party, with Mr. CLEWELL and two of the young gentlemen of the household, brothers of Miss GEORGIE DALTON, an esteemed alumna of the ACADEMY, started on the trip over the mountain some six miles distant. And a royal time they all had. The ride over was on horse back as well as in the wagon. Miss LIZZIE HEISLER was one of the party who took the horseback ride, but we won't tell how very gracefully she came down just in front of our team. Nor will we relate the various experiences of those who climbed the mountain, how one fell six times without getting up once, nor any of the secrets which belong to the party only. The trip lasted three days and was voted an immense success.

Quite a number of picnics were engaged in during the summer: to Friedberg, to Mr. Kimmells, and to other points. The summer car was chartered from time to time, and daylight and moonlight rides enjoyed. Mrs. CLEWELL entertained the pupils and their teachers on a number of occasions, and we must not fail to mention the good supper prepared by several of the ladies for their companions, nor the occasion when the girls united their efforts to prepare a splendid reception with a long bill of fare, social enjoyments at the Principal's House, ending with a moonlight car ride in honor of the teachers residing at the time in the ACADEMY. Then there was the water melon banquets, when the tables were loaded down with the choicest red meat melons, the trees above sparkled with Chinese lanterns and goodwill flowed in the conversation,—we might tell in detail of these and many more summer enjoyments, but space forbids. Of one thing we are convinced, that all who spent the past summer in the ACADEMY will in future years remember it as a very happy and enjoyable summer.

The Vance Memorial Window.

IT will be remembered by our readers that the close of the year was marked by a very pleasing act on the part of the Class of '94, namely to put a Memorial in the ACADEMY Chapel in honor of Senator Vance, who was so warm a friend of the School, and was, at the same time, called away from earth during the last weeks of the class life in the ACADEMY. In this effort they received the warm aid and support of The Twin City Daily Sentinel. and while the effort was a large one, the work has been done so thoroughly that success is not very far distant. The ACADEMY has not yet heard from all of the members of the Class, but hopes ere long to have the list complete. The names thus far given as having sent in money are as follows:

Lizzie Majette,.....	$5 00
Ada Spangh,.....	5 00
Eva Cheatham,.....	5 00
Julia Tuck,.....	5 00
Mattie Kellett,.....	5 00
Daisy Crutchfield,.....	5 00
Alpha Woosley,.....	1 00
Mamie Vaughn,.....	5 00
Emma Vogler,.....	5 00
Cora Cowles,.....	5 00
Sue Reynolds,.....	5 00
Robbie Kyle,.....	5 00
Martha Brown,.....	5 00
Kate Brooke,.....	5 00
Bessie Brooke,.....	5 00
Jennie Anderson,.....	5 00
Katie Hanes,.....	5 00

In addition to these 17 names we have received $2.50 from members of the Class who received that sum from friends. We have also received promises from the following members of the Class, who agree to send gifts in the near future:—Carrie Rollins, Jessie Peterkin, Daisy Thompson, Agnes Stallings, Lena Leslie, Bessie Henderson, Ola White, Beatrice Smith.

The ACADEMY has added a gift of $25. to the above, and the Sentinel has secured from the friends in town and elsewhere $46.50 more. The names of the kind donors in town will be given in our next issue. It will thus be seen that more than $150 in cash has been gathered together, and the pledges will add to this sum, but nearly $100 more is needed if the work is to be a satisfactory work of art, a thing of beauty and a joy forever. Hence we urge the twelve members of the class who have not yet responded to kindly do so, and the gift should be as liberal as possible. We will also ask those who have pledged a sum already to favor us with the money as soon as they can conveniently do so. We may add another appeal, and this is to our Alumnae and friends of the class in general, to aid the young ladies to secure the sum still needed. A small amount sent in, say 25 cents or $1. will add greatly to encourage the class and will enable the order to be placcd with the artist at an early date.

The plan on which the work is now being pushed is to have the window made in the gothic style, about 4x10 feet, in the center placing a bust of the Senator, above the emblem of the "Lamb and Banner," which is on the seal of the Moravian Church, and below the Coat of Arms of North Carolina, with a suitable inscription underneath. The general details of color and design, except the points named above, will, of course, be in the hands of the artist. We have several designs now in hand, which will be cheerfully shown to friends who may call, and we especially invite the pupils who live near enough to the ACADEMY to do so to call as soon as they can and give the Principal any suggestions they may have to make. Mr. CLEWELL will probably make a trip North in October, and it is desirable to have all subscriptions in by that time. Give this matter your prompt and liberal interest and support, and the Class will greatly appreciate the kindness.

—We were much pleased to hear of the fine record made by several of our girls who presented themselves for examination before the school boards in different sections of the country. A letter from Mr. Brooke, of Virginia, informs us that KATE and BESSIE were so successful that they were entitled to the highest certificate which the board could give; but as they were not old enough to receive this certificate they were granted the next grade. We note also that MAMIE BARROW was equally successful, having received 100 on nearly all the subjects. We take pleasure in noting this fact, since it has been claimed that the college studies often unfit a pupil for public school examination. It may be so in some schools, but the above facts show that the methods of instruction followed out at old Salem are as thorough and as broad as of yore, and the pupil who follows out our method is fitted for real life in any field of duty. Our best wishes go with these young workers.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., SEPTEMBER, 1894

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—Patrons will please return the correspondence lists to the office. We desire to give the pupils all the privileges in this matter which parents desire them to have, but our only way to accomplish this is to have a list prepared and placed in our hands by each parent. Hence parents and guardians will confer a favor by returning lists to us as soon as possible.

—Our readers will welcome the first of the papers read at the Alumnæ Meeting. The work required to secure the information contained in these papers was great and hence we rejoice to be able to print the same. Miss ARMFIELD's paper will appear in October.

—We have been so fortunate in securing news this month that fully half must be deferred till our next issue. As soon as the September number has been printed we will begin preparing the October edition, and early in the latter month will print and mail to our subscribers. Thus the September and October numbers must be considered one edition, containing the news of the summer and of the opening month of the year.

—The summer school was a new feature in the history of the school year and proved in every way a success, although there was no effort made to enlarge or expand the work, but the material that naturally presented itself was taken in hand and worked in a most satisfactory manner. We will not repeat the names, as they all appear in another place, but will say here that the work done covered the field of preparation for studies in which difficulties existed on the part of pupils from town. There were a number of teachers who spent the time in the cool retreat of the ACADEMY buildings and park, and at the same time polished up the work that they expect to teach this term of school, while others pursued the accomplishments, such as music, art, elocution, and so on. The pupils who remained all summer as boarders were prevented from suffering with that very unpleasant disease of not knowing what to do, since each day had some task to command the attention, but at the same time there was not sufficient work laid out to destroy the idea that they were enjoying vacation. Thus the summer passed, and about twenty five persons enjoyed instruction under the roof of the old ACADEMY. The first experiment of a summer school in the ACADEMY was certainly a success, and will doubtless lead to preparation for work on a more extended scale another year.

Mr. Clewell's Birthday.

The 19th of September is usually a pleasant Autumnal day, and being the anniversary day of the Principal is observed as a holiday throughout the school. On the date named above, this year, a number of the pupils assembled in the hall of the Principal's house, early in the morning, and sang very beautifully selections from hymns, conveying their good wishes for the year. Hardly had Mr. CLEWELL finished breakfast when he was notified that a delegation was waiting for him in the parlor and upon repairing thither he found a neat speech also awaiting him and in the speech were an abundance of good wishes and also notice that the elegant leather covered lounge or rather couch, around which they were standing was a present for him as a future reminder of the day. The crutch is indeed a handsome piece of furniture of oak, elaborately carved and covered with brown leather. The intrinsic value is a matter to be appreciated, but far greater is the appreciation of the kindly spirit which prompted the gift. The "birthday table" was well loaded with gifts from Mr. CLEWELL's family, also from teachers and other friends, a handsome volume from Bishop RONDTHALER and a beautiful bouquet of various colored water lilies from Dr. Bahnsen were among the material good wishes. At 8:30 o'clock the summer electric car came to the door and from that time until 6 p. m., was busy giving rides to the happy girls. All were supplied with all the rides they desired, the car running probably sixty miles with an average of fifty passengers on each trip over the lines. At 12 o'clock "old Rouser" rang out from the roof the call to the birthday dinner, and right heartily did all respond to this call. The blinds were closed and the electric lights turned on. The bill of fare consisted of chicken and vegetables, candies and fruits, grapes and ice cream, cakes and other good things. At 7:15 p. m., Bishop RONDTHALER delivered a brief lecture in his usual happy style, and at 8 o'clock those who desired repaired to the gymnasium for a final romp, thus closing a very happy day. Mr. PFOHL was very active in preparing for the day and helping to make it pass pleasantly, and some of the friends remarked that it was a little uncertain as to whose birthday it really was.

Correspondence.

—We were favored with an old letter from Knoxville, Tenn., written August 18th, 1817, by ELIZA N. J. RAMSEY, to her father, while she was a school girl here at Salem. She must have been an acquaintance of Mrs. Polk, (Ex-Pres. Jas. K. Polk's widow) as she was here at the same time, and came from the same section. The letter was kindly lent to us by her son who treasures his mother's letters very sacredly, and forwarded to us by LENA CHAFFIN, now Mrs. Charles H. Gill, of Knoxville, Tenn. It is folded in the style of that early day, before envelopes were dreamed of, and sealed with a bright red wafer, which always tore out a piece of the letter in opening. The address is to Col. Francis A. Ramsay, Knox Co., E. Tennessee, Politeness of Mr. Dinkins, and reads as follows:

MY DEAR PAPA:—When so good an opportunity of writing to you as the present occurs, I cannot let it pass unnoticed, for I know you are glad to hear from me at any time. I continue to enjoy very good health; am progressing in my studies, I hope with profit. I have left my good Mama's, and am now boarding in the school-house; it is very confining, but more convenient to board in; the other girls have not come in yet, but I suppose they will shortly. The last mail did not arrive, therefore, if there had been a letter for me it will yet come; it is more than five weeks since I heard from home and I feel very anxious indeed to hear. I expected brothers would have written to me oftener, for they know by experience what a great pleasure it is to hear from home, but I hope they will write oftener after this. I have written every other week, and sometimes every week since I have been here,

I received a letter from cousin J. B. A., last week; she said they were all as well as usual, and one from cousin J. B. C., she says perhaps she will be in Salem in October. Thomas has gone to Chapel Hill.

We have English preaching every Sunday and Friday. On Sabbath morning before we go to church our good Tutorress reads to us from the Christian Herald, and very often in the evening we walk to the graveyard and read in religious tracts.

Mr. REICHEL and his lady intend starting to Pennsylvania in a few days; it is uncertain how long they will stay. Mr. STEINER will be Inspector till he returns. Miss SHOBER (one of the Tutorress) expects to start to Germany shortly.

Mr. Dinkins said he would stay at our house 2 or 3 days, and that he would return by Salem if convenient. Give my love to my dear Ma, Brothers, Cousins and all the family and accept a great share yourself; with pleasure I subscribe myself your Affectionate and only daughter,

ELIZA N. J. B. RAMSAY.

P. S.—P. B. Crozier, B. J. McClung and L. T. Emerson, send their love to you, Ma, and cousin Amelia; P. C. says she would have written home by Mr. Dinkins, but she was too lazy, they are all well.

Such a letter as the one given above, comes to us like a breeze from the long ago, quaint and delicately flavored, suggestive of 77 years ago.

—We also give a few lines from LENA CHAFFIN, who is now resident in Knoxville, Tenn.:

“This is my first letter to you yet I venture to assume that few of your girls think oftener or more affectionately of you. It seems such a short while since I was in Salem that I don’t at all realize that nearly 3 years have rolled by since I bade my school home a reluctant goodbye.

For 5 months I have been happily married and living in Knoxville.

When I came here I was delighted to find that FANNIE GARRETT (BUTNER) EMMA and GRACE COOPER, FANNIE WRAY and CARRIE FRANCISCO had preceded me. This is most genial and pleasant, and when we are together we talk Salem most of the time. I have also met a number of other ladies who were pupils in the ACADEMY and wherever and whenever these daughters meet there seems to be a union of kindred spirits, and a mutual sympathy arises.

While talking with an old gentleman he incidentally spoke of his mother having gone to school in Salem, and my interest was quickened; he showed me a letter which I enclose herein written by his mother; it seemed to be such a relic of the past, and I thought you might like to hear of this pupil, and of the school in its youthful days. I thereupon asked him if I might have it a short while, and I send it to you. Perhaps your girls of to-day would be interested to see how uniquely letters were folded and sealed in those days. The gentleman’s name is Scott, and he knows about all those persons whom his mother mentioned in her letter.

I have just returned from a very pleasant visit of 3 weeks to Virginia, I found LIZZIE well and happy, though she gets lonesome sometimes.

Yours, &c.,

LENA CHAFFIN GILL.

—Our next letter is from one of the members of the class of ’94 just graduated in June:

“Enclosed you will please find five dollars for the Vance Memorial Window. I hope the window will soon be complete. I am very anxious to see it, but am not sure when I will get back to Salem again.

I have had a very pleasant summer, indeed, though it has been entirely too short. I think I will rest till winter, and then perhaps take up a few private studies, and try and improve myself; then next year if I can get a school, I will teach.

We are all expecting you to make us a visit this summer. Miss A. RONDTHALER spent nearly a week with us, and we enjoyed having her so much.

It would give us great pleasure to hear from you. Give my love to Mrs. CLEWELL, DR. RONDTHALER and all whom I know up there.

Your sincere scholar,

MARTHA C BROWN.

Fayetteville, N. C.

—LIZZIE PATTERSON now Mrs. Moffitt, writes as follows:

“My subscription for THE ACADEMY expired, and as I do not wish to miss a single number, I send the renewal now.

Our class seem to be silent of late, MARY STILLWELL being the only one who has written in ever so long. I am housekeeping now, and you may suppose how very new the care and responsibility are to me, but I like it very much. With us it is the old time love in a cottage, and we have the vines too, laden at the present time with honeysuckles.

I hear frequently from MAY FRANKLIN and now and then from other girls of ’93.

A friend from Brooklyn told me that ANNIE MAY SCHOOLFIELD was attending school on Fifth Avenue, New York. My love to Mrs. CLEWELL and the children.

Yours sincerely,

LIZZIE PATTERSON MOFFITT.

Liberty, N. C.

Register of Pupils and Faculty.

BOARDING PUPILS.

Belle Allen	Marie Lawson
Pearl Addison	Georgia Lewis
Addie Alexander	Ellen Lucas
Annie May Adams	Eva Lindsey
Sallie Adams	Cornelia Lineback
Caro Buxton	Annie Lindsay
B. Bridgers	Mary Millis
Maggie Borum	Annie Morton
Sallie Bonner	Maggie Morton
Carrie Bonner	Ida Miller
Beulah Barker	Beulah McMin
Cleve Barnes	Maggie Mason
Anna Barber	Nolie McEachern
Katie Bell	Mamie Mercer
Lizzie Bittig	Mary Moore
Lee Beckham	Kate McIlhenny
Nellie Cummings	Irene McCaless
Minnie L. Curtis	Hattie Olinger
Carrie Curtis	Mary Osterbind
Dovie Chedester	Sallie Parker
Alma Chaffin	L. Pitts
Leah Chaffin	Douschka Pass
Lucy Chadbourne	Sudie Parish
Jennie Crouch	Jennie Patterson
Bessie Cromer	Sessie Richardson
Annie Cheatham	Gertrude Robbins
Addie Claypoole	Blanche Robbins
Daisy Cox	Maggie Robertson
Josie Cannon	Pearl Robertson
Gladys Clark	Ethel Read
Marvin Cole	Ruby Randle
Carrie Covington	Daisy Schoolfield
Ada Courts	Sallie F. Smith
Bernice Courts	Bertha Shelton
Ella Courts	Pearl Snyder
Maud Cheek	Ruby Snyder
Annie Crutchfield	Ina Smitherman
Powell Dobson	Minnie Smitherman
Hattie Ellison	Mabel Smyth
Pearl Floyd	Alice M. Scales
Sallie E. Farrar	Ada Sledge
Ella Fitzpatrick	Annie Satterfield
Ulla Fulmore	Ruby Satterfield
Fannie Faust	Marion Sheppard
Vaneta Goodman	Valesca Steffen
Sallie Goodman	Enma Smith
Florence Glenn	Florence Thomas
Laurie M. Goolsby	Blanche Thornton
Sallie Goodrum	Lottie Thornton
Eva Gentry	Lucile Teague
Kate Gibson	Alice Tatum
Lettie Hairston	Lucia Taylor
Janett Hubby	Elizabeth Taylor
Katherine Horne	Ida Townsend
Julia Jones	Bettie Tyson
Daisy Jefferson	Carrie Tracy
Marie Jefferson	Jennie Wood
Kate Jefferson	Ethel Weaver
Mamie Johnston	Sue Winston
Agnes Johnston	Mary Wallace
Maggie Jones	Charlotte Young
Nannie Keene	Praise Yeagar
Ella Lehman

DAY PUPILS AND SPECIALS.

Ollie Allen	Elizabeth Mickle
Nettie Allen	Irene Montagne
Minnie Allen	Sallie Marler
Annie Booe	Annie Martin
Hattie Butner	Bertha Miller
Ellie C. Butner	Lilly McCreary
Anna Buxton	Sallie B. Ogburn
Annie Bynum	Percy Powers
Florence Brown	Fay Peterson, (Mrs.)
Gertrude Brown	Mattie Pierce
Carrie Bahusou	Maggie Pridgen
Mabel Butner	Alice K. Rawley
Nannie Bessett	Kate Rawley
Bessie Black	Berta Robertson
Estelina Crawford	Ethel Ryle
Daisy Crosland	Georgia Rights
Fanny Conrad	N. M. Rothrock
Ada Collins	Bessie Rempson
Mary Clinard	Clara Robinson
Etta Cornish	Mamie Riggs
Etta Carter	Mamie Roberts
Carrie Crutchfield	Kate Robinson
May Daingerfield	Maggie Rierson
Jessie Doub	Fannie Ruple
Laura Douthit	Daisy Spaugb
Ellen Ebert	Carrie L. Strupe
Mamie Ebert	Agnes Siewers
Lucy Ferguson	Luella Shobe
Ethel Follin	Mary A. Shore
Lucy Ferguson	Catharine Sutton

Minnie Ferguson,
 Junie Ferguson,
 Ida Farris,
 Bessie Foy,
 Lena Foy,
 Maud Foy,
 Ada Fogle,
 Addie Fisher,
 Agnes Garboden,
 Bessie Gray,
 Bessie Grogan,
 Minnie Goolsby,
 Rosa Hege,
 Bessie Harris,
 Daisy Hanes,
 Sadie Hanes,
 Emma Hedgecock,
 Carrie E. Hege,
 Mena Hege,
 Elma Hege,
 Sallie A. Johnson,
 Mabel Johnston,
 Sallie D. Jenkins,
 Lillie A. Jenkins,
 Eva B. Johnston,
 Mary B. Jones,
 Addie E. Kimmel,
 Alberta Kern,
 Estelle Kern,
 Emma Kiger,
 Mamie L. Knause,
 Lillie M. Kiger,
 Carrie Lineback,
 Bertha Lineback,
 Annie Lichtenhaler,
 Bertha Lloyd,
 Amanda Lemly,
 Lucy Lineback,
 Ada V. Leak,
 Daisy Loddrick,
 Gertrude Lane,
 Lizzie McIver,

PROFESSORS AND TEACHERS.

Rt. Rev. E. Roudthaler, D.D.
 Rev. John H. Clewell,
 Prof. Chas. S. Skilton,
 Prof. Chas. J. Brockman,
 Miss E. A. Lehman,
 " Margie Flake,
 " Sarah E. Shaffner,
 " Louisa C. Shaffner,
 " Mary Menning,
 " Florence Menning,
 " Carrie Vest,
 " Otelia Barrow,
 " Carrie Jones,
 " Jane T. Richardson,
 " Lillian Gosling,
 " Lada Morrison,
 " Florence Settle,
 Miss Nell Scales,
 " Emma Chitty,
 " Margaret Bessent,
 " Lizzie Heisler,
 Mrs. A. L. Smith,
 Miss Grace Wolle,
 " Etta Brown,
 " Clara Obery,
 " Gertrude Siewers,
 " Adelaide Scriber,
 " Antoinette C. Tracy,
 " Sarah L. Vest,
 " Augusta Hagen,
 " Alice Roudthaler,
 " Amy Van Vleck,
 " Louisa Van Vleck.

Total unreported names, 366.

Chronicle and Gossip.

The large edition of the ACADEMY, consisting of a little more than 50,000 copies was mailed during the months of June, July and August. It was a great task to attend to.

—We received a call from Mrs. Wm. C. Stubbs, Audubon Park, New Orleans, La., granddaughter of Mary Frances Watkins, Class of 1817. The latter was from Petersburg, Ga., and died in 1889.

—Misses LIZZIE WOLLE and JENNIE SIEGER, who had spent a portion of the summer visiting in Salem, Winston and other points, returned to their home in Pennsylvania at the end of August.

—We were pained to learn of the death of the father of one of our former pupils, MARY ATKINSON. Mr. Natt Atkinson, a prominent citizen of Asheville, died of heart failure at Salisbury in August. Our sympathy goes out to MARY and the other members of the family in their distress.

—We have received a very beautiful specimen of Indian arrow-head, very small ( $\frac{1}{2}$  x  $\frac{1}{4}$  in.), and the most perfect one in our collection. It was donated by Mr. J. I.

Hall, Covington, Tenn. The specimen was found in La Grange, Texas, on the Colorado River, and is supposed to have been used in shooting prairie dogs. Mr. Hall visited the school in company with his daughter, Mrs. Bailey, of Mocksville, in July last.

—Mr. PFOHL made several trips this summer to visit pupils and to pay his respects to them in their homes. One visit was to Virginia and Tennessee, and the other to the eastern portion of North Carolina and into South Carolina. He requests us to return thanks to the many friends who contributed to his pleasure during the time he was away, —The 13th of August (celebrated on the 12th) commemorating the great rival in Germany in 1727, proved to be a day of unusual enjoyment for the Salem Congregation. The day was fine, the services well attended and the spirit abroad unusually earnest. The date given above does not commemorate the founding of the Moravian Church, as is sometimes stated, for the Moravian Church was founded nearly three centuries earlier.

—An unusually small amount of sickness prevailed in our town during the past months. As already stated during the three spring months there was not a single death in Salem, with a population of 5,000, and The Twin-City Daily Sentinel called long and loud for a town to beat that record, but there was no answer. The month of July was also without a death in Salem, except in the case of a little child who was here on a visit, and died from the effects illness contracted before it arrived at our place.

—Mr. CLEWELL visited Morehead City this summer in order to address the Teachers' Assembly on the subject "What is Female Education." The sessions of the Assembly were attended by a large number of educators, and were a source of pleasure as well as profit to those who were present. The addresses were printed in full in a special edition of the North Carolina Teacher, and we will print the one named above at a later date.

—The Senior Class is far larger this year than ever before in the history of the school. It now numbers 55 full course pupils, and this number is increased at times by the "specials" who join the Senior Class in a number of recitations. The growth of this class has been natural and normal, and it has been accumulating its strength for the past 4 years. The class at the close of last year numbered 70, and the members were then, of course, Juniors.

—We had the pleasure, during the summer, of hearing from a number of our former pupils who are filling positions of usefulness and honor, and would be very glad to have a line from other former pupils, informing us of their intentions for the coming year. Among the number who have written us we note the names of LOULIE BRIDGERS, MATTIE BELO WILLIAMS, HATTIE SUTTON, ELLA SIDDALL, JULIA TUCK, LAURA LESLIE, LOUIE SIDDALL, MAMIE PETERSON, and a number of others whose names we cannot recall at this moment. We will be very glad to hear what you are doing this winter, either in educational work or in other fields of duty.

—Mrs. Stonewall Jackson made a very pleasant visit to our towns in August. She was the guest of Mrs. Willis Hall, and while here paid her respects to her Alma Mater, the ACADEMY. Quite a number of friends were pleased to pay their respects to her, both because of her former association with the School, and also because of the consideration felt for her late distinguished husband. It was suggested by some one during her visit that a memorial window might well be placed in the ACADEMY Chapel beside the one in memory of Gov. Vance, to do honor to the great and good general. We give the suggestion as a hint to the Class of '95. To us it is always a matter of great satisfaction to receive visits from our Alumnae.

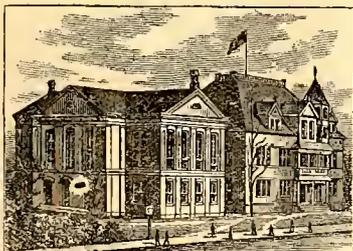

—It is pleasing to note with what energy and spirit our recent graduates are taking up the work of life, largely in teaching. KATE CRANOR has taken a position in the Primary Department of the Yadkin Valley Seminary. LOUIE SIDDALL returned to Elkin in August to take charge of her school. ALPHIA WOOSLEY and ADA SPAUGH have both taken charge of schools in the country. MATTIE B. WILLIAMS is making her mark as a successful teacher. JULIA TUCK has gone to teaching. BEATRICE SMITH who just graduated in June has also accepted a position as teacher near her home. LENA COLWELL has joined the same worthy company and is doing good work, besides many others, not forgetting our good friends BESSIE and KATE BROOKE, of Sutherland, Va., and MARGE FLAKE who is Miss LEHMAN'S assistant in the Senior rooms.

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs E. L. Smith, Mrs C D Dixon, Mt Pleasant, Texas; Miss Jennie Anderson, Statesville, N C; Mrs Dr Strickland, Bethania, N C; Mrs L K Anderson, Spartanburg, S C; Mrs David Pender, Tarboro, N C; Mrs Jane B French, Princeton, W Va; Miss Julia Tuck, Selma, N C; Miss Sue Reynolds, Bristol, Tenn; Mrs F W Foster, Wilmington, N C; Miss Jennie Sieger, Miss Olivia Warner, Bethlehem, Pa; Miss Beulah Brooks, Nashville, N C; Mrs J S Wilson, Greensboro, Ga; Miss Maggie David, Bennettsville, S C; Mrs A V Winkler, Corsicana, Texas; Mrs Sallie Jarvis Gibbs, Asheville, N C; Mrs W J Peterson, Mrs Geo Rights, Mrs John Stockton, Miss Pearl Addison, Miss Cassie Barton, Mrs W A Lemly, Mrs W B Ellis, Salem, N C; Mrs Kate Fuller, Winston, N C.

Married.

PEARSALL—BIZZELLE.—Mr. S. PEARSALL, of Rocky Mount, N. C., to Miss ADDIE BIZZELLE.
 HITT—WHITE.—On June 20th, Mr. W. H. HITT to Miss LULA WHITE, of Winston, N. C.
 PITTMAN—SHEPHERD.—On June 13, Mr. W. L. PITTMAN to Miss IDA SHEPHERD, of Winston, N. C.
 WRIGHT—THORNBURG.—In Winston, N. C., on June 28th, Mr. W. C. WRIGHT to Miss ADA THORNBURG.
 TAYLOR—BUTNER.—In Salem, N. C., Sept. 5, Mr. J. W. TAYLOR, of Atlanta, Ga., to Miss MAUD BUTNER.
 NISSEN—KIRK.—In the First Presbyterian Church, Winston, N. C., Mr. ROBERT L. NISSEN to Miss MARGUERITE BIRCHER KIRK.

OAK RIDGE INSTITUTE.

OAK RIDGE, N. C.

J. A. & M. H. HOLT, Principals.

The most elegantly equipped Classical, Scientific and Commercial School in the South. Young Men and Boys. 85th Session begins August 21st. Send for Catalogue. June '94-1y.

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE,

On Car Line, near Academy, Main St.

Nestling in the midst of the old historic part of Salem, a stroll along the well shaded street will lead you to the Store, where you will find a good assortment of

BOOKS, STATIONERY AND FANCY GOODS. Call and see us or write to

L. V. & E. T. BLUM, Salem, N. C.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken. Terms $295 per annum. The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893. Rev. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL, A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART. Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address DAVIS SCHOOL Winston, N. C.

1793. 1894.

BINGHAM SCHOOL, FOR BOYS.

Established in 1793.

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESIDENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from prominent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANITATION are the BEST in the SOUTH, and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogue giving full particulars, address

Maj. R. BINGHAM, Superintendent.

Horner Military School, OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights, Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 4.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY, Principals.

June 1892-1y

HOTEL JONES,

J. L. JONES, late of Jones House, Propriet'r. WINSTON, N. C.

All modern conveniences provided. Electric lights and bells. Table abundantly supplied with the very best that the market affords. We are anxious to please.

RATES, $2.00 PER DAY.

At Depot ask for Jones House 'Bus. Reference: Salem Female Acad'my.

May, 1894.

June 15, 1894.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Our entire line of

SPRING AND SUMMER DRESS GOODS

will be sold from now until July 15th, 1894, at a

Cash Discount of 10 Per Cent.

In our SHOE DEPARTMENT we will also give same discount on LOW SHOES and SLIPPERS.

UNDER THE GUILLOTINE

75 Rolls of handsome

CARPETS

led to execution at the following reductions:

Body Brussels,	worth $1 35 at $1 00
All Wool 3 ply Ingrain,	" 1 80 " 80
" " 2-ply " "	" 85 " 60
" " " " "	" 7. " 52½
Half " " " "	" 65 " 50
" " " " "	" 50 " 37½

35c. Carpet at 25c.

ALL RUGS AT THE SAME PROPORTION.

Remnants of Carpet at Half-price.

Our entire line of

LACE CURTAINS

will be offered AT COST.

Very Respectfully,

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,

WINSTON, N. C.

May, 1894.

Norfolk & Western Railroad.

THE SHORT BEST AND QUICK ROUTE

TO

Winston-Salem, N. C.,

FROM

Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee and all Southern Points.

PULLMAN VESTIBULED SLEEPERS

from Memphis and New Orleans to Roanoke, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Patrons of Salem Female Academy will have only one change of Cars at Roanoke, Va., from THE NORTH AND EAST. Pullman Vestibuled Sleepers daily from New York and Washington via Royal Blue Line and Shenandoah Valley Route to Roanoke, Va., where connection is made for Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond and Norfolk.

Sleeping Car Reservation and reliable information furnished.

Write or see one of the following agents before purchasing your tickets.

W. L. KOHR, Western Pass. Agent.
 Reed House, Chattanooga, Tenn.
 W. B. BEVILL, M. F. BRAGG,
 Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
 ROANOKE, VA.

une 1892-1y

A SURE CURE FOR

DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Take a half hour dose of Bicycling two to three times a day. It is pleasant medicine.

Bicycles for Sale and Rent by

SENSEMAN & BRICKENSTEIN, SALEM, N. C.

June, 1894.

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

BOSTON BLOCK, = Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable.

Apply to FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N. C.
September, 1893.—tf.

Our Specialties:

STERLING SILVERWARE,
FINE WATCHES,
DIAMONDS.

We have everything else kept in a first-class Jewelry Store.

Special attention paid to mail orders.

Fine Repairing and Engraving.

Very Respectfully,

W. T. Vogler & Son,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

JOHN GILL, Receiver.

in connection with the

Norfolk & Western R. R.,

via Walnut Cove.

Atlantic Coast Line,

via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH

between

WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to

J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Sup't. Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.
E. B. KEARNS, Agt. N. & W. R. R.,
Winston, N. C.

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVE. N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $725

BOX & CONTENTS 3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF 1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
SKETCHING STOOL .50
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

READ!

The S. F. A. ALUMNÆ, their friends and all others will find at

S. E. ALLEN'S,

Hardware & Crockery Store,

Winston, N. C.,

many useful Decorative, Household and Parlor Furnishing Goods of the latest designs.

Also a complete assortment of Tinware, Glassware, Stoves and Holloware, and Hardware for the Mechanic, Farmer, Contractor, Merchant and all others at prices to induce sales.

Call and examine or write for prices.
June, 1894-19.

WHAT THEY SAY OF HARPER'S PERIODICALS

New York Sun:—The manifold art that is represented here has a fascination as great as any fascination that may attach to books. The two volumes of the MAGAZINE are entirely beautiful in their pictorial features, and the literary part of them is marked by great and varied attractions. The WEEKLY is a chronicle, valuable, rich in entertainment, the BAZAR is a trustworthy repository of the fashions, and it has many desirable things besides, the YOUNG PEOPLE is in the first rank of publications for boys and girls. This is a splendid array. But it is hardly necessary to say so. The whole world knows it.

Philadelphia Ledger:—It is one of the many distinctions which have made the fame of the Harpers that they are always in advance of the times. No firm, it is safe to say, has done more to raise the tone and morale of weekly and monthly literature than have the Harpers. They have catered to the popular taste in so far that they have supplied to their clients the best goods only, but they have never courted a dubious notoriety. No word has ever been printed in their periodicals which could not be quoted without offence in any home circle. The most lavish praise is not too extravagant to be meted out to the great talent and industry which is annually summed up in these volumes. They are read in every climate and wherever the English language is spoken. They are a credit to American literature and American enterprise.

N. Y. Observer:—HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE fills a place of its own. It has always been entertaining and bright, but has happily combined profit with pleasure, instruction with entertainment. HARPER'S WEEKLY ranks highest in its class of literature, if it does not stand distinct and alone. It has played an important part in American history, and wields a powerful influence to-day. Keen observers, concise writers, skillful artists, and able and vigorous editorial management have produced a volume equal to any of the series. The WEEKLY will be popular as long as it has the good management which has characterized its past career. . . . There is no more prized and trusted authority in its own particular realm than HARPER'S BAZAR, and numberless ties bind it to its large and refined constituency. . . . But if any youth under eighteen or under eighty can examine five consecutive pages of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE without paying a hearty tribute of laughter, we do not envy him. We confess to the weakness, if such it be, of enjoying the bubbling and irresistible fun of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.

New York Times:—He who reads HARPER'S MAGAZINE will not only become a well informed person; he will find himself familiar with the best minds of his day and generation, with the best that the world is doing in all departments of activity. HARPER'S WEEKLY reflects the world's history, not in details and amplitude so much as by a process of selection; for it notes what is most significant and impressive.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

Per Year:

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.....$4.00
HARPER'S WEEKLY.....4.00
HARPER'S BAZAR.....4.00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.....2.00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

PUBLISHED BY

HARPER & BROTHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '94-19.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVII.

SALEM, N. C., OCTOBER, 1894.

NUMBER 150.

1802-1894,

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features:— the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy.

BY MISS ADELAIDE L. FRIES.

THE Seniors of '91 became the observed of all observers when they appeared for the first time in cap and gown,—a costume which adapts itself wonderfully to every style of girl, tall or short, dark or fair. The development of class emblems was gradual. Badges were introduced in 1881, rings were substituted and class colors and motto added in 1887, and when class flowers, too, were used in 1889 nothing new was left in that direction, so 1891 took them all and with them the Oxford cap and gown. The town today has grown accustomed to the sight of black-robed maidens, but finds them no less interesting, for each year brings new faces to rejoice in their badge of superiority.

The latest addition to the school was made in the summer of 1892. The two Literary Societies had grown and flourished, and requested that a building might be erected in which they could find a permanent resting place, as ere this they had sadly proved the transitory nature of earthly habitations. Therefore, Society Hall was built, east of the Chapel and opposite Annex Hall, which it somewhat resembles in general style. The first floor is used for class-rooms, the second is given up entirely to the Euterpean and Hesperian Societies, each having a large, cheerful hall, and overhead is the school-museum, lately begun but promising well for the future. The yard, or campus, is thus hemmed in on all sides except towards the pleasure grounds, and with its six distinct buildings, its soft green grass and gravel walk, its great willow and other trees, its fountain surrounded by ferns and flowers, its memorial steps, its swings, and its merry girls passing and repassing, makes a picture difficult to excel.

Those girlish forms as they pass to and fro are, all unconsciously, weaving the many colored mantle which will be handed down to coming generations as the story of To day,—and what will the history of the Future be? Ask the Past and you will hear: "Ever onward, ever upward, never swerving from the principles which governed the years gone by, but ever ready to see and assimilate the best of what is new in the present, ever striving to fulfill the purpose of its being and build up a strong Christian womanhood to bless our land." And of the Past,—has it been truly chronicled? Ask yon rose what other buds the south wind kissed ere it reached her side, ask that bee what honey was stored away through all the balmy summer days, force yonder light-winged bird to designate each cloud that has floated over his head, each sunbeam he has met, and then expect to find upon some snowy page the true record of almost a hundred years. From Maine to Mexico, from sea to sea, aye, and beyond the seas, are thousands of happy homes, all unknown to fame, where SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY is never mentioned but that some heart whispers, "God bless her!"

THE END.

Report of the Class of '87.

THE following paper was read by Miss BLANCHE ARMFIELD at the general Alumnæ meeting in June last, and in addition to this we have been kindly furnished with the letters referred to, and will take pleasure in publishing them from time to time. THE ACADEMY cannot perform a more logical mission than to thus keep alive the memories of the past, and follow the present course of experiences of its daughters. The paper read by Miss ARMFIELD is as follows:

When we, the Class of '87, parted in June, each made a solemn vow to be present at a re-union to be held at the World's Fair in 1893, but this, like many other "plans of mice and men," was destined never to be consummated; but, unlike most of our disappointments, has proved a happy one after all, for it is particularly pleasant and appropriate to hold our first reunion here within the walls of the old ACADEMY,—here, where we struggled up the ladder of learning, where some of our strongest ties of friendship were formed, and where cluster so many tender recollections of the past.

We are especially happy to meet our old teachers again, and are pleased to note that our much loved pastor and Principal is still connected with the school, though in a different capacity; he was even more than pastor and Principal, he was a warm personal friend to each of us, except in Latin class. Somehow we never could bring ourselves to admire the beauties of the Roman tongue as he did, and we hope that he has changed only in this one particular, a little more leniency in "Cæsar de Bello Gallico."

Visions of our honored Assistant Principal, with a ruler under one arm and a Geometry under the other, rise before us. It is especially gratifying to find him so worthily filling the Principal's chair. Here's long life to Bishop RONDTHALER and Mr. CLEWELL!

The classes since ours must have been better and less wearing to the patience, since Time seems to have dealt so leniently with our beloved Senior teacher, Miss LEHMAN. We now recall many noble principles which she instilled into our girlish minds, though, perhaps, we did not understand them then as we do now, and "if there be any honor, and if there be any beauty in us," to Miss LEHMAN belong a large share of the credit.

But we are pained to miss from his accustomed place the face of one dear teacher Prof. WURRESCHKE. We were particularly fond of him, and the hours spent in his laboratory are among the most pleasant memories of our school-life.

As we note the various improvements made in the ACADEMY since our departure, the numerous additions to the Library, Park and Society Halls, Industrial Department, electric lights and telephone, and last, but by no means least, the improvement in fare, we fain would bid the wheels of Time roll backward, and make us school-girls again.

As a class we were fond of doing new things, and succeeded in introducing class colors (pink and blue), a class motto (Per Aspera ad Astra) and rings instead of badges. I fully expected that some of us would discover perpetual motion, or invent an air-ship, thus convincing the world that there are new things under the sun.

Our bright valedictorian, JENNIE RAGSDALE, seems to be the only ambitious one of the class; she is pursuing a course in Bryn Mawr College, Pa., where, we are glad to hear, she is taking a remarkably high standing. Some of our members have trod the gilded halls of Fashion, and no doubt their popularity is attested by the number of broken hearts they cherish as trophies, but the majority of us seem to be content in the quieter walks of life, thus fulfilling Kingsley's beautiful lines:

"Be good, sweet maid, and let who will be clever,
Do noble things, not dream them all day long;
And so make life, death, and that vast forever,
One grand sweet song."

As we recall the list of members, 29 all told, we find that 15 of them have formed new ties, have chosen lords and masters, and gracefully preside over homes of their own, ruled by a sweet (?) little cherub or two, while we wiser 10 yet find our greatest happiness in the homes of our childhood, ministering to those earliest friends, who, perhaps, are best after all.

And now I come to pay a loving tribute to those two who have been already called up higher. DOAKIE WALKER'S death, occurring as it did one short month after graduation, in the full flush and promise of girlhood, was peculiarly sad, though not altogether unexpected, as she was of a delicate constitution; but little did we think that our merry, winsome EMMA, the favorite of the 1st Senior Room, and beloved by all, both teachers and pupils, would so soon be called away. Always happy and cheerful, kind and affectionate, hers was a lovely character, indeed, and we cannot resist asking why she was thus early removed from life, when it seemed most beautiful to her; but how dare we murmur, since we know that always "His ways are just, His counsels wise." As I read, the sweet spirit of her gentle presence seems to waft us a benediction, and beckons us onward and upward. We sympathize deeply with her twin-sister, MATTIE, and assure her of our sisterly love.

And I wish to extend, in behalf of the Class, hearty and loving sympathy to Maggie Tillery Davenport, who has been sorely bereaved in the death of her young husband, in one year after their marriage. The nectar-crowned chalice of love was rudely dashed from her lips ere she had but grasped it.

We are sorry not to have more present at our reunion, but we are so widely scattered from Pennsylvania to Texas, and out in far-away California, and life has so many cares and duties, more than we realized when at school. We are especially glad to greet JENNIE SIEGER and ELIZABETH WOLLE, who have come so far and done so much toward making our reunion a success. We are also greatly indebted to REBECCA for many kindnesses shown us,—we are glad to find her, as Mrs. Will Brown, living in Winston, the queen of a happy and elegant home.

We earnestly trust that we may have many more reunions before we are all so old as to forget the delightful companionship of former days, and if we are not to meet again in this life, may we be reunited "in the great beyond, where the angels stay," with our great Master, Christ Jesus.

O may we join the choir invisible,
Of those immortal dead who live again,
In lives made better by their presence; live
In pulses stirred to generosity;
In deeds of daring rectitude; in scorn
Of miserable aims that end with self;
In thoughts sublime that pierce the night like stars,

And with their wild persistence, urge men's search
To vaster issues.

So to live is heaven,
To make undying music in the world." * * *

"May we reach that purest heaven,
Be to others the cup of strength in some great agony,

Enkindle generous ardor, feed pure love,
Beget the smiles that have no cruelty,
Be the sweet presence of a good diffused,
And in diffusion ever more intense.
So shall we join the choir invisible,
Whose music is the gladness of the world."

Reunion of Class of '87

THE Class of '87 held its first reunion in Society Hall, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Jennie Sieger was appointed Chairman pro tem, and called the meeting to order.

The following officers were unanimously elected: President, Mrs. W. M. Brown (Rebecca Marks), Winston, N. C.; Vice President, Miss Elizabeth Wolle, Bethlehem, Pa.; Secretary, Miss Blanche Armfield, High Point, N. C., and Treasurer, Miss Alice Ollinger, Milton, Fla.

Jennie Sieger then read a tender welcome to the members present. It was beautifully written, and brought back many happy memories of our school life.

The time of holding our next reunion was then decided upon. We agreed to meet again in June, '98.

Interesting letters from Millie Gentry Anderson, Luta Bewley Sullivan, Victoria Swann Susong, Della David Morrison, and Maggie Tillery Davenport were read by Rebecca Marks Brown. We were so glad to hear from them and to know that they are happy in homes of their own.

Though there were only 7 present, and while without all was dark and gloomy, we were bright and happy within,—happy in clasping hands of old friends and gazing into the familiar faces of our girlhood associates, and doubly happy in reviving old and sometimes well-nigh forgotten scenes and incidents of our companionship in our Alma Mater. It was with regret that we parted, hoping to meet again at the Commencement of '98.

To the Absentees of the Class of '87:

We held our reunion to-day; the following members being present: Kittie May Penn, Rebecca Marks Brown, Addie Shore Siddall, Alice Ollinger, Jennie Sieger, Elizabeth Wolle, and Blanche Armfield.

We were sorry not to have each of you with us, but we know that since so many of you are married, your duties are more numerous than when you were school-girls, and it is not so easy to leave home. We know how much you would have enjoyed being with us, and no doubt your thoughts to-day keep straying to Salem and our reunion.

We thought and spoke of each of you, wondering how life had passed with you since we saw you last. We earnestly trust that your "lines have fallen in pleasant places," and assure you of our love and sympathy in every sorrow, and likewise rejoice in your every success.

We are to have another reunion in June, '98, and we hope that you can all meet with us then. We earnestly pray that life's sorrows may fall lightly on your young brows, and may God so order your lives as to make you true noble women, each happy in filling her proper sphere, thus making the world brighter and better for our having lived in it.

May our love for each other and for S. F. A. never grow cold, and we close trusting that our Father will gather us all together in the great Reunion above.

"We meet at one gate
When all's over. The ways they are many and wide,
And seldom are two ways the same. Side by side
May we stand at the same little door when all's done,
The ways they are many, the end it is one."

BLANCHE ARMFELD, Sec'y.

City Bells.

THE following is one of the many poems in which the gifted Salem poet, John Henry Boner, sings of some of the memories of his youth, memories which are equally dear to many an ACADEMY girl. These old landmarks are preserved with the greatest care at the present time, and it is doubtful if a more beautiful spot can be found in the entire South than the Moravian graveyard of which the poet speaks. Mr. Boner is now in New York, connected with that greatest of great dailies, the New York World. He also earned laurels as one of the editors of the Century Dictionary.

A sound of music gently swells
Along the breeze—it comes and goes
Faintly, and now to clamor grows.
The bells are ringing—Sabbath bells.

From belfries dedicate to saints,
And steeples called by holy names
Of men who died for Christ in flames,
The music bursts, and flies and faints
Far up in air, along the blue
Still shore of heaven, and into spray
Of silvery silence dies away.

Now slowly, softly breaking through
The mist that veils departed years,
With half-shut eyes I dimly see
A picture dear as life to me—
The place where I was born appears—
A little town with grassy ways
And shady streets, where life hums low,
(A place where world-worn men might go
To calmly close their fading days).

One simple spire points to the skies
Above the leafy trees. I hear
The old Moravian bell ring clear,
But see no more—tears fill my eyes.

No more have I in that dear place
A home; and saddest memories cling—
Ah, sad as death—to everything
About it. But, by God's grace,
Where'er it be my fate to die,
Beneath those trees in whose dark shade
The first loved of my life are laid
I want to lie.

The Vance Memorial Window.

LAST month we published the list of the members of the Class of 1894 who had contributed a sum to the Vance Memorial Window, and we are pleased to add the name of Miss MARGIE FLAKE, with a gift of $5.00. We hope soon to add the remaining names. Nineteen have thus far been heard from, leaving 18 to yet make a payment.

Below we give the names of those who have thus far contributed smaller or larger sums to this worthy object. If any names have been omitted from the list we will be pleased to have you drop us a card, and we will publish it next month. We certainly appreciate the kind interest which the Sentinel has thus shown, and it is probable that the first and most lasting monument to our good Governor will be erected in the Twin-City. The list referred to is as follows:

Salem Academy,
J R Walker,
R E Carmichael,
J H Pratt,
A B Gnyton,
Miss C E Lloyd,
G Nancy Alsop,
E H Crawford,
Henry Roan,
Melville Hamlin,
Charles Lambe,
F W McClement,
Howard Rondthaler,
Mrs H E Fries,
J A Gray,
J H Montagne,
W A Blair,
G P Phillips,
W H Leonard,
A B Paul,
J C Buxton,
Roland Harris,
W W Keen,
W S Clary,
A L Groves,
N G Fletcher,
J L Shell,
James Schouler,
Dr D N Dalton,
D H Browder,
J B Mosely,
Cicero Tise,
W C Crist,
W W Orrender,
Dr H T Bahnsen,
Judge Wilson,
E B Kearns,
Willis E Hall,
L E Steere,
E P Winkler,
W L Kurfes,
R E Transou,
J A McDowell,
P W Crutchfield,
Capt S E Allen,
Clarence Clewell,
Reginald Clewell,
H R Starbuck,
Miss Mary Keehln,
Bahnsen Keehln,
Maj J G Young,
W W Wood, Sr,
C H Wood,
W W Wood, Jr,
Alice C Wood,
Nannie M Wood,
Carrie H Wood,
Stella Farrow,
T A Wilson,
Rev R E Caldwell,
P S Preston,
G A Boozer,
C A Jones,
J W Dry,
W L Hampton,
J J Ferguson,
Mannie Roberts,
F C Meisinger,
Violet Alspaugh,
Addie Jennings,
W H Wheeler, Jr,
Rev James Jefferson,
Mrs Fanny Casey,
J P Plunket,
Leo Wheat Concert,
E H Wilson,
W F Burbank,
W J Martin,
E J Davis,
B S Phillips,
R C Taylor,
G E Markland,
Ernest Dalton,
W B Pollard,
J M Guyer, Kernersville,
Markland & Allop,
H E Fries,
Miss Marguerite Fries,
W A Lemly,
Maj T J Brown,
D H Blair,
Peter Easley,
T B Crawford,
J L Price,
R H Leonard,
W C Brown,
Oscar Griffin,
Miss Dena Celeste Ogburn,
Sam Taylor,
Dr C L Sumners,
John Hume,
D D Schouler,
C A Reynolds,
W M Mosely,
J R Justice,
E H Miller,
D F Crowell,
L L Hege,
Dr W L Brown,
W F Medearis,
J K Pfohl,
E W O'Hanlon,
Miss M B Daingerfield,
E B Waits,
J C Goodman,
J C Thomas,
W L Pittman,
M G Follin,
J F Jeffreys,
John Clewell, Jr,
Katie Kibuck,
J A Lineback,
Miss Bertha Lineback,
Miss Caroline Lineback,
Winfield Young,
J L Wood,
N H Wood,
M L Wood,
W H Wood,
Josie L Wood,
Anna Farrow,
Walter Grimes, Jr,
O W Hanner,
L N Clinard,
R L Hendrix,
E T Blum,
N T Shore,
C S Hampton,
Dr J F Shafner,
M C Whitman,
Blanche Gumm,
C P Love,
Mildred Jennings,
Nellie Wheeler.
H C Lemly.

—The spirit of kindly feeling is growing within the ACADEMY. We had occasion to note last month how the teachers and pupils were vieing with each other in endeavoring to establish a spirit of mutual pleasure-giving. In connection with the recent enlarging of the Senior Class room, which was an actual necessity, the class looked upon the matter as a special kindness to them, and sent the following note to the Principal. This spirit of kindly acknowledgement is one that does much to sweeten life's pathway:

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,
Salem, N. C.

REV. JOHN H. CLEWELL:
Dear Sir:

We, the Senior Class of 1894-'95, do extend to you our grateful thanks for our new class room. The improvement which has been effected has not only been a benefit to the room but has given us the most pleasant class room in the house.

Very respectfully,

THE SENIOR CLASS.

By order of the President.
September 21st, 1894.

—The following letter explains itself. The plants came to hand and are all growing nicely. The courtesy is very highly appreciated:

"Mrs. L. H. Walker, V. R. for N. C., is anxious that you should have a few little plants from Mt. Vernon, which I forward by express this day, with the sincere hope that they prove interesting not only as souvenirs of this sacred spot so dear to all true Americans, but likewise of Mrs. Walker's kindly thought of your Institution. Please let me know of safe arrival.

"Yours very truly,

"FRANKLIN A. WHELAN."

*Mt. Vernon, Fairfax Co., Va.,
July 11, 1894.*

—Principal W. J. Young, of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum, Raleigh, N. C., informs us that additional facilities have been added to their institution, and they desire to bring under the blessed influences of the Asylum all the afflicted ones of the State.

—We have received from Mr. C. N. Curtis a pamphlet setting forth the business interests of Waco, Texas, the home of a number of our pupils. Among other illustrations we notice the home and place of business of Mr. Curtis, and we have taken great interest in examining these and other points in the handsome pamphlet which introduces us to the beautiful city of Waco.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., OCTOBER, 1894.

*Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.*

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.

Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
MISS EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—With this issue begins the XVII. volume of THE ACADEMY. We are happy to state that the journal is on a solid financial basis, and that its future prosperity is assured. Its influence in building up the school has been incalculable and its labors in behalf of the Alumnae and other interests have been crowned with success. Its immense June edition (50,000) was a great feat among school journals, and we feel sure that in the future, as in the past, it will be a strong advocate for the higher education of young women.

—With this issue we close the historical sketch, so ably written by Miss ADELAIDE L. FRIES. The work was not an easy one, and not only was effort required to write the history, but a great deal more was necessary to compile the matter before the writing could begin. It has been a welcome visitor during the past months to many of our readers, and we have no doubt but that its completion will be accompanied by many regrets. We hope to publish it in pamphlet form sooner or later, and we may add that we hope to be favored with other similar sketches from the gifted pen of this loyal member of the Alumnae circle.

—Parents have thus far kindly observed our request on the box question, and we are grateful for the fact. But for fear that there may be some among our new patrons who do not understand this rule, we will again state that nothing is received at the school in the shape of catables except fruit or small boxes of candy. This rule is like the rule of the Meades and Persians, it does not alter in any particular. A cracker or a cake is treated in the same manner as a roast turkey or a boiled ham. Every effort is made to supply the pupils with a varied bill of fare, and experience has shown that a large number of boxes will introduce irregularities as to meals, will fill the sickroom, will make large doctor's bills, will interfere with studies and are a nuisance generally. For these reasons parents will not take offence if nothing is delivered in the list given above if inadvertently sent by some friend.

Gymnasium Practice.

One of the promising features of the year thus far is the unusual interest in Gymnasium practice. The ACADEMY has always placed great stress on physical culture as a necessity in connection with successful work in study. Calisthenics, walks, sports in the school park, and other methods of physical culture exist. But when winter is ushered in the tennis ball must be laid aside, and the long walks must come to an end. Hence, it is with a great deal of satisfaction that the friends of the school have noticed the increasing interest in the gymnasium practice. The gymnasium is fitted out with a full set of modern apparatus, such as ladders, rings, parallel bars, horizontal bar, and so on. The teachers are all much interested in this development, and the pupils are being provided with the gymnasium costume used in the great colleges north and in ladies' gymnasiums in Boston, New York and Philadelphia. The entire school meets in the afternoon for half an hour's general calisthenic drill, consisting of free exercises, also with wands, dumb bells, marching, running and so on. Then a special class meets for practice on the apparatus alluded to, and thus far some fifty or more have joined. Two or three teachers are in charge of each division of 12 or 15 pupils, and every movement is watched with the greatest care to avoid accident. It is remarkable what skill has been attained even within so short a time as a month. And what is more wonderful is the increased strength of those who take this drill. One young lady said some days since that at home she was always suffering from pains and troubles resulting from neuralgia and rheumatism, and that she had come to the ACADEMY more because she felt better in the midst of the regularity of school life, but that last year she had abstained from the calisthenic drill because she feared that it would injure her. This year she not only takes the lighter calisthenic drill, but also the more difficult drill in gymnastics. At the end of two weeks her appetite has returned, she falls asleep as soon as she goes to bed, and a day or two since she wrote to her father that she had not known what health was for years till this month, all the result of the regular practice in the gymnasium. The same general result is found in the case of all who take regular exercise of this nature. Teachers, pupils, all say the same. Hence, as the exercise is voluntary it loses that aversion which the pupils have to what they must do. As the drill is under the care of a dozen or more of our most careful and conservative teachers all care will be observed to make it perfectly safe. And finally Drs. Bahnson and Siewers have been invited to examine into the work from time to time and advise in regard to the same. Hence we will suggest to the pupils, one and all, to join this class. It will help any portion of the body that is weak, as, for instance, the eyes, throat, lungs, by building up the general system, and thus giving strength to the weak member. It will give the power to correct the stooping shoulder by indicating the proper position in walking and standing. It will correct many of the abuses that Society (so-called) imposes on young people in matters of dress errors, for a person of strong, well developed body will simply refuse in this respect. So, too, we advise parents to encourage their daughters to join the class. No special charge is made, no abuse can creep in, and life will be made far happier for the pupils for years to come than if they refuse to accept the benefits of this opportunity. THE ACADEMY says: "Success to the New Gymnasium Class."

Correspondence.

—Our first communication for October is from JANNIE ANDERSON, a recent graduate:

"Your kind letter was received a short time ago, and would have been replied to sooner, but there has been so much sickness in our family that it was impossible. I would like you to send me THE ACADEMY for one and a half years. I intended to subscribe for the paper any way for I hardly see how I could do without it.

I enclose the slip with regard to our memorial window. We will have to strive against the hard times. With many hopes that it may be a success, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

JANNIE ANDERSON.

Statesville, N. C.

—Our next is from SUSIE REYNOLDS, also of the class of '94.

“It may seem unpardonable in me to delay so long in sending check for the Vance Memorial Window, but I feel sure if you knew the circumstances you would not deem it so. I have had quite a pleasant time since school closed. I spent ten days very delightfully in Winston before returning home. Then after a week's sojourn in Bristol, I left for Lexington, Va., to attend the Virginia Military Institute close, where my brother graduated; naturally I enjoyed this occasion very much. Before returning home our party spent a day and night at Luray Cave, also a day at the Natural Bridge. If you have ever visited those wonders of Nature, you can realize how much we enjoyed the trip.

Mother had planned to give me a “House Party” in our new home on my return but the workmen disappointed us, so we entertained our friends at Fairmount, which has been our home for several months. I enclose with the Vance Memorial check, 50 cents for THE ACADEMY. With best wishes for the success of our class window, and with love to teachers and friends, I am,

Sincerely yours,

SUE REYNOLDS.

Bristol, Tenn.

—We are also very pleased to hear from Mrs. Lardner (ANNIE GIBBON), an old scholar and patron :

“MARY and FANNY MOORE are with their father, enjoying their vacation. ANNIE taught school all winter and LIZZIE has gone to Japan with her brother, the Rev. J. W. Moore who lost his wife and child last Fall.

With kind regards to Mrs. CLEWELL and other friends.

Very truly,

A. LARDNER.

Charlotte, N. C.

—MATTIE KELLETT wrote quite a lengthy letter from Detroit, Mich. :

“Am really ashamed to write and send the money at this late date, but as I saw in THE ACADEMY that I received to-day that a number of girls had not sent theirs yet, I will send mine to-night. We went directly to Washington from Salem, and did not miss seeing a single thing. I took 2 whole days to go through the National Museum and Smithsonian Institute, as I heard you refer to them so often in your lectures in the Sophomore class. We spent thirteen very pleasant days there notwithstanding the awful hot weather.

I shook hands with Grover Cleveland on a very disagreeable, rainy day. Mamma laughed at me for entering into such a familiar conversation with him. He and his wife are very pleasant. I spent a whole forenoon in the Senate Chamber and heard the “sugar question” discussed between the Senator from New Hampshire and one from Maine. I thought once they would come to blows, but they just stopped talking in time. Detroit comes very near to Washington in beauty and greatness. It is a much larger city. The boat rides we had there are just grand. I received my report to day, and the folks are well pleased with it. I also had a letter from CARRIE ROLLINS, she is having a gay time also.

Give love to Mrs. C., the teachers and girls, and accept a share from both of us for yourself.

Sincerely,

M. KELLETT.

Detroit, Mich.

—A very welcome letter was also received from SUSIE GULICK from the land of flowers:

“It is nearly time for the girls to return to Salem, and while it is impossible for me to pay you even a flying visit my thoughts are often with you. I intended to go to Salem this year to Commencement, but after I came here, of course, I could not go.

I am down here at work, and am very independent. I am with the Florida Central and Peninsular R. R. Co, employed as stenographer in the Master Mechanics' office. My work is not laborious, working from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m., with two hours for dinner.

Fernandina is a pretty little place on the seashore, and as this is my first trip to the coast, I am fascinated by the sea. I enjoy the surf baths and find them very beneficial. I am no longer “the split match” girl I was at school. The people here are very kind to me, and my stay has been exceedingly pleasant. Fernandina is quite gay with its surf parties, drives, etc.

ELIZA and LAURA are in Washington this summer with father, and I expect will be there till September or October. I hope to join them in September, spending a week with father.

I have not seen LAURA WHITNER yet, but hope to run down and see her this fall.

I hope there will be a spare moment in your busy life for one thought of me. Give my love to Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL and keep a large share for yourself

Affectionately,

SUSIE B GULICK.

Fernandina, Fla.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—We acknowledge our thanks to Congressman Bower for a large and fine map of the United States.

—We have received a kind note, enclosing 50 cents, from Mrs. David Pender, who was MARY C. JOHNSTON, Class of 1854. She now lives in Tarboro, N. C.

—We received a subscription from Mrs. Brown, Charlotte, N. C., and have directed the paper as above, but it has come back to our office. Can any one give us information as to who sent in the subscription with the above address.

—The opening day of the new term was a particularly bright and happy one. The weather was fine, the attendance was large and the spirit abroad among our pupils all that could be desired. An opening day such as that gives a good start that makes itself felt for a month.

—The prompt arrival of so large a number of boarding pupils was a matter of great congratulation. There are times when sickness or family circumstances will keep the pupils at home, but when the desire exists to be present the larger number can attend, and such was the case this year.

—Among the many pleasant things we note this year is the high toned spirit that exists among both boarding and day-scholars. All seem determined to abolish those features which marred the school-life occasionally last year, and we rejoice that such is the case, for it makes the outlook for a bright and happy session very clear and certain.

—The annual Senior Class meeting was held on September 19, 1894. About 30 members were present, and the meeting was a spirited and interesting one. The officers elected were as follows: President, Miss JEANIE WOOD, North Senior; Vice Presidents, Miss PAMELA GOODMAN, North Senior, and Miss JENNIE CROUCH, South Senior; Secretary, Miss INA SMITHERMAN, South Senior.

—We had a very pleasant call from Mr. and Mrs. John A. Douglas in July last, who gave us many pleasant points in regard to Mr. Douglas' mother and aunt. His mother was as a pupil JANE B. ARMSTRONG, who married a Mr. French, and is now living in Princeton, Mercer Co., West Virginia, at the advanced age of 80 years. Her aunt, not now living, was Minerva French, who married Mr. Thos. J. Boyd. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas visited Mrs. Kremer while here, and were delighted to meet a friend of the early school days of mother and aunt. They subscribed for THE ACADEMY.

—We acknowledge an invitation to the opening lecture of the Columbian University, Washington, D. C. The lecture is to be delivered by Dr. E. A. deSchweinitz, who is a Professor in the Institution, and also holds an important position under the United States government. The Salem boys all seem to do well in the positions they have chosen in the great world, and the good wishes of THE ACADEMY go with them.

—In the June issue the following names were omitted in the Alumnæ gifts by an accident, although in the total the gift was included. Hence the names are given, but the sum total given in June is the correct amount :

Mrs. L. M. Fries,	$5 00
Mrs. M. Patterson,	5 00
Mrs. W. W. Moore,	5 00
Miss Minnie Mickey,	50

—Among the new faces in the faculty this year we notice the following : Miss Query, of Charlotte ; Miss Scales, of Reidsville ; Miss Morrison, of Statesville ; Miss Flake, of Beverly. Among the faces with us last year the following are wanting, sickness or other duties having called them away : Miss McFadyen, Miss Pittman, Miss Siddall, Miss Fogle, Miss Tietze. A pleasant feature in this connection is the return of Miss Jones, after a year's serious illness. She is not strong yet, but the Sixth Room and the entire school is pleased to see her in her old place.

—Cooler weather having arrived the pupils naturally turn to the comfortable and, we may add, healthy calisthenic suits. The perfect harmony between these suits and the health of the pupil is marked. This year we have taken a shade lighter weight in the quality of the goods, which will make them a little more comfortable and, we think, just as durable. The divided skirt is made of serge, same shade as the outer skirt, and is furnished to those who desire it. The suits are made in the second story of South Hall, and at present four dressmakers are busy with the orders.

—The large Senior Class is rather a remarkable circumstance, there being 55 members who have been within the school a period of time ranging from two to six years. About four years since a change was made in the standard, and also rigid rules as to age. This affected the classes for the following three years, making them smaller. This year the first full complement of pupils reach the Senior Class after the check referred to, and the numbers tell. It is a matter of congratulation to the members of this largest class that it is also as fine and lady-like a class as the Senior room has ever had.

—Mr. CLEWELL made a very pleasant visit to Reidsville and Danville just before the opening of the term. In both places he called on as many of the older and present pupils as the time would permit. To one who visits these growing and promising cities it would seem as if no one left them to enter school save those who came to Salem. One can start up or down a street and certainly the best homes on the streets are those of the Salem girls. We may add another point that will be of interest to any who may visit these towns from the ACADEMY, and that is the cordiality extended to an ACADEMY representative could not be surpassed anywhere. Mr. CLEWELL desires the ACADEMY to extend his most hearty thanks to all who contributed to the pleasure of his very enjoyable visit. The initiatory steps were taken to organize local Alumnæ Associations in both these places.

—We could not keep track of the movements of the faculty this summer as they scattered all over the country, but will give the places visited by as many as we can recall. Miss Lehman, Misses Shaffner, Miss Chitty, Misses Meinung, Misses Vest, Miss Barrow and Miss Siewers visited friends or summer resorts in our immediate vicinity. Miss Tietze went to her home in Indiana. Miss Jones was compelled to remain at home on account of her health. Miss Pittman took quite a tour to New York and other Northern cities. Miss Siddall spent some time with friends in our neighborhood. Miss Settle travelled to Texas. Miss Richardson and Miss Gosling to Kentucky. Miss Bessent to Concord. Miss Heisler visited a number of friends nearer home. Miss Hagan and Mrs. Smith made short visits to friends in near towns. Miss Wolle went to Pennsylvania. Miss Brown and Miss McFad-yen were in the eastern portion of the State. Miss Scriber was at Roaring Gap. Misses Van Vleck spent the summer in Boston, New York and other cities. Prof. Skilton was with his relatives in New England. Miss Rondthaler visited friends in Virginia and the eastern portion of North Carolina. Miss Tracy visited relatives and friends in the North.

—Bishop RONDTHALER preached in Asheville, when on a visit to friends there in September.

—Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL left for a Northern trip on Monday, October 8th. During his absence Mr. CLEWELL will preach the twentieth anniversary sermon of the Moravian church at Urichsville, Ohio, where he was stationed in the early part of his ministry. He will also look after the design for the Vance Memorial Window. We wish him and Mrs. CLEWELL a most enjoyable trip.

—We have just received the following two gifts for the Vance Memorial Window, which we thankfully acknowledge :

Mrs. C. H. Fogle,	$1.00
Miss Agnes Fogle,	1.00

Who will be the next among the older Alumnæ to aid the class of '94 in the raising of the remaining $80? And when will we hear from the other 18 members of the class? Only 19 have responded thus far.

Alumnæ Scholarship Fund.

Miss Minnie Mickey,	$ .50
Mrs. W. B. Ellis,	5.00
Mrs. T. E. Richardson,	5 00
Miss Florence Barrow,	1.00
Previously acknowledged,	2,086.53

$2,098.03

Married.

GIBBS—JARVIS.—On June 21, Mr. R. S. GIBBS to Miss SALLIE JARVIS, of Asheville, N. C.

WHEELER—BRIGGESS.—In Fort Worth, Tex., on September 17th, Mr. CHARLES A. WHEELER to Miss BIRDIE BRIGGESS.

HERNDON—PEIRCE.—On October 2d, in Tazewell, Va., Rev. JOHN GILCHRIST HERNDON to Miss MARTHA PEIRCE.

MARTIN—SHELL.—On October 3d, in Laurens, S. C., Dr. W. E. MARTIN to Miss SARA SHELL.

LONON—YANCEY.—On June 20th, Mr. D. LONON to Miss HESSIE YANCEY.

Died.

FAIN.—In Dandridge, Tenn., September 5th, 1894, Mrs. LILA FAIN GALLION, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Fain, after a long and trying illness, at the age of 34 years. She leaves a little boy of about 4 years of age, a husband and many relatives and friends to mourn her early departure.

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs Eliza Carmichael, Miss H. Foltz, Miss A M Hagan, Miss Theresa Petersen, Miss Lou Shaffner, Mr W A Boyd, Salem, N.C.; Mrs D H Starbuck, Miss Florence Barrow, Winston, N.C.; Miss Edna Lineberry, Trinity College, N.C.; Miss Blanche Armfield, High Point, N. C.; Miss Mary Pfohl, Americus, Ga.; Miss Jane E. Welfare, Salem, N.C.

WANTED.—A position as teacher in a school or a private family. Full graduate of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Apply to M. B. F., Salem Female Academy, Salem, N. C.

WANTED.—A position as teacher or as book-keeper in office. Office work preferred. Graduate in College Course and in Book-keeping Department. Address E. L., care Salem Female Academy.

OAK RIDGE INSTITUTE.

OAK RIDGE, N. C.

J. A. & M. H. HOLT, Principals.

The most elegantly equipped Classical, Scientific and Commercial School in the South.
Young Men and Boys.
85th Session begins August 21st.
Send for Catalogue.
June '94-ly.

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE,

On Car Line, near Academy, Main St.

Nestling in the midst of the old historic part of Salem, a stroll along the well shaded street will lead you to the Store, where you will find a good assortment of

BOOKS, STATIONERY AND FANCY GOODS.
Call and see us or write to

L. V. & E. T. BLUM, Salem, N. C.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same.

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of _____ Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.
The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.
REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons, Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793. 1894

BINGHAM SCHOOL, FOR BOYS.

Established in 1793.

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESIDENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from prominent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANITATION are the BEST IN THE SOUTH, and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogue giving full particulars, address

Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Superintendent.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.
Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 4.
Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892-ly

HOTEL JONES,

J. L. JONES, late of Jones House, Propriet'r.
WINSTON, N. C.

All modern conveniences provided. Electric lights and bells. Table abundantly supplied with the very best that the market affords. We are anxious to please.

RATES, $2.00 PER DAY.

At Depot ask for Jones House 'Bus.

Reference: Salem Female Academy.

May, 1894.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Respectfully direct attention to their
NEW AND MAGNIFICENT LINE OF

FALL AND WINTER
DRESS GOODS.

in all the latest styles of

IMPORTED AND DOMESTIC FABRICS.
BOTH IN SILKS AND WOOLENS.

With a full assortment of TRIMMINGS to match.

Corsets! Corsets!

We have just received a complete line of Corsets and Corset Waists, among which are the celebrated C. J. B. and Dr. Warner's Corsets, and Ferris Bros.' Waists for Ladies and Misses.

CLOAKS AND CAPES.

In this department we have just received the handsomest line of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Cloaks EVER SHOWN, at prices which will suit the present times.

REMEMBER THAT WE ARE SOLE AGENTS FOR

The Navy Blue Cloth,

used by the young ladies of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY for Calisthenic Suits, Price, $1.10 per yard.

SHOES! SHOES! SHOES!

Largest line of Shoes in the largest Shoe Store in Winston. E. P. REED & CO.'S Fine Shoes a Specialty.

Very Respectfully,

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,
WINSTON, N. C.

May, 1894.

Norfolk & Western Railroad.

THE SHORT BEST AND QUICK ROUTE

TO

Winston-Salem, N. C.,

FROM

Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee and all Southern Points.

PULLMAN VESTIBULED SLEEPERS

from Memphis and New Orleans to Roanoke, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Patrons of Salem Female Academy will have only one change of Cars at Roanoke, Va. FROM THE NORTH AND EAST. Pullman Vestibuled Sleepers daily from New York and Washington via Royal Blue Line and Shenandoah Valley Route to Roanoke, Va., where connection is made for Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond and Norfolk. Sleeping Car Reservation and reliable information furnished.

Write or see one of the following agents before purchasing your tickets.

W. L. ROHR, Western Pass. Agent.
Reed House, Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. B. BEVILL, M. F. BRAGG,
Gen. Pass. Agent. Trav. Pass. Agt.,
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892-ly

A SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Take a half hour dose of Bicycling two to three times a day. It is pleasant medicine.

Bicycles for Sale and Rent by
SENSEMAN & BRICKENSTEIN,
SALEM, N. C.

June, 1894.

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00. Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $3.00. Address,

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

BOSTON BLOCK, = Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable.

Apply to FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N. C.
S-eptember, 1893.—t.

Our Specialties:

STERLING SILVERWARE,
FINE WATCHES,
DIAMONDS.

We have everything else kept in a first-class Jewelry Store.

Special attention paid to mail orders.

Fine Repairing and Engraving.

Very Respectfully,

W. T. Vogler & Son,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

JOHN GILL, Receiver.

in connection with the

Norfolk & Western R. R.,

via Walnut Cove.

Atlantic Coast Line,

via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH

between
WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to

J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Supt. Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.
E. B. KEARNS, Agt. N. & W. R. R.,
Winston, N. C.

A. SUSSMANN 232 6th Ave. N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
A COMPLETE
OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE
ON APPLICATION
ADDRESS

READ!

The S. F. A. ALUMNÆ, their friends and all others will find at

S. E. ALLEN'S,

Hardware & Crckery Stre,

Winston, N. C.,

many useful Decorative, Household and Parlor Furnishing Goods of the latest designs.

Also a complete assortment of Tinware, Glassware, Stoves and Holloware, and Hardware for the Mechanic, Farmer, Contractor, Merchant and all others at prices to induce sales.

Call and examine or write for prices.
June, 1894-15.

WHAT THEY SAY OF HARPER'S PERIODICALS

New York Sun :—The manifold art that is represented here has a fascination as great as any fascination that may attach to books. The two volumes of the MAGAZINE are entirely beautiful in their pictorial features, and the literary part of them is marked by great and varied attractions. The WEEKLY is a chronicle, valuable, rich in entertainment, the BAZAR is a trustworthy repository of the fashions, and it has many desirable things besides, the YOUNG PEOPLE is in the first rank of publications for boys and girls. This is a splendid array. But it is hardly necessary to say so. The whole world knows it.

Philadelphia Ledger :—It is one of the many distinctions which have made the fame of the Harpers that they are always in advance of the times. No firm, it is safe to say, has done more to raise the tone and morale of weekly and monthly literature than have the Harpers. They have catered to the popular taste in so far that they have supplied to their clients the best-goods only, but they have never courted a dubious notoriety. No word has ever been printed in their periodicals which could not be quoted without offence in any home circle. The most lavish praise is not too extravagant to be meted out to the great talent and industry which is annually summed up in these volumes. They are read in every climate and wherever the English language is spoken. They are a credit to American literature and American enterprise.

N. Y. Observer :—HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE fills a place of its own. It has always been entertaining and bright, but has happily combined profit with pleasure, instruction with entertainment. HARPER'S WEEKLY ranks highest in its class of literature, if it does not stand distinct and alone. It has played an important part in American history, and wields a powerful influence to-day. Keen observers, concise writers, skillful artists, and able and vigorous editorial management have produced a volume equal to any of the series. The WEEKLY will be popular as long as it has the good management which has characterized its past career. . . . There is no more prized and trusted authority in its own particular realm than HARPER'S BAZAR, and numberless ties bind it to its large and refined constituency. . . . But if any youth under eighteen or under eighty can examine five consecutive pages of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE without paying a hearty tribute of laughter, we do not envy him. We confess to the weakness, if such it be, of enjoying the bubbling and irresistible fun of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.

New York Times :—He who reads HARPER'S MAGAZINE will not only become a well informed person; he will find himself familiar with the best minds of his day and generation, with the best that the world is doing in all departments of activity. HARPER'S WEEKLY reflects the world's history, not in details and amplitude so much as by a process of selection; for it notes what is most significant and impressive.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

Per Year:

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.....	$4.00
HARPER'S WEEKLY.....	4.00
HARPER'S BAZAR.....	4.00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.....	2.00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

PUBLISHED BY

HARPER & BROTHERS,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '94-15.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVII.

SALEM, N. C., NOVEMBER, 1894.

NUMBER 151.

1802-1894.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features:— the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

The following communication is the first of a series promised us by Mrs. Toomey. Mr. and Mrs. Toomey are in the midst of a tour through Europe, which will occupy the greater portion of the year and we hope to hear from them at various times. Our readers will find the present very interesting letter a foretaste of other "good things" which we may expect in the future.

LONDON, ENGLAND, }
Oct. 9th, 1894. }

My dear Mrs. Clewell and Girls:

After a series of tramps together with their attendant weariness, it is luxurious to sit restfully here before a bright fire in a cozy room at the Langham, and renew with you the experiences of a seven days' life at sea, and a light touch upon a fortnight in this great and only London. I would like to take our ACADEMY family in whole and set it down in the very heart of this city for awhile.

On the morning of September 19th, we arose with a pale sort of jubilation to make ready for the doubtful—because new—pleasure before us. The rain poured in torrents. In a closed coupe we wended our way to the American docks, claimed our baggage, showed our tickets, climbed the gang-plank and were aboard the U. S. M. S. "New York." The length of this immense ship is 565 feet; breadth, 63¼ feet; depth, 42 feet; engine, 20,000 horse power; consumes 350 tons of coal daily. Her crew consists of 401 men. In general equipment and fineness of finish she is a very palace. Electric lights throughout, hot salt baths free, and every comfort possible. Her first class accommodation is beyond 400; second class, 200. Our number of passengers was 811; first cabin, 91; second cabin, 105; steerage passengers, 615. The latter are transported, fed and given comfortable bunks of nights all for the sum of forty shillings or $10 each.

At 11 o'clock sharp all was in confused readiness; good-byes said, heartaches melted into floods of tears that vied with the weeping elements, a forgotten word of warning or of love tenderly borne back by the winds, handkerchiefs flutter, a dropping of the last rope and slowly, solemnly to the chuck, chuck of three frolicsome elf-like water dogs, crowding their frisky little bodies around and about our massive bow as if feeling a glory in even the smallness of touching the towering greatness of this mighty "Grey Hound," our proud head was turned and with a herculean baby tug puffing and pulling we, David and Goliath like, pushed out on a line where there are no way stations. As the immensity of the ocean breaks upon us, as the Goddess of Liberty fades from view, as the huge elephant at Coney Island and a shoe-string of land are all that can be seen of our glorious country, and the vast expanse of sky settles down into the sea, then feels one the correct sense of her own insignificance and calls to mind the lines of Longfellow:

Life-giving, earth-giving, which shall it be
O breath of the merciful, merciless sea!

Once adrift on this treacherous water, under the flying Stars and Stripes (which Miss LEHMAN felt the absence of) we "bent to our oars" and skimmed the rough waves at a rate of 20 and 22 miles an hour, with scarcely a perceptible motion. Faces beamed with surprised delight, exclamations of "how beautiful!" "grand!" echoed from panegyrists at all quarters.

At one o'clock the unmuffled gong summoned us to the elegant dining saloon, where our half-starved family (the salt air gives one a ravenous appetite) enjoyed a tempting luncheon, and with much despatch else we lose some of the passing attractions. Climbing again on deck, comfortably wrapping our rugs about us, for it yet rained, we speculated upon the people aboard, and, with passenger list in hand, connected certain names with certain passers by, something suggesting the fitness of the conclusion, but soon to find out our mistakes. You make other acquaintances; it interests you to hear from other countries; you learn new things from other nationalities travelling thus together. A Japanese gentleman and his wife, Mr. Tsunejro Miyaoki, Secretary of His Imperial Japanese Majesty's Legation at Washington, were pleasant and sociable, and spoke our language more correctly than many of us educated Americans do. Misses Graybeil and Adelaide Frost, the latter a young girl graduate, last from Garfield College in Ohio, missionaries to Central India, and a gentleman, whose card the winds stole from me, at the same time my steamer cap, and whose name I do not remember, a friend of Mr. and Mrs. Killbuck, Katie's parents, were among the pleasant persons met. He spoke enthusiastically of the good effected by our Moravian missionaries among those queer people. The afternoon was fast passing into evening; the curtain of a rainy night was falling over the restless deep, and our first day out was closing gloriously.

A call to dinner, an unsurpassed table d'hôte menu, which pleased the most dainty and alike delighted the epicure, was laid before us. The first, the second course was dispensed, the third of the seven or more was coming,—but, what is it! Nothing: a dizziness, a frantic desire to get aloft to fresh air, a rush for the deck; to bed at 8 o'clock, a restless night, an early rising, a dragging upon deck, a frown upon those who had claims to recognition, an indifferent tumble into the waiting chair, a sigh and a groan, a leaning perhaps over the vessel's side and throwing oneself away, a mad disposition to kill the man who pummels that eating gong in your ear,—that was all!

The dining saloon of the "New York" in many ways resembles the world: at times all places are filled with energetic eager people, all anxious to perform their allotted duties. Some succeed, others fail, yet others succeed in part, while the great majority do neither the one thing nor the other, their attainment is merely mediocre. Those whose success is signal are proud and boast of it, while those who have not done so well have a host of excuses to offer. Many have but indifferent luck at first, who succeed admirably later (I was one). Some walk sprightly and steadily in spite of a "hard road to travel," and some walk in a crooked course.

Sunday morning the sun burst forth, (the first of his appearance since leaving New York) as if to proclaim the Lord's Day. Services, according to the Episcopal worship, were read by the ship's surgeon in the dining saloon, a sailor laddie presiding at the organ from the picturesque loft above discoursed familiar hymns and all the assembly joined in the choral devotions. In the afternoon the good missionaries,—there were 5 en route to Africa—with Misses Graybeil and Frost, asked permission to hold religious exercises with the steerage passengers, which was at first refused, but on a second application withdrawn, and these soldiers of Love went down into the midst of that human medley and asked them to "Pray with them." Instead of the rebellion led to expect by the ship officers from these "hyena humans," how gladly every one welcomed the opportunity of hearing the gospel read, and their hearts responded to the songs of praise, many joining in tearfully, feelingly, and when the hour closed some begged them to "come again, the likes of ye seldom come among us."

During the afternoon a derelict vessel was sighted; the horn gave the signal of distress ahead. All was anxiety. The good "New York," leaning to the left of her course, slackened her speed and drew very near to the abandoned sailor. Such a sight dampened our hilarity somewhat, and drifted our thoughts into a serious channel. The sails whipped into shreds by the angry wings of a hurricane that swept the sea the week before, the water-logged barque drifting mercilessly, the wild waves lashing and dashing over her, created a ghastly impression,—a predisposition to submit not altogether unresignedly to old Neptune's will. The crew were picked up by the Atlantic Transport Co.'s steamer, Mississippi. A man-of-war was sent out on our arrival to destroy her.

Soon after this excitement what proved a greater came upon the scene,—a whale of considerable proportions, many thought as big as the ship, appeared on one side, gracefully drooped her head and dived under us, coming up on the opposite side, spouting water far into the air. I was on the left side of this, and consequently did not see it.

The phosphorus of the ocean charmed us with its myriad scintillating stars lying upon the blue waves.

Tuesday night, about 8 o'clock, the Englishman's "best of all lands on earth" was in sight. The great Lizard lights were reached at 10:30, opposite which we showed our colors from two rockets fired off the side of our ship, thus asserting our identity and safe arrival, which was cabled back from that point to New York and into London. At 7:30 a. m., Wednesday, 3 hours less than 7 days, we landed at Southampton, regretting to leave the good boat, the voyage had been so fine, so calm and so much enjoyed. Two hours by rail rolled us into London, the many sights of which I might send you volumes, but must desist and beg leave to write you of them later, as I find I've stayed on the ocean too long. Almost wishing I could be spirited bodily with my pen to Salem I ask your considerate acceptance, curtailing at your pleasure this o'er long communication, and that you will believe me,

Your friend, sincerely,

MRS. F. G. TOOMEY.

THE SCHOLARSHIP FUND.

Paper read by Miss JENNIE SIEGER, of Bethlehem, Penna., ('85), before the Alumnae Meeting in June last.

THE Scholarship Fund, or the Silver Question, in which our hopes and wishes are centered was commenced in June of 1890 with the generous gift which proved the incentive for the work which has followed it. It was with the above gift of $150.00 that the growth of the work had its start.

The lovefeasts, reading of papers and the exchange of greetings were delightfully pleasant, but did not reach far enough and were not sufficient.

The Society needed an object, something which called for personal work, not merely interest, and this was given at the Alumnae Meeting of June, 1891.

Since that time the Fund has swelled until it has reached proportions that the most sanguine hardly hoped to realize in so short a time, but even now we are not and will not be satisfied until we know it has rounded itself into the desired first station of $2,500.00.

From June, '90, to June, '91, the Fund had reached $150.00; from '91 to '92 about $550.00 were added; from '92 to '93 about $400.00; from '93 to '94 nearly $800,—making a total of $1850.00.

As you all know it is our object to reach $2,500.00 this year. Surely we can do it, and at this meeting. Think what it will mean! not only added laurels to our Alma Mater, but a liberal education to some worthy girl.

This Scholarship will, of course, be a new feature in our institution, and may by some be looked upon as a charity; but far be it from that, as a scholarship has ever been regarded and striven for as an honor to be won and worn with dignity. The northern colleges and universities teem with them, and they are striven for each year by ambitious men and women. It was at your own Guilford College that our Salutatorian of 1887 carried off with honors the Scholarship which is at present entitling her to the advantages and privileges of the acknowledged and leading college for the education of women in this country, viz: Bryn Mawr. Little do we look upon her as a charity student; we, as a class, are proud to claim her and the ACADEMY to acknowledge JENNIE RAGSDALE as a daughter.

After these many years it is high time that we should be willing to give to some girl the advantages we have all enjoyed within these dear old walls. Let us not wait longer, but with the opening of the Fall Term put our honored protegee within the home we have all learned to love. We can do it by dropping into the basket this afternoon an extra quarter, or, if we can afford to do so, an extra bill to the amount we had originally intended to give.

And would it not be well to name one scholarship,—surely it ought to have a name,—but the privilege of bestowing one upon it should be worth at least a gift of $1000 to the Fund. I can only add that a word to the wise is sufficient.

JANE C. SIEGER,
Bethlehem, Penna.

Salem, N. C., May 30, 1894.

Mr. and Mrs. Clewell's Visit to Ohio and Pennsylvania.

BY the end of September the organization of the school machinery and forces is usually complete, and the results of the work do not begin to appear so early, hence it is the best time of the year for the Principal to "slip away" for a short visit, if one is to be made during the year. Therefore it was in October that Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL determined to unite business with pleasure, and visit first their former field of labor in the State of Ohio, and then proceed to Philadelphia and New York, to attend to a number of matters that needed research in these cities. October 8th was the date of starting. Everything in the school was in prime condition, the little folks in the Principal's House were well cared for, and the journey was entered upon with the determination to enjoy it to the full. The trip was made over the Norfolk & Western and Baltimore & Ohio roads.

Leaving Winston Salem at 11 a. m., taking supper at the elegant hotel Roanoke in the city of that name, and renewing the journey at 7 o'clock, the Natural Bridge was the first objective point, and was gained by 9 o'clock the same night. The next day was devoted to enjoying its impressive beauties, and well does it repay the tourist for the delay of a day in his journey. By 6 o'clock the same day Luray was reached, and resting in the comfortable hotel, while the storm raged without, they were prepared for the enjoyment of the drive to the mountains the next day in the brightest of sunshine, and later for the exploration of the wonders of this most marvellous cavern. At 5 o'clock the journey was renewed,—at midnight the comfortable sleeper on the B. & O. received them. The next morning, Wheeling, W. Va., was reached, and by 2 o'clock in the afternoon they were among the members of their former congregation in Urichsville, Ohio.

We will not follow them in their rides through the beautiful Tuscarawas valley the congregations of Sharon, Canal Dover, Gnadenhutzen, Fry's Valley and Port Washington, suffice it to say that at Urichsville Mr. CLEWELL preached the 20th anniversary sermon on the morning of the 13th of October, and the same evening he preached in the church at Port Washington, which he had built some 12 or 13 years before. The welcome to both congregations was warm indeed, and was greatly enjoyed by both the visitors. A week having been spent in this way, farewells were said, and at 9 a. m. on October 17 they were again on a Baltimore & Ohio train, and the experiences of that day were among the brightest of the trip.

Well is it called "Picturesque B. & O." Up one mountain side and down another; here the sides of the steep ascent covered with an array of foliage so rich and varied in its autumn tints that it seemed like one vast bouquet of the choicest flowers. Again the train wound in and out of some peaceful valley, with only the rude hut of the mountaineer to break its primitive solitude, save when the roaring trains rushed by,—thus from one scene to the other the passenger is whirled on his eastward journey. A night of rest in Washington, and a quick run through Baltimore, and the travellers were in Philadelphia, ready to engage in work for the school.

The first day was spent in visiting Temple College, on Broad Street and the Drexel Institute in West Philadelphia, in the interests of the Gymnasium work. That night they went up to Bethlehem, and spent several days in visiting Mrs. Wolle (Mrs. CLEWELL's mother) and Rev. and Mrs. Wilde, who are on a visit to the States from their field of mission work in the West Indies. During these days a number of institutions were visited: the Moravian Theological Seminary, with its elegant new buildings, and with its five students from Salem and vicinity, viz: Messrs. Rondthaler, Pfohl, Woosely, Crouch and Spaugh; also the venerable Bethlehem Seminary for Young Ladies, which, under Dr. Hark, is making such fine progress; Nazareth Hall, once the noble residence of Count Zinzendorf, now filled with the military tramp of the cadets, under the direction of Principal Lanius; Lehigh University, with its palatial buildings, its magnificent grounds and its hosts of students. Thus several days were spent.

On Monday, October 22, the work was again taken up in Philadelphia and New York, and the Vance Memorial Window, Philosophical Apparatus, Cooking Schools and other subjects filled the days with a whirl of work. One of the pleasant duties performed was that of securing the distinguished orator, Mr. James Beck, as the speaker for next June. Of this mention is made elsewhere. So, too, will be elsewhere found the "tokens" which were brought to the various room companies as souvenirs of the trip.

But the end of the third week was reached, the utmost limit of the visit, and so the faces were turned homeward. The benefits of the few weeks away cannot be overestimated in its influence on the work of the school. Successful lines already in operation are strengthened and more firmly established. Slight errors are corrected. Needs are made apparent. New methods are discovered, and the influence will be felt for good during the coming months and years. This trip was particularly beneficial because two pair of eyes observed and two heads pondered the subjects under discussion, instead of one.

The home coming was very bright and happy. A number of friends met them at Walnut Cove, and when the invincible little folks met "papa and mama" for a time they captured the coach and all the passengers in it. Home was reached on the evening of the 27th of October, and while all had gone well in home and school and trip, still Mr. CLEWELL informed the various room companies, as he paid them a hurried visit the same evening, that the most delightful portion of the trip was to get home once more.

There are a number of "echoes" from the trip, and THE ACADEMY will publish them from time to time during the year. They do not specially connect themselves with any particular time or place, but are general in their nature.

—A Glee Club has been organized by Prof. SKILTON, which promises to be a source of pleasure and of profit to the members. The number of members is between 20 and 25. Guitars and mandolins accompany the voices. They are to appear for the first time before the public in a complimentary concert which the ACADEMY will give to the Young Men's Christian Association in their regular course of lectures and entertainments.

—The following is one of the amusing answers recently given to a teacher by a little girl in one of the preparatory classes: The teacher in endeavoring to impress upon the child the name of Sir Francis Drake remarked that they could remember the name by thinking of the fowl drake. When the next recitation arrived the question was asked: "Who visited the island of which we are speaking?" At once an eager hand went up and the teacher turned to the pupil with the question, "Well, who was it?" Equally quick came the earnest reply, "I know, ma'am, Sir Francis Duck!"

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., NOVEMBER, 1894.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—As the time for concerts and entertainments has arrived we will make the following announcement in regard to the ACADEMY chapel. The chapel will be needed for purposes connected with the ACADEMY, or for concerts which have been already arranged from the present time till in February. The following are the appointments: Early in December the Salem Philharmonic Society will give their annual concert. This will be followed by the annual entertainment of the Euterpean Society, a week or ten days before Christmas. Soon after Christmas the Mid-Winter Concert will be given, and two weeks later the Hesperian Society will occupy the Chapel for their annual entertainment. This notice is given in advance so that no plans may be made which have in view the use of the chapel for the purpose of an entertainment with an admission fee.

Christmas Visits.

THE time is now rapidly approaching when the Christmas visits will be discussed, and we therefore call the attention of pupils and patrons to the custom which has prevailed in regard to this matter during recent years. The school does not discourage visits of pupils to their homes during the short recess, but we can also state that when pupils and parents are willing it is far better for the pupils to remain in the school. The time is very short, the number of pupils who remain in the ACADEMY is large (the majority do not go home at Christmas), the enjoyment in the school is of such a nature that the pupil will not again have the opportunity of experiencing in her entire life, and the same may be said of the services in the grand old Moravian church. For these reasons we say that the pupils who remain do well. But if parents desire the children to be at home during this happy season, it does not conflict with our rules to have the pupils go home, only we urge parents to forbid them to start until after the recitations have closed. We will, in this connection, add that while pupils may visit their own homes we have strict rules against pupils going from the school to visit friends or relatives at this season or at Easter. This rule was made only after very unpleasant experiences on the part of the school, and we will cheerfully give full explanations to any pupil or patron who may desire the same. In the case of patrons who may visit Salem at Christmas we will be pleased to accord them a cordial welcome, but at the same time we request them to bear in mind the rule that the pupils are subject to all the requirements of the school even while parents are present. This fact is mentioned because in the past parents have innocently allowed themselves to be made the medium for acquaintances on the part of pupils which very greatly injure their second half year, and which cost very dearly in the end. If you are uncertain in regard to any of the above points a line to the Principal will soon set the matter in a clear light.

James M. Beck.

ONE of the objects of the visit north by Mr. CLEWELL was to secure, if possible, the presence of the gifted orator whose name is given above, as our honored guest and speaker at Commencement next summer. THE ACADEMY is able to announce to its many readers that he has consented to come. Mr. BECK is now generally considered the most eloquent speaker in Pennsylvania, and he is much sought after as a lecturer and orator in many parts of the country. He is the law partner of the distinguished Mr. Harity of Pennsylvania, and although several efforts have been made in the past to secure him as the orator at Commencement, he has not previously seen his way clear to accept our invitation. Now that we have secured his consent to be with us we may consider this portion of the programme as a rich treat in store for all who may be present with us on Thursday morning of Commencement week. Mr. BECK was in college with Mr. CLEWELL in Pennsylvania in 1876-'77, and this fact will draw him into closer sympathy with the happy occasion. Mr. BECK was with Governor Pattison's private party on a recent visit to Florida, but with that exception has not made himself as familiar with the South Atlantic States as he desires to become, and, we feel certain, that seeing the country under the favorable light which Commencement week casts all about it, will make this further acquaintance with our section an enjoyable experience.

—Founder's Day is usually given as a holiday in the school, consequently recitations were suspended on Wednesday, October 31. No special programme was made out for the day, as it is the custom of the ACADEMY to at times make an elaborate plan for the holiday, and at other times let the pupils devise their own enjoyments. On the day in question the pupils occupied the time as each one desired. Some read in the Library, some worked on their Christmas presents, while others went into the woods for Autumn leaves. In the evening the gifts which Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL had purchased in the city as souvenirs of the trip were distributed, and this made a pleasing close to a happy day.

Correspondence.

—As we gather for our November correspondence, the familiar hand writing of FANNY PERROW is the first to greet us:

I have been intending to write to you for some weeks, but I find that when one is engaged in training the minds of the young they have little spare time, but after reading the dear ACADEMY I could not put it off any longer; it is always such a pleasure to read it.

You certainly have a large Senior class this year. I thought our class of forty-two about filled the class-room; you will have to make an addition if they increase at this rate. After reading THE ACADEMY I found awaiting me on my return from my summer trip I felt real jealous, for I fear you think more of the class of '94 than of '93, but I do not believe they did any more wonderful things than we did. I would so much have liked to attend last Commencement, but my school closed a week later, and I could not leave. Your school closes earlier than our schools up here, and I expect I will be teaching when you graduate the class of '95.

I have a splendid little school of 18, from 4 to 13 years of age, and it requires all the patience I can muster, but I think they are fond of me, and I can persuade them to follow my methods very well. I am fond of teaching and begin to feel very much like a school ma'am.

I am near home in West Lynchburg, at my brother-in-law's and that is pleasant for me. I was in the country last winter but enjoyed myself very much.

I see a number of my class have married. I also saw that you had been visiting around but you never came to the Hill city. I would be so glad to see you.

You have quite a number of young teachers this year and I hope it will be as smooth as the other two were. I see so little from the Societies; I think they have the best opening for distinguishing themselves of any department I know of just now.

Much love to Mr. CLEWELL and children, to Miss GRACE and dear good Mr. P.

Your pupil,

FANNIE PERROW.

Lynchburg, Va.

—Our next communication is from ROBBIE KYLE who only left us in June, and still has many friends and acquaintances here:

Possibly you think I have forgotten you and the dear old ACADEMY, but I often think of both and always with pleasure. I hear quite often from Miss SCALES and SADIE WALKER, who keep me posted about the ACADEMY, but that is not enough, so I would like you to write me all about the class of '95 and send me THE ACADEMY. I would have sent my subscription earlier but have been so unsettled that I did not know where I would be for the winter. I first planned to spend the winter in New York but decided just a week before I was to start to wait and go to Europe in the Spring. I have enjoyed my summer far beyond my expectations, indeed every one has been so lovely to me that I see the world through rose colored glasses. Florrie is again at the Hollins Institute.

Well, I must close with much love to yourself and all the old girls and teachers.

Your pupil,

ROBBIE KYLE.

Gadsden, Ala.

—We also have a communication from ALICE THOMSON:

I guess you will be surprised to get a letter from me, but I will make the attempt. Many thanks for your kindness in sending me an ACADEMY which I received to day. I enjoyed reading it so much. I am always glad to hear from dear old Salem where I spent three years.

I have spent a very pleasant summer visiting my old school mates of S. F. A., and other friends. I went with a party from here on a mountain trip. We camped out for two weeks and enjoyed it ever so much. We had lots of fun in our party of 18. We visited Asheville and important points around there, such as Vanderbilt's mansion at Biltmore and grounds. From Asheville we went on to Mt. Mitchell in the Black Range, the scenery was simply grand. From thence we went to Chimney Rock where the scenery was also very fine.

After my pleasant summer I am again at home busy with my painting lessons which I enjoy so very much. ORA joins me in much love to you and Mrs. CLEWELL.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I am,

Your old pupil,

ALICE THOMSON.

—We are also glad to chronicle a few lines from BLANCHE MORGAN:

Please send me a catalogue of the ACADEMY for the year 1890-'91. I trust that the present year has been very pleasant thus far, for I often think of the pleasant days I spent at the ACADEMY and wish I could live them over.

With best wishes to you and yours, I remain,

Yours truly,

ALICE BLANCHE MORGAN.

Durham, N. C.

Our Library.

During the past weeks a number of books have been added to our Library. One of the most attractive is a large volume 11x14 inches in size, entitled "The Dream City," containing a series of exquisite photographs of the World's Fair at Chicago. The book is now of great value but will become more so as time passes and this most wonderful of expositions passes further and further from us in time.

We have also added Guizot's History of France, six volumes. This work, which was originally a series of stories told by the great writer to his grand children makes history seem like a romance, so attractive and simple is the narrative. To this has also been added the History of England, by the same writer, in four volumes.

Miss ADDIE LACIER has followed the suggestion made by the Post Graduates some years ago and has placed a very interesting volume on our shelves to give pleasure to our girls in their spare moments. The title is "School Girls," by Annie Cary. And this causes us to rise and say that we will always welcome these pleasant souvenirs of affection from old pupils. It is not a charity but an exceedingly pleasant way of preserving the place and memory of former pupils in the school by now and then putting a fresh and interesting book on the shelves and inscribing the name of the donor on the fly leaf.

From the American Book Company, New York, we have received a number of their new publications, all of the highest grade of excellence. Among them we note: "Stories of the Olden Time," and "Ten Great Events in History," by James Johnson. "Historical Readings," by Shepherd. "Geographical Reader," by Johnson. "First Latin Readings," by Arrow-smith and Whicher.

From Leach, Shewell & Sanborn, "Selections from Washington Irving," being one of the Student's Series of English Classics. To the Industrial Department Literature we have added "Question and Class Book of the Philadelphia Cooking School," by Mrs. S. T. Rohrer.

In the Physical Culture Department, "Special Kinesiology of Educational Gymnastics," by Baron Nils Posse. "Anthropometry and Physical Examination," by Seaver. "Progressive Gymnastic Day's Orders," by Enebuske.

From Mr. John W. Fries we have received the following books:

11th Annual Census, 1890, Part I, Populat'n
7th " Report Com. of Labor, Vol. I.
" " " " " " " I.
" " " " " " " II.
" " " " " " " II,

Report of Pennsylvania State College, 1891.
" Sec'y of Agriculture, 1892.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, (Texas fever) Bureau of Animal Industry, 1891.

Personal.

—We were pained to hear of the death of Mrs. McMurray, VIRGINIA McMURRAY's mother, and a dear friend of years ago. JULIA and FINNIE LITTLE (now Mrs. Dunlap) were of that steady Scotch-Irish descent to which North Carolina owes some of her best citizens.

Mrs. McMurray's mother died just two days before the daughter. She was Mrs. Susan B. Little, of Wadesboro, N. C., widow of Geo. W. Little, and died at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. John J. Dunlap, in the 79th year of her age. She never attended school in the ACADEMY, but her daughters, grand-daughters and other relatives did, and through them she seemed almost to be one of us.

—Mr. and Mrs. Perkinson will after November 18th, be at-home, at the Hotel Burton, of Danville, Va, on Thursdays. May every joy and happiness attend them on the journey of life.

—Miss Chitty has pressed some 52 feet of the beautiful and graceful Japanese climb-Fern, Lygodium Scandens. It forms an exquisite adornment for the walls of rooms with its artistic tracery. So far as we know, the only varieties of climbing ferns are the two Lygodiums, this one, and our native Lygodium palmatum that was formerly very abundant about three miles north-east of Salem. Its habitat was with the unique Sarracenia purpurea or Pitcher Plant of bogs and marshes.

Our Museum.

List continued from the May number.

CASE I.

SHELLS.

- I, 144—Macra striatella.
 I, 145—Donax.
 I, 146—Crassina.
 I, 147—Cardium sub-longatum.
 I, 148—Cardium bullatum. Tortola, W. I.
 I, 149—Cardium medium.
 I, 150—Cardium muricatum.
 I, 151—Cardium serratum.
 I, 152—Cardium isocardia. Tortola, W. I.
 I, 153—Cardium echinatum.
 I, 154—Cardium marmoreus.
 I, 155—Cardium crenulatum.
 I, 156—Chama aeruginosa.
 I, 157—Chama Florida. (3)
 I, 158—Chama damæcornis. (5)
 I, 159—Chama unicornis.
 I, 160—Solen ensis. (Razor shell.)
 I, 161—Modiola lithophaga. Tortola, W. I.
 I, 162—Modiola plicaticula.
 I, 163—Modiola.
 I, 164—Ano plania.
 I, 165—Unio Clavis. Ohio.
 I, 166—Unio atrocosta.
 I, 167—Unio varicosus.
 I, 168—Unio complanatus.
 I, 169*a*—Unio zicra.
 I, 169*b*—Unio parvus.
 I, 169*c*—Unio.
 I, 170—Avicula macroptera (pearl oyster).
 I, 171—Avicula atlantica.
 I, 172—Hyria.

I, 173—Avicula.

(The following, 176 to 183, were presented by Miss HELEN DUNN:)

- I, 174—Murex regius. West Indies.
 I, 175—Strombus. " "
 I, 176—Cyprea. " "
 I, 177—Oliva. " "
 I, 178—Peden. " "
 I, 179—Petunculus. " "
 I, 180—Barnacles. " "
 I, 181—Cashew nut. " "
 I, 182—Coral formation on stone.

CASE II.

MINERALS AND FOSSILS: LIMESTONES.

- II, 1—Calc Spar, (yellowish and white).
 II, 2—Calc spar (crystals).
 II, 3—Oolite (roestone). Franklin, N. J.
 II, 4—Pisolite (peastone). Carlsbad, Germany.
 II, 5—Pearl spar.
 II, 6—Selenite.
 II, 7—Calcite, Garnet and Coccolite; Sterling Hill, N. J.
 II, 8—Calcite, with pyrite and chalcopyrite.
 II, 9—Calc spar masses.
 II, 10—Tabular Feldspar. Hall's Ferry.
 II, 11—Feldspar and Garnet.
 II, 12—Potomac marble.
 II, 13—Gray marble.
 II, 14—White marble.
 II, 15—Feldspar and Quartz.
 II, 16—Calcite, hornblende and mica.
 II, 17—Red calc spar.
 II, 18—Deep yellow calcspar.
 II, 19—Flesh colored felspar.
 II, 20—Pale yellow felspar.
 II, 21—White felspar.
 II, 22—Dark red limestone.
 II, 23—Dark gray limestone.
 II, 24—Mottled felspar.
 II, 25—Stalactites. Mammoth Cave, Ky.
 II, 26—Stalagmites. " " "
 II, 27—Calcspar. Lancaster Co., Penna.
 II, 28—Gypsum. Stokes Co., N. C.
 II, 29—Sulphate of Barytes. Bohemia.
 II, 30—Fragments of coral, cup coral, &c.
 II, 31*a*—Tabular spar, with angite. Bucks Co, Penna.
 II, 31*b*—Apatite. New Jersey.

QUARTZ.

- II, 32—Common quartz, masses.
 II, 33—Milky quartz.
 II, 34—Rose Quartz.
 II, 35—Pseudo morphous quartz.

—The long expected Alaska box, containing curios for the ACADEMY Museum, arrived recently, and in our next number we will give a description of the articles,

The collection deserves something more than a passing mention, as an illustration of this strange new portion of our United States. Hence we will content ourselves with the mere mention of its arrival in this number, and will give the description in our next issue, and the catalogue of the articles in their proper order at some later date.

Married.

HINES—MCKINNON.—On August 7, Mr. E. M. HINES to Miss ANNA MCKINNON, of Rowland, N. C.

BLUM—LEAK.—On October 2, Mr. JAMES W. BLUM, of Winston, N. C., to Miss LUELLA LEAK.

MURPHY—BURDEN.—On October 10, in Atlanta, Ga., Mr. PETER B. MURPHY to Miss PAULINE BURDEN.

RATLIFF—CRAFTON.—On October 23, in Wentworth, N. C., Mr. R. R. RATLIFF to Miss MATTIE CRAFTON.

BISSINGER—COTTEN.—In Pittsboro, N. C., October 17, Mr. FRED E. BISSINGER to Miss MAUD COTTEN, formerly of Winston.

HERRING—BRIDGMAN.—On October 31, Mr. DOANE HERRING to Miss MATTIE BRIDGMAN, of Washington, D. C.

SHERILL—SPAUGH.—On October —, Mr. AUSTIN C. SHERRELL, of Feirell, N. C., to Miss ELLA SPAUGH.

PERKINSON—FITZ-GERALD.—In Neapolis, Va., on November 8, Mr. JOHN EDWARD PERKINSON to Miss LIZZIE FITZ-GERALD.

MOBLEY—CRUTCHFIELD.—On November 14, Mr. IRVIN NUMA MOBLEY to Miss DAISY CRUTCHFIELD, of Winston, N. C.

Died.

McMURRAY—On October 9, in Wadesboro N. C., Mrs. JULIA LITTLE McMURRAY, of consumption, on her 42d birthday.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only and embraces, under general date of entrance,—1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

—I feel like one
 Who treads alone
 Some banquet-hall deserted,
 Whose lights are fled,
 Whose garlands dead,
 And all but he departed!

1888.

- 5927 FLORENCE SETTLE.
 C. F. Settle, Galveston, Texas,
 5928 SUE BORDEN.
 W. H. Borden, Goldsboro, N. C.
 5929 LIZZIE BURSON.
 Rev. Z. L. Burson, Bristol, Tenn.
 5930 SALLIE SMITH.
 Rev. S. M. Smith, York, Pa.
 5931 VIRGINIA L. McMURRAY.
 J. W. McMurray, Wadesboro, N. C.
 5932 VIRGINIA A. DALTON.
 D. N. Dalton, Dalton, N. C.
 5933 MAUD HARRIS.
 Robert Harris, Reidsville, N. C.
 5934 BERTA P. MEBANE.
 Cathelias Mebane, Greensboro, N. C.
 5935 LUCILE REID.
 5936 ANNIE D. REID.
 J. W. Reid, Wentworth, N. C.
 5937 KATHERINE W. HOLLAND.
 G. H. Holland, New York, N. Y.
 5938 GLADYS CRAWFORD.
 E. E. Crawford, Galveston, Texas,

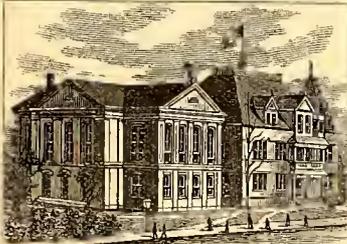

- 5939 ADELAIDE YOUNGBLOOD,
A. P. Youngblood, Atlanta, Ga.
- 5940 MATTIE S. GRIMES,
Mrs. Sarah Grimés, Lexington, N. C.
- 5941 GEORGIA F. BAXTER,
R. B. Baxter, Sparta, Ga.
- 5942 FANNIE E. WRAY,
W. A. Wray, Knoxville, Tenn.
- 5943 LILLIAN L. DICKS,
5944 CLAUDIA E. DICKS,
R. P. Dicks, Radelmah, N. C.
- 5945 MARTHA D. PIERCE,
Wm. Pierce, Tazewell, Va.
- 5946 GERTRUDE V. LITTLE,
W. N. Little, Brooklyn, N. Y.
- 5947 JESSIE D. PETERKIN,
5948 MABEL A. PETERKIN,
Mrs. S. A. Drake, Drake, S. C.
- 5949 LIDIE T. IRRY,
Dr. W. C. Irby, Clinton, S. C.
- 5950 EMMA B. HALE,
C. K. Hale, Clinton, S. C.
- 5951 LIZZIE NEWTON,
Smith Newton, Bennettsville, S. C.
- 5952 SARAH E. KING,
W. D. King, Blackwell's, N. C.
- 5953 SUSAN JOHNSON,
5954 MAY V. JOHNSON,
Charles Johnson, Asheville, N. C.
- 5955 ADA D. JOHNSON,
Asheville, N. C.
- 5956 CAMILLE H. HUNT,
C. A. Hunt, Lexington, N. C.
- 5957 MINNIE M. MAY,
William May, Speight's Bridge, N. C.
- 5958 GEORGIA M. HORTON,
Charles J. Malone, New York, N. Y.
- 5959 MAGGIE A. GIST,
Yorkville, S. C.
- 5960 MARY McKEOWN,
J. J. Hale, Brookville, Florida.

1889.

- 5961 CARRIE L. THOMAS,
John D. Thomas, Jefferson, N. C.
- 5962 CARRIE E. WRAY,
G. W. Wray, Shelby, N. C.
- 5963 KATE S. MILLER,
J. A. Miller, Rutherfordordt, N. C.
- 5964 LUCY OUTLAW,
E. R. Outlaw, Windsor, N. C.
- 5965 PRAISE C. YEARGAN,
Colonel Yeargan, New York, N. Y.

WANTED.—A position as teacher in a school or a private family. Full graduate of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Apply to M. B. F., Salem Female Academy, Salem, N. C.

WANTED.—A position as teacher or as book-keeper in office. Office work preferred. Graduate in College Course and in Book-keeping Department. Address E. L., care Salem Female Academy.

OAK RIDGE INSTITUTE,
OAK RIDGE, N. C.

J. A. & M. H. HOLT, Principals.

The most elegantly equipped Classical, Scientific and Commercial School in the South. Young Men and Boys. 85th Session begins August 21st. Send for Catalogue. June '94-1y.

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE,
On Car Line, near Academy, Main St.

Nestling in the midst of the old historic part of Salem, a stroll along the well shaded street will lead you to the Store, where you will find a good assortment of

BOOKS, STATIONERY AND FANCY GOODS.
Call and see us or write to
L. V. & E. T. BLUM, Salem, N. C.

NAZARETH HALL,
NAZARETH, PA.
Moravian Boarding School For Boys.
FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken. Terms $295 per annum. The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1895. REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.
DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons, Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793. 1894

BINGHAM SCHOOL,
FOR BOYS.

Established in 1793.

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESIDENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from prominent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANITATION are the BEST in the SOUTH, and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogue giving full particulars, address
Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Superintendent.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.
New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.
Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.
Session begins September 4.
Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892-1y

HOTEL JONES,
J. L. JONES, late of Jones House, Propriet'r.
WINSTON, N. C.

All modern conveniences provided. Electric lights and bells. Table abundantly supplied with the very best that the market affords. We are anxious to please.

RATES, $2.00 PER DAY.

At Depot ask for Jones House's Bus.
Reference: Salem Female Academy.
May, 1894.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Respectfully direct attention to their
NEW AND MAGNIFICENT LINE OF

FALL AND WINTER
DRESS GOODS.

in all the latest styles of
IMPORTED AND DOMESTIC FABRICS.

BOTH IN SILKS AND WOOLENS.

With a full assortment of TRIMMINGS to match.

Corsets! Corsets!

We have just received a complete line of Corsets and Corset Waists, among which are the celebrated C. J. B. and Dr. Warner's Corsets, and Ferris Bros.' Waists for Ladies and Misses.

CLOAKS AND CAPES.

In this department we have just received the handsomest line of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Cloaks EVER SHOWN, at prices which will suit the present times.

REMEMBER THAT WE ARE SOLE AGENTS FOR

The Navy Blue Cloth,

used by the young ladies of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY for Calithenic Suits, Price, $1.10 per yard.

SHOES! SHOES! SHOES!

Largest line of Shoes in the largest Shoe Store in Winston. E. P. REED & CO.'S Fine Shoes a Specialty.

Very Respectfully,

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,
WINSTON, N. C.

May, 1894.

Norfolk & Western Railroad.
THE SHORT BEST AND QUICK ROUTE

TO
Winston-Salem, N. C.,

FROM

Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee and all Southern Points.

PULLMAN VESTIBULED SLEEPERS

from Memphis and New Orleans to Roanoke, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Patrons of Salem Female Academy will have only one change of Cars at Roanoke, Va., FROM THE NORTH AND EAST. Pullman Vestibuled Sleepers daily from New York and Washington via Royal Blue Line and Shenandoah Valley Route to Roanoke, Va., where connection is made for Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond and Norfolk. Sleeping Car Reservation and reliable information furnished.

Write or see one of the following agents before purchasing your tickets.

W. L. ROHR, Western Pass. Agent.

Reed House, Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. B. BEVILL, M. F. BRAGG,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
ROANOKE, VA.

une 1892-1y

A SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Take a half hour dose of Bicycling two to three times a day. It is pleasant medicine. Bicycles for Sale and Rent by

SENSEMAN & BRICKENSTEIN,
SALEM, N. C.

June, 1894.

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

BOSTON BLOCK, - Salem, N. C.

Located on Main Street, near Cedar Avenue, and conveniently located for pupils attending the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Rents always reasonable.

Apply to FOGLE BROS., or H. E. FRIES, Salem, N. C.
September, 1893.—tf.

Our Specialties:

STERLING SILVERWARE,
FINE WATCHES,
DIAMONDS.

We have everything else kept in a first-class Jewelry Store.

Special attention paid to mail orders.

Fine Repairing and Engraving.

Very Respectfully,

W. T. Vogler & Son,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway
JOHN GILL, Receiver.

in connection with the
Norfolk & Western R. R.,
via Walnut Cove.

Atlantic Coast Line,
via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH
between

WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to

J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Sup't. Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.
E. B. KEAR S, Agt. N. & W. R. R.,
Winston, N. C.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
A COMPLETE
FOR $ 7.25
OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX CONTENTS 3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF 1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
SKETCHING STOOD 50
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVE. N.Y.

READ!

The S. F. A. ALUMNÆ, their friends and all others will find at

S. E. ALLEN'S,
Hardware & Crockery Store,
Winston, N. C.,

many useful Decorative, Household and Parlor Furnishing Goods of the latest designs.
Also a complete assortment of Tinware, Glassware, Stoves and Holloware, and Hardware for the Mechanic, Farmer, Contractor, Merchant and all others at prices to induce sales.
Call and examine or write for prices.
June, 1894-15.

WHAT THEY SAY OF HARPER'S PERIODICALS

New York Sun:—The manifold art that is represented here has a fascination as great as any fascination that may attach to books. The two volumes of the MAGAZINE are entirely beautiful in their pictorial features, and the literary part of them is marked by great and varied attractions. The WEEKLY is a chronicle, valuable, rich in entertainment, the BAZAR is a trustworthy repository of the fashions, and it has many desirable things besides, the YOUNG PEOPLE is in the first rank of publications for boys and girls. This is a splendid array. But it is hardly necessary to say so. The whole world knows it.

Philadelphia Ledger:—It is one of the many distinctions which have made the fame of the Harpers that they are always in advance of the times. No firm, it is safe to say, has done more to raise the tone and morale of weekly and monthly literature than have the Harpers. They have catered to the popular taste in so far that they have supplied to their clients the best goods only, but they have never courted a dubious notoriety. No word has ever been printed in their periodicals which could not be quoted without offence in any home circle. The most lavish praise is not too extravagant to be meted out to the great talent and industry which is annually summed up in these volumes. They are read in every climate and wherever the English language is spoken. They are a credit to American literature and American enterprise.

N. Y. Observer:—HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE fills a place of its own. It has always been entertaining and bright, but has happily combined profit with pleasure, instruction with entertainment. HARPER'S WEEKLY ranks highest in its class of literature, if it does not stand distinct and alone. It has played an important part in American history, and wields a powerful influence to-day. Keen observers, concise writers, skillful artists, and able and vigorous editorial management have produced a volume equal to any of the series. The WEEKLY will be popular as long as it has the good management which has characterized its past career. . . . There is no more prized and trusted authority in its own particular realm than HARPER'S BAZAR, and numberless ties bind it to its large and refined constituency. . . . But if any youth under eighteen or under eighty can examine five consecutive pages of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE without paying a hearty tribute of laughter, we do not envy him. We confess to the weakness, if such it be, of enjoying the bubbling and irresistible fun of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.

New York Times:—He who reads HARPER'S MAGAZINE will not only become a well informed person; he will find himself familiar with the best minds of his day and generation, with the best that the world is doing in all departments of activity. HARPER'S WEEKLY reflects the world's history, not in details and amplitude so much as by a process of selection; for it notes what is most significant and impressive.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

Per Year:

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.....	$4.00
HARPER'S WEEKLY.....	4.00
HARPER'S BAZAR.....	4.00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.....	2.00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

PUBLISHED BY

HARPER & BROTHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jun. '94-15.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVII.

SALEM, N. C., DECEMBER, 1894.

NUMBER 152.

1802-1894,

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features: — the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

THREE WEEKS IN LONDON.

ST. Paul's, The Tower, Westminster—stay your ready chestnut bell, girls: so much has been written and read, hashed and re-hashed of this grand old souvenir of British by-gones that my compassion absolves me from going over a wearisome catalogue of them, suffice it to mention they are yet extant, but look mighty old. Let's view the lesser London as seen through the lenses of 19 days.

Does the sun ever shine in London? I don't know. A resident gentleman remarked that they had 9 months winter and 3 months bad weather, and my experience affords me no reason to doubt the truth of his assertion. October is considered one of the finest months on the Island, and during the 21 days there the sun was seen timidly hanging about once, and Mrs. Meguire, of N. Y., Mr. T. and I took advantage of the prospect and visited Windsor Castle, 21 miles out on the Midland R. R. When fairly beyond the limits of the foggy metropolis the sun burst upon us gloriously,—the day was an ideal one. The queen and royal household were absent in Scotland, and all the apartments were in that utter confusion which generally attends the "setting of things to rights" for Her Majesty's home coming. Having finished, with a curious throng, the various rooms of state we were standing longingly at the base of the Round Tower, or Keep, regretting the occurrence of that bomb-throwing some years ago, which restricted in a degree the visitor's privileges, when suddenly there emerged from the wall, as it were, for the door was so quickly closed behind her, a kindly-faced old lady. I asked her: "How did you get in there?" "By right of residence, Madam," she replied, and, with an encouraging smile, said: "Would you like to go in?" A trio of tourist voices were in assent for once, so the good dame drew from a pocket in her petticoat a large brass key, suspended from a long steel chain which encircled her portly waist, unlocked the coveted door, and bade us to enter. First, a wide, worn stone stairs, then narrow, winding steps, cheerless and cold, took us past many queer little cells, where in ye olden times the unfortunate dignitaries had been imprisoned. In this tower are 10 magnificent sleeping rooms, the guest chambers of Her Majesty, when the royal apartments were o'er full. Leading up to them from the Queen's private gallery is a long, closely covered stairway, softly carpeted in dark red and blue, with gilt trimmings. The summit once gained a splendid landscape lies before you, the pale-green, velvet-like lawns flecked with dark-uniformed college boys at play, the darker green of the trees just yielding to the touch of autumn. The meandering private and public promenades and drives make a pretty picture. Far off in the distance are some of the stateliest houses of the nobility: Clivedon, the riverside residence of Mr. Astor; Stoke Park, once the property of our own William Penn; Runnymede, where Magna Charta was signed; Stoke Pogis church, where the poet Gray lies buried; old Eton College, one mile away, but which seems so near that but to drop a stone 'twould fall on its roof, the sleepy old town at our feet, with the waters of the Thames coursing by, present a scene replete in beauty and rich in historic associations.

It is an old saying that when a person has been in a strange country for six days he feels that he could write a volume on its people, but if he stops six months that knowledge is diminished, and should he stay six years he realizes that he knows absolutely nothing about them. Having seen this my confidence in even my boasted intuition has fallen, and, like M. Paul Bourget, in his American Letters, my impressions are subject to changes.

I like the English people. There is an air of genuine man- and womanhood about them, and I believe they are sincere. They are affable and kind to strangers in their midst. The women are tall, angular, and mostly ugly. Their style of head-gear is far from becoming, if indeed not a deformity,—a great bunch of loosely coiled, puffed hair falling low on the neck, the London Bun 'tis called. The number of wig-makers and hairdressers is enormous, every hotel of any size has one, and I didn't wonder when I saw,—I was alarmed at first, thinking, of course, of your bewitching Psychees,—but Paris says you may wear them, only flatten them in wearing.

The men are very tall, straight and rather more handsome, but—well, if I were asked, What is the Staff of Life in London? I'd say, Tobacco and Alcohol, everybody drinks, and out of 52 men who passed me while standing a few minutes at the door 40 were smoking, pipes generally. They seem to have lost all regard for ladies in the matter of this mannish gratification.

A city like London soon stamps itself on a transient visitor. One has but to travel the streets and boulevards a few days, and there is no better way of becoming familiar with the external features of this wondrous city than from the tops of the omnibusses. Substantial simplicity clearly marks her sharply defined personality; she is original, old-timey and slow to imitate. There is not that freshness and variety, no towering sky-scrappers as in New York and Chicago.

The streets in London curve and twist in all directions, and their names are puzzling on account of duplication. The Directory shows 15 Church streets, 13 Duke, 10 George, 24 High, and, strange to remark, only 6 Smith and 2 Brown streets. On Cheapside, Fleet Street and Ludgate Hill is seen the greatest traffic and human movement in the world.

All the parks, circuses, squares (that are not square) combined do not equal in size Philadelphia's Fairmount, nor compare in beauty with Central or Lincoln parks. London is a veritable city of monuments, ghosts of reminiscences, tributes, magnificent and grand, to nobility and chivalry. There are no street cars in the city, but a sea of omnibusses and cabs. The character of the streets renders London much less noisy than New York. The cabs mostly have rubber tires. Amusing experiences greet one here. One evening at dinner, in a restaurant of the first water, the wine list was given to us. We declined. The waiter looked surprised, and, believing his ears had deceived him, offered it again. Again we refused, whereupon he remarked: "We make nothing on our dinners, sir!" and a second time extended the list. We could, being true Kentuckians (?) but a third time decline, when he said: "Well, we have to tolerate such guests sometimes, I suppose!" and served us rather indifferently, not forgetting to ask for the 6 pence due to polite attendance. We did not repeat this visit to the "Piccadilly."

Three days each in Edinburg and Glasgow were full of interest and rain. The former is particularly picturesque and pleasing. Edinboro Castle, towering grandly from her throne of green-gray rock, adds attractively to the beautiful city. The highland soldiers, with bare knees and plaid kilts, were novel: the day was bitterly cold and raw, but they seemed inured to the winds. We were told that the bare knees were the all year round custom. They look unique in the drill, and were not oblivious of their appearance. Holyrood: there is an interest about this grim old palace which makes one long to stay there for hours and try to conjure up the scenes it must have witnessed.

Glasgow is a big manufacturing city, smoky and foggy and unprepossessing to any but men of the busy, commercial world.

Your friend, sincerely,
MRS. F. G. TOOMEY.

Historical Paper

Read by Miss ADELAIDE L. FRIES at the last Meeting of the Alumnae Association.

SOME two years ago a letter was received from a friend in the University of North Carolina, saying: "If you want good ground for historical research take the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY." The idea was a pleasant one, and soon adopted, with what success the readers of the ACADEMY can best judge. In some respects it was no easy undertaking, for the records were unsatisfactory; it was necessary to glean a little here and a little there, and the would-be historian was often ready to acquiesce in the opinion of a South Carolina Alumna, who wrote: "I think you have undertaken a big job!" But it was a pleasant task as well, for former pupils readily lent their aid; from Alabama and Arkansas, South Carolina and Virginia, came information concerning the first Select Class, the "big" dinners on Principal's birthdays, the routine of the school-day, the Christmas joys; and whatever the subject might be there was sure to creep in somewhere a word concerning former school mates, a loving memory for the teachers, a sentiment which a North Carolina Alumna expressed in these words: "If there is one spot above all others I love and would like to see again 'tis dear old SALEM ACADEMY. I hope yet to be able to visit her before I die."

But the history of a school is written, not so much in the long lines of her Register, as in the after lives of those who as girls passed in and out, learning and growing under her protecting care. Then, too, the query often comes: "What has become of so and so, who was at school with me?" and the interrogation point can be only answered by another. These two considerations prompted a desire to trace the lives of pupils after they left Salem, that when recorded the ACADEMY might say to the world, "See, thus have my daughters wrought!" and to her questioning children answer, "This friend of yours has married, and in that pleasant town, surrounded by sons and daughters, exemplifies the lessons of her youth." Or, perchance, the message might have a sadder tone: "Your sister has gone home after a long life well spent."

If girls would not be so thoughtless as to change their names the investigator's task would be a great deal easier, for who could possibly guess that MATILDA FRANKLIN, MATILDA MOORE, ALICE GILMER and ALICE JOYCE represented an unbroken succession of four generations educated in SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY! The first of these, MATILDA FRANKLIN, was the daughter of Jesse Franklin, the Revolutionary hero, Governor of North Carolina and United States Senator. Two of her sisters, NANCY and ELIZABETH, were also here, and one of them became the mother of the present Judge, Jesse Franklin Graves. Another chain of three links begins with ELIZA ELLEN WAUGH. Four years were spent within the walls of S. F. A., and later she married Daniel W. Courts, a lawyer by profession, who was a member of the Legislature in both House and Senate, held, for many years, the office of State Treasurer, and was United States Consul at Matanzas, Cuba. She had three sons and three daughters, one of the latter being educated in Salem. In 1843 she died, and, in accordance with a previously expressed wish, her body was brought here and laid to rest in the Moravian Graveyard. Tradition says that all the houses in town were closed that day as a mark of respect. Her sister, MARY MARRIA, was also buried there, and lies near Mrs. Courts. MARY COURTS, the daughter of ELIZA ALLEN, also a four year scholar, married Mr. Wesley Jones, planter, State Senator and United States Marshal. Their son, A. D. Jones, was recently Consul General at Shanghai, China, but died on the voyage home. His sister, MAMIE, who died in 1888, was the third link in the chain.

Such successive attendance is by no means rare,—we find POLLY REDD, who was here in 1810, MARY FONTAINE and MARY WALLACE; again, the mother-in-law, wife and daughters of ex-Governor Thomas M. Holt; and there are doubtless many more than we now realize.

Turning to individual Alumnae there are many who have held positions of prominence in the world, sometimes in their own names, oftener through husband or son, whose efforts have been ably seconded by the friend at home. Mrs. James K. Polk and Mrs. "Stonewall" Jackson are too well known to need further mention; MARY FRANCES SHEPHERD, here from 1849 to 1855, married Major-General William Dorsey Pender, one of the bravest officers and wisest leaders of the Confederate service, whose untimely death at Gettysburg threw a gloom over the entire army; MARGARET BARTON CROZIER, 1816, became the wife of L. G. M. Ramsay, the distinguished author of the "Annals of Tennessee;" REBECCA PAINE CARTER, one of the original ten boarders of 1804, married R. M. Saunders, a lawyer, in Congress a number of years, a judge, and minister of Spain, appointed by President Polk, who was his intimate friend,—he was also one of the projectors of the North Carolina Railroad. ELIZA WOOTEN, 1861, married G. W. Sanderlin,

State Auditor of North Carolina, under the past administration. ELIZABETH R. CALDWELL, the mother of "Christian Reid," our North Carolina authoress, was here in 1837; and Judge Spier Whitaker, of this State, is the youngest son of ELIZABETH LEWIS, a pupil of 1815.

This information, and more which cannot now be given, was elicited by blanks such as many of you have seen. Each bears a request that the recipient fill out the attached slip, and explains briefly the object sought,—and the slips, numbered and mounted, are to be always open for reference to those who seek information about former friends.

Though the work has been in hand for some time, it is still far from complete; therefore, if a personal appeal is not out of order, I would ask your assistance, both in filling out blanks and in giving names and addresses of others who might do so. Your life may seem to you to contain nothing worth recording, the one or two addresses too little to send, but either may, as they have already often done, open a channel which must otherwise remain closed. But time passes, and I yield the floor to friends who come with active aid for those who write, as did one Tennessee Alumna: "I have three daughters, 17, 15 and 10 years of age; I would like to have them educated at SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, but have never been able to send them."

From Our Senior Class.

THE following papers were contributed by members of our Senior Class and will be read with much interest, not only by the recent graduates, but also by other friends. THE ACADEMY welcomes these letters, fresh from the school-home, and rejoices in the happy spirit displayed in their contents. We hope to receive many more similar contributions in the future. The papers speak for themselves:

Euterpean Society Budget.

The Euterpean Society met for the first time in the session of '94-'95, on September 7th. We were all pleased to open with such a successful beginning. Several new members were initiated the first night, and others have come in since that time. All of the officers, elected for this term, returned, except the President. The Vice President filled her place. On October 26th we had a new election of officers, which is always a very exciting time. The following officers were elected: President, SALLIE ADAMS; Vice President, MARY OSTERBIND; Secretary, HATTIE OLLINGER; Chaplain, MARY MILLIS; Critic, LIZZIE TAYLOR; Monitors, LIZZIE BITTING and ANNIE LINDSAY; Committee on Programme: FLORENCE GLENN, JULIA JONES and ALMA CHAFFIN. We have a splendid society this year. All the members seem to take so much interest in it. There is very little fining done, on account of the member's excellent behavior, as each one is faithful in fulfilling her duty. We have had the pleasure of having Mr. CLEWELL with us several times this year. We also spent a delightful evening with him, on which he gave us a very interesting lecture on several of the most important cities, illustrated by stereopticon views. The programmes have been well rendered, and, besides being beneficial, were very entertaining. As we gather in our brightly lighted hall, we often think of those members who are with us no longer.

On November 16th a number of our honorary members attended and seemed to enjoy the following programme:

Instrumental Solo—Miss UNA FITZPATRICK. Recitation—Miss ALMA CHAFFIN. Essay—Miss AUGUSTA TALCOTT. Reading—Miss CARO BUXTON. Dialogue—Misses ANNIE LINDSAY and GLADYS CLARK. Vocal Solo—Miss FLORENCE GLENN.

A number of books and magazines have been added to our library.

The annual entertainment of the Euterpean Society will be given in January. We are busy preparing for it now.

We hope the Euterpean Society will continue to prosper in every way, which we are quite confident it will do, for the members are energetic and loyal.

S. E. ADAMS.

The Hesperian Society.

The first meeting of the Hesperian Society for the year 1894-'95, was held on Friday evening, September 7th, 1894, and proved to be quite an interesting one. The Society has had a good beginning, and we hope will continue to grow more interesting as the time goes by.

We have thirty-five members in the Society, who seem to be very much interested in it. On account of the very good behaviour that has prevailed in the society from the first very little fining has as yet been done.

At the recent election of officers the following were chosen: President, INA SMITHERMAN; Vice President, DOVIE CHEDESTER; Secretary, RUBY SYDNOR; Critic, LUCY TEAGUE; Chaplain, ETHEL WEAVER; Treas., CHARLOTTE YOUNG; Monitors, BEULAH McMINN and LUCIA TAYLOR.

Quite interesting programmes are rendered each Friday night, and we are much pleased to see the members so faithful in performing their duty.

We are always glad to welcome Mr. CLEWELL to our meetings and have him give us a talk; in fact, we open wide our doors and extend to all the teachers a hearty welcome.

We believe the society is flourishing, and trust that it may prove to be one of the shining lights of the ACADEMY, and one of its most profitable as well as most pleasant features.

I. L. SMITHERMAN.

—Among the pupils who have joined the Cooking Class, we note the names of a number of the teachers. This is as it should be, for when teachers become pupils the interest in that particular subject is transferred to the pupils under their care. We would like to see the interest in this very important department spread more widely in the school.

—The Commercial department is quietly doing its good work, and in Shorthand, Book Keeping, Type-Writing and Telegraphy all is progressing nicely.

—French and German are being pursued with the usual interest, and we are pleased to note the satisfactory results in these departments.

—With unusual speed the Calisthenic suits were furnished this year. By the end of October, some six weeks after the work was commenced, all was virtually finished. The suits are neat, attractive and inexpensive, and are popular among the girls.

—The Art Rooms have a larger number of pupils than usual this year, and all are busy as bees in their airy apartments on the 4th floor.

—The 13th of November is a special day of praise and prayer in the Moravian Church, being also the anniversary of the founding of the Salem congregation 128 years ago, and the dedication of the present church edifice 94 years ago. The services were interesting and solemn, and the music very fine.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., DECEMBER, 1894.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—We extend to our patrons, Alumnae and many other friends our best wishes for a happy Christmas and a blessed New Year.

—We call attention to contributions of the pupils from King's Daughter's Society and from the Euterpean and Hesperian Societies. The influence of these Societies works great good.

—Recitations will close Friday, December 21, at 2 o'clock, p. m. Patrons in town are urged to insist on full attendance till the close, and patrons at a distance are requested to insist on pupils remaining at the ACADEMY till recitations have closed.

—The request of THE ACADEMY, made in the November issue of the paper, that the Christmas visits be restricted to home or school has been universally observed. This hearty co-operation of patrons and pupils with the faculty adds much to the success of our great work.

—If parents wish us to purchase the "box" for their daughters who remain in the school during the holidays will kindly send us the funds and a list of the articles that would have been placed in the box in case it had been started from home, we will make the purchases, pack the box, and deliver the same on Christmas Day morning.

—The past month has been a very active one musically, and pupils and friends have greatly enjoyed the same. The ACADEMY is the musical centre of the Twin-Cities, and it seldom occurs that anything mediocre is given in its hall,—and we can safely say that nothing poor is ever given. Notices of the occasions referred to will be found elsewhere.

Vance Memorial Window.

THE following subscriptions have been added to the Vance Memorial Fund since our last list was published:

LENA LESLIE.....	$5 00
DAISY THOMPSON.....	5 00
BEA SMITH.....	5 00
MR. ADDISON.....	5 00
CAPT. MAST.....	1 00

Twenty-one members have now been heard from, and with a few gifts sent in by friends, the sum in the hands of the ACADEMY is now $111.50. The Sentinel has about $35.00 in cash. Col. Smith has $15 00 from the concert, and S. F. A. adds $25 00, making a total of $185.00. If the remaining 16 members of the Class do not feel like investing the $5.00 in the Memorial, we will be pleased to acknowledge a smaller sum,—but we will be much pleased to place something opposite the name of each member of the Class.

—A meeting of those interested in the Vance Memorial Window was held in the middle of December at the ACADEMY office, but too late for the present number. We will give a report of same next month.

The King's Daughters of 1894-'95.

PERHAPS some of our King's Daughter sisters who were with us last year, and whose presence we so sadly miss in our little circle, would like to know what we are doing this year.

When we first returned, in September, your absence and that of our dear leader, Miss FOGLE, was felt so strongly that we seemed almost helpless. Some of the girls were in favor of giving it up, but this met with strong opposition. We knew, however, that there was One who would be a Leader, so, after invoking His blessing and guidance, we undertook the work before us.

Officers were elected as follows: JENNIE WOOD, President; MARIE LAWSON, Vice President; and ETHEL WEAVER, Secretary. Our number is steadily increasing, and the interest seems to be growing. The girls are alive to the work, and we believe that God is blessing us.

We meet at 4 p. m. every Sunday. After the society has been called to order by a short talk from the President, we all join heartily in a song, after which we give our experiences of the past week, tell what we have been doing for ourselves and for others. Next comes the best part of our meeting, our circle of sentence prayer; this, we believe, is the key-note of our success. Then comes a feature which the little girls like, namely: a nice story by the President. We then adjourn, generally by singing our favorite hymn: "God be with you till we meet again."

I believe the thankful boxes have been established since you were here, so I will tell you of them. Each room has a small box on the wall, and every time we are specially thankful for anything, we put a small contribution in the box. It is surprising how much we get in this way, besides it teaches us to appreciate our many blessings. We use our money, just as we did last year, to buy things for the Home.

Pray for us that we may continue to fight a good fight of faith, and walk worthily of the vocation wherewith we are called, so that when life's little day has ebbed to its close, and the dark shadows of evening draw nigh, we may be prepared to say: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness."

LUCY TEAGUE.

The King's Daughters' Thanksgiving Visits.

On November 28th, the evening before Thanksgiving Day, our dear friend, Miss FOGLE, came down to the ACADEMY to assist the King's Daughters in purchasing the gifts for the poor with the Thanksgiving offerings.

After winding our way through a number of streets and by-paths we arrived at the home of two crippled old ladies living all alone, and they seemed to appreciate the coffee, sugar, etc., very much.

Our next visit was at quite the other end of town, to the home of a widow, whose husband had died only a few weeks ago, leaving her five small children to provide for. Here we left a dress for the mother, and a bolt of domestic and some provisions. While buying the more substantial gifts for the mother, Miss FOGLE, who is always in sympathy with the young, did not forget the children, but bought them a bag of candy so that they might enjoy Thanksgiving also.

After disposing of our bundles we went with Miss FOGLE to her home, where we enjoyed a very pleasant half-hour with our old teacher and the happy family now under her care. Then Miss FLAKE called, and we accompanied her back to the ACADEMY. Just before the supper bell rang we arrived, a troop of happy girls, to tell the events of the afternoon to our companions.

Thanksgiving evening Miss FOGLE again came down and took us to the Salem Home. After we had given our presents to the ladies they took us over the house. We enjoyed our visit very much, for the old ladies seemed so glad to see us.

MAGGIE MORTON.

The King's Daughters' Thanksgiving Exercises.

For several days the girls had been practising for the Sunday before Thanksgiving, and, owing to their diligence, the program was rendered very interesting. Perhaps some of our friends would like to hear about our exercises, and we will give a brief account for their benefit. Our circle has outgrown the "B" class room, and we hold our meetings in Society Hall. A large number of friends were present Sunday and the Euterpean Hall was nearly filled. After a brief introduction the meeting was opened by the singing of the hymn, "Holy, holy, holy;" this was followed by a vocal duet by SALLIE ADAMS and FLORENCE GLENN, "Jesus, Lover of my Soul," which was exceedingly sweet. Our exercises were not all of a Thanksgiving character, but we felt that the dear old hymns we all love could never be out of place. In connection with this hymn ALMA CHAFFIN recited the piece which we so often heard from the lips of our last year's Secretary, SUE REYNOLDS. ALMA recited it so vividly that we could almost see the storm-wrecked vessel, with its last remaining victim dying with the words "Let me to thy bosom fly" still upon his lips. NELL CUMMINGS and FLORENCE GLENN sang "Raise Me, Jesus," and, as the sweet words floated through the air, we all felt the need of being raised above our troubles and temptations, and resolved to live above ourselves, "to look up and not down."

After this LUCY TEAGUE recited a Thanksgiving selection which was very much enjoyed by all. The piece was very appropriate and interesting as well as prettily recited.

A chorus, composed of a number of Seniors, sang "The Half Has Never Yet Been Told," and DOVIE CHEDESTER sang the solo: It was very pretty, and they would have felt repaid for their trouble if they knew the pleasure they gave us.

Miss FOGLE kindly wrote us a letter, and the reading of her kind note and good wishes afforded us much happiness. We hope to hear from her again in the near future.

The President then made a few remarks to the Circle, and suggested that we should all begin anew at this Thanksgiving time and struggle to live closer to the Saviour. Very tender mention was made of our beloved little schoolmate, and the girls were urged to make their own salvation as safe as hers was. Little CARRIE, our sweetest and tenderest hot-house plant, who has been transplanted to live forever beside the River of Life, will always be a sweet reminder to us, and an added link to draw us closer to the Unseen.

Then the collection was taken up by our sexton, FLORENCE GLENN, and we found, to our surprise, that we had $4.75. We had a small sum on hand, and, together with other contributions, we had $10.00 in all.

A "prayer circle" was formed, and the pleasant hour was closed with our favorite hymn: "God be with you till we meet again."

Although we are laboring under many difficulties and discouragements we hope our work is not in vain; and in the end we may be able, though not in this world, to see the good results of our earnest toil.

JAENIE D. WOOD.

Correspondence.

—The beautiful handwriting of Mrs. Dr. Hunt (LORENA BOBBITT), of Oxford, N. C., lies before us, and, as we take up her communication, memories of the past come up and faces of dear friends of long ago glide between our pen and paper.

Please find enclosed my renewed subscription for THE ACADEMY. I thank you sincerely for having sent the paper so regularly. I love to get the dear little paper, and enjoy it so much, for anything from Salem is of interest to me. With love and best wishes for a "Happy Christmas,"

I am, very sincerely,

LORENA BOBBITT HUNT.

Oxford, N. C.

Next we have a few lines from DAISY THOMPSON:

Please find enclosed my pledge for five dollars for The Vance Memorial Window.

I had intended sending it some time but put it off. I hope in the near future to visit the ACADEMY, and see the beautiful piece of work that our class helped to place there.

With kindest regards,

Very sincerely,

DAISY THOMPSON.

Then comes a communication from LENA LESLIE on the same subject:

Please find enclosed five dollars, my subscription to The Vance Memorial Window. I hope it is not too late to add my contribution. I think it will be one of our greatest pleasures, when we return as Alumnae, to be able to say, as we look at the Memorial Window, "Our Class placed it there."

Some one has said the Class of '94 was certainly a teacher's class; it must be, to judge from the number who have entered upon the work. I am glad that this year promises to be such a prosperous one for the ACADEMY. The present Senior Class is something to be proud of.

LAURA is delighted with her work this year; she has the 8th grade, and finds it much easier to teach the older pupils than the younger ones. Remember me to Mrs. CLEWELL, Dr. RONDHALER, Mr. PFOHL and the teachers.

Very sincerely,

LENA LESLIE.

Concord, N. C.

—SUSIE GULICK also sends us a greeting from the Land of Flowers.

Please send me a copy of the September ACADEMY. You see I am living in Florida, and I have been here over six months at work, and finding my work pleasant. I have made many friends, and have become attached to the place. I long for Salem still, and hope some day to pay you all a visit.

Will you send me a small bird's eye view of the school; I wish to show it to an old Salem pupil.

Sincerely yours,

SUSIE B. GULICK.

Fernandina, Fla.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The large palms have been given a place in the Chapel for the winter, and they seem like an echo of summer on a cold, frosty morning.

—Mrs. Skilton, Prof SKILTON's mother, arrived early in the month from her New England home, and will spend some time here. THE ACADEMY extends its best wishes for a pleasant sojourn.

—ETHEL WEAVER was made very sad by the death of her mother, which occurred some time since. THE ACADEMY extends its sympathy to her and to the bereaved family.

—Mrs. Prof. Theodore Wolle, of Bethlehem, Penna., is visiting friends in Salem and Winston. She dined at the Principal's house some days since, with a number of relatives and friends.

—There is no difficulty to distinguish the Seniors now. Every one of the 55 make quite an impression on the less favored, with their classic and dignified Oxford cap and gown.

—The New York celebrities gave a very fine and enjoyable concert before an appreciative audience in the Chapel the end of November. The Swedish Quartette also visited our place, and rendered a fine programme in Pythian Castle Hall.

—The Euterpean Society entertainment, which was to have been given this month, will be deferred to middle of January. The girls are preparing a comic opera, which, with a miscellaneous programme, will doubtless be very acceptable to their friends in town.

—We find that our space will not admit of an extended notice of the visit of Prof. Griggs, of New York, and hence we will defer the sketch till next month. The recital and the Philharmonic Society Concert were both very special occasions and deserve more than a passing mention.

—The past weeks have brought quite a number of patrons to us on longer or shorter visits. We note among others: Mr. Cannon, Mr. Sydnor, Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Covington. A number of others were here, and we were glad to welcome them, but we failed to note the names at the time. We are always pleased to welcome our friends.

—The large number of Seniors this year have made all manner of devices necessary. The first step was the necessity of knocking out the partition wall between the Senior and adjoining class room. In the dining-room, the table being full, a number "boarded" at other tables, but, at the request of the class an "L" was placed at the west end of their long table, and now all seem happy.

—There seems to be no end to the capacity of the old chapel, connecting South Hall and the new Chapel building. It was necessary to secure more room, and this was accomplished by running a partition near Prof. SKILTON's music room, and, lo! the truth of the omnibus proverb, "always room for one more." Miss SETTLE occupies the apartment, and it is very snug and cosy.

—Since we last published a list of pupils who have registered for the present year, the following names have been added:

Carr Chisman, North Carolina.
Minnie Reid, " "
Bessie Crump, Virginia.
Mamie Lewis, Georgia.
Myra Skinner, North Carolina.
Carrie Morefield, " " Evelyn La Selle, Virginia.
Sadie Rierson, North Carolina.
Laura Reed, " "
Emma Vogler, " "
Augusta Talcott, Virginia.
Minnie Brock, North Carolina.
Carrie Miller, " "
Carrie Dunlap, Mississippi.
May Moore, Tennessee.
Blanche Holt, North Carolina.
Lily Mosely, " "
Rose Harrison, Washington, D C.
Annie DuBard, South Carolina.
W. J. Hannah, North Carolina.
Rosa Baily, " "
Mary Baily, " "

—The Young Men's Christian Association of Winston-Salem gives to its members a series of Winter Entertainments, and this year began the list by a Concert given by the pupils of the ACADEMY, under the direction of Miss TRACY and Prof. SKILTON. The list of those who took part was the entire ACADEMY CHORUS, in two selections; in individual selections were Misses S. ADAMS, OLLINGER, GOOLSBY, PITTS, B. ROBBINS, GLENN, CROUCH, VAUGAN, SMITHERMAN, CHADBURN, E. TAYLOR, BITTING, GOODMAN, Mrs. W. PETERSON, MISS MORRISON, Messrs. S. Peterson and E. Butner; the recitations were by Miss SCRIBER's pupils. Miss A VAN VLECK was accompanist. The Glee Club, under the direction of Prof. SKILTON, was welcomed most enthusiastically, and we predict a brilliant future for this new organization. The following is the list in the Club:

1st Soprano—Misses TAYLOR, CHEDESTER and B. ROBBINS.

2d Soprano—Misses S. ADAMS, GLENN, HORN and E. HEGE.

1st Alto—Misses BUTNER, CROUCH and M. JEFFERSON.

2d Alto—Misses LEHMAN, PITTS and L. CHAFFIN.

Mandolins—Misses HUBBY and CURTIS

Guitars—Misses HORN, BUTNER and E. HEGE.

The entire programme was particularly pleasing, as the following letter will show:

WINSTON, N. C., Dec. 4th, 1894.

Rev. J. H. CLEWELL,
Principal Salem Female Academy,
Salem, N. C.:

Dear Sir:—

The Lecture and Entertainment Committee of the Winston-Salem Young Men's Christian Association desires, through you, to express to the Professor and young ladies of the ACADEMY our grateful acknowledgments for the excellent Concert they so kindly gave last Friday night, complimentary to our Association. Realizing that it called for the sacrifice of valuable time on the part of both instructor and pupils to prepare such a programme and in such a manner as to be able to render it without a single thing to mar in any way its beauty makes us the more grateful. The hearty applause after each number had been rendered showed your efforts were entirely successful and appreciated, and that your audience was delighted with what you were giving them. You certainly deserve and have our hearty congratulations for your admirable concert. We have heard nothing but words of praise and pleasure whenever the concert has been referred to by those who had the good fortune to be present.

Hoping we may have the pleasure of listening to you many more times, and again assuring you of our sincere thanks for your kindness, we remain,

THE LECT. & ENTERT'NM'T COM.

In Memoriam.

EMMA CAROLINE BAHNSON.

Born June 13, 1878.
Died Nov. 22, 1894.

It is with deep sorrow that we chronicle the early death of EMMA CAROLINE, the eldest daughter of our well known and esteemed physician, Dr. H. T. Bahnsen, of Salem, N. C.

Unusually attractive and endowed as she was with rare gifts of mind and heart, the darling and pride of a large circle of relatives and friends, the light of a home now so sorely stricken, we can only rest upon the words of Him who said: "What I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know hereafter."

In the ACADEMY, where she has gone in and out among us for some years, as a day pupil,—where, as a member of the Junior Class, her bright, eager, intelligent face was an inspiration and a joy, she is sadly mourned and missed. It is not often that the death of one so young affects so large and sympathetic a circle, but the whole community was moved and saddened.

With her we know it is well; but our hearts go out with especial sympathy to the bereaved family. She is gone in her bloom and brightness ere the dew-drops had dried from the grass, or the stars faded out of the sky, while the freshness of the early morning yet lingered in the air;—gone ere one shadow had fallen over her pathway, or one trouble had dimmed her pure spirit, to be "forever with the Lord."

Her opening was to be under fairer skies and in brighter climes than ours, under the green palms of the River of Life, in the white-domed mansions of eternal peace, where she walks amid the great white-robed throng, re-deemed and glorified.

A Lily grew in the gardens of Earth,
So purely, so radiantly fair;
Its delicate fragrance and staidness worth,
Breathed on every perfumed air.

Fond eyes at its winsome opening grew soft,
Fond hearts throbb'd with tenderest joy;
In its chaled depths lay a heart of gold,
A treasure without alloy.

But the Master came to this garden rare,
And with softest hand of love,
Transplanted the opening flower so fair
To his beautiful Garden above.

O stricken hearts grew with anguish faint,
As they mutely bowed to the stroke;
Tho' 'twas "not in cruelty, not in wrath,"
That the Lord of the Harvest spoke.

"It shall bloom forever," He gently said,
"Where the white-robed harpers above
Cast fadeless crowns of earth's choicest flowers, Fore the Throne of Eternal Love."

E. L.

Married.

JOHNSON — SPAUGH.—At Friedberg, N. C., on November 14, 1894, Mr. CHARLES L. JOHNSON to Miss MARY SPAUGH.

CONRAD — WATKINS.—At Moravian Falls, N. C., Mr. SPRINGS CONRAD to Miss SALLIE WATKINS, formerly of Winston, N. C.

Subscriptions Received.

Miss Robbie Kyle, Gadsden, Ala; Mrs J H Kapp, Bethania, N C; Mrs B F Cox, Redalia, N C; Miss Daisy Little, Little Rock, Ark; Mrs R R Ratliff, Reidsville, N C; Mrs M J Flake, Beverly, N C; Mrs Harriet Clemmons, Philadelphia, Pa; Miss Susie Gulick, Fernandina, Fla; Mrs J L Minnaugh, Columbia, S C; Mrs M E Scarborough, Ridge Springs, S C; Mrs Edith Clark Moore, Asheville, N C; Capt. S C Lemly, Washington, D C; Mrs Leonora F McKoy, Dickinson, N C; Mrs N L Simmons, Charlotte, N C; Mrs S M Pritchett, Stapleton, N Y; Mrs J F Ramsay, Asheville, N C; Mrs Amanda M Rutherford, Houston, Tex; Mrs J A Thom, China Grove, N C; Miss Kyle Pace, Waco, Tex; Mrs J S Miller, Winston, N C; Mrs Amelia R Woodward, Cincinnati, O; Miss Kate Pearsall, Morgantown, N C; Miss Maggie McKinnon, Rowland, N C; Miss Alice Hill, Germantown, N C; Miss Laura D. Whitner, Fort Reed, Florida; Miss Annie Hill, Raleigh, N C; Miss Lizzie Hicks, Raleigh, N C; Mrs P H Booe, Walkertown, N C; Miss Edna Lineberry, Trinity College, N C; Mrs F W L Reddick, Hamilton, N C; Mrs M B Roan, Yanceyville, N C; Mrs R L Perry, Reedy Creek, N C; Mrs Theo F Gray, Winston, N C; Miss Mattie Belo Williams, New Berne, N C; Miss Julia Meacham, Anderson, Texas; Mrs D W Moore, Van Buren, Ark; Miss Clyde Peacock, Goldsboro, N C; Mrs E C Williams, Tyler, Tex; Mrs. W T Pate, Gibson Station, N C; Miss

Pattie Johnston, Brinkleyville, N C; Mrs M T McDonald, Washington, N C; John L Cecil, Gainesville, Tex; Miss Lizzie Majette, Como, N C; Mrs J G Hunt, Oxford, N C; Miss Eliza Gulick, Columbia, S C; Miss Hennie Schiff Prince, Washington, D C; Mrs. L M Porter, Miss Tilla Stockton, Miss Laura Morefield, Miss Gertrude Siewers, Miss A C Tracy, Miss M E Vogel, Miss Margie Flake, Miss Sallie Shaffner, Miss Pattie Beck, Salem, N C.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the form for same:

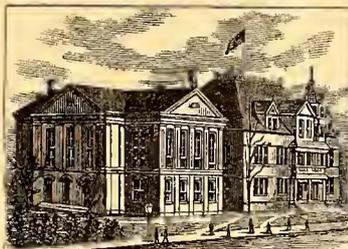

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of—Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appear more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

WANTED.—A position as teacher in a school or a private family. Full graduate of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Apply to M. B. F., Salem Female Academy, Salem, N. C.

WANTED.—A position as teacher or as book-keeper in office. Office work preferred. Graduate in College Course and in Book-keeping Department. Address E. L., care Salem Female Academy.

OAK RIDGE INSTITUTE

OAK RIDGE, N. C.

J. A. & M. H. HOLT, Principals.

The most elegantly equipped Classical, Scientific and Commercial School in the South.

Young Men and Boys.
85th Session begins August 21st.
Send for Catalogue.
June '94-ly.

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE,

On Car Line, near Academy, Main St.

Nestling in the midst of the old historic part of Salem, a stroll along the well shaded street will lead you to the Store, where you will find a good assortment of

BOOKS, STATIONERY AND FANCY GOODS.

Call and see us or write to

L. V. & E. T. BLUM, Salem, N. C.

A SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Take a half hour dose of Bicycling two to three times a day. It is pleasant medicine.

Bicycles for Sale and Rent by

SENSEMAN & BRICKENSTEIN,
SALEM, N. C.

June, 1894.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $205 per annum.

The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1893.

REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.

Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793.

1894

BINGHAM SCHOOL,
FOR BOYS.

Established in 1793.

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESIDENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from prominent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANITATION are the BEST in the SOUTH, and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogue giving full particulars, address

Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Superintendent.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 4.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892—1y

HOTEL JONES,

J. L. JONES, late of Jones House, Propriet'r.
WINSTON, N. C.

All modern conveniences provided. Electric lights and bells. Table abundantly supplied with the very best that the market affords. We are anxious to please.

RATES, $2.00 PER DAY.

At Depot ask for Jones House 'Bus.
Reference: Salem Female Academy.

May, 1894.

Our Specialties:

STERLING SILVERWARE,
FINE WATCHES,
DIAMONDS.

We have everything else kept in a first-class Jewelry Store. Special attention paid to mail orders.

Fine Repairing and Engraving.

Very Respectfully,

W. T. Vogler & Son,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

JOHN GILL, Receiver.

in connection with the

Norfolk & Western R. R.,

via Walnut Cove.

Atlantic Coast Line,

via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH

between

WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to

J. W. FRY,

Gen. Sup't.

W. E. KYLE,

Gen. Pass. Agt.,

Greensboro, N. C.

Fayetteville, N. C.

E. B. KEAR'S, Agt. N. & W. R. R.,

Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western Railroad.

THE SHORT BEST AND QUICK ROUTE

TO

Winston-Salem, N. C.,

FROM

Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee and all Southern Points.

PULLMAN VESTIBULED SLEEPERS

from Memphis and New Orleans to Roanoke, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Patrons of Salem Female Academy will have only one charge of Cars at Roanoke, Va., FROM THE NORTH AND EAST, Pullman Vestibuled Sleepers daily from New York and Washington via Royal Blue Line and Shenandoah Valley Route to Roanoke, Va., where connection is made for Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond and Norfolk.

Sleeping Car Reservation and reliable information furnished.

Write or see one of the following agents before purchasing your tickets.

W. L. ROHR, Western Pass. Agent,

Reed House, Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. B. BEVILL,

M. F. BRAGG,

Gen. Pass. Agent,

Trav. Pass. Agt.,

ROANOKE, VA.

1112 1894-1y

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $5.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Respectfully direct attention to their
NEW AND MAGNIFICENT LINE OF

FALL AND WINTER DRESS COODS.

in all the latest styles of

IMPORTED AND DOMESTIC FABRICS.

BOTH IN SILKS AND WOOLENS.

With a full assortment of TRIMMINGS to match.

Corsets! Corsets!

We have just received a complete line of Corsets and Corset Waists, among which are the celebrated C. J. B and Dr. Warner's Corsets, and Ferris Bros.' Waists for Ladies and Misses.

CLOAKS AND CAPES.

In this department we have just received the handsomest line of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Cloaks EVER SHOWN, at prices which will suit the present times.

REMEMBER THAT WE ARE SOLE AGENTS FOR

The Navy Blue Cloth,

used by the young ladies of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY for Calisthenic Suits, Price, $1.10 per yard.

SHOES! SHOES! SHOES!

Largest line of Shoes in the largest Shoe Store in Winston. E. P. REED & CO.'S Fine Shoes a Specialty.

Very Respectfully,

ROSENBACHER & BRO., WINSTON, N. C.

May, 1894.

WHAT THEY SAY OF HARPER'S PERIODICALS

New York Sun:—The manifold art that is represented here has a fascination as great as any fascination that may attach to books. The two volumes of the MAGAZINE are entirely beautiful in their pictorial features, and the literary part of them is marked by great and varied attractions. The WEEKLY is a chronicle, valuable, rich in entertainment, the BAZAR is a trustworthy repository of the fashions, and it has many desirable things besides, the YOUNG PEOPLE is in the first rank of publications for boys and girls. This is a splendid array. But it is hardly necessary to say so. The whole world knows it.

Philadelphia Ledger:—It is one of the many distinctions which have made the fame of the Harpers that they are always in advance of the times. No firm, it is safe to say, has done more to raise the tone and morale of weekly and monthly literature than have the Harpers. They have catered to the popular taste in so far that they have supplied to their clients the best goods only, but they have never courted a dubious notoriety. No word has ever been printed in their periodicals which could not be quoted without offence in any home circle. The most lavish praise is not too extravagant to be meted out to the great talent and industry which is annually summed up in these volumes. They are read in every climate and wherever the English language is spoken. They are a credit to American literature and American enterprise.

N. Y. Observer:—HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE fills a place of its own. It has always been entertaining and bright, but has happily combined profit with pleasure, instruction with entertainment. HARPER'S WEEKLY ranks highest in its class of literature, if it does not stand distinct and alone. It has played an important part in American history, and wields a powerful influence to-day. Keen observers, concise writers, skillful artists, and able and vigorous editorial management have produced a volume equal to any of the series. The WEEKLY will be popular as long as it has the good management which has characterized its past career. . . . There is no more prized and trusted authority in its own particular realm than HARPER'S BAZAR, and numberless ties bind it to its large and refined constituency. . . . But if any youth under eighteen or under eighty can examine five consecutive pages of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE without paying a hearty tribute of laughter, we do not envy him. We confess to the weakness, if such it be, of enjoying the bubbling and irresistible fun of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.

New York Times:—He who reads HARPER'S MAGAZINE will not only become a well informed person; he will find himself familiar with the best minds of his day and generation, with the best that the world is doing in all departments of activity. HARPER'S WEEKLY reflects the world's history, not in details and amplitude so much as by a process of selection; for it notes what is most significant and impressive.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

Per Year:

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.....	$1.00
HARPER'S WEEKLY.....	4.00
HARPER'S BAZAR.....	4.00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.....	2.00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

PUBLISHED BY

HARPER & BROTHERS, FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

1894-1y.

A. SUSSMANN 232 6th Ave. N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
A COMPLETE FOR $7.25

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS:

BOX & CONTENTS.....	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF.....	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA.....	1.75
SKETCHING STOOD.....	50c

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

READ!

The S. F. A. ALUMNÆ, their friends and all others will find at

S. E. ALLEN'S,

Hardware & Crockery Store,
Winston, N. C.,

many useful Decorative, Household and Parlor Furnishing Goods of the latest designs.

Also a complete assortment of Tinware, Glassware, Stoves and Hollowware, and Hardware for the Mechanic, Farmer, Contractor, Merchant and all others at prices to induce sales.

Call and examine or write for prices.

June, 1894-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVII.

SALEM, N. C., JANUARY, 1895.

NUMBER 153.

1802-1895.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features:—the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies.

For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

A LETTER FROM PARIS.

PARIS, FRANCE.

"Thick as leaves in Vallambrosa," fall before my mind's eye, scenes and places I should like to write you of, but it would be hard in a letter so brief as might be pleasing to the many readers of THE ACADEMY to tell much of so wonderful a city as Paris. A complete idea of its vastness and variety is best obtained from the summit of the Eiffel Tower, from which point within a fortification, 13 miles in circumference, entering which are 52 open gate ways,—lies a compact mass of architectural splendor. On all sides, near and far, the eye wanders to innumerable religious edifices, to a series of stately public structures and magnificent private mansions, living monuments of kingly pride and popular admiration. From the height of our observatory we see the Island of the city, looking like a ship at anchor as winding about it the silvery waters of the dividing Seine course their way between two borders of green, the plantations of the quay, whose trees are luxurious and none the less pretty when autumn's sear and yellow vary the picture. On this island the venerable Notre Dame sits and sways her christian influence. The first stone of this memorable cathedral, Victor Hugo tells us, was laid by Tiberius, who, believing the site well fitted for a temple, planted an altar to the God Ceraunos and to the deity Esus, also, that on the hill where the Pantheon stands, Mercury was at one time worshipped. So full is Paris of historic associations that the same spot recalls widely differing events.

France supports an army of 598,000 men; a restless uneasy spirit seems to possess the Parisians as if ever expecting some calamity, some revolt.

ALL SAINTS' DAY.

We are told to go to the cemetery, Pere la Chaise,—we did so. That being a legal holiday in Paris all business was suspended and the day devoted to a religious memory of the dead. Thousands of people were gathered there. Pere la Chaise, once exclusively Catholic, is now unsectional. The graves were laden with friendly memorials, doors of vaults were set open and all sorts of decorations from fresh cut flowers and immortelles, to bead wreaths and crocheted drapings were placed on small altars therein, where lighted candles but added to the sepulchral wierdness. In these tombs the faithful, kneeling, were "telling their beads" and reading aloud the prayers for the departed. A small chapel stands about the center of the grounds on an elevation, and into this hundreds pushed and crowded all day long to set before the altar or statue of some special saint a burning candle. The Anarchists, too, were on hand and stirred up considerable commotion when seen bearing on their shoulders, through the densely thronged avenues, tremendous stuffed red flannel wreaths—the emblem of the order. 200 extra police were detailed to allay any excitement that might arise, but failing to keep the curious crowd in motion a company of military was called out, and with flying flag and gleaming bayonets marched through the cemetery and were stationed on a hill side near the communists' corner. A strange spectacle to an American but an annual occurrence in Paris. It is sad that past experiences cannot sink into the limbo of forgotten things and not hang always as a pall over this poor people who would not live elsewhere than in Paris if they could.

Paris possesses one of the most ancient and one of the most characteristically modern of churches, the renowned Notre Dame: and in sharp contrast the ultra fashionable Madeleine, celebrated for the splendor of its essentially mundane architecture, the luxurious attire of its female frequenters, the beauty of its music and eloquence of its preachers. Nothing of ecclesiastic pretense is exhibited in this temple of extreme Grecian mould, standing distinctly alone. The building rests on a basement 23 feet high, surrounded by immense corinthian columns, 18 ranging along each side, 8 at the north end and 16 forming the south or large portico, thus completing an open corridor around the entire outer walls. The niches in the colonnade contain 34 modern statues of modern saints. 24 steps, the width of the building, form the approach to the auditorium. Not a window is in the walls, the light being emitted through the sectional roof, softly sacred, direct from heaven as it were. The inner walls and floor are in white marble, and form one spacious hall. The high altar consists of a magnificent group, in marble,—Mary Magdalene borne to Paradise by two angels; facing this is the Chapel of Marriages, ornate with the representation, also in marble, of the Virgin nuptials. It was in this beautiful church that we witnessed

A WEDDING IN PARIS.

Chancing to drop in on Saturday one of the presiding churchmen asked us to come round on Monday at 12:30 if we cared to see a "royal wedding." We were on time but the bride as usual was late. The kind gentleman gave us front seats, as we were American strangers. The bride was Miss Lynch, of New York; the groom Mr. B. Zaubert, a well known marine artist in Paris. The marriage ceremony was performed with much catholic pomp and choral excellence by Monsignor Edmonde De Pauw, of the Pope's household, Pronotary Apostolic, who came from Rome for the purpose, a friend of the bride's family. He was assisted by 6 priests. The bridal party formed in the front of the church: first and conspicuous in the procession were two gorgeously attired beadles—beadles that Dickens wrote about—in scarlet knee breeches, white stockings, patent slippers with immense silver buckles, long, black dress coats, thickly embroidered in red and gold, an elaborate regalia, topped off by a tri-colored cockade; in hands a big gold rod or mace. Following were 5 bridesmaids, brilliant in the newest creations of the artists of the capital, and quaintly sweet in yellow satin, trimmed in rare Venice lace, each wearing a large, black, velvet hat, ornamented with flowing black plumes. Close in the wake of these came 5 sister maids, bewitching in pale-green satin gowns, with like laces and corresponding feathers. The bride wore a dream of a dress, with bodice and full court train, of white satin duchesse, flowing gracefully back from a white petticoat of rich fabric, brocaded delicately with pale-green and gold tulle. A tulle veil and orange blossoms completed the costume: no jewels. She carried in her hand a modest bouquet of white chrysanthemums, which were also the church decorations. Her American beauty, a positive brunette, contrasted charmingly with the Parisienne loveliness around her. This party, with a corresponding number of attendant gentlemen, and 8 couples of friends, were seated about the high altar, and took part in the ceremony of Mass. During the offertory, a priest, headed by the beadles, went first to the bridal assembly, thence through the audience, asking for contributions in gold. The silk-plush-bag, with yawning, avaricious jaws, was well-nigh full when we were reached, and our little silver piece tinkled with an almost sacrilegious jingle as it fell. At the conclusion of the mass the party, following the bride and groom, left the altar through a small door near by, promenading the entire course of the colonnade, re-entering the church by the same door, (the bride, being an American, was not permitted to cross the sacristy,) proceeded down the middle aisle to waiting carriages, and strangely happening, just as this brilliant gathering was passing down the wide steps, the funeral cortege of a young woman was slowly going up. The maids doing honor to the bride, the girls giving service to the dead. What a picture!

MRS. W. R. TOOMEY.

The Vance Memorial Window.

THE work of the Class of 1894 is gradually drawing to a conclusion, and the results of their efforts will soon appear in the beautiful but chaste and modest memorial window. It is the first thus far erected in honor of the distinguished statesman, and it is the first memorial placed in the school by a graduating class.

The contributions thus far received and not heretofore acknowledged are:

Beatrice Smith, Sparta, N. C.,	$5 00
Edna Lineberry, Trinity College,	5 00
Lena Colwell, Fenn, Ga.,	3 00
Emma Rollins, Asheville, N. C.,	3 00
Mr. Addison (2d gift)	5 00
Col. S. H. Smith,	1 00

These gifts make the financial statement to stand as follows:

Cash in hands of S. F. A.,	$161 00
“ “ Sentinel ,	23 50
“ “ Col. S. H. Smith,	15 00
Two gifts in hands of other friends,	8 00

Total, $207 50

The total cost will be $225 00, hence, if the friends will increase the gifts by about $20, the total expenses of the Memorial Window will be in hand.

The Committee met at the Principal's house on December 14 to decide the matter and award the contract, and it was given to William Reith, of Philadelphia, the decision being made between some 10 or 12 fine designs laid before the Committee. As the Sentinel reporter was present, we will let that journal, which is so warm a friend of the ACADEMY, tell the story:

“The design for the Vance Memorial Window has been selected,—and it is a beauty. Only twenty dollars are now needed to complete the work, and The Sentinel entertains the opinion that this amount will be forthcoming at an early day. Friends and admirers of North Carolina's deceased Senator (and there are thousands of them all over the country) who desire to see his name and memory honored, are requested to send in their contributions at once, in order that the work may be pushed to completion.

“The Committee met in the office of Principal Clewell yesterday afternoon to select the design from a number secured by Mr. Clewell during his recent visit North. Members of the committee present were: From the Class of 1894, Misses Katie Hanes and Margie Flake; Miss Emma Lehman, of the Senior Claes; Miss Gertrude Siewers, of the Art Department; Mrs. D. H. Starbuck, President of the Alumnae Association; Miss Clara Query and Miss Margaret Bessent, of the Faculty; Maj. S. H. Smith, of Winston; C. H. Fogle, of Salem; R. E. Carmichael, of the Sentinel, Bishop Ronthaler, and Rev. J. H. Clewell. After a careful review the design described below was agreed upon:

“The size of the window will be 3x9 feet, and will be made throughout of beautiful opal glass. The pattern is known as a lily design, being a group of tall Easter lilies, with lilies of the valley clustering at the base of the group. Over this a dove appears, as if descending from the sky. The prevailing color of this central portion is blue, the lilies, of course, being white. Below this beautiful central portion is a scroll on which will appear the words:

SENATOR VANCE MEMORIAL, PRESENTED BY
CLASS OF 1894.

“Around the entire picture will be a border of the richest design, the prevailing color being ruby red, and the entire window will be set with bright jewels throughout. The window will be rectangular to conform to the other windows in the chapel, but the gothic design will be gracefully worked in to embrace the lily pattern, the dove and the scroll. This pattern was selected by Mr. and Mrs. Clewell, after an examination of perhaps one hundred windows, seen in various churches, chapels and elsewhere, and was unanimously selected by the committee yesterday from some 10 or 12 drawings submitted to them. The pupils and our communities will be doubtless much pleased with the Memorial as it will be a fine piece of artistic work.

“The window will be formally presented to the ACADEMY at the next annual commencement. It is quite probable that Senator Ransom will be invited to make the presentation address.”

Christmas, 1894.

THE Christmas season at Salem has always been an exceedingly bright and cheerful one. Then good cheer is not confined to the Church services, nor to the decorations and merry-making in the homes of the citizens of the town, but it shares its happy experiences with the ACADEMY, which is really a home at such a time, for those who cannot join parents and other friends. The recess is usually ten days in length, including the time from Christmas Eve till January 2d. Last month recitations ceased Friday, December 21st, and the pupils who went to their homes were all off on the happy journey by Saturday. The entire school family of teachers and pupils numbered nearly one hundred, so that enough were in the buildings to properly celebrate the occasion. As if by magic the entire inside of the school was changed on Saturday morning. Evergreen trees were transported hither and thither with marvellous rapidity; moss and laurel flitted like birds of the air, as baskets were filled and emptied by deft fingers; mistletoe and holly were at a premium, and it was necessary to post large placards of warning on the ivy clinging to the buildings, or the walls would soon have been stripped of their ornament. Then the boxes,—the boxes were endless; the express brought them and took others away; the mail groaned with them from friends and was also filled with packages on journeys to friends; the freight brought them; the carriers from the town stores were busy delivering the purchases; and one could not but wonder where room would be found for all these things. And what a variety of articles these boxes contained. There was everything from the big roast turkey to the finest chocolate creams; there was the entire list of fabrics from the lace handkerchief, so fine that cobweb seemed coarse in comparison, to the heavy winter cloak; there was the exquisite silver ornament and the fierce jack-in-the-box; the painting, the jewel-box, the grapes, the book, the oranges, the calendar, the raisins, the thimble, the stick-pin, the diamond ring, the apples, the watch,—why it would require the entire list of Santa Claus himself to tell all that came to the school that day. By evening, Saturday, the decorations were complete, and each room was unique, and yet as we passed from one to the other the variety seemed to form one harmonious whole, just as the flowers form one complete bouquet, even though no two are alike. One room had a full fledged tree and "putz;" another prided itself on its bunch of mistletoe, 3 feet in diameter; here was a tree and festoons, there festoons and twinings; so from room to room the visitor passed, and always found something new and in harmony with all else.

Quite a new and strange scene came forward on Monday afternoon; it was the time for exchanging the gifts which did not belong to the shower rained down by Santa Claus during the midnight hour. How happy the faces appeared; the step was lighter than usual; the eye was brighter; the greeting was warmer; what a strange transforming power has this Christmas; ah, the secret is that laid down as the very essence of the Christ-child's teaching,—more for others, less for self.

Christmas Eve, at 4:30 p. m., many of the girls attended the unique service held for the children of the Salem Moravian congregation. The church was a bower of festoons and trees, cedar and laurel, while a blazing star shone over all, and the beautiful transparency of the Nativity formed the center of the pulpit decoration. Bishop RONDTHALER beamed sympathetically on the scores of little faces turned upward to him, as he told the story of the shepherds and the angels, the star and the manger. The choir music was so bright, the love feast so greatly enjoyed, and when the lighted wax tapers were brought in, the symbol of Christ as the light of the world, the climax was reached.

At seven o'clock the entire congregation and the pupils from the school partook of the Christmas Eve lovefeast, and soon thereafter the halls in the buildings were deserted, and old Santa Claus reigned supreme.

THE ACADEMY will not attempt a description of Christmas morning. Perhaps, dear reader, you have been present at one of the Christmas mornings within the school. If so, you need no description; for it would be useless to attempt to paint the picture, the experience is so many-sided; it is like living through a week at an exposition.

Now church is over; the dinner bell sounds, and the happy ACADEMY family trips lightly down to the spacious dining-hall. As has been the custom for several years all the blinds have been closed so as to quite exclude the outside light. But more than 100 wax tapers are burning in the hall, a score of electric lights add their lustre and an equal number of gas jets, softened with colored globes, contribute to the blaze of cheerful welcome. Perhaps twenty or twenty-five guests are present, and a few words from Dr. RONDTHALER, Mr. Thaler and Mr. CLEWELL are followed by the hearty offering of thanks, in which all voices join,

"Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

You must be present at our ACADEMY Christmas dinner to appreciate it fully. Perhaps you are reading this sketch at 11 o'clock p. m., and feel hungry, so we will draw the curtain, and not make you long for the brown, roast turkey, or the big raisins in the mince-pie! The dinner over, a formal visit was made to all of the room companies, and all were loud in their praises of the skill and taste, as well as the variety of design of the decorations.

At two o'clock the young ladies had been invited to the Principal's house, where Mr. and Mrs. Clewell entertained all who called. The children's decoration was a source of much interest to the visitors, with its miniature fountain, its wonderful caves and realistic animals, and the sparkle of ball and tinsel from the tree above. Games and other pastimes were indulged in, and thus the hours sped swiftly by.

The Salem Sunday School gave a Christmas Concert at night, which was attended by the pupils in a body. The large electric stereopticon was used to throw views of scenes in the life of Christ on the screen, and the songs and recitations were very enjoyable indeed.

On second Christmas Day, in the evening, the Elm Street Sunday School rendered a very fine cantata in the evening. On this occasion the snow and sleet began to fall, and this feature, a white Christmas, was added to the other enjoyments. Before the snow and ice disappeared many of the girls had enjoyed a coasting excursion the entire length of the avenue.

New Year's Eve is an occasion in Salem little less interesting than Christmas itself. The children's meeting at 4:30 p. m.; the "Memorabilia," or historical sketch of the year; and the midnight or watch-meeting at 11:30 p. m., the blast of trumpets announcing the incoming year as the clock strikes 12,—all form a series of enjoyments pleasing and interesting, as well as solemn and impressive. Between the night services oysters, "sugar cake" and coffee were served in the dining-room. Thus the old year came to an end, with all its joys and sorrows, its successes and failures, and its hopes realized and unrealized.

New Year's Day in the ACADEMY was very bright. The evening was the occasion of the Annual Reception tendered teachers and pupils by Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL. The dining-room was filled with trees and tables, easy chairs and lounges. The front portion was separated from the rear by heavy curtains. The games and music were lively and inspiring, but when the curtains were drawn and the tables, filled with tempting dishes, appeared, the variation proved to be a welcome one indeed. When the oysters and sandwiches had been tested and the creams and other things approved, the company spent still another hour in sports and games. Thus closed the Christmas season of 1894.

"Old Rouser" got in his usual work from the house-top the next morning, and examination showed that as if by magic trees and holly had disappeared, the box-room became a myth, and Latin and Algebra, Literature and Logarithms again reigned supreme.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., JANUARY, 1895

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.
Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss - EMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—The large number of applications for the use of the ACADEMY chapel has made it necessary to begin a certain degree of restriction. The first step was to reserve January and May exclusively for school use. But this was not enough since applications have come in to such an extent that during two weeks the chapel was used for 8 public meetings. This is, of course, too much for the good of the school, and hence, in future, some general rule will have to be established restricting the use for outside causes to two or three occasions a month. There are now 6 applications in the office for February, March and April, consequently friends will please understand that necessity will prevent opening the hall many, if any, more times between February and Commencement. During May no requests from friends can be considered. The applications alluded to above are all for home societies or interests.

—The plans for Commencement are being shaped as rapidly as possible. We are not at liberty at this date to outline any of them, but we will say that the general interest is so great that the Commencement of 1895 will far eclipse all others in the extent and variety of entertainment. The Alumnae have extensive plans afoot; the speakers are unusually powerful; the music will be finer, and the large numbers within the school will all add weight —Through the courtesy of Mr. S. P. Langley, Secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, we have received from Dr. Zeballos, the Argentine Minister, the publication entitled, "Literary Sketches of Argentine Writers."

—The tenth annual Columbia Desk Calendar for 1895 has been sent us, and is a constant companion, reminding us how swiftly the days go gliding by.

A Dress Rehearsal.

The above is the title of the operetta given by the Euterpean Society as their annual entertainment. These occasions have become more and more popular from year to year, as was shown by the fact that the first evening the rain came down and the night was intensely dark, still the hall was quite full, and the treasury was strengthened to the extent of more than fifty dollars. When the receipts of the second night were added to this it was found that nearly $90 were added to the funds for the year's expenses.

In addition to the financial benefits of the entertainment, there are many other good results. The work of preparing for such an evening is very great, and carries with it good results; it binds the society members more closely together; it gives training in grace of movement equal to a course of study with the Delsarte system; it trains the voice and fits the singers for parlor entertainments or public occasions.

We dare not, as a school paper, enter into a discussion of the merits of the various performers, but, in general, we can say that the operetta was performed with unusual spirit and success. The very make up of the plot was that of school-girl fun and nonsense, and this they could take without really acting it, because it was only necessary to be natural. Then, again, there were scenes which were very beautiful as, for instance, the duet, "I shall be belle of the ball." Others were quite pathetic, as when Cinderella reassured the irate visitor that "Miss Jones is quite a mother to us." Thus there was fun, pathos, and a general variety well pleasing to all, well prepared and finely rendered.

The direction of the entertainment was in Miss TRACY'S hands, and much credit is due to her great care and perseverance in the rehearsals.

Miss SCRIBER'S fan drill and the recitations were a great success, as is every effort made by her. The Glee Club, under Prof. SKILTON'S direction, added their quota to the pleasure and success of the evening. The following is the programme and argument in full:

Glee Club. Solo.....MABEL BUTNER.
Recitation. Day of Judgment,.....E. S. Phelps.
ANNIE SCOTT LINDSAY.
Fan Drill. FLORENCE GLENN, LEAH CHAFFIN, HATTIE OLLINGER, SALLIE ADAMS, PEARL FLOYD, AUGUSTA TALCOTT, GLADYS CLARK, SUSIE RICHARDSON, LIZZIE TAYLOR, LOTTIE THORNTON, JENNIE PATERSON, NELLIE CUMMINGS.

Recitation. The Automatic Cradle.
ALMA CHAFFIN.
Glee Club.

A DRESS REHEARSAL.

ARGUMENT.

In the first scene we are introduced to the school-room of Grove House Academy, of which Miss JONES is the lady Principal, and Mlle. EPINARD is the French teacher. It is proposed to wind up the term by a grand party and supper, an additional entertainment being a charade, which, in the hands of the merry girls, becomes a burlesque imitation of "Cinderella." Mrs. JARVEY, a retired actress, and now a teacher of elocution, is called in to train the pupils in their parts. She at first demurs, as the present play is some miles below "Shakespeare," but finally consents, and enters into the matter quite heartily.

Miss FIBBS now enters, to begin the rehearsal. She is arrayed as Cinderella, and is reciting very well, when she is interrupted by a visitor, Miss PRUDENCE PINCHBECK, who takes the strange object for a real "poor pupil," who is being starved and otherwise ill-treated by the Principal. Under this impression she hurries away to obtain assistance, perhaps from the police. In the meantime, the play progresses, with many absurd interruptions by SARAH ANN, who is always eating; by SOPHONISBA SEIVINS, who is greatly excited over a novel she is reading, and by Miss JONES and the French lady, who do not quite understand what it is all about. Finally, Miss PRUDENCE PINCHBECK returns, intending to arrest the Principal, and free poor, starved Cinderella. The whole thing is then explained, and THE DRESS REHEARSAL is considered a success.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ.

Miss Jones, Principal of Grove House Academy.....Miss AUGUSTA TALCOTT.
Mademoiselle Epinard, French Governess,.....Miss NELLIE CUMMINGS.
Amy Fibbs, Afterwards Cinderella,
Miss ELIZABETH TAYLOR.
Clara Wilkins, Afterwards the Prince,
Miss ANNIE SCOTT LINDSAY.
Sarah Ann, the Greedy Girl,
Miss CARO BUXTON.
Sophonisba Spivins, the Romantic Girl,
Miss UNA FITZPATRICK.
Martha Higgins } Afterwards Spiteful Sisters, Carry Jackson, }
Misses SALLIE ADAMS and FLORENCE GLENN.
Mrs. Jarvey, Elocution Teacher,
Miss ALMA CHAFFIN.
Miss Prudence Pinchbeck, a Visitor,
Miss BERTHA SHELTON.
Rose Jennings, Afterwards Fairy God-mother, .....Miss CARRIE CURTIS.
Servant.....Miss LOTTIE THORNTON.
Humpie .....Miss GLADYS CLARK.
School Girls .....Misses JULIA JONES, LEAH CHAFFIN and NANNIE KEEN.
Incidental Solos by Miss JULIA JONES and Miss LEAH CHAFFIN.
Accompanist .....Miss A. VAN VLECK.

Correspondence.

I send the money enclosed within for the Vance Memorial Window. I hope my unavoidable delay has not hindered the erection of the window. The Senior class seems to be very large, and I hope good in proportion to its size. I have been teaching since the 15th of August, and have found it even more pleasant than I had anticipated.

With best wishes for the ACADEMY's prosperity, I am

Your sincere pupil,

BEATRICE SMITH.

Trap Hill, N. C.

Your kind invitation to attend the meeting to decide the plan of the Vance Memorial Window was received. I regret that I could not be present, but will send my contribution and hope it will not arrive too late, for I want to help place the monument in dear old S. F. A., to the memory of our beloved Vance, I am

Very sincerely,

EDNA LINEBERRY.

Trinity College, N. C.

I have been so busy this fall that I had almost forgotten that my subscription to THE ACADEMY had expired, so I enclose 50 cents for another year.

I spent the first year at home and visiting; last Spring I received a first grade teacher's certificate, and this Fall I have been teaching at Newport, a small town just 8 miles from Yorkville. I enjoy teaching so much.

Give my love to Mrs CLEWELL, Bishop RONDTRILMER and the teachers.

Your old pupil,

ELLA J. NEELY.

Newport, S. C.

I will enclose three dollars for the Memorial Window, and 25 cents for THE ACADEMY. I am still teaching and like it very much. My pupils are all little things and not hard to manage.

Yours, &c.,

LENA COLWELL.

I am very much obliged to you for sending THE ACADEMY to me; you will find my subscription enclosed. If it was not for the little paper I should feel lost. How I wanted to visit the ACADEMY this Fall. I was "so near and yet so far." I spent the Summer in Washington with my father and brother; there, of course, I had a lovely time. I met OLA WHITE on Pennsylvania avenue, while the Knights of Pythias were there,

You can imagine my surprise. She and I talked Salem until every one around us became disgusted. After leaving Washington LAURA and I visited my brother in Oxford, N. C., and in Raleigh. We passed through Greensboro on our way home, and if LAURA had not been with me I should have run up to Salem, but her school commenced the day after we reached home.

SUSIE is still in Florida. We hope to see her at Christmas. Miss Matthewson, who was vocal teacher at the ACADEMY is here, in the Presbyterian College for Women.

Write to me soon and tell me all the ACADEMY news.

Yours, with love,

ELIZA GULICK.

Columbia, S. C.

Really I have neglected sending the money for THE ACADEMY so long that I am almost ashamed to do it now, but I miss it so much I feel I must have it. It comes every month as an old friend to let me hear the news from the dear old ACADEMY. Enclosed you will find fifty cents for it. I have not yet succeeded in getting a place to teach but hope there will soon be a vacancy for me somewhere. BESSIE and KATE BROOKE write me they have 22 pupils each. Where is MATTIE KELLETT now? I wrote to her in Detroit and received no reply. I kept house nearly three weeks for Mamma to go visiting friends in Virginia. I can make all the cakes, etc. I learned how to make dresses under Miss SEWERS, so I can cook, sew and teach.

The class letter has not reached me. I do hope it will soon appear. I am so anxious for it, for I have not heard a word from the majority of my classmates since June.

I guess the Seniors have their robes. I know just how they feel. I was so proud of mine I hated to lay it off at night.

With much love, I am,

As ever,

LIZZIE MAJETTE.

Como, N. C.

My duties this year have been somewhat higher than in the past, though I have been very busy sparing no effort, and I think I may modestly say I have done acceptable work. I feel specially proud of my Latin scholars. Those who commenced Harkness at the beginning of the term have mastered half the book. The Latin scholar of last year has nearly finished the first book of Virgil, another who had read Virgil at another school is engaged with Livy Liber 21. In music I have at present 13 scholars, We have had two Musicales this session. There is only one French scholar in the school.

I hear from ELLIE often. She is very much pleased with her work; we all feel so grateful to you for your kindness to her.

Hoping to hear from you at an early date, I am very sincerely,

Your former pupil,

E. LOUISE SIDDELL.

Elkin, N. C.

I am sorry I could not attend the meeting for the Vance Memorial on Friday. It would have given me much pleasure to see all the teachers and girls again, but I had fever the past summer and am not strong yet. Thanking you for your kindness, I remain,

Yours truly,

BESSIE HENDERSON.

Wilkesboro, N. C.

Chronicle and Gossip.

Thursday evening, Dec. 27, the 7th Room tendered a reception to a number of friends, and entertained them in a royal manner. Refreshments were served, games indulged in, and the reception was declared a success by all who were privileged to be present.

—We acknowledge an invitation to attend a football game between the cadets of Davis Military School and the students of Oak Ridge. Distance, weather and other circumstances prevented our being present.

—The following letter explains itself. The debate is to be a contest between the Washington and Jefferson Literary Societies of Davis Military School.

Rev. J. H. CLEWELL,

Dear Sir:

We have decided to accept your invitation to debate before the young ladies, for which invitation both Societies return their thanks.

On account of the Washington celebration it will be some time between the 15th and last of March before we can come. We will let you know about the date later.

Yours truly,

J. H. PRITCHARD.

Davis Military School, Jan. 19, 1895.

—Friday, January 26th, the dread fire alarm was sounded, and we noticed large clouds of smoke rising in the north-west. A telephone message brought to our office the startling news that the Davis Military School was on fire, and later information confirmed the report and added that all their numerous buildings were threatened with destruction. The immense tank, erected for fire protection, was useless, because of frozen pipes, and the school is outside the limit of the town steamers. For a time it seemed as if one or more of the buildings would have to be blown up with dynamite to save the rest of the school village; but fortunately the Winston steamer, No. 2, succeeded in getting water from a brook some 2000 feet distant and succeeded in aiding the work already being done, so that the fire was checked while burning the third building. The loss is two large barracks and a third partly destroyed. We are glad to learn that all the furniture and clothing was saved, and that the buildings were insured. The loss will in no way interfere with the school work as the plant is so large that temporary arrangements can be made till the barracks are replaced. Our sympathies are extended to our neighbor school in their calamity.

—On Wednesday, December 19th, Professor BROCKMANN's pupils gave a recital, which was very much enjoyed by all present. We are much gratified at the proficiency shown by the members of the Violin Department. The following programme was rendered:

- Piano and Violin. Selection. Chimes of Normandy.....Pianquette.
Misses BLANCHE and LOTTIE THORNTON.
- Two Mandolins. Pastime.....Dancla.
Misses MAGGIE and PEARL ROBINSON.
- Vocal Solo. Answer.....Robyn.
Miss JENNIE CROUCH.
- Duo for Violins. { a. Andantino. } Mazas.
                          { b. Allegro. }
Miss GOSLING and Prof. BROCKMANN.
- Two Mandolins and Guitar. Excell. Waltz.
Milton.
Misses CURTIS, RICHARDSON and HORN.
- Violin Solo. Concert Mazurka.....Musin.
Prof. CHAS. J. BROCKMANN.
- Recitation. "Jes' fore Christmas."...E. Field.
Miss ETHEL FOLLIN.
- Mandolin Duet. Evelyn Gavotte.....Bragdon.
Misses LEE BECKHAM and VALESKA STEFFER.
- Sonata in G Major for Piano and Violin.
Rubinstein.
Miss VAN VLECK and Prof. BROCKMANN.

—Last month lack of space prevented our giving a proper notice of the Philharmonic Concert and of Dr. Griggs' visit. As Prof SKILTON was the Director of the Concert, and as a number of the voices were members of the ACADEMY's faculty we feel a "cousinly interest" in the very pleasing occasion. Miss EMMA LEINBACH impersonated Melusina, and the part of Raymond, was taken by Dr. Griggs, of New York City, who came especially for the purpose of assisting the Society. Other friends were present to assist the Orchestra, viz: Prof. Brockman, the elder and the younger Woodroffe, of Greensboro; Mr. A. Hoer, of Richmond, Va., and Dr. Turner, of Statesville. The public responded to the special effort made, and filled the hall, adding quite a large sum to the Society's treasury.

In addition to the enjoyment of evening occasions such as this the musical taste of the community is refined and elevated. At this time Winston-Salem may congratulate themselves on the high-toned ability of the Philharmonic Society and of the Salem Orchestra, and we may add the peaceful spirit which is abroad, since it is within the memory of some still living that circumstances were not thus

The afternoon of the day of the concert Dr. Griggs gave a complimentary recital to the ACADEMY pupils and a few friends from town, consisting of selections from German and English songs, rendered in a masterful manner, a veritable music lesson in itself.

The evening of the concert a reception was tendered the visiting gentlemen musicians by the Salem Orchestra in their hall. This was not a feast of sweet sounds, but the best of Winkler's oysters, celery and many other material attractions. Addresses were made by several of the gentlemen, the ACADEMY being represented by Professor SKILTON and Mr. CLEWELL.

Our Library.

—The following books have been received during the past weeks:

- "Animal Rights," by H. S. Salt. McMillan & Co. Presented by the Secretary of the American Humanitarian League, Providence, R. I.
- "Gildersleeve's Latin Grammar," Lodge. University Publishing Co., New York.
- "Gymnastics," Spalding, New York and Philadelphia.

Married.

MOSES—CRUTCHFIELD.—On December 12, 1894, at the Centenary Methodist church, Winston, N. C., Professor F. A. MOSES, of the Davis Military School, to Miss LILLIAN CRUTCHFIELD.

SUMNER—THOMAS.—In Thomasville, N. C., on December 24th, 1895, Mr. THOMAS D. SUMNER to Miss BLANCHE THOMAS.

KING—ARMFIELD.—On Dec. 19, 1894, Mr. JOHN L. KING to Miss ROXIE ARMFIELD.

PEABODY—BELO.—In Trinity Chapel, N. Y., on Jan. 5, 1895, Mr. CHARLES PEABODY, of Boston, Mass., to Miss JEANETTE ENNIS BELO, of Galveston, Texas.

HOUSTON—TOTTEN.—On Jan. 9, 1895, in Mt. Airy, N. C., Mr. D. A. HOUSTON to Miss BERTA TOTTEN.

ROBINSON—MILLER.—On Jan. 17, 1895, Mr. JOHN O. ROBINSON to Miss AODIE MILLER, of Salem, N. C.

The Academy Register.

[The following list gives the names of resident pupils only and embraces, under general date of entrance,— 1. Name of Pupil. 2. Date of Birth. 3. Name of Parent or Guardian. 4. Residence.

We shall esteem it a special favor if earlier pupils of the ACADEMY, under whose notice this list may fall, will communicate any items of intelligence respecting their former school-mates here mentioned, particularly married names and present P. O. addresses.—EDS ACADEMY.]

*—I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!*

1889.

- 5965 LAVINIA ROGERS.
George T. Rogers, Macon, Ga.
- 5967 TIBBIE C. ROGERS.
Star Rogers, Macon, Ga.
- 5968 SWANNANOA BROWER.
Mrs. Nellie Brower, Liberty, N. C.
- 5969 ADDIE LACIAR.
Joseph Laciard, Mueh Chunk, Pa.
- 5970 FLORA E. READ.
E. L. Read, Read's, N. C.
- 5971 ANNIE PERKINS.
5972 HELEN PERKINS.
J. J. Perkins, Greenville, N. C.
- 5973 CARRIE P. OLLINGER.
Joseph Ollinger, Milton, Fla.
- 5974 ANNA D. ADAMS.
A. J. Adams, Bagdad, Fla.
- 5975 EDNA K. RUSSELL.
W. S. Russell, Gulf, N. C.
- 5976 MATTIE H. WHITE.
Rev. W. G. Waite, Winnsboro, S. C.
- 5977 CARRIE LEE EDWARDS.
J. J. Edwards, Apex, N. C.
- 5978 MATTIE C. WOODELL.
B. H. Woodell, Raleigh, N. C.
- 5979 ANNIE GREEN.
J. H. Green, Columbia, S. C.
- 5980 FAYETTA McMULLEN.
H. A. Buchanan, Marion, Va.
- 5981 LILLIE R. HODNETT.
W. T. Hodnett, Martinsville, Va.
- 5982 NARCIA A. TAYLOR.
John L. Taylor, North Danville, Va.
- 5983 BERTA E. GRAVELLY.
B. F. Gravelly, Martinsville, Va.
- 5984 ANHLIA WOOD.
A. L. Wood, Macon Ga.
- 5985 ANNIE L. MAKEPEACE.
George H. Makepeace, Franklinsville, N. C.
- 5986 SUSIE B. GULICK.
W. B. Gulick, Columbia, S. C.
- 5987 LUCIA C. SWANSON.
M. L. Swanson, Tuskegee, Ala.
- 5988 BESSIE PONDER.
M. L. Swanson, Tuskegee, Ala.

- 5990 ALICE H. LOCKE,
Miss B. Locke, Brooklyn, N. Y.
- 5991 MARY J. MCCAULEY,
David McCauley, Chapel Hill, N. C.
- 5992 LILY BELL NEWBERRY,
H. E. Newberry, Magnolia, N. C.
- 5993 TALLULA ROBBINS,
Capt. F. C. Robbins, Lexington, N. C.
- 5994 LILLIAN CRENSHAW,
T. C. Crenshaw, Atlanta, Ga.
- 5995 ORA THOMSON,
5996 MARY ALICE THOMSON,
R. C. Thomson, Gaffney City, N. C.:
- 5997 JESSIE CATES,
5998 JOHNNIE CATES,
Dr. J. W. Cates, Marysville, Tenn.
- 5999 MAY M. BROOFOOT,
Dr. S. J. Hinsdale, Fayetteville, N. C.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of—Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

WANTED.—A position as teacher in a school or a private family. Full graduate of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Apply to M. B. F., Salem Female Academy, Salem, N. C.

OAK RIDGE INSTITUTE

OAK RIDGE, N. C.

J. A. & M. H. HOLT, Principals.

The most elegantly equipped Classical, Scientific and Commercial School in the South.
Young Men and Boys.
85th Session begins August 21st.
Send for Catalogue.
June '94-ly.

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE,

On Car Line, near Academy, Main St.

Nestling in the midst of the old historic part of Salem, a stroll along the well shaded street will lead you to the store, where you will find a good assortment of

BOOKS, STATIONERY AND FANCY GOODS.

Call and see us or write to

L. V. & E. T. BLUM, Salem, N. C.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY

THE GREAT TRUNK LINE

AND U. S. MAIL ROUTE

BETWEEN THE

NORTH, SOUTH, EAST AND WEST.

Operates Three Passenger Trains Daily

— TO —

WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND POINTS EAST.

Three Passenger Trains Daily for

ATLANTA, BIRMINGHAM, MEMPHIS, CHAT TANOOGA, MONTGOMERY, MOBILE, NEW ORLEANS, and Points South and West.

THE SHORT LINE TO FLORIDA,

Through Trains and Pullman Palace Sleeping cars to Columbia, Augusta, Savannah, Jacksonville and Tampa without change.

The Washington and South-Western Vestibuled LIMITED.

This train is composed entirely of Pullman Palace, Drawing Room, Sleeping and Dining Cars.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY

is the direct line between

WINSTON-SALEM

and above points.

For rates, tickets, time-tables, &c., call on any agent Southern Railway, or W. A. Turk, Gen. Pass. Agent; Chas. L. Hopkins, Trav. Pass. Agt., Charlotte, N. C. S. H. Hardwick, Asst. Gen. Agent, Atlanta, Ga. W. H. Green General Manager; J. M. Culp, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.

A SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Take a half hour dose of Bicycling two to three times a day. It is pleasant medicine.
Bicycles for Sale and Rent by

SENSEMAN & BRICKENSTEIN,

SALEM, N. C.

June, 1894.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific hooks sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free. Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

January 1895. 4y.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys,

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.

The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1895

Rev. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793.

1894

BINGHAM SCHOOL,
FOR BOYS.

Established in 1793.

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESIDENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from prominent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANITATION are the BEST IN THE SOUTH, and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogue giving full particulars, address

Maj. R. BINGHAM,

Superintendent.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 4

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,

Principals.

June 1892-1y

HOTEL JONES,

J. L. JONES, late of Jones House, Proprietor.
WINSTON, N. C.

All modern conveniences provided. Electric lights and bells. Table abundantly supplied with the very best that the market affords. We are anxious to please.

RATES, $2.00 PER DAY.

At Depot ask for Jones House 'Bus.

Reference: Salem Female Academy.

May 1894.

Our Specialties:
STERLING SILVERWARE,
FINE WATCHES,
DIAMONDS.

We have everything else kept in a first-class Jewelry Store.

Special attention paid to mail orders.

Fine Repairing and Engraving.

Very Respectfully,

W. T. Vogler & Son,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

JOHN GILL, Receiver.

in connection with the

Norfolk & Western R. R.,

via Walnut Cove.

Atlantic Coast Line,

via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH

between

WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to

J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
 Gen. Sup't. Gen. Pass. Agt.,
 Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.
 E. B. KEARNEY, S. Agt. N. & W. R. R.,
 Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western Railroad.

THE SHORT BEST AND QUICK ROUTE

TO

Winston-Salem, N. C.,

FROM

Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee and all Southern Points.

PULLMAN VESTIBULED SLEEPERS

from Memphis and New Orleans to Roanoke, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Patrons of Salem Female Academy will have only one change of Cars at Roanoke, Va., from the North and East, Pullman Vestibuled Sleepers daily from New York and Washington via Royal Blue Line and Shenandoah Valley Route to Roanoke, Va., where connection is made for Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynnhurg, Petersburg, Richmond and Norfolk.

Sleeping Car Reservation and reliable information furnished.

Write or see one of the following agents before purchasing your tickets.

W. L. ROHR, Western Pass. Agent,
 Reed House, Chattanooga, Tenn.
 W. E. BEVILL, M. F. BRAGG,
 Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
 ROANOKE, VA.

11 13 1892 -1V

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the 5 Sided Gold Pin is $3.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,
THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Respectfully direct attention to their
 NEW AND MAGNIFICENT LINE OF

FALL AND WINTER
 DRESS GOODS.

in all the latest styles of

IMPORTED AND DOMESTIC FABRICS.

BOTH IN SILKS AND WOOLENS.

With a full assortment of TRIMMINGS to match.

Corsets! Corsets!

We have just received a complete line of Corsets and Corset Waists, among which are the celebrated C. B. and Dr. Warner's Corsets, and Ferris Bros.' Waists for Ladies and Misses.

CLOAKS AND CAPES.

In this department we have just received the handsomest line of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Cloaks ever shown, at prices which will suit the present times.

REMEMBER THAT WE ARE SOLE AGENTS FOR

The Navy Blue Cloth,

used by the young ladies of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY for Calisthenic Suits, Price, $1.10 per yard.

SHOES! SHOES! SHOES!

Largest line of Shoes in the largest Shoe Store in Winston. E. P. REED & CO.'S Fine Shoes a Specialty.

Very Respectfully,

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,
WINSTON, N. C.

May, 1894.

WHAT THEY SAY OF HARPER'S PERIODICALS

New York Sun:—The manifold art that is represented here has a fascination as great as any fascination that may attach to books. The two volumes of the MAGAZINE are entirely beautiful in their pictorial features, and the literary part of them is marked by great and varied attractions. The WEEKLY is a chronicle, valuable, rich in entertainment, the BAZAR is a trustworthy repository of the fashions, and it has many desirable things besides, the YOUNG PEOPLE is in the first rank of publications for boys and girls. This is a splendid array. But it is hardly necessary to say so. The whole world knows it.

Philadelphia Ledger:—It is one of the many distinctions which have made the fame of the Harpers that they are always in advance of the times. No firm, it is safe to say, has done more to raise the tone and moral of weekly and monthly literature than have the Harpers. They have catered to the popular taste in so far that they have supplied to their clients the best goods only, but they have never courted a dubious notoriety. No word has ever been printed in their periodicals which could not be quoted without offence in any home circle. The most lavish praise is not too extravagant to be meted out to the great talent and industry which is annually summed up in these volumes. They are read in every climate and wherever the English language is spoken. They are a credit to American literature and American enterprise.

N. Y. Observer:—HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE fills a place of its own. It has always been entertaining and bright, but has happily combined profit with pleasure, instruction with entertainment. HARPER'S WEEKLY ranks highest in its class of literature, if it does not stand distinct and alone. It has played an important part in American history, and wields a powerful influence to-day. Keen observers, concise writers, skillful artists, and able and vigorous editorial management have produced a volume equal to any of the series. The WEEKLY will be popular as long as it has the good management which has characterized its past career. . . . There is no more prized and trusted authority in its own particular realm than HARPER'S BAZAR, and numberless ties bind it to its large and refined constituency. . . . But if any youth under eighteen or under eighty can examine five consecutive pages of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE without paying a hearty tribute of laughter, we do not envy him. We confess to the weakness, if such it be, of enjoying the bubbling and irresistible fun of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.

New York Times:—He who reads HARPER'S MAGAZINE will not only become a well informed person; he will find himself familiar with the best minds of his day and generation, with the best that the world is doing in all departments of activity. HARPER'S WEEKLY reflects the world's history, not in details and amplitude so much as by a process of selection, for it notes what is most significant and impressive.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

Per Year:

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.....$4.00
 HARPER'S WEEKLY..... 4 00
 HARPER'S BAZAR..... 4.60
 HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE..... 2 00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada and Mexico

PUBLISHED BY

HARPER & BROTHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

Jan. '94-'95.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT
 OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX & CONTENTS	3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF	1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA	1.75
SKETCHING STOOL	1.50
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

ASUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N.Y.

READ!

The S. F. A ALUMNÆ, their friends and all others will find at

S. E. ALLEN'S,

Hardware & Crockery Store,

Winston, N. C.,

many useful Decorative, Household and Parlor Furnishing Goods of the latest designs.

Also a complete assortment of Tinware, Glassware, Stoves and Holloware, and Hardware for the Mechanic, Farmer, Contractor, Merchant and all others at prices to induce sales.

Call and examine or write for prices.

June, 1894-19.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVII.

SALEM, N. C., FEBRUARY, 1895.

NUMBER 154.

1802-1895.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1892-1893, was 362. Special features: — The Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

ALUMNÆ.

THE past month has been one of unusual interest and activity among the Alumnæ, and hence we have given the above heading to this article, and will divide it into several heads or subjects. The first is the

VANCE MEMORIAL WINDOW.

The memorial window, erected by the Class of '94, is in position in the ACADEMY Chapel! It was quite a bold venture for a class about to separate to undertake the accumulation of so large a sum of money, but it was energetically undertaken, successfully carried out, and the Memorial is now in place, a monument to the man whose memory it is intended to perpetuate, a constant reminder of a very good and patriotic class, and a joy and pleasure to the school and visitors to the ACADEMY Chapel. The description of the window was given in our last number, and hence need not be repeated here. Now that the work is in place, it comes up to the expectations of every one, and all who have seen it thus far are well pleased with the results. It replaced the second window from the south door, the window, our pupils will remember, immediately west of the stove. During the winter the bright morning sun will fall full upon it as the pupils enter the chapel for the opening service of the day. We believe the effect of the window will be to exert an influence for good, and the school cannot too warmly express its appreciation of this kind gift from the Class of '94, and from the friends who have so kindly aided in the effort now so happily concluded. Since the January number of our paper was printed gifts have been received from the following friends:

Miss Bessie Henderson, Class of '94,	$2 50
Fogle Brothers,	3 00
Miss Emma Lehman,	5 00
Miss Mamie Barrow,	1 00
Col. F. H. Fries,	1 00
Dr. J. C. Watkins,	2 00
Miss Mattie C. Williams,	50
Miss A. VanVleck,	07
Miss Annie Moore,	2 00

Messrs. Overman & Merrimon contributed half the cost of the wire netting, and the Electric Light Company contributed the lights for use at night. A check has been sent to Mr. William Reith, of Philadelphia, Penna., and a number of small incidental expenses paid. Many of these have been charged at only half-rate, so that the window really represents a cost of between $250 and $300, if all expenses were estimated at their real value. We will need about $15 more to fully square up matters, but several members of the class have promised to forward gifts, and possibly outside friends may still have a dollar waiting for us here and there. In conclusion, we congratulate the Class of '94, the school and its friends, among the latter, the Daily Sentinel, for the happy and successful work just finished.

ENDOWMENT FUND.

The season of the year is now with us when the special efforts of the year are being made to increase this fund. The "ball of increase" is started by the following acknowledgments, which we are pleased to make:

Mrs. R. L. Hendricks,	$1 00
Mrs. L. Smyth,	25
Interest to Feb. 1, 1895,	111 00
Prev. acknowledged,	2098 28
Total,	$2210 28

The school subscription of $100.00 is not included in this sum, and as this can be turned over at any time, the Alumnæ Society is now within $190 of the sum required to place the first pupil in the school. It is a moral certainty that this sum will be raised by June, hence the first pupil supported by the Alumnæ Association will be entered in September next. Thus, the goal toward which one of the efforts of the Association has been directed is now within reach, and the fact will bring pleasure to many when this paragraph is read. In this connection we are pleased to state that Miss TRACY proposes to give the operetta, entitled: "The Twin Sisters," in the near future, with members of her vocal class. It will be remembered that Miss TRACY and her vocal pupils made a similar effort last year, and added to the Fund about $135. We hope that the Alumnæ will do for this effort as they did for the last one,—see that the hall is filled both nights,—the young ladies will do their part in supplying a very superior musical treat.

SPECIAL CONSULTATION MEETING.

Some weeks since a committee composed of a number of officers of the Alumnæ Association, some invited friends from Salem and Winston, and Mrs. Richardson, of Reidsville, assembled at the Principal's house for the purpose of discussing matters relating to the Society in general. The following persons were present: Mrs. D. H. Starbuck, Pres.; Miss Alice Rondthaler, Sec'y.; Miss L. S. Shaffner, Treas.; Mrs. Trip Richardson, Reidsville; Mrs. Dr. Shaffner, Mrs. E. A. Ebert, Miss Gertrude Siewers, Miss Adelaide Fries, Mrs. R. L. Hendricks, Miss Maria Vogler, Miss Annie Pittman and Mr. Clewell.

After organization the object of the meeting was stated as being the promotion of the general welfare of the Association. The several points of more thorough organization were presented, and each in turn discussed. Some matters were acted upon, some were laid aside for the present.

The first topic discussed was the question of local Alumnæ Associations in towns or cities where a considerable number of the Alumnæ reside, and where some enthusiastic former pupil could be found to take the initiative. The suggestion was made because of two facts: In letters from former pupils it is so often stated that when two or three former Salem girls meet they always discuss the ACADEMY and old school days. If this is a pleasure with two or three, would not an organized meeting of the ACADEMY girls, older and younger, be a source of pleasure to many? With it could be connected other social features, and a formal report be made to the June general Alumnæ meeting, and delegates be sent to represent the local Association. Another point which indicates that these associations can be established is the fact that in connection with other institutions they have been successfully organized, and certainly no list of alumnæ have warmer feelings for their Alma Mater than the former pupils of the ACADEMY. After discussing the matter at some length the following was offered and passed:—

Resolved, That the Alumnæ Association suggest to the members living in other communities the organization of local Alumnæ Societies in cases where such a step is practicable, and that the ACADEMY journal and the Faculty be invited to cooperate.

Mrs. Richardson has written to us since her return to Reidsville that she has taken the preliminary steps in the matter, and that the subject meets with the approval of the friends in her community. Hence, the organization of a branch of the general association is assured for Reidsville, and we trust that Danville, Asheville and other places will afford similar opportunities.

The second point discussed at the meeting was the organization of committees to unite the interests of the Alumnæ with the various departments of the School. Quite a lively discussion followed, with the following general results:

First. It was deemed advisable to appoint several committees to discuss the matter of the Alumnæ's relation to these departments.

Second. It appeared that profit might be obtained by the Alumnæ if the way was opened to come nearer to the Institution.

Third. This closer, practical association with the work of the school would be a source of social pleasure to the Alumnæ, and Fourth. There would be great indirect benefit to the school by such an organization.

With these points before the company a committee was appointed, Mrs. J. L. Paterson being chosen President, and she to appoint the members, who will discuss the relation which the Alumnæ bear to the the School in the Art Department. The work that is done this year as the time is short, will probably bear chiefly upon the Art Exhibit at the approaching Commencement. The public would doubtless be greatly interested in an exhibit of the year's work in the school, as well as in the work of the pupils who have left school, and in this way a fine collection of paintings could be secured, representing the work of pupils, past and present. To this can be added a loan exhibit of curios and historical articles,—in short, if the Alumnæ see their way clear to take hold of the matter great strength will be added to this already strong afternoon of Commencement Week.

In like manner a committee was appointed to examine into the Cooking Club question. In many towns and cities very fine organizations exist, the object being to practically and scientifically discuss and experiment in matters relating to the culinary portion of the home; in addition to this lunches are spread, lectures are delivered and much profit and pleasure derived by the members. The President appointed Mrs. R. L. Hendricks to select a committee to consider this matter.

At the date of writing this sketch the committee appointed to consider the question of physical culture, or to put it in another way,—“Is the gymnasium of use to the Alumnæ as well as to the school girls?” has pushed the matter near to its first test or solution. Those who have studied the matter of gymnasium science well know that not only does it offer exercise of a strong athletic nature, but it is also a drill for those who need systematic exercise of the most easy and gentle nature. To this will be added social features. In this direction, too, observation shows that the movement is no experiment, since, in many cities and towns ladies' clubs exist, composed of married and single ladies, of older and younger persons. In the midst of the famous “Four Hundred” in New York city, there is a club such as we have just described. However, our object is not to discuss physical culture, but to record what the committee is doing. Miss Annie Pittman was chosen to organize the committee, which she subsequently did. At a meeting of the ladies about a week later the following organization was effected: Mrs. Buxton, President; Miss Pittman, Sec'y and Treas., and Miss Etta Shaffner, the third member of the same. Miss Query, who is the chief assistant in the gymnasium, was also present. At this meeting, and also at a third meeting held February 15, it was decided to commence the meetings at once, the club to gather twice a week, Tuesdays and Fridays, at 4 p. m. The applications for membership can be made to either member of the committee, and they will cheerfully furnish any information. It is hoped that the time from now until June will enable the committee to study the matter practically and possibly by September next a permanent organization may be effected. It may be well to add that every detail of the undertaking will be under Mr. Clevell's personal supervision; he has himself had a thorough gymnasium training, and has taught classes of older and younger persons for the past twenty years.

All of these committees are tentative. We desire to make no mistakes, or, at least, as few as possible. If the committees see their way clear to act it will be safe to act. If not, the discussion may lead to some other method of work. But the general principle underlying the effort, viz: that of bringing the Alumnæ into closer union with the beloved old school is a movement the results of which cannot be over-estimated. The beginning may be modest,—so was the beginning of similar works in connection with other institutions modest,—even as the acorn is a modest seed. But, when the acorn is grown it becomes a mighty oak, and so Alumnæ efforts have grown to mighty proportions, and we trust the Alumnæ influences of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY may grow and increase until they, too, become like the giant oak in the future history of the Institution.

The Music of the Month.

JANUARY and February are always filled with music, since the work of the season before Christmas begins at that time to show its results, and there is a pressure of town organizations to run in their annual concerts. This year was no exception to the rule. The music of the month was of an unusually attractive character, both as to selection, training and execution. We here note the occasions for which the chapel has been used.

MID-WINTER CONCERT.

This concert is unquestionably the chief musical event of the winter season. This statement is true not only in relation to our two communities, but it is, without question, the chief musical event of the State for the winter, just as Commencement has positively taken the lead in the summer in the various similar occasions in North Carolina. The effort of those who have the Mid-Winter Concert in charge is a two-fold effort, first to bring out the average effort of the school, and at the same time to add a strong thread of professional work. The Concert this year was an unusually pleasing and happy effort. The hall had been draped and decorated under the artistic supervision of Miss SIEWERS, of the Art Department. The concert was given on two evenings, in order to accommodate a larger number of friends,—some 1500 invitations having been issued. The unusual attention given this year to physical culture made the eyes of the 200 and more girls on the platform bright and sparkling and the cheeks rosy with health. Many friends remarked: "You have unusually handsome girls this year." The efforts of Profs. SKILTON and BROCKMAN, of Misses TRACY, SCRIBER VEST, SETTLE and VAN VLECK were successful, when viewed separately or as a whole.

We can only briefly note a few of the special features of the occasion. The large chorus was unusually fine. Not only were the crescendo portions pleasing and true, but in the softer portions the work of their director was specially apparent. The male voices did finer work than usual, and both school and community owe much to these gentlemen for what they gave to the occasion. The piano selections were condensed but the execution was fine and the list varied. The vocal selections were pleasingly rendered, and we cannot give too much credit to this department. The elocution is always pleasing, while the Glee Club, the mandolin, guitar and banjo were warmly encored. Certainly it would be wrong to omit mention of the kindly interest of the large audiences, who applauded the work, admired the beautifully dressed and attractive performers, spoke kind words of appreciation at the close of the concert and continued so to do for days afterward. The following is the programme in full;

PART I.

- Rocket*.....The Autumn Wind.
ACADEMY CHORUS.
  - Mohr*.....Sonatina for Two Pianos.
1st Piano—Misses COVINGTON and S. GOODMAN.
2d Piano—Misses M. JONES and LINDLEY.
  - Mulder*.....Staccato Polka.
MISS MORRISON.
  - De Koutski*.....Persian March.
MISS MAY BARBER.
  - Abl*.....Ave Maria.
Misses B. ROBBINS, CROMER, BONNER, CROUCH,
L. CHAFFIN and LEHMAN.
Solo—Miss GLENN.
  - Burnell*.....How Fergus Derrick was Rescued.
MISS RICHARDSON.
  - Croisz*.....Prisoner and Swallow.
MISS LIZZIE BITTING.
  - Hentlein*.....Love Song for Mandolin.
MISS MINNIE LEE CURTIS.
  - Streletski*.....Mosaic Waltz.
MISS MARION SHEPPARD.
  - Delibes*.....Sleighbing Song.
Misses HANNA, SLEDGE, C. CURTIS, P. GOODMAN,
CHEDESTER, M. MOORE, M. JOHNSTON,
S. ADAMS, J. JONES, PITTS, L. CHAFFIN, LEHMAN.
  - Chopin*.....Waltz, Op. 64, No. 1.
MISS CARRIE CRUTCHFIELD.
  - Musini*.....Mazurka for Violin.
PROFESSOR BROCKMAN.
  - Bendel-Rees*.....Heart Throbs.
Misses B. ROBBINS, CROUCH, LEHMAN, PITTS.
(Unaccompanied.)
  - Spindler*.....Murmuring Brook.
MISS GEORGIA RIGHTS.
  - Arditi*.....Let Me Love Thee.
MISS CROUCH.
  - Dickens*. Escape of Charles Darnay from Prison.
(Scene during the French Revolution.)
MISS SCALES.
  - Vincent*.....Blow Soft Winds.
MISS TRACY'S CHORUS.
- PART II.
- Weber*....."Abu Hassan" Overture.
Prof. SKILTON and Miss MORRISON.
  - Mozart*.....Serenade from "Don Juan."
Prof. BROCKMAN.
Accompanied by Miss HUBBY, Mandolin,
Misses BUTNER and HEGE, Guitars.
From the Glee Club.
  - Mattei*.....La Cappriciosa.
MISS ELIZABETH TAYLOR.
  - Recitation*.....Mr. Brown has His Hair Cut.
MISS PAMELA GOODMAN.
  - Oesten*.....Invitation to the Dance.
MISS SETTLE'S CHORUS.
  - Nevin*.....The Dragon Fly.
MISS COVINGTON.
  - Alcary*.....Come to the Woods.
MISS M. PETERSON and Mrs. PETERSON.
  - Meyer*.....A Frolic.
MISS CHADBURN.

- Donizetti*.....Aria, "O mio Fernando."
MISS ROBBINS.
- Shakespeare*.....Hubert and the Young Prince.
(Scene from King John.)
MISS SCRIBER.
- Bland*.....The Golden Wedding.
GLEE CLUB.
Solo by Miss CROUCH.
- Mattei*.....For the Sake of the Past.
MISS TRACY.
- Cowen*. Bridal Chorus from the "Rose Maiden."
ACADEMY CHORUS,
Assisted by Mr. W. J. PETERSON, Clarinet, and Messrs. Boyd, C. Crist, Cromer, Jenkins, Langley, Lentz, Lichtenthaler, R. Pfaff, S. Pfaff, Vogler, Tenors,
Messrs. H. Crist, Ebert, Hauser, E. Hege, W.
Hege, McClement, B. Phillips, G. Phillips,
R. Spough, Brickenstein, Basses.

RUBINSTEIN CONCERT.

Another musical event of the month was the concert given by the Rubinstein Club, composed of about 40 members, many of whom are Alumnae of the ACADEMY, with Miss Emma Leinbach as Director. Miss Leinbach is an Alumna, has spent a number of years in New York perfecting her voice, and has attained a point of excellence which makes the community and her many friends proud of her attainments. The concert was a success, both financially and as to merit, and Miss Leinbach turned over $90 to the Twin City Hospital Association, the net proceeds of the occasion.

SALEM ORCHESTRA CONCERT.

The third event of the past four weeks was the Concert given by the Salem Orchestra. In addition to the programme for the instrumental solos and full orchestral selections, the managers of the concert favored the public with Clarinet selections by Dr. Charles Turner, of Statesville (who was also present at the Rubinstein concert), and vocal selections by Mrs. Durrett, of Richmond, Va. The latter was warmly received and so captured the audience that she was recalled twice after each of her two selections. This concert was pronounced one of the most successful and carefully rendered occasions offered to the public by this organization.

In concluding this sketch of the music of the month we may add that quite a party of teachers attended the concert in the Opera House given by the famous singer from the Pacific slope, and were delighted with her performance.

MISS YAW,

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., FEBRUARY, 1895.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.
Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
MISS EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

OUR NEW CUT.

Below we give our new cut, which has been decided upon after mature thought and consideration :

The first impression may not be satisfactory, but if the idea is studied out we think it will commend itself to all. The first idea is to emphasize the word SALEM. All institutions of note, as a rule, have one name : "Vassar," "Wellesley," and so on. So, in practice, in other places when a person is asked : "Where did you attend school?" the answer always is "SALEM." The name is euphonious too, and hence we trust that more and more the simple but attractive name SALEM may be the manner of designating the institution. Again it will be noted that small as is the space the cut also plainly shows the State, and also preserves the historical name, "Female Academy," also the date of founding, 1802. Finally the entire design, in the general form of a seal, will catch the eye in advertising perhaps more quickly than any other thing on the page, and, while it does not pose as an example of artistic grace and beauty, we believe that it does mean business, and from that point will be a good thing for the school.

Commencement Announcement.

We are pleased to say to our readers that the Commencement plans are so far completed that even at this early date the outline of the week can be given in all of the essential details.

The week will open with a Concert on Saturday evening, May 25th, in which the Vocal and Elocution departments will have the most prominent parts.

Sunday morning the Baccalaureate Sermon will be delivered by

Rt. Rev. J. BLOUNT CHESHIRE, D. D.,

Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in North Carolina. An evening sermon will be delivered by Bishop RONDTHALER.

Monday and Tuesday evenings will be Seniors' Evenings. The class has made unusual efforts this year to provide a specially interesting programme, and we will later make detailed announcements.

Tuesday afternoon, the Art Exhibit will take place, and as we have explained elsewhere it is probable that present and former pupils will unite to make the occasion of far more interest than usual.

Wednesday will be Alumnae day. The committee have not yet formulated their programme, but we know from what has already come to us that no pains will be spared to make the day as enjoyable as usual. Last year one of the pleasing feature was the presentation of the Garrity Memorial Steps. This year the pleasing feature will be the presentation of the Vance Memorial Window.

The Grand Concert will be given on Wednesday evening, and every department of the School will contribute their choicest results ; professors, teachers and pupils will unite to make this closing of the week a pleasure to all. The experiment of charging a small entrance fee to protect patrons and Alumnae and all interested persons seemed to work well last year, and we hope that a similar protection will be thrown around the Grand Concert this year. It not only furnished accommodation for all who were interested to the extent of 25 cents, but it placed between $100 and $200 into the Alumnae Scholarship Endowment Fund.

Thursday morning, the 30th of May, is the date for Commencement proper. The oration will be delivered by one of Pennsylvania's most gifted orators. The diplomas and degrees will be conferred and the final farewells be said, as another class is sent into the world of real life.

JAMES M. BECK, Esq.,

Circumstances may lead to a change in one or more particulars, but in general the above order will be observed.

—The Vance Memorial Window, which was placed in position Thursday, February 14th, was illuminated on the occasion of the Orchestra Concert, showing to the friends the colors and designs to at least a partial extent.

—Mrs. Satterfield, of Georgia, made a short visit to her daughters some days since.

—We are open to congratulations on the announcement of our speakers for the approaching Commencement. Certainly the choice has never been better than this year.

—Among the papers giving flattering notices of our Mid Winter Concert, we note the following : Richmond Times, Richmond Dispatch, Charlotte Observer, Richleigh News and Observer, Wilmington Messenger, Wilmington Star, Charleston News and Courier, Columbia State, Dallas, Tex. News, Galveston, Tex., News, Atlanta Constitution, Roanoke Times and Danville Register.

Correspondence.

—Our first communication is from Mrs. W. C. Iseley, better known among us as LENA HALL :

"I suppose the ACADEMY people have almost forgotten me. My name before marriage was LENA HALL, and I was there with LULA TATE from Alamance county, N. C. I was only there one term. When I left I taught for years and then married. I have been living here ever since I married, and I have a happy home and a good Christian husband. My little boy is nearly five years old. I am always interested in the ACADEMY, and hope to attend Commencement this year.

Thanking you for the information you gave, I remain,

Very sincerely,

Mrs. W. C. ISELEY.

Burlington, N. C.

—Our next is from AVA STROUP ; we are glad to hear from her :

"My subscription for THE ACADEMY expired some time ago, and though I neglected to renew it you kindly sent it for which accept many thanks. I could scarcely live without it. Salem was always dear to me, and now it is doubly so. The class of '92 seems to be almost forgotten. I seldom see a letter from the 37, who parted there three years ago. I have a plan that will perhaps arouse them from their lethargy, if it meets with your approval. The class of '94 is erecting a Memorial to the lamented Vance. Why not the class of '92 honor the noble Stonewall Jackson with a Memorial? We could through THE ACADEMY and private correspondence find out what the girls would like it to be, either steps, fountain, window, etc., and also decide how much each one would give. I hear from EMMA KAPP regularly, and sometimes get a letter from LILLIAN CRENSHAW and MARY WOOD.

Give my love to Mrs. CLEWELL, Dr. and Mrs. RONDTHALER, Mr. PFOHL and Miss LEHMAN. Write me as to what you think of my plan.

With kindest regards and best wishes, I enclose money for THE ACADEMY.

Your fond pupil,

AVA STROUP.

De Kalb Texas.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Miss TRACY spent the Christmas holidays with friends in the North.

—The Tenth Room recently gave a very pleasant reception to a number of their friends.

—We note an interesting article in the January number of "Music," (published in Chicago) by Prof. SKILTON, entitled "Musical Possibilities of Poe's Poems."

—Miss GERTRUDE SIEWERS spent some weeks in New York, looking up the latest for her department. While there she executed a very fine portrait of Mrs. CLEWELL.

—Bishop RONDTHALER has delivered a number of lectures during the past weeks, one in the lecture room of the Episcopal church, Winston, and several in neighboring places.

—A new type writer has been purchased for the school, the new Hammond, containing all the latest improvements. It is a remarkable thing to note the progress which is being made in the manufacture of these useful machines.

—This winter has given us winter weather to satisfy all. Snow, cold and plenty of them. The girls enjoyed a sleigh ride, and had snow balling frolics, sledging parties, and shivered when the thermometer dropped below zero.

—We sympathize deeply with MARY W. SMITH, of Mexia, Texas, in the death of her husband, Dr. L. Long, a rising physician.

Married only last June, the dark shadow of the grave has fallen across a few short months of wedded happiness.

—It is with sorrow that we chronicle the bereavement of another Alumna, MATTIE WALSTON, formerly of Tarboro, N. C., whose husband Mr. Henry E. Keehln, of Salem, N. C., died of protracted consumption, on February 4th, leaving her with 2 small children.

—A new fire extinguisher has been added to the other precautions against fire. As far as expense and care will furnish protection, the ACADEMY buildings are protected, and we trust that the immunity which we have enjoyed for nearly a hundred years may continue to exist in the future.

—The Calisthenic suits were finished with unusual speed this year, and are a favorite every day garment throughout the school. The suit is neat in appearance, is warm and is conducive to health, which is more than can be said of the majority of the dresses which are dictated by modern fashion.

—While on his recent visit north Mr. CLEWELL paid his respects to Nazareth Hall, and the Bethlehem Seminary. The former is under the care of the Rev. C. C. Lanier, and the latter of Rev. Dr. Hark, who so recently paid us a pleasant visit. We are pleased to note that both these schools are enjoying marked prosperity.

—The animals in the deer park have cold comfort these wintry days. The guinea pigs have their hair on end and look like veritable puff-balls, while the rabbits are seldom seen. Even the insolent turkeys have quieted their noisy quarrels. The fine buck which has been admired for a number of years passed away, and is no longer seen with his proud antlers in the air.

—A very great improvement has been made in the street in front of the Moravian church, and around the Principal's house. In front of the Principal's house and of the church a new pavement of fine pressed brick has been laid, and at the former place the pavement has been widened. In front of the church the street has been paved with granite blocks. The improvement is a very material one, as well as permanent in its nature.

—We always consider Capt. Samuel C. Lemly, Judge Advocate of the Navy, Washington, D. C., one of our warm friends. It is with pleasure that we acknowledge the receipt of a small but handsome and valuable volume for our Library, containing pictures of various objects associated with the life of Columbus. We have in the past frequently received tokens of friendship from the gentleman in question and we acknowledge this latest one with thanks.

—The very cold weather last Spring cut short the supply of nuts and acorns in the park, hence the large number of squirrels have suffered in the matter of their winter food. Many come to the deer park where food is placed each day and draw their "rations" from that source. Others come to Annex Hall, to the porch, and receive nuts and other "supplies" from the hands of the girls. It is claimed that many have gone into the neighboring forests and have fallen victims to the hunter.

—Upon the return of Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL from their recent western and northern trip a souvenir was presented to each Room Company. To the North and South Senior, Third, Fourth and Park Hall Room Companies were given Portieres for the doors leading into the side rooms. Pictures were presented to the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh and Ninth Room Companies. Games to the Eighth and Tenth Rooms. The Room Companies have done much to ornament and beautify their study parlors and every addition which has this object in view is welcomed by the pupils.

—The Preparatory classes have increased to such an extent that one year was added to the course. The new class is named "D." The range of the classes now covers nine years and is as follows:

First year, Class A.
Second year, Class B.
Third year, Class C.
Fourth year, Class D.
Fifth year, Freshman.
Sixth year, Sophomore.
Seventh year, Junior.
Eighth year, Senior, (Diploma).
Ninth year, Post Graduate Course, (A. B. Degree).

—Normal work is being pursued this year in an organized form, in addition to private research on the part of individual teachers. One committee is passing step by step over the field of Geographical work, and using "side lights" to aid in the work now being done in the several classes. Another committee is engaged in a critical examination of the historical work being done in the school, while a third company is in like manner passing over the field of Mathematics, from Arithmetic to Surveying. The meetings are held once a month for each subject, and will become more and more a source of pleasure to the workers and a means of great profit to the school in unifying and strengthening the class room work.

—The Entertainment programmes for the coming weeks are as follows :

Hesperian Society, for benefit of the Society.

Brownie Entertainment, benefit of Elm Street Sunday School.

The Twin Sisters, Operetta, benefit of Almnae Endowment.

Y. M. C. A. Lecture, for members, no admission fee.

In addition to these the chapel has been reserved for two other dates, which, however, have not been definitely arranged by the organizations, viz :

University Glee Club, benefit of their organization.

Salem Philharmonic Society, benefit of their organization.

—The special class in Gymnastics is not only holding its own but is steadily gaining members. The progress being made by the girls is so satisfactory that it attracts quite a number of visitors, all of whom express themselves pleased with the drill, and a number of friends have added : "You seem to have selected the best looking girls in the school for the class." The fact is, that regular, systematic gymnasium drill will improve the physical appearance of any one. No list has been made of the visitors but among them we note the following, though our memory can only recall a portion of the faces we were glad to welcome. Bishop Rondthaler, Dr. Babson, Dr. Thomas, Mrs. Buxton, Mrs. Shelton, Miss Belo, Miss Shelton, Mrs. Satterfield, Mr. J. Van Lindley, Miss Annie Pittman, Misses Addie and Mary Fries, Mr. C. Crist, Mr. Reed, Mrs. T. Richardson and others, all of whom we were glad to welcome.

—Many of our pupils and also friends in town, will remember Miss Helen Bell, of Philadelphia, Pa., who visited at the Principal's House last Christmas. During her short stay in Salem she made many friends, as she was of a most genial, intelligent and winning disposition. It is with sadness that we learn of her brief illness and her death at her home in Philadelphia. The Philadelphia Ledger devotes a column to eulogizing Miss Bell's charities, as a leader in the guilds and other philanthropic causes ; as a leader socially, having been the President of the Browning Club and a prominent member of the "Colonial Dames ;" as a learned member of the community in which she resided, having been elected to membership in the Pennsylvania Historical Society, a rare compliment to a lady. Miss Bell was a member of the First Moravian church, Philadelphia, Pa., and will be mourned by numerous warm friends in that city and elsewhere, for she was the center of a large circle of friends who knew her but to esteem and love her.

—The following is a list of the pupils who have registered since December :

Elizabeth Simpson,	North Carolina.
Daisy Stipe,	" "
Nellie Prather,	" "
Bettie Cox,	" "
Katie Hanes,	" "
Mamie Peterson,	" "
Miss Bilharz,	" "
Miss Rode,	" "
Miss Walker,	" "
Miss Pittman,	" "
Fannie Johnston,	" "
Annie Myatt,	" "
Daisy Hanes,	" "
Nannie Edwards,	South Carolina.
Louise Hazlehurst,	Georgia.
Francis Failing,	New York.
Kelly Rainey,	Virginia.

Some of the above persons attended classes or registered in private departments last Fall, but the names were received at the office only recently, hence they are given in this number of our paper.

Married.

OGBURN—SHELTON.—On the 12th of February, in the Moravian church in Salem, Miss CARRIE SHELTON (Class of 1889) was united in marriage with Mr CHARLES D. OGBURN, of Winston. In spite of the thickly falling snow, the church was filled with the throng of friends who came to witness what many were pleased to call an unusually pretty ceremony. A bank of palms and ferns rose from the upper platform, and, in front of this, on either side of Bishop Rondthaler, were grouped the bridesmaids, facing the bridal couple, maid of honor and best man, the ushers completing the circle. Two of the Academy Seniors were of the company, Miss Bertha Shelton as maid of honor, and Miss Carro Buxton as a bridesmaid, the others being Miss Long, of Chapel Hill ; Miss Rawley, of Winston, Misses Etta Shaffner, ('89), Mary Fries, ('89), and Adelaide Fries, ('88), of Salem. The bride was fair and lovely as a bride should be, and the ACADEMY looked on approvingly as the sweet, grave lips under the bridal veil uttered the solemn words of assent and the golden circlet was placed upon her finger by the noble man who stood beside her.

After the service the bridal party were given a luncheon by Mrs. Shelton. Amidst much merriment the cake was cut in search of the beautiful pearl ring, whose finder would be the first to follow in the footsteps of the happy couple, and then the company were seated about the dainty table, with its white roses, silver candelabra, and smilax tracing the all-important letters "S" and "O". After the first course the bride slipped away, to reappear in travelling costume, and, the good byes said, Mr. and Mrs. OGBURN left the house. So busy were the company in throwing after them rice, good wishes, and the traditional old shoe, that no one thought of the bride's bouquet, until, as she passed through the door, the roses were thrown into the air, over her left shoulder, over the intervening heads, and fell squarely on the hat of one of the bridesmaids, who delightfully claimed them.

The evening train bore the young couple away for a wedding trip to California, and it is no empty form to say that they went enveloped in a golden haze of love and earnest wishes that the weeks might be full of happiness, type of the perfect joy their friends desire may surround them throughout life.

A. F.

MASSENBURG—STROUP.—In DeKalb, Tex., on February 13, Mr. NICHOLAS B. MASSENBURG to Miss AVA STROUP.

Obituary.

MISS AUGUSTA M. HAGEN was born in Salem, N. C., in 1824, where she began to teach in the ACADEMY at the early age of 17. She remained here something less than 2 years, when she became a music teacher in Greensboro, then later at High Point and Lincolnton, N. C., and Williston, S. C., her rare musical gifts making her a valuable helper every where. Her health had, for many years, been feeble, but she battled on with a strong will and a resolute determination to do her work faithfully and well.

In 1885 she returned to her native place, and was for 10 years an inmate of the Sister's House, engaged in the work she loved, first, with pupils from town, and later, as a regular member of the musical faculty of the ACADEMY. On Monday, January 28th, 1895, she gave her last music lesson, and on Saturday morning, February 2, after a few days of acute pneumonia, she breathed her last, closing a long and useful life of nearly 71 years, 54 of which were spent in teaching. It is not often that we see such an intense and earnest desire to work on when the milestone of three-score years and ten has been passed. Her gentle courtesy and unflinching kindness endeared her to all who came in contact with her.

E. L.

Died.

SPEIGHT.—In Edgecombe Co., N. C., on Oct 24, 1894, Mrs. DR. RICHARD H. SPEIGHT (MAGGIE POWELL), aged 46 years, leaving a large and devoted family to deplore their great loss.

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs Maggie Siler, Davenport, N C ; Miss Lena Colwell, Fenn, Ga ; Miss Mattie Kellett, Waco, Tex. ; Mrs T D Kernan, Marion, Va ; Miss Ella Neeley, Yorkville, S C ; Mr E H Austen, Philadelphia, Pa ; Miss Nellie Luceford, Smithfield, N C ; Mrs Dr Hill, Areadia, N C ; Mrs J McMichael, Hickory, N C ; Miss Sadie Sittig, Houston, Texas ; Miss Helen de Schweinitz, Bethlehem, Pa ; Mrs M E Sides, Bethania, N C ; Mr G R Shultz, Washington, D C ; Mrs Kate Hayley Emery, Memphis, Tenn ; Mrs C S Smyth, Fairfield, Jamaica ; Miss A L Ogburn, Smith's  $\nearrow$  Roads, Va ; Mrs Mary L Early, Woodlawn, Va ; Mrs R. C. Williams, Mooresburg, Tenn ; Miss Kittie Fain, Dandridge, Tenn ; Miss Mary Y Clark, Yorkville, S C ; Miss Willie Harman, Kernersville, N C ; Mrs Susan Hart, Tarboro, N C ; Mrs E T Lehman, Bethania, N C ; Miss Minna Houston, Mt. Mourne, N C ; Miss Johnnie Cates, Marysville, Tenn ; Miss Ava Stroup, DeKalb, Texas ; Cadets J R Carr and Lipscombe, Horner's School, Oxford, N C ; Mrs J S Wilson, Greensboro, Ga; Miss Mattie M Williams, Wake Forest, N C; Mrs Julia Jones, Bethania, N C; Miss Carrie Riggs, Winston, N C; Mr Timothy Vogler, Miss Maria Vogler, Miss Bes-sie Pfohl, Miss Mary Zevely, Mrs Geo E Nis-sen, Miss Ida Moore, Mrs L E Nissen, Mrs Allen Spaugb, Mrs Susan Keehln, Salem, N C.

EMPIRE GLASS AND DECORATION COMPANY.
Designers and Manufacturers of Leaded Art Glass Decorations, Bevelled Plate, Chipped and Interior Deco-rations. JOS. F. GATINS, President, J. D. HARRIS, Secretary and Treasurer, Atlanta, Ga.
Febru: ry, 1895--1 year.

G. A. ANDROVETTE & CO., Chicago. Domestic and Ecclesiastical Stained Glass. Eastern Repre-sentative, J. F. BLANCHARD, Syracuse, N. Y.
February, 1895 --1 year.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incor-porated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of—Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which ap-pear more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

OAK RIDGE INSTITUTE

OAK RIDGE, N. C.

J. A. & M. H. HOLT, Principals.

The most elegantly equipped Classical, Scientific and Commercial School in the South.

Young Men and Boys.
85th Session begins August 21st.
Send for Catalogue.
June '94-1y.

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE,

On Car Line, near Academy, Main St.

Ne-tling in the midst of the old historic part of Salem, a stroll along the well shaded street will lead you to the Store, where you will find a good assortment of

BOOKS, STATIONERY AND FANCY GOODS.

Call and see us or write to

L. V. & E. T. BLUM, Salem, N. C.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY

THE GREAT TRUNK LINE

AND U. S. MAIL ROUTE

BETWEEN THE

NORTH, SOUTH, EAST AND WEST.

Operates Three Passenger Trains Daily

— TO —

WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND POINTS EAST.

Three Passenger Trains Daily for

ATLANTA, BIRMINGHAM, MEMPHIS, CHAT-TANOOGA, MONTGOMERY, MOBILE, NEW ORLEANS, and Points South and West.

THE SHORT LINE TO FLORIDA,

Through Trains and Pullman Palace Sleeping cars to Columbia, Augusta, Savannah, Jackson-ville and Tampa without change.

The Washington and South-Western Vestibuled

LIMITED.

This train is composed entirely of Pullman Pal-ace, Drawing Room, Sleeping and Dining Cars.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY

is the direct line between

WINSTON-SALEM

and above points.

For rates, tickets, time-tables, &c., call on any agent Southern Railway, or W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent; CHAS. L. HOPKINS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Charlotte, N. C. S. H. HARDWICK, Asst. Gen. Agent, Atlanta, Ga. W. H. GREEN, General Man-ager (Eastern System); J. M. CULP, Traffic Mana-ger, Washington, D. C.

A SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Take a half hour dose of Bicycling two to three times a day. It is pleasant medicine.

Bicycles for Sale and Rent by

SENSEYAN & BRICKENSTEIN,

SALEM, N. C.

June, 1894.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of In-formation concerning Patents and how to ob-tain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechani-cal and scientific books sent free.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public with-out cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.
Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beau-tiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

January 1895. 1y.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate Military organization combined with home-care for th individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Cours of Study and Music, the preparation for College or fo the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.

The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1895.

REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.

Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Sur-gons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793.

1894

BINGHAM SCHOOL,
FOR BOYS.

Established in 1793.

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESI-DENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from promi-nent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANI-TATION are the BEST IN THE SOUTH, and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,-000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogue giving full particulars, address

Maj. R. BINGHAM,

Superintendent.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improve-ments.

Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 4.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,

Principals.

June 1892—1y

HOTEL JONES,

J. L. JONES, late of Jones House, Propriet'r.
WINSTON, N. C.

All modern conveniences provided. Electric lights and bells. Table abundantly supplied with the very best that the market affords. We are anxious to please.

RATES, $200 PER DAY.

At Depot ask for Jones House 'Bus.

Reference: Salem Female Academy.

May 1894.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVII.

SALEM, N. C., MARCH, 1895.

NUMBER 155.

1802 - 1895.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1893-1894, was 345. Special features: — the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

THE ALASKA BOX.

WHEN Mrs. Kilbuck was with us some two years ago she gave us a very interesting account of the manners and habits of the Eskimos, among whom she and her fellow-laborers were toiling. The narrative was so unique and interesting that we arranged with her to send us a box of articles illustrating their mode of living, weapons and tools. The box arrived several months since, and the contents were placed in the museum. Here they will serve as a souvenir of Mrs. Kilbuck's visit, and will be a perfect chapter on Ethnology. Little is known by our people of the Eskimos living in this part of our country, and nothing short of a visit thither will give a better idea of them than this collection. It attracts much attention from the transient visitor to the school, but it also serves a better purpose; it is a permanent lesson to the Geography and History classes who take up the study of distant Alaska, and classes as well as individuals may be seen visiting the Museum in order to supplement the work of teacher and of text-book. We will not attempt a detailed description of each article, but will be pleased to show our readers the collection when the ACADEMY is favored with a visit. The following is a list of the articles —

1. Deer-tooth belt. This belt is made of leather and is covered with successive rows of deer teeth. The teeth are cut from the head of the deer so as to preserve the shape of the row, and one row after the other is fastened to the belt. Many a graceful animal was slain to furnish the teeth used in this belt. In addition to these teeth, which cover the entire surface of the belt, there are suspended therefrom a large number of bone ornaments.

2. Part of dancing costume, held in hand while dancing. These strange ornaments, if such they may be called, are about the size of an ordinary hand, with several holes in the wood through which the fingers are passed. They are painted in several colors, and long feather ornaments extend outward. The article is a strange and unusual one, partaking in a slight degree of the nature of a fan, a finger ring and the Indian feather ornamentation, yet resembling none of these three in detail.

3. Box in which the chew of tobacco is placed until wanted again. This small, wooden receptacle is in shape somewhat like a weaver's shuttle, though more diminutive in size. It is decorated and neatly carved, the lid being so exactly cut that it closes tightly by the power of friction. To the average American the idea of a chew of tobacco being placed aside for future use, possibly to be used by a second, or a third, party, is, to put it mildly, not attractive. But if all the experiences of our festive chewing-gummers were described to the Eskimos, as it travels from ruby lips to door-post, from door-post to ivory teeth, from ivory teeth to chair leg and so on, they would exclaim: "Behold, we are brethren!"

4. Sole leather. Wonderful skill has been attained in tanning this leather, which is thin, tough and translucent.

5. Piece of seal intestine, used as window-pane. While this is by no means a rival of glass, yet it is certainly interesting, since it gives us a clear idea of what substitutes are used where glass has not yet made its appearance; in fact, it is a link connecting us with semi-barbarism.

6. Six wooden spoons.

7. Large ladle, of superior workmanship.

8. Child's wooden bucket.

9. Wooden bucket, without handle.

10. Eight wooden dishes, graded sizes.

11. Large wooden ladle.

(Numbers 6 to 11 are specimens of household utensils. The workmanship is good, the shape regular and symmetrical, the ornamentation neat, and the entire appearance worthy of a higher civilization than that of the heathen Eskimos.)

12. Two pair grass socks.

13. Five different kinds of small baskets.

14. One large stiff grass basket.

15. Two grass mats.

(Numbers 12 to 15 introduce us to another form of household utensil, and we note again the symmetry of the shape, the neatness of the weaving and the perfect adaptability of the article to the purpose for which it is intended.)

16. Deer-horn ramrod.

17. Old stone ax.

18. Knife for cleaning skins.

19. Old stone fish knife.

20. Small spears.

21. Ivory fish knife handle.

22. Large bow and arrows.

23. Six heavy spears.

(This list shows to the student what instruments are used in the struggle for food on land and in water, and also the weapons used in their wars. The carving of the ivory is good, not as artistic as that of the Chinese, but more so than the work of the American Indian.)

24. Fine shavings, used as towel or dish-cloth.

25. Story-teller, large, used to mark out and describe with.

26. Story-teller, small.

27. Clay fat lamp.

28. Native paint, red.

29. Native clay, white.

30. Small elk skin boots.

31. Small hair seal boots.

32. Piece of fish skin, used for clothes.

33. Fire machine, lacking rod and stand.

34. Mastodon tooth (Elephas Meridionalis.)

35. Fancy tobacco bag.

36. Large fish skin sewing case.

37. Ear rings.

38. Ivory lip ornaments.

39. Six dolls.

40. Bone shuttle.

41. Ivory bars, to fasten a needle case.

(This latter list gives us an idea of the social and domestic life. The boots are eminently fitted to keep the feet warm, and Mrs. Kilbuck informed us that she never suffered from cold feet even though the thermometer dropped to 40° below zero. The dolls are peculiar, all dressed in fur, and the faces, carved from bone or ivory, bearing a strong Eskimo type. The ear and lip ornaments are very fine and neat, by far the most artistic work in the collection. The mastodon tooth is a specimen of the kind found in Alaska, and at times a single tooth will weigh 11 or 12 pounds.)

This entire collection is a valuable addition to our museum, both for purposes of study and as viewed in the light of a collection of curios. As time passes we hope to have similar collections from our missions in other parts of the world, until the lessons taught cover in general the ethnology of the principal races of the globe. When the scope of the position a museum holds in an educational institution is understood the enthusiasm for the same becomes very great. We greatly appreciate Mrs. Kilbuck's contribution from cold and distant Alaska.

IN ITALY---IN GENOA.

ALL over the land some days must be out of humor, it seems, and just so to-day with our sunny Italy. We arose this morning to find six inches of snow shrouding everything, and yet, this afternoon it falls thick and fast, close, packy snow that makes snowballing fine, but in which these Italian youngsters do not indulge, but rather huddle over a pot of coals indoors and shiver.

We arrived at Genoa from Pisa yesterday at 3:30, very cold and quite as uncomfortable as we had ever been in one of Kentucky's frolicking blizzards. The weather is cold all over this country. In Naples we found the only boasted Italian warmth and sunshine. Having as yet seen nothing of Genoa, I shall go back to Rome and enjoy a little visit with you from that point. But on which Rome shall I dwell in my reverie? Miss LEHMAN has written in her European travels, which you have read, so pleasingly of the richer historic sights and interests that I feel I needs must go out in the cross streets and byways for material. One may see enough in Rome though in one day's lounging about her streets to write a book—a dozen books—if she but had the ability. Never in my life, I think, have I seen anything so finely and so movably superstitious as Catholic Rome,—Rome of "eternal memories,"—Rome of supernumerary legends, and there are such numbers of these as may keep one entertained for a month, though I admit to have felt a touch of weariness over the highly-colored handed-down-reason-robbing improbable stories, and a sort of surfeit of the broken-nosed, limbless, decapitated statuary lurking in every nook and corner of the Italian cities. Since writing you from Paris we have been joined by Mrs. J. C. Burrows, the charming wife of our Michigan Senator, Mr. H. N. Peck and two young daughters, of Minneapolis, and much to our delight, for two lone travellers in lands of unknown tongues grow a trifle tired of the lack of variety.

On Saturday last our party started in two handsome landaus, accompanied by a most enthusiastic and garrulous guide, for a day's seeing in the outskirts and to explore the Catacombs. The excavated part of the Appian Way (the old Roman Road, 360 miles long) is reached 2½ miles from the city gate, and affords a magnificent prospect, and the scenery is increasingly beautiful. The sides of this triumphal way are lined with tombs and catacombs for some miles. In the imperial times no burials, except the Vestal Virgins, were permitted within the walls of the city. The Romans made much of their dead, hence this highway was selected for interments that those who passed might see the imposing monuments and remember. Tombs were being exhumed about a private villa during our visit. We stood upon the great mound-tomb of Horatio (200 years before Christ) and had a commanding view of the country around. We paid our franc and went down into the catacomb of St. Calixtus, a torchlight company, headed by a robust and all but saintly appearing monk, dressed in a long flowing robe of white flannel, and, let me mention, please, that he wore no stockings. A wierd procession we formed as one by one we descended the narrow steps and filed off into a still narrower avenue. In this dark and sullen underground tomb-house imagination draws almost as acute a pain as the actual seeing of a ghost might excite, but the quiet sleepers haply made no recognition of our intrusion, and we rose again to earth unscarred. There are few relics, however, lying in those earthshelves: in 1500 A.D. millions of bones were removed and placed in the Pantheon. The Catacombs originally were excavations made by removal of a cement used in the building of former Rome.

My Guide Book says that the early Christians held religious services in small chapels in this catacomb. Not alone the early Christians, for only last Sunday mass was said in one of these dark murky chapels by some of the thousands of priests infecting Rome. The chapel would not not have accommodated more than 12 people:

Near by is the Church of Domine Quo Vadis, where, according to the legend, Christ appeared to Peter, who was fleeing from Rome to avoid martyrdom. "Whither goest thou, O Lord?" Peter asked, and the reply was, "I go to be crucified over," whereupon Peter, feeling the reproof, returned to the city. In this church, reserved by iron bars, is the very(?) impression of Christ's feet in the marble slab on which He stood during the above dialogue. Just above the treasured slab is a life-size plaster statue of the Savior by Michael Angelo. The right foot is half covered with bronze to shield the plaster from the wear of the kisses of the faithful and penitent.

On the far side of the Catacombs is the small Church of St. Agnes, where, on the 24th, two baby wee lambs, white as freshly fallen snow, were taken in a dainty basket, lined with light blue silk and filmy lace trimmings, before the altar, where they were blessed by the presiding father, then conveyed by carriage and four to his holiness, the Pope, who placed his hands lovingly upon the heads of the little dears, and consigned them to the keeping of some nuns, whose duty it is to carefully nurse and rear them into full growth, when papal robes shall be made of their fleeces.

The noon hour on, we alighted and ate lunch, which the good proprietor of the Hotel Marini had supplied us, in the ruins of the Circus Maxentius. While sitting on the green grass in that immense course where once 30,000 spectators viewed the chariot races so renowned, and made more memorable to us by Ben Hur's successful race, thought entangled itself with thought in our brains. The echo, the vast shadow left of those glorious old Roman days is perfect now in the ruined walls. The judges' stand is in the centre and in good preservation, that is, the stone foundation. The ruins of the Baths of Caracalla, the Eden of the Romans, give evidence of a mammoth and palatial structure, one of magnificence, lined throughout as it was with purest marble and floored with choicest mosaics. Here many of the finest specimens of ancient sculpture were found; many of the best we saw were in Naples. I wondered why those fine statues were in Naples, having been found at Rome, and it came about in this way: Good Pope Paul III. (Faranse) at that time considered the purity of nudity in art as profane and that moral (?) Rome might not be exposed sent much that was valuable to the fearless Naples, of which that city is pretty proud. St. Paul's is a gorgeous church, just without the city walls. It is built on the supposed spot of that Saint's burial. It is a memorial church, built by contributions from the whole world. The Italian government has recently given 10,000,000 francs to add an ornamental front to the plain exterior of this edifice. A striking feature of elaborate interior decoration in the ceiling are rows of portrait medallions of the Popes, 254 in number, from St. Peter to Leo XII., executed in mosaic so beautifully that they look like oil paintings. Though unlike St. Peter's, whose grandeur no pen can faithfully portray, St. Paul's is a memento most magnificent. To give you an idea of the immensity of St. Peter's, let me say that in one of the mosaic medallions of the four evangelists above the piers surrounding the High Altar is a pen, held in the hand of St. Luke, that is 2½ inches longer than my entire little body is high, and everything else about the building is proportionately large. The walls are of inlaid marble, as also is the pavement or floor, every niche holds some treasure, some splendid art work. The effect is dazing.

I was disappointed in the Vatican gallery, but the museum is fine. There are in Rome 365 churches, including 13 which are known as basilicas, having been built on the original plan of the basilicas, or courts of justice, in ancient Rome. Of these basilican churches five are major and eight minor. The former, ranking as cathedrals, are called Patriarchal Churches in honor of the Patriarchs of the Christian Church, viz: of Rome itself, of Constantinople, Alexandria, Antioch and Jerusalem. Of these, first is St. Peter's, the most noted building of the kind in the world; its erection occupied 176 years. Next is the St. John Lateran, which claims to be the mother and head of all churches in the city and in the world. It is very beautiful. It was our privilege to join Signor Spadoni's peripatetic lectures. The lectures are in English and last two hours, and besides pointing out various monuments of ruins comprise a discourse on the topography, history, art and religions of ancient Rome. We stood within the walls of the palaces of Tiberias Cæsar, Augustus and Caligula, on Palatine Hill, and lamented our ignorance of a people so cruelly grand as those old Romans must have been. If you expect to find the Italians of to-day "Romans" as we accept the term, you will be disappointed as I am. I am constantly holding these Italians as a different race altogether. But I must not tax your patience too far, so good-bye. I should like to write you of Naples, the most beautiful city in all Europe that I have seen, and of Vesuvius, but I must desist,

Yours,
MRS. FLORENCE G. TOOMEY.

Musical Possibilities of Poe's Poems.

[We noted last month the publication in Music, published in Chicago, an article by our Prof. SKILTON. Since then our attention has been called to a brief but pleasing review of the same in the Rochester Mail and Express, which we take pleasure in giving below:]

Apropos of a recent note here of the identity of the author of the "The Raven," is a paper contributed to Music on the "Musical Possibilities of Poe's Poems." The poems are manifestly full of word-music, and yet composers have almost overlooked them, and have written music for the merest verbal trash. The contributor, Charles Sanford Skilton, says that the qualities which a composer most wants in a poem are, "euphony, forcible diction, rhythmic flow, intelligibility, and, above all, the lyrical or dramatic spirit." The verses of Poe, he thinks, "are a fresh, untrodden field of lyrical beauty."

In respect of euphony, Poe, like a master musician before an organ, has drawn from the English language tones which equal the softness and richness of the Italian. What musician would not love such phrases as "crystal, wandering water," "from grief and groan to a golden throne," "with love in her luminous eyes." Seldom does our speech offer to music such richness of sound-effect. . . . In rhythm, perhaps even more than in euphony and diction is Poe's original power displayed.

He gives then some of his own notions on the way the music should run for various poems, and interesting reading it makes for one familiar with Poe. But one must be familiar with him; for "The Bells" and "The Raven," Poe's best known verses, Skilton thinks, are poorly adapted to music. "The Raven" is too long; though it might be possible, he thinks, for a composer who had studied its changing moods to translate them into orchestral music and thus to create a magnificent symphonic poem. But the gradually awakening strength of the music of "Eldorado," until its glorious close; the pathetic "Bridal Ballad," at first in dreamy recitative, and then in narrative melody; and the splendid dramatic possibilities of "Lenore," all are enthusiastically touched upon, until one marvels that composers have so long overlooked the verses of Poe.

Elocution Recital.

A very pleasing recital was given on Feb. 21 by members of Miss SCRIBER'S and Miss RICHARDSON'S Elocution classes. The pupils show that they have had good training, and also give promise of still better results in the future. The programme is here given:

1. The one legged Goose .....Anon.
ADDIE BROWN.
2. Home Sick.....Anon.
MARION SHEPHERD.
3. The Widow Cumiskey.....Anon.
DOUSCHKA PASS.
4. The Little Cup Bearer.....Anon.
SUSIE RICHARDSON.
5. The Green Mountain Justice.....Reeves.
ANNA BARBER.
6. Specially Jim.....James W. Riley.
FANNY CONRAD.
7. Tim Twinkleton's Twins.....C. Bell.
POWELL DOBSON.
8. The little black-eyed Rebel.... Anon.
IDA FARRISH.
9. Aunt Melissy on Boys.....Trovebridge.
LUCILLE TEAGUE.
10. The little Torment.....Anon.
PEARL ADDISON.
11. Grandpapa's Spectacles .....Anon.
BESSIE HARRIS.
12. The Cobbler.....
ETHEL FOLLIN, RUTH SIEWERS, KATIE KILBUCK, CARRIE VAUGHN, BESSIE WATKINS, BERTHA LINEBACK, BESSIE HARRIS.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., MARCH, 1895.

*Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.*

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.
Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

—Date of Commencement is May 25th to May 30th.

—Our March number appears earlier than usual this month. We hope in the future to print by the 10th or 12th of the month, so that the paper may be in the hands of subscribers by the 15th.

—Patrons will please bear in mind that no provisions, however large or small the quantity, are permitted to go into the school during the term. Small boxes of candy and fruits are allowed, but this does not mean large boxes of candy.

—Mr. CLEWELL will make an effort to visit in the homes of pupils in the Twin-Cities this Spring. The number of homes represented in the school is very large and his spare hours are very few. Still the benefit to the work of the school would be very great if the acquaintance of parents and Principal could be better and closer.

—We have received a number of communications from members of the Class of 1892 in regard to a memorial for that Class.
Certainly the idea is a pleasing one, as is shown by the result of the work of the Class of 1894. Our advice would be, under ordinary circumstances, to make the window a memorial to the class itself.
After the diplomas were given on that beautiful morning in early summer the Class ceased to exist as a class. Hence, a memorial would be eminently fitting and proper. If, however, the desire is to place an ornament of this kind in connection with the memory of some character of school, state or national history, that is also very appropriate. As to the methods of accomplishing the work it is only necessary for some member of the Class to take the initiative, write to us and allow THE ACADEMY to aid in the matter, and the same successful close will be attained as was the case with the Class of '94 in their recent effort. Let us hear from members of the Class of '92. Shall a memorial be placed in the chapel by this group of patriotic friends of the ACADEMY?

—One of our recent graduates applied for a position in a city school. She was successful in obtaining the same. In a friendly letter to us she uses the following language, which is certainly very pleasing to us: "I told him (the Superintendent)
I was a graduate of Salem, and showed him your very kind letter, for which I thank you very much. He spoke in high terms of the ACADEMY, and said that the fact that I was a graduate of Salem was recommendation enough." We are always glad to hear of the success of our graduates, and will welcome letters from them in regard to their duties, their successes and their difficulties.

—The Class of '94 is the first which, to our knowledge, has established a Class Correspondence. The budget of letters was started end of last year, and will make the round of the class in about six months.
The second round will then be commenced, the old letter will be taken out by each pupil in turn and a new one substituted.
In this way twice a year each one will hear from every other member of the class.
This Class correspondence is now slowly making its way around, and every time it is mailed a postal card is sent to the ACAD-EMY office, so that in case it should be lost the exact point where the thread was broken may be known. These letters are valuable to the Class of '94 at this time, because they breathe out the joy and freshness of early life. After a time they will bind the members closer together when the cares of middle life and the shadows of great sorrows fall aslant the pages of the letters. Years will pass and the ranks will grow thinner and thinner, and the letters will become more and more tenderly valuable. Still later only a few aged pilgrims will remain, and yet the correspondence will still join them together. As long as two members of the class remain may the Correspondence continue to flourish.

Hesperian Entertainment.

MANY readers of THE ACADEMY will note the above heading, and will wish to know at once how the annual effort resulted. We are pleased to say that it resulted in a great success in every way.
Our only regret is that we find our columns about full, and can only give a brief account of the same. The girls practiced their parts with unusual faithfulness, and their efforts were crowned with success. The argument, as well as the names and characters, are all given below, and we will condense the criticism into a few lines.
The characters were chosen with unusual care. The play was easily within the reach of the girls, was free from weak and sentimental scenes; was full of fun and frolic, and yet with many touching and pathetic parts, with a high-toned vein running through the entire evening. The acting and speaking was certainly good, and no one connected with the play could have been otherwise than benefitted by the drill connected with the preparation and execution of the whole. The direction was in Miss SCRIBER'S hands, and this statement conveys to every one the care and painstaking work given to it. Mr.
Pfohl gave his best efforts to the arrangement of the scenery, and Miss AMY VAN VLECK played the accompaniment to the song. The Glee Club received a warm welcome as they rendered the opening piece, "Dixie." The milkmaids' drill was very popular; in fact, the girls are to be congratulated on the success of the entertainment from the standpoint of pleasure, benefit and financial gain.

PROGRAMME.

Introductory. Selection by the Glee Club.

SYNOPSIS.

ACT I. Scene in Mrs. Graham's home.
Club of King's Daughters preparing for a fair.
Proud Helen is severe and unkind to her dependent cousin, Nan, Polly, a younger sister, is full of fun and tricks. Aunt Clarissa, with more money than she knows what to do with, disguised herself as a cross and exacting aunt.
Miss Rebecca, a spinster, is led into many perplexing situations by the mischief loving girls. Nan expects a letter from the school committee, giving her a position. The letter arrives, but passes through a number of hands before reaching her. Helen refuses to give Polly cake, but Polly gets the cake in the end.

ACT II. Scene in the Graham home. The fair is in progress. Miss Rebecca a purchaser.
The soda fountain works too energetically.
The post office does its work. Nan's letter is delivered, but the position is declined, rather than rob Mrs. Grant of her support. Mrs. Graham insists on Nan accepting. A scene follows, and Nan is expelled from her aunt's home, but is accompanied by Miss Clarissa.

ACT III. Scene in a meadow near the "Mansion." Girls gather, preparatory to an evening party given by the unknown owner of the mansion. Miss Rebecca has a series of adventures. The Kodak tells some secrets. Helen atones for her ill-treatment of Nan. The old-fashioned bonnet tells other secrets. All visit the dairy, and the milkmaids drill is witnessed. A "fairy godmother" seems to be at the various points. The "deacon" speaks at last, and the unknown mistress of the mansion appears and is recognized as an old acquaintance. Song, "The Old Oaken Bucket."

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ.

Mrs. Graham.....INA SMITHERMAN.
Aunt Clarissa.....CHARLOTTE YOUNG.
Rebecca Spencer, who thinks herself
"one of the girls,".....MAMIE MERCER.
Helen Graham, Mrs. Graham's daughter.....MAMIE JOHNSON,
Florence Baldwin.....LUCILLE TEAGUE,
Kitty Greene.....DOVIE CHEDESTER,
Sallie Browning, a "kodak fiend," MARIE JEFFERSON,
Ruth Adams.....DOUSCHKA PASS,
Mabel Morris, whose genius burns.....KATE BELL,
The King's Daughters.
Polly Graham, who would like to be a King's Daughter,.....POWELL DOBSON.
Nan Graham, Mrs. Graham's niece,
PAMELIA GOODMAN.
Beth Hamlin.....ANNIE SATTERFIELD.
The Dairy Maid's Drill. ANNIE CHEATHAM, PAMELIA GOODMAN, POWELL DOBSON, HAT-TIE ELLISON, DOVIE CHEDESTER, MAUD
CHEEK, IDA MILLER, MARY GOOLSBY, ADA
SLEOGE, ADDIE CLAVPOOLE, RUBY SATTER-FIELD, MARION SHEPHERD.

Correspondence.

—Our first communication for the month is from LIZZIE PATTERSON MOFFITT:

AVA STOUT'S letter in a recent issue of THE ACADEMY inspired me to write. Why is it that the Class of '92 is so silent? She spoke of arousing them from this lethargy by proposing a Memorial for Stonewall Jackson. I think the idea a good one, but did you not suggest this first to the Class of '95? If they intend taking any action, of course, we cannot interfere.

Let us hear from you through THE ACADEMY in order that we all may know whether or not they are going to take this thing in hand. We have had severe weather for the past 2 months, but March has opened bright and warm. Don't you think you could make us a little visit soon? There are girls here who might be induced to go to the ACADEMY, and if you secured no students you would be repaid by a glimpse of our baby girl, who is now nearly 3 months old. Her name is Madge Fleming, and she is notoriously good, in fact, it is a rare thing to hear her cry. I shall not detain you by singing her praises. Of course, we think she is the brightest, sweetest baby in the world, this being every parent's privilege. It is not necessary to say that you will not need to offer any special inducements for us to send Madge to you, for it is an unwritten law that she will spend the greater part of her school life in the ACADEMY, under your most excellent training.

Give my love to Mrs. CLEWELL, Dr. RONDTHALER, Miss LEHMAN, and all the teachers that I knew and loved.

Yours affectionately,
LIZZIE P. MOFFITT.

Liberty, N. C.

—THE ACADEMY was received to-day: accept many thanks. How full of pleasant surprises life is, for indeed this was a pleasant surprise. I always look forward to its coming with great pleasure, and don't see how I have done without the dear paper so long. I have talked about S. F. A. so much that my husband is almost as anxious to read the dear paper as I am. I am living in the country, keeping house. I cook sometimes, and am often complimented on my cakes; how could I expect anything else when I used to take cooking lessons at S. F. A. Mrs. Florence Toomey's letters are very interesting. I enjoy reading them so much. Will you please give me ALICE CORDILL's address. Give my love to Mrs. CLEWELL and Miss LIZZIE HEISLER. You do not know how a few encouraging words from you would live forever in the heart of your old pupil.

SALLIE JARVIS GIBBS.

Ivy, N. C.

—The class letter reached me at last, and you can't imagine how delighted I was to read those interesting letters from some of whom I have not heard since June. While reading them I was carried back to the good old times I spent in dear Salem, the place where I spent many of my happiest hours. I wish so much I could just peep in and see what you all are doing. I am so glad the Memorial Window has come. I know it is beautiful, as Annie writes me. I hope to see you in June, perhaps I can wait that long. I sent the letters on to JENNIE ANDERSON, Callahan, N. C.

I heard you gave the Seniors their Essay subjects. I know they appreciated that as much as anything you could have done for them, for I have been there, and had a hard time before I could find one suitable for Miss LEHMAN and easy enough for myself. I hope the Hesperian Entertainment will be a success. I am much interested in it. I am teaching and enjoy my work very much: There is not much work though for I have only 4 pupils, and one music pupil.

With much love to Mrs. CLEWELL and the teachers.

Very sincerely,
EVA CHEATHAM.

Oxford, N. C.

—My subscription for THE ACADEMY expired some months ago, so I send 50 cents for renewal. I do not seem as if I could keep house without THE ACADEMY and the Ladies' Home Journal. O, how I would enjoy being with you at Easter. I may possibly get to Salem at Commencement.

We have a pleasant home in La Grange, N. C., and it is delightful here in winter.

We find quite a number of old Salem girls here. My next door neighbor, Mrs. Col. John Isler (KATE DARDEN), went to Salem to school in 1860. BEULAH SANDERLIN is here visiting her uncle, Mr. Shade Wooten. FANNIE BEST HAMM, an old Salem pupil from Goldsboro, is quite sick.

I would write more, but know you are kept busy with other matters of importance. My love to Mrs. CLEWELL, Miss LEHMAN and Dr. RONDTHALER.

Sincerely,

SWANNANOA BROWER HADLEY.

La Grange, N. C.

—The reunion of the Class of '90 is fast approaching, and we want to make it the best reunion that has ever been held. That and I am going to write every girl individually, besides speaking through THE ACADEMY. I have lost sight of a few of the girls; some have married and I do not know their addresses. Thinking you would know them better, or could find out, I write to ask you, if possible, to send me the addresses of the Class of '90, especially those who are married. MINNIE and I are quite enthusiastic over the reunion. We thought it would be a good idea to appoint different girls to read papers on various subjects. Any suggestion that you would make we would be glad to have.

I am busy with my teaching, delighted, but busy. I always thought it would be delightful work, and though I have my ups and downs I am not disappointed in it. The superintendent has been very kind to me, and when I showed him your kind letter he spoke in very high terms of the ACADEMY and said that the fact that I was a graduate of Salem was recommendation enough. I shall certainly try to sustain the high opinion he has of Salem.

With best wishes to all,

Very sincerely,

EMMA A. ROLLINS.

Asheville, N. C.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Dr. H. T. Bahnson celebrated his jubilee on March 4th. The girls and teachers took occasion to remember the day with a token of their friendship and of their appreciation of the doctor's many favors to us as a school and as individuals. He received many calls during the day, and also many handsome gifts as souvenirs of the happy occasion. THE ACADEMY extends congratulations.

—The Wachovia Moravian, our neighbor, will be enlarged to an 8-page journal, and will also be increased in the matter of the size of the sheet. The scope of the paper will be widened so as to include sermons and addresses, provincial and general church news, local, national and international news summary, Sunday School, Christian Endeavor and other information. The editorial management will be in Bishop Rondthaler's hands, and the business management in charge of Mr. CLEWELL. Subscription, 50 cents; issues monthly; printers, Messrs. Crist & Keehl.

—We are pleased to note that both of the Literary Societies are introducing debates more and more in their programmes. Heretofore, these have been made up from the list of studies usually termed the accomplishments, such as vocal and instrumental music and elocution. The introduction of the debate is a very desirable step, as it sharpens the reasoning faculties and aids original thought.

—In the operetta recently given by the Euterpean Society the following expression was used by one of those who took part: "O, it is a burlesque written by my brother?" A little four year old friend was present at the entertainment, and for days afterward was busy humming bits of the airs which had been sung, and repeating various sentences he had heard. While sitting at the supper table the little one was quietly meditating, and at last soliloquized as follows: "O, it is a bird's nest, written by my brother!" It is needless to say that he brought down the house.

—"What is a rhomboid?" asked the instructor, some days since, in Geometry class. "A rectangular figure with the corners pulled out," was the prompt reply.

—"Is history reliable?" is the topic of one of the essays to be read at the approaching Commencement. We give the following to illustrate the fact that it is reliable beyond a question. Some weeks since when the terrible blizzard swept over our section the weather service wired us that the thermometer would drop 40° before morning. It was then 35° above zero. Efforts were at once made to prepare for the unusual severity of the night in protecting the water pipes, making larger fires in the dormitories, and so on. According to the prediction the thermometer would drop to 5° below zero before morning, and it was 5° above at 9 P. M. In passing through Main Hall one of the young ladies met Mr. Clewell, and asked him about the cold, when the facts were given her. She immediately repaired to her study parlor, and startled her companions with the following excitedly expressed statement: "Girls, Mr. C. says the thermometer is now 5° below zero, and that it will fall 40° lower before morning!" We again ask, is history reliable?"

—A number of little boys and girls from town will give the famous Brownie entertainment in the ACADEMY Chapel, March 21 and 22, the proceeds to be used for the benefit of the Elm Street Sunday School Library.

—The following pupils have registered since our last number was printed:

Florence Fields, North Carolina.
Maggie Poindexter, " " Sallie Sink, " "
Maggie McEachern, South Carolina.

—Dr. H. T. Bahnson delivered a very fine and highly appreciated lecture before the ACADEMY pupils on February 22d. His subject was the experiences of a private soldier during the last days of the war. A number of friends from our communities had expressed a desire to be present, and hence a general invitation was extended. The result was that the chapel was quite filled. The Doctor did not varnish matters in his lecture. He was in the thickest part of the battles he described, and he spoke of matters just as he saw them. He declared that the glory of war was not found on the battle-field, but in newspaper articles, 4th of July speeches and school readers,—it did not exist in fact but only in the minds of persons who had never been in a battle; that when a battle was well on, the lowest form of our natures was in sole possession of our being and that the fiendish desire to kill and destroy reigned supreme. A prize fight, he declared, was an object lesson in forbearance and brotherly kindness when compared to the spirit abroad in the wild and savage destruction of a battle-field, and when the lecturer had finished his description the audience felt as he did on this matter, even if they did not feel so before. Dr. Bahnson's close was a graceful and oratorical effort. He eulogized the influence of the sweet spirit of peace, that peace which brought comfort and happiness to a nation, which preserved life instead of destroying it, and which he hoped would hereafter extend its fair wings over our beloved land. The school and the community greatly appreciated Dr. Bahnson's effort, and will long remember the elegant and forceful manner in which the subject was handled.

—Mrs. Durrett, of Richmond, Va., who was on a visit to Winston-Salem, and who several times favored our communities in connection with musical occasions, responded to an invitation given by Miss TRACY, of our Vocal Department, and gave our pupils a pleasing vocal recital early in the month. The hour was a very happy and interesting one. The girls gave Mrs. Durrett a royal reception.

—The King's Daughters gave a pleasing entertainment in one of the Society Halls early in March. A small admission fee was charged, the proceeds being for the work of the organization.

—The committee to arrange for the organization of a Cooking Club met some days since. Mrs. Dr. J. F. Shaffner, Mrs. D. H. Starbuck, Mrs. J. A. Bitting, Mrs. E. A. Ebert and Miss GRACE WOLLE were present. Plans were completed for the organization of the club and the first meeting arranged. We shall give a more extended account later.

Our Library.

The following list of books has been received since our last issue:

"An introduction to English Literature," by Henry Pancoast; Henry Holt & Co., New York.

Oliver Goldsmith's "Traveller and Deserted Village." in the Student's Series of English Classics, by W. F. Gregory; by Leach, Shewell & Sanborn, New York.

"Little Journeys to the Homes of Good Men and Great. George Eliot," by Elbert Hubbard, Putnam's Sons, New York,

"An Introductory German Reader," by Whitney. Henry Holt & Co., New York.

"A Second Book in Physiology and Hygiene," by Kellogg. American Book Co., New York.

EMPIRE GLASS AND DECORATION COMPANY. Designers and Manufacturers of Leaded Art Glass Decorations, Bevelled Plate, Chipped and Interior Decorations. JOS. F. GATINS, President, J. D. HARRIS, Secretary and Treasurer, Atlanta, Ga. February, 1895--1 year.

G. A. ANDROVETTE & CO., Chicago. Domestic and Ecclesiastical Stained Glass. Eastern Representative, J. F. BLANCHARD, Syracuse, N. Y. February, 1895--1 year.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of—Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appeal more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Annuaire Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

OAK RIDGE INSTITUTE.
OAK RIDGE, N. C.

J. A. & M. H. HOLT, Principals.

The most elegantly equipped Classical, Scientific and Commercial School in the South. Young Men and Boys. 85th Session begins August 21st. Send for Catalogue. June '94-1y.

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE,
On Car Line, near Academy, Main St.

Nestling in the midst of the old historic part of Salem, a stroll along the well shaded street will lead you to the Store, where you will find a good assortment of

BOOKS, STATIONERY AND FANCY GOODS.

Call and see us or write to

L. V. & E. T. BLUM, Salem, N. C.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY

THE GREAT TRUNK LINE
AND U. S. MAIL ROUTE

BETWEEN THE
NORTH, SOUTH, EAST AND WEST.

Operates Three Passenger Trains Daily

— TO —

WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND POINTS EAST.

Three Passenger Trains Daily for

ATLANTA, BIRMINGHAM, MEMPHIS, CHAT TANOOGA, MONTGOMERY, MOBILE, NEW ORLEANS, and Points South and West.

THE SHORT LINE TO FLORIDA,

Through Trains and Pullman Palace Sleeping cars to Columbia, Augusta, Savannah, Jacksonville and Tampa without change.

The Washington and South-Western Vestibuled LIMITED.

This train is composed entirely of Pullman Palace, Drawing Room, Sleeping and Dining Cars.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY
is the direct line between
WINSTON-SALEM
and above points.

For rates, tickets, time-tables, &c., call on any agent Southern Railway, or W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent; CHAS. L. HOPKINS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Charlotte, N. C. S. H. HARDWICK, Asst. Gen. Agent, Atlanta, Ga. W. H. GREEN, General Manager (Eastern System); J. M. CULP, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.

A SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Take a half hour dose of Bicycling two to three times a day. It is pleasant medicine. Bicycles for Sale and Rent by

SENSEMAN & BRICKENSTEIN,
SALEM, N. C.

June, 1894.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notices in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

January 1895. 1y.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.
FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.

The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1895.

REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Widely famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons, Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793.

1894

BINGHAM SCHOOL,
FOR BOYS.

Established in 1793.

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESIDENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from prominent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANITATION are the BEST IN THE SOUTH, and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogue giving full particulars, address
Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Superintendent.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.
Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.
Session begins September 4.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892-1y

HOTEL JONES,

J. L. JONES, late of Jones House, Propriet'r.
WINSTON, N. C.

All modern conveniences provided. Electric lights and bells. Table abundantly supplied with the very best that the market affords. We are anxious to please.

RATES, $2.00 PER DAY.

At Depot ask for Jones House 'Bus.

Reference: Salem Female Academy.

May 1894.

Our Specialties:

STERLING SILVERWARE
FINE WATCHES,
DIAMONDS,

We have everything else kept in a first-class Jewelry Store.

Special attention paid to mail orders.

Fine Repairing and Engraving.

Very Respectfully,

234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

JOHN GILL, Receiver,
in connection with the

Norfolk & Western R. R.,
via Walnut Cove,
Atlantic Coast Line,
via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH between WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to

J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Sup't. Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.
E. B. KEARNS, Agt. N. & W. R. R.,
Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western Railroad.

THE SHORT BEST AND QUICK ROUTE
TO
Winston-Salem, N. C.,
FROM

Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee and all Southern Ports.

PULLMAN VESTIBULED SLEEPERS

from Memphis and New Orleans to Roanoke, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Patrons of Salem Female Academy will have only one change of Cars at Roanoke, Va., from THE NORTH and EAST. Pullman Vestibuled Sleepers daily from New York and Washington via Royal Blue Line and Shenandoah Valley Route to Roanoke, Va., where connection is made for Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond and Norfolk.

Sleeping Car Reservation and reliable information furnished.

Write or see one of the following agents before purchasing your tickets.

W. L. ROHR, Western Pass. Agent,
Reed House, Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. B. BEVILL, M. F. BRAGG,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
ROANOKE, VA.

une 1892-1v

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,
THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Respectfully direct attention to their
NEW AND MAGNIFICENT LINE OF

FALL AND WINTER DRESS COODS.

in all the latest styles of

IMPORTED AND DOMESTIC FABRICS.

BOTH IN SILKS AND WOOLENS.

With a full assortment of TRIMMINGS to match.

Corsets! Corsets!

We have just received a complete line of Corsets and Corset Waists, among which are the celebrated C. J. B. and Dr. Warner's Corsets, and Ferris Bros.' Waists for Ladies and Misses.

CLOAKS AND CAPES.

In this department we have just received the handsomest line of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Cloaks EVER SHOWN, at prices which will suit the present times.

REMEMBER THAT WE ARE SOLE AGENTS FOR

The Navy Blue Cloth,

used by the young ladies of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY for Calisthenic Suits, Price, $1.10 per yard.

SHOES! SHOES! SHOES!

Largest line of Shoes in the largest Shoe Store in Winston. E. P. REED & CO.'S Fine Shoes a Specialty.

Very Respectfully,

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,
WINSTON, N. C.

May, 1894.

WHAT THEY SAY OF HARPER'S PERIODICALS

New York Sun:—The manifold art that is represented here has a fascination as great as any fascination that may attach to books. The two volumes of the MAGAZINE are entirely beautiful in their pictorial features, and the literary part of them is marked by great and varied attractions. The WEEKLY is a chronicle, valuable, rich in entertainment, the BAZAR is a trustworthy repository of the fashions, and it has many desirable things besides, the YOUNG PEOPLE is in the first rank of publications for boys and girls. This is a splendid array. But it is hardly necessary to say so. The whole world knows it.

Philadelphia Ledger:—It is one of the many distinctions which have made the fame of the Harpers that they are always in advance of the times. No firm, it is safe to say, has done more to raise the tone and morale of weekly and monthly literature than have the Harpers. They have catered to the popular taste in so far that they have supplied to their clients the best goods only, but they have never courted a dubious notoriety. No word has ever been printed in their periodicals which could not be quoted without offence in any home circle. The most lavish praise is not too extravagant to be meted out to the great talent and industry which is annually summed up in these volumes. They are read in every climate and wherever the English language is spoken. They are a credit to American literature and American enterprise.

N. Y. Observer:—HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE fills a place of its own. It has always been entertaining and bright, but has happily combined profit with pleasure, instruction with entertainment. HARPER'S WEEKLY ranks highest in its class of literature, if it does not stand distinct and alone. It has played an important part in American history, and wields a powerful influence to-day. Keen observers, concise writers, skillful artists, and able and vigorous editorial management have produced a volume equal to any of the series. The WEEKLY will be popular as long as it has the good management which has characterized its past career. . . . There is no more prized and trusted authority in its own particular realm than HARPER'S BAZAR, and numberless ties bind it to its large and refined constituency. . . . But if any youth under eighteen or under eighty can examine five consecutive pages of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE without paying a hearty tribute of laughter, we do not envy him. We confess to the weakness, if such it be, of enjoying the bubbling and irresistible fun of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.

New York Times:—He who reads HARPER'S MAGAZINE will not only become a well informed person; he will find himself familiar with the best minds of his day and generation, with the best that the world is doing in all departments of activity. HARPER'S WEEKLY reflects the world's history, not in details and amplitude so much as by a process of selection, for it notes what is most significant and impressive.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS:

Per Year:

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.....	$4.00
HARPER'S WEEKLY.....	4.00
HARPER'S BAZAR.....	4.00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.....	2.00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

PUBLISHED BY

HARPER & BROTHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

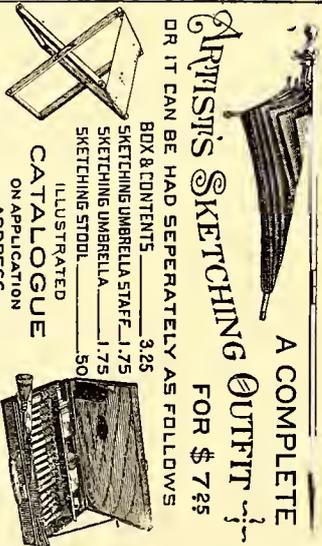

Jan. '94-1y.

Artist's SKETCHING OUTFIT

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

BOX &amp; CONTENTS..... 3.25 SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF..... 1.75 SKETCHING UMBRELLA..... 1.75 SKETCHING STOOL..... 50c ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS	A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.95
--	--

A. SUSSMANN 232 6th Ave. N.Y.

READ!

The S. F. A. ALUMNÆ, their friends and all others will find at

S. E. ALLEN'S.
Hardware & Crockery Store,
Winston, N. C.,

many useful Decorative, Household and Parlor Furnishing Goods of the latest designs.

Also a complete assortment of Tinware, Glassware, Stoves and Holloware, and Hardware for the Mechanic, Farmer, Contractor, Merchant and all others at prices to induce sales.

Call and examine or write for prices.
June, 1894-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVII.

SALEM, N. C., APRIL, 1895.

NUMBER 156.

1802-1895.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1893-1894, was 345. Special features:—the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special-information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

OUR LITERARY SOCIETIES.

MUCH has said from time to time about the Euterpean and the Hesperian Societies, and, hence, an article like this may seem to be superfluous. Still, when we consider the fact that new readers are constantly being added to our list, new pupils are arriving each week, and that the history of the Societies is constantly changing and developing, and what was true a year ago is not true now,—when these things are remembered we see why an article with the above heading is eminently fit and proper.

Historically considered, the mind is taken back to the time when it was currently reported throughout the School that a literary society could not flourish within the ACADEMY. Then there arises a picture of a group of girls seeking to organize, seeking a name, seeking a place to hold a meeting, and finally located in the central rooms of the 4th story of Main Hall, at present used by the Seniors as a dormitory. We trace the first meetings, and find, alas! that human nature is human nature, and that the Euterpean Society had plenty of it in its make up. A quarrel, discord, a faction formed within the Society, and a migration of a large number of members to form a new Society. The wise ones remarked: "I told you so." But it was not to be as the wise ones said. As bees swarming do not destroy the parent hive, so this colony of girls leaving the Euterpean Society did not destroy themselves or the parent Society, but with hum and flutter, fuss and fuming, left the pink-walled room on the top floor, descended to the basement, five stories down, and there organized a new Society, baptizing it "Hesperian." They took nothing with them except the "persons" of the new colony. Upstairs the walls were pink,—downstairs blue. Upstairs the chairs were light, downstairs dark, and so on. The utmost secrecy existed, the feelings were bitter at first, but while the rivalry exists to-day as strongly as it did ten years ago, the feelings of bitterness have mellowed with age.

The work went quietly on, one society on the top floor, the other in a basement-room, distance apparently being a safeguard. The time of the annual banquet came around, and questions like these arose: "Shall we have the banquet together?" "No," came the answer loud and clear. But mature thought and consideration made it evident that as the two societies lived in the same building, attended the same classes, breathed the same air, dined at the same table, it might be well to make the annual banquet a "big" thing by uniting their forces. Hence, the first banquet, and all succeeding banquets, have been held harmoniously together and have proved to be very enjoyable occasions indeed. The annual entertainments did not clash, as the two organizations traveled separate roads. One chose a play, the other an operetta; or both an operetta or a play. The only point of difficulty was in expressing an opinion of the merits of the play, since if the Euterpean entertainment was under discussion, and a member of the Hesperian Society was near by woe betide the speaker if words of praise were spoken. So, too, it was a sad thing if the receipts of the annual entertainments were not just the same. If one made $75.00 and the other $75.25, it was always best to say nothing about that extra 25 cents,—that is, it was best to let the subject alone if one valued peace of mind. At last the question of new and better accommodations was raised. Here all interests united, and they jointly agreed to pay $500 toward a new building if they could have entire control of the second floor, with each society in possession of a large, well lighted hall, high ceiling, and a wide passage between the two rooms. The story of the building and fitting up of Society Hall is too recent to need repetition in this article, suffice it to say, no better step was made in recent years than the erection of this building. It is one of the chief ornaments in the rear court of the school, and has filled a long felt want in the daily life of the Institution. The two societies have thus far paid $300 toward their handsome home, and it is only a question of time till all will be paid and they will own the second story of the neat and attractive cottage building. The work of furnishing was pushed forward from the beginning. Carpets and rugs, pictures and pianos, tables and stands were placed in position in rapid succession—all purchased with society funds. Last year a handsome library case was added, which is a particularly fine piece of furniture and a great ornament to the room. The work of the Societies has been widening and increasing. At first it was almost entirely confined to the rendering of a short programme of music and elocution, with readings added. As years passed this was added to, and the Societies began to exert an influence for good on the conduct of the members. If a pupil began to go astray the influence of her Society was exerted to bring her back. The beautifully furnished halls were freely given for all good purposes, such as prayer-meetings, King's Daughters' meetings, and so on. This threw a special glow about them, and, on the other, hand, the strictest rules were enacted to prevent abuses. For instance, no lunch boxes or eating of any kind is allowed, according to the rules; no loud or boisterous conduct; no disorder of furniture,—all is neat and tidy whenever you may chance to enter the halls.

The meetings are gradually assuming a firmer character in the materials used to make up the programmes. Instead of music and elocution,—or, in other words, the accomplishments—having sole sway, we now find essays and debates liberally added, and thus variety as well as greater strength is secured. The constant opportunity afforded the girls to sing, play and recite before a critical audience of their companions is of great benefit, as it gives grace and ease in public, and helps in the walk, the carriage, the very expression of the face. On the other hand, the essays and debates provoke original thought, and are a means of developing the mental powers.

The financial requirements are light, a very small monthly fee being asked, and our only regret is that every member of of the ACADEMY is not also enrolled in one or the other of the Societies. No better agency for good exists in the School, and we have watched the strong growth described above with great pleasure and satisfaction. The latest step forward has been in the direction of their libraries. The handsome new cases have appeared rather lonesome, and hence a number of books have been purchased, about $100 worth, selected by Mr. A. D. F. Randolph, of New York city, than whom there is no better judge of the latest and best in books for young people. The box arrived, filled with a large number of bright and attractive works, and an eager committee, with Miss LEHMAN as a "court of appeal," when the case was uncertain, did their work well. The old members of the two Societies will, doubtless, be much interested in this step, and will be able to imagine the cool and comfortable halls on the bright and warm spring days, filled with girls eagerly perusing the pages of their favorite book, and hence we give the list, in full, of the recent purchase by the

EUTERPEAN SOCIETY.

- 1 A Thousand Miles Up the Nile. Edwards.
- 2 Where honor leads. Palmer.
- 3 The Story of Juliette. Washington.
- 4 The Young Pilgrim. A. L. O. E.
- 5 A Golden Gossip. Whitney.
- 6 Work. Alcott.
- 7 Moods. Alcott.
- 8 A Modern Mephistopholes. Alcott.
- 9 Things will Take a Turn. Harraden.
- 10 In Old Virginia. Page.
- 11 The Youngest Miss Norton and Other Stories. Perry.
- 12 Kittie's Convert. King.
- 13 Girls who Became Famous. Bolton.
- 14 New Year's Tangles. Pansy.
- 15 Two Bites at a Cherry. Aldrich.
- 16 Dr LeBaron and His Daughters. Gansten.
- 17 Lil.
- 18 Reveries of a Bachelor. Mitchell.
- 19 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland. Carroll.

- 20 Through the Looking Glass. Carroll.
- 21 By the Fire, and Other Stories. Carroll.
- 22 Twenty Years Ago.
- 23 Phillis. Gaskell.
- 24 Melody. Richards.
- 25 Coffee and Repartee. Bangs.
- 26 The Mary Jane Papers. Plympton.
- 27 My Pretty Jane. Rowlands.
- 28 The Watch-maker. Halford.
- 29 Looking Seaward. Drinkwater.
- 30 Miss Prudence. Drinkwater.
- 31 Stories from the Greek Tragedians. Church.
- 32 Girls of a Feather. Barr.
- 33 The Impress of a Gentlewoman. Newberry.
- 34 An Unknown Heroine. Chittenden.
- 35 The Royal Road. Harland.
- 36 Fagots from the Fireside. Hale.
- 37 The Pot of Gold. Wilkins.
- 38 The Lady of Provence. A. L. O. E.
- 39 Claudia. "
- 40 The Forlorn Hope. "
- 41 The Old, Old Story. Cary.
- 42 A Scene of Famous Composers Dale.
- 43 Wanted. Pansy.
- 44 Under Fire. King.
- 45 Brave Little Holland. Griffis.
- 46 The Wide, Wide World. Wetherill.
- 47 On the Way. A. L. O. E.
- 48 Half a Dozen Girls. Ray.
- 49 A Bad Lot. Cameron.
- 50 Olivia. Molesworth.
- 51 The Lilac Sun-bonnet. Crockett.
- 52 The Mill on the Floss. Eliot.
- 53 My Lady. Bouvet.
- 54 Blanche. Molesworth.
- 55 The Refugees. Doyle.
- 56 Miss Nellowbone's Office. Doudney.
- 57 Picciola. Santine.
- 58 A Nameless Nobleman. Ganston.
- 59 Another Girl's Experience. Webster.
- 60 Not Quite Sixteen. Coolidge.
- 61 Jane Field. Wilkins.
- 62 Tales from Foreign Lands. Gaskell.

The following is a list of the books purchased during the month by the

HESPERIAN SOCIETY.

- 1 Sir Robert's Fortune. Oliphant.
- 2 Magic Ink. Black.
- 3 The Lone House. Barr.
- 4 San Salvador. Tinker.
- 5 Witch Winnie at Shinnecock. Champney.
- 6 His Vanished Star. Craddock.
- 7 A Bread and Butter Miss. Paston.
- 8 Hildegard's Home. Richards.
- 9 Her Great Ambition. Earle.

- 10 In the Vulture's Nest. Fairfax.
- 11 Vignettes of Manhattan. Matthews.
- 12 The True Woman. Thayer.
- 13 The Tragedy of the Unexpected. Perry.
- 14 Other Things Being Equal. Wolff.
- 15 Foes in Ambush. King.
- 16 Messire. Crompton.
- 17 Carlotta's Intended. Stuart.
- 18 Dorothy's Island. Drinkwater.
- 19 An Interloper. Peard.
- 20 Ingleside. Zechton.
- 21 A Native of Winby. Jewett.
- 22 A Humble Romance. Wilkins.
- 23 The Coast of Bohemia. Howells.
- 24 Standish of Standish. Austin.
- 25 Hope Benham. Perry.
- 26 A Farmhouse Cobweb. Haynes.
- 27 Miss Ashton's New Pupil. Roblins.
- 28 Godwa Durleigh. Doudney.
- 29 In the King's Country. Douglas.
- 30 The Wagner Story Books. Frost.
- 31 Miss Wilton. Warren.
- 32 Famous Types of Womanhood. Bolton.
- 33 An Iceland Fisherman. Loti.
- 34 A Country Doctor. Jewett.
- 35 Ascuney Street. Whitney.
- 36 Old Creole Days. Cable.
- 37 The Burial of the Guns. Page.
- 38 Miss Uraca. Green.
- 39 A Spinster's Leaflets. Keith.
- 40 The Highway of Sorrow. Stretton.
- 41 The Spanish Cavalier. A. L. O. E.
- 42 The Triumph over Midian. "
- 43 The Blacksmith of Boniface Lane. "
- 44 Cyril Ashley. "
- 45 Pride and His Prisoners. "
- 46 The Haunted Room. "

CIRCULAR LETTER

FROM THE ALUMNÆ SOCIETY TO MEMBERS OF THE ASSOCIATION AND ALL FRIENDS.

AS has already been announced Miss TRACY's Vocal Class will give an Operetta in the ACADEMY Chapel, on Thursday and Friday nights, April 18th and 19th, entitled "The Twin Sisters," and the entire proceeds of the entertainment will be given to the Alumnae Scholarship Fund. The young ladies have gone to considerable expense in the matter of costumes, have given much time to practice, and certainly deserve the hearty support and patronage of the Society and its friends. There are a number of reasons why you should encourage this entertainment:

1st. Because the operetta will afford you an evening of refined musical enjoyment.

2d. The operetta has several times been given in the past, once to aid our soldiers in the war, and again in 1871, and hence is a favorite among many of our people. Old associations should draw you to be present.

3d. The fact that you can make a donation to the Society and still get the full worth of your money in pleasure adds to the attraction of this form of gift.

The committee will mail a number of circulars to "out of town" friends, and we trust that they will visit our towns in order to attend the entertainment. If this is impossible, let us suggest that you cut a slit in a small piece of pasteboard, slip a quarter into it, mail it to one of the undersigned, or to the ACADEMY office, and make the young ladies happy by your interest. The admission price will be 25 cents, no reserved seats.

In conclusion, let us urge you to attend, and if you yourself cannot come buy a ticket and send some one in your place, thus helping to that extent. By midsummer the Scholarship Fund will have reached an amount which will enable the Society to place its first pupil in a position to begin receiving an education in the ACADEMY.

Mrs. D. H. STARBUCK, Pres.
Miss ALICE RONDTHALER, Sec.
Miss LOUISA SHAFFNER, Treas.

Mrs. J. A. BITTING,	} Ex. Com.
" A. B. GORRELL,
" WM. NELSON,
" CHAS. TYNER,
" E. A. EBERT,
" R. L. HENDRICKS,
Miss ADDIE FRIES,
" GERTRUDE SEWERS,	}
" ETTA SHAFFNER,
" ANNIE PITTMAN,

Winston-Salem, N. C., April, 1895.

—The Alumnae Executive Committee would be pleased to have suggestions from the members on the following points:

1. How shall the benefit of the Scholarship Fund be applied?
2. Shall one child receive the benefit of the full income?
3. Shall the income be divided to aid those who can pay their expenses in part?
4. Shall the pupil be given the benefit for one year or more?
5. What shall be the age and qualifications?
6. How shall the proper person be found?
7. Who shall decide the matter?

If these points are considered in advance the matter can be wisely acted upon at the meeting next month.

—On Thursday, March 28th, Miss GOSLING's pupils gave a recital in the ACADEMY chapel. The efforts of the performers were well received by the school audience, and showed that their instruction had been practical and thorough.

The following programme was observed:

- Carl Sidus*.....Waltz (Duet).
PEARL and RUBY SYDNOR.
Lichner.....Study.
OLLIE ALLEN.
New York Sun.The Trials of a School Mistress.
PEARL ADDISON.
Behr-Sidus.....Spanish Dance.
MATTIE PIERCE.
Jordan.....Song that Reached My Heart.
CARRIE CURTIS.
Westendorf.....Galop, (Duet).
OLLIE ALLEN and DAISY LAUDECK.
Leybach.....Chanson A Boire.
CARRIE LEINBACH.
James Whitcomb Riley.....Bill and Mary Jane.
GEORGIA RIGHTS.
Eduard Holst.....Polka Rondo.
DAISY SPAUGH.

- Mascagni*.....Ave Maria.
MISS GERTRUDE ROBBINS.
Moszkowski.....Barcelona. Spanish Dance.
CORNELIA and CARRIE LEINBACH.

On Thursday, April 4th, Miss BROWN's pupils favored the ACADEMY with a recital in the Chapel, which was marked by the same excellencies alluded to above, in a programme as follows:

- Kirchner*.....The Gondolier.
Misses ANNIE and MAGGIE MORTON.
Bachmann.....Reflets du Printemps.
MISS CLEVE BARNES.
Jenkins.....How we Hunted a Mouse.
MISS CARRIE CRUTCHFIELD.
Gabriel-Marie.The Golden Wedding—Dance.
MISS BEULAH McMINN.
Jensen.....Bride's Song.
Misses LUCILLE TEAGUE and BL. THORNTON.
Haberbier.....Fleeting Time.
MISS DELLA SETLIFF.
Lowthian.....Once in a While.
MISS ELLA LEHMAN.
Violin Obligato—Miss GOSLING.

- Durand*.....Valse. Op. 86.
MISS MAY DAINGERFIELD.
Bonheur.....Dance of the Lilliputians.
Misses RUBY BLUM and MAMIE STYERS.

These preliminary skirmishes before Commencement are invaluable aids in rendering that occasion the great Music Festival it really is. They give ease and self-possession, and fit the performer for a better bringing out of what she really can do than any other device.

—The temperature is regularly recorded at the ACADEMY station each day, and as we have never published the same, and knowing the interest many persons take in the comparison of the several years, we herewith give the average temperature for 1893 and for 1894. The first column gives the average lowest point reached during the night, the second column gives the highest average for the month. The instruments used are self-registering, made by Green, and the same as are used by the U. S. Government.

	1893.		1894.
	Lowest.	Highest.	Lowest.	Highest.
January,	18	43	32	52
February,	31	53	32	55
March,	36	62	40	61
April,	47	75	45	72
May,	52	72	55	82
June,	63	87	61	90
July,	68	94	66	90
August,	66	89	65	89
September,	58	89	61	85
October,	48	71	45	75
November,	35	58	35	57
December,	50	52	31	51

The total averages for the years are as follows:

- Lowest average for 1893 was 46 5-24.
- Lowest average for 1894 was 47 1-34.
- Highest average for 1893 was 70 5-12.
- Highest average for 1894 was 71 1-2.

The mean average, that is the true average, considering all the readings of the year was for 1893, 58 5-24. The true average for 1894 was 59 11-24. The coldest day in 1893 was Jan. 20, when the thermometer dropped to 6½° below zero.

The coldest day in 1894 was Dec. 11, when it was 11° above zero.

The warmest day in 1893 was Aug. 25, when the thermometer reached 98°.

The warmest day in 1894 was Aug. 10, when 99½° was reached.

The above facts are reliable, and may be of use and interest in comparing our section with others in the matter of climate.

—The month of March will go down in history as one of the cold months. A year ago the flowers were in all the glory of their bloom, the leaves were out, and the blossoms made all things bright and attractive; but the great freeze came, the thermometer dropped to 17½°, and all was lost. This year the cold was steady, vegetation did not make a start, and hence the prospect for fruit and vegetables is brighter.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., APRIL, 1895.

*Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.*

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.
Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

Commencement Programme, 1895.

- Saturday, May 25th, Opening Concert,
7:45 P. M.
Sunday, May 26th, Baccalaureate Sermon,
by the Rt. Rev. J. B. CHESHIRE, D.D.,
11 A. M. Evening service by the Rt.
Rev. E. RONDTHALER, D.D., 8 P. M.
Monday, May 27th, Seniors' First Evening, 7:45 P. M.
Tuesday, May 28th, Art Exhibit, 2-5 P. M.
Tuesday, May 28th, Seniors' Second Evening, 7:45 P. M.
Wednesday, May 29th, Class Reunions,
10 A. M.
Wednesday, May 29, Alumnae Meeting, with Presentation of the Vance Memorial Window by Hon. J. C. BUXTON,
3 P. M.
Wednesday, May 29th, Grand Concert,
7:45 P. M.
Thursday, May 30th, Commencement,
JAMES BECK, Esq., Orator, 9 A. M.

—We call attention to the first article, on our Literary Societies, and we suggest that the old members each select an interesting book from the home library, one that has been read and that will be of no further use in the home collection, and forward the book as a donation to the new library. This will be a registration of your own name once more in Society Hall, and will be a pleasure to present and future members.

—Parents who may send commencement dresses to pupils are requested to bear in mind the following points: 1st. We discourage display and expensive outfits as being unbecoming to the true standard of intellectual life. We admire neat and attractive costumes, but ostentation is characteristic of a much lower grade of life than is found in our college. 2d. We herewith notify our friends that no pupil will be allowed to use dresses which are "cut low," or which have any of the objectionable features of falsely called "full" evening dress. If our friends desire special information on this matter we will cheerfully furnish the same, but we feel certain that this decision will commend itself to every wise father and mother. No pupil appears to better advantage than when neatly, tastefully and modestly attired without the objectionable features so common in many society circles.

—The time is now here when we should receive notice of the intention of any pupils to remain during the summer. The ACADEMY is always open, and we are quite willing to give the same care and attention to pupils remaining during June, July and August that is given the rest of the year. But we will be pleased to receive notice of such intended pupils at as early a date as possible, since we must make special preparations for the accommodation of those who make their summer home with us.

—Last year's experiment with the Summer School was quite a success, even though the numbers were not large. At this time, a year ago, we inserted a notice that we would receive a limited number of pupils for the summer, and, as a result, had under our care about 25 happy and industrious pupils. Some were teachers from home or from a distance, others were pupils who desired to gain some point not reached during the school-year, but all were happy and well pleased with the results. The college buildings are so cool and pleasant, with the noble sycamores in front and the spacious park in the rear, that one friend remarked, on a hot July day, last year: "You will one day fill these buildings as a summer resort." This was a new view of the matter, but we found last year that several ladies, who desired an economical home, with protection and the best intellectual surroundings, and the coolest material advantages, came to SALEM ACADEMY to find them.

—A year ago, at the close of the session, the Principal announced that this year the Alumnae would be invited to come into much closer relations to the school than was ever the case in the past. This was said because it was felt that the School needed the full, active support of its pupils at home and abroad. The results of the year have shown that the willingness exists on the part of our former pupils, and this year has undoubtedly marked an epoch in this feature of the school's history. We naturally like to take an optimistic view of matters, and in this particular case it is right to do so, for every one who has watched the development in the five lines of Alumnae work will recognize this. These are, the General Alumnae Society; the Local Alumnae Organizations; the Art Department Committee; The Cooking Club; The Physical Culture Club. All of these have had very satisfactory results, and promise well for their future influence on the history of the ACADEMY.

—The presence of Mrs. Senator Vance, on the occasion of the presentation of the Vance Memorial Window to the Trustees, will be a very pleasing feature of the Alumnae Meeting on Wednesday afternoon of Commencement Week.

—The presence of the Davis Cadets on the several occasions during the past weeks has been a pleasing feature of this portion of the year. The young gentlemen are manly and high-toned, quite free from that coarse line of conduct which is sometimes shown in the actions of young men when they are brought into the precincts of a young ladies' college. It is true the relation has always been formal, never of a social nature, but a young man can show that he is a gentleman in the midst of formal as well as social relations. This fact the Davis Cadets have shown on every occasion that they were with us.

—We desire parents to communicate with us in ample time to decide by what route they desire their daughters to return to their homes. If this matter is left to us we will endeavor to select the easiest way, quickest time and smallest number of changes. In past years we were accustomed to endeavor to unite the parties and even send a special car to distant points. This elicited so much adverse criticism that, for a number of years, we have declined the offer of all roads to send a special car. Furthermore, to attempt to concentrate a party was always injustice to half the number, since they would often leave the best and easiest route to join the company. Hence, we find that where pupils are naturally grouped as to time and railroad, we always advise the journey in company with each other. But when it is desirable to split up into smaller parties we do so for the good of the pupils. Many parents will be here, railroad representatives will be here from all parts, hence we ask for your desires so as to arrange matters as you wish them.

To the Class of '90.

Dear Classmates :

Do you realize that Commencement of '95 is fast approaching? That is the time which we appointed for our Reunion, and the Class of '90 must have the best Reunion that has ever been held, and to have this we must all be there. Let us gather once more at our dear old Alma Mater, and renew those school-friendships which, perchance, have been interrupted, and spend a week in friendly intercourse.

EMMA A. ROLLINS,
President of Class.

--We have received the following letter from Mrs. Zebulon B. Vance :

To the President Salem Female Academy :

My Dear Sir :

I have seen a notice of the completion of the Memorial Window to Senator Vance to be placed in the SALEM FEMALE COLLEGE by the Class of 1894, and I write to ask that you kindly furnish me the names of the members of the Class contributing to this beautiful Memorial to my dear husband, beautiful, as I understand, in design, but certainly more beautiful in thought. I thank you for fostering the kindly appreciation of one who was most truly your friend as he was of every good person and institution of the State.

I hope some time I may have the pleasure of seeing the "Senator Vance Memorial Window," presented by the Class of 1894, and am most gratefully yours,

FLORENCE STEELE VANCE.

Mrs. Z. B. VANCE,
1627 Massachusetts Ave.,
Washington, D. C.

After receiving the above letter a special invitation was sent to Mrs. Vance to be present at the presentation of the Memorial Window, and some days later the following reply was received :

I write to-night in answer to yours of the 18th to say that I shall be most happy to accept your kind invitation to attend the Commencement of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, the end of May, to express thereby my appreciation of the honor your venerable institution has paid my husband in life and in death, and to comply with an oft repeated wish of his that I should visit the interesting old town of Salem and know her people, especially the Moravian school, which he held in such esteem. I was misled by some newspaper paragraphs in supposing the Memorial Window was the work of pupils in your ACADEMY alone, until your letter told me that many others had contributed. I am sure each added name but magnifies the beauty of the deed to me, and from my heart I thank each one who in any manner expressed affection for my dear husband who loved them to the end. I thank you, sir, for your courtesy, and am, most truly yours,

MRS. Z. B. VANCE.

Correspondence.

--Our first communication for April is from EDNA LINEBERRY, a faithful member of the Class of '94 :

The class letters have reached me. The next one on the list is MAMIE BARROW, and as her post office is not given will you please give me her address. The letters afforded me much pleasure, and I think it was very kind of you to have suggested such a nice way of keeping up our acquaintance. I will forward them as soon as I hear from you.

Sincerely,
EDNA LINEBERRY.

Trinity, N. C.

--I think I am getting along with my work as well as can be expected, and really enjoy it. I have only two pupils, and they are bright and interesting; their ages are respectively 15 and 16 years.

I often think of this time last year, and wonder if the present Seniors are thinking as much about their essays as we did about this time. Hope soon to send my contribution to the Memorial Window.

Very respectfully,
MAMIE G. BARROW.

Sapona, N. C.

--The class letters have reached me at last, and I am sure if all the girls enjoyed reading them as I did, they will join me in thanking you for so pleasant a correspondence. I should have written a postal, but LAURA wished me to enclose 50 cents for

THE ACADEMY. I think her time has been out a good while, but she has been so busy with her school work she quite forgot it.

Sincerely yours,
LENA M. LESLIE.

Concord, N. C.

--MATTIE FAIN writes as follows :

I spent last August and September in one of the best business colleges in Atlanta, and feel better prepared for work by the practice I there had, and am eager to put into use the new ideas gained.

LIDA is teaching music in the academy at Madisonville, Tenn. KITTIE and ANNE SWANN are at home, and OLLIE is pursuing her musical studies in the college at Rogersville. I trust little John has not forgotten me, though he can scarcely be called little any more, shorn of his curls and put into trousers he must feel himself quite a man.

Sincerely yours,
MATTIE G. FAIN.

Mossy Creek, Tenn.

--MAGGIE McDOWELL, a member of the first Senior Class of the ACADEMY, writes as follows :

The greatest joy that ever came into my life, the home that gave an impetus to all my after joys and aspirations, was the joy of being a "Salem" girl, which dear Mr. GRUNERT, of sainted memory, put into the power of a precious brother to give me. For 10 years after graduating at Salem, in 1878, I was in the school room, with "Salem and Brother" inscribed on my shield with "Gott mit uns." Colleges, graded schools and normal work will all testify to my efforts. I have the gratification of knowing that I made my brother's heart happy, and that directly and indirectly my influence has caused many of my pupils to enjoy the good that Salem must do to any open heart and mind. ETHEL WEAVER, MARY GOOLSBY, and LIZZIE and AMY BURSON were all pupils of mine.

I claim the right of a Salem girl by inheritance, and hope to bequeath it to my little 6 months old Louise. My grandmother, POLLY LEWIS McDOWELL was one of the early pupils of Salem, in 1807, and I think there have been descendants of the Lewis, Taliaferro and McDowell families there ever since. My precious brother lived a life of self-abnegation for his loved ones, and after making our hearts so happy, this last Christmastide, he went to the Better Land, leaving a life insurance policy for the education of my little Louise at Salem.

Will not THE ACADEMY print the roll, of the Class of '78? How I wish this, the first class to receive diplomas, could have a reunion soon. I occasionally see Mrs. ROSS (SALLIE BARBER), Mrs. HUDSON (BETTIE GRIER), MAUD MCGINNIS and her aunt, Mrs. CHAS. MCGINNIS (LIZZIE FITZPATRICK).

My best love to Miss LEHMAN, the Misses SHAFFNER, Miss VOGLER, dear Dr. RONDTHALER, and my classmate, ANNIE PITTMAN. I should be glad to have any of you call at "The Manse," 12 miles from Charlotte, and if any of you are that near us will meet you and bring you out to our pretty home. I loved them all and pray for them every day. My love to Prof. WURRESCHKE's family: he was good to me.

Mrs. McD. SILER.

Davenport, N. C.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The Davis School Cadets were present at the two entertainments given by the Euterpean and Hesperian Societies. They were appreciative auditors.

—We have received a copy of the rules of the Friedberg congregation, at which Rev. Jas. E. Hall, one of our Trustees, is stationed.

—The Rev. Samuel Woosley, Miss Alpha Woosley's father, has been ill for some time, and has not been able to attend to his congregations. We wish him a speedy return to health.

—Mrs. Mercer, of Wilson, N. C., Miss MAMIE's mother, paid us a visit some weeks since, and spent several days in Salem. We were pleased to accord her a welcome to our community and school home.

—We have received a copy of the Report of the Society for Propagating the Gospel Among the Heathen. This Society has an income of some $10,000 per year, and does much good for the cause of Christ among the Heathen.

—Prof. W. A. Blair delivered a fine lecture before the members of the Young Men's Christian Association in the ACADEMY Chapel about the middle of March. The lecture was highly enjoyed, as is always the case with the efforts of this talented gentleman.

The Mirror, one of our most valued exchanges, is a bright and interesting reflector of the life in the Bethlehem Female Seminary. The first article in the March number gives a pleasing account of the founding of the Seminary 146 years ago, the pioneer of the cause of female education in the North as SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY was in the South.

—We recently had a very pleasing visit from several missionaries who were on their way from Germany to Central America. They were the Rev. and Mrs. Ziock and Rev. and Mrs. Schubert. After spending several days with us, inspecting the school, churches and towns, a missionary lovefeast was held in the Home church, at which a very fine programme of music was rendered, stirring addresses were made, and a collection taken up for Mission cause. We regret that we have not sufficient space to give a longer account of the visit of these worthy and able men in our midst.

—The Cooking Club has become one of the most successful organizations of the school-year. Under the direction of Miss WOLLE it meets once a week, and all are warm in their praises of it. THE ACADEMY has always strongly advocated this step, and now that it has been so successfully started we believe it will become a permanent thing in the future. Perhaps some one of the members will favor us with an account of one of the meetings, or a summary of the work thus far accomplished. The following is a list of the ladies who have attended the Club meetings: Director—Miss GRACE WOLLE; Members—Mrs. Bitting, Mrs. Gorrell, Mrs. M. Patterson, Mrs. L. Patterson, Mrs. E. Starbuck, Mrs. H. Starbuck, Mrs. Goslen, Mrs. H. Vogler, Mrs. D. Ebert, Mrs. Shelton, Mrs. Shaffner, Mrs. Buxton, Mrs. Vaughn, Mrs. Clinard, Mrs. Rondthaler, Mrs. Riggans, Mrs. F. H. Fries and Mrs. Clewell. Possibly one or two more ladies were present, but we failed to secure the names. Our best wishes go with the Club.

—During the latter part of March an Historical Society was organized in the Moravian Chapel. The object of the organization is to collect and preserve historical relics; also historical facts and have the same printed, and, in general, the Society will endeavor to fill a long felt want in our community, which is so rich in historical material, but which has thus far not given the gathering and preservation of it as much attention as was due the subject.

The officers elected were:

President—Hy. F. Shaffner.

Vice Presidents—Bishop E. Rondthaler. Dr. Bahnson, Rev. Jas. E. Hall, J. T. Lineback, Miss E. A. Lehman and Miss Gertrude Siewers.

Corresponding Secretary—Miss Adelaide L. Fries.

Recording Secretary—B. J. Pfohl.

Treasurer—H. A. Pfohl.

Librarian—W. S. Pfohl.

The officers named above, together with Rev. J. H. Clewell, Misses Maria Vogler, Addie Lineback, Louisa Shaffner and Mr. C. E. Crist compose the Executive Committee.

Personal.

—We were very sorry to hear of the death of KATE and BESSIE BROOKE's mother, on March 10, at Sutherlin, Pittsylvania Co., Va. She was the wife of Dr. T. V. Brooke and daughter of the late George W. Dossell, of Hanover Co., Va. Her obituary notice says: "She was never excelled in virtue or in any of those endearing qualities which made her an affectionate wife and devoted mother."

—In the February number of THE ACADEMY we gave a brief notice of the death of Mrs. Dr. Richard H. Speight, better known among us as MAGGIE POWELL, and remembered as a lovely Christian pupil, faithful in her duties and esteemed by all. We quote from an obituary sent us: "She had been a member of the M. P. Church for many years. She combined all that adorn the character of woman. They were exemplified by her unselfish consideration for others, by her generous hospitality, by her frank and cordial gentleness of manner, by her devotion to her duties, by her kindness to the poor, and by her piety. She bore her sufferings with uncomplaining patience and fortitude, but for the most part in silence, till her emancipated soul entered into eternal Rest."

Married.

KAPP—RIGGS.—On March 6, Mr. EUGENE T. KAPP, of Bethania, N. C., to Miss CARRIE RIGGS, of Winston, N. C. Our best wishes attend them in their married life.

PRES-COTT—HUNNICUTT.—On April 10, in Atlanta, Ga., Mr. WILLIAM ROULHAC PRES-COTT to Miss SALLIE FANNIE HUNNICUTT, daughter of C. W. Hunnicutt, Esq.

Died.

In Salem, N. C., on April 4th, Mrs. J. F. McCuiston.

We sympathize deeply with Rev. J. F. McCuiston, one of our most successful and energetic young ministers, in the death of his wife. She was perhaps better known to our Alumnae as Miss Laura Masten, for, before her marriage, she lived in the Sister's House for some years, and was more or less well known in the ACADEMY. Gone in the very prime of her strength and usefulness, at the age of 36 years, with every tie to bind her to life, an earnest Christian worker, a devoted wife and mother, with two little boys still too young to realize their great loss, we can only bow in submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well. We know that though now we see through a glass darkly yet in the clearer light of an eternal day many things which appear dark and mysterious will be unfolded to us as the leadings of Infinite Love; we shall see that length of days is not always the sweetest gift our Father sends, for oftentimes "He giveth his beloved sleep."

Subscriptions Received.

Mrs Wm C Hamner, Asheboro, N C; Miss Mattie B Cooper, Statesville, N C; Mrs J S Jones, Raleigh, N C; Miss Susie Wright, Lewisville, N C; Mrs J A Hadley, La Grange, N C; Mrs Florence Gaither, Mocksville, N C; Mrs A B Gorrell, Mrs Delia Blackburn Hanner, Winston, N C; Mrs Roxie Armfield King, Greensboro, N C; Miss Laura Leslie, Concord, N C; Mrs Allen D Morris, Shreveport, La; Mrs M E Gardner, Springfield, Mo; Mrs C W Kellinger, Norfolk, Va; Mrs Thos Holt, Haw River, N C; Miss Maggie Spencer, Spencer, Va; Miss K W Evans, New York, N Y; Mrs L B Winkler, Mrs H T Bahnsen, A C Vogler & Son, H W Shore, Mrs C S Hauser, Mrs Dora Ehert, Salem, N C; Miss Mary Miller, Goldsboro, N C; Misses A and K Ollinger, Milton, Fla; Mrs W C Wright, Columbia, S C; Mrs Maggie Wester Erwin, Chattanooga, Tenn; Miss Florence Cummings, Aspen Grove, N C.

A FORM FOR BEQUESTS.

For the information of any one who may desire to leave a bequest to the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, we give the proper form for same:

"I give and bequeath unto the Board of Trustees of SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY, Salem, North Carolina, incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina in 1866, the sum of—Dollars, to be used for the cause of education in said Institution."

If it is desired to apply the money for some specific cause, the same should be stated. The causes which appear more directly for support of this kind are:

1. The cause of Education in general.
2. Aid to be given to worthy but needy pupils.
3. Scholarship Endowment Fund being raised by the Alumnae Association.
4. Memorial buildings, as Chapel, Music Hall, &c.
5. The Special Departments, as Library, Art, Music, &c.

EMPIRE GLASS AND DECORATION COMPANY.
Designers and Manufacturers of Lead and Art Glass Decorations, Bevelled Plate, Chipped and Interior Decorations. JOS. F. GATINS, President, J. D. HARRIS, Secretary and Treasurer, Atlanta, Ga. February, 1895--1 year.

G. A. ANDROVETTE & CO., Chicago. Domestic and Ecclesiastical Stained Glass. Eastern Representative, J. F. BLANCHARD, Syracuse, N. Y. February, 1895--1 year.

The Best Text Books in English.

- HILL'S Principles of English. (New edition in press.)
- HILL'S Foundations of Rhetoric.
- ROBERTSON'S History of English Literature.
- ROLFE'S Edition of Shakespeare. 40 Volumes.
- ROLFE'S English Classics. 7 Vols.
- ROLFE'S Select English. 6 Vols.
- HARPER'S School Classics. 36 Vols.
- SWINTON'S Studies in English Literature.
- PHILLIP'S Manual of English Literature.
- JOHNSON'S English Words.
- FOWLER'S English Grammar.

Prices, Circulars and Information on Application.

Address,

HARPER & BROTHERS,
PUBLISHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School for Boys.
FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken. Terms $295 per annum. The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1897. REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

HOTEL JONES,

J. L. JONES, late of Jones House, Proprietor.
WINSTON, N. C.

All modern conveniences provided. Electric lights and bells. Table abundantly supplied with the very best that the market affords. We are anxious to please.

RATES, $2.00 PER DAY.

At Depot ask for Hotel Jones' Bus.
Reference: Salem Female Academy
May 1894.

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE,

On Car Line, near Academy, Main St.

Netting in the midst of the old historic part of Salem, a stroll along the well shaded street will lead you to the Store, where you will find a good assortment of

BOOKS, STATIONERY AND FANCY GOODS.

Call and see us or write to

L. V. & E. T. BLUM, Salem, N. C.

Our Specialties:

STERLING SILVERWARE

FINE WATCHES,

DIAMONDS,

We have everything else kept in a first-class Jewelry Store.

Special attention paid to mail orders.

Fine Repairing and Engraving.

Very Respectfully,

W. T. Vogler & Son,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY

THE GREAT TRUNK LINE
AND U. S. MAIL ROUTE

BETWEEN THE
NORTH, SOUTH, EAST AND WEST.

Operates Three Passenger Trains Daily
— TO —

WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND POINTS EAST.

Three Passenger Trains Daily for

ATLANTA, BIRMINGHAM, MEMPHIS, CHAT TANOOGA, MONTGOMERY, MOBILE, NEW ORLEANS, and Points South and West.

THE SHORT LINE TO FLORIDA,

Through Trains and Pullman Palace Sleeping cars to Columbia, Augusta, Savannah, Jacksonville and Tampa without change.

The Washington and South-Western Vestibuled LIMITED.

This train is composed entirely of Pullman Palace, Drawing Room, Sleeping and Dining Cars.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY

is the direct line between

WINSTON-SALEM

and above points.

For rates, tickets, time-tables, &c., call on any agent Southern Railway, or W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent; CHAS. L. HOPKINS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Charlotte, N. C. S. H. HARDWICK, Asst. Gen. Agent, Atlanta, Ga. W. H. GREEN, General Manager (Eastern System); J. M. CULP, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.

A SURE CURE FOR

DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Take a half hour dose of Bicycling two to three times a day. It is pleasant medicine.

Bicycles for Sale and Rent by

SENSEMAN & BRICKENSTEIN,

SALEM, N. C.

June, 1894.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway
 JOHN GILL, Receiver.
 in connection with the
 Norfolk & Western R. R.,
 via Walnut Cove.
 Atlantic Coast Line,
 via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH
 between
WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to

J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
 Gen. Sup't. Gen. Pass. Agt.,
 Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.
 E. B. KEARNS, Agt. N. & W. R. R.,
 Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western Railroad.
 THE SHORT BEST AND QUICK ROUTE

TO
Winston-Salem, N. C.,
 FROM

Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi,
 Georgia, Tennessee and all Southern Points.

PULLMAN VESTIBULED SLEEPERS

from Memphis and New Orleans to Roanoke, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Patrons of Salem Female Academy will have only one change of Cars at Roanoke, Va., FROM THE NORTH AND EAST, Pullman Vestibuled Sleepers daily from New York and Washington via Royal Blue Line and Shenandoah Valley Route to Roanoke, Va., where connection is made for Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond and Norfolk.

Sleeping Car Reservation and reliable information furnished.

Write or see one of the following agents before purchasing your tickets.

W. L. ROHR, Western Pass. Agent,
 Reed House, Chattanooga, Tenn.
 W. B. BEVILL, M. F. BRAGG,
 Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
 ROANOKE, VA.

line 1812-11

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price
 The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,
THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

PATENTS
 CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
 COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.
 Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

January 1895. 11.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.

Respectfully direct attention to their
 NEW AND MAGNIFICENT LINE OF

FALL AND WINTER
 DRESS GOODS.

in all the latest styles of

IMPORTED AND DOMESTIC FABRICS.

BOTH IN SILKS AND WOOLENS.

With a full assortment of TRIMMINGS to match.

Corsets! Corsets!

We have just received a complete line of Corsets and Corset Waists, among which are the celebrated C. J. B and Dr. Warner's Corsets, and Ferris Bros.' Waists for Ladies and Misses.

CLOAKS AND CAPES.

In this department we have just received the handsomest line of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Cloaks EVER SHOWN, at prices which will suit the present times.

REMEMBER THAT WE ARE SOLE AGENTS FOR

The Navy Blue Cloth,

used by the young ladies of the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY for Calisthenic Suits, Price, $1.10 per yard.

SHOES! SHOES! SHOES!

Largest line of Shoes in the largest Shoe Store in Winston. E. P. REED & CO.'S Fine Shoes a Specialty.

Very Respectfully,

ROSENBACHER & BRO.,
WINSTON, N. C.

May, 1894.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING
 OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

BOX & CONTENTS 3.25
 SKETCHING UMBRELLA 57c
 SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
 SKETCHING STOOL .50

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

A. SUSSMANN 232 6th Avenue, N.Y.

READ!

The S. F. A. ALUMNÆ, their friends and all others will find at

S. E. ALLEN'S,

Hardware & Crockery Store,
 Winston, N. C.,

many useful Decorative, Household and Parlor
 Furnishing Goods of the latest designs.

Also a complete assortment of Tinware, Glassware, Stoves and Holloware, and Hardware for the Mechanic, Farmer, Contractor, Merchant and all others at prices to induce sales.

Call and examine or write for prices.

June, 1894-11.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeons. Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address
DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793.

1894

BINGHAM SCHOOL,
FOR BOYS.

Established in 1793.

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESI-DENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF
 THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from prominent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANI-TATION are the BEST IN THE SOUTH,
 and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-
 the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,- 000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogue giving full particulars, address

Maj. R. BINGHAM,

Superintendent.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,

Hot and Cold Baths.

Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

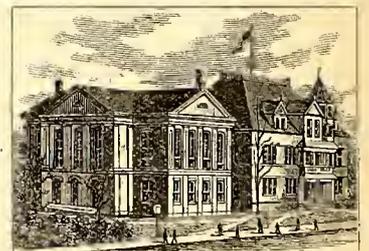

Session begins September 4.

Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,

Principals.

June 1892-11

OAK RIDGE INSTITUTE
 OAK RIDGE, N. C.

J. A. & M. H. HOLT, Principals.

The most elegantly equipped Classical, Scientific and Commercial School in the South.

Young Men and Boys.

8th session begins August 21st.

Send for Catalogue.

June '94-11.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVII.

SALEM, N. C., MAY, 1895.

NUMBER 157.

1802 - 1895.

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY,

SALEM, N. C.

The Oldest Female College in the South.

Register for last year, 1893-1894, was 345. Special features: — the Development of Health, Character and Intellect. Buildings thoroughly remodelled. Fully equipped Preparatory, Collegiate and Post Graduate Departments, besides first-class schools in Music, Art, Languages, Elocution, Commercial and Industrial Studies. For Catalogue or special information address,

JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal.

The Reidsville Local Alumnae Association.

EVEN a passing glance will show to any one familiar with the affairs of the school that the present year is pre-eminently an Alumnae year, that is, the remarkable work of the Alumnae is the chief feature out of the ordinary beaten path of the history of the year. This appears in the various clubs and committees which have been organized, and which bring scores of former pupils as students once more within the school home; their Scholarship Fund will be brought to that point toward which every effort has been tending for several years, when its interest will be available; the beautiful Vance window emphasizes the memorial idea in a striking manner; the preparations for Commencement will be strengthened and enriched by their efforts,—hence, for these and other reasons we say that the Alumnae influence is one of the marked features of the year. This being the case, it is with peculiar pleasure that we give the following sketch of an occasion which will probably mark an epoch in the history of the relation of the Alumnae to their Alma Mater. For, while the direct object of the Reidsville local association is not one which connects it with the school and its work, the indirect influence of the closer friendship which will naturally follow must result in good for the school as well as in pleasure for the members of the local association. But we will tell the story of the experiences of the day.

Invitations had been sent out to all of the former pupils of Salem, 40 or more in number, to meet at Mrs Penn's home on Tuesday afternoon, April 30. Miss Lou Shaffner and Mr. Clewell had been invited and they left Salem for Reidsville Monday evening. The weather was unfavorable in the extreme as rain had fallen for several days, and was falling on the day appointed for the organization. Still a large company gathered at the appointed time.

The names of those present were: Mrs. H. K. Reid, Mrs. D. S. Reid, Mrs. Wm. Staples, Mrs. Wooten, Mrs. F. R. Penn, Mrs. J. G. Staples, Mrs. Dr. Mills, Mrs. Trip Richardson, Miss Nettie Reid, Miss Kitty May Penn, Miss Annie Staples, Miss Bert Lindsay, Miss Edna Lindsay, Miss Annie Sloan, Miss Anna Withers, Miss Maud Harris, Miss Blanch Harris, Miss Genie Nunnally, Miss Whitsett, Miss Rena Vickers, Mrs. Cotton, Miss Sallie Boyd, Miss Shaffner and Mr. Clewell. Upon examination it was found that three of these had entered school under Mr. Jacobson's administration, one with Mr. Bleck, three with Mr. R. deSchweinitz, four with Mr. Grunert, one with Mr. Zorn, six with Mr. Rondthaler, and five with Mr. Clewell. The meeting was called to order and a temporary organization effected by calling Mrs. Trip Richardson to the chair, and by electing Miss Kitty May Penn Secretary. Mr. Clewell was then called upon to explain the object of the meeting, which he did in a short address, showing that the real object of a local association was the renewing of old school days, the binding together of present friendships, the securing of information of social and refined intellectual pleasures in the community in which the society is situated. As soldiers meet at times in reunions to discuss the experiences of the war, so around the "camp-fire" of social reunions all the Alumnae of a section will gather from time to time and renew the memories of school days. When Mr. Clewell had concluded his remarks Mrs. H. K. Reid was called upon to read a paper which she had prepared for the occasion. The paper was read in a clear, distinct voice and was listened to with profound attention. Mrs. Reid's paper was as follows:

"With a view to an organization of our local Alumnae Society, I, as one of the oldest students, am requested to say something of dear Salem in the olden time. You, my younger sisters, could not recognize the Salem of my day as the Salem of your day. A long vista, indeed, looking back from 1895 to 1844—51 years! As we look down this long line of years tender memories throng, like half forgotten dreams, or half-remembered strains of sweet music in the long, long ago. Could I paint a picture standing at each end of this long avenue of time the contrast would be startling! Salem as it was then, 1844, and I a girl of 17 at the dear old school,—Salem as it is now, 1895, with all its modern improvements, and I an aged pilgrim of three score years and eight. But it is not with this picture that I have to deal, only in so much as it may be a witness of the past, and prove a connecting link with Now and Then.

"Dear old Salem, and thy honored Faculty, together with the beloved friends and companions of my girlhood, 'tis of thee I would speak! Noble Alma Mater of so many accomplished, useful Christian women! No institution of the South can boast a brighter galaxy! Her influence is felt and honored throughout the length and breadth of our fair land. Built on a solid foundation—Christ the Rock,—conducted by learned, consecrated men and women, she cannot fail, but is steadily going on, strengthening as the years roll by, and appropriating to herself all the good that can be gathered from the advanced methods for intellectual, moral and physical culture. No institution in our land keeps better up with the progress of the day than Salem Female Academy. Oh, that I could wield the "pen of a ready writer" and pay the tribute my heart so truly feels to the respected and beloved Principals of my day, first, Mr. Jacobson, then Mr. Bleck. Nor would I forget their estimable wives, nor my two dear teachers in the first room, Miss Stauber and Miss Belo, together with kind Mrs. Denke, my teacher in the Select Class. Most of these have passed away, but "their works do follow them." They are not dead! They cannot die! Oh, the long list of dear, faithful teachers! and the bright array of glad, youthful faces that memory recalls!

"51 years ago! How changed the scene! Dear as was the Salem of my girlhood I am proud of the Salem of today. Glad to welcome in our social band its worthy Principal and the other member of the Faculty, who have kindly come to help us in our organization. We extend to you an earnest, cordial greeting! You find us here together, old and young, the representatives of several generations. We want to be more united to each other, that we may work heart and hand for good. We want to renew our vows of allegiance to our dear Alma Mater, with the earnest wish that in the future as in the past, as each worthy Principal passes from his labors, his mantle may fall on others as worthy and as beloved as those who have worn it in the past. That each responsible post may ever be filled as honorably in the time to come as in the days gone by. Go on, noble Mother, wisely training your children for the great duties of life, and as they leave thy portals may they go forward, seeking nothing less than glory, honor and eternal life."

After the reading the paper some time was spent in social discussion of the organization, when the election of officers was entered upon for the next twelve months. The election was by ballot and resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. H. K. Reid.

Vice Presidents—Mrs. Penn, Mrs. Whitsett and Mrs. Walker.

Secretary—Miss Kittie May Penn.

At this juncture Mrs. Penn, the genial hostess at whose house the meeting was held, broke into the regular order of exercises by serving the guests with refreshments. These attentions, of course, added to the already strong flow of social pleasure, and proved to be a gracefully planned and successful feature of the afternoon. When the refreshments had been concluded the regular work of the afternoon was resumed, and it was proposed to send a large delegation to the general meeting of the Alumnae Society at Commencement.

The following ten were appointed for this purpose: Mrs. Wooten, Miss Penn, Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Richardson, Miss E. Lindsey, Miss A. Sloan, Miss Genie Nunnally, Mrs. Whitsett and Miss Vickers. In addition to this the President, Mrs. H. K. Reid, was requested to prepare a paper to be read at the general Alumnae meeting. It was also decided to hold meetings of the Reidsville local Alumnae Society twice a year, once in April and once in October. In addition to this meetings will be called by the President as often as circumstances may decide. Provisions were made for the preparation of a brief constitution and it was found that the time had arrived to close the meeting. Mr. Clewell was requested to offer a prayer, invoking the divine blessing on the organization, and the meeting, on motion, adjourned.

Even then the friends seemed loath to depart, the spirit of the occasion was so friendly and congenial. As the company lingered a moment on the front porch of the home where the organization took place, and around them was the fresh green of early Spring on well trimmed lawn and clustering trees, all expressed themselves as delighted with the results of the afternoon.

While this is the first meeting of the first local Alumnae Association, the pleasure of the occasion was so great that we predict many similar gatherings and also many similar organizations in other cities and towns in the future.

The Twin-Sisters.

THE rendering of this Operetta by members of Miss TRACY's vocal class had been looked forward to with much interest. It had been rendered a number of times during the past 33 years, and aside from the impression of the play itself it recalled many pleasing and also many sad memories to the audience. Miss TRACY always does her work well, and this play was no exception. She deserves great credit for the faithful and painstaking manner in which the pupils were drilled, and also for the laudable manner in which the proceeds were applied, viz: to enlarge the Alumnae Scholarship Fund by $82, or, including last year's gift, by more than $200. We were much pleased to see Prof. E. W. Lineback, who gave the play years ago, actively interested for days before the dates of the Concert. The parts of the twin sisters were taken by Miss GERTRUDE ROBBINS and Miss LIZZIE TAYLOR, and well did they perform their difficult task. Miss AMY VAN VLECK is inseparably connected with our ideas of careful and sympathetic accompaniments, and the beautiful stage decorations could not well have been prepared, as they were, by any one save Mr. FROHL. The drills were fine, the May Day girls natural and attractive, the gipsies elicited applause, in fact, the entire programme was finely rendered throughout, giving much pleasure to the audience, and adding a fine sum to the worthy cause alluded to above.

The following is the plot and the names of those taking part:

SYNOPSIS.

SCENE 1.—A merry May-day party is gathered in the woods. Mab Stanley is chosen Queen. Instead of being happy and light-hearted on this joyous occasion, she laments the fact that the throne which once held two happy sisters now has but one to occupy it. The solo, "O sister, dear," expresses her longing for the lost one. A dialogue between three of the girls explains that Florence Stanley, Mab's sister, was stolen years ago by a band of gipsies. The May-day party engage in a wand drill, just to remind themselves of "school days," and then withdraw from that portion of the forest.

SCENE 2 introduces a party of gipsies, who, with tambourines and other musical instruments, take possession of the spot recently occupied by the May-day party. Preciosa, at the request of her companions, sings a song which, they declare, makes them sad. Hence, to cheer their spirits they all join in their favorite chorus, "Who would not be a gypsy?" They engage in a gypsy drill, and, upon learning that Esmeralda, the stolen child, had escaped from her captors, all depart from the scene.

SCENE 3 introduces Esmeralda, who is overcome by the thought that once more she is free, and will soon be with her father, mother and sister. While thus soliloquizing she is interrupted by the return of the May-day party. They mistake Florence Stanley for a wandering minstrel. She pleads for sympathy. All gather pityingly about her. Mab is deeply stirred by the voice, and finally recognizes her long lost sister as Esmeralda throws off her disguise. Amid great rejoicing both sisters are crowned May Queens and are once more united on the May Day throne.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ.

Mab Stanley, May Queen elect, Miss E. TAYLOR.
 Florence Stanley (Esmeralda), Miss G. ROBBINS.
 Twin-Sisters.
 Corinna,.....Miss PAMELIA GOODMAN.
 Anna,.....Miss CARRIE CURTIS.
 Mary,.....Miss DOVIE CHEDESTER.
 Schoolmates.
 Preciosa,.....Miss BLANCHE ROBBINS.
 First Gypsy.....Miss LEAH CHIAFFIN.
 Second Gypsy.....Miss SALLIE BONNER.
 Maids of Honor, Misses CARRIE CURTIS, MAMIE JOHNSTON, FLORENCE GLENN and ADA SLEDGE.
 First School Girl.....Miss FLORENCE GLENN.
 Second School Girl.....Miss MAMIE JOHNSTON.
 Names of all taking part—Misses SALLIE ADAMS, SALLIE BONNER, LEAH CHIAFFIN, BESSIE CROMER, CARRIE CURTIS, JENNIE CROUCH, DOVIE CHEDESTER, ELLA FULMORE, FLORENCE GLENN, PAMELIA GOODMAN, ROSA HARRISON, SALLIE HANNA, KATE HORNE, MAMIE JOHNSTON, JULIA JONES, ELLA LEHMAN, MAY MOORE, LEONARD PITTS, MAGGIE ROBERTSON, GERTRUDE ROBBINS, BLANCHE ROBBINS, RUBY RANDLE, ADA SLEDGE and ELIZ. TAYLOR.
 Miss A. C. TRACY, Director.
 Miss AMY VAN VLECK, Accompanist.
 Overture composed by Prof. E. W. Lineback.

Recitals of the Month.

THERE have been four recitals since our last issue, the first two by pupils of the Elocution Department, under the direction of Miss RICHARDSON and Miss SCRIBER, and the last two by pupils of the Music Department, under the direction of Miss VEST and the Misses AMY and LOU VAN VLECK

- 1 The Bridge-Keeper's Story.....Anon.
ADDIE ALEXANDER.
- 2 Aunty Doleful's Visit.....Mary Kyle Dallas.
ELLEN EBERT.
- 3 Skimpsey.....Alfred Stoddard.
KATE BELL.
- 4 Sister Sue's Wedding.....Anon.
GLADYS CLARK.
- 5 The Whistling Regiment.....Jas. C. Harvey.
NETTIE ALLEN.
- 6 The Bewitched Clock.....Anon
LOTTIE THORNTON.
- 7 The Swan Song.....Katherine Ritter Brooks.
ANNIE LINDSAV.
- 8 Miss Huldah's Offer.....From Edgewood Folks.
MAMIE MERCER.

1. The Fall of the Pemberton Mill,
Elizabeth Stuart Phelps.
MISS WINKLER.
2. Der Dog und der Lobster.....Saul Seretrew.
MISS WINKLER.
3. Surly Tim's Trouble,
Frances Hodgson Burnett.
MISS GROGAN.
4. So was I.....Joseph B. Smiley.
MISS GROGAN.
5. Casket Scene (from "Merchant of Venice").
William Shakespeare.
MISS WINKLER.
6. The Fate of Zoroaster (from "Zoroaster").
F. Marion Crawford.
MISS GROGAN.
7. Aunt Patience's Doughnuts... Anon.
MISS WINKLER.
8. The Facial Family.....Anon.
MISS GROGAN.

- Concone.....The Witches' Dance.
MISS VALESCA STEFFAN.
- II. Ryder.....The Brooklet.
MISS PEARL ADDISON.
- Anon.....The Stolen Custard.
MISS MATTIE PIERCE.
- Bachmann.....Les Clochettes. Mazurka.
MISS ANNIE LINDSEY.
- Beethoven.....Turkish March.
1st Piano—Misses BESSIE WATKINS,
ADDISON.
2d Piano—Misses ANNIE LICHTENTHALER,
MARV CLINARD.
- Anon.....Dot and Her Dolly.
MISS BESSIE HARRIS.
- Latour.....Over the Spray. Barcarolle.
MISS MARV BAILEV.
- Lavalec.....The Butterfly. Etude.
MISS LEE BECKHAM.
- Anon.....The Little Boy Who Ran Away.
MISS PEARL ADDISON.
- Morley.....Blue Bells. Idylle.
MISS BESSIE WATKINS.
- a. Concone, } .....La Ronde des Archers.
b. Gurfill, } .....Galop Burlesque. Op. 22, No. 6.
MISS MARY JONES.

Hunten....Invitation a la Danse. Rondo Brillante.
1st Piano—Miss LEE BECKHAM.
2d Piano—Miss VALESCA STEFFAN.

Lablzy.....Military Galop.
Misses ANNIE and RUBY SATTERFIELD.
S. Smith.....L'Argentine Mazurka.
MISS AGNES JOHNSTON.

Gow.....a. Boat Song.
Woodman.....b. Blue Violets.
MISS SALLIE BONNER.

Chenet.....Guitar Duo. Gipsy Schottische.
Misses FLORENCE GLENN and ALMA CHAFFIN.
Scharwenka.....Capriccietto.
MISS KATE McILHENNV.

A. Thomas.....Gavotte. Mignon.
Misses JULIA JONES and SALLIE BONNER.
Anon.....The Setting Hen.
MISS KATHERINE HANES.

Faust.....Hunter's March.
MISS MAGGIE McEACHERN.

Weber.....Transcription Oberon.
MISS MAUDE CHEEK.

Palestrina.....Crucifixus.
Misses GERTRUDE and BLANCHE ROBBINS.
" MAMIE PETERSON and JENNIE CROUCH.
" LEONARD PITTS and ELLA LEHMAN.
MISS LILIAN GOSLING and Mrs. W. PETERSON.
Flotow.....Overture to Stradella.
Misses NOLIE McEACHERN and MAGGIE ROBERTSON.

Easter.

THE Easter season in the ACADEMY is always an occasion filled with interest, solemnity and profit. Beginning with Palm Sunday, with the church decorations of palms (a dozen or more varieties), with its solemn service when nearly two score persons made profession of religion, its music and the beginning of the reading of the Easter Manual, as the Scripture account of the last days of Christ on earth is called, —these experiences were the beginning of what was a very blessed and happy season. The services on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings were well attended. Recitations closed in the school Thursday noon. A large number of the pupils communed on Maunday Thursday evening Good Friday was as impressive as usual, as the account of the crucifixion was read, and the solemn and beautiful music accompanied the same. Saturday (Great Sabbath) the girls all attended the lovefeast. Easter Sunday morning strains of sweet music awoke the town "while it was yet early," and the early rising of the pupils was to them the realization of the long expected experience. Alas! when soon after four o'clock the curtains were drawn aside, it appeared to the disappointment of many that it was raining. The hasty breakfast was eaten, and at the given signal all repaired to the church where the first portion of the Easter morning service was prayed. By the time this was finished word was sent to Bishop RONDTHALER that the shower was over, and the company formed a procession in front of the church, slowly and reverently passing to the graveyard, where the praying of the litany was continued.

Seldom is it the privilege of any one to witness a more impressive and beautiful scene than this. The 2000 or 3000 persons disposed in the walks of the sacred spot, the sun rising and casting its light through the trees, the sword upon the graves never fresher and greener than on that Easter morning, the birds singing their early carols, the music of the instruments, the songs of the congregation, the voice of the leader as he read the sacred sentences, and the solemn responses by the people, all formed a scene that will linger long in the memory.

The morning sermon was attended by a great throng and the glad triumphant resurrection hymns went upward as a fit offering on the happy occasion, while the sweet perfume of the floral decorations gave pleasure to all. No wonder letters from old pupils always love to speak of Easter; no wonder memory dwells on the celebration as well as on the occasion itself. Few experiences are like those of the Easter of '95.

—The annual complimentary suppers tendered the members of the Faculty by Mr. and Mrs. CLEWELL at the Principal's house were occasions of unusual interest this year. The companies of 20 each gathered about the board at six o'clock, and partook of the various courses so bountifully provided. We forbear to give the menu but cannot refrain from alluding to the beautiful floral decorations, which consisted of a large bank of pink carnations in the center and carnations at each guest's place. Smilax, which can be so tastily used on occasions like this, also added its charms, and these in connection with the beautiful tints from the shades employed to soften the lights, made the scene a very beautiful one. This annual gathering, which brings together a Faculty as large as the number of pupils in many a school, is an enjoyable one, and is calculated to arouse a just pride in the strength of the Institution. We may add that Mrs. CLEWELL certainly has become famous as an ideal hostess.

—A unique and interesting concert was given by a number of the little folks of the town for the benefit of the Elm Street Sunday School. It was the famous Brownie Concert. The work was under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Ebert, Mrs. C. B. Pfohl and others, and some 30 or 40 of the little boys and girls of the town took part. Large crowds greeted the performances, the costumes and the acting were both good and the funds of the Sunday School increased about $100.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., MAY, 1895.

*Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at
Salem, N. C.*

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers
constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable
in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents.
Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

Commencement Announcement.

The programme for Commencement is as follows :

Saturday, May 25th, Opening Concert,
7:45 P. M.

Sunday, May 26th, Baccalaureate Sermon,
by the Rt. Rev. J. B. CHESHIRE, D.D.,
11 A. M. Evening service by the Rt.
Rev. E. RONDTHALER, D.D., 7:30 P. M.

Monday, May 27th, Seniors' First Evening, 7:45 P. M.

Tuesday, May 28th, Art Exhibit, 2-5 P. M.

Tuesday, May 28th, Seniors' Second Evening, 7:45 P. M.

Wednesday, May 29th, Class Reunions,
10 A. M.

Wednesday, May 29, Alumnae Meeting, with Presentation of the Vance Memorial Window by Hon. J. C. BUXTON,
3 P. M.

Wednesday, May 29th, Grand Concert,
7:45 P. M.

Thursday, May 30th, Commencement,
JAMES BECK, Esq., Orator, 9 A. M.

Friends from town and from elsewhere will bear in mind that Commencement always brings with it immense companies, and the happiness of the occasion is made or marred according to the manner in which the various occasions are governed. The following points if read and noted will assist in making the days pleasant and successful.

The evening exercises will begin at 15 minutes before 8, promptly at the striking of the clock. Guests are requested to be in the building before that hour, and are earnestly requested not to leave before the close of the programme. Carriages may be ordered for 9:30 o'clock Saturday evening, and for 10 o'clock Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Whispering, or intentional disturbance of the slightest nature, will be checked by the policemen in charge of the building. This notice is given because the standard of order varies in different places, and if our standard is announced in advance the large concourse of friends will be protected from the petty annoyance of some giddy, giggling company, who may not properly appreciate what we have spent so much time and effort to prepare for the audience.

The south side of the church will be reserved for patrons from home and abroad. But patrons must enter by the south door. and must not bring friends with them who are not patrons, since there is not sufficient room in the reserved space to more than accommodate the patrons.

Wednesday evening, the occasion of the Grand Concert, the crowd has been so great in the past that it has been impossible to provide for the comfort of interested persons. Hence, an admission fee of 25 cents was charged, and the proceeds turned over to the Alumnae Fund. This small sum was not sufficient to impose a burden on any one, but was enough to keep from the concert those who were not interested. The experiment was tried last year, it met with no adverse criticism, but gave to us one of the most successful concerts of recent years. The same rule will, therefore, effect this year's Grand Concert, Wednesday evening.

Hotel and Railroad Matters.

THE ACADEMY has always used every possible effort to secure reduced railroad rates to Commencement, and to provide comfortable accommodations for the friends who visit Salem during this season. We have been corresponding with the various parties who have been so kind and courteous in the past, and give below the results of the effort.

RAILROAD RATES.

Reduced Railroad rates have been secured on the Southern Railroad, Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad, on the Southern States Passenger Association Lines. The Norfolk & Western Railroad will be pleased to correspond with any parties who may wish to secure reduced rates. The following letters explain the matter :

"Referring to your letter of 13th inst., addressed to Mr. Chas. Buford, agent of this Company at Winston-Salem, I beg to hand you herewith copy of Associated Railways' Circular, No. 6436, authorizing reduced rates as per Tarif 1, Circular No. 5174, account Annual Commencement of Salem Female Academy, Winston-Salem, N. C., May 25, 1895, from points within the State of North Carolina. Tickets to be sold May 25 to 29 inclusive, final limit June 3, 1895.

"W. A. TURK, G. P. A."

The rates for round trip will be as follows from the points named, and from other points in the same proportion : Charlotte, $4.55 ; Raleigh, $4.10 ; Wilmington, $7.25, and so on.

From the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad we have the following :

"Replying to your esteemed favor of the 3d inst., we beg to say that we have issued reduced rates to Salem on account of your Commencement, tickets to be sold May 25 to 29 inclusive, final limit June 3.

"W. E. KYLE, G. P. A."

The Southern States Passenger Association has ordered the reduced rates over their lines, the parties to pay one full fare going, and one third returning. This will save quite a considerable sum to our more distant patrons. The following points must be carefully observed in order to secure the reduction :

1. Buy one first-class full-price ticket to Winston-Salem. Don't use mileage book or any other form of reduced ticket.

2. If your office is not a coupon office buy a ticket to the nearest coupon office and there re-purchase to Winston-Salem.

3. Do not fail to secure a certificate from the Agent to the effect that you have paid one full fare to Winston-Salem. If the agent refuses, or says "he don't know anything about it," as has been done in the past, still insist on the certificate, reporting the refusal to our office to be adjusted at the railroad headquarters. Agents must furnish these certificates on demand.

4. Buy tickets to Winston-Salem, not Greensboro or intermediate points.

5. Do not fail to present the certificate at ACADEMY office. When all these points have been attended to you can buy return tickets at 1c. per mile.

Note, please, that in North Carolina no certificates are needed,—you buy round-trip tickets. From points out of the State certificates with full fare one way are needed, and this secures return trip at 1c. per mile. Persons on the Norfolk & Westtern must apply to us, or the G. P. A. at Roanoke, Va., in advance, as no general rates have been made, but special needs will be attended to.

HOTELS.

The Jones House has been repainted and refurnished, and is a very popular house where you will be comfortable and well cared for. Price, $2.00 per day. See advertisement elsewhere.

The Hotel Phoenix is also a good house, on the west side of the Court House square.

The street cars pass each of these hotels and run through, without change, to the ACADEMY.

In addition to these hotels a number of private homes have been opened at prices ranging from $1.00 to $1.50 per day, according to the length of time spent in the towns. With these accommodations no one will be uncomfortably crowded. If you desire to engage places in private families write us at once, stating time of arrival and number in party. Special information will be cheerfully given.

—We call attention to the account of the organization of the Reidsville Local Alumnae Association as given on the first page of this issue. It is a new move, but one loaded with many pleasant possibilities, and one which ought to have a great many imitators during the next year. The primary object is not one which considers any special relation to the School and its work. That is the duty of other persons and other organizations. The object of this organization is to promote social life and preserve the pleasing remembrances of early school days. Nor does it require 40 or 50 former pupils to effect an organization. Where there are half a dozen in a town the same enjoyment can be had. We trust that the Reidsville friends may, in the words of Mr. Tapley, "come out strong" at the approaching general meeting, and that many friends from other places may follow the example of Reidsville's Alumnae. The best wishes of THE ACADEMY are extended to our friends of the new Local Association. Long may the organization flourish and great may the work be which it accomplishes.

—Parents are urged not to allow pupils to visit in town after the close of school. Our reasons for this requirement will be fully given if you desire them, and must always commend themselves to thoughtful parents.

Correspondence.

—Our first communication for the month is from an old and valued friend of years gone by, Miss LIZZIE BAHNSON, now Mrs. Capt. George Pond :

Will you kindly send me a Catalogue of the ACADEMY at your earliest convenience. Also, kindly tell me (if not mentioned in the Catalogue) what day next fall the School opens, and when it is most desirable to have the pupils there. Of course, coming from our cool Plattsburg summer the heat will be almost unbearable ; at the same time I know how desirable it is that all should begin the session together.

I shall be very much obliged for any information about the school, as, of course, there have been many changes since its routine was familiar to me. With very kind remembrances to Mrs. CLEWELL and GRACE; in which I feel like including all my dear friends at the ACADEMY,

Believe me, very cordially,

L. B. POND.

Plattsburg, N. Y.

—Our next brings us some sad news from ELLEN WELCKER, who writes as follows to Miss Vogler :

Your last letter if I remember correctly giving news of your mother's death came to me while I was in El Paso, Texas. I sent the letter which I prized very highly to Freddie, who was then living in California, and asked her to answer it, and express our sympathy to you. At that time I was travelling with my husband, hoping by changing climate his health might be restored. He was ill almost 3 years, and we spent most of the time in South-west Texas, at San Antonio, but he also tried Colorado and New Mexico, but while I think this travelling helped him, and he lived some longer, I brought him home to Knoxville in July, 1891, and he passed to a better home, where there is no more sickness or suffering, the first day of September, only two months after our return. We had been married nine years and were very happily mated.

In addition to this I have another great loss to report to you. On the 27th of last August my dear sister, Freddie, passed to heaven in her far distant home in Monterey Co., Cal. I was with her, and had been with her two and a half months before she was taken ill. She was very happily married only 14 months before. We had not been together for 2 years, and it was a great pleasure to be together once more. We talked frequently of our school-days, and wished so much that we could secure a Catalogue of 1876 for reference. I wonder if it would be possible to secure one ?

I saw the three KEY girls while in Chattanooga, and KATE was up here on a visit last week. They are unmarried and very attractive. LIZZIE, the youngest, whom you have never met, is out in society this winter ; she is very much like EMMA and very pretty. DIXIE WELCKER, as you know, married her cousin, my brother, who brought her home from Salem. They live here, and have three bright, handsome boys, the youngest about a year old. DIXIE is large but very handsome.

I receive a paper from the ACADEMY every June, which I enjoy very much. Please give my love to Miss LOU SHAFFNER, Miss LEHMAN and all who may remember me. I often think of ROSA MICKLEY and LULA FRIES. What is LULA's married name ! What is ANNIE DE SCHWEINITZ's married name ? Where does she live ? What became of MATTIE ERWIN ? While in Texas I met JODIE WAUGH, now Mrs. Earnest, a bright, interesting woman.

With much love, I am, as ever
Your old pupil,

ELLEN WELCKER,
(Mrs. Litton Thomas).

Knoxville, Tenn.

Our next is from ANNIE MOORE :

I have intended writing to you some time ago, ever since leaving Salem, but have neglected it thus far. My school, which began last September, will close in a few weeks. I like teaching very much, and have some very interesting little children in school. I hope to visit the ACADEMY before very long. Whenever I think of going back to Salem I feel as if I were going back to my old home. I wish you much success with Commencement this year. Very sincerely,

ANNIE MOORE.

Huntersville, N. C.

—MARY CLARK is the next familiar name to meet the eye :

The first year after I left SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY I attended school in Columbia, and since then have been taking the Chataqua Course at home. We have two of these circles in our town. You see I am trying to keep up my studies if I am not teaching school or getting married like so many of your girls have done. During the last few months I was in Salem you gave some of us a number of points on current international events: will you please send me the name and address of the magazine which you said was published quarterly.

With best wishes,

MARY T. CLARK.

Yorkville, S. C.

—MARY MILLER also gives us a few lines:

Enclosed please find my subscription for THE ACADEMY. I still have a very tender love for the dear old ACADEMY, and I do so like to meet the old girls. In Asheville, last summer, I saw EMMA ROLLINS, MINNIE FAGG MALLOY, MARY PENN, CAMILLE HUNT, and, of course, we talked of old times at S. F. A. I was with MAY BROADFOOT at her home in Fayetteville this winter, had a delightful visit and brought her home with me. I often see SUE BORDEN, FANNIE BROADFOOT JONES, as they both live in Goldsboro. I see from THE ACADEMY that the Class of '90 is to have a re-union in June. When is the Class of '91 to have one? I would enjoy being with you at Easter. How well I remember how we girls would hurry down on Easter Sunday morning to our early breakfast, and then on to the church. If you know FANNY NEAL'S address please send it to me. I believe she is a Mrs. Clay and lives in California. I must close with love to Mrs. CLEWELL, Dr. RONDTHALER, Miss LEHMAN and any other teachers who may remember me,

Affectionately,

MARY B. MILLER.

Goldsboro, N. C.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—Subscriptions will be published next month.

—A number of the parents of pupils were in our town during Easter week.

—Mr. Ferguson has presented the Museum with the skin of a large rattlesnake.

—The avenue of cedars never appeared more beautiful than is the case at this season.

—The street cleaning force made things bright and attractive on the streets just before Easter.

—The news of the previous day is placed on the large blackboard in Main Hall each morning.

—The Wachovia Moravian, in its enlarged size, is a greatly improved paper. We wish it abundant success.

—Mr. and Mrs. Toomey have returned from Europe, and FLORENCE is happy in their presence once more.

—The invitations are at hand, and are very neat and elegant. The word "Salem" in the form of a monogram is at the top.

—The Class of '95 is planning a memorial for the School, which we think will be worthy of the largest class thus far graduated.

—Mr. Chaffin, of Milton, Fla., has donated a collection of large shells and starfish to the museum, for which we return thanks.

—Don't forget the Summer School if you wish to brush up your studies, or to prepare yourself for some special class in September.

—We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to the annual celebration of the Jefferson Literary Society, Davis School, held Monday, April 15, 1895.

—The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor held their State Convention in Winston Salem recently. It was a very pleasant and profitable occasion.

—A number of new pupils have been added during the last weeks. The Catalogue, containing the register, is now complete, and will be sent on application.

—Mr. A. DuFour is now conducting a fine private school at Mill's River, N. C. Send to him for information if you have a boy you want to send to a good summer school.

—Don't forget the editorial admonition in regard to Commencement dresses. The ACADEMY always discourages display, and will, under no circumstances, deviate from the requirements of strict modesty in these matters.

—The University Glee Club visited our towns some weeks since, and gave a matinee in the ACADEMY. The boys are a fine, manly and gentlemanly company, possessing not only musical ability, but also the ability to create the impression that they worthily represent the fine institution from which they came.

—The music and elocution examinations are in progress as we go to press. They bring out an occasional sigh and nervous thrill, but are of great benefit to pupils and strengthen the work of the departments.

—Thanks to BEATRICE SMITH for a very neat and tasteful invitation to the Commencement of her school at Trap Hill, N. C.

—The class of '95 has deviated from the usual beaten path in selecting a class pin instead of a class ring. The pin is in the shape of a small flag with colors in enamel, of white and green. Above are the letters S. F. A., and below '95. The design is very pretty, a novelty, and in keeping with the fashion of the day in these matters. The pins were furnished by Messrs. W. T. Vogler & Son.

—We were much pained to learn of the death of NANNIE EDWARD'S father in South Carolina, some time since. NANNIE hastened home, but was too late to find her father alive. She later returned to her duties in the school. Mrs. Hough, her aunt, has moved to our town and has rented a house near the avenue, and has entered her three daughters as pupils. Mrs. Edwards arrived also some days since and will make Salem her home for the present.

—The Art Committee of the Alumnae Society met some weeks since and devised a very liberal plan for the Art Exhibit, Tuesday afternoon of Commencement Week. In addition to the regular exhibit as heretofore given of the work of undergraduates, a portion of the hall will be devoted to the work of Alumnae done after leaving the ACADEMY; another portion will be given to the historic ACADEMY, and still another to historic Salem. One nook in the chapel will contain Europe illustrated—in fact the afternoon will partake of the nature of an Art and Loan exhibit combined. We bespeak the interest of our communities in making Tuesday afternoon a grand success. The ladies present at this meeting were Mrs. J. L. Patterson, Miss Mary Fries and Miss Gertrude Siewers. Other ladies will be invited to co-operate in the work.

—The General Committee of the Alumnae Association met March 4th, to make final plans for the meeting at the close of school. The business transacted was of a satisfactory nature. The treasurer reported the fund for the Scholarship to have reached $2,400, and how the fund shall be used was discussed at some length. The usual love-feast was provided for; friends requested to prepare papers on certain topics of interest, and it was also decided to invite the Hon. J. C. Buxton, of Winston, N. C., to deliver the address in connection with the presentation of the Vance Memorial Window. It was a source of much satisfaction to know that Mrs. Senator Vance had accepted an invitation to be present at the meeting. There were present at the meeting: Mrs. D. H. Starbuck, Miss Alice Rondthaler, Mrs. R. L. Hendricks, Miss Gertrude Siewers, Mrs. J. L. Patterson, Miss Annie Pittman, Miss Adelaide Fries, Miss L. S. Shaffner and Mr. Clewell.

Married.

SWIFT—HEARD.—At Rose Hill, Middleton, Ga., on April 25th, Mr. JAMES YOUNG SWIFT to Miss SUZANNE OLIVER HEARD,

Died.

HENDERSON.—On April 11th, in Wilkesboro, N. C., Mrs. EUNICE C. HENDERSON, wife of Hon. J. R. Henderson. She had pneumonia, complicated with erysipelas, and leaves 7 children, the youngest a boy of less than a year old. She was, perhaps, better known to the ACADEMY as EUNICE CRAWLEY BENBOW; and distinguished herself as a very intelligent, faithful student of years ago. Our deepest sympathies go out to the stricken family, and especially to her daughter, BESSIE, who was summoned from her teaching in East Bend to her mother's death bed.

DANE.—On August 27th, after an illness of 10 days, Mrs. FREDDIE WELCKER DANE, of Monterey, Cal. We copy the following from a California paper:

"About 70 miles south of Monterey, on the coast, within sight and hearing of the breakers, under a huge live oak tree, overlooking the Pacific Ocean, lies the body of Mrs. FREDDIE WELCKER DANE. She was born in Roane Co., Tenn., in 1857, of one of the most distinguished families of the State. She was educated at the Salem Female College, N. C., and afterwards served as a teacher of uncommon ability in the city of Knoxville and other places. Removed to California in 1866 she, at once, took a high position among the educators of that State, teaching almost continuously for 8 years. Cultivated and refined to an unusual degree, a perfect mistress of her profession, her work was always successful and won general approval. Her influence was strong wherever she lived and worked. She had been a devoted member of the Presbyterian Church from childhood. She was married to Mr. Riel Dane in 1893. Her death was peaceful and triumphant."

BERRY.—On May 2d, while on a visit to her near relative, Mrs. Willis Hall, of Salem, N. C., Mrs. W. A. BERRY, of Wilkesboro. She was stricken with paralysis, and died: her remains being interred in the Salem cemetery. Mrs. Berry was known here as LILY LEDBETTER, an Alumna of years past.

A YOUNG lady graduate of Salem Female Academy wishes a position as teacher of Elocution. Apply to THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C. May, '95—2m

EMPIRE GLASS AND DECORATION COMPANY. Designers and Manufacturers of Leaded Art Glass Decorations, Beveled Plate, Chipped and Interior Decorations. JOS. F. GATINS, President, J. D. HARRIS, Secretary and Treasurer, Atlanta, Ga. February, 1895—1 year.

G. A. ANDROVETTE & CO., Chicago. Domestic and Ecclesiastical Stained Glass. Eastern Representative, J. F. BLANCHARD, Syracuse, N. Y. February, 1895—1 year.

The Best Text Books in English.

- HILL'S Principles of English. (New edition in press.)
- HILL'S Foundations of Rhetoric.
- ROBERTSON'S History of English Literature.
- ROLFE'S Edition of Shakespeare. 40 Volumes.
- ROLFE'S English Classics. 7 Vols.
- ROLFE'S Select English. 6 Vols.
- HARPER'S School Classics. 36 Vols.
- SWINTON'S Studies in English Literature.
- PHILLIP'S Manual of English Literature.
- JOHNSON'S English Words.
- FOWLER'S English Grammar.

Prices, Circulars and Information on Application.

Address,

HARPER & BROTHERS,
PUBLISHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.
Jun. '95—1y.

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.

FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.

The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1895.

REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

HOTEL JONES,

J. L. JONES, late of Jones House, Proprietor.
WINSTON, N. C.

All modern conveniences provided. Electric lights and bells. Table abundantly supplied with the very best that the market affords. We are anxious to please.

RATES, $2.00 PER DAY.

At Depot ask for Hotel Jones' Bus.

Reference: Salem Female Academy

May 1894.

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE,

On Car Line, near Academy, Main St.

Nestling in the midst of the old historic part of Salem, a stroll along the well shaded street will lead you to the Store, where you will find a good assortment of

BDDKS, STATIDNERY AND FANCY GOODS.

Call and see us or write to

L. V. & E. T. BLUM, Salem, N. C.

Our Specialties:

STERLING SILVERWARE

FINE WATCHES,

DIAMONDS,

We have everything else kept in a first-class Jewelry Store.

Special attention paid to mail orders.

Fine Repairing and Engraving.

Very Respectfully,

W. T. Vogler & Son,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY

THE GREAT TRUNK LINE

AND U. S. MAIL ROUTE

BETWEEN THE

NORTH, SOUTH, EAST AND WEST.

Operates Three Passenger Trains Daily

— TO —

WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND POINTS EAST.

Three Passenger Trains Daily for

ATLANTA, BIRMINGHAM, MEMPHIS, CHATTAHOOGA, MONTGOMERY, MOBILE, NEW ORLEANS, and Points South and West.

THE SHORT LINE TO FLORIDA,

Through Trains and Pullman Palace Sleeping cars to Columbia, Augusta, Savannah, Jacksonville and Tampa without change.

The Washington and South-Western Vestibuled

LIMITED.

This train is composed entirely of Pullman Palace, Drawing Room, Sleeping and Dining Cars.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY

is the direct line between

WINSTON-SALEM

and above points.

For rates, tickets, time-tables, &c., call on any agent Southern Railway, or W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent; CHAS. L. HOPKINS, Trav. Pass. Agt., Charlotte, N. C. S. H. HARDWICK, Asst. Gen. Agent, Atlanta, Ga. W. H. GREEN, General Manager (Eastern System); J. M. GULF, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.

A SURE CURE FOR

DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Take a half hour dose of Bicycling two to three times a day. It is pleasant medicine.

Bicycles for Sale and Rent by

SENSEMAN & BRICKENSTEIN,

SALEM, N. C.

June, 1894.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

JOHN GILL, Receiver.
in connection with the

Norfolk & Western R. R.,
via Walnut Cove.
Atlantic Coast Line,
via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH
between
WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to

J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Sup't. Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.
E. B. KEARNS, Agt. N. & W. R. R.,
Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western Railroad.
THE SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE

TO
Winston-Salem, N. C.,

FROM

Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee and all Southern Points.

PULLMAN VESTIBULED SLEEPERS

from Memphis and New Orleans to Roanoke, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Patrons of Salem Female Academy will have only one change of Cars at Roanoke, Va., FROM THE NORTH AND EAST. Pullman Vestibuled Sleepers daily from New York and Washington via Royal Blue Line and Shenandoah Valley Route to Roanoke, Va., where connection is made for Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond and Norfolk. Sleeping Car Reservation and reliable information furnished.

Write or see one of the following agents before purchasing your tickets.

W. L. ROHL, Western Pass. Agent,
Reed House, Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. B. BEVILL, M. F. BRAGG,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
ROANOKE, VA.

1892-19

ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS.

THE ACADEMY, at the request of the Committee has purchased a number of ALUMNÆ BADGE PINS and will mail them to any address on receipt of price. The price of the Solid Gold Pin is $6.00; Enamelled (suitable for mourning costume) $7.00. Address,

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world, $3 a year. Single copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates in color, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address
MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

January 1895. 1y.

ROSENBACHER & BRO.'S
Dry Goods Department

has just received a beautiful line of
ORGANDIES, DIMITIES, WHITE and COLORED SWISSES
AND MULLS, CHALKIES, CREPONS, WASH SILKS
and a great variety in Lower Grade Goods.
Waist Silks a Specialty.

In our
LACE DEPARTMENT

we have the Finest Line of Hamburgs, Nainsooks, Swisses, Torchons, Vals and a good assortment of SILK and COTTON LACES for
DRESS TRIMMINGS.

Parasols and Umbrellas.

Our line of Parasols and Umbrellas is complete. We can show you them in Natural and Dresden Handles, and all the newest styles of the season at prices ranging from 50c. to $6.00. Remember, that we carry a full line of WHITE PARASOLS.

In our
SHOE DEPARTMENT

we have SHIPPERS, TIES, and SANDALS, in Black, Tans, White for LADIES, MISSES and CHILDREN, in all the latest toes and styles, suitable for all occasions. FANCY COLORS, for evening wear, gotten at short notice.

Yours respectfully,
Rosenbacher & Bro.

A. SUSSMANN 232 6th Ave. N.Y.

ARTIST'S SKETCHING

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

A COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR $7.25

BOX & CONTENTS 3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF 1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
SKETCHING STOOD 1.50
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

READ!

The S. F. A. ALUMNÆ, their friends and all others will find at

S. E. ALLEN'S,
Hardware & Crockery Store,
Winston, N. C.,

many useful Decorative, Household and Parlor Furnishing Goods of the latest designs.

Also a complete assortment of Tinware, Glassware, Stoves and Holloware, and Hardware for the Mechanic, Farmer, Contractor, Merchant and all others at prices to induce sales.

Call and examine or write for prices.
June, 1894-1y.

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL,
A MILITARY COLLEGE.

DEGREES IN CIVIL ENGINEERING, SCIENCE AND ART.
Full Commercial Course.

Practical Course in Telegraphy. Instruction in Music and Art. Cornet Band. Location famous for Beauty and Health. For those not prepared for College Classes there is a Complete Preparatory Department. Resident Surgeon, Preparatory Medical Department. No charge for medical attention. Low rates. For particulars address
DAVIS SCHOOL, Winston, N. C.

1793. 1894

BINGHAM SCHOOL,
FOR BOYS.

Established in 1793.

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESIDENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from prominent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANITATION are the BEST IN THE SOUTH, and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogue giving full particulars, address
Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Superintendent.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

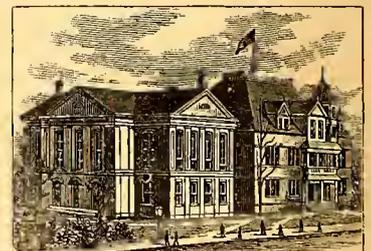

Healthful Location.
New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.
Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.
Session begins September 4.
Catalogue sent on application.

HORNER & DREWRY,
Principals.

June 1892-1y

OAK RIDGE INSTITUTE
OAK RIDGE, N. C.

J. A. & M. H. HOLT, Principals.
The most elegantly equipped Classical, Scientific and Commercial School in the South.
Young Men and Boys.
8th Session begins August 21st.
Send for Catalogue.
June '94-1y.

THE ACADEMY.

VOLUME XVII.

SALEM, N. C., JUNE, 1895.

NUMBER 158.

To parents considering the question of the education of their children we respectfully submit the following points as worthy of special attention :

SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY unites the most careful home interest with the best intellectual home advantages. These two are not usually found together, but they do exist as the strong points in our college life.

Physical training, wisely graded, from the most gentle daily drill to the advanced gymnasium exercise is a part of the year's work in the ACADEMY. Each pupil receives the physical attention called for by her special needs.

The large numbers in attendance enable us to supply the best specialists in all departments. The Preparatory Department cares for the younger pupils. The College Department, with its four pillars, or main lines of study,—Mathematics, Languages, Literature and Natural Science,—affords an opportunity for thorough preparation, either for teaching or for social life. The Post Graduate Course supplies the needs of more advanced individual research, and has filled an important chapter in the school-life. The Special Schools in Music, Art, Languages, Commercial and Industrial branches, supplement the regular college course. In Music, the pupil may study Piano, Organ, Vocal, Violin, Guitar, Mandolin, Chorus Work, &c. In Art, may be studied Painting and Drawing in the various branches, and Ornamental Needlework; the Commercial department prepares for office work in Short Hand, Typewriting, Book-keeping and Telegraphy. The Industrial Department supplies that which the pupil misses in leaving home,—Cooking, Sewing, Dress-making, and so on. Hence it will be seen that the ACADEMY supplies instruction in every line of preparation for real life.

The ACADEMY is under the care of the Moravian Church, but while the work is deeply religious it is entirely unsectarian. If a young woman is impressed with religion while with us, it is only later to join her own home Church. Every effort is made to protect pupils from the debasing frivolities of many modern influences.

For Catalogue and other information address

Rev. JOHN H. CLEWELL, Principal, Salem, North Carolina.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

—Our Catalogue shows 402 names on the Register, teachers and pupils, and about one hundred more special pupils, who were not regularly enrolled, but who received instruction during the year. This gives a grand total of more than 500 for the year just closed.

—The presentation of the Senator Vance Memorial Window did honor to the Class of '94, as well as to North Carolina's noble son.

—The special attention paid to Physical Culture has almost banished sickness from the school. A finer looking company of students could be found nowhere than the members of the special class. Physical culture, wisely pursued, improves the health, the mind and the personal appearance.

—Do not select a school because it is cheap. You can economize in many cases in life. But to get satisfactory results in the "all round" training of your child avoid the so-called "cheap schools."

—We were pleased to note quite a number of distinguished visitors during Commencement. Among them we mention Mrs. Senator Z. B. Vance, ex-Gov. Thos. M. Holt, Rt. Rev. Joseph B. Cheshire, D.D., Judge Brown, Mr. James M. Beck. We had hoped to welcome Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, an Alumna, but she was prevented from being present.

—The work of the old pupils is a necessary element to build up a school. Hence the ACADEMY can well congratulate itself on the marked interest which the Alumnae are putting forth. This is shown in the recent gift of the Memorial Pipe Organ by the Class of '95, and in the Vance Memorial, the Emma Moore Memorial, and the work done during the year by the various Alumnae Clubs. With this backing the work of the school must flourish.

—What is a true school? If this question can be satisfactorily answered a parent is safe in his selection. We believe that to be a true school an institution must develop body, mind and spirit. If the course of study is cut up at the whim of the pupil the institution is not a true school. If the physical training does not leave the body stronger than it was before, or if the spiritual nature is not broadened and deepened the school is not a true school. These are three important points to be considered in selecting a school.

Commencement, '95.

IN the year 1766, one hundred and twenty-nine years ago, a company of sturdy, honest, intelligent and pious settlers built the first house on the present site of Salem. They selected a tongue of land extending southward and sloping east and west to clear brooks of water, and bounded on the south by a swift running stream. On this tongue of land was located the town. Homes were built, a church was erected, the beautiful graveyard and Cedar Avenue and the Salem Square laid out. East of the Square, in time, appeared the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. Where the deer were accustomed to sport and the red man to pitch his tent now stand the group of houses which form a little village in itself. As the school grew and spread its influence, the annual "examinations" were always seasons of unusual interest, and drew large numbers of persons, some of them from great distances. This was as far back as the days of "saddle horses," when the roads had not yet been opened up through the primeval forests. Then came the days of family carriages when the great vehicles filled the extensive yards of the village inn at "examination" time. By and by the railroad supplanted the saddle-horse and the family coach, but the interest in the Commencement season continued, and even larger numbers now visit the venerable school, to be present at the closing exercises, than was the case two or three generations ago. The nature of the exercises have undergone a change. Various writers have given us glimpses into the "examinations" of the early days, which really partook of the nature of public entertainments. Our object will be not to dwell upon the past only to give a simple sketch of Commencement, '95. To give this sketch in full would require more space than we have at our disposal, but the outline of the experiences of the week is as follows :

Saturday evening, May 25, was the Opening Concert. The weather was forbidding, the rain falling, the streets wet, but all this had no effect on the company, for the Moravian church, in which the Commencement exercises were held, was filled to the utmost capacity. The concert was given with a view to specially place before the public the work of the Vocal and Elocution Departments, and the programme was under the direction of Miss TRACY and Miss SCRIBER. The following is a list of the pupils who took part in the exercises : Misses Conrad, Glenn, Winkler, G. Robbins, B. Robbins, Covington, Lindley, Dobson, Teague, Chedester, Gosling, Carrie Lineback, Adams, L. Chaffin, Cromer, Fulmore, Horne, Lehman, May Moore, P. Robertson, Grogan, Harris, Crouch, M. Peterson, Pitts, E. Taylor, P. Goodman, M. Jones, S. Goodman, Lindsay, Scales, Morrison and Mrs. Peterson. The authors and composers used in the selections were: Little, Gumbert, Phelps, Knears, Mohr, Verdi, Trowbridge, Robandi, Kuhe, Rossini, Crawford, De Koven, Caldicott, Berg, Gurlitt, Brooks, Rubinstein, Brooks and Fanning. One of the pleasing features of this concert was the variety. Although the programme was long, yet it did not appear so since the sequence of the selections was harmonious, the time occupied by each piece was short, and the character varied. Among the Elocution selections we note those with soft music in the distance, as "The Massacre of Zoroaster" and "The Swan Song." "The Way to Do It" was warmly received, and, in fact, so was each and every number on the programme. The instructors whose work appeared on this evening were Miss TRACY, Miss SCRIBER, Miss SETTLE, Miss RICHARDSON, Miss GOSLING and Prof. SKILTON. The opening concert gave a good start to the exercises of the week and was warmly received by the public.

Sunday morning the Baccalaureate Sermon was delivered by Bishop JOSEPH B. CHESHIRE, D. D., of the Episcopal Church. The church was decorated with fresh flowers; the graceful arch, with the Class motto, "Perge modo," inscribed thereon, rose back of the stage; the sun, which had not made his appearance for a week previous, streamed into the windows to cheer and brighten; the Seniors occupied the front of the large platform, which spanned the entire width of the church, and the music rendered by the large choir, the Salem orchestra, the well known old organ, and the vast congregation was beautiful and inspiring. Rev. J. H. CLEWELL conducted the service. Bishop CHESHIRE'S text was taken from I Peter, 2:4, 5. "To whom coming as unto a living stone, disallowed indeed of men, but chosen of God, and precious, yea, also, as lively stones are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God by Jesus Christ." The Bishop spoke of the fraternal relations which had always existed between the Episcopal and the Moravian Churches, the many times during the past century that their bishops had preached in this venerable sanctuary, and the pleasure it gave him to participate in this happy occasion. After delivering an earnest and scholarly discourse on the text he addressed an exhortation to the students to avoid two mistakes so often made in cultivating the mind, the one mistake is to educate the mind only as a means of later securing a livelihood,—the other is to study with the object of acquiring knowledge for itself only. The real object of all true education should be to fit for real life and for intellectual pleasure as a means of ultimately glorifying God, and he urged the pupils not to lose sight of this ultimate object or they would miss the true goal of life. After the sermon the Bishop, with a number of friends, dined in the school and later made the personal acquaintance of many of the pupils.

In the evening Bishop RONDTHALER preached a very earnest and touching sermon, a farewell address to those who had so long listened to his preaching but who were gathered for the last time in the old home church.

Monday and Tuesday are known as Seniors' days. On these occasions each Senior reads a brief essay, and is in this way personally presented to the audience who will thus be more in sympathy with the class when they witness the conferring of the diplomas. As only two evenings can be devoted to this feature of Commencement, and as the class was unusually large, much thought was given to the manner of the presentation, so as not to unduly prolong the exercises. The solution was found in the plan which gave a topic to each four or five pupils, each pupil taking upon subdivision of the general topic. The subjects chosen for Monday, and the names of the pupils treating them are as follows:

"Advantages of a Classical Education." Misses Ina Smitherman, Maggie Borum, Sadie Walker, Dovie Chedester, Bertha Shelton, Mamie Johnston.

"Is History Reliable?" Misses Ella Lehman, Minnie Lee Curtis, Bertha Miller, Blanche Thornton.

"The World's Great Civilizers." Misses Agnes Garboden, Ethel Weaver, Pearl Sydnor, Nannie Bessent, Florence Glenn.

"Is Woman's Position Changing?" Misses Marie Lawson, Ruby Sydnor, Laura Douthit, Mamie Roberts.

"Is Our Country as Safe as Statesmen Claim?" Misses Sallie Bonner, Lilla Young, Caro Buxton, Maggie Morton.

"Glints of College Life." Misses Annie Morton, Katie Sutton, Lucille Teague.

The music for the first evening was furnished by Misses Barrow, Dobson, Mercer, M. Jones, Biting, Settle, Crawford, M. Jefferson, A. Brown, C. Vance, Baily, Farish, J. Jones, C. Crutchfield, L. Miller, Adams, Bonner, Chedester, Crouch, S. Goodman, Glenn, Johnston and Lehman. These were pupils of Misses Gosling, Settle, A. Van Vleck, Vest, Tracy and Prof. Skilton. The composers were Schubert, Morley, Bischoff, De Lara, Henselt, Gumbert and Gabussi.

Tuesday evening's subjects and the pupils treating them are as follows:

"Echoes of the Great Fair." Misses Mabel Butner, Ivy Walker, Jennie Crouch, Sallie Smith.

"Two Years of Literary Study." Misses Alma Chaffin, Daisy Vaughn, Alice Rawley, Mary Osterbind.

"The Chinese-Japanese War." Misses Lucy Leinbach, Bertha Lloyd, Bessie Foy, Mena Hege, Pamela Goodman, Florence Toomey, Lucy Chadbourne.

"The European Position." Misses Sallie Adams, Florence Brown, Ella Strupe, Hattie Ollinger, Nellie Cummings, Jeanie Wood.

"World Heroes." Misses Minnie Smitherman, Sue Winston, Julia Jones, Myrtie Stipe, Mary Millis, Alma Tise.

Music was furnished by Misses McMinn, Teague, G. Robbins, Scriber, G. Brown, Barrow, Covington, M. Jones, Glenn, A. Chaffin, Buxton, Shelton, M. Smith, Fitzpatrick, Watson and M. Moore. These were pupils of Misses Tracy, Settle, L. Van Vleck Brown, and Vest. The composers were D'Ourville, Smith, Hermes, Curtiss, Erfolg and Gobbaerts.

Our comment on these two evenings is that they were very successful. The stage was as attractive as a picture, filled with the Class in white Senior cap and gown; the order and attention on the part of the audience could not have been better under any circumstances; the length of the time occupied was about the same as in former years; the weather was fine, cool and bracing; the girls read in a self-possessed and clear tone of voice, and throughout the Seniors' Evenings were as satisfactory as any similar occasions in the past. They were under the direction of Miss LEHMAN, the evenings being presided over by Mr. CLEWELL.

Tuesday evening, after the exercises in the church, all of the "workers," that is, those who had assisted in making the Commencement a success, were invited to meet in the dining-hall and to partake of what has received the name of the "Workers' Banquet." The hour was already late, and the company could not tarry long around the festive board. The Principal took occasion, however, to thank the one hundred or more guests for their earnest efforts in connection with this occasion, which was each year growing in magnitude and which called for efforts, in many cases, laborious and even unpleasant, but which were given so freely and so generously. Mr. Rufus Spaugh responded in behalf of the workers, assuring the members of the school who were present that what was done was freely and willingly done, and that all were ready to aid and assist the school in every possible way.

Tuesday afternoon the Art and Loan Exhibit was thrown open to the public. The place selected for the Exhibit was the Academy Chapel. The plan of the exhibit was to extend the field, and to do this the Alumnae were called into sympathy with the occasion. The east end of the hall contained the work done by the pupils during the year, and was the finest collection of drawings and paintings ever done in one year by the pupils. The embroidery and work of the botany class was just in front of the studio department. Next to these, on the right and left, were the results of the work in the Book keeping and Cooking Schools, together with specimens of work in Mathematical Constructions, Type Writing, &c. From the center of the hall westward, on floor and walls was the historical exhibit, and the collection of Alumnae work in painting. On the west side was the "European Corner," while the west wall contained the portraits of the eleven Principals from 1802 to the present time. The Instructors in these various departments are Misses Siewers, S. Shaffner, L. Shaffner, Lehman and Wolle. The friends who assisted from town in the collection of historical and other specimens were Mrs. Starbuck, Mrs. Ebert, Misses Mary Fries, Bessie Pfohl and Pittman, Mr. William Pfohl and Mrs. J. L. Patterson. Others assisted in the arranging and in welcoming the visitors Tuesday afternoon. Space will not admit of a just description of this occasion. It was unquestionably the most satisfactory afternoon ever offered to the public. Crowds came and went, long double lines of carriages extended along the entire east side of the square. The large chapel, containing about 3,500 square feet of floor space, was crowded the entire afternoon, and a large portion of the time it was with difficulty that visitors could find space around the historical tables and the other interesting collections. We hope to give this exhibit a more just and full description at some later date, but here we will remark that although the effort was to some extent new and experimental, there can be no doubt but that the same plan will be followed on future occasions.

Alumnae Day dawned bright and clear, Wednesday, May 29th. The former pupils came in force, and took possession of the school for the time. In the morning Class Reunions were held, the largest being that of the Class of '90. They held a very happy meeting in Society Hall, and we will give our readers later an account of the meeting, furnished by Mrs. Malloy (Minnie Fagg), of Asheville. The afternoon was the occasion of the large meeting of the general Society at 3 o'clock. By that time the Academy Chapel was full. We give a list of the names elsewhere, and from that list an idea may be formed of the very large company that was present. The President, Mrs. Judge D. H. Starbuck, called the meeting to order, and the minutes were read by the Secretary, Miss Rondthaler, and the Treasurer's report by Miss L. Shaffner. Mrs. H. K. Reid, of Reidsville, sent a letter which will be published later, as will also the letters from Mrs. Stonewall Jackson and Rev. Robert de Schweinitz. The offerings for the Alumnae Fund were gathered, amounting in cash and pledges to about $250. Hon. J. C. Buxton then made a scholarly and patriotic address, in which he presented the Vance Memorial Window, in behalf of the Class of '94, to the Trustees of the Academy. Bishop Rondthaler responded to the address, and, in the name of the Trustees, accepted the window. This patriotic work, so happily finished, was one of the pleasing features of the afternoon. We give elsewhere a cut of the window, and only regret that we cannot reproduce the warm and beautiful colors.

The presence of Mrs. Vance on the platform with Mrs. Starbuck added much to the interest of this part of the programme. We also noted the presence of Gov. Holt, Mr. Beck, Judge Brown and others in the same group. At this point the lovefeast, presided over by Bishop Rondthaler, was introduced, and formed a fitting and happy close to the meeting. The officers for the next year are as follows: President—Mrs. Judge D. H. Starbuck. Vice Presidents—Mrs. Gov. Thomas Holt, Mrs. Trip Richardson, Mrs. Joseph Ollinger, Mrs. T. F. Malloy, Mrs. C. D. Ogburn, Mrs. J. L. Patterson, Miss Lily Grogan. Secretary—Miss Etta Shaffner. Treasurer—Miss Lou Shaffner. Executive Committee—Mrs. R. L. Hendricks, Mrs. F. W. Crutchfield, Miss Emma Lehman, Miss Gertrude Siewers, Miss Kate Jones.

Wednesday night was the occasion of the Grand Concert. A charge of 25 cents was made to reduce the size of the company seeking admission at the door. In this way $167.00 was taken in and turned over to the Alumnae Society, increasing their fund to $400 for the day, and making the total now in hand something more than $2800. The Concert was under the care of Prof. Skilton, and was a strong and satisfactory occasion. The choruses were short, crisp and popular. The professional and amateur work was gracefully blended. The vocal, instrumental and elocution, the popular and classical, all carefully adjusted so as to form a complete whole. The entire occasion was satisfying as well as enjoyable, and our only regret is that we cannot particularize. The following is the list of those taking part: Academy Chorus, Misses Settle, Bitting, Tyson, J. Crouch, L. Gosling, Mandolin Club, Misses Smitherman, Goodman, Taylor, Farrar, Curtis, Peterson, Bonner, Adams, Pitts, Ichman, Mrs. Peterson, Miss Morrison, Prof. Brockman, Miss Chadbourne, Prof. Skilton, Misses Robbins, Pitts, Cheek, Mercer, Richardson, Goolsby, Watkins, Addison, Lichtenthaler, Clinard, Glee Club, Misses Scales, Peterson, Covington, Scriber, Tracy, and Messrs. Peterson, Boyd, C. Crist, Jenkins, Lentz, Lichtenthaler, Stockton, Vogler, Brickenstein, H. Crist, Ebert, Hauser, E. Hege, W. Hege, P. Horton, Phillips, R. Spaug, W. Spaug, Seager.

The composers whose works were used are Mendelssohn, Low, Piccolomini, Bragdon, Rubinstein, Schumann, Chopin, Mascheroni, Beethoven, Bonheur, Behr, Scott, Ravina, Bellini, Sarasate, Blockley, Mohring, Dupont, Brooks, Bomberg, Donizetti, Cowen.

Commencement morning is always a happy, tender, but enthusiastic occasion.

At nine o'clock the Academic procession made their way into the church. The ministers and city officials, together with the heads of other schools, led the company. The Seniors and graduates in special departments followed, then the remainder of the school. A lively, inspiring selection from the Salem Orchestra opened the programme. Scripture was read by Rev. J. E. Hall, and prayer offered by Rev. Dr. W. W. Moore. After a selection from the Mandolin Club, Mr. Clewell introduced the speaker, Mr. James M. Beck, of Philadelphia, Pa. The audience had been prepared for something good, but it is impossible for us to convey any adequate idea of the complete manner in which Mr. Beck captured his hearers. Graceful and polished in manner; with a smooth and unbroken flow of language; with a fund of classical lore, deep historical research and familiarity with the subject in hand; with a keen sympathy for the feelings of the graduating class; with prose and poetry, pathos and humor, blended and interblended,—with all these and many more pleasing features, Mr. Beck will pass down into Academy history as a prince of orators. His topic was, "Wonian's Relation to the World, Past and Present." "A magnetic oration," was the term the papers gave it, and this was the term expressed by all. The Academy will always remember with pleasure the visit of Mr. Beck and his charming and accomplished wife.

Mr. Clewell made a few closing remarks, in which he spoke of this Commencement as being the "happy Commencement," for such it had been. Bishop Rondthaler presented the diplomas to the graduates in the regular and special course, the Class Song was sung, the Orchestra rendered Il Trovatore, and the Benediction was pronounced by Rev. H. A. Brown.

The Class and a number of friends gathered about the table once more in the school dining-room, and the school year 1894-'95 was a thing of the past—a happy year and a happy close.

---

We receive a great many kind and warm testimonials which ought to be published for the good of the school, but as they are usually of a private nature we have hesitated to do so. The letters are highly appreciated.

Another year has closed with no serious illness to mar its record and no death. At Commencement time not a single number had to be omitted from the programme, as every pupil was at her post.

We point with just pride to the special edition of 50,000 copies of THE ACADEMY which we print this month in addition to the regular number. The work is done by Messrs. Crist & Keehn, Salem.

THE ACADEMY.

SALEM, N. C., JUNE, 1895.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Salem, N. C.

Published every month of the school-year, ten numbers constituting a volume, at 50 cents per annum, payable in advance, postage paid. Single copies 5 cents. Address subscriptions and communications

THE ACADEMY, Salem, N. C.

Address Personal Correspondence
Miss EMMA LEHMAN, Salem, N. C.

The large amount of material has required us to omit much that called for mention. We hope later to dwell on those points. If we have inadvertently omitted the names of workers or friends whose names should have been mentioned, we trust the above mentioned fact will be our excuse.

The visit of Bishops Buchner and Romig, of Germany, and of Rev. E. A. Oerter, of Pennsylvania, were highly appreciated. They made a thorough inspection of the school, and expressed themselves greatly pleased with what they saw.

Special thanks are due to Dr. Bahnson, who so kindly furnished the magnificent display of water lilies which graced the Commencement occasion. Attentions of this kind linger long in the memory.

Pupils and patrons will please note that the dates for Entrance Examinations are Tuesday and Wednesday, September 3d and 4th, and that the formal opening of school will take place Thursday morning, Sept. 5th, at 10 o'clock.

Day pupils are requested to register the last week in August.

THE ACADEMY was much gratified to note that the younger Alumnae, as well as their older friends, evidently came for the purpose of enjoying Commencement and not to join in the dissipations which take place in our towns about the same date. While THE ACADEMY has always tried to attend to its own business in the matters which relate to the town and not to the school directly, still it has decided opinions on all these matters, and we repeat that it was with pleasure that we noticed the conservative manner in which the large number of visitors respected the firm principles laid down by the school. Parents feel safe in committing their children to an institution which has clearly defined principles and at the proper time and place publishes them.

No school has ever enjoyed more loyal support and cooperation from the community in which it is situated than the ACADEMY does from the Twin-Cities, Winston-Salem. This is shown by patronage and by hearty moral support and confidence.

It is probable that our pupils never left in a more quiet and commendable manner than was the case this year. It is a matter of just pride to us that such was the case.

Wm. Reich Artist Philad.
THE VANCE MEMORIAL WINDOW.

Pupils desiring to enter any particular class in our College Course will do well to communicate with us in regard to the same, and those who are not fully prepared for some certain class which they wish to enter may make good progress by spending 4 to 6 weeks with us during the months of July and August. Pupils may enter and begin their work at any time.

—The following letter was received just as we are going to press. As it is a type of many others we feel the gentleman will not object.

RICHMOND, VA., June 12th, 1895.

Rev. J. H. CLEWELL:

Dear Sir:—I desire to express to you and your Faculty my high appreciation of your School. When I decided to send my daughters to an Academy I carefully examined into the merits and advantages of all the Academies of the South Atlantic States. My choice was the SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. After two years' experience with your school I am fully convinced that I acted wisely. Neither of my daughters was strong or in robust health, therefore, it was important that they should have careful attention. They have steadily improved in health as well as in their studies. The high moral plane which you inculcate and thorough discipline which you maintain in your school is especially to be commended. I feel that you prepare the girls under you to be good Christian women. Parents desiring to fit their daughters to occupy the positions of noble women, and not society ladies, cannot do better than send them to SALEM FEMALE ACADEMY. It will afford me pleasure to speak a kind word for your school whenever an opportunity offers.

Most truly your friend,
J. S. SYDNOR.

The Memorial Organ, Class of '95.

THE happy results following the effort of the Class of '95, in the memorial left by them, has had the effect of inspiring the Class of '95 to follow their example. After casting about for a suitable object it was decided to select a pipe organ as their memorial. Research showed that the $600 Hook & Hastings organ in the Sharon church was as large, strong and finely made as the utmost needs of the occasion and place would call for, and plans were set on foot to leave this memorial as a remembrance of the Class of '95. An interview was had with the Principal, and he secured the consent of the Trustees to start the ball with a subscription of $300, provided the Class would add $300, the organ to have a handsome scroll across the face, with the inscription "Memorial Organ, Class of '95." The subscriptions were then taken among the members of the Class itself, and resulted in about $235 being promised. That, with the gift of the Trustees, brought the sum up to $535, or within $65 of the needed sum. This the Class agreed to secure, and the Principal was instructed to proceed in the matter, securing all needed information. Almost all efforts of this kind receive some aid from friends in town and at a distance, and, hence, feeling that $65 are still needed we suggest to the parents of the class members that they double the sum subscribed by the pupil. If she wrote $5, can you not make it $10? If she subscribed $1, make it $2. And to our friends in the Twin-Cities, let us ask you to send a good will offering to the young ladies. Many a time you and your children will enjoy the sweet tones of this memorial gift, and a donation of $1, or $2, or $5, from some of our liberal-minded citizens will soon enable us to reduce the $65 still needed, and then the order for the pipe organ will be placed. We will be pleased to acknowledge the cash gifts as rapidly as they are received, and would urge the members of the Class to send in their gifts as soon as possible. Some time will be required to build the instrument and put it into position, and we would like to have the organ in as soon after the graduation of the Class as possible. The following are the acknowledgements thus far :

Trustees, S. F. A.,	$300 00
Miss Pamela Goodman, Tex.,	10 00
Miss Alma Chaffin, Fla.,	10 00
Total,	$320 00

Names of Alumnae and Visitors.

This list of visitors is not full and complete, but contains all we could secure in the midst of the duties of Commencement Week. If the names of any friends have been omitted it must be attributed to accident and not to carelessness. The following were present at the Alumnae Meeting.

SALEM.
Dr E Rondthaler	Miss Gertrude Siewers
Dr and Mrs N S Siewers	" Mary Leinbach
Mr and Mrs J W Goslen	" Ellis
Mrs C H Fogle	" Emma Vogler
Mr and Mrs F H Fries	" Emma Leinbach
Mr and Mrs E A Ebert	" Daisy Brooks
Mr and Mrs Wm Peterson	" Winkler
Mr and Mrs A Meinung	" Laura Lemly
Maj T J Brown	" Addie Fries
Dr H T Bahnsen	" Lizzie Leinbach
Mr C E Crist	" L C Van Vleck
Rev J F McCuiston	" Mary Fries
Mrs C W Vogler	" Mary Zevely
" George Boozer	" Agnes Fogle
" J W Fries	" Tilla Stockton
" Lindsay Patterson	" Minnie Mickey
" R F Leinbach	" Mannie Barrow
" M J Hough	" A Steiner
" W W Moore	" Lula Ackerman
" A Lemly	" Dora Miller
" F C Meinung	" Edna Fisher
" W A Lemly	" E A Lehman
" M V Watkins	" S E Shaffner
" M V Horton	" Ida Moore
" H T Bahnsen	" Alice Rondthaler
" R W Belo	" M Eccles
" J F Crouse	" L Gosling
" Mary F Patterson	" H Peterson
" L M Fries	" L Heisler
" Mary Landquist	" Addie Meinung
" L A Bretz	" Bessie Pfohl
" W C Gruwert	" M A Peterson
" A C Vogler	" Sophie Butler
" C T Pfohl	" Rosa Spaugh
" E Rondthaler	" Carrie Garboden
" C L Meinung	" Annie Landquist
" R A Spaugh	" Flora Lott
" J H Clewell	" Emma Landquist
" C B Pfohl	" Annie Pittman
" E F Carmichael	" Etta Brown
" W C Crist	" Ella Page
" R L Hendricks	" Vogler
" J E Mickey	" Pattie Beck
" L B Springs	" Grace Wolle
" H E Fries	" Lizzie Chitty
" Augusta Winkler	" Bessie Hall
" Carrie F Shaffner	" Delphine Hall
" Willis Hall	" Carrie Jones
" E L Light	" Emma Chitty
" F Crowder	" C Query
Miss Mary Wellate	" Carrie Vest
" Amy Van Vleck

WINSTON.
Mr and Mrs S H Smith	Mrs E E Shelton
Rev and Mrs A O Thaler	" Mattie C Gibson
Mr and Mrs G B Brown	" D D Shelton
Mr and Mrs J C Buxton	" E C Chnard
Mrs D H Starbuck	" F M Galloway

Mrs J Douthit	Mrs C D Ogburn
" T S Fuller	" Chalmers Glenn
" Felix Crutchfield	" A B Gorrell
" A F Moses	" M F Mickey
" B F Haes	" D S Reid
" E M Albesa	" S J Montague
" Wm Conrad	" F Schaum
" W B Ellis	" M A Bailey
" P H Haes	" P J Ector
" Vernon Long	" J A Blum
" Frank Miller	Miss Lizzie D Sutton
" H L Riggans	" Cora Conrad
" B M Rose	" Hattie Sutton
" H R Starbuck	" Florence Barrow
" Jas H Jefferson	" Laura Reid
" Mary Prather	" Pamela Bynum
" F J Liipfert Jr	" Kate Jones

OTHER POINTS.

Rev and Mrs Edward Crosland, Bethania, N. C.
Rev and Mrs Jas E Hall, Friedberg, N. C.
Mr and Mrs W R Toomey, Louisville, Ky.
Mr and Mrs Ollinger, Milton, Fla.
Mr and Mrs Goodman, Thomasville, N. C.
Mr and Mrs Jas Beck, Philadelphia, Pa.
Col and Mrs Thomas M Holt, Raleigh, N. C.
Rev Dr and Mrs W W Moore, Va.
Judge and Mrs Brown.
Mr and Mrs Edwin Overman, High Point, N. C.
Mrs H C Thomas, Thomasville, N. C.
Mr J A Chaffin, Milton, Fla.
Mr Bernard deSchweinitz, Bethlehem, Pa.
Mrs E F Strickland, Bethania, N. C.
" Emma G Lehman,
" T E Richardson, Reidsville, N. C.
" M E Walters,
" Mary Daniel, Panther Creek, N. C.
" T B Lindsay, Madison, N. C.
" W C Hamner, N. C.
" J L Singleton, South Boston, Va.
" A R Adams, Bagdad, Fla.
" Wm L Moss, Philadelphia, Pa.
" F W Thornton, Fayetteville, N. C.
" Swardyant, Charlotte, N. C.
" H C Eccles,
" J M Clement, Mocksville, N. C.
" Z B Vance.
" George Nissen, Wauhtown, N. C.
" Geo W Bryan, Charlotte, N. C.
" B F Gibson.
" P R Casey,
" T A Stone,
" J F Malloy, Asheville, N. C.
" R A Schoolfield, Danville, Va.
" H S Keyser, Milton, Fla.
" L C Jones, High Point, N. C.
" L Dick, Greensboro, N. C.
" P Cranor, Wilkesboro, N. C.
Miss Bessie Thomas, Thomasville, N. C.
" Carrie R Riggs,
" Lily Lash, Bethania, N. C.
" Ada Spaugh, Friedberg, N. C.
" Maria Johnston,
" Lula Cox, Sedge Garden, N. C.
" Bettie Cox,
" Nannie McGehee, Madison, N. C.
" Beatrice Smith, Sparta, N. C.
" Kate Furman, Sumpter, S. C.
" Susie Reynolds, Bristol, Tenn.
" Mary Fretlow, Franklin, Va.
" Fannie Fretlow,
" Mary Cannady, Oxford, N. C.
" Martha Brown, Fayetteville, N. C.
" Mary McCauley, Chapel Hill, N. C.
" Minnie Whitsett, Graham, N. C.
" Susie Wright, Graham, N. C.
" Camille Hunt, Lexington, N. C.
" Lizzie Clement, Mocksville, N. C.
" Irene Weaver, Weaversville, N. C.
" Adelia McDowell, N. C.
" Margie Flake, N. C.
" Flora Bryan, Charlotte, N. C.
" Lucia Swanson, Tuskegee, Ala.
" Berta Gibson.
" Schiller, Milton, Fla.
" Emma Rollius, Asheville, N. C.
" Sallie Parker,

NEW MEMBERS—SENIOR CLASS.

Sallie Adams, Bagdad, Fla.
Hattie Ollinger, Merlin, Fla.
Nellie Cummings, Danville, Va.
Nannie Bessner, Jerusalem, N. C.
Julia Jones, High Point, N. C.
Florence Glenn, South Boston, Va.
Lucy Chadbourne, Wilmington, N. C.
Dovie Chedester, Asheville, N. C.
Sallie Bonner, Aurora, N. C.
Alice A Rawley, Winston, N. C.
Laura Douthit, Winston, N. C.
Ethel Weaver, Weaversville, N. C.
Florence Toomey, Louisville, Ky.
Caro F. Buxton, Winston, N. C.
Blanche Thornton, Fayetteville, N. C.
Annie Morton, Townesville, N. C.
Maggie Morton, Townesville, N. C.
Ella J. Lehman, Bethania, N. C.
Jennie Cronch, Morristown, Tenn.
Agnes Garboden, Salem, N. C.
Sue C Winston.
Annie Smitheman, Troy, N. C.
Ira Smitheman, Troy, N. C.
Mary Osterbild, Richmond, Va.
Mamie Johnstone, Arkansas.
Mary Lawson, Danville, Va.

Mary Millis, High Point, N. C.
Maggie Borum, Ruffin, N. C.
Sallie Fannie Smith, Mexia, Texas.
Pamela Goodman, Texas.
Lucy A. Teague, Farmington, N. C.
Bessie Foy, Danville, Va.
Pearl Sydnor, Richmond, Va.
Ruby Sydnor, Richmond, Va.
Jeannie D Wood, Wilmington, N. C.
Bertha Shelton, Winston, N. C.

STRANGERS NOT PRESENT AT ALUMNAE MEETING.

Miss Madge Richardson, Reidsville, N. C.
Miss Alma Withers, Reidsville, N. C.
Miss Sallie Boyd, Reidsville, N. C.
Mr Hugh Scott, Reidsville, N. C.
Mr Clyde Cheek, Hillsboro, N. C.
Miss Janie Rerson, Walnut Cove, N. C.
Mr Morefield, Walnut Cove, N. C.
Mr Bonner, Aurora, N. C.
Mr W E Brock, Farmington, N. C.
Mr H E Johnston, Asheville, N. C.
Miss Maggie Brown, Wilmington, N. C.
Mr Smitherman, Troy, N. C.
Mr Millis, High Point, N. C.
Miss Mary M Overman, High Point, N. C.
Mr and Mrs O Lehman, Bethania, N. C.
Miss Emma Kapp, Bethania, N. C.
Mrs J Pou.
Miss Beulah Barker, Salisbury, N. C.
Miss Louise Dicks, Randleman, N. C.
Miss Hattie Adams, Adamsville, S. C.
Miss Ora Moore, Adamsville, S. C.
Miss Jennie Fletcher, Adamsville, S. C.
Mr J R Townsend, Parnassus, S. C.
Mr Alex Sprunt, Rock Hill, S. C.
Mr Crouch, Morristown, Tenn.
Mr Frank Satterfield, Carthage, Ga.
Mr J N Hazlehurst, Atlanta, Ga.
Mr W W Keen, Richmond, Va.
Mr Sydnor, Richmond, Va.
Mr Jimmie Glenn, South Boston, Va.
Mr and Mrs Jefferson, Danville, Va.
Miss Mary Talcott, Bon Air, Va.
Miss Jennie Talcott, Bon Air, Va.
Capt W C Fitzpatrick, Mt Pleasant, Texas.
Mr Womack, Mexia, Texas.
Mr S D Johnston, Mariana, Ark.
Mrs M F P Fearington.
Mrs Charles Marshall.
Miss Robbie Kvie.

—The King's Daughters of the last few years will be interested to hear that Miss Fogle handed over $25.00 to the "Salem Home" Treasurer to be added to the Endowment Fund. The sum was raised by the sale of cancelled stamps which were diligently collected by the members of the circle and their friends, and turned over to Miss Fogle. Forty-eight thousand were sold in one lot, bringing five cents per thousand. The ladies in charge of the "Home" return hearty thanks to all who have assisted in this very acceptable gift.

—The edition gotten out by our neighbor, the Daily Sentinel, on the day of the presentation of the Vance Memorial Window was worthy of special appreciation not only by those interested in the School, but also by our citizens in general. It contained a large portrait of Vance, a picture of the Window, the address of Mr. Buxton in full, and a creditable sketch of the occasion, as well as an able editorial on the subject.

—Great credit is due the ushers for their care of the comfort of the large audiences. At times it was necessary to give offense when requests were made which could not be granted, but no one who watched their untiring zeal could do otherwise than admire the successful manner in which they discharged the task undertaken.

Alumnæ Scholarship Fund.

This worthy Fund received an addition of $400 during Alumnæ Day, and has reached the satisfactory sum of between $2800 and $2900. The interest will be used this year to aid pupils deserving its aid, and thus the first fruits of the work of the Society will appear. The following is a list of the cash subscriptions:

Miss Jessie Brown.....	$ 1 00
Miss Alice Rondthaler.....	2 00
Mrs. W. J. Peterson.....	1 00
Cantata, Miss Tracy's pupils.....	83 14
Mrs. Rhoda Lindsay.....	2 00
Mrs. A. B. Gorrell.....	5 00
Salem Female Academy.....	100 00
Mrs. H. L. Riggans.....	1 00
Mrs. C. H. Fogle.....	2 00
Mrs. Mattie Mickey.....	1 00
Cooking Club.....	2 25
Miss Sallie F. Hunnicutt.....	5 15
Mrs. J. H. Clewell.....	5 00
Misses F. and M. Pretlow.....	5 00
Proceeds of Grand Concert.....	164 16
Mrs. Edward Rondthaler.....	5 00
Mrs. J. A. Bitting.....	5 00
Mrs. D. Reed.....	50
Miss M. Johnston.....	50
Mrs. J. E. Hall.....	50
Mrs. H. E. Vogler.....	50
Miss Ethel Weaver.....	1 00
Mr. J. W. Goslen.....	1 00
Mrs. P. H. Hone.....	2 00
Miss Amelia Steiner.....	1 00
Mrs. E. Carmichael.....	50
Miss M. E. Vogler.....	2 00
Mrs. F. Schaum.....	1 00
Mrs. N. S. Siewers.....	5 00
Mrs. L. Patterson.....	50
Mr. and Mrs. Ollinger.....	1 00
Mrs. Adams.....	50
Mr. J. A. Chaffin.....	1 00
Mrs. D. H. Starbuck.....	5 00
Mrs. T. F. Malloy.....	5 00
Mr. S. A. Goodman.....	2 50
Miss L. C. Van Vleck.....	25
Cash.....	41 20
Miss Lizzie Clement.....	2 50
Cash.....	1 00
Previously acknowledged.....	2210 28

Total,.....$2675 93
 MISS L. C. SHAFFNER, Treas.

Chronicle and Gossip.

—The new catalogue has been published and will be sent to any one desiring a copy.

—Miss May Moore, Miss Carrie Covington and Miss Emma Smith will spend the vacation in the ACADEMY.

—Davis Military School closed a very prosperous and happy year with appropriate exercises. We congratulate our gallant neighbor.

—The Seniors had their class picture taken by Mr. Hough. Although the number was very large, still the faces are nearly all good.

—Never was a Commencement blessed with better and more favorable weather. This gift of the Lord added much to the enjoyment of all.

—A number of extra copies of THE ACADEMY will be sent to our special friends and we will be pleased to have you hand them to any one who will be interested in them.

—The rains of the weeks before Commencement gave the grass a good growth and a most beautiful fresh green. The grounds could not appear more lovely and attractive than was the case while our friends were here.

—Miss Settle gave a very pleasant recital near the close of the term, and after the exercises were over presented gold medals to Miss Carrie Covington, Miss Maggie Jones and Miss Marion Shepperd for proficiency in the year's work.

—Tickets and checks were brought to the School by the Railroad companies, and the entire day Wednesday was devoted to selling the tickets and checking the baggage through to the destination, wherever the home was located.

—Mrs Vance was the guest of Mrs. Shelton while in Salem, Bishop Cheshire was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Ebert, while Mr. and Mrs. Beck made their home with Mr. and Mrs. Clewell. Mr. Beck was an old college mate of Mr. Clewell.

—One reason why our pupils are so happy is that they are so busy. By busy, we mean that abundant recreation awaits every leisure moment, and from morning till bed time duties and pleasures are blended, so as to make a happy as well as a busy life.

—At least twenty thousand words were sent from our office to various papers during Commencement Week. The occasion is so interesting and the friendship of our brethren of the press is so strong that notices are given by all leading papers North, South, East and West.

—The Library Circle was made up of a number of the most earnest spirits within the School, who desired to make research beyond the regular course of study. They met once a week in the north room of the Library, and many pleasant and profitable hours were spent in original research.

—In this issue we will only passingly allude to the Cooking Club, which closed its sessions with a complimentary banquet. It will be more fully treated in the September number. Suffice it here to say that it has been a success in the work done and a success in the complimentary tea; the ladies presented Miss Grace Wolle, the President, with a handsome gold watch and gold chain as a token of appreciation.

—We are pleased to acknowledge an invitation to the Silver Wedding of dear friends, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Moore (Emma Johnson), of Van Buren, Arkansas, on May 27. They have journeyed together a quarter of a century, and we trust many years of happiness still lie before them.

—A special train was run to Greensboro from Winston-Salem on Friday morning to connect with the vestibule going South, on the Southern Railway. The railroads have all shown many courtesies, and the result is that probably as many as 600 or more tickets have been used in connection with the Commencement Week.

—A private drill was given in the gymnasium by the special class, Wednesday morning before a number of parents and the kindly expressions of approval lead us to expect a much larger class next year. The unusual care given to the matter of exercise has enabled us to send into the world the healthiest company that has ever left the School.

—Many thanks to Mrs. Dr. W. Earnhardt (Anna Crist), of Lenoir, N. C., for a book, entitled "The Happy Valley," donated to the Academy Library. The book, a true and touching history of two lovely little girls, was written by Mrs. J. A. Oertel, also a friend of by-gone days.

We are also obliged to the Misses Van Vleck for 3 volumes kindly donated to the Academy Library.

—The annual banquet of the Euterpean and Hesperian Societies was held in May. Some fifty guests were invited, and after half an hour's exercises in the chapel, all adjourned to the dining room. The decorations this year were made with wild flowers, dog-wood, honey-suckle, &c., and were unique and very beautiful. After justice had been done to the "good things," addresses were made by a number of persons and the Societies were congratulated on the success of the year.

—The Senior and Junior reception tendered by Mr. and Mrs. Clewell to the outgoing and incoming classes was as usual a very enjoyable occasion. The guests numbered about 150, and the house and terraced garden presented a beautiful scene with its many lights and many light hearted girls. Music, refreshments, pleasing converse and promenading were the order of the evening. The weather was so mild and pleasant that no risk was run by any one, and all passed as merry as a "marriage bell."

—The names of the Graduating Class will be found in the article on Commencement. In addition to these following diplomas were given in Special Departments:

Instrumental Music—Misses Lucy Chadbourne, Sallie Hannah, Leonard Pitts.

Vocal Music—Miss Jennie Crouch.

Elocution—Misses Sallie Grogan and Claudia Winkler.

Post Graduate, or A. B. Course—Miss Mamie Lewis.

Book-Keeping—Miss Pamela Goodman and Nevada Rothrock.

Should a copy of this number of THE ACADEMY fall into the hands of some former pupil who is not a subscriber, would not the present be a good time to send us a half dollar, and get the school news for the next year? See how happy you will make us by so doing.

Married.

WILLIAMSON—GILMER.—In Orange, Texas, May 22, Mr. ROBERT M. WILLIAMSON to Miss EFFIE GILMER.

BREWER—WOOSLEY.—At Friedberg, N. C., on May 28, Mr. LUTHER RAYMOND BREWER to Miss ALPHA WOOSLEY.

STUART—WRAY.—In Knoxville, Tenn., on June 17, Mr. GERALD STUART to Miss FANNIE WRAY.

Subscriptions Received.

Miss Anna Adams, Bagdad, Fla.; Mrs. J. N. Wharton, Dallas, Texas; Miss Mary Pretlow, Franklin, Va; Miss Nettie Reid, Reidsville, Va; Miss Lizzie Clement, Mocksville, N C; Miss Kate Furman, Ramsey, S C; Mr S A Goodman, Sr, Tyler, Texas; Miss Pamela Jeffreys, Ormen, Texas; Mrs Jno A Moore, LaSalle, Col; Mrs J N Thompson, Tusculmbia, Ala; Mrs A C Earnhardt, Lenoir, N C; Miss Blanche Wood, Ashboro, N C; Miss Maud Harris, Reidsville, N C; Miss Lilly Lash, Bethania, N C; Mr Jos A Rice, Bethlehem, Pa; Miss Laura McMickle, Edwardsville, N C; Miss Mattie Barrow, Toisnot, N C; Miss Rena Vickers, Reidsville, N C; Mrs J B Hutchinson, Shreveport, La; Mrs J B Churchill, Lakeland, La; Miss Mamie Cannady, Wilton, N C; Mrs F F Malloy, Asheville, N C; Miss Minnie Whitsett, Graham, N C; Mrs Geo Bryant and Mrs H C Eccles, Charlotte, N C; Miss Mary McCauley, Chapel Hill, N C; Mrs J A Biting, Mrs Jas A Gray, Mrs Daisy Mobley, Mrs E C Clinard, Mrs F G Crutchfield, Miss B tie Cox, Mrs Rev T H Pegram, Mrs Vernon Long, Mrs W J Conrad, Mrs B M Rose, Mrs P H Hanes, Miss Laura Reed, Mrs Jas A Binm and Mrs D S Reid, Winston, N C; Mr J A Lineback, Dr N S Siewers, Mrs C H Fogle, Miss Carrie Stockton, Miss A F Steiner, Mrs Rosa Norfleet, Miss Flora Lott, Miss Sophie Butner, Mrs Mary Horton, Mrs G H Rights, Mrs W C Crist, Mrs C J Watkins, Mrs W B Ellis, Mrs M E Jenkins and Mr. J T Lineback, Salem, N C

The Best Text Books in English.

- HILL's Principles of English. (New edition in press.)
- HILL's Foundations of Rhetoric.
- ROBERTSON's History of English Literature.
- ROLFE's Edition of Shakespeare. 40 Volumes.
- ROLFE's English Classics. 7 Vols.
- ROLFE's Select English. 6 Vols.
- HARPER's School Classics. 36 Vols.
- SWINTON's Studies in English Literature.
- PHILLIP's Manual of English Literature.
- JOHNSON's English Words.
- FOWLER's English Grammar.

Prices, Circulars and Information on Application.

Address,

HARPER & BROTHERS,
PUBLISHERS,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

1 un. '95-17:

NAZARETH HALL,

NAZARETH, PA.

Moravian Boarding School For Boys.
FOUNDED 1785.

Beautiful location and exceptionally healthful climate. Military organization combined with home-care for the individual scholar. Besides the regular Academic Course of Study and Music, the preparation for College or for the technical Schools may be undertaken.

Terms $295 per annum.

The Easter Session begins January 10th, 1895.

REV. C. C. LANIUS, Principal.

A SURE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Take a half hour dose of Bicycling two to three times a day. It is pleasant medicine.
Bicycles for Sale and Rent.

Plumbers, Tiners,
Roofers,
Stoves and Crockery.

SENSEMAN & BRICKENSTEIN,
SALEM, N. C.

June, 1894.

Our Specialties:

STERLING SILVERWARE

FINE WATCHES,

DIAMONDS,

We have everything else kept in a first-class Jewelry Store.

Special attention paid to mail orders.

Fine Repairing and Engraving.

Very Respectfully,

W. T. Vogler & Son,
234 Main St., WINSTON, N. C.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY

THE GREAT TRUNK LINE

AND U. S. MAIL ROUTE

BETWEEN THE

NORTH, SOUTH, EAST AND WEST.

Operates Three Passenger Trains Daily

— TO —

WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND POINTS EAST.

Three Passenger Trains Daily for

ATLANTA, BIRMINGHAM, MEMPHIS, CHAT TANOOGA, MONTGOMERY, MOBILE, NEW ORLEANS, and Points South and West.

THE SHORT LINE TO FLORIDA,

Through Trains and Pullman Palace Sleeping cars to Columbia, Augusta, Savannah, Jacksonville and Tampa without change.

The Washington and South-Western Vestibuled LIMITED.

This train is composed entirely of Pullman Palace, Drawing Room, Sleeping and Dining Cars.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY

is the direct line between

WINSTON-SALEM

and above points.

For rates, tickets, time-tables, &c., call on any agent Southern Railway, or W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent; CHAS. L. HOPKINS, Trav. Pass. Agt. Charlotte, N. C. S. H. HARDWICK, Asst. Gen. Agent, Atlanta, Ga. W. H. GREEN, General Manager (Eastern System); J. M. CULP, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.

HOTEL JONES,

J. L. JONES, late of Jones House, Proprietor.
WINSTON, N. C.

All modern conveniences provided. Electric lights and bells. Table abundantly supplied with the very best that the market affords. We are anxious to please.

RATES, $2.00 PER DAY.

At Depot ask for Hotel Jones' Bus.

Reference: Salem Female Academy

May 1895.

The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway

JOHN GILL, Receiver.
in connection with the

Norfolk & Western R. R.,
via Walnut Cove.

Atlantic Coast Line,
via Fayetteville.

NEW ROUTE SOUTH

between

WINSTON-SALEM

and Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and all the principal cities of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

For tickets, time tables, maps and other information apply to

J. W. FRY, W. E. KYLE,
Gen. Sup't. Gen. Pass. Agt.,
Greensboro, N. C. Fayetteville, N. C.
E. B. KEARNS, Agt. N. & W. R. R.,
Winston, N. C.

Norfolk & Western Railroad.
THE SHORT BEST AND QUICK ROUTE

TO

Winston-Salem, N. C.,

FROM

Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee and all Southern Points.

PULLMAN VESTIBULED SLEEPERS

from Memphis and New Orleans to Roanoke, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Patrons of Salem Female Academy will have only one change of Cars at Roanoke, Va., from THE NORTH and EAST. Pullman Vestibuled Sleepers daily from New York and Washington via Royal Blue Line and Shenandoah Valley Route to Roanoke, Va., where connection is made for Winston-Salem, N. C. Only one change of cars from Lynchburg, Petersburg, Richmond and Norfolk.

Sleeping Car Reservation and reliable information furnished.

Write or see one of the following agents before purchasing your tickets.

W. L. ROHR, Western Pass. Agent,
Reed House, Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. B. BEVILL, M. F. BRAGG,
Gen. Pass. Agent, Trav. Pass. Agt.,
ROANOKE, VA.

June 1892-1y

A COMPLETE ARTIST'S SKETCHING OUTFIT

OR IT CAN BE HAD SEPARATELY AS FOLLOWS

FOR $7.25

A. SUSSMANN 232 6TH AVENUE, N.Y.

ON APPLICATION ADDRESS

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE

BOX & CONTENTS 3.25
SKETCHING UMBRELLA STAFF 1.75
SKETCHING UMBRELLA 1.75
SKETCHING STOOD 1.50

ROSENBACHER & BRO.'S
Dry Goods Department

has just received a beautiful line of
ORGANDIES, DIMITIES, WHITE AND COLORED SWISSES
AND MULLS, CHALLIES, CREPONS, WASIU SIEKS
and a great variety in Lower Grade Goods.
Waist Silks a Specialty.

In our
LACE DEPARTMENT

we have the Finest Line of Hamburgs, Nainsooks, Swisses, Torchons, Vals and a good assortment of SILK and COTTON LACES for
DRESS TRIMMINGS.

Parasols and Umbrellas.

Our line of Parasols and Umbrellas is complete.
We can show you them in Natural and Dresden Handles, and all the newest styles of the season at prices ranging from 50c. to $6.00. Remember, that we carry a full line of WHITE PARASOLS.

In our

SHOE DEPARTMENT

we have SLIPPERS, TIES, and SANDALS, in Black, Tans, White for LADIES, MISSES and CHILDREN, in all the latest styles and styles, suitable for all occasions.
FANCY COLORS, for evening wear, gotten at short notice.

Yours respectfully,

Rosenbacher & Bro.

S. E. ALLEN,

WINSTON, N. C.,

Is still HEADQUARTERS for

Hardware, Crockery, Glassware, Tinware, Farmers' Implements and Supplies at lowest prices.

Agent for the Famous South Bend, Indiana,
Chilled Plow Co.'s WORLD'S FAIR FIRST PREMIUM PLOWS. The best Plow on earth for all soils and easy work for man and team. Try one, or ask those who have and you will use no other.

OAK RIDGE INSTITUTE

OAK RIDGE, N. C.

J. A. & M. H. HOLT, Principals.

The most elegantly equipped Classical, Scientific and Commercial School in the South.

Young Men and Boys.
86th Session begins August 20th.
Send for Catalogue.
June '94-1y.

EMPIRE GLASS AND DECORATION COMPANY.
Designers and Manufacturers of Leaded Art Glass Decorations, Bevelled Plate, Chipped and Interior Decorations. JOS. F. GATINS, President, J. D. HARRIS, Secretary and Treasurer, Atlanta, Ga.
February, 1895-1 year.

Davis Military School

Has educated thousands of boys and young men, representing nearly every State in the Union. The reason:
Best advantages at lowest cost.
Classical, Civil Engineering, Scientific Courses. Thorough Business College Department. Complete
Course here, or preparation for any College or University. Preparatory Medical Course. Cadet, Cornet Band.
Location famous for beauty and health. For particulars, address

Davis Military School,
Winston, N. C.

1793.

1895

BINGHAM SCHOOL,
FOR BOYS.

Established in 1793.

Send for Testimonials from VICE-PRESI-DENT STEVENSON, from OFFICERS OF
THE U. S. ARMY and NAVY, from prominent PHYSICIANS and others, showing that
our LOCATION, EQUIPMENT and SANI-TATION are the BEST IN THE SOUTH,
and UNSURPASSED ANYWHERE.

Organization Military. U. S. Army Officer in Charge of Cadet Corps.

ASHEVILLE is the most famous all-
the-year-round health resort in the United States, attracting one hundred thousand (100,- 000) summer and winter visitors yearly from all parts of the country.

For Catalogue giving full particulars, address

Maj. R. BINGHAM,
Superintendent.

Horner Military School,
OXFORD, N. C.

FOUNDED 1851

BY JAMES A. HORNER, M.A., L. LD.

Healthful Location.

New Buildings, with Modern Improvements.

Electric Lights,
Hot and Cold Baths.
Efficient Instructors.

A Model Home School for Boys.

Session begins September 3.

Catalogue sent on application.

J. C. & J. M. HORNER,
Principals.

June 1892-1y

BLUM'S BOOKSTORE,
On Car Line, near Academy, Main St.

Nestling in the midst of the old historic part of Salem, a stroll along the well shaded street will lead you to the Store, where you will find a good assortment of

BOOKS, STATIONERY AND FANCY GOODS.

Call and see us or write to

L. V. & E. T. BLUM, Salem, N. C.

3

